George and Diego, the Banditos. Cigars. Champagne. Arms around each other in camaraderie. In Diego's yellow Ferrari. With Inez, sunning on a yacht. More coke and more transactions. When the deals are with Derek Foreal, Diego is always notably absent.

INT. MIAMI HOUSE - NIGHT

The money is so high, it almost reaches the ceiling. There is nowhere to put it. George and Diego sit at the coffee table, dwarfed by the stacks of bills. There is a discrepancy in the count.

GEORGE

Three million. I counted it twice.

DIEGO

It's two-point-five, George. I am sure.

George starts to pick up the money.

GEORGE

I'm calling it three.

DIEGO

We're half a million off.

GEORGE

Fuck it. I'm not counting it again.

DIEGO

Weight it. If it's sixty pounds, it's three. If it's fifty, it's two-point five.

GEORGE

I don't give a shit. Close enough.

George moves down the hall looking for a place to stack the money, but there is no more room.

GEORGE (CONT'D)

Where do I put this!?

DIEGO
Try the back bedroom.

George opens the back bedroom door to find wall-to-wall money. It's packed.

GEORGE
There's no room.

DIEGO
Try the closet.

No luck there, either. George drops the money on the floor and moves back into the living room.

GEORGE
We've got to do something about this.

INT. BANCO DE FEDERALE - PANAMA CITY - DAY

SUPERIMPOSE: PANAMA CITY, PANAMA

George and Diego watch as their money is hauled into a huge wall safe. Armed Panamanian soldiers stand guard. The Panamanian officials and the BANK PRESIDENT oversee the proceedings.

GEORGE
Are you comfortable with this?

DIEGO
George, we've got sixty-one million dollars. It's either here or someplace else. We've got to put it somewhere. Unless you want to launder it.

GEORGE
And keep only forty-percent? No thanks.

DIEGO
Then relax. It's a federal bank. Guaranteed by the government. And Senor Noriega has very lenient banking principles. No questions. No problems. All the pesados keep their money here. Even El Padrino. What do you worry? Everyone knows we are with Escobar. Who is going to fuck with us?

INT. BANCO DE FEDERALE - PRESIDENT'S OFFICE - DAY

George and Diego sign papers. The bank president congratulates them and hands them documentation.

GEORGE
I love it.

BANK PRESIDENT
I'm sorry.

GEORGE
I give you thirty-million dollars and you give me this little book.

MORE STILL PHOTOS

Diego and Inez's wedding. The ceremony. The ring. The kiss. The lineup with all of the bridesmaids. George is the best man, and the only American.

INT. BILTMORE HOTEL - BALLROOM - NIGHT

A huge reception. All the pomp and circumstance Colombian money can buy. Politicians. Policemen. And every smuggler north of Colombia. George sits with Diego and Inez at the table of honor. Inez is opening presents. Diego's tipsiness is a little out of character, but hey, it's his wedding day and a little champagne never hurt anyone. He drunkenly throws his arm around George's shoulder.

DIEGO

I'm married, George. Me. I can't believe it. Can you believe I'm married, George?

GEORGE

You're a lucky man, Diego.

DIEGO

I love you, my brother, do you know that?

GEORGE

I love you too, man.

George notices MIRTHA showing teeth across the room.

GEORGE (CONT'D)

I'll be right back, Diego.

INEZ

Look, honey, a power boat.

DIEGO

Great, baby, great!

They kiss. George walks across the dance floor directly towards Mirtha.

GEORGE

Hello.

MIRTHA

Hello.

GEORGE

Do I know you?

MIRTHA

I don't think so.

GEORGE

Why are you smiling?

MIRTHA

Why are you smiling?

GEORGE

I don't know. My name is George.

MIRTHA

I know who you are, El Americano. Mister George.

GEORGE

What is your name?

Cesar arrives.

CESAR

Mr. Jung, I see you've met my fiancée,
Mirtha.

He kisses her.

GEORGE

Mirtha.

CESAR

Diego needs to see you right away, please. Excuse us, Amorcito.

They leave. George looks back, Mirtha is giving him more teeth. George arrives at the table. Various greetings.

AUGUSTO

Pleased to meet you finally, George. I am Augusto Oliveras.

GEORGE

My pleasure, Augusto. Diego has told me much about you.

RAMON OCHOA

Congratulations on your conquest of the West Coast. How much bigger can we get?

GEORGE

Sky's the limit. We're just beginning to tap the market. If it's accepted by actors and musicians, the rest will follow.

They all agree. Mirtha still gives George the teeth from across the room. Diego returns to the table.

AUGUSTO

We are talking about George's West Coast operation.

DIEGO

Ah, George's mystery man.

RAFAEL OJEDA

Yes, where is this man? When do we meet him?

DIEGO

You don't meet him. George keeps this a secret. He's here meeting everyone, goes to Colombia and meets Pablo, but still keeps his secrets. Even from his brother.

JUAN CARLOS "THE GUAPO"

Come on, George, we're all in this together.

EMILIO OCHOA

Yes, George, there's enough for everybody.

GEORGE

I think Padroni is happy with the current situation. Will you please excuse me?

George exits after Mirtha.

INT. BILTMORE HOTEL - BALLROOM - CONTINUOUS

George steps into the empty lobby looking for Mirtha. He can't find her. She appears from the shadows and startles him. George embraces her and plants one on her.

MIRTHA

You better know what you're doing,
George. You're playing with fire.

GEORGE

I like fire.

MONTAGE - MUSIC CUE - LIVING THE GOOD LIFE

CLOSE UP - George does a huge line, left to right.

CLOSE UP - Mirtha does a huge line, right to left.

EXT. MIAMI DRAG - DAY

A stretch limo flies by, left to right. The windows are open and Mirtha and George whoop it up as they go by.

INT. MIAMI NIGHTCLUB - NIGHT

George and Mirtha out on the crowded dance floor, grooving to the Salsa rhythms.

STILL PHOTOS

Champagne bottles in hand, George and Mirtha on the tarmac running from the limo to the waiting private plane.

EXT. FIVE STAR HOTEL - LOS ANGELES - DAY

George and Mirtha poolside, wearing shades, getting some sun. She blows him a kiss from the adjoining lounge chair. He blows one back. She licks her lips and it's on. He's out of the chair, pouring champagne over her tan body, and licking it off. She squeals with delight. A table gets knocked over as they cause a commotion. A hotel manager comes over, but George hands him a wad of cash and he quickly fucks off.

INT. MIAMI NIGHTCLUB - NIGHT - MAGICAL REALITY

The dancing is in SUPER SLOW MOTION now. Passionate, carnal, intimate.

STILL PHOTOS

George buys gifts for Mirtha and she shows them off for the camera. A fur. A ring. A house.

INT. EASTHAM HOUSE - DAY

Overhead shot of George and Mirtha's bedroom. It's completely covered with money. Completely covered. George and Mirtha make love on the sea of cash. As CAMERA PULLS UP we see money slowly falling from the ceiling.

INT. SILVER STAR WEDDING CHAPEL - LAS VEGAS - 1978 - DAY

There is no white dress. There is no tuxedo. George and Mirtha haven't even taken off their sunglasses.

MIRTHA

I do.

They kiss. Mirtha wipes her red nose.

MIRTHA (CONT'D)

I need a fucking drink.

INT. EASTHAM HOUSE - CONTINUOUS

George moves to the bedroom. Mirtha is pregnant and she's showing. She's also bent over a mirror with a straw in her hand. George opens the door and takes her by surprise.

GEORGE

Jesus Christ.

MIRTHA

Oh, don't be such a fucking hypocrite.
I quit smoking, didn't I?

GEORGE

Put that shit away, they're here.

INT. EASTHAM HOUSE - DOWNSTAIRS - LATER

Mirtha and George lead Fred and Ermine from room to room, showing off the house. The decor is, well, eclectic. It doesn't match the architecture.

ERMINE

It's all so beautiful.

MIRTHA

What do you think, Dad?

FRED

Yeah. Nice.

ERMINE

Look at this credenza. If you don't mind me asking, how much is something like that? It's got to cost a fortune.

GEORGE

(quickly)

It's a family heirloom.

ERMINE

I've seen those in magazines. They're not cheap.

GEORGE

Mirtha comes from a very wealthy family.

ERMINE

Oh, I see.

MIRTHA

Come on. I'll show you the rest of the house.

George and his father move outside.

EXT. GROUNDS - CONTINUOUS

George and his father walk.

GEORGE

So, business is going good. I've got this import/export thing going on in Miami that's been very profitable. With my investments...

FRED

Don't bullshit me, George. I don't see you very much, I don't want to waste the time.

They move along the rear of the house. Classic cars line the driveway.

FRED (CONT'D)

You come from my body, remember? You're my baby boy. The same kid who would jump off a mountain if someone told him he couldn't do it. You haven't changed much. I know the things you do. Not everything. But I get the picture and I don't care. I don't like it. It's not what I would have chosen for you, but it's your life. It doesn't have anything to do with me.

He turns and looks at his boy.

FRED (CONT'D)

You're like your mother. You love money.

GEORGE

Dad.

FRED

No, it's good. You have a family. It's good if it makes you happy. It's nice to have nice things. Are you happy, son?

GEORGE

Yeah, Dad. I'm happy right now.

INT. HOLIDAY MOTEL - LITTLE HAVANA - 1978 - DAY

Diego puts a straw in his nose and snorts a big gaker. His eyes are wide, his pupils dilated, and a weapon sticks out of the back of his pants. He knocks the dust off his nose before moving outside. George is on the porch, smoking a cigarette.

DIEGO

Three years. How long have we been in business? Three years. Does she get to meet your connection? Was she good enough?

GEORGE

Shut up, Diego. They're going to be here any minute. I'm trying to concentrate.

DIEGO

I'm very angry with you, George. Very angry. You don't take me to California, but you take your bitch wife? A woman? I understand you love her, but it was you and me who started this. You and me.

GEORGE

What do you need my connection for, Diego? What are you going to do with it?

DIEGO

What do I do with it? Nothing. It's for peace of mind. It's for the principle.

George doesn't have time for this. He checks the cylinders on his weapon and runs over possible scenarios in his mind. But Diego won't get off the soap box.

GEORGE

Jesus fucking Christ, Diego. I ain't telling you. It's just business. Now, shut up. You're driving me crazy.

DIEGO

I'm driving you crazy? No. You're driving me crazy. We had a dream. What happened to our dream?

A black sedan pulls up and FIVE PUERTO RICAN MEN approach the room. George and Diego greet them and lead them inside. It's game time. The atmosphere is charged with danger and everyone is acutely aware of everything. The guys sit down, their guns bulging through the inside of their suits. The suitcases are opened. The rules are the same. No English. No raising voices. No sudden movements. George offers their leader, TONY, beers for his men, and is politely declined. The count starts. George and Diego riff through ten thousand dollar bundles. Diego is still acting pissy. He's mumbling to himself, making faces, slamming the money all around. The guys keep a close eye on him. Diego finishes a stack, throws one of the bags on the ground. The conversation is in Spanish unless otherwise indicated.

TONY

Algun problema?

GEORGE

No no no... no problema, amigo. El dinero esta todo aqui. Llevas las "llaves" y mas tarde lo contaremos. Okay? No problem.

TONY

Que problema? Nosotros esperamos.

The pressure is getting to one of the hoods. His name is BENNY. He's got a crazy eye and he seems ready to snap. George resumes the count, but Diego won't get off it.

DIEGO

(English)

You embarrassed me, George. You make me look very bad.

BENNY

Que esta diciendo?

GEORGE

Nothing. Todo esta bien.

DIEGO
(English)
Everything is not alright. I bring you in, and you slap my fucking face!

GEORGE
This is not the time, Diego.

The men all reach for their pieces and all hell starts to break loose.

TONY
Hay algun problema? Hablame!

DIEGO
(English)
You fucked me in front of my whole family!

GEORGE
Fuck you...I didn't fuck you.

BENNY
Maldita sea, que diablos esta diciendo?

GEORGE
Esta todo aqui, amigo...take the keys.
Take 'em and go.

TONY
Que esta pasando aqui, jefe?

DIEGO
Sientese ye no se meta en lo que no le importa.

The guns are out and pointed. It's out of control now.

GEORGE
Take it easy! Everything's okay!

DIEGO
Que es lo que quieren de me, hijueputas campesinos?

George steps forward with the keys.

GEORGE
Take the fucking keys!

BLAM! Courtesy of Benny, George is hit. The shoulder, the collarbone. It's hard to tell.

GEORGE (CONT'D)
Estoy bien, okay? Everything is alright. There's no problem. Okay?
This never happened. No one has to know anything about this. Diego, I want you to calmly tell them where the fucking coke is. Do it now.

DIEGO
Es un Ford blanco junto a una pick-up.

Tony very carefully takes the car keys.

GEORGE
No problem, gentlemen. Goodbye.

The men slowly back out the door. George looks at Diego.

GEORGE (CONT'D)
Derek Foreal.

DIEGO
What?

GEORGE
Derek Foreal. Derek Foreal. Derek fucking Foreal. Alright? The answer to all your dreams. Are you happy now?

EXT. LOS ANGELES INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT - DAY

George and Diego exit the terminal. George's arm is in a sling. The familiar sight of Derek Foreal is Lincoln Continental.

The three men come together, and Diego and Derek are introduced. The men's hands come together and the FRAME FREEZES on their handshake.

EXT. EASTHAM HOUSE - UPSTAIRS - DAY

Fred pulls into the driveway in his new car and honks the horn. Fred and Ermine get out of the car.

FRED
Hello, hello.

INT. OLIVEROS MANSION - MIAMI - NIGHT

It's a New Year's Eve party. A lavish Colombian celebration. George and a very pregnant Mirtha move through the crowd to find Augusto.

AUGUSTO
I'm so glad you two could make it.
Mirtha, look at you. So beautiful. You look like you're about to burst.

MIRTHA
Thanks. I am. Where's Martha?

AUGUSTO
I don't know. Drunk somewhere. Try the bar. And if you find her, tell her to come, it's almost midnight.

As Mirtha leaves, Augusto throws his arm around George's shoulder.

AUGUSTO (CONT'D)
It's good you came down, George. We need to discuss a few things.

DIEGO
Where's Diego?

AUGUSTO
He's not here, George.

GEORGE
Yeah, well where is he? And who is this Norman K. guy? That's all anyone is talking about. Norman K. Norman K. Do
I know him?

Augusto lets out a big laugh.

AUGUSTO

Norman Cay is not a person. He is an island, George. In the Bahamas. From what they say, it is free and it's Diego's new home.

GEORGE

What?

Augusto throws an arm around George's shoulder.

AUGUSTO

Let us walk. From what I understand, Diego has bought a hundred and sixty acres, a marina, a hotel, and an airstrip.

GEORGE

Motherfucker works fast.

AUGUSTO

The word is that soon he is to be king of the middle empire. He is doing multiple runs right now and using the island as a jump-off point.

GEORGE

He what?

AUGUSTO

Yes. Jack Stevens is already a very busy man. Along with many others. You shouldn't stay away so long.

GEORGE

That's impossible. We can't be up and running. Who's distributing?

Augusto says nothing. But the ball is dropping in Times Square. 10, 9, 8, 7...

GEORGE (CONT'D)

Oh, no.

Happy New Year. Streamers, confetti, and champagne. George marches through the kissing guests and over to a phone. He's steaming. The music is up, so he has to scream.

GEORGE (CONT'D)

Hello, Derek? This is George. Am I wearing lipstick?
I said, am I wearing lipstick? Because when I'm getting fucked, I want to make sure my face is pretty. You're buying directly from Diego, aren't you, you son of a bitch?

INTERCUT

Derek Foreal in full New Year's regalia, complete with party hat.

DEREK

I don't want to get caught in the middle of this. That's between you and Diego.

George's face scrunches in pain.

DEREK (CONT'D)
It's nothing personal, George. Just business.

GEORGE
Yeah. I understand. Just business.
Right. Fuck you.

The song ends, and George is left standing there screaming.

GEORGE (CONT'D)
I bring you in, and this is how you repay me? You little homo! Hey, Derek? Derek?

INT. OLIVEROS MANSION - DINING ROOM - 1979 - LATER

It's late. The family is all there. Fifteen, twenty strong.
Cuban coffees all around.

MIRTHA
Que va hacer?

AUGUSTO
Que quieres decir. Que es lo que el va hacer? Pues, no va hacer nada.

MARIA
Alguna cosa tiene que hacer.

FAMILY MEMBER #2
De otra manera, es un marica.

FAMILY MEMBER #3
Un hijueputa

FAMILY MEMBER #1
Maricon.

FAMILY MEMBER #2
Mira, vos sos responsable por el exito de Diego.

FAMILY MEMBER #3
El se esta burlando de vos. Debes hacer algo, hombre.

MARIA
No Puedes hacer ni un culo.

AUGUSTO
El no va hacer nada. Hay un problema. Aqui, hubo un error y nosotros lo vamos ha arreglar.

BLANCA
No le escuches a mi yerno. A el solo le importa la plata.

Blanca reaches into her purse, pulls out an ice pick folded in a piece of linen cloth, and puts it down in front of George.

BLANCA (CONT'D)
Vos lo tenes que matar, ahorita mismo. De lo contrario vas a quedar como un marica sin horror.

FAMILY MEMBER #3

Mejor dicho vos sos un aculillado.

FAMILY MEMBER #1

Maricon.

BLANCA

Sabes que, vos no tenes pantalones. Nadie te va a respetar. Usa esto. Deja solo un huequito tan pequeno, que ni sangre le va a salir a ese malparido del Diego.

AUGUSTO

Blanca, por favor.

MIRTHA

Mama, vos sos bien antigua. Como lo va a matar con un picahielo. Eso era en su tiempo, estamos casi ya en los ochenta. El lo va a meter un tiro, lo va a volar, le va a hechar un hijueputa carro encima.

AUGUSTO

Dejen la maricada pues! No jodan! Nadie va a matar a nadie! George, debemos hablarle al Patron, es la unica manera, mano.

GEORGE

No, no, no, no yo puedo arregarlo solo.

EXT. NORMAN CAY - BAHAMAS - 1979 - DUSK

George cruises through the turquoise water of the Caribbean in a sport fisherman. Before him is Norman Cay. White sand beaches. Beautiful. Pristine.

EXT. NORMAN CAY - DOCKS - DUSK

Waiting for him is Cesar.

CESAR

Good to see you, George. It's been a long time.

INT. THE YACHT CLUB - SUNSET

The Yacht Club is a tavern style bar that juts out over the water. The crimson sky streaks the windows. Diego looks like Che Guavera. His hair is long, and a graying beard sticks through his gaunt face. The bar has been taken over by Diego's BANDITOS. Automatic weapons and PROSTITUTES accent this drunken setting. George is escorted through the door by Cesar, and the room quiets. All eyes on Diego and George. Diego rises.

DIEGO

George, I am happy to see you. How are you, my brother?

GEORGE

No more brothers, Diego.

DIEGO

Of course we are brothers. Why do you say that? You hurt me, George.

GEORGE
You fucked me, Diego.

DIEGO
I did not.

GEORGE
You went behind my back and you cut me out.

DIEGO
No, I never. I would not do that, George. Never.

GEORGE
I talked to Foreal, Diego.

There is a pause. Diego's goons ready their weapons as Diego scoops up a cringer with his pinky and sniffs.

DIEGO
Maybe you are right. I did betray you a little bit.

One of the men says something in Spanish and everyone laughs.
George is furious. He starts to tremble and his face turns red.

DIEGO (CONT'D)
Oh, boo hoo, boo hoo. So sad, George.
I stole your California connection. So what? Who introduced you to Pablo Escobar? Me. Who introduced you to your fucking Colombian wife? Me. Who protected you when my friend Cesar Roza wanted to slice your fucking throat, huh? Who mad you millions and millions of dollars? Me. And what do I get in return? This? Accusations? I have always given you everything, George, but that is over now. This is my operation.
My dream. So go home, George. Go back to your stupid little life. You can sell half grams to your fucking relatives for all I care. Because you are out!

George lunges at Diego and is immediately grabbed.

GEORGE
You'd better kill me now, Diego, because you're a dead man.

DIEGO
George, don't be so emotional. This is business. Besides, I can't kill you, you are my brother.

They lead him away.

EXT. YACHT CLUB - CONTINUOUS

George is getting the shit kicked out of him. His teeth broken, kicked in the head, the body, the groin. His arm stomped. Blood and broken bones. It's a king size beating.
The men prop him up and Cesar reaches back and hits him with a haymaker. CRACK. George's nose is broken. Blood spurts everywhere. George is dropped to the ground, spit on, and left for dead.

CESAR

Say "hi" to your pretty wife for me.

EXT. HACIENDA LOS NAPOLES - COLOMBIA - POOL - DAY

A beautiful, sprawling estate. A family barbecue, Colombian style, is in full swing. Kids play soccer. Zoo animals run wild together.

George is led outside by TWO OVER-ARMED BODYGUARDS. Pablo sees him and gives George a big hug.

ESCOBAR

George, you look terrible.

GEORGE

Yeah, well...

ESCOBAR

Diego?

GEORGE

Yeah.

ESCOBAR

Please. Sit down. We'll drink some scotch.

GEORGE

I didn't come here to drink scotch.

ESCOBAR

I see. I'm sorry about this, George. I'm not happy about this situation. It's bad. You now know who your Brutus is.

GEORGE

You know why I'm here. You know what I have to do. I came here for permission. Out of respect, Pablo. This is bullshit, he's making me look like a punk.

ESCOBAR

It is very difficult. Diego makes me a lot of money. If Diego goes so does the money. You were an excellent teacher, George. When the student has learned well, the teacher is no longer necessary. We must remember we have wives, friends, familia. Even familia that has not been born. But sometimes, we must forget as well. I am like you. I must teach the lesson. We want to teach the lesson. But we cannot. We must remember that life is the teacher.

GEORGE

You're saying life will take care of Diego?

ESCOBAR

Life will take care of everybody. Diego, me, you. It is the teacher.

GEORGE

I get it. I'm really pissed, Pablo.

You know the DEA knows about Norman's Cay. For Chrissakes, Diego worships Adolf Hitler and John Lennon, that's fucked up!

ESCOBAR
I'm sorry, George.

GEORGE
Yeah, well, what are you gonna do? You and me, Pablo? Are we good?

ESCOBAR
Of course, George. We are beautiful. We are brothers. Real brothers. Not like Diego. We started this, George.

Escobar embraces George for a moment, and then George starts to move away.

ESCOBAR (CONT'D)
And, George? The vengeance? It is best served cold.

INT. EASTHAM HOUSE - GEORGE'S BEDROOM - NIGHT

Mirtha is sleeping. She's so big, she looks like she's gonna explode. George sits on the bed and rests his hand on Mirtha's face. He looks like the Elephant Man.

MIRTHA
George. Oh, Jesus Christ, George. Look at you.

GEORGE
Shhh, honey, never mind. It's alright. It's over. I quit the business. I'm out.

MIRTHA
Pablo said no?

GEORGE
Pablo said no. It's all over. And I'm never going back. I have you. We have the baby. And there's nothing else. It's just the family now. Shhh. Sleep now.

EXT. EASTHAM HOUSE - DAY

Fred, Ermine and Mirth are waiting for George in the car. Mirtha's water has broken. Ermine honks the horn from the back seat and screams out the window.

ERMINE
George, it's time! George! George!

INT. HOUSE - CONTINUOUS

George is high and in a panic. He races around, trying to get a suitcase packed and find his keys.

GEORGE
Coming!

He finally gets it together, but before he runs out the door, he does one last blast.

INT. CAPE COD HOSPITAL - HYANNIS - MATERNITY - DAY

Mirtha is on the birthing table and screaming in pain. She's crowning. George wears hospital scrubs and a surgical mask. He and his saucer pupils hold Mirtha's hand in comfort. The baby comes, and DOCTOR MICK BAY slaps it's behind and cuts the cord. Tough ass Mirtha breaks down and sobs hysterically. But something is wrong with George. The color drains from his face. He grabs his chest and falls over onto the floor. The MEDICAL STAFF attends to him.

GEORGE (V.O.)

Watching my baby girl born did something to me.

They talk about religious experiences, I didn't believe in religion. But when Kristina Sunshine Jung came into this world, something in me changed. I looked at her and I knew right then that I could never love anything but my daughter ever again. It sounds sappy, but it was like, click, I knew what I was put on this planet for. It was the greatest feeling I ever had followed by the worst feeling I ever had.

NURSE

He fainted.

MIRTHA

George!

The doctor grabs George's wrist.

DR. BAY

He's in tachycardia. George, your heart is racing. Have you been using drugs?

GEORGE

Coke.

DR. BAY

Cocaine? How much?

GEORGE

I don't know. Maybe eighteen grams.

DR. BAY

In how long? A week?

GEORGE

Today.

DR. BAY

Oh, Jesus, Get me a 12-lead e.k.g. and start an i.v. stat! This man is having a heart attack.

INT. CAPE COD HOSPITAL - HYANNIS - LATER

George lies in the recovery room, sedated, tubes everywhere. He's hooked up to IV's, monitors, and machines. Dr. Bay enters.

DR. BAY

I've reviewed your toxicology report three times, George. I've never seen anything like it. Eighteen grams. The lethal dose is a gram and a half.

You should be in the Guinness Book.

George cracks a faint smile.

DR. BAY (CONT'D)

It's not funny, George. You should be dead right now. Absolutely. I cannot come up with one logical explanation for why you're still breathing. I'm not here to give you lectures, I've got no moral interest in what you do. But, take it easy, George. Stay with us a while. You've got a daughter now.

INT. EASTHAM HOUSE - DAY

Kristina is crying. Daddy George to the rescue. He picks her up, cuddles her. Gives her a bottle and she quiets.

EXT. EASTHAM HOUSE - FRONT YARD - 1980 - DAY

A one-year-old Kristina is being coaxed by George to take her first steps.

GEORGE

Come on. Come on, honey. You can do it. Come to Daddy.

Kristina tries, stumbles. Gets up again. She looks like a drunk, but she's doing it.

GEORGE (CONT'D)

Good girl!

Mirtha enters. She's all pinned out, dressed in Ungaro, Cartier, and dark sunglasses.

GEORGE (CONT'D)

Look, Mirtha. She's walking.

MIRTHA

She did that before.

GEORGE

No. These are her first steps. Watch her.

MIRTHA

Yeah. I know. She did that before.

GEORGE

But this is...

MIRTHA

I said, I've seen it before.

GEORGE

Alright.

MIRTHA

Can you lift the furnace. I need money.

GEORGE

Where are you going?

MIRTHA

Out.

MONTAGE - SERIES OF SHOTS - 1980-85

HOME MOVIE STYLE & PHOTOGRAPHS

The years go by and they are SUPERIMPOSED as they pass. George, clean and sober, enjoying family life. Healthy and happy. Mr. Mom. Mirtha looks worse and worse as her habit becomes bigger and bigger. As George and Kristina grow closer and closer, Mirtha is stepping out on the town. Blowing money right and left. Shopping with Mirtha, buying clothes, furs, and diamonds. As Kristina gets older, WE SEE her birthday parties. George and Kristina wearing paper hats and eating ice cream. She's two years old, she's three, four, five, six...

INT. EASTHAM HOUSE - 1985 - NIGHT

The Eastham house is all done up for a party deluxe. Fully catered, with bartenders, waiters, music, the works. And of course the three c's, champagne, caviar and Colombians. George is laughing with Augusto and Martha Oliveros, but when Derek Foreal appears in the doorway, George excuses himself and walks over.

DEREK

Happy Birthday, George. Mirtha invited me.

GEORGE

Yeah. She told me.

DEREK

Look, I'm sorry about everything. I feel like an idiot. You were right. I did fuck you. And then Diego fucked me. Cut me out, too.

GEORGE

I heard.

DEREK

I lost sight of everything. Forgot who my friends were.

GEORGE

It's in the past. I'm out of the business now, so forget about it. No hard feelings. We need to move on. And besides, I'm sorry, too.

DEREK

You?

GEORGE

For calling you a homo.

DEREK

That was out of line.

George throws his arm around Derek's shoulder.

GEORGE

Good to see you, Derek.

Mirtha runs in with a giant crystal punch bowl filled with mother of pearl. She holds it over her head triumphantly.

MIRTHA

Now let's fucking party, motherfuckers!
Let's have some fucking fun.

DEREK
Jesus, is that Mirtha!?

A very underweight Mirtha nervously runs around the party, shoving coke up everyone's noses. She is gakked to the gills and out of control. Her pupils a mile wide.

DEREK (CONT'D)
Christ almighty, George. Feed her a cheeseburger or something. What does she weight, eighty pounds?

GEORGE
I know. She needs to slow down. She's going to blow an O-ring.

Singing. The birthday cake is brought in, the candles are blown out and everyone cheers.
Mirtha runs over to her husband, still holding the cocaine. She's sweaty, her hair matted down on one side.

MIRTHA
Happy birthday, baby. Do a line.

She tries to push a line up his nose.

GEORGE
No, that's alright.

MIRTHA
Oh fucking relax. Let your hair down for once. It's your fucking birthday, for Chrissakes. You're such a fucking pussy. I swear to G-d, I married this big time drug dealer and wound up with the maid.

Mirtha's loud now and making a scene. He thinks about it.

GEORGE
No honey, I'm alright.

AUGUSTO
A toast! To Mister George Jung. Mr. I 95, north and south. My brother-in-law. Happy birthday!

Everyone raises their glasses.

EVERYONE
To George!

A party guest comes running inside.

PARTY GUEST
Cops! They're all over the place.

The WAITERS, in their white jackets, exchange knowing looks.
The BARTENDER comes out from behind the bar.

BARTENDER
Freeze!

In an instant, all of the waiters' guns are out.

WAITER
Massachusetts State Police Department!
Everybody on the floor!

EXT. EASTHAM HOUSE - LATER

Police cars everywhere. All the party guests are filed out the door, and are being led away. Mirtha is dragged out, spitting and screaming. George, in handcuffs, is pushed to a squad car. He looks through the window to see a FEMALE POLICE OFFICER escorting Kristina out of the house.

INT. M.P.D. - INTERROGATION ROOM - NIGHT

George, still dressed in his party clothes, sits at a desk. TWO DETECTIVES set a confession in front of him.

GEORGE
What's this?

DETECTIVE #2
It's your statement. How it was all yours, the pound of coke was for personal use and none of the guests had any idea it was there, yeah, right.

George looks through the papers.

GEORGE
I want my kid out of protective custody. Now. No fucking around. My wife and my kid on a plane tonight. I sign when they call me safe and sound.

DETECTIVE #1
No fucking way.

GEORGE
Fuck you, then. I sign nothing.

The detectives ponder.

DETECTIVE #2
Do it.

Detective #1 walks to the door.

DETECTIVE #1
George? You better get yourself a good lawyer this time. We're gonna nail your ass to the wall on this one.

GEORGE
Oh hey, one more thing?

DETECTIVE #1
What's that?

GEORGE
Get me a six pack.

EXT. EASTHAM HOUSE - GARAGE - NIGHT

It's the middle of the night. George walks through a dark and lonely house. He goes to the furnace, opens it up and sees that there are only five stacks left.

GEORGE
Fuck.

EXT. JUNG HOUSE - WEYMOUTH - PORCH - MORNING

George pulls up to the front.

GEORGE

Hi.

FRED

I heard. Ermine, your son is here.

ERMINE (O.S.)

Tell him I don't want to see him. Tell him he's not welcome here.

GEORGE

Mom.

Ermine's back is to George. She won't look at him.

ERMINE

Don't you dare step one foot in this house. You're not my son, you hear me? I don't have a son anymore.

She disappears into the house. The sound of a door slamming.

FRED

She's angry. It's all over the news.

GEORGE

Yeah. Listen. I'm going to be going away for awhile.

FRED

You're not going to trial?

GEORGE

No.

FRED

Good.

They stand there and look at each other for a while. There's a lot to say but nothing's coming out. George hands Fred a gym bag.

GEORGE

Give this to Mom, will you?

FRED

Money. You and your mother. All the time chasing it. I never understood it.

GEORGE

Give it to her, Dad. It'll make her happy.

FRED

Yeah, I know. This is it, isn't it?

The two men throw their arms around each other and hold on to one another in the doorway of the old house.

GEORGE

Tell Mom, you know...

FRED

I'll tell her.

George breaks away and moves to the T-bird.

FRED (CONT'D)
Take care of yourself.

INT. BANCO DE FEDERALE - PANAMA CITY - 1985 - DAY

George walks through the bank.

INT. BANCO DE FEDERALE - PANAMA CITY - CONTINUOUS

George sits at a desk in front of a Panamanian BANK EMPLOYEE.
He slides his bank book across the table.

GEORGE
I'd like to make a withdrawal.

The employee opens the book and gets a funny look on his face. Nervous.

BANK EMPLOYEE
Excuse me, please.

He gets up and moves to the BANK MANAGER. They move to another MANAGER TYPE. And another.
And then everyone disappears behind closed doors. Finally, the BANK PRESIDENT emerges and moves over to George.

BANK PRESIDENT
I'm afraid there is a problem, Mr. Jung.
The banks have gone through a change, a nationalization. I'm afraid your funds have been appropriated by the Panamanian Government...

George starts to shake. The bank president tries to explain, but whatever he says is unimportant. George is paralyzed.

INT. APARTMENT - LIBERTY CITY, FLORIDA - NIGHT

An inexpensive one-bedroom furnished apartment. It ain't much, but it's home. Mirtha has just received the news and is losing her mind. Clara Blanca is cooking dinner.

MIRTHA
What are we going to do?! What are we going to use for money?!

GEORGE
Please, Mirtha. I'll start working for Augusto. I'll talk to him tonight. I'll do something.

MIRTHA
Don't touch me. Tell me. Just answer the question. What do I spend? What? How will we live?

Kristina sits there. She hears everything, so does Clara Blanca.

GEORGE
Not in front of the kid.

MIRTHA
Don't give me that shit. You just better do something.

She storms into the bedroom and slams the door. George stands there. Awkward silence. George goes to Kristina.

GEORGE

Everything's gonna be okay, sweetheart.
Don't be upset.

KRISTINA

What's happening to us?

Tough question to answer.

GEORGE

I don't know.

KRISTINA

Are we gonna split up?

GEORGE

No, never. Don't even think about that, it's impossible. I love your mother.
And you are my heart. Could I live without my heart? Could I?

Kristina nods "no." They embrace.

INT. GEORGE'S THUNDERBIRD - MIAMI - NIGHT

The car moves along I-95. George is driving while a jacked up Mirtha does a speed bump. A cop is following in the distance. It is not okay.

GEORGE

There's a fucking cop behind us, Mirtha.
Be cool, will ya.

MIRTHA

Fuck you, George, just fucking drive.

GEORGE

Hey, why don't you just put a "I'm doing cocaine" sign on the car. What is your fucking problem?

MIRTHA

My problem? We're broke, that's my fucking problem. And you're a fucking spy.

GEORGE

What?

MIRTHA

That's right. Always spying, always judging. Everyone's laughing at you, you fucking pussy. You let Diego fuck you in the ass. Maybe you are a fucking faggot. You must be fucking Diego because you're not fucking me.

Mirtha grabs nuts.

GEORGE

Those are my nuts!

George tries to fend her off. The car swerves all over the road. It's turned into a full scale fist fight. The red lights of Florida's finest come up behind them and George is pulled over.

EXT. I-95 - CONTINUOUS

Mirtha leaps out of the car, teary eyed, crazed and bloodied.
The policemen step from their car.

MIRTHA

He's a fugitive and a fucking cocaine dealer! There's a kilo in his trunk right now! Take this sorry motherfucker to jail!

George sits behind the wheel. He knows it's over.

INT. M.C.I. WALPOLE - VISITING AREA - 1989 - DAY

SUPERIMPOSE: FOUR YEARS LATER

Visiting day. Inmates sit across from their families.
Mirtha is sitting at the glass. George walks to his seat.

MIRTHA

I'm divorcing you, George. I'm getting custody of Kristina. And when you get out next week, you're going to pay support and that's the end of it.
Alright? There's someone else. I'm sorry.

George just looks at her. His face is stone. But he is moved.

MIRTHA (CONT'D)

You should have taken better care of me, you know? You've been away a long time.
Four years. Say something.

GEORGE

What do you want me to say? I'm in prison. You should know. You put me here.

MIRTHA

Fuck you, George. I knew you'd say something like that. Always thinking about yourself.

She moves away and drags nine-year old Kristina into the room.

Kristina yanks her arm away and they get into a heated argument. Through the glass, George can't hear the words but it's clear that Kristina doesn't want to be here.

GEORGE

My baby. She's so big.

Mirtha forces Kristina over to the glass and keeps showing her, prompting her to talk. Kristina stares at George through the glass. Cool. Defiant. Angry. She picks up the phone and speaks, every word an accusation.

KRISTINA

I thought you couldn't live without your heart.

She drops the phone, walks away, and doesn't look back.

INT. PHONE BOOTH - MIAMI STREETS - DAY

George puts in the quarters.

GEORGE

Hello, Derek? It's George. Yeah.
Yeah, I am. I'm in Miami. I'm looking to do something. I want to put together a crew. Do you know anybody? Leon? I don't know him. What's his last name?
Alright. Give me the number.

EXT. ELEMENTARY SCHOOL - MIAMI - DAY

Nine-year old Kristina Jung leaves school. George, fresh out of prison, moves across the street to meet her.

KRISTINA
What are you doing here?

GEORGE
Nothing. I just wanted you to know I was out. I just wanted to see you.

KRISTINA
Well, here I am. See?

GEORGE
How are you doing?

KRISTINA
George, you just can't show up, tell me you love me, and have everything be okay.

GEORGE
Dad.

KRISTINA
What?

GEORGE
You can call me Dad if you want.

KRISTINA
I don't want, alright? It's not funny.
I'm really pissed off, George. You blew it, now leave me alone.

GEORGE
Kristina, c'mon, I'm sorry. I'm going to make this right. I've got a few things going on...

KRISTINA
What do you want from me?

GEORGE
Just to walk with you. I want to be your dad again.

KRISTINA
Do what you want, it's a free country.

She walks away. He follows.

INT. THE PALM LOUNGE - MIAMI - DAY

George sits at the bar with a man named LEON MINGHELLA.

LEON
It's a four-man operation. Two on the ground. Two in the air.

GEORGE

Who's the co-pilot?

LEON

You're looking at him. We provide the plane, transportation cost, U.S. landing spot, and take it to wherever you want it to go. You provide the pick up point in South America, and are responsible for payment. You assume all the bust risks. We take sixty-five percent of all transportation fees, ten percent of the gross, plus our expenses. This is not a negotiation, so if this is okay with you, we can talk further. If not, we can forget we had this conversation.

GEORGE

Sounds fine. I'll need to meet everybody.

LEON

They're over at the booth.

Leon leads George over.

LEON (CONT'D)

Gentlemen, this is George. George, this is Ben, G.G. and...

George's eyes widen as he looks at the last man. It's Kevin Dulli.

GEORGE

Holy shit, Dulli!

KEVIN

Georgie, oh man, hold the mayo!

GEORGE (V.O.)

That was it. Seeing Dulli after fourteen years sealed the deal for me. The rest was just details. My end was roughly five-hundred thousand. Kristina and I could have a good life for five hundred grand. Start over somewhere. One final score. That's all I needed.

INT. OLIVEROS MANSION - MIAMI - DAY

AUGUSTO

Three-hundred kilos is a very big load, Georgie. Why don't we start small?

GEORGE

No. I have the space. I figured it out. This is what I want to do.

AUGUSTO

Alright. I'll ask Pablo, tell him it's for you. I don't think there will be a problem.

GEORGE

Five-thousand per kilo.

AUGUSTO

Ha ha. That's too much, Georgie. Those days are over. The rate is one-thousand dollars. Inflation, you know?

GEORGE

This is a one time thing, Gusto. One and I'm out. Give me a good price for old time's sake. What do you think?

EXT. RESIDENTIAL STREET - MIAMI - DAY

George and Kristina walk through the neighborhood. He carries her books.

GEORGE

Let me ask you something. If you could go anywhere in the world, anywhere, where would you want to go?

KRISTINA

You mean, like a trip?

GEORGE

Yeah, sure, whatever.

Kristina thinks about it.

KRISTINA

I don't know. Maybe California.

George is amused by her answer.

GEORGE

California? You can go anywhere in the world. India. Tibet. Australia. Paris. And you choose California?

KRISTINA

Yeah.

GEORGE

What is it? A Disneyland thing?

KRISTINA

No. I just kind of like the sound of it.

GEORGE

California, huh?

KRISTINA

California.

They turn a corner and arrive at Kristina's house. Mirtha is standing in the doorway.

GEORGE

Go on inside now. I want to talk to your mom alone.

He kisses his daughter goodbye.

KRISTINA

Bye, Dad. See you in the morning, okay?

GEORGE

I'll be here.

George moves over to Mirtha. It's been a while.

MIRTHA

What do you want?

GEORGE

You knew I was seeing Kristina, right?

MIRTHA

Yeah. She told me. You walk her to school.

GEORGE

Yeah, so I've been thinking. I love her, y'know? I kind of want to have her. I've been away for so long. Make up for the missed time, you know?

MIRTHA

I haven't seen one dollar from you. You haven't paid me one cent in child support, alimony.

GEORGE

Yeah, well. I'm working on that. I've got something going.

MIRTHA

Yeah? I better see some money out of it.

GEORGE

Yeah, you will. Of course.

Mirtha looks at her ex-husband. It's not all bad.

MIRTHA

Hey, look. You start paying, who knows what will happen. You're a good father, George. I always gave you that. But you've got to talk to her.

GEORGE

Yeah.

MIRTHA

She's getting big. Getting her own ideas.

GEORGE

I know. Well, that's all I really wanted to say. So, okay, then.

He moves down the steps and heads for the sidewalk.

MIRTHA

Hey, George. You okay?

GEORGE

Yeah. I'm fine. I'm good.

INT. THE PALM LOUNGE - DAY

The restaurant is filled with the team. They discuss, argue, re-examine every little detail.

KEVIN

We take off from Lauderdale, Sunday, refuel, and be in Medellin by Monday.

LEON

Overnight, refuel, and back Wednesday night.

GEORGE
Where are you coming in?

BEN
Vero Beach.

G.G.
It's good. It's small.

LEON
Then we drive it to the Lauderdale house where it stays until pick up and payment the next morning. You want to go over it again?

GEORGE
No. All set. Piece of cake.

INT. GEORGE'S STUDIO APARTMENT - MIAMI - NIGHT

George is cooking dinner for Kristina. He's only got a hot plate so it's slow. The table is set with plasticware. Kristina chops the salad.

GEORGE
I'm thinking about getting out of town this week. You want to come with me?

KRISTINA
Where are you going?

GEORGE
I don't know. Maybe California.

KRISTINA
You swear?

GEORGE
Yeah. Go out there, check it out, see what it's like. I've got some stuff to do this week, but I'm thinking maybe Thursday. Thursday after school.

KRISTINA
You know I can't. Mom will never let me go.

GEORGE
You let me take care of your mother. You just pack your bags.

KRISTINA
But I've got school.

GEORGE
There's schools in California.

KRISTINA
You swear?

GEORGE
That's right. Three o'clock. Thursday. At your mother's. You and me. It's a date.

KRISTINA

I don't believe you.

GEORGE

I swear. On my life.

KRISTINA

Swear on my life.

GEORGE

I swear on your life.

EXT. VERO BEACH AIRFIELD - DUSK

George, Ben and G.G. wait on the tarmac. George is pacing. The sound of a Cessna is heard and soon it is dropping out of the sky. The plane lands and taxis over.

Kevin and Leon stick their fists out of the airplane in triumph. The men quickly unload the plane into the trunks of two Broncos and the back of a truck.

INT. FT. LAUDERDALE HOUSE - NIGHT

WE FOLLOW the duffel bags out of the Bronco into the house. The boys sit around as George samples the product.

KEVIN

Are we good?

GEORGE

Are we good? Yeah, we're good. We're beautiful. We're perfect. This is A grade, one-hundred percent pure Colombian cocaine, Ladies and Gentlemen. Disco shit. Pure as the driven snow. Good riddance.

He looks the boys over.

GEORGE (CONT'D)

You saved my life, Dulli. You'll never fucking know. All you guys. Everyone just got a raise. Instead of ten percent, you get fifteen.

LEON

Jesus, George, fifteen percent. That's an extra two-hundred large.

GEORGE

I don't give a shit. Split it up. Have a great life. I'm done. I'm out. Starting over. Cheers.

They clank. George gets up and does the Snoopy Dance to the bathroom.

GEORGE (CONT'D)

Yeah! Unbelievable. Dulli, pour us another round. I gotta hit the head.

George leaves the room. The camera slowly pans back to the guys. Something doesn't look right. They have not moved. They look bummed. Leon looks at G.G.

LEON

What?

G.G.

I feel bad.

BEN

Me too. He's not such a bad guy.

KEVIN

Fuck you guys. All of you. I've known him for thirty fucking years. Fucking George.

LEON

Yeah, I like him, too. But what's done is done. So let's not get all sentimental about it, okay?

The CAMERA PANS BACK SLOWLY to the bathroom door, George comes back into the room, dancing. He goes and sits down with the guys.

GEORGE

(laughing)

Dulli, I was just thinking about that time we landed in Mexico. You've gotten a lot better since then, huh pal? Remember that fucking landing strip? Huh?

George is the only one smiling. No one is looking at him.

GEORGE (CONT'D)

Hey, what's wrong fellas? Why the long faces?

He looks at each one. He slowly realizes something's up. He looks to Dulli finally.

GEORGE (CONT'D)

(defeated)

No. C'mon, Dulli.

The front door busts down, agents pour in. The CAMERA SWISH PANS to George. Lights out. Slow motion. Slow dolly into XCU.

EXT. OTISVILLE F.C.I. - NEW YORK - 1999 - DAY

George has tears in his eyes. He is frozen. Paralyzed by the memories.

GEORGE

Oh, no.

INT. FT. LAUDERDALE HOUSE - 1989 - DAY

The voices from the bust can be heard as the CAMERA PUSHES SLOWLY into George's face. Surreal.

GEORGE (V.O.)

I was busted. Set up by the FBI and the DEA. That didn't bother me. Set up by Kevin Dulli and Derek Foreal to save their own asses. That didn't bother me. Sentenced to sixty years at Otisville. That didn't bother me.

EXT. MIRTHA'S HOUSE - MIAMI - 1989 - DAY

Nine-year old Kristina Sunshine Jung sits on the front porch as the sun goes down. Her bags are packed and ready to go.

GEORGE (V.O.)
I had broken a promise. Everything I loved in my life goes away.

INT. OTISVILLE F.C.I. - 1989 - DAY

George is led into a small room and greeted by his lawyer, ARCHIE ZIGMOND.

ZIGMOND
Here's the deal, George. You're not getting out. I tried to get you furloughed, but your mother squashed it.
Said it would only upset him. I'm sorry.

George takes it in. Blinks. The years have not been kind.

GEORGE
How's he doing?

ZIGMOND
Well, he's out of the hospital, but there's not much anyone can do for him.
It's just a matter of time. Listen, I brought a tape recorder in case you wanted to say something to him. That way he could hear your voice.

GEORGE
Right.

Zigmond sets the tape recorder down and leaves the room.
George stares long at the machine. He pushes the record button and looks at the red light.

GEORGE (CONT'D)
Hello, Dad...

EXT. JUNG HOUSE - DAY

A sixty-nine year old Fred shuffles from his house to the blue LTD. He gets in, turns the key, and puts his son's tape into the deck.

GEORGE (V.O.)
You know, I remember a lifetime ago, I was about three-and-a-half feet tall, weighing all of sixty-pounds, every inch your son...

EXT. JUNG HOUSE - 1953 - DAY

Six-year old George runs through the leaves to the truck and rides to work with his father.

GEORGE (V.O.)
...those Saturday mornings going to work with my Dad. We'd climb into that big yellow truck. I used to think it was the biggest truck in the world.

INT. FRED'S LTD. - 1989 - CONTINUOUS

CLOSE ON FRED

visibly moved.

GEORGE (V.O.)

I remember how important the job we did was.
How if it weren't for us, people would freeze to death. I thought you were the strongest man in the world.

FLASHBACK - VISUALS MATCH DIALOGUE

Ermine as Loretta Young.

Fred Jung and his son tossing a baseball.

Tuna and George driving off in the black Oldsmobile convertible.

The FBI arresting George in his old bedroom.

GEORGE (V.O.) (CONT'D)

Remember those home movies when Mom would dress up like Loretta Young? And the ice creams and the football games? Waino, the Tuna, and the day I left for California only to come home with the FBI chasing me?

INT. JUNG HOUSE - GEORGE'S BEDROOM - 1973 - NIGHT

James J. Trout pulls a handcuffed George's boots over his socks as Fred and Ermine watch.

GEORGE (V.O.)

And that FBI agent, Trout? When he had to get on his knees to put my boots on? You said...

FRED

That's where you belong...

INT. FRED'S LTD. - 1989 - CONTINUOUS

A choked up Fred repeats the words.

FRED

...you sonofabitch. Putting on George's boots.

GEORGE (V.O.)

That was a good one, Dad. That was really something. Remember that?

INT. OTISVILLE F.C.I. - NEW YORK - 1989 - DAY

George's eyes well up and he sparks a cigarette, as he keeps trying to tell his father goodbye.

GEORGE (V.O.)

And that time you told me that money wasn't real? Well, old man, I'm forty two years old. I finally learned what you tried to tell me so many years ago.

INT. FRED'S LTD. - 1989 - CONTINUOUS

Tears come crashing out of the old man's stoic face.

GEORGE (V.O.)

I finally understand. You're the best, Dad. I just wish I could have done more for you. I wish we had more time.

EXT. OTISVILLE F.C.I. - NEW YORK - 1999 - DAY

A vision of Fred Jung sits on the ground before his fifty-two year old son.

GEORGE

I guess I kind of lost sight of things.
"May the wind always be at your back and the sun always upon your face, and the winds of destiny carry you aloft to dance with the stars." Love, George.

FRED

That was a beautiful message.

GEORGE

I meant every word of it.

FRED

Did you know I died two weeks after you sent me that tape?

The apparition of Fred disappears and George is left alone once again.

GEORGE

Yeah, Dad. I knew that.

INT. OTISVILLE F.C.I. - NEW YORK - 1990 - DAY

George is led into the room where THREE FBI MEN await him.
One of them is named FRED GARCIA.

GARCIA

How are you doing, George?

GEORGE

What do you guys want?

GARCIA

You hear about your old friend, Diego?

GEORGE

What about him?

Garcia tosses a newspaper onto the table. The Miami Herald.
Inside is a full page letter addressed from Diego Delgado to Vice President George Bush. In the letter, Diego offers to make a deal. In exchange for immunity, Diego will rat out the entire cocaine business. Americans, Colombians, Noriega, Escobar, everybody. Just let him free.

GEORGE (CONT'D)

What the fuck? Is he going to walk?

GARCIA

He's going down, George. It's election year. We're not making any deals.

FBI GUY #1

He's never getting out. Orders from the top.

GARCIA

So, how would you like to help us put him away?

FBI GUY #2

We've done our homework. We know you hate this motherfucker.

GEORGE

I don't think so.

GARCIA

Don't be stupid, George. We've got him. We've got him dead to rights. But like I said, this is top priority so we're handing out free passes on this one. And the first one's got your name on it. Cut your sentence in half, maybe more.

GEORGE

No thanks, fellas. You've got the wrong fucking guy. I'm not a rat.

INT. OTISVILLE F.C.I. - VISITOR'S ROOM - 1990 - DAY

George sits in the chair behind the plexiglass. Mirtha enters and takes a seat on the other side.

GEORGE

Mirtha, what's going on? Everything okay with Kristina?

MIRTHA

Kristina's fine.

GEORGE

Is she here? Is she coming?

MIRTHA

Is she here? George, Kristina hates you. You fucked her over one too many times. And I'm not here to socialize. Did you hear about Diego?

GEORGE

Yeah.

MIRTHA

Well, I got a call from Pablo. He said this thing with Diego is a disaster. He's giving up lab locations, names, bank accounts, he was very pissed off. Pablo said to take him down. His exact words were "Fuck Diego."

GEORGE

He wants me to testify? Is that what he's asking me to do?

MIRTHA

George, he wasn't asking.

Mirtha gets up and starts to move away.

GEORGE

Mirtha, how are you doing?

MIRTHA

Better than you.

INT. COURTHOUSE HALLWAY - JACKSONVILLE - 1990 - DAY

George, Archie Zigmond and two armed guards walk down the

GEORGE

Hey, Arch, you think the judge will let us get a cocktail after this is all over?

ZIGMOND

I'll see what I can do, George.

GEORGE

Thanks, Arch.

They walk into the crowded courtroom.

INT. COURTHOUSE HALLWAY - JACKSONVILLE - 1990 - DAY

Packed. Nuts. Standing room only. The courtroom buzzes as George is led down the center aisle and is handed off to the bailiff. Over this we hear...

CLERK

Sir, please state your name.

GEORGE

I'm George Jung. Spelled J-U-N-G.

CLERK

Thank you.

PROSECUTOR

Mr. Jung, do you know Diego Delgado?

GEORGE

Yes, I do.

PROSECUTOR

Do you see him here in the courtroom?

GEORGE

Yes, he's sitting right there at the end of the table.

PROSECUTOR

Let the record state the witness has identified, Diego Delgado.

The following sound bytes are dissolved together in montage style...

PROSECUTOR (CONT'D)

Mr. Jung, can you describe the circumstances of how you began talking about cocaine with Mr. Delgado?

GEORGE

Shortly after I arrived at Danbury Federal Correctional Institute I related to Diego that the crime I was in for was smuggling marijuana. Diego told me he had high level connections in Colombia and they needed to find someone to help them transport cocaine into America...

GEORGE (CONT'D)

The first run was fifteen kilos, which we smuggled into Logan Airport in hard shelled suitcases.

GEORGE (CONT'D)

We wrapped the cocaine in kitchen cabinet paper, and duct tape, that way if there were any dogs in customs...

GEORGE (CONT'D)

I introduced Diego to a pilot named Jack Stevens, who helped us fly 300 kilos of cocaine per week into the United States via twin-engine Cessnas. Jack would fly into North Carolina, we'd meet him there and drive it down to different distribution points...

GEORGE (CONT'D)

I never met Pablo Escobar. Diego Delgado was my only connection to cocaine from Colombia...

GEORGE (CONT'D)

Diego convinced me to keep most of my money in a Panamanian bank. Diego had a close relationship with Manuel Noriega. In exchange for allowing us to keep our money there, we paid him a percentage.

GEORGE (CONT'D)

There was an 85% chance that if you snorted cocaine between 1977-1984, it was ours. Initially with my LA connections, we invented the marketplace. In 1977, there was no other real competition.

GEORGE (CONT'D)

The first year we made about 100 million dollars between us. It was an expensive operation. Eventually we built up to three different pilots doing multiple runs per week, connections on both coasts, everything was running smooth. We were like a corporation...

GEORGE (CONT'D)

he was very anti-government. He talked about revolution, forming his own country or island, he was looking for power as well as money. I was just looking for money.

GEORGE (CONT'D)

He disliked the United States, thought it was a police state. He hoped that by flooding the country with cocaine, it would disrupt the political system and tear down the morality of the country.

GEORGE (CONT'D)

Well, yes, Derek Foreal was my connection, I met him back in 1968 when I first moved to Manhattan Beach. It was Foreal's marijuana connections that kicked off our cocaine market.

GEORGE (CONT'D)

Yes, it was my idea to bring the kilos to Los Angeles. When Diego finally got Derek Foreal's name from me, it was only a matter of months before he'd cut me out.

GEORGE (CONT'D)

I'm not sure how my relationship with my daughter and ex-wife have anything to do with this trial. I mean we're here to talk about Diego Delgado, aren't we?

CALIBANOS

Yes, we are Mr. Jung.

We come out of the montage, the defense attorney Diego Delgado, Joe Calibanos, a sleazy-Greek-like-ex-basketball weight lifter guy is now doing the questioning.

CALIBANOS (CONT'D)

Mr. Jung, you're a convicted felon, correct?

GEORGE

Yes, I am.

CALIBANOS

Do you have any agreement or understanding whatsoever with the United States government in regards to your testimony?

GEORGE

No, I came here out of my own volition.

CALIBANOS

Excuse me?

GEORGE

Something about vengeance being best served cold.

CALIBANOS

Really. Are you getting paid, Mr. Jung?

GEORGE

Excuse me?

CALIBANOS

Mr. Jung, don't you have an agreement or understanding with the United States Government in connection with your testimony in this case?

GEORGE

I'm doing sixty years at Otisville, no chance of parole. Even if they cut my sentence in half I'll be seventy-three years old. That's some fucking deal. I don't know if the parole board, the judge, the pope or Jesus Christ himself can get me out of here. I have a really bad record, I'm not sure what's going to happen.

CALIBANOS

So you do have an agreement with the United States Government, Mr. Jung, correct?

George can't respond. Looks to Diego. Looks from the jury, the judge, George is on the spotlight and it's uncomfortable.

He feels suddenly sleazy.

CALIBANOS (CONT'D)

I thought so. No more questions.

Silence. The judge tells George he can step down. Calibanos laughs quietly with associates. George is bummed. He walks by Diego. They look at each other.

GEORGE

You shouldn't have taken the 30 million,
Diego, I was out.

George is lead away.

CLERK

The court calls Mr. Jack Stevens.

Jack Stevens is lead to the stand. WE SLOWLY DISSOLVE TO:

INT. CAR - 1999 - DAY

The green of the New York State countryside drifts by as a brown Mazda moves along Highway 19. Behind the wheel is a beautiful 20 year old woman wearing dark sunglasses. She drives absently, her mind somewhere else.

INT. OTISVILLE F.C.I. - VISITOR'S ENTRANCE - 1999 - DAY

The woman is buzzed through the double doors. She moves to the MAN behind the desk and takes off her sunglasses.

KRISTINA

I'm here to see my father.

ADMISSIONS OFFICER

Name?

KRISTINA

Kristina Sunshine Jung.

EXT. OTISVILLE F.C.I. - LATE AFTERNOON

The GUARDS are rounding up the other prisoners and escorting them inside, but George is still planting sunflowers.

GUARD

Hey, George, five more minutes, buddy.

INT. VISITOR'S ENTRANCE - CONTINUOUS

The admissions officer looks up from his paperwork.

ADMISSIONS OFFICER

Jung.

Kristina grabs her papers and moves to the counter.

ADMISSIONS OFFICER (CONT'D)

Belongings in here.

Kristina empties her pockets and deposits her possessions into a locker box. She is handed a key.

ADMISSIONS OFFICER (CONT'D)

Feet on the blue line.

Kristina stands on a blue piece of tape and the admissions officer buzzes open the giant metal door. But Kristina doesn't move.

ADMISSIONS OFFICER (CONT'D)

Miss?

He presses the buzzer again, but she just stands there.

ADMISSIONS OFFICER (CONT'D)

Miss? Something wrong?

EXT. OTISVILLE F.C.I. - CONTINUOUS

George turns around as a GUARD taps him on the shoulder.

GUARD

George? George, come on. You've got a visitor.

George looks up to find Kristina being buzzed through the gate. She moves through the open area and onto the grass quickly. SLOW MOTION: Father and daughter come together at last in a long embrace.

GEORGE

I'm sorry, baby. I'm so sorry.

KRISTINA

It's alright, Dad.

GEORGE

I didn't mean to...

KRISTINA

I know, Dad. I know...

He hugs her hard.

GEORGE

I fucked up.

KRISTINA

Shhhh.

GEORGE

I love you. I love you so much. You've got to know that. You've got to know.

KRISTINA

I know, Dad. I love you too.

GEORGE

After everything. After everything, the only thing left out of my whole life is you.

Kristina looks at her father, smiles, and disappears. There was no Kristina. The guard continues to tap.

GUARD

George? George, come on. It's getting dark.

George looks up to find a prison guard. His name is GUS, and he helps George to his feet.

GEORGE

But I have a visitor.

GUS

Not today, George. Time to go back.

GEORGE

But I want to put her name on the list for tomorrow. My daughter.

GUS

Okay, George.

GEORGE

Because she's visiting me.

GUS

We'll do that tomorrow, okay? It's lockdown time.

The shadows grow long, and Gus leads George down a cement path that cuts through the grass. The huge structure of Otisville looms dark against the sky, and Gus and George take the long walk back.

EXT. OTISVILLE F.C.I. - NEW YORK - DUSK

Standing outside the fences, Kristina smokes a cigarette as she watches her father being led away. After a few moments, she turns around, walks to her car and gets in. Time to go home. And as the brown Mazda pulls out of the driveway, the taillights turn red, growing smaller and smaller, until they finally disappear.

THE END.

All movie scripts and screenplays on "Screenplays for You" site are intended for fair use only.

Screenplays and movie scripts organized alphabetically:

<#>A B C D E F G H I J K L M N O P Q R S T U V W X Y Z PDF ALL

Bourne Identity (2002)

by Tony Gilroy.

Based on the novel by Robert Ludlum.

Paris Draft, 9/20/00.

More info about this movie on IMDb.com

DARKNESS. THE SOUND OF WIND AND SPRAY.

MUSIC. TITLES.

EXT. OCEAN -- NIGHT

The darkness is actually water. A SEARCHLIGHT arcs across heavy ocean swells. Half-a-dozen flashlights -- weaker beams -- racing along what we can see is the deck of an aging FISHING TRAWLER.

FISHERMEN struggling with a gaff -- something in the water --

A HUMAN CORPSE.

EXT. FISHING BOAT DECK -- NIGHT

THE BODY sprawled there. The Sailors all talking at once -- three languages going -- brave chatter to mask the presence of death --

SAILOR #1
-- Jesus, look at him --

SAILOR #2
-- what? -- you never saw a dead man before? --

SAILOR #3
-- look, look he was shot -- (nudging the body--)

SAILOR #1
-- don't, don't do that --

SAILOR #2

-- he's dead, you think he cares? --

SAILOR #1

-- so have some respect -- it's a --
(stopping as--)

THE BODY MOVES! -- convulsing -- coughing up sea water -- the Sailors -- freaked -- jumping back -- standing there, as --

THE MAN begins to breathe.

INT. FISHING BOAT BUNK ROOM -- NIGHT

A wreck. Too small for all the people in here right now -- SAILORS sweeping off the table -- rough hands laying THE MAN down --

THE CAPTAIN -- brutal and impatient -- watching from the door as --

GIANCARLO tears through the clutter -- searching for a medical kit buried in the shambles. GIANCARLO is sixty. A bloodshot soul.

GIANCARLO

-- it's here -- hang on -- it's here somewhere -- give me a minute -- get some blankets -- get some blankets on him -- (finding the kit--)
-- here we go -- here it is --

GIANCARLO with an old trunk -- just getting it open, as --

THE CAPTAIN

Giancarlo.

(Giancarlo turns back--)

We pick him up? Okay, we have to pick him up. But that's as far as it goes.

GIANCARLO

He needs a doctor.

CAPTAIN

Fuck that. He lives? He dies? I don't care. We've wasted two hours on this shit already. You do what you can, but we're not going back.
(pure steel now)
You understand me?

GIANCARLO

Yes, sir.

CAPTAIN

(to the rest of them)

Let's get back to work!

GIANCARLO watching them run out. Snagging a quick pull on a pint of rum he's got stashed and --

INT. FISHING BOAT BUNK ROOM -- DAWN -- TIME CUTS

Transformed into a makeshift operating room. A light swings overhead. THE MAN layed out across the table. Sounds -- groans -- words -- snatches of them -- all in different languages.

GIANCARLO playing doctor in a greasy kitchen apron. Cutting away the clothes. Turning THE MAN on his side. Two bullet wounds in the back. Probing them, judging them.

Now -- GIANCARLO with a flashlight in his teeth -- TINK -- TINK -- TINK -- bullet fragments falling into a washed-out olive jar.

Now -- something catching GIANCARLO'S EYE -- A SCAR ON THE MAN'S HIP -- another fragment -- exacto knife cutting in -- tweezers extracting A SMALL PLASTIC TUBE, not a bullet at all, and as it comes free --

THE MAN'S HAND SLAMS down onto GIANCARLO'S and we SMASH CUT INTO A --

FIRST PERSON POV -- we are staring up at --

GIANCARLO

You're awake. Can you hear me?

(we're blinking--)

You've been shot. I'm trying to help you.

(we're trying to find our voice--)

You were in the water. You've been shot. It's okay now.

THE MAN

Where am I?

GIANCARLO

(switching to English)

You're American. I thought so.

From your teeth -- the dental work --

THE MAN

Where am I?

GIANCARLO

You're on a boat. A fishing boat.
Italian flag. We're out of Vietri.

(he smiles)

It's the cold that saved you. The water. The wounds are clean. I'm not a doctor, but the wounds, it looks okay. It's clean.

THE MAN

How did I get here?

GIANCARLO

You we're lost at sea. They pulled you out.

(we say nothing)

Who are you?

(still nothing)

You were shot -- two bullets -- in the back. You understand me?

(we try to nod)

Who are you?

Long dead pause.

THE MAN

I don't know.

EXT. OCEAN -- DAY

The Trawler plows through heavy seas.

INT. FISHING BOAT BUNK ROOM -- DAY

GIANCARLO is hunched over a desk -- tweezers and flashlight -- busy working at that strange plastic tube that came out of THE MAN's hip.

THE MAN is bandaged. He's sitting up, and it must hurt like hell, but physical pain is not the thing troubling him right now. He's staring around the room -- at his body -- at the walls -- haunted --

THE MAN

What if it doesn't come back?

GIANCARLO

(still working that tube)

I told you. You need to rest.

Silence. THE MAN can't rest. Too busy trying to make sense of all this.

THE MAN
I can read. I can read that sign on the door. I can count. I can talk...

(focusing now--)
What are you doing?

GIANCARLO rummaging around -- finding a magnifying glass --

THE MAN
What is that?

INSERT -- MAGNIFIED POV -- a slip of plastic from the tube -- written there -- 000-7-17-12-0-14-26. GEMEINSCHAFT BANK, ZURICH.

GIANCARLO
It came from your hip. Under the skin.
(turning back--)
You have a bank in Zurich.
(waiting)
You remember Zurich?

THE MAN
No.

GIANCARLO staring at him now. Different suddenly. Suspicious.

GIANCARLO
Look, I'm just on this boat, okay?
I'm an engineer. Whatever this is,
it's not for me to be involved, okay?

THE MAN
I don't remember Zurich.

GIANCARLO pulls his pint. Takes a hit.

GIANCARLO (offering the bottle--)
You drink rum?

THE MAN
I don't know.

EXT. FISHING BOAT DECK -- NIGHT

THE MAN stands at the rail, staring out to sea. So lost.

He turns to head inside -- there, a surfcasting rod propped against a locker.

THE MAN picks up the rod -- flips the bail -- traps the line -- now he's casting far out into the darkness. And for the first time, he smiles.

INT. FISHING BOAT GALLEY -- NIGHT

A ratty old espresso machine. THE MAN standing there, staring at the thing like it's a test. Then his hands begin to move -- trying to pack a grind -- trying to fit it in -- turning on the steam and --

The whole thing explodes.

EXT. FISHING BOAT DECK -- DAY

THE MAN alone doing chin-ups on the deck rail. He's still bandaged and the wounds must hurt like hell, but he's pushing himself. Using the pain -- bathing in it -- maybe even hoping that it will hold some answer for him.

INT. FISHING BOAT GALLEY -- NIGHT

A chess board. Wooden pieces jumbled in a box. THE MAN hesitates -- takes a black knight from the box -- lingers for a moment -- and then places it on the board. He's off and running. He knows this. Placing pieces faster and faster -- still setting it up, as we --

INT. FISHING BOAT HEAD -- NIGHT

One of the ugliest bathrooms on the planet. THE MAN standing before a pitted, tarnished, cataract of a mirror. Staring at himself.

And then he speaks.

THE MAN
(in perfect French)
(I don't know who I am. Do you know who I am? Do have any idea who I am?)

And then he stops. Blinks. Wipes away the perspiration just beading on his forehead.

THE MAN
(in perfect Dutch) (Tell me who I am. If you know who I am, please stop fucking around and tell me.)

No answer. Just that face. His face. Who am I?

And what else is inside there?

EXT. FISHING BOAT -- DAY

SAILORS hauling in the nets. THE MAN -- still bandaged, but healing -- working beside them. Earning his keep. Getting healthy.

EXT. ITALIAN COASTLINE -- DAWN

A small, colorful fishing village. The trawler motoring in.

INT. THE FISHING BOAT BUNK ROOM -- SAME TIME

THE MAN buttoning up borrowed clothes. GIANCARLO pulling some cash from his pocket --

GIANCARLO
(offering the money)
It's not much, but it should get you to Switzerland.

THE MAN
I won't forget this.

GIANCARLO gives him a look. Shakes his head, and --

INT. POKEY ITALIAN TRAIN STATION -- DAY

The ticket window. THE MAN and a TICKET AGENT.

TICKET AGENT
Una sola via?

THE MAN
Si. One way. Una sola via.

EXT. TGV -- DAY

A HELICOPTER SHOT -- a bullet train speeds through snow-capped Alps. We move in on a window -- and staring out is...

INT. TGV TRAIN -- DAY

...THE MAN. People all around him -- families -- businessmen -- normal people going about their lives. THE MAN turns back to the window, but he's not watching the scenery -- he's looking at his reflection. So lost. His face suddenly plunged into darkness as the train bombs into a tunnel...

EXT. TRAIN -- NIGHT

...and out of the darkness into night and the HELICOPTER SHOT, as the train races toward ZURICH.

INT. CIA HEADQUARTERS CONFERENCE ROOM -- DAY

A VIDEO MONITOR -- FULL FRAME -- meet WOMBOSI. He's an African ex-dictator, think Idi Amin crossed with Mobutu. He's in some sort of throne room. And he's angry. Bodyguards and a translator hovering nervously around him. What this is, is NEWS FOOTAGE -- an interview conducted by a German TV station.

WOMBOSI

(he speaks english)

...no, no, no -- the time is not right, my enemies are too strong. I'm telling you to wait for this, you understand? I'm telling you this, and I'm making a warning to all those peoples out there that think that my powers have become so weak that they can play with me as they wish. You will see -- I will tell you when the evidence is clear. Then you will have a story. My old friends will hear about themselves.

(stopping, freezing on that image, and--)

MARSHALL, a CIA bigwig has the remote control. And the floor.

MARSHALL

That's Nykwana Wombosi speaking in Paris the day before yesterday. I'm sure most of you have a passing knowledge of Mr. Wombosi. Some of you on the African desks have worked with him over the years. Some of you very closely...

TWELVE CIA MANDARINS sitting around the table like kids in detention. We will tour the faces as MARSHALL continues, but the guy we're interested in is named WARD ABBOTT. Picture a sawier, slicker John Poindexter.

MARSHALL

...He was an irritation before he took power. He was a problem when he was in power. And he's been a disaster for us in exile.

(the tape--)
Wombosi likes to send us messages through the European media. This is an interview we pulled down from a local German television station in Dresden. We've been getting these little broadsides every couple of months. He knows this -- he knows that -- he's writing a book about the Agency's history in Africa -- he's going to name names.
It's basically a shakedown...

ABBOTT'S FACE says this is news to him. HIS HANDS suggest otherwise.

MARSHALL
This interview -- and I'll make the tape available for anyone who wants it -- he goes on to claim that he has just survived an assassination attempt. He says it's us. He says he's got proof.

(beat)
The overwhelming negative ramifications of this should be obvious.

(hard and dry)
The Director wants to know if there is any possible shred of truth in this accusation.

Long pause. No hands go up.

INT. ZURICH TRAIN STATION -- NIGHT

THE MAN wandering through the terminal. Passing A PIZZA PLACE closing up for the night.

THE MAN checks his funds. Just enough for one cold slice.

EXT. ZURICH STREETS -- NIGHT

THE MAN walking aimlessly.

EXT. ZURICH PARK -- NIGHT

THE MAN trying to get comfortable on a bench. It's chilly but this will have to do until morning.

Just settling in, when --

ZURICH COP #1 (OS)

(authority German)
(Can't you read the signs?)

THE MAN turns. TWO ZURICH COPS coming toward him.

ZURICH COP #2
(On your feet. Let's go. Right now.)

THE MAN makes his feet. They're on top of him now.

ZURICH COP #1
(The park is closed. There's no sleeping in the park.)

ZURICH COP #2
(Let's see some identification.)

THE MAN not sure what to do. Eyes moving. Mouth shut.

ZURICH COP #1
(Come on. Your papers. Let's go.)

THE MAN
I've lost them. I've.
(German now)
(My papers. They are lost.)

ZURICH COP #1
(not sympathetic)
(Okay. Let's go. Put your hands up.)

ZURICH COP #2
(pulling his nightstick)
(-- come on -- hands up -- up --)

THE MAN raising his hand slowly -- ZURICH COP #1 reaching up to pat him down --

THE MAN
-- look, I'm just trying to sleep
okay? --
(German again)
(-- I just need to sleep --)

ZURICH COP #2 has heard enough -- giving a sharp poke with the nightstick -- into THE MAN's back -- and that's the last thing he'll remember because --

THE MAN is in motion.

A single turn -- spinning -- catching COP #2 completely off guard -- the heel of his hand driving up into the guy's throat and --

COP #1 -- behind him -- trying to reach for his pistol, but THE MAN -- still turning -- all his weight moving in a single fluid attack -- a sweeping kick and -- COP #1 -- he's falling -- catching the bench -- trying to fight back but -- THE MAN -- like a machine -- just unbelievably fast -- three jackhammer punches -- down-down-down and -- COP #1 -- head slammed into the bench -- blood spraying from his nose -- he's out cold and --

COP #2 -- writhing on the ground -- gasping for air -- struggling with his holster -- THE MAN -- his foot -- down -- like a vise -- onto COP #2's arm -- shattering the bone -- COP #2 starting to scream, and then silenced because --

THE MAN -- he's got the pistol -- so fucking fast -- he's got it right up against COP #2's forehead -- right on the edge of pulling the trigger -- he is, he's gonna shoot him --

ZURICH COP #2
(gasping, pleading)
(-- no -- please God no -- please don't -- please no -- my Go--) (stopping as--)

THE MAN slams the gun against his temple and --

This fight is over.

THE MAN standing there. In the silence. Two unconscious cops at his feet. Blood on his pants. What just happened?
How did he do this? And there's THE GUN in his hand. And God, it just feels so natural -- checking it -- stripping it down -- holding it -- aiming it -- like this is something he's done a million times before...

This is something he definitely knows how to do.

And then he stops cold. Throwing down the gun. Running off into the darkness --

INT. TREADSTONE -- DAY

A deep, inner office. An ops office. Operations. Unlabeled and anonymous. A backwater project center hidden deep within the Langley facility. Utilitarian. Several rooms linked like a suite.

Small staff. SEVERAL TECHNICIANS. One or two for communications. A couple for research. People are at their posts. And it's all quiet. But they are busy. Quietly urgent. This is a place under siege.

ZORN is the number two here. Brilliant bloodless lapdog.
He's coming through the suite. Coming through quickly.
Heading toward the boss's little office at the back --

TED CONKLIN. Ivy League Ollie North. Buttoned down.
Square jaw. Everything tucked away. But there's tension in the air. Work on the desk. Cot in the corner.

CONKLIN
(looking up)
What?

ZORN
Abbott wants to talk.

CONKLIN
Tell him we're busy.

ZORN
I tried.

INT. CIA COMMISSARY -- NIGHT

ABBOTT with coffee. CONKLIN not lingering.

ABBOTT
Storm clouds are gathering, Ted.
It looks like rain and I don't have a thing to wear.

CONKLIN
I don't know what we're talking about.

ABBOTT
We're talking about Marseille.
We're talking about Nykwana Wombosi.
And I'm asking you if this abortion in Marseille has anything to do with Treadstone.
(silence)
Was this Treadstone?

CONKLIN
You're asking me a direct question?

ABBOTT
Yes.

CONKLIN
I thought you were never going to do that.

Silence. Pressure drop.

ABBOTT

They're putting together an agency oversight committee. They're going to look through everyone's budgets. Treadstone is a rather sizable line item in my ledger.

(beat)

What am I going to do about that?

CONKLIN

You'd want to make that go away. You'd want to remind them that Treadstone is a training organization. That it's all theoretical. You'd want to sign off on that.

ABBOTT

And what if I couldn't do that?

CONKLIN

Then I'd have to explain Treadstone. And you'd have to explain how you let me get this far.

(silence)

Doesn't sound like much of a Plan-B, does it?

(Abbott staring)

We'll clean up the field. You clean up your budgets.

EXT. ZURICH -- DAY

Morning in the financial district. Upscale. Uptight.

GEMEINSCHAFT BANK just one of many elegant fortresses on this street. Everything just now opening for business. TWO GUARDS unlocking the front door and --

THE MAN across the street. Tucked in the shadows. Checking for cops and trouble. Looks clear. He's walking and --

INT. BANK RECEPTION AREA -- DAY

Ornate, formidable and tech at the same time.

RECEPTIONIST

(Can I help you?)

THE MAN standing before her. Looking very out of place.

THE MAN
I'm here about a numbered account.

THE RECEPTIONIST nods. Pulls a pen and bank card.

RECEPTIONIST
(instant English)
If you'll just enter your account number here I'll direct you to the appropriate officer.

THE MAN takes the pen, as we --

INT. BANK SECURITY CHECKPOINT -- DAY

A BIO-METRIC SCANNER. A piece of ultra-tech amidst the Baroque. TWO SERIOUS BANK GUARDS manning the equipment.

THE MAN standing there, staring down at this machine.
Something ominously decisive about this. What if it's him?
What if it's not?

BANK GUARD #1
(they've been waiting)
(Your hand, sir...)

THE MAN focuses. Here we go -- BANK GUARD #2 guiding his open palm onto the mirrored scanning surface.

THE MAN catching his reflection for a moment before a wave of white light passes beneath his hand and now --

INT. BANK HALLWAY -- DAY

THE MAN being led by A THIRD GUARD to a special elevator.

INT. DEEPER INSIDE THE BANK -- DAY

Elevator doors open. THE MAN steps out. MR. APFEL -- anal Zurich banker -- waiting there.

APFEL
Good morning, sir. I assume you're here about your box.

THE MAN
...yes...
(what now?)
The box.

APFEL nods. Gestures down the corridor --

INT. BANK SAFETY DEPOSIT VIEWING ROOM -- DAY

Sterile and kind of odd. But total privacy. THE MAN sitting there, as A DEPOSIT GUARD places a large SAFETY DEPOSIT BOX before him. THE GUARD leaves the room. Closing the door behind him.

THE MAN is alone. And there it is, right in front of him. This is it. Here are the answers. He lifts the lid.

THE BOX. There's a shallow tray on top. In this tray: a beat-up passport in the name of Jason Bourne. A French driver's license with a Parisian address. Credit cards for Jason Bourne.

THE MAN. Holding these objects close -- as if by holding them he might absorb their essence. Forcing himself to believe. This is him. His picture. There it is. He's Jason Bourne.

BOURNE

My name is Jason Bourne.

(sounds good)

Hi, I'm Jason. Jason Bourne.

Jason Bourne, nice to meet you.

BACK TO -- THE BOX -- the shallow tray on top. There's Kleenex. Several sets of contact lenses. A knife. A comb. Three sticks of gum. A ring. A pair of sunglasses. A Rolex.

BOURNE setting these things aside. Lifting the top tray. Staring into THE DEEP BOTTOM TRAY and --

First of all...

MONEY. Lots of it. Ten thousand dollar stacks of hundreds. Lots of them. Close to a million dollars. There's A GUN. A very good gun. Several clips of ammo. And...

FIVE MORE PASSPORTS. All clean. Crisp. Brand new. All with his photo inside. Five different names. Three different Countries. Each one of these pristine passports clipped to a piece of card stock that says:

NAME:

NATIONALITY:

PLACE OF ISSUE:

SIGNATURE SAMPLE:

And a bar code.

Two Dutch passports. A French. A South African. A Belgian.

And...

There's one piece of card stock still with the paper clip in place. And no passport. This card reads:

NAME: John Michael Kane
NATIONALITY: U.S.A.
PLACE OF ISSUE: Paris, France
There's a signature sample.
And a bar code.
But no passport. This one is missing.

BOURNE sitting there. Trying to push his confusion away.

BOURNE
Bourne. My name is Jason Bourne.
I live at 121, Rue de la Jardin, Paris.

But there's something hollow about this. He came looking for one identity and now he's faced with six. The money... The gun...

Suddenly, it's all fucked up.

BOURNE into gear. Looking around the room -- there -- there's a pile of red canvas burn bags in the corner. BOURNE grabbing one -- stuffing everything into it -- everything except...

The gun. He doesn't want the gun. No guns.

INT. BANK SAFETY DEPOSIT OUTER AREA -- DAY

BOURNE is done. Handing the box back to THE DEPOSIT GUARD --

BOURNE
(I'm trying to think how long it's been since I was here.)

DEPOSIT GUARD
(I'm not sure. Must be three weeks.)

EXT. STREETS OF ZURICH -- DAY -- VARIOUS SHOTS

BOURNE exits the bank. The red bag full to its limit. He's walking briskly now. Looking for a taxi. Nothing in sight.

BOURNE crossing the street. Shit, there's A COP on the corner -- turn -- change pace -- make it look natural -- BOURNE around a corner. And it's looking good for a moment -- but only a moment -- TWO MORE COPS walking a beat -- walking this way -- turn -- cut -- cross the street --

BOURNE heading down a boulevard. Trying to look small. Pulse starting to race. Fighting the paranoia. Where the hell is a cab? Turning back fast as A SIREN starts bleeding in from behind him --

It's just an ambulance.

BOURNE turning back. Forcing himself to focus. And fuck -- there's A METER MAID, and she's stopped writing up a ticket -- she's staring at him and --

BOURNE trying not to panic -- don't run -- smile -- stay small -- get to the corner -- scan the options -- but --

THE METER MAID -- she's watching him go and she's pulling her radio and --

BOURNE hitting this next corner -- banging a right -- forcing himself not to run -- glancing back and --

THERE'S ANOTHER COP -- but this one is jogging -- searching -- he's got his radio out and --

FINALLY TO --

BOURNE bailing on the street -- disappearing into --

EXT. U.S. EMBASSY COMPOUND -- DAY

Big gates. Speed barricades. SEVERAL U.S. MARINES standing guard near a gate house. An American flag. Lots of people coming and going. BOURNE playing it as normal as possible as he heads for the entrance.

INT. U.S. CONSULATE ZURICH -- VISA ROOM -- DAY

The passport and visa office. Big room. No windows. Unpleasant on purpose. Two lines: A short one for U.S. Citizens, a marathon for everyone else. CONSULATE CLERKS stationed in open cubicles along the back wall. And it's a zoo. American tourists who've lost their passports. Foreigners looking for visas. Asylum seekers. Everyone here has a problem.

BOURNE on the U.S. line. Standing there trying to think. What's he gonna say? What can he say? With the cops outside, and the incident in the park, then the bank...

MARIE (O.S.)

-- no, this is not my current address. It was my current address two days ago when I started standing in line outside --

A NEARBY CUBICLE. Meet MARIE KREUTZ. German. Big energy. Real beauty hidden beneath the armor. And armor it is, because this is a warrior in full, crisis battlemode.

MARIE

-- and so now I lost my apartment,
I have no address, and I have no visa, and you keep telling me how much help you cannot give me!

A CONSULATE CLERK caught in her headlights.

CLERK

Miss Kreutz, please... I'm gonna have to ask you to keep your voice down.

MARIE

All the papers -- all the papers they asked for -- I brought all the papers --

CLERK

Miss Kreutz, excuse me, but you entered into a fraudulent marriage in an effort to circumvent the immigration laws of the United States --

MARIE

You only know that because I told
you!

(she's incredulous)

Ask the case officer -- find his name -- it's on the papers -- I told him all this myself! -- (tearing through the papers now--)

CLERK

-- it's not the source of the information that's important here --

MARIE

-- I paid this fucking guy -- I paid him four thousand dollars -- my last four thousand dollars to marry me, okay? -- I told this to the case officer last week...

(she's found it--)

...here -- Mr. Thomas. I told Mr.
Thomas I didn't know this guy was already married -- I admitted this!

CLERK

-- Miss Kreutz, please --

MARIE

-- I'm the one that got ripped off! -- not you -- not the United States government -- me -- I'm the one being ripped off!

CLERK

So now you're asking for a student visa?

That shuts her up. Yes. Today she's a student.

INT. CIA OFFICE COMPLEX -- NIGHT (BUT SAME TIME)

Motion -- CONKLIN racing down a staircase -- ZORN chasing after --

CONKLIN

-- and they're sure it's him? --

ZORN

-- he accessed the account --

CONKLIN

-- but it was him --

ZORN

-- yes, sir, it's confirmed --

INT. U.S. CONSULATE -- VISA ROOM -- DAY

BOURNE on line. Fear meter rising by the minute.

BOURNE'S POV

Scanning the room -- the perimeter -- the people -- A TURKISH MAN almost in tears as he tries to explain his case to a DESK CLERK -- TWO AMERICAN BACKPACKERS that have lost their passports -- MARIE still in the midst of her madness -- A SECURITY CAMERA high on the wall capturing everything -- lots of data -- too much going on and --

MAN ON LINE (OS)

(from behind him)

You're up.

BOURNE comes to. Shit. It's his turn.

A WOMAN CLERK waving him forward. BOURNE trying to think -- what the fuck is he doing? -- what's he gonna say? -- now he's at the window, and if he was looking for a friendly face, he came to the wrong place --

WOMAN CLERK
(cold shit)
You're a U.S. Citizen?

BOURNE
Yes.
(pause)
I mean, I think so. Yes. Yes...

WOMAN CLERK
Well, either you are, or you aren't.

BOURNE
Right.

WOMAN CLERK
You have your passport?

BOURNE
I have a passport. I've got...
(the bag there, but...)
Actually, it's a little complicated.

WOMAN CLERK
Do you have your passport, sir?

BOURNE
Look, maybe I should just...

WOMAN CLERK
Sir, you waited on line.

BOURNE
Yeah, I know...

But he's already bailing, walking away from the woman, the window, the room -- he's out of here --

INT. U.S. CONSULATE LOBBY -- DAY

BOURNE on the move -- hustling back toward the lobby -- trying to snag a view out to the street -- there's a window just ahead and --

BOURNE'S WINDOW POV -- ZURICH COPS -- outside -- on the street -- half-a-dozen of them lingering around the entry gate and --

BOURNE stalled for a moment -- options dwindling -- he can't go back to the passport office -- he can't go out the front and --

The lobby looks tough -- there are two other points of entry into the main building, but they're both guarded by MARINES and METAL DETECTORS --

As he gets closer -- it gets worse --

A ZURICH POLICE INSPECTOR near the door, in deep conversation with TWO MARINES and THE EMBASSY SECURITY OFFICER and --

BOURNE trying to burrow through the human traffic -- trying to get to THE LARGER OF THE TWO ENTRY GATES -- this one the farthest from the front door and the passport office corridor, and it's the most crowded -- A COUPLE PEOPLE lined up here -- waiting for one of THE THREE MARINES STAFFING THIS POST to check their bags and pass them through a metal detector and --

SECURITY CHIEF (OS)
-- stop! -- stop right there! --

BOURNE turns back -- as does everyone else in the lobby --

SECURITY CHIEF
(from across the lobby)
-- YOU -- red bag -- the red bag -- stop right there! -- hands up! --

BOURNE glancing back -- ONE OF THE GATE MARINES BEHIND HIM -- the guy's raising his M-16 --

GUN MARINE
-- you heard him -- let's move it! -- down -- let's go! --

BOURNE nodding -- total compliance -- starting to drop -- but only starting, because now --

He's swinging the backpack and --

THE GUN MARINE -- nailed -- blind-sided -- no chance and --

BOURNE -- all motion -- all forward -- all perfect -- vaulting the metal detector even as he pulls ONE OF THE PEOPLE ON LINE around to shield his back and --

ANOTHER GATE MARINE -- right there -- trying to grab him -- making his move -- BOURNE -- almost an afterthought -- his boot -- like a knife -- out of nowhere -- SNAP! -- the guy's arm just shattered and --

THE SECURITY CHIEF -- freaking out -- TWO MARINES WITH HIM -- they're raising their weapons and there's people in the lobby and --

SECURITY CHIEF
-- no -- no -- hold your fire! --

BOURNE -- landing hard on THE GUN MARINE -- rolling away from the gate -- into the building now -- coming up with the backpack and --

SOMEONE SCREAMING
-- he's got a gun! -- he's got a gun! --

And he does -- BOURNE with the M-16! -- coming up with it -- coming up on the move -- swinging it around as he searches for an escape route and THE GUN -- it's like a magic wand of hysteria --

PEOPLE IN THE LOBBY -- SCREAMING -- diving away -- everyone dropping for cover and -- BOURNE -- bailing -- on the run -- sprinting down a hallway -- tossing away the M-16 as he sprints into the building --

THE SECURITY CHIEF (frantic on his radio
now--)
-- red! -- red! -- red! -- code red! -- South side entrance! -- male -- five-ten, brown hair -- black jacket -- red bag --

INT. U.S. CONSULATE OFFICE HALLWAY -- DAY

Quiet for a second -- offices on either side of a carpeted hallway -- BUREAUCRAT-TYPES doing their thing, when suddenly --

BUREAUCRAT #1
Excuse me? Can I help you?
(but backing up as he says it, because--)

Here comes BOURNE -- coming fast -- and he definitely does not belong back here --

INT. U.S. CONSULATE LOBBY/SECURITY GATE -- DAY

Panic -- people fleeing the lobby -- MORE MARINES hustling in from outside and --

INT. U.S. CONSULATE FIRE STAIRWELL -- DAY

Door flies open -- BOURNE bombing in -- shit! -- it's a dead end -- no way out but up the stairs --

INT. U.S. CONSULATE GROUND FLOOR CORRIDOR -- DAY

SECURITY CHIEF -- THREE MARINES -- sidearms drawn -- jogging past the INNER OFFICES -- running beside them, a frantic guy in a suit --

DEPUTY DCM

-- what're you talking about? --

SECURITY CHIEF

-- we're evacuating the building --

DEPUTY DCM

-- we're in the middle of a trade meeting! --

SECURITY CHIEF

-- call the code! -- I want everyone out! --

DEPUTY DCM

-- you gotta give me more to go on --

SECURITY CHIEF

-- he's running from the cops, he's got a bag filled with God knows what, he's in the building and I don't know where! --

INT. U.S. CONSULATE BACK STAIRWAY -- DAY

BOURNE climbing fast -- two -- three -- stairs at a time -- racing up as a SECURITY ALARM STARTS SCREAMING -- bleet -- bleet -- bleet --

INT. U.S. CONSULATE FIFTH-FLOOR GRAND HALLWAY -- DAY

THE ALARM ringing everywhere -- TRADE CONFERENCEES -- sixty confused and frightened people -- spilling out into the corridor --

INT. U.S. CONSULATE FIFTH FLOOR KITCHENETTE -- DAY

A NEW DOOR flying open -- it's BOURNE -- ready for anything, but there's nothing -- he's in a butler's prep area off the main conference room -- momentum stalled for a moment -- nothing in here but tableclothes and silverware and coffee cups and --

INT. U.S. CONSULATE BACK STAIRWAY -- DAY

THREE MARINES -- armed and stoked -- staring up the stairs -- leapfrogging -- point-to-point assault procedure --

INT. U.S. CONSULATE MAIN STAIRS -- DAY

Carpeted and grand -- SECURITY CHIEF with FIVE MARINES NOW -- charging up -- pushing past THE PEOPLE trying to come down and --

INT. U.S. CONSULATE FIFTH FLOOR GRAND HALLWAY -- DAY

Completely clogged now -- PANICKED TRADE PEOPLE all over -- EMBASSY TYPES -- trying to herd them toward the main stairs -- everyone talking at once -- THAT ALARM STILL BLARING and --

VOICE (OS)

-- no! -- the other way! -- take the backstairs! -- the backstairs! -- he's on the other side -- there's a bomb! --

And as the crowd reacts -- as they mob back away from the main stairway -- we see -- holy shit, the guy yelling was BOURNE --

INT. U.S. CONSULATE BACK STAIRWELL -- DAY

THE ASSAULT MARINES -- still climbing -- weapons out -- clean and fast -- one more flight to go -- ready for anything -- completely freaking out as the door above them on the fifth floor flies open and --

LEAD MARINE

-- HALT! -- STOP WHERE YOU ARE! --

MARINE GUNS swinging up -- trigger fingers tense and --

IT'S TRADE PEOPLE! and now THEY'RE SCREAMING and this combined with THE ALARM and THE MARINES YELLING FOR THEM TO GET DOWN and ALL OF IT ECHOING THROUGH THE STAIRWELL and --

INT. U.S. CONSULATE MAIN CONFERENCE ROOM -- DAY

BOURNE -- he's CLOSING A DOOR behind him -- he's jamming A CHAIR -- wedging it in tight so the door won't open and --

INT. U.S. CONSULATE FIFTH FLOOR GRAND HALLWAY -- DAY

THE SECURITY CHIEF -- HIS MARINES -- coming from the main stairs -- weapons drawn -- fighting their way through the pandemonium and --

INT. U.S. CONSULATE MAIN CONFERENCE ROOM -- DAY

BOURNE scanning for options -- the room is huge -- empty now -- the massive conference table covered with the meeting papers left behind -- windows along one wall and --

BOURNE rushes to the window staring down and --

BOURNE'S WINDOW POV

Fifty feet below there's a courtyard -- it's a sheer drop -- completely fucked and --

INT. U.S. CONSULATE FIFTH FLOOR GRAND HALLWAY -- DAY

SECURITY CHIEF -- TWO MARINES -- just outside THE CONFERENCE ROOM DOOR -- trying it -- it won't budge and --

SECURITY CHIEF
-- blow it -- shoot it open! --

INT. U.S. CONSULATE MAIN CONFERENCE ROOM -- DAY

THE DOOR -- shattering -- eaten up by GUNFIRE! -- TAT-TAT-TAT-TATTAT-TAT-TAT-TAT! and --

WHAM! HERE THEY COME -- through the door -- guns -- eyes -- adrenaline -- everything ready and --

THE ROOM IS EMPTY!

EXT. U.S. CONSULATE BUILDING WALL -- DAY

BOURNE -- dangling fifty-feet above the stone courtyard! -- he's gone out the window! -- hanging there -- hanging with one hand -- one hand clutching the corner of a ledge and --

INT. U.S. CONSULATE MAIN CONFERENCE ROOM -- DAY

Utter confusion -- SECURITY CHIEF -- FIVE -- SIX -- SEVEN ARMED MARINES all piling in -- ready to rock but there's no one to shoot -- no target --

SECURITY CHIEF
-- check the closets! -- get those back doors covered -- there's a kitchen back there -- go! -- go! -- go!

TWO MARINES -- scanning the windows -- looking down and --

MARINE POV -- all clear -- no way he went down there and --

EXT. U.S. CONSULATE BUILDING WALL -- DAY

BOURNE still hanging there -- looking down -- up -- there's no choice -- he has to go down --

BOURNE finding a toehold below him -- reaching -- touching down -- it gives way -- crumbling and --

BOURNE hesitates. Does he know how to do this or not? Stalled for a moment, then...

BOURNE starts climbing down. And this is all one shot. No cutaway. No cheating.

We are watching a master at work...

Handhold to a drain pipe. Swinging to a better ledge.

Dropping to an air-conditioner. Grabbing a window frame just before the air-conditioner gives way. Teetering there. Now he's on the fourth floor.

Below, there's an open window on the third floor. Struggling to keep his balance, he reaches behind him to shift the weight of the bag, and as he does --

THE RED BAG falls. Thump. Into the courtyard. Forget the open window. Now he's got to go all the way.

Timing his next move and --

He's pushing off -- reaching -- there's another drainpipe and he's snagged it -- he's got a dragline now -- starting to fall -- straining to hold the pipe -- slowing his descent -- the drainpipe pulling away from it's housing and --

BOURNE letting go -- just before he falls backward -- one last grab -- catching a gutter -- holding it just long enough to slow his fall and --

Letting go for the last fifteen feet and --

EXT. U.S. CONSULATE FIFTH FLOOR GRAND HALLWAY -- DAY

A DOZEN MARINES -- pumped-up and listening to --

SECURITY

-- we're gonna go room by room until we find him -- so let's get teamed up --

EXT. AN ALLEYWAY NEAR THE U.S. CONSULATE -- DAY

MARIE storming away. Pissed-off -- broke -- illegal -- ruined and --

MARIE
(German)
(Motherfucking sonsofbitches!)
(a new problem--)

A LITTLE RED CAR. A beat-to-shit Euro car. A shitty little red car angled in beside a dumpster with a big red Zurich parking ticket on the windshield.

MARIE grabbing the ticket -- tearing it up -- tearing the shit out of it -- blind with misfortune -- throwing the pieces on the ground and stomping on them and then --

MARIE
(looking up--)
(What are you looking at?)

BOURNE standing across the car -- on the passenger side --

BOURNE
I need a ride.

MARIE
(What?)

BOURNE
I need a ride out of here.

MARIE
Oh, Jesus...
(backing away and--)

BOURNE
Please. I don't want to scare you.

MARIE
It's a little late for that.

BOURNE
I've got a situation here and --

MARIE
Get the fuck away from my car.

BOURNE

I'll give you ten thousand dollars to drive me to Paris.

MARIE

Great. You know what? I'll give you ten gazillion dollars to get the fuck away from me before I start screaming my head off.

BOURNE

You don't want the police any more than I do.

BOURNE tosses cash -- a stack of hundreds -- across the car into her hands -- she catches it. Looks at it.

MARIE

Jesus...

BOURNE

Get me out of here. Please.

MARIE looking at him. At the money. Back at him, and --

INT. TREADSTONE COMMUNICATIONS DESK -- NIGHT

VIDEO PLAYBACK -- FULL FRAME -- fast forward -- a speeding blur of images from a surveillance camera outside the Zurich bank -- it's two days worth of footage -- they're scanning for Bourne's arrival and --

CONKLIN

go -- keep going -- go...wait -- stop -- you went past it --

COM TECH #1 working the console. Freezing the image.
Punching it up. There it is -- BOURNE leaving the bank with the red bag.

CONKLIN

(staring at the monitor)
It's him. My God, it's really him...

ZORN the phones across the room. COM TECH #2 at his console --

COM TECH #2

-- we got a cross-ref ready to go here, sir, we're running hotel, airline, train, and medical variables, anything else you'd like?

CONKLIN

No...
 (still staring at Bourne)
Go ahead. Run it.
 (coming to--)
Let's get a map, let's get a grid map on Zurich.

ZORN

 (holding the phone)
Sir...

CONKLIN up from the console. ZORN waiting for him --

CONKLIN

What?

ZORN

Zurich police are looking for an American with a red bag. Apparently he put two cops in the hospital last night.

Silence. Like the floor just fell away. So heavy.

CONKLIN

What the fuck is he doing?

ZORN

Maybe it's a game. Maybe he's trying to send us a message.

CONKLIN

It doesn't matter now. We've just got to be the first ones there.
 (decision time)
Get everybody up. I want them all activated.

ZORN

All of them?

A moment between them. CONKLIN all steel here now.

CONKLIN

You heard me.

COM TECH #2

 (from the console--)
Sir, the cross-ref is coming up cold...

CONKLIN breaks away -- back to the console and --

EXT. BARCELONA RESIDENTIAL BOULEVARD -- DAY

Establishing shot. A grand house. PIANO MUSIC over this -- someone butchering a piece by Haydn and --

INT. BARCELONA GRAND HOUSE MUSIC ROOM -- DAY

Meet THE PROFESSOR. He's a piano teacher. Late fifties. Deceptively fit. He's sitting here, listening to a NINE-YEAR-OLD STUDENT struggle through the music.

And then, HIS E-PHONE PAGER starts pulsing -- hum -- hum --

INT. HAMBURG CONFERENCE ROOM -- DAY

A boring, marathon business meeting. FIFTEEN MIDDLE MANAGERS are trapped around a German sales presentation. Meet MANHEIM. Bald. Fifty. He looks dumb and piggy. Anything but. Sitting here --

And then, HIS E-PHONE PAGER starts pulsing -- hum -- hum --

EXT. A ROMAN CAF+ -- DAY

Meet CASTEL. He's thirty-five. Slender. Clean-cut. Easy to miss. He's here alone. Reading the paper. Sipping espresso.

And then, HIS E-PHONE PAGER starts pulsing -- hum -- hum --

EXT. A ROAD ON THE OUTSKIRTS OF ZURICH -- DAY

The little red car parked. MARIE pacing around. BOURNE poring over a map spread out opver the hood.

MARIE
So what's in Paris?

BOURNE
I want to go home.

MARIE
For twenty thousand dollars.

BOURNE looks back from the map.

BOURNE
I said ten thousand.

MARIE
You have blood on your pants.

BOURNE

Okay.

(beat)

Twenty thousand. Ten now. Ten there.

MARIE

No. No, that was too easy -- (pacing away--)

BOURNE

Wait up -- (after her now--)
-- just wait up --

MARIE

-- get the fuck out of here -- all this money, this crazy offer, I mean give me a fucking break with this, this is -- (stopping because--)

BOURNE just grabbed her. Both of them shocked that he's done this. He immediately pulls back.

BOURNE

Look, I want a ride to Paris.
(wide open now)
That's all I want. I swear.

MARIE

You swear?
(cold here)
That's great. I feel so much better now.

BOURNE

I don't want anything but a ride.
All I want to do is go home.

Silence now. She looks back. Measuring him.

MARIE

You could buy a car for twenty grand. You could buy this car.

BOURNE

I don't want to go alone. I want you to drive me to Paris. Like we're a couple. Like we're a couple and we're travelling together. That's all we're doing.

MARIE

And I don't get hurt. I get twenty thousand dollars and I don't get hurt.

BOURNE
I won't hurt you.

MARIE
What if I say no?

BOURNE
Then I'll find another ride.

EXT. ROME STREET -- DAY

CASTEL through the streets on a motorcycle. Whipping to a stop -- stepping off the bike in front of --

U-STORE-IT STORAGE WAREHOUSE.

INT. STORAGE WAREHOUSE ELEVATOR -- DAY

CASTEL and THE ELEVATOR OPERATOR -- rising slowly through the dark warehouse and --

INT. CASTEL'S STORAGE UNIT -- DAY

Darkness -- a key turning -- door opening -- light goes on to reveal CASTEL standing there and we're in -- CASTEL'S STORAGE UNIT. What's in here? Like nothing. Like a stack of old newspapers in the corner. Some mildewed books piled along one wall. Some shitty plastic chairs.

QUICK TIME CUTS

CASTEL working fast. Closing the door. Moving to the pile of books. Taking the top book off. Opening it.

INSIDE THE BOX -- a timer. A small bomb. A booby-trap. An LED light stops flashing as CASTEL'S HANDS code in his password and -- CASTEL moving to the newspapers stacked in the corner. Pulling away the top pile and --

A METAL LOCK BOX. Hidden here. CASTEL pulling it out. Opening it. An empty tray on top and -- CASTEL taking off his watch. Taking off his rings. Taking out his wallet. His Spanish passport. Emptying his pockets. All of this goes into the empty tray and --

CASTEL lifting away this top tray -- setting it aside and --

THE METAL LOCK BOX -- there's more -- a much larger bottom compartment -- and it's deja-vu all over again -- we're looking at the identical contents we saw Bourne find in the Zurich safe-deposit box.

First of all...

MONEY. Lots of it. Ten thousand dollar stacks of hundreds. Lots of them. A GUN. A very good gun. A dozen clips of ammo. And FIVE MORE PASSPORTS. All clean. Brand new. All with his photo. Five different names. Four different countries. Each one of these pristine clipped to a piece of card stock that says:

NAME:

NATIONALITY:

PLACE OF ISSUE:

SIGNATURE SAMPLE:

A BAR CODE:

Two Italian. Two Spanish. A Portuguese.

CASTEL going for the Portuguese passport and --

EXT. ALPS HELICOPTER SHOT -- DAY

The little red car driving through The Alps.

INT. THE RED CAR -- DUSK

BOURNE staring out the window. MARIE driving. Long silence until --

MARIE

Just so you know, if you're gonna burn me on the money, you might as well kill me.

(Bourne looks over)

I was supposed to have this car back three days ago. It's not my car.

BOURNE

I know that.

MARIE staring at him -- glancing back to the road -- just in time -- almost rear-ending a slow moving truck --

MARIE

Shit --

(trying to settle)

Can I tell you how much you're freaking me out? Okay? Because you are -- you're completely freaking me out.

BOURNE

I'm sorry. Really. What do you want me to do?

MARIE

I don't know. Smile. Sneeze. Something. You've got a bag full of money and a ride to Paris. Fuck it, I don't know...

(the radio)

What kind of music do you like?

BOURNE

I don't know.

MARIE

What does that mean?

BOURNE

Listen to what you want.

MARIE

(out of nowhere)

Who pays twenty thousand dollars for a ride to Paris?

There it is. And she wants an answer --

BOURNE

I don't know. I don't know who I am.

MARIE

Yeah, well, welcome to the club.

BOURNE

No. No, I mean, I really don't know who I am. I can't remember anything earlier than two weeks ago.

(it's not flying)

I'm serious.

MARIE

What? Like amnesia?

BOURNE

Look, go ahead...put the radio on...

MARIE

Amnesia?

(total incredulity)

You're saying you don't remember anything that happened before two weeks ago?

BOURNE
That's what I'm saying.

MARIE
(German)
(Give me a fucking break.)

BOURNE staring at her. She's furious. She's downshifting -- she's accelerating -- pulling out to pass the truck on a blind turn, as we --

EXT. ZURICH BANK -- DAY/DUSK

APFEL emerges from the bank. Leaving work. Turns the corner into a quiet side street and --

Up ahead, here comes another guy in a suit. It's MANHEIM walking toward us, deep into a cell phone conversation. Barely noticing Apfel as they get closer and --

As they pass -- MANHEIM -- it's completely out of the blue -- he's jabbing the cellphone down into Apfel's shoulder and --

APFEL -- no clue -- already clutching at the coronary exploding in his chest -- dead before his body hits the street and --

MANHEIM -- still walking -- he's never broken stride -- and as he goes he's fiddling with the cellphone and --

INSERT -- THE CELLPHONE -- MANHEIM'S HANDS working to retract a syringe into the device and -- MANHEIM striding away. Disappearing into Zurich...

INT. PARIS MORGUE -- NIGHT

Not the best morgue in town. Cold tile. A wall of freezers. Death lighting. Now add some color. Meet NYKWANA WOMBOSI in the flesh.

Meet HIS ENTOURAGE -- eight or ten of his thirty children -- two of his wives -- three of his bodyguards -- the whole crew spread out in this horrible basement room. THE WIVES are chatting. THE KIDS are playing, fighting and eating candy.

THE BODYGUARDS -- three of them here -- are white. These guys are French/Corsican mercs. Not quite the A-Team. The guy in charge of this ugly little unit is named DEAUVAGE. Into it. Too into it.

TWO MORGUE ATTENDANTS hanging back. THE MORGUE BOSS -- who's clearly suffering this for a bribe -- moves to one of the freezer lockers...

MORGUE BOSS
(French)
(Okay, Monsieur Kane...number 121...)

And he pulls open FREEZER #121. And thank God we can't see it, because whatever's inside there is clearly horrible. THE MORGUE BOSS barely takes a glance, standing back as quickly as possible.

DEAUVAGE -- lead bodyguard -- moves to clear a zone for his boss --

WOMBOSI
Get the fuck out of my way -- (pushing Deauvage aside--)

WOMBOSI moves to the freezer box. Stares down. As if it were nothing. He's seen -- he's made -- much, much worse. And now he reaches down into the box -- hands on -- literally feeling around this dead, awful corpse with his bare hands -- feeling around for something -- feeling and feeling and not finding --

WOMBOSI
(turning to Deauvage--)
It's not him.

DEAUVAGE looking pale as WOMBOSI slams shut the freezer.

WOMBOSI
(quiet hard fury)
So who's crazy now?

EXT. PARIS STREET -- NIGHT

A MINI-MOTORCADE driving towards Neuilly. Two security cars. A van full of kids and mothers. And one big Mercedes stretch.

INT. THE MERCEDES STRETCH LIMO -- NIGHT

WOMBOSI alone in the back. Looking haunted.

INT. TRUCKSTOP CAF+ -- NIGHT

It's a weird spot. Open all night. But Euro-style. Quiet tonight. A few Alpen-truckers chowing down. A local or two at the bar and --

BOURNE AND MARIE at a back table. Drinking coffee. He's got the red bag open. All the passports -- the personal junk -- the money -- all the shit from the Zurich bank box -- he's been showing it to her --

And he's got her attention now.

MARIE

And you have no idea -- not a clue -- what came before that?

BOURNE

No.

MARIE

When you think of it, before the ship -- before you wake up on the ship, what do you see?

BOURNE

Nothing. It's just not there.

MARIE

Well, this is great.

(she sits back)

I'm sick of myself and you have no idea who you are.

BOURNE

I kept trying things, I thought if I could find all the things I could do, I could --

MARIE

-- you could put it together --

BOURNE

-- which was okay for a while, I was okay with it...

(hesitating now)

But then -- there's all these other things -- all these other things I know how to do -- and this -- this stuff from the bank and...

(suddenly flat out--)

I think something bad happened.

MARIE

What are you talking about?

BOURNE

I don't know.

MARIE

Sounds like you were in an accident or something.

BOURNE

I was shot twice in the back.

MARIE

Okay, so you're a victim.

BOURNE

There was a gun. Who has a safe deposit box with a gun and all this money and all these passports?

MARIE

Lots of people have guns. You're American. Americans love guns.

BOURNE

I fought my way out of an embassy. I climbed down a fifty-foot wall -- I went out the window and I was doing it -- I just did it. I knew how to do it.

MARIE

People do amazing things when they're scared.

BOURNE

Why do I? -- I come in here -- instinctively -- first thing I do -- I'm looking for the exit -- I'm catching the sightlines -- I know I can't sit with my back to the door --

MARIE

You're paranoid. You were shot. It's natural.

She's not listening. He leans in. Flat out now.

BOURNE

I can tell you the license plate numbers of all three cars out front. I can tell you that the waitress is left-handed and the guy at the counter weighs two-hundred and fifteen pounds and knows how to handle himself. I know that the best, first place to look for a gun is the cab of that grey truck outside. I know that at this altitude I can run flat out for half a mile before I lose my edge.

I knew that you were my first, best option out of Zurich? How do I know all that? How can I know all that and not know who I am? How is that possible?

Long dead pause.

MARIE
God, you're not kidding, are you?

INT. TREADSTONE RESEARCH DESK -- DAY

BOURNE'S FACE -- a video image frozen on A COMPUTER SCREEN -- it's Bourne looking at the camera -- Bourne looking up at the camera in the consulate passport office
and --

PULL BACK TO REVEAL

HALF A DOZEN COMPUTER MONITORS -- and lots of shots of Bourne -- twenty angles -- twenty different locations -- twenty candid perspectives of Bourne and his mad scramble through the consulate --

CONKLIN and RESEARCH TECH #1 poring over these surveillance tapes downloaded from Zurich --

CONKLIN
And that's the best angle of the courtyard?

RESEARCH TECH #1
That's the only angle.

CONKLIN
What do they have on the streets?
The area. They must have something.

RESEARCH TECH #1
Hang on...
(typing away--)

CONKLIN rubbing at the tension in his temples as ZORN enters --

CONKLIN
What?

ZORN

Abbott. He knows about the embassy.
He's coming down for a show and tell.

CONKLIN
That'll solve all our problems.

RESEARCH TECH #1
(he's hit paydirt)
Sir...

CONKLIN
(turning back--)
What's that?

RESEARCH TECH #1
It's an angle of the street -- some sort of alleyway -- you can just...

CONKLIN
Enhance it.

INSERT -- THE MONITOR -- as the image enlarges to fill the screen. And there's Bourne. And the little red car. And Marie.

CONKLIN (OS)
Who the hell is that?

EXT. ZURICH AIRPORT HOTEL -- NIGHT

A drone barn. Practically on the runway.

INT. ZURICH AIRPORT HOTEL ROOM -- NIGHT

One of those rooms. Just a plain functional box. MANHEIM laying on the bed. Fully dressed. Suit and tie. Just laying there, staring at the ceiling. Who knows how long he's been like this.

Just waiting.

ON THE NIGHTSTAND -- A gun. A knife. His e-phone pager.
His fresh credentials. And a photo of Jason Bourne.

INT. WOMBOSI'S PARIS COMPOUND -- NIGHT

Quick orientation: Picture a heavily-walled palace just off the Bois Du Boulogne. But once inside you could be back in Brazzaville. It's just a buffet of oddness. Home to fifty children and nine wives. The decor blends money and nouveau riche materialism with a hard, back-home tribal esthetic. It's a visual treat. Not condescending or stupid, but flat-out strange and menacing.

It's late. And the palace is dark and sleepy now, but carry all that through this next series of quick shots --

WOMBOSI HOUSE SECURITY STATION

Just inside the door. BODYGUARD #1 slouched before a bank of SECURITY MONITORS.

WOMBOSI MAIN HALLWAY

Littered with toys. Children's crap everywhere. BODYGUARD #3. Snoozing on a Louis Quatorze chair draped with African cloth.

WOMBOSI THRONE ROOM DOORS

DEAUVAGE -- head bodyguard -- posted outside this imposing set of doors. He's trying to stay awake. Reading a spy thriller.

FINALLY TO

WOMBOSI'S THRONE ROOM

And there he is -- the emperor himself -- WOMBOSI on his throne. Except the room is dark and empty. And he's sitting there by himself. A king without a country.

Sitting there. With a gun in his lap. Drinking hard from a bottle of Jack Daniels.

Stewing.

EXT. FRENCH ROADSIDE -- DAWN

Beautiful morning. The red car parked along the road. BOURNE alone in the passenger seat. Deep asleep. Nestled there.

And then, he wakes suddenly. Starts. Freaked for a moment. Instantly feeling for the red bag. There it is in his lap. He looks around and --

MARIE sitting away from the car. She's got a loaf of bread. A soda. Smoking a butt. Same clothes, but her make-up's been washed away. Clean. Simple. Gorgeous.

BOURNE steps out. Morning legs.

MARIE
I needed a break.

BOURNE

Where are we?

MARIE

We're about an hour away.

BOURNE

I can't believe I slept.

MARIE

You were tired. Here...

(bread and soda--)

For twenty-thousand I like to throw in breakfast.

(he takes it)

So what do you dream about?

BOURNE

I dream I'm asleep. I dream that
I'm asleep and I can't wake up.

(he takes a hit from her smoke and coughs--)

I don't think I smoke.

Another silence. She's watching him.

MARIE

You ever think maybe you have a family?

BOURNE

I thought about it. I don't know.

She looks away. Was she hoping for another answer?

MARIE

I guess it's like Christmas every day for you, huh?

INT. TREADSTONE CONKLIN'S OFFICE -- DAY

MARIE'S FACE -- A PASSPORT PHOTO -- she's eighteen -- she's smiling -- really alive and fresh and --

CONKLIN behind his desk. ABBOTT staring grimly at the picture --

ABBOTT

Who is she?

ZORN

Marie Helene Kreutz. She's twenty-six. Born outside Munich. Father was a welder. He died in '91. We don't have the mother. There might be a step-sister, we're trying to track that down.

(apologetic)

It's tough. She's a wanderer. She pops up on the grid here and there but...I mean, the last time she paid an electric bill in Europe was '94. No taxes. No steady employer. She's got three arrests. Two shoplifting cases, one in Spain, one in Germany. And she actually did three months in an Italian detention center for credit card fraud.

ABBOTT

No political affiliations?

CONKLIN

She's a gypsy. If it's a cover, it's a great one.

ABBOTT

I'm assuming we're exploring that possibility.

CONKLIN

We're exploring every possibility.
(tighter by the moment)
We are in pursuit. How much more do you want me to tell you?

ABBOTT

Pursuit would indicate that you know exactly where he is.

CONKLIN

No. Pursuit ends when we know exactly where he is.

ABBOTT

Yes, well, I think we need some fresh eyes on this problem. I'm bringing in some people from upstairs.

CONKLIN hesitates. Inside he's screaming.

CONKLIN

We've been down here for two weeks banging our heads against the wall. We've been sleeping down here. We just got our first lead fourteen hours ago, and now? -- now that we finally have something to work with -- you want to bring planning personnel down here?

(real steam)
I'd rethink that.

ABBOTT
I want a second opinion.

CONKLIN
This is an operations desk.

ABBOTT
I'm not asking.

EXT. PARIS STREET NEAR BOURNE'S APARTMENT -- DAY

THE LITTLE RED CAR cruising through town.

INT. THE LITTLE RED CAR -- DAY

MARIE driving. BOURNE checking building numbers as they pass --

BOURNE
Slow down. No, don't stop. Just...

MARIE
(looking over)
That's it? Is that it?

AN APARTMENT BUILDING. Big building. Elegant but cold.

BOURNE
Four-fifty. That's the address...

MARIE
Looks familiar?

BOURNE
No.
(staring back as they pass--)
No. Go around. Keep going...

MARIE pulling up -- turning a corner -- watching him as she does. But he's pre-occupied -- eyes scanning -- taking it all in --

MARIE
Where?

BOURNE

Yeah. Pull in here. Park it.

MARIE angles into an alleyway. Cuts the engine.

MARIE

So this is it, right?

BOURNE

I guess.

Dead pause. She's waiting. He's still scanning the street.

MARIE

I should go.

BOURNE

I don't remember any of this.

MARIE

Jason...

He turns back. She's staring at him.

BOURNE

Sorry. The money, right?

Before she can say anything, he's digging in the backpack. He pulls out another stack of hundreds. Hands it over. She takes it. It's not what she wanted, but she's used to being disappointed. Fighting it.

MARIE

Okay, so...

BOURNE

Thanks for the ride.

MARIE

Anytime.

Silence. That moment. He focuses. Getting it.

BOURNE

Look, I don't know what's up there.

MARIE

You got me pretty fucking curious.

BOURNE

Look, you could come up. Or you could wait if you want. I could go check it out. You could wait.

MARIE

Nah...

(hide the pain)

With you, I mean, you'd probably just forget about me, right?

BOURNE

How could I forget about you?

(he smiles)

You're the only person I know.

MARIE smiles. We've never seen it before. Worth waiting for.

INT. PARIS APARTMENT BUILDING FOYER -- NIGHT

BOURNE and MARIE standing at the directory. Five apartments.
One per floor. Five names. A buzzer. An intercom. There it is.

J. Bourne.

BOURNE presses the buzzer. After a moment, he presses again.
Nothing.

MARIE

I guess you're not home.

BOURNE checking the door. How to pop it open? Just about to get into it, when --

CONCIERGE (OS)

(from the shadows

inside--)

(Monsieur Bourne...I'm coming...)

THE CONCIERGE is sixty. Plump and proper.

CONCIERGE

(opening the door--)

(Mr. Bourne, there you are -- I was wondering -- I haven't seen you --)

BOURNE

(Here I am.)

THE CONCIERGE looking at BOURNE like maybe she's never seen him look like this before. And she's looking at MARIE like here's the reason her tenant looks like such shit.

BOURNE

(he tries a smile)

(I seem to have lost my key.)

THE CONCIERGE nods. Instant chilly disapproval.

CONCIERGE

(I've been ringing your bell. It's good you were away. We had some trouble with the hot water. It's been repaired.)

BOURNE

(Great. We could use a shower.)
(they look like

shit--)

(It was a long drive.)

THE CONCIERGE steps aside and --

INT. PARIS APARTMENT FIFTH FLOOR LANDING -- DAY

BOURNE and MARIE at the apartment threshold. He has a key now.

Turning it. And the door opens...

Nothing...

No bombs. No wife and kids. No one.

INT. PARIS APARTMENT -- DAY

A huge, rambling flat. Large entry hallway. Large rooms beyond that. It's obviously expensive. But cold. Completely impersonal. No photographs. No mementoes. No human history.

WE'RE MOVING NOW

THE LIVING ROOM

BOURNE and MARIE exploring.

MARIE

It's big.

BOURNE silent. Struggling to get a feel for the place.

MARIE (CONT'D)

This is like a real apartment.

(she likes it)

This is really yours?

BOURNE

I guess so.

MARIE taking it in fast. BOURNE seems paralyzed. Trying to soak it all in. Willing himself home. Touching things as he passes. As if a texture, a smell -- something will become familiar. He's deep into this as we go to --

THE BEDROOM

MARIE in the doorway. Checking it out. It's so clean and simple. But it's not the decor she's most interested in...

MARIE opening an armoire...

Nothing but men's clothes. No competition. She's feeling better by the moment as we go to --

THE KITCHEN

Like a stage set. Lots of props and no sign of food. BOURNE picking up a frying pan.

 BOURNE
This is my frying pan.
 (and then--)
This is my spoon.
 (trying harder)
I'm Jason Bourne and this is my kitchen.

THE MASTER BATHROOM

MARIE still on the prowl. Mirror city. Big tub. One toothbrush.

AN OFFICE STUDY

There's a desk. Chair. Phone. Basic. BOURNE with a folder in his hand. Staring at the bookshelves. Binders, reference materials and hardbound volumes -- all of it about maritime law. Ship schedules. Registry catalogs. All about boats.

 MARIE
This is your office?
 (from the doorway)
God, you live like a monk...

 BOURNE
All this stuff -- it's all about boats.
 (looking up)
I think I'm in the shipping business.

MARIE

See. It's starting to come back,
yeah?

(he sort of nods)
You mind if I take a bath?

BOURNE

Go ahead.

MARIE backs out. BOURNE alone again. Standing there for a moment. Dealing with it.

And then he sits down in a chair.

BOURNE sitting there. Staring. The room, the desk -- it's all so devoid of personality. And then, something catches his eye and -- INSERT -- THE DESK TOP -- a faint silhouette through the dust and grime. Outlines of where a computer used to sit.

BOURNE reaching suddenly under the desk. Bingo. Pulling out a retractable computer keyboard tray. But it's empty. No keyboard. Now he's really confused and --

INSERT -- A PHONE/ANSWERING MACHINE -- BOURNE pressing the playback button and --

PHONE MACHINE

"You have no messages."

BOURNE leaving that for a moment -- about to anyway -- and then he turns back -- new idea -- pressing for the speaker phone -- and then hitting redial and --

THE PHONE stars dialing...

RINGING and...

OPERATOR/PHONE

Bonjour, Hotel Marboeuf...

BOURNE quick grabbing the receiver. Taking it off speakerphone and --

BOURNE

...yes -- oui -- uh...

OPERATOR/PHONE

(Yes, sir. Hotel Marboeuf, Paris.
How can I direct your call?)

BOURNE

Paris?

OPERATOR/PHONE

Yes, sir...

(switching to English, thinking that's his problem--)

How can I help you?

BOURNE

Yes, I'm...I'm looking for Mr.
Jason Bourne.

OPERATOR/PHONE

One moment, please...

(a long pause, and
then--)

I'm afraid, I have no one by that name registered, sir.

BOURNE

D'accord... Merci.

(about to hang up--)

Un moment -- un moment --

OPERATOR/PHONE

-- sir? --

BOURNE

-- hang on -- I need you to check another name for me -- hang on -- un moment, s'il vous plait --

BOURNE grabbing the backpack -- tearing through it -- where is it? -- where is it? -- shit and money falling out and --

There it is -- from the safe-deposit box -- that piece of card stock -- the one with no passport attached to it --

BOURNE (CONT'D)

(reading it)

Kane. Do you have Mr. John Michael Kane?

OPERATOR/PHONE

One moment, sir.

BOURNE waiting. And then there's muzak -- holding music and --

THE MASTER BATHROOM

Water running in the tub. MARIE pulling off her boots.
Checking the temperature.

THE OFFICE STUDY

Bourne still on hold. And then --

MANAGER/PHONE
(a new voice suddenly) Bonjour? Monsieur? Allo...

BOURNE
Yes, I'm here...

MANAGER/PHONE
You call about Monsieur Kane? John Michael Kane?

BOURNE
Yes. Is he there?

MANAGER/PHONE
You are a friend of his?

BOURNE
Yes.

MANAGER/PHONE
I have some very bad news for you, sir. I'm terrible sorry to have to tell you this, but Monsieur Kane has passed away almost two weeks ago...

Silence. BOURNE is rocked. But the Manager, it's natural, he interprets the silence as grief...

MANAGER/PHONE
There was an accident. On the motorway. Apparently, he was killed instantly. Really, I'm terrible sorry to be the one to tell you this...

BOURNE
...I understand...

MANAGER/PHONE
...we actually, we were unaware for several days that this had happened.
When they came for his things, it was made known for us, you see?

BOURNE

Who? Who came?

MANAGER/PHONE

His brother. You know his brother?

BOURNE

Right. Yes. Of course.

MANAGER/PHONE

It's very bad this. Terrible sad.
Such a young man.

BOURNE

Do you -- his brother -- do you have a phone number?

MANAGER/PHONE

I think not...

(quick French to someone in the office
there--)

No, I'm sorry. It was very sudden.
He was here very briefly.

BOURNE just hands up the phone. Just like that. Not even goodbye. Standing there frozen. Stunned. John Michael Kane is dead. And he had the passport.

Suddenly, everything's changed. They shouldn't be here.
This is bad. Danger.

THE MASTER BATHROOM

MARIE playing with her hair in the mirror. Checking the water --

MARIE

(calling out to him--)
She wasn't kidding about the water.
It's freezing.

THE OFFICE

BOURNE frozen there. On alert. He forces a smile. Decoy mood.

BOURNE

Hang on. I'll check the kitchen...
(moving out of the office--)
Maybe it takes a while to get all the way upstairs.

THE KITCHEN

BOURNE moving to the sink. He's smiling. Upbeat. But it's an act. His eyes are everywhere. Turning on the water. But ignoring it. What he's really doing is searching out a weapon. Pulling A KNIFE very quietly from behind the stove. Holding it. Feels pretty comfortable. Hiding it down by his side. On the move again, now --

BOURNE
Yeah, it's cold in here, too...
(calling to her as he goes--)
Let's give it another minute.

BOURNE like we've ever seen him. Like an animal. Every sound -- every breeze -- everything carries information.

Standing still. Taking it all in.

Real quick layout -- there's big windows along one wall that face out to the street below. The hallway to the bedroom and bath feeds into the living room from one side. There is a large frosted airshaft window along that hallway wall. Simple furniture.

MARIE
(suddenly--) -- omigod! --
(she's behind him--)
-- what're you? -- no -- no --

MARIE backing away -- completely freaked -- BOURNE standing there with the knife in his hand and --

BOURNE
-- no -- Marie -- no! -- it's not like that --

MARIE
-- please -- Jason -- omigod --

BOURNE
-- quiet -- quiet --

MARIE -- frightened -- confused -- paralyzed for a moment --

BOURNE glancing back -- a curtain fluttering behind him -- motioning for MARIE to get down -- do it -- now -- down!

MARIE hesitating and --

BOURNE -- what's he doing? -- he's unscrewing a lightbulb from a lamp beside him and --

MARIE about to say something -- he shakes her off --

BOURNE -- knife in one hand -- lightbulb in the other -- putting his foot on a chair in front of him and --

MARIE
...what are you doing?...

BOURNE waving her to shut up -- crawl -- now -- back up -- get under the window -- go! --

MARIE -- he seems so sure -- it's weird, but she's doing it -- she's under that frosted window -- down below the sill -- looking back -- what the fuck is he doing now? --

BOURNE -- the lightbulb -- he's tossing it across the room -- over her head -- into that frosted window and --

As she ducks down --

As it SHATTERS --

EVERYTHING STARTS HAPPENING AT ONCE

PHFT!-PHFT!-PHFT!-PHFT!-PHFT!-PHFT! -- silenced automatic weapons fire -- raking into the apartment and --

THE FROSTED WINDOW peppered with holes and --

MARIE on the floor as THE WINDOW SHATTERS above her and --

CASTEL -- he's in the airshaft! -- hanging from an abseil rope -- but off guard -- FIRING BLIND -- strafing the apartment and --

BOURNE kicking that chair across the room and --

CASTEL reacting -- instinct -- moving target --

THE CHAIR just strafed to shit and --

BOURNE rolling away and --

CASTEL -- he's coming in -- last pieces of window frame CRASHING AWAY as he swings into the apartment and --

MARIE -- right below him -- shit raining down as he flies in
and --

BOURNE throwing the knife and --

CASTEL -- turning -- too late -- the knife catching him in the neck and --

BOURNE -- in motion -- attacking and -- CASTEL -- knife impaled in his neck -- clawing for it with one hand -- trying to get off a shot and --

APARTMENT WALL -- PHFT!-PHFT!-PHFT!-PHFT!-PHFT! -- gunfire tearing wildly around the room and --

BOURNE -- full-stop -- kicking the gun -- kicking it up -- ROUNDS TEARING ACROSS THE CEILING and --

MARIE -- SCREAMING NOW -- trying to crawl away and --

CASTEL -- no chance -- off balance -- BOURNE -- his open palm driving up into CASTEL'S JAW -- the body wants to fall backward, but BOURNE has the guy's arm in his free hand -- jerking it like rope -- tearing it from it's socket and --

THE GUN CLATTERING FREE across the floor and --

BOURNE -- his knee -- like a piston -- hard into CASTEL'S GUT -- and then down -- his foot -- down into CASTEL'S KNEE, shattering it and --

CASTEL is on the floor -- stunned -- wiped -- knife pouring blood from his neck -- arm hanging like a rag doll -- bone torn through his pant leg above the knee and -- omigod -- omigod -- what're you doing? -- what're you doing? --

MARIE

(incoherent fear and confusion, German and English and--)

-- what is he? -- what've you? -- omigod -- what is this? --

BOURNE ignoring her -- grabbing the guy's backpack --

MARIE (CONT'D)

-- what're you doing? -- Jason, please, tell me what's happening!

BOURNE

Open it --

(tossing Castel's backpack behind him--)

-- do it -- what's he got in there?

CASTEL -- eyes wild -- tries to make his feet --

BOURNE (CONT'D)

Who are you?

(kicking him down--)

-- who are you?

CASTEL -- crablike against a wall -- bloody hands leaving a mess as he struggles to get to his feet --

BOURNE

-- who are you? -- tell me who you are -- who sent you? --

(bearing down)

-- what is this about? -- YOU'VE GOT TO TELL ME WHAT THIS IS ABOUT! --

CASTEL -- staring back -- eyes wild -- mouth shut -- his expression -- is it terror or pure steel? --

BOURNE (CONT'D)

WHY ARE YOU TRYING TO KILL ME?

MARIE

(suddenly from behind)

...omigod, no...

MARIE -- the guy's backpack -- something in her hand -- and as freaked out as she was a moment ago -- this is worse --

BOURNE

What? -- what? --

(attention split--)

-- what is it?

MARIE

...this is my picture... he's got my picture --

(holding it up, in horror--)

-- this is me -- this is Zurich -- this...this...this is yesterday --

BOURNE

-- just --

MARIE

-- where does this come from? --

(to Castel)

How do you have my picture?

BOURNE

Marie, just --

(waving her back--)
-- just stay there! -- just --

MARIE
-- he's got my picture! -- this is yesterday! -- this is me! -- (out of control now--)
-- where did you get my picture? --

BOURNE
-- let me do this, okay? --

MARIE
-- do what? -- what are you doing? -- he's got my picture -- (just apoplectic--)
-- he's -- my God -- look at him -- he's bleeding to death -- my picture -- look! -- he was trying to kill us! -- omigod --

Now there's KNOCKING AT THE DOOR and --

THE CONCIERGE
(muffled but urgent) (Mister Bourne! Mister Bourne!
What's going on? Is everything all right in there? --) (and she keeps banging and--)

MARIE is past the point of rationality and CASTEL is bleeding and shaking and BOURNE is trying to think and it's just impossible and --

Suddenly -- CASTEL is moving! -- and fast -- it's superhuman -- unbelievable -- just enough spring in his good leg and --

BOURNE bracing himself but --

CASTEL isn't attacking! -- he's running away -- he's crossing the living room -- but there's nowhere to go -- absolutely nowhere -- except --

THE WINDOW

CASTEL hurling himself into the glass and --

EXT. THE PARIS APARTMENT BUILDING -- DAY

WINDOW SHATTERING! -- CASTEL -- in a cloud of broken glass -- sixty feet above the street --

Falling and falling and...

IMPACT! -- landing on the roof of a parked car and --

INT. THE PARIS APARTMENT -- DAY

THE APARTMENT -- BOURNE in motion -- five things at once -- checking the window -- kicking the gun away -- grabbing the red bag -- grabbing what he can -- no time to spare and --

THE CONCIERGE
(still outside the door--)
(--I'm calling the police, Mr.
Bourne -- you give me no choice --
I'm calling them right away! --)

BOURNE
-- your shoes -- Marie! -- where? -- where are your shoes? -- Marie --

MARIE standing there in utter shock -- paralyzed -- the picture in her hand -- the broken glass -- all of what just happened --

MARIE
He's dead isn't he?

BOURNE
Marie -- look at me -- there's no time for this --

MARIE
He went out the window -- why? -- why would someone do that?

BOURNE
-- we can't stay here -- I can't stay here -- it's not safe here --

MARIE
He came to kill us.

BOURNE
-- we can go -- I can get us out of here -- but we have to go now --

MARIE
You knew he was coming.

BOURNE
No.

MARIE

I trusted you.

BOURNE

You're wrong. I didn't know.

MARIE

I don't trust anybody and I trusted you!

BOURNE

I didn't know this would happen.

MARIE

He had my picture! He knew I was here! He came here to kill us!

BOURNE

And where is he now?

(that gets her quiet)

You believe what you want, but I'm telling you the truth -- I never would have brought you here if I thought it was dangerous.

MARIE

(totally overwhelmed)

Oh, Jesus...

BOURNE

You stay -- if you want, you stay -- it's okay -- it's better -- maybe it's better -- I don't know --

(starting to back away--)

But I can't stay here. I can't.

MARIE

But the police --

BOURNE

-- there's no time --

MARIE

-- we'll explain it --

BOURNE

-- how? --

MARIE

-- there's two of us -- we'll tell them -- we'll just --

BOURNE
-- forget it --

MARIE
-- we'll tell them what happened --

BOURNE
I don't know what happened!
(huge here)
I don't know who he is! I don't know what he wants! I don't even know who I am! The only thing I know is that if I stay here, I'm never gonna find out!

BOURNE -- that's it -- grabbing the backpack -- pulling it on -- just about to make his move --

She's standing there. Just utterly swamped. Lost.

BOURNE (CONT'D)
Come with me.
(she turns back, he's waiting--)
I can get us out of here. I know it. Then we can think. Then we can work it out. We'll explain it then. Once we're safe.
(rock solid)
I can protect you.

EXT. THE PARIS APARTMENT BUILDING -- DAY

A CROWD is gathered around CASTEL'S BODY. Rubberneckers and people pointing up to the broken window -- THE CONCIERGE running out to the street and getting the news and THE SOUND OF SIRENS bleeding in from the distance and --

THE CAMERA PULLS BACK TO FIND

THE LITTLE RED CAR pulling out of the alley. Turning away from the scene. Disappearing into the streets of Paris --

INT. WOMBOSI COMPOUND MAIN HALLWAY -- DAY

THRONE ROOM DOORS flying open -- WOMBOSI exploding out into the hallway --

WOMBOSI
-- No! -- I say, no! -- they go this far -- out a body in the grave -- another body! -- no! -- this isn't over -- these people are not finished -- nothing will make them finish until they have Wombosi! -- the real Wombosi -- until I'm the one in the box! --

SIX KIDS -- TWO WIVES -- THREE BODYGUARDS -- all startled by this steamrolling mass of energy and paranoia --

WOMBOSI
-- what are you doing? -- (bearing down on Bodyguard #2--)
-- sleeping? --
 (to Deauvage--)
-- he's sleeping! -- this man is sleeping at his post! -- (kicking the chair out from under him--)
-- I've had men killed for this! -- (but he's still moving--)
-- you think these people? -- these people who come for me -- you think they sleep? -- they never sleep! -- they spend all the day -- all the night -- all time thinking about how to put Wombosi in that box! -- (he's just gonna keep going, and we're into--)

A MASSIVE ONE-TAKE TRACKING SHOT

DEAUVAGE on his feet -- racing to follow -- KIDS scattering out of the way -- THE WIVES completely unfazed and --

WOMBOSI
-- there is no box for Wombosi! -- they don't have a box that can hold me! -- I know these people -- I know they never sleep! -- I know they never stop! -- they never stop until the knife is at their throat! --
 (suddenly distracted--)
-- what is the window? -- this window is open! -- who leaves this open! -- (before Deauvage can possibly respond--)
-- this is a war, you fool! -- you think these people are like you? -- you think this is stupid people? -- careless people? -- these people see an open window, they reach in with a big hand and grab your heart until you die! -- (still rolling as--)

WE'RE HEADING DOWN TO THE POOL

 WOMBOSI
-- and it won't just be me! -- they don't just want Wombosi now! -- they want my babies -- they want my children! -- and I say no! -- (grabbing Deauvage--)
-- you leave that window open again, you better pray they kill me -- (something's caught his ear in the distance and now he's trying to get there--)
-- everything changes here now! -- everyone is a soldier here now! -- this is a fortress now! Are we clear with this?

 DEAUVAGE
Yes, sir. All clear.

WOMBOSI stops to look at DEAUVAGE. In the background, we can hear A CHILD CRYING by the pool --

 WOMBOSI
This man is out there. Kane is out there. And they pretend he's dead.
That means he's coming back.

WOMBOSI moving quickly now and WE'RE STILL TRACKING -- taking him into --

THE POOL AREA

FORTY KIDS going nuts in the water. ONE KID crying.
WOMBOSI like a shot -- picking the kid up -- drying his tears -- making a funny face -- getting a smile as --

INT. GARE DU NORD -- DAY

BOURNE and MARIE stash the red bag in a locker.

INT. CIA PSYCHOACOUSTICS LAB -- DAY

AN ELECTRONICS CONSOLE. Super-tech. Meters -- LEDs -- wave-form analyzers -- audio spectrum filters -- all of this gear dancing and responding to every nuance of --

BOURNE'S VOICE -- OVER SPEAKERS -- we're listening to a recording of the call he made from the apartment to the Hotel Marbeouf Paris --

BOURNE/TAPE

"Okay. Merci."

(pause)

"Un moment -- un moment --"

OPERATOR/TAPE

"-- sir? --"

BOURNE/TAPE

"-- hang on -- I need you to check

another name for me -- hang on -- un moment, s'il vous plait --"

PULL BACK TO REVEAL

A secret studio buried deep in the Langley facility. Equipment up the ass. Five people in this darkened room: AN ENGINEER working the board. CONKLIN looking sour. ZORN in the shadows. ABBOTT sitting there waiting for analysis from -- MRS. DOYLE. She's late sixties. A long-time spy shrink. An eminence. A diamond-hard, seen-it-all intelligence.

BOURNE/TAPE

"Kane. John Michael Kane."

OPERATOR/TAPE

"One moment, sir."

MRS. DOYLE nods to THE ENGINEER. She's heard enough.

MRS. DOYLE

He's not lying. He's very highly stressed, but he's not lying. He's confused. He's aggressively searching for a way out of the chaos. This conversation, the video from the consulate -- the body language, vocal pattern -- it's my sense he's really lost here.

(beat)

I think he snapped.

CONKLIN

Is that a medical term?

She turns. Battle lines drawn.

MRS. DOYLE
You want clinical terminology?
It's called, "conversation hysteria."

(to Abbott now--)
I don't know exactly how you train these people. I'm not sure I want to know. I'll take a guess there's some extremely rigorous behavior modification going on here.

Silence. The idea dangling for a moment.

ABBOTT
Let's assume that's true.

MRS. DOYLE
You can only wind people so tight.
Even machines break down.

CONKLIN
This unit has an unblemished record of success.

MRS. DOYLE
Then I guess I'm in the wrong meeting.

EXT. BELLVILLE CAR PARK -- DUSK

BOURNE and MARIE stashing the red car.

INT. CIA HALLWAY UPSTAIRS HALLWAY -- DAY

ABBOTT and CONKLIN walk and talk. They want to get loud, but they can't. Too many people passing by --

CONKLIN
That was two hours -- two hours to get a second opinion -- and nothing changes. He's loose. He's out of control. It's very clear what needs to happen.
(point blank)
I have work to do.

ABBOTT
What if he is working for someone else? What if he turned?

CONKLIN

Turn? To who? Where does he turn?
What does he have to offer? He's got nothing. He's a killer. He's a piece of equipment for crissake.
Where's he gonna turn?

EXT. HOTEL DE LA PRIX -- NIGHT

Funky. Out of the way. Cash and carry. No-questions-asked kind of flop. Our establishing shot somehow includes THE PROPRIETOR and HIS DOG.

INT. THE HOTEL ROOM BATHROOM -- NIGHT

HAIR DYE washing down a rusted drain. It's MARIE alone in this crappy little bathroom. Jeans and bra. All of it soaking wet.

A new hair color.

A MIRROR. There she is. Her turn to stare at herself and wonder.

And then she smells something. Smoke...

INT. THE HOTEL ROOM -- NIGHT

It's a shitty little room. BOURNE sitting on the bed. And the smoke is coming from...

HIS PASSPORT -- the Jason Bourne passport -- on fire.
BOURNE holding it as it burns away. Bourne's face -- melting -- bubbling -- finally disappearing, -- BOURNE letting go just before it burns his fingers and --

BOURNE sits back. And there's MARIE standing there. And she's holding out her passport --

He looks at her. Big moment.

BOURNE

No.

(he won't do it)

You know who you are. You know what that's worth? That's everything.

(pause)

I can't live like this. I can't do anything until I know who I am.
Believe me, you don't want what I have.

He looks away. Silence. And then, she touches him. His shoulder.

BOURNE almost recoils. Almost. He doesn't know what to do. Doesn't know how to react.

MARIE in front of him now -- she's taking his hand -- and he hesitates -- looking at her -- is this happening? -- she's taking his hand -- moving it down her body -- staring at him -- both of them silent -- his hand -- her skin -- his mind racing -- he wants this -- wants it in every way -- but it's overwhelming -- when was the last time something like this happened? -- he can't remember -- he doesn't care -- he's pulling her toward him -- and they're kissing -- and you know the rest...

INT. CDG AIRPORT -- NIGHT

THE PROFESSOR arriving in Paris. Coming through the terminal as his pager goes off -- never even stopping as he reads and --

.....

HOTEL SEQUENCE -- SKETCHED ONLY

HOTEL MARBOEUF PARIS. This is the place that answered the phone when Bourne hit redial in his apartment. This is the place that John Michael Kane was staying when he "died."

And so begins, the investigation...

Now, since the presence of danger -- ie Wombosi's guys and/or Treadstone -- is still up in the air, and since this scene could either play very quickly or very long, and since we're not exactly sure where we stand with page count -- this scene is not finished.

The rules of the scene, however, seem to be thus: Bourne would have to be very nervous about being recognized. If he was Kane and Kane stayed here, he's not the guy to do whatever "social engineering" needs doing.

Long version? Bourne sets the table and Marie gets the goods. Somehow there's a threat from Treadstone or Wombosi.

Fast version? It's all results -- we see them execute a plan rather than work it up. MARIE is already in the hotel. In a hotel uniform? Posing as a guest? In any case, she looks very much different than we've ever seen her before.

She gets close to the office. Hides. Waits. BOURNE calls the desk from a pay phone. Asks for something. We see that some sort of improvised booby-trap has been set inside the hotel to start a fire. In the confusion -- MARIE -- very bravely -- gets into the office. We do a quick cut outside to Bourne waiting and --

.....

EXT. STREET OUTSIDE THE HOTEL MARBOEUF -- DAY

Walk and talk. BOURNE and MARIE leaving the hotel fast. He's on alert -- always on alert now -- making sure they're not being watched. And she's excited and pumped -- she did it! -- she's got the hotel record in hand --

MARIE

You stayed there five times in the past six months. But I didn't have time -- I could only get the bill from the last stay -- you were there for two days. Some room service -- there's half a dozen phone calls here so that's someth--

BOURNE

(cutting her off)
Who paid the bill?

MARIE

It's a company... MPG Capital.

INT. AN EMPTY OFFICE SUITE -- DAY

Vacancy wasteland. Dead phone lines hanging. Carpet pulled up. Completely stripped out. BOURNE and MARIE standing there staring.

MARIE

This can't be it.

She turns around -- and what's he doing? -- BOURNE with a piece of paper and pencil -- or something/anything resourceful and handy -- maybe it's carpet lint -- maybe it's breaking the glass on the door and holding it up to the light -- or a rubbing -- anyway, he's doing something ingenious with the glass door --

And as he's doing this, we're hearing --

TELEPHONE VOICE (OVER)

(British, female)
Destin Navigational, can I help you?

BOURNE'S VOICE (OVER)

Hey, how are you. I'm trying to reach Richard? Is he there.

We're watching the MPG LOGO emerge and seeing BOURNE and MARIE react, as we hear --

TELEPHONE VOICE (OVER)
I'm afraid there's no Richard here.
(continuing into--)

INT./EXT. SHITBAG PARISIAN PHONE BOOTH -- NIGHT

BOURNE on the pay phone. MARIE behind him at the bar. He's got a pad and paper. This is all business.

BOURNE
Well, where are you? Where am I calling?

TELEPHONE VOICE (OVER)
This is an answering service, sir.
The company's located in Southampton, but--

BOURNE
-- this is a tire dealership, right?

TELEPHONE VOICE (OVER)
No sir, this is a navigational chart registry. I'm afraid you have the wrong number.

Dial tone. BOURNE making a note. And as he does --

TIME CUT -- one minute later -- call number two --

NEW VOICE (OVER)
(French, male, hassled)
(Marseille-Tropez Marina, how can I help you?)

BOURNE
(Hey, so this is the Marina, right?)

NEW VOICE (OVER)
(Yes, sir. Can I help you?)

BOURNE
(he's got the number)
(This is the one in Marseille, right?)

NEW VOICE (OVER)
(Last time I looked.)

TIME CUT -- one minute later -- call number three --

OPERATOR RECORDING (OVER)
(The number you have dialed has been disconnected. If you think you've reached this message in error--)

TIME CUT -- one minute later -- last call --

RECORDED VOICE (OVER)
"You've reached the office of Simon
Rawlins at Alliance Security Maritime Division. Paris office hours are from nine a.m. to six p.m.
If this is an emergency, please call our twenty-four hour help line at..."

BOURNE hangs up. Scribbles down the number. Backing away
and --

INT. TREADSTONE RESEARCH DESK -- NIGHT

CONKLIN and the RESEARCH TECHS jamming on the console --

CONKLIN
-- let's check that Interpol window
again --

RESEARCH TECH #1
-- I'm on it --

CONKLIN
-- I want that red car -- the girl -- we gotta get lucky here --

RESEARCH TECH #2
Sir.
(Conklin turns--)
I've got a code here from NSA -- they're not gonna give us Keyhole satellite clearance unless we have sign-off from upstairs.

CONKLIN turns and --

ABBOTT
No.
(sitting there tensely)
We can't risk it.

CONKLIN

Our last sighting was forty-eight hours ago. Even if they stayed in the car, the grid is huge.

(please)

This is it. He's trained -- conditioned -- they're built to disappear. You give him another day to run and we may never find him.

ABBOTT

This doesn't go upstairs.

CONKLIN left hanging. ABBOTT clear on this one.

EXT. EST. SHOT -- LA DEFENSE -- DAY

Monolithic tech. Reflection city.

INT. ELEVATOR -- LA DEFENSE -- DAY

BOURNE dressed for success. Suit. Cleaned up good. Catching his reflection in the elevator's mirrored ceiling. Nerves on edge.

INT. OFFICE LOBBY -- DAY

ALLIANCE SECURITY MARITIME DIVISION. Glossy posters of yachts, tankers and luxury sailboats. BOURNE standing there. Sucking it up. God knows what he's walking into here and --

INT. ALLIANCE SECURITY -- DAY

A SECRETARY leading BOURNE through a suite of offices and into --

INT. PETER RAWLINS' OFFICE -- DAY

Meet RAWLINS. He's a young, jolly Brit -- pink and overfed -- and quite shocked to see...

RAWLINS

Mr. Kane...

(hastily tidying up)

Come right in...please...have a seat.

BOURNE

Thanks.

BOURNE just trying to feel his way through this...

RAWLINS

Well...

(really thrown)

I must admit, when my assistant told me you were here I was, really -- I was quite -- I was surprised.

BOURNE

Really.

RAWLINS

We thought you were gone for good.

BOURNE

Did you?

RAWLINS

Well, I mean it's a tough business, isn't it? Cutthroat.

A long awkward beat. Neither of them sure where to go.

RAWLINS (CONT'D)

(finally)

Look, our bid -- it was competitive -- but definitely at the high end of competitive -- when we didn't hear back from you, we did some re-analysis of the numbers, and honestly, we'd really like a chance to do a bit better.

(pitching now)

I'm assuming you're still in the market. It's the same vessel?

BOURNE

Yes.

RAWLINS

We just picked up a job quite like the one we were bidding for you. Gorgeous boat, hundred-and-seventy-five-foot pleasure cruiser. I think we learned a few things that might allow us to make our proposal for your job, as I said, a bit more competitive.

BOURNE

Okay.

Another beat. Rawlins holding back until now...

RAWLINS

Was it the break-in?

BOURNE

Excuse me?

RAWLINS

We also thought we hadn't heard from you -- we've had a bit of a publicity nightmare, people have been talking.

(the meat)

Our offices were broken into -- vandalism mostly -- shortly after we last spoke.

BOURNE

I hadn't heard.

RAWLINS smiles. Reset. Sales mode.

RAWLINS

Let me get you a new copy of the proposal.

BOURNE

That'd be great.

INT. A CAFÉ NEAR LA DEFENSE -- DAY

BOURNE entering. And there's MARIE in the back working a payphone -- waving for him to sit -- she's onto something.

BOURNE sits. Pulls out the Alliance Security Brochures and literature. Flipping through it. Boats. Water. He's getting closer. Pictures of yachts and various security blurbs and a list of references for huge yachts -- jobs they've done in the past...

MARIE

I found it.

(standing there)

It took six calls.

(she's crept out)

I found Kane. I found the body.

BOURNE

Let's go --

(already standing--)

We got to get away from this phone.

INT. PARIS MORGUE FRONT DESK -- NIGHT

THE TWO MORGUE ATTENDANTS watching BOURNE put down a hundred dollar bill. MARIE standing a little off -- she will not be comfortable in the morgue.

ATTENDANT #1
(picking up the cash)
(What was the name again?)

BOURNE
Kane. John Michael Kane.

ATTENDANT #2
(It's number 121.)

BOURNE
(I want to see the body.)

ATTENDANT #1
(Our boss could come back. We're not supposed to.)

BOURNE pulling out another hundred and --

MORGUE FREEZER ROOM

It's showtime. MARIE back by the door. BOURNE right on it.
ATTENDANT #1 pulling open the freezer and...

BOURNE sags. ATTENDANT #1 looking baffled.

MARIE
What?

INSERT -- FREEZER #121 -- it's empty.

MORGUE BOSS (OS)
(from behind them--)
(What the hell's going on here?)

Here comes the boss back from his break -- a little drunk?

ATTENDANT #1
(This guy, he came to see the American, but the body, it's missing.)

MORGUE BOSS
(They came last night. His brother.)

ATTENDANT #2
(It's not in the book.)

MORGUE BOSS
(Who are these people?)
(now English to Bourne)

Who are you? What's going on here?

BOURNE

Where did this body go?

MORGUE BOSS

I said, someone came last night --
(big attitude now)
Look, this isn't a carnival -- people call and they make an appointment and they follow the rules -- everyone signs in and out -- this is a serious place -- serious work -- it's not just to come in whenever you like --

BOURNE

(like a shot)
Shit, we didn't sign in.

MORGUE BOSS

So get the hell out of here.

BOURNE

Fine. But I'd like to sign in. In fact, I insist on it. Where's the book? I gotta sign in -- (off and running
now--)

Everybody following -- all of them confused -- and into --

FRONT DESK AREA

BOURNE there first -- all forward motion here -- balls out --

BOURNE

Is this it? --
(the book)
-- this is it, right? --

MORGUE BOSS

-- slow down -- you can't just take the book like that --

BOURNE

-- don't sweat it, I have a pen -- no problem -- just let me find the page --
(then quick to Marie)
-- honey, why don't you wait for me outside, okay? --

MARIE trying to take the hint, but she's curious what he's doing --

MORGUE BOSS

-- we have rules here, this is a very serious place -- I'm the one who decides who gets in here, okay? --

BOURNE

-- what do I? -- I put the name of the person I came to see? --

MORGUE BOSS

-- this is serious business down here and we cannot have people coming and going --

BOURNE

-- here we go -- I found it --

But he's not writing -- he's ripping -- tearing the page out of the book --

MORGUE BOSS

(-- what are you? -- what are you doing? -- you crazy fuck -- you ripped the book! -- you stupid fucki--)

(no chance to finish this, because--)

BOURNE just slammed him against the wall. Hard. Like a tractor hit him. And fast.

And that shuts up the room.

THE TWO ATTENDANTS rushing to help their boss --

BOURNE grabbing MARIE and pulling her out the door --

EXT. PARIS STREET -- NIGHT

Moments after the morgue. BOURNE striding away. MARIE struggling to keep up. And BOURNE is different now -- zoning in -- he's close -- he's hardening --

MARIE

What are you doing? --
(he's scaring her)
-- Jason -- stop -- talk to me...

BOURNE ignoring her -- ripping through the Alliance Security brochures -- scanning them as he walks --

MARIE

-- I don't know what you're doing and you're scaring me -- what are you looking for? -- what just happened in there? --

BOURNE

Nykwana Wombosi.
(he stops, holding up the brochure--)

MARIE

What is that?

BOURNE

It's a name. Mr. Wombosi owns a thirty million dollar yacht. He's the proud owner of an Alliance
Security package.

(handing her the brochure--)
He also paid a visit to the morgue to see John Michael Kane.
(the ripped-out page--)

MARIE

What does that mean?
(but he's walking
again--)
Jason, what does that mean?
(she's trying to catch up, but he's walking really fast--)
Jason, please...who is he?

BOURNE

I don't know.
(he's not turning back again--)

MARIE

So what are we doing?

BOURNE

Go back to the hotel.

MARIE just stops. Reeling.

BOURNE walking away. Into Paris night and --

INT. CONKLIN'S TREADSTONE OFFICE -- DAY/NIGHT?

ABBOTT alone here. On the phone. Looking up to see --

ZORN
They found him. They found Bourne.

ABBOTT jumps off the call. Eyes never leaving ZORN.

ABBOTT
Where?

ZORN
You better come in.

EXT. L'ETOILE -- NIGHT

THE PROFESSOR -- A MOTORCYCLE -- screaming through traffic
and --

INT. WOMBOSI'S SECURITY ROOM -- NIGHT

VIDEO MONITOR -- there's BOURNE -- staring up and --

DEAUVAGE
(Jesus fuck, what is this?)

INT. TREADSTONE RESEARCH DESK -- NIGHT

VIDEO MONITOR -- different angle -- more clandestine -- but same deal -- there's BOURNE just standing there and --

ABBOTT
Omigod.

EXT. WOMBOSI COMPOUND -- NIGHT

BOURNE live. On the street. Bathed in a streetlight.
Staring up at a security camera.

Total hero moment.

I'm here. I'm waiting. I know you're watching.

EXT. WOMBOSI COMPOUND -- NIGHT

Confusion to say the least -- WOMBOSI -- pistol in hand -- moving as fast as he can through the clutter -- KIDS scattering as he follows DEAUVAGE -- racing for THE SECURITY
ROOM --

INT. TREADSTONE COMMUNICATIONS ROOM -- NIGHT

CONKLIN -- ZORN -- ABBOTT -- THE TECHS -- everyone plugged into the tension here --

CONKLIN
-- how long? --

COMM TECH #1
-- minutes -- he's close --

EXT. NEUILLY STREETS -- NIGHT

THE PROFESSOR on the speeding cycle -- closing in fast and --

EXT. WOMBOSI'S COMPOUND -- NIGHT

BOURNE standing there as the FRONT GATE opens. The moment. The big deep breath. He's walking in --

INT. TREADSTONE COMMUNICATIONS DESK -- NIGHT

Uglier by the second -- desperation madness --

ABBOTT
-- he went inside! --

CONKLIN
(to Abbott)
-- if we can get a clean shot --

ABBOTT
-- inside the house? --

CONKLIN
-- that's what they're trained for -- just a surgical strike.

ABBOTT
Forget it.

CONKLIN
What do you want to do?

ABBOTT
We don't know what we're into!

CONKLIN
We're in the shitter, man! Pick your poison. Maybe he's in there to finish the job. Maybe he's working for Wombosi. Maybe they want to go on TV together. Every possibility sucks -- we've got to move!

INT. WOMBOSI COMPOUND MAIN HALLWAY -- NIGHT

DEAUVAGE and BODYGUARD #1 giving BOURNE a serious pat down.

BOURNE

Is he here?

DEAUVAGE doesn't answer -- spinning BOURNE around -- they're really going over him --

INT. TREADSTONE COMMUNICATIONS ROOM -- NIGHT

CONKLIN on his feet -- ABBOTT beet red -- this is getting loud --

CONKLIN

You don't have the stones for this.
You people come down here and wink and whisper and we send these guys out and get it done. And you're clear. And the guys upstairs get what they want. And the whole bunch of you are so stuffed on deniability it's coming out of your ears.

(gauntlet)

Well, you know what? You're here now. What do you want to do?

ABBOTT just shaking his head no.

And CONKLIN snaps -- suddenly he's over the console -- there's the button -- and he's pressing it and --

EXT. NEUILLY ROOFTOPS -- NIGHT

THE PROFESSOR in position -- roof of the house next door -- hum -- hum -- hum --

It's the E-PHONE PAGER -- he's just been activated and --

INT. WOMBOSI'S COMPOUND HALLWAY -- NIGHT

BOURNE being marched toward the throne room doors -- DEAUVAGE and BODYGUARD #1 flanking him -- KIDS and WIVES staring as he passes -- the way you'd look at a prisoner on the way to the gallows --

THE BIG DOORS thrown open wide and --

WOMBOSI on the throne.

WOMBOSI

Come in.
(an imperial gesture)
Please...

BOURNE steps up to the plate.

WOMBOSI

Did you bring investment advice for me tonight? It was tax shelters, wasn't it? Swiss debenture-swaps.

BOURNE

MPG Capital.

WOMBOSI

I think investment advice from a dead man, it's a bad idea.

(beat)

How does it feel to be dead?

BOURNE

It's a lot more stressful than I thought.

KIDS have started sneaking into the room -- DEAUVAUGE is trying to scoot them out but --

WOMBOSI

-- no -- no, let them in! -- let them in.

(to the kids)

Come in -- on y va -- come in...

(to Bourne)

I think everyone wants to see the dead man.

BOURNE watching the kids -- they are all staring --

WOMBOSI

What do you do?

(on his feet now--)

You get an appointment with me?
You make sure it's on the boat?
You come visit me -- you pitch me this bullshit investment package.
You drink my water -- eat my bread -- play with my children -- and what? -- two nights later you come back and you put this death -- (slamming something down onto the throne--)

-- you put this in my engine room!

There is A BOMB on the throne now.

WOMBOSI

So this is a different kind of meeting.

(steam building)

Maybe now we talk some truth, okay?
One dead man to another.

BOURNE -- caught off guard as -- WOMBOSI suddenly rips away his jacket -- so hard that he tears straight through to the shirt --

BOURNE'S BACK -- bare -- two bullet scars -- still raw --

WOMBOSI

You see this?

(calling to Deauvage--)

I told you my shot was better!

DEAUVAGE

(He went in the water -- how did he live?)

WOMBOSI

No, no no...

(and he means this--)

This is a strong killer. This is a crazy strong killer. Oh, yeah...

(circling)

To make a killer that looks like you? This young? This face?

(he means this)

It's bloody fucking amazing.

BOURNE imploding -- this news -- the kids staring at him -- the bomb -- it's all getting loud around him --

BOURNE

Who do you think sent me?

WOMBOSI

I know who sent you. I don't know why.

(this could get physical at any moment now--)

I learned many, many things from the CIA. Many things. I learned the way they think.

(beat)

Was the bomb on my boat supposed to go off or not?

BOURNE distracted by the kids -- these faces -- it's...

WOMBOSI

You didn't set the bomb. Why?

BOURNE not sure -- about any of it --

WOMBOSI

Was this a game or a fuck up?

BOURNE

I don't know.

WOMBOSI

Get the kids out!

He doesn't have to say it twice -- they know the drill -- they're gone.

WOMBOSI

And the door.

DEAUVAGE closing the doors and as he does --

THE PROFESSOR ATTACKS...

.....

THIS SCENE HAS NOT BEEN WRITTEN

It's a shootout.

The Professor is infinitely more talented at this than the bodyguards.

Bourne needs to get out of there -- without looking wimpy --

No children are harmed.

As the Professor rallies -- he will shoot Wombosi -- he will find Bourne's jacket left on the floor (in which later he will find a clue leading him to Belleville) and last but hardly least, he will take a parting shot at the bomb still sitting there on the throne.

There will be a huge, trailer-worthy explosion.

This might not want to be very long. There is an extensive action sequence just around the corner.

So Bourne escapes. Physically he's just weary. Emotionally he's fucked.

All of that happens and we cut to --

.....

INT. TREADSTONE COMMUNICATIONS DESK -- NIGHT

CONKLIN flipping out -- THE PROFESSOR is not responding --

CONKLIN
-- code him again -- punch it in --

COM TECH #1
-- he's not responding --

CONKLIN
-- the paging unit must be damaged --

COM TECH #2
-- we just ran a remote diagnostic,
sir, it's not the unit --

ABBOTT looks like he might puke. ZORN watching his career burn to the ground around him.

ABBOTT
What are you doing?

CONKLIN grabbing shit -- like a madman --

CONKLIN
I'm going to Paris.

ABBOTT
No you're not. You're not going anywhere. I'm shutting this down.

CONKLIN
You're not doing shit. You're so scared you can't even think.

ABBOTT
You just blew up a house in Paris!
This program is over. Call it off.

CONKLIN
I can't call it off. He's not responding. Get out of my way.

CONKLIN splits and --

INT. THE HOTEL ROOM -- NIGHT

It's really late. BOURNE enters the room. MARIE in the corner. Smoked out. Cried out. Lived out.

Silence. Not a word.

His shirt is torn to shit. He scraped-up -- blood here and there. He moves past her into --

THE BATHROOM

His hands shaking as he tries to wash them. He bags it.

THE ROOM

BOURNE comes out. And there's a long silence until --

MARIE

It doesn't matter who you were before. It's who you want to be.
That's all that matters.

(is he listening?)

We have this money. We have what we have. I had nothing before and now, I don't know, maybe I have more, maybe it's nothing, but...

(he looks over)

I say we leave here. We leave this place. We go until we can't go anymore.

BOURNE

You could do that?

MARIE

Yes. That's who I want to be.

BOURNE nods. Turns off the light. Takes her hand. And they lay in bed. Just laying there.

INT. PARIS SOMEWHERE -- NIGHT

THE PROFESSOR cooping somewhere. Tending to his wounds. Ignoring his pager. He's slipped off the grid.

INT. HOTEL ROOM -- DAWN

BOURNE and MARIE packing up to hit the road. Together.

.....

DOUG'S ROUGH DRAFT OF THE BIG ACTION SEQUENCE

INT. HOTEL DE LA PAIX -- LOBBY -- DAY

MARIE dropping off the key. Hope hangs in the air --

CLERK
xxxxxxx...

MARIE
xxxxxxx

BOURNE enters. He's got the black duffel. Car keys.

BOURNE
xxxxxxx.

MARIE
xxxxxxx

And now they're headed for the door. Something doesn't feel right for BOURNE -- and then he notices --

BOURNE
Stop where you are.

MARIE
What?

Bourne turns back to the CLERK.

BOURNE
Where's the dog?

CLERK
My husband's out looking for him.

BOURNE
He run away often?

CLERK
That old beast? Miss his breakfast?
Not a chance.
(returning to cleaning)
It's always something, right?

Suddenly -- just like that -- everything's different --

BOURNE
Get in the basement.

CLERK

What?

BOURNE

(to Marie)

Get everyone down in the basement.

Now MARIE doesn't need a second warning --

CLERK

What the hell're you talking about?

BOURNE

You're in danger. All of you. I have no time to explain.

CLERK

Wait a minute --

BOURNE

I'm sorry.

-- those words -- the way he said it -- she's grabbing her purse, clearing out of the room. Slamming the door behind her -- click -- it's locked.

MARIE

Jason...

No answer -- too busy -- reaching under the check-in desk, coming up with -- A SHOT GUN, an old one, but nonetheless a gun --

MARIE (CONT'D)

Who is it? Who's out there?

And now BOURNE is moving, pulling open a drawer. A box of shells. Filling his pockets.

BOURNE

xxxxxxx

MARIE

xxxxxxx

BOURNE

I won't let that happen.

And he is moving down the small hallway. Away from the front door -- towards the back door under the stairs.

EXT. HOTEL DE LA PAIX -- COURTYARD -- DAY

THE HOTEL BACK DOOR -- kicked open -- BOURNE coming out of the house -- coming hard -- and --

The small courtyard is empty -- but now the ALARM is going off -- and BOURNE turns back to MARIE -- races to grab her as --

RATATATAT -- The FRONT DOOR -- WINDOWS -- ARE SHREDDED and -- here comes the PROFESSOR.

BOURNE

xxxxxxx

MARIE

xxxxxxx

And now they are running, across this little courtyard. To a wall -- BOURNE is up, on it -- reaching down for MARIE -- grabbing her -- swinging her over the wall as --

BAM!!! The PROFESSOR SHOOTS.

BOURNE

Go!

MARIE takes off running. BOURNE leans over the wall, FIRES BACK TWICE -- RATATAT -- The WALL IS SHREDDED. BOURNE takes off running -- reloading on the fly.

Rounds a bend, is chambering two rounds when he sees -- a WOMAN is in her kitchen -- staring at him -- no time to explain -- he turns back --

The PROFESSOR is just vaulting over the wall. BOURNE FIRES TWICE -- BAM! BAM! But the spray is too wide from this distance. Windows are shattered to both sides of him but -- the PROFESSOR stumbles but keeps going -- blood on his face now -- RATATAT --

BOURNE has to move. Reloading his almost useless gun. Reaching MARIE -- facing a choice and they climb a wall -- FLOWER POTS EXPLODE around them but they make it -- now --

RUNNING IN A LABYRINTH -- right -- then left -- through a small staircase. LEAPING a wall -- landing on a STEEP ROOF -- sliding, falling, crashing to the ground in --

A SMALL COURTYARD -- steep walls on all sides. But there's a large window -- and it's open. And they step through and find themselves --

INT. CHINESE RESTAURANT -- BATHROOM -- DAY

They close the window behind them -- catch their breath --

MARIE

Did we lose them?

BOURNE shakes his head. Tucks the gun under his coat.

MARIE (CONT'D)

Who is it?

BOURNE

We have to keep moving.

And now he is opening the door -- they step into --

INT. CHINESE RESTAURANT -- DAY

STARTLED KITCHEN WORKERS stare as BOURNE and MARIE calmly walk out of the bathroom and head towards the front door of the empty restaurant. Quiet.

And then they open the door to the street and --

EXT. BELLEVILLE -- COMMERCIAL STREET -- DAY

The first thing we notice is noise. The street is burgeoning with life. The second thing we notice are SIRENS. POLICE CARS approaching. BOURNE and MARIE head down the street, blending in.

Up ahead -- TWO POLICE CARS snaking through traffic. BOURNE steers them off this crowded street.

BOURNE

xxxxxxx

MARIE

xxxxxxx

EXT. BELLEVILLE -- QUIET STREET -- DAY

And BOURNE and MARIE are hurrying down this street when -- BAM -- The PROFESSOR comes out of a building -- across and down the street. No time to hide -- he's seen them -- he's FIRING.

BOURNE tackles MARIE to the ground behind a car. RATATAT -- The PROFESSOR is literally shredding it. And now BOURNE is moving --

MARIE

What are you doing?

And BOURNE is on the offensive. BAM! BAM! Moving towards the PROFESSOR who is ducking behind cars on the other side.

They are shredding the street -- FIRING ruthlessly at each other and -- NOW THE POLICE ARE HERE -- BLOCKING both ends of the street. GUNS are drawn -- BOURNE's vulnerable on two flanks. The COPS are YELLING. And now --

THE PROFESSOR BLASTS the COPS -- And now things have changed.

THREE WAY FIREFIGHT and BOURNE grabs MARIE and they dive into --

INT. SMALL EPICERIE -- DAY

And the PROFESSOR shreds the store as BOURNE attempts to fire back. SHIT flying everywhere in here -- hard to see and -- The PROFESSOR is advancing on them -- cops are no match for his fire power. They move to the back -- kick open a door --

INT. HIGHWALLED COURTYARD -- DAY

BOURNE and MARIE cross this small courtyard, the PROFESSOR is right on their heels. CRASH through a door -- and now they are in --

INT. SMALL SWEATSHOP -- DAY

COUPLE of ASIAN WOMEN sewing in here. One MAN in charge -- and BOURNE and MARIE charging through -- the MAN about to say something -- but now the PROFESSOR is on their tail and --

INT. SMALL AFRICAN SHOP -- DAY

Making god knows what in here -- vats of something. Small grouping of workers -- BOURNE shutting the door behind him -- it's shredded with BULLET HOLES. BOURNE and MARIE racing to the next door as -- BAM -- the PROFESSOR kicks the door open -- BOURNE about to fire -- but there is a WOMAN right behind the PROFESSOR! Can't do it -- turns to run as -- RATATATAT --

The PROFESSOR FIRES as BOURNE and MARIE dive into --

INT. LIVE POULTRY SHOP -- DAY

And now CHICKEN feathers are flying everywhere -- the glass at the front of the door is shattering. BOURNE and MARIE make it through the gauntlet.

EXT. BELLEVILLE -- STREET -- DAY

And BOURNE and MARIE are running. And he is reaching into his pocket -- fishing around -- and just as he pulls out the car keys -- we recognize this as the street they parked their car on and --

BY MARIE'S CAR

BOURNE unlocks the door -- pops MARIE's open. And --

THERE'S A COP -- yelling at them and -- BOURNE hits the gas -- they fly out of their parking space -- BAM!! The COP fires, shattering their windshield and there -- up ahead -- THE PROFESSOR coming out -- about to FIRE -- BOURNE aims for him -- forces him to dive out of the way and --

ONE QUICK MOVE around a TRUCK and they are free.

INT. THE LITTLE RED CAR

BOURNE and MARIE looking back nervously -- so far all over --

ON THE STREET

The PROFESSOR looking around. PEOPLE staring at him -- covered in blood -- the COP racing up -- yelling -- not yelling for long because the PROFESSOR is firing at him and --

Now the PROFESSOR is moving -- not running -- just a swift walk and now he's past the truck -- and --

A MOTORCYCLIST comes flying down the street -- oblivious -- going way too fast for these streets and -- the PROFESSOR swings his gun stock like a bat -- takes him out -- clean and smooth -- bike crashing to the ground and --

The PROFESSOR grabs the bike and takes off -- SHOOTING at TWO POLICE CARS just racing to the scene and we are into --

EXT. BELLEVILLE BLVD -- DAY

HIGH SPEED CAR CHASE. And BOURNE better do some fancy driving because here comes the PROFESSOR -- and he's a lot faster -- much better armed.

INT. MARIE'S CAR

BOURNE driving. MARIE looking back -- seeing the PROFESSOR gain on them --

MARIE

xxxxxx

BOURNE

xxxxxx

And -- THE PROFESSOR FIRES -- SHREDS the back off their car --

MARIE

Give me the gun --

And now she's got his shotgun, leaning out the window.

BOURNE

Wait 'till he's close.

BOURNE swerves, up on the sidewalk back onto the street -- slaloms through the traffic -- racing towards an intersection
and --

IN THE INTERSECTION

CARS coming the other way, BOURNE just makes it through -- the PROFESSOR tries to squeeze through -- skidding and --

CRACK! The PROFESSOR hits the front of a car sideways on his bike -- he is THROWN clear through the intersection, right into the windshield of an oncoming car and --

He gets up, grabs his gun and works his way towards his bike and now we see --

EXT. VARIOUS SHOTS AROUND PARIS -- DAY

COPS are mobilizing -- swarming into this area and --

BACK TO THE CAR CHASE --

BOURNE and MARIE pick up a few cops on their tail -- shed all of them -- the last car goes into an EXPLOSIVE FLIP -- the PROFESSOR is now right behind them. And now we are into --

CRAZY CAR CHASE WITH COPS RIGHT ON THEIR TAIL

BOURNE, MARIE and the PROFESSOR leave a trail of totaled cars that the cops have to try and navigate through -- finally saying fuck it and hitting a few cars themselves and now we are into --

CAR CHASE THROUGH NARROW STREETS

MARIE'S CAR and the MOTORCYCLE can pass where the police cars cannot. BOURNE may be able to shed the cops, but not the PROFESSOR. And now one quick move and they are --

EXT. QUAI -- DAY

Racing against traffic up the Seine. Past the Louvre. COPS pursuing on the other side of the river. BOURNE and the PROFESSOR leaving behind a trail of carnage. And now --

The PROFESSOR is pulling up along side them -- one lane over. Both swerving to avoid oncoming cars and --

MARIE FIRES -- TWICE -- TAKES out a few windshields. The PROFESSOR fires at the same time -- MARIE'S CAR DOOR -- GONE -- she's totally exposed but --

THE PROFESSOR -- his BIKE is SPOUTING GAS -- one of the pellets nailed his tank.

BOURNE AND MARIE --

MARIE

xxxxxxx

THE PROFESSOR -- No problem -- he's unwrapping a piece of duct tape from the barrel of his gun -- two seconds and the hole is patched and -- BOURNE AND MARIE -- the side of the car is completely gone -- the PROFESSOR is gaining -- across the river dozens of police cars are racing alongside. Many more can be seen on their side -- a road block ahead -- running out of options and --

BOURNE turns hard -- crashes over the sidewalk and flies down a side street. A POLICE CAR pulls out behind them -- the PROFESSOR can't stop -- skidding hard, turning the bike sideways, skidding out -- sliding across the ground and BAMMM!!! SMASHING into a GLASS PHONE BOOTH which shatters.

And he's up -- lifting up his bike and --

BOURNE AND MARIE

SIX POLICE CARS on their tail -- more joining. Every street they look down has POLICE CARS racing in parallel. Running out of options and in the background --

THE PROFESSOR is back in the game -- passing the police cars and up ahead --

THE ROAD IS BLOCKED. POLICE ROAD BLOCK -- cops with guns. Gotta act quick and -- BOURNE turns hard left -- there's a metro staircase -- only way out and --

THEY BOUNCE down the stairs. CRASH through the doors down below.

THE FIRST POLICE CAR -- no way he's following. SLAMMING on his brakes. SKIDDING to a halt -- SKIDDING sideways -- gonna stop in time -- just at the edge of the steps and then --

THE SECOND POLICE CAR isn't braking -- T-BONES the first car -- BAM!!! -- sends it rolling sideways down the steps until it crashes to a halt at the bottom -- upside down.

THE PROFESSOR -- he's turning -- heading for a different set of stairs. BOURNE AND MARIE -- crashing through the turnstiles -- people diving out of their way and --

AT THE STAIRCASE -- THE WINDOW of the POLICE CAR is kicked out and -- TWO VERY ANGRY COPS emerge -- pull their guns out -- head into the station. BOURNE and MARIE's world just got a lot more dangerous and --

THE PROFESSOR is racing down the other staircase -- an up escalator -- people diving out of the way as --

BOURNE and MARIE slalom through the station -- suddenly -- there's the PROFESSOR -- parallel corridor -- metal barricades keep them separated. PROFESSOR FIRING.

UP AHEAD -- a horizon line -- BOURNE guns it -- a steep staircase and -- THEY FLY down the steps -- landing on --

THE METRO PLATFORM

The PROFESSOR lands on the other side -- both racing down the platform -- PROFESSOR tearing up the wall behind them and -- HERE COMES A TRAIN -- on BOURNE and MARIE's side -- travelling the opposite way -- temporary refuge. Not for long -- there's no way out on this end of the platform. They skid to a halt -- just as --

THE TRAIN DOORS OPEN -- STARTLED STRAPHANGERS stare at BOURNE and MARIE as they stop onto the platform -- take off running.

THE PROFESSOR has to turn his bike around. He's quick -- but it gives BOURNE and MARIE a two second head start.

BOURNE AND MARIE almost at the other end of the platform -- gunfire ripping up the windows behind them. Gonna go for the steps -- but here come --

THE ANGRY COPS -- remember them? -- the ones who took the ride down the steps -- they're firing now and --

BOURNE AND MARIE turn back -- the PROFESSOR is firing and there is only one option --

INT. METRO CAR -- DAY

BOURNE and MARIE into the conductor booth. People diving off the train as BOURNE hits the YELLOW BUTTON and -- the TRAIN STARTS ROLLING -- doors still open -- they disappear into the protection of the tunnel walls -- then BOURNE hits the button to close the doors and -- THE PROFESSOR -- watching the trains accelerate out of the station -- and now he's racing his bike down the platform -- opposite the motion of the train and -- here comes the end of the train and --

THE PROFESSOR throws his bike into a skidding 180 and skids off the platform all in one move -- landing hard on the tracks but facing the right direction and now he's accelerating towards the train -- just as an oncoming train is racing into the station and --

HE LEAPS onto the back of the train in the nick of time. His GUN CLATTERS to the tracks.

IN THE LAST METRO CAR

The window is shattered and the PROFESSOR lets himself in -- wind whipping through his hair from the shattered windows. And --

IN THE FIRST METRO CAR

BOURNE and MARIE finally getting a breather. BOURNE keeps looking back -- nothing -- the train is deserted. Finally --

 MARIE
xxxxxxx

 BOURNE
xxxxxxx

 MARIE
xxxxxxx

 BOURNE
xxxxxxx

And ahead -- daylight -- the train tracks go above ground and as the train hits daylight -- we see the PROFESSOR directly behind BOURNE on the other side of the glass and --

CRASH! The PROFESSOR grabs BOURNE through the glass, ramming his head into the metal as --

BOURNE grabs the knob, swings the door open and CRUSHES the PROFESSOR -- CRUSHES him again and now he is free and --

BOURNE turns, pulls up the shotgun and -- the PROFESSOR kicks it out of his hands -- it clatters to the ground and now we have a beat -- THE TRAIN CAR races across the Bir Hakeim bridge -- all of Paris laid out behind them. BOURNE and the PROFESSOR squaring off -- both looking at the gun -- realizing there's no chance for either one of them to get it and --

A BRUTAL RUTHLESS FIGHT breaks out. BOURNE's motivated -- the PROFESSOR's crazy -- makes it a pretty even match. Looks like it could go on for a little while when suddenly --

BAM!!! The PROFESSOR drops to the ground -- behind him -- MARIE wields the shot gun.

MARIE

xxxxxxx

BOURNE

xxxxxxx

And BOURNE takes the gun from her -- standing there -- reloading -- both barrels -- raising the gun -- aiming it --

.....

INT. MOVING METRO CAR -- DAY

THE PROFESSOR sitting there. Like a dummy. Like a puppet that's been propped up. He's fucked -- his whole side ravaged with shot -- his arm shredded -- hand barely there -- blood flowing fast --

BOURNE

Who else is coming?

THE PROFESSOR staring up at the gun. Stunned. Doomed. Mouth dry. Eyes struggling to make sense of the chaos.

BOURNE

I won't ask again.

PROFESSOR

I work alone. Like you...
(confused beat)
...we always work alone.

BOURNE

What do you mean?

PROFESSOR
Who are you? Rome? Paris?
(Bourne is just staring--)
Treadstone...both of us...I was warned but...

BOURNE
Treadstone?

PROFESSOR
...which one are you?...

BOURNE lowering the weapon -- head swimming --

BOURNE
Paris. I live in Paris...

PROFESSOR
...headaches...you have that...I get such bad headaches...

BOURNE
Yes.

PROFESSOR
...it's a problem...

He's losing blood fast -- things inside him seizing up --

BOURNE Treadstone.

PROFESSOR
...or in a car...when it's dark...something with the headlights...
(circuits exploding)
...pills, right? Treadstone had those pills...

BOURNE
What is Treadstone?

PROFESSOR
...what did you do?...you must've really fucked up...

BOURNE
I think so.

PROFESSOR
...someone said caffeine -- for a headache...doesn't seem...

BOURNE
What do they want me to do?

PROFESSOR
...they won't let you go...

BOURNE
Why?

THE PROFESSOR -- coughing -- a spasm -- helpless --

PROFESSOR
Look at this...
(all the blood--)
...least you have a woman....

And he's gone. Like that. Sitting there. And BOURNE looks paralyzed too. Kneeling there. Stalled out.

MARIE
Jason...

BOURNE doesn't answer -- can't, because there's this sound -- this pulsing hum -- BOURNE reaching into THE PROFESSOR'S POCKET and --

INSERT -- THE E-PHONE PAGER -- covered in blood -- hum -- hum -- hum -- BOURNE'S HAND wiping at the blood that covers the display --

BOURNE staring at it. Very familiar to him.

MARIE
We've got to go.

INT. METRO CAR -- DAY

BOURNE and MARIE racing back through the cars -- away from the scene of the crime and --

EXT. ABOVE-GROUND METRO PLATFORM -- DAY

THE SHATTERED TRAIN pulling into the station -- doors opening -- SCREAMS ECHOING through the station from up the platform and --

BOURNE and MARIE getting off the last car and --

EXT. STREET/ALLEY NEAR THE PLATFORM -- DAY

Two minutes later. BOURNE and MARIE -- exhausted -- beat -- Everything all at once --

BOURNE

Take this.

She turns. He's holding the locker key.

BOURNE

Take it.

But she doesn't move.

MARIE

And that's it?

BOURNE

If you're lucky.

(it's hanging there)

Take it.

(beat)

There's enough in there to make a life. Any life. Just get out now.

Get low. Stay low.

(beat)

Take it.

She takes it. Staring at him. Simply refusing to cry.

MARIE

What was I thinking, right?

BOURNE

I can't protect you anymore.

MARIE

What about you?

BOURNE

I'm gonna find the end of this.

(beat)

I can't protect you.

MARIE takes one last look. And she's running --

BOURNE hangs there a moment -- listening to her go -- and then he pulls out THE E-PHONE PAGER. And it's pulsing like crazy.

BOURNE flips open the shell. There's a keypad in there.

Holding it. Like a missing organ.

INT. THE ZURICH AIRPORT MOTEL ROOM -- DAY

Remember MANHEIM? He's still there waiting. And his pager goes off, and --

INT. TREADSTONE PARIS -- NIGHT

A safehouse -- CONKLIN filling a burn bag -- racing -- everything's going --

EXT. TREADSTONE PARIS -- NIGHT

CONKLIN done with the dirty work -- out into the street --

As he's about to leave -- he hears a sound -- a familiar sound -- hum -- hum -- hum --

He cross the street -- looks down to the Quai below --

Holy shit -- there's one of his E-PHONE PAGERS --

He goes down -- picks it up --

And now --

BOURNE

What did you do to me?

CONKLIN wheels around. There he is. Right behind him.

CONKLIN

What did I do? What've you done?
Do you have any idea? Any conception? What you've destroyed?
Do you have any idea how much time and work -- how many people have their lives wrapped up in this?

So now you know.

BOURNE

Are you Treadstone?

CONKLIN

Am I Treadstone? Me?
(peering at him closely now--)
What the hell're you talking about?

BOURNE showing nothing -- or is he trying too hard not to?

BOURNE

What did you do to me?

CONKLIN

What did I do? I spent thirty million dollars on you. I spent three years finding you -- four years training you --

(incredulous)

What did I do?

(staring now)

What in the name of God have you been doing, Jason?

BOURNE

I don't know.

CONKLIN

They're right about you, aren't they? You're fried.

(on it now)

You really don't know what's going on, do you?

BOURNE

I know you've been trying to kill me.

CONKLIN

Of course. We had to try. We didn't know what was wrong.

(warming to this--)

We didn't know you were in trouble.

BOURNE

So now you know.

CONKLIN

So it's time to go home.

BOURNE

That's all I get?

CONKLIN

We'll make you better. We can put the pieces back. We can do that.

BOURNE

I don't think so.

CONKLIN

We have to go home, Jason.

BOURNE

Jason Bourne is dead.

CONKLIN

There never was a Jason Bourne.

(that gets him)

You have to come with me. It's the only way. We can give it back to you...

BOURNE

Keep it.

(and he's walking--)

CONKLIN

Jason...

(trying to follow--)

They can't let you go...

BOURNE

That'll be their second worst mistake.

And with that, BOURNE scrambles up a wall -- like it's nothing -- CONKLIN just left there -- on the Quai -- in the dark --

EXT. BANKS OF THE SEINE -- NIGHT

BOURNE walking away -- faster and faster --

EXT. BANKS OF THE SEINE NEARBY -- NIGHT

MANHEIM -- A CAR PARKED IN THE DARKNESS -- sitting alone with his briefcase. Opening it. There's his gun.

BOURNE -- walking -- deeper into the darkness and --

MANHEIM -- in the dark car -- loading the weapon -- calm -- steady -- methodical and --

BOURNE -- walking and --

MANHEIM -- stepping out of the car -- closing the door quietly -- deep in the shadows and --

BOURNE -- still coming -- the darkest part of the path just ahead and --

MANHEIM -- raising the gun and --

THE CAMERA SPINS TO HIS TARGET AND --

IT'S CONKLIN! -- just climbing back up from the Quai --

MANHEIM -- the gun -- phfft -- phfft -- phfft --

CONKLIN -- three holes -- head -- heart -- gut -- his body dropping like a stone beside his car.

MANHEIM walks over. Looks down. Point blank -- phfft -- that makes it four and --

INT. TREADSTONE COMMUNICATIONS DESK -- NIGHT

ABBOTT and ZORN alone in the dark. As a red light begins pulsing on the console.

That red light means Conklin's dead.

After a moment, ZORN moves to the console and shuts the light off.

EXT. BANKS OF THE SEINE -- NIGHT

BOURNE still walking. And he's just gonna keep on going, as we --

DISSOLVE TO

INT. CIA OPERATIONS CONFERENCE ROOM -- DAY

MARSHALL at the head of the table. A cadre of INTEL HONCHOS.

ABBOTT (O.S.)
The Treadstone project has actually already been terminated. It was designed primarily as a sort of advanced game program...

ABBOTT in the hot seat. ZORN right there beside him.

ABBOTT
...We'd hoped it might build into a good training platform, but quite honestly, for a strictly theoretical exercise, we thought it was far too expensive. The cost-benefit ratio was just too high. It's been all but decommissioned at this point.

MARSHALL
All right, what's next?

ZORN handing ABBOTT the next hundred pages.

ABBOTT

Okay, this is Blackbriar.
Blackbriar is a joint, DOD, communications program that we really feel has good traction to it.

ABBOTT is just gonna go on and on and on.

EXT. MARTHA'S VINEYARD -- DAY

Gorgeous Summer day. A SCOOTER RENTAL SHACK near the beach.

SIX MONTHS

LATER

MARIE coming out of the shack with two helmets. Handing them to A HAPPY COUPLE waiting there on their scooters.

THE HAPPY COUPLE rides off.

MARIE turns back and --

There's BOURNE. A new look. A smile.

MARIE
Can I help you?

BOURNE
This your store?

MARIE
Yes.

BOURNE
Think I could rent a scooter?

MARIE
You have ID?

BOURNE
Not really.

Beat. He smiles.

MARIE
It's not a problem.

Her turn to smile. And we...

FADE OUT

THE END

All movie scripts and screenplays on this site are intended for educational purposes only.

Screenplays and movie scripts organized alphabetically:

<#>ABCDEFGHIJKLMNOPQRSTUVWXYZ PDF ALL

Crouching Tiger, Hidden Dragon (2000)

by Wang Hui Ling, James Schamus, Tsai Kuo Jung.

Based on the novel by Wang Du Lu.

More info about this movie on IMDb.com

EXT. YUAN COMPOUND - DAY

Security men and porters are loading wagons for a convoy.
As they work, we see across the lake a lone horseman entering the village. One of the men recognizes him.

WORKER

Master Li is here!

ANGLE ON: Li Mu Bai, thirties, powerful and handsome.

In the background, old Aunt Wu, at the sight of Li Mu Bai, drops her parcels and runs excitedly into the building.

INT. YUAN HALLWAY - DAY

Aunt Wu runs hurriedly through the halls.

AUNT WU

Shu Lien!

INT. YU'S ROOM - DAY

Yu, a beautiful woman in her early 30s, is finishing packing for the convoy, wrapping a few small items in a linen wrapper, as Aunt Wu bursts in.

AUNT WU

Li Mu Bai is here!

INT. YUAN PRACTICE HALL - DAY

LI

How's everything?

AUNT WU

Fine. Please come in.

Yu sits, composed, as Aunt Wu ushers Li in. Li carries a large object, wrapped in silk.

Yu smiles.

YU

Mu Bai...It's been too long.

LI

It has.

(he glances around the room)

How's business?

YU

Good. And how are you?

LI

Fine.

An awkward pause.

YU

Monk Zheng said you were at Wudan Mountain. He said you were practicing deep meditation.

LI

Yes.

YU

The mountain must be so peaceful...
I envy you. My work keeps me so busy, I hardly get any rest.

LI

I left the training early.

YU

Why? You're a Wudan fighter.
Training is everything.

LI

During my meditation training... I came to a place of deep silence...
I was surrounded by light... Time and space disappeared. I had come to a place my master had never told me about.

YU

You were enlightened?

LI

No. I didn't feel the bliss of enlightenment. Instead... I was surrounded by an endless sorrow. I couldn't bear it. I broke off my meditation. I couldn't go on. There was something... pulling me back.

YU

What was it?

LI

Something I can't let go of. You are leaving soon?

YU

We're preparing a convoy for a delivery to Peking.

LI

Perhaps I could ask you to deliver something to Sir Te for me.

Li unwraps the object. It is an ancient, astonishingly beautiful sword.

YU

The Green Destiny Sword? You're giving it to Sir Te?

LI

I am. He has always been our greatest protector.

YU

I don't understand. How can you part with it? It has always been with you.

LI

Too many men have died at its edge. It only looks pure because blood washes so easily from its blade.

YU

You use it justly, you're worthy of it.

LI

It's time for me to leave it behind.

YU

So what will you do now?

Li doesn't reply.

YU

Come with me to Peking. You can give the sword to Sir Te yourself.
It'll be just like old times.

LI

First I must visit my master's grave. It's been many years since Jade Fox murdered him. I have yet to avenge his death. And yet I'm thinking of quitting. I must pray for his forgiveness.

YU

Join me once you have finished. I can wait for you in Peking.

LI

Perhaps.

EXT. THE GATE TO PEKING. DAY

Customs officials have just finished checking the contents in a row of carriages bearing the Sun Security insignia.
The caravan slowly passes through the checkpoint into the boundaries of Peking. Yu, riding a handsome horse and clearly the leader, watches as her crew clears inspection.

GUARDS

Ok. Pass.

YU

Thanks. Let's go into the city.

EXT. OUTSIDE A DEPOT. DAY

Workers are busy unloading the contents from the carriages.
Boss Giao is checking off the merchandise -- a cargo of medicinal herbs.

GIAO

Everything got here safely. I'm much obliged.

YU

Just doing my job.

GIAO

Sun Security has been the best since your father started it.
You're a credit to his memory.

YU

Thank you.

GIAO

I mean it.

EXT. DAY. PEKING

From a gray tiled roof, we can see Peking's magnificent grid of houses extending miles and miles out, freshly painted by the morning sun.

EXT. PEKING STREET. DAY

Dusty and congested as always, people, horses, and carriages are fighting to get through the boulevards.

A group of jugglers perform at a corner.

Yu surveys the busy street from on top of her horse.

INT. TE'S GREAT HALL - DAY

Yu presents the sword to Sir Te.

SIR TE

This is Li's personal sword, a great hero's weapon! He is the only one in the world worthy of carrying it. It's too fine a gift.
I cannot accept it.

YU

Sir Te! It has brought him as much trouble as glory. Help him to leave these troubles behind.
Otherwise, he'll never be able to start anew.

SIR TE

All right. I'll act as the sword's custodian.

De Lu, the head servant, enters.

DE LU

Governor Yu has arrived.

SIR TE

I must change.

YU

(getting up)

You've always been so good to Li Mu Bai and me. Please accept our thanks.

SIR TE

Please do not be such a stranger. You'll stay the night as my guest. Now, Shu Lien... tell me something. And forgive me for prying. Your father was a great friend to me, and I think of you as my own daughter.

YU

Please, Sir Te, what is it?

SIR TE

Li Mu Bai giving up his sword and his warrior days... maybe he's trying to tell you something?

YU

I don't know...

SIR TE

Don't be coy. I've always known about your feelings for each other. All these years, it's a shame... neither of you is brave enough to admit the truth to the other. You're both wasting precious time.

YU

I beg your pardon. Li Mu Bai and I aren't cowards.

SIR TE

When it comes to emotions, even great heroes can be idiots. Tell me if Li Mu Bai is not more open the next time you see him. I'll give him an earful!

INT. TE'S STUDY - DAY

Yu and De Lu approach the study.

DE LU

Sir Te said to leave the sword in here.

De Lu opens the door and is startled to find a young woman inside. The woman is studying the sheets of calligraphy hanging on the walls.

DE LU

Who are you?

JEN

I'm your guest today. I am Governor Yu's daughter.

DE LU

This is Sir Te's study. You are here to...

JEN

I was looking for a quiet corner.

DE LU

I am Sir Te's head servant. And this is another of our guests.

INT. TE'S STUDY - DAY

Yu gently lays the sword, still in its sheath, in Jen's hands.

JEN

It's heavy for such a thin piece of metal!

YU

The handle is heavy. And the blade is no ordinary metal. Still, the sword is the lightest of weapons. You're just not used to handling it.

JEN

But I have had much practice. As a child in the West, a platoon lived with us. They'd let me play with their weapons. The scabbard is so beautiful.

YU

Beautiful but dangerous. Once you see it tainted with blood, its beauty is hard to admire. It's 400 years old.

JEN

Exquisite! You said it belongs to...

YU

My friend Li Mu Bai. He's given it to Sir Te as a gift.

JEN

Li Mu Bai! The famous warrior?
Why would he give his sword to Sir
Te?

YU

You're too young to understand.

JEN

You're a sword fighter too?

Yu yanks the sword out of the sheath. An eerie sound resonates within the study. Jen is even more impressed.

YU

Yes, I am. But I prefer the machete. Certain moves, however, call for a sword.

JEN

Really?

Yu puts the sword back in the case.

JEN

(longingly)

It must be exciting to be a fighter, to be totally free!

YU

Fighters have rules too: friendship, trust, integrity... Without rules, we wouldn't survive for long.

JEN

I've read all about people like you.
Roaming wild, beating up anyone who gets in your way!

YU

Writers wouldn't sell many books if they told how it really is.

JEN

But you're just like the characters in the stories.

YU

Sure. No place to bathe for days, sleeping in flea-infested beds...

They tell you all about that in those books?

JEN

You know what I mean. I'm getting married soon, but I haven't lived the life I want.

YU

So I heard. Congratulations. It's the most important step in a woman's life, isn't it?

JEN

You're not married, are you?

YU

What do you think?

JEN

No! You couldn't roam around freely if you were.

YU

You're probably right.

Yu studies Jen. The room falls silent for a moment.

EXT. SIDE COURT YARD - DAY

It's dusk and the sky is beautiful orange and purple. Jen is leaving the study escorted by her maid. She turns to Yu for a final good-bye. Yu seems intrigued by the encounter.

EXT. SIR TE'S COMPOUND - NIGHT

Two lighted lanterns are raised up.

INT. TE'S STUDY - NIGHT

Sir Te hands the sword to Governor Yu.

SIR TE

Go ahead, Governor Yu.

Governor Yu is impressed by the opulence and elegance of the sword. He closes his eyes to guess the weight of the sword.
Te snubs out the flame from a candle, then slides the sword out from its sheath. The sword gives off a luminous blue glow in the dark.

SIR TE

Two feet 9 inches long. 1 inch wide. The handle is 1 inch deep, 2.6 inches wide. Seven-tenths of an inch thick. With seven rubies missing from the hilt. You can tell the design dates back to before the Chin era. Engraved with a technique lost by the time of the Han Dynasty.

GOVERNOR YU

Your knowledge is remarkable, Sir Te.

SIR TE

A sword by itself rules nothing. It comes alive only through skillful manipulation.

GOVERNOR YU

I see your point. Please continue.

SIR TE

The Imperial Court isn't the problem. With royalty and officials everywhere, the Royal Guard keeps security tight. But Peking is not like the West. Here, you'll find all sorts of characters. Proceed with caution in your quest for law and order. Don't depend only on the court. Contacts in the Giang Hu underworld can ensure your position. Be strong, yet supple. This is the way to rule.

INT. JEN'S ROOM - NIGHT

A maid warms her hands in a basin of hot water for Jen, then walks over to Jen and helps remove her earrings. Someone knocks and the maid goes to answer the door.

MAID

Governess...

GOVERNESS

Let me do it.

The maid leaves as the governess enters the room.

JEN

Please sit.

GOVERNESS

I've made you silk pajamas. Do you want to change into them?

JEN

Put them down.

GOVERNESS

I heard you met Shu Lien today.

JEN

Do you know her?

GOVERNESS

She's one of those. Your mother would not want you consorting with her kind.

Jen shoots her an angry look.

JEN

I'll socialize with whomever I please.

GOVERNESS

Don't invite danger into your father's house.

She's about to say something, then thinks better of it.

JEN

I'm tired now.

GOVERNESS

Go to bed then. Miss has grown up, and is getting married soon. God knows what the future will bring.

JEN

It will be just the same. Enough! I'm tired.

GOVERNESS

Autumn is coming. I'll shut the windows for you.

The governess leaves. Jen sits on the side of her bed, thinking.

EXT. TE'S COMPOUND - NIGHT

A wide shot of the compound. A patrol man greets Master Bo, Sir Te's head of security. The place is serene.

MASTER BO

Chilly, eh?

NIGHTMAN

Yes, Master Bo.

As Bo walks on, shadows rustle in a treetop in the background.

EXT./INT. INSIDE AND OUTSIDE OF TE'S STUDY - NIGHT

A masked figure silently opens the window and enters the room. It moves swiftly to the sword case, opens it, and wraps the sword.

Bo enters, sees the thief, who leaps up to the ceiling. The thief steps over Bo and out into the courtyard. Bo tries to stop the thief, who easily outwits him, jumping onto the roof as Bo yells out.

BO

Someone help! Stop him! He's on the roof! The sword's been stolen!
Stop thief! Stop him!

The thief skips a few times and jumps off to a side street.

Bo grabs a pole and runs, as gongs begin to sound, alerting people to the theft. People rush outside, Yu Shu Lien among them.

EXT. PEKING STREET - NIGHT

Bo runs through the streets. The thief is nowhere in sight. Suddenly, there are sounds of weapons clashing. Bo hurries towards the source.

EXT. AN ALLEY OUTSIDE GOVERNOR YU'S COMPOUND - NIGHT

Bo is surprised to see the hooded figure battling with two other fighters -- Tsai (male, 40s) and May, his daughter.

TSAI

It's Jade Fox!

MAY

We must avenge mother!

The hooded figure does a gravity defying flip and soars over a wall, just as Bo arrives.

BO

Do something! He's getting away!

EXT. PEKING ROOFTOP - NIGHT

The thief runs atop a roof -- right into Yu. Yu and the hooded figure face off.

YU
Return the sword, and I'll let you go.

The figure just regards her, slightly shifting weight.

Yu attacks, but the figure repels her.

YU
You've been trained at Wudan?

The figure answers by leaping to another rooftop. Yu catches up, and resumes her attack with a relentless series of lightning-quick blows.

EXT. ALLEY OUTSIDE GOVERNOR YU'S COMPOUND - NIGHT

Bo follows Tsai and May, who are quickly walking away.

TSAI
You're mistaken. We're just street performers. We were rehearsing.

MAY
Father!

BO
You were rehearsing? Who are you trying to fool?

May wants to respond but is again cut off by Tsai. They run off.

BO
Where did that thief go?

Bo looks around and discovers he had chased the thief into Governor Yu's compound.

BO
Governor Yu's house!

EXT. ROOF TOP

Yu and the Black Figure continue to fight.

YU
Get down here! Give back the sword!

EXT. GOVERNOR YU'S - NIGHT

Yu slowly gets the upper hand in her fight with the thief.
A small arrow cuts across the night and flies toward Yu.
She catches it, but the masked figure takes the opportunity to get away.

Yu pauses to feel the arrow in her hand, standing in the empty courtyard.

EXT. TE'S SIDE ENTRANCE - DAY

De Lu escorts Yu into Te's.

DE LU
Sir Te awaits you.

INT. TE'S GREAT HALL - DAY

Men are standing at attention. Bo is giving his account of what happened, as Yu enters.

BO
I'm sure the thief is in the Yu household.

SIR TE
How dare you imply?

BO
But I say --

SIR TE
-- Enough.

The men hustle out. Bo can barely contain his frustration.

YU
Has Governor Yu ever seen the sword?

SIR TE
Yes, though I doubt he's involved in this.

YU
But the sword could be in his compound.

SIR TE
Then someone's trying to set him up.
We should inform Li Mu Bai.

EXT. OUTSIDE GOVERNOR YU'S COMPOUND - NIGHT

Madam Yu is returning from temple. The governess is helping her out of the carriage. Servants are peeling bills off a wall across the street.

MADAM YU

What is it?

MAID

Madam Yu, someone's put up posters.

A partially torn flyer with the words "Jade Fox will not escape justice!" is seen on the ground.

MADAM YU

Let me see.

GOVERNESS

Someone is after Jade Fox.
Preposterous, looking for her here!

Madam Yu nods and walks inside, as the Governess tosses the flyer away and follows her.

A hand scoops up the flyer -- it is Yu. She studies it, then puts it in her pocket, and moves on.

EXT. BRIDGE - DAY

Bo is searching for the Tsais. The bridge is full of jugglers. But the two are nowhere to be found.

EXT. PEKING STREET - DAY

Bo quizzes a homeless man.

BO

Where are they?

HOMELESS MAN

I don't know. I haven't seen them in two days.

Bo is about to give up when he looks up and sees May walking quickly into an alley. Bo follows her.

EXT. IN FRONT OF TSAI'S HOUSE

May walks into a dilapidated house surrounded by a broken-down bamboo fence. Bo inches closer and sees May and Tsai oiling their weapons.

INT. BO'S ROOM - DAY

Jen practices calligraphy. The governess is by her side embroidering and throwing occasional glances at Jen. The maid enters.

MAID

There is a Miss Shu Lien here to see you.

Jen stops and looks up at them.

GOVERNESS

Miss is busy right now.

MAID

I'll tell her.

JEN

Show her in.

The governess shoots her a look.

GOVERNESS

This spells trouble.

JEN

I have a guest.

The governess gets up to leave just as the maid shows Yu in.

MAID

This way please.

The governess and Yu exchange quick glances. The governess bows slightly and departs.

JEN

I've missed you.

YU

How so?

JEN

I'm bored.

Yu sees the calligraphy.

YU

You're doing calligraphy?

JEN

I'll write your name. Just for fun.

Jen writes Yu's name with great confidence and swiftness.

YU

I never realized my name looks like "sword."

Jen freezes slightly.

YU

You write gracefully. Calligraphy is so similar to fencing.

JEN

Maybe it is. I wouldn't know.

The maid enters with tea.

JEN

Please.

YU

Thank you for seeing me. I hear your wedding day is near. You must be overwhelmed by the preparations.

JEN

I'm hardly doing a thing. The less
I think of it the better. My parents are arranging everything.
The Gous are a very powerful family.
My marrying one will be good for my father's career.

YU

You are fortunate to marry into such a noble family.

JEN

Am I? I wish I were like the heroes in the books I read. Like you and Li Mu Bai. I guess I'm happy to be marrying. But to be free to live my own life, to choose whom I love... That is true happiness.

YU

Do you think so? Let me tell you a story.

JEN
About you and Li Mu Bai?

YU
Yes. Did you know I was once engaged to be married?

JEN
No, really?

YU
His name was Meng Si Zhao. He was a brother to Li Mu Bai by oath.
One day, while in battle, he was killed by the sword of Li Mu Bai's enemy. After, Li Mu Bai and I went through a lot together. Our feelings for each other grew stronger. But how could we dishonor Meng's memory? So the freedom you talk about, I too desire it. But I have never tasted it.

JEN
Too bad for Meng, but it's not your fault, or Li Mu Bai's.

YU
I am not an aristocrat, as you are... but I must still respect a woman's duties.

JEN
Don't distance us. From now on, let's be like sisters.

YU
Then as a sister, let me wish you happiness in your marriage.

EXT. YU'S GARDEN - DAY

The maid escorts Yu out. Yu pauses, looks around, and sees the profile of the Governess peering at her from around a corner.

INT. JEN'S ROOM - NIGHT

Moonlight spills into the room, as Jen rises sleeplessly from bed and looks out the window. A light breeze stirs her hair. The sound of the wind rises, and slowly her face dissolves, into...

INT./EXT. CARRIAGE/MONGOLIAN DESERT - DAY

...the face of a younger, less sophisticated Jen, as she lets the dry desert air flow through her hair. She sits in a carriage, part of a caravan, with guards on horseback, that is traveling through the spectacular desert. Across from her sits her mother, of whom she is barely cognizant.

MADAM YU

What a godforsaken place! Can't your father be appointed closer to civilization? Jen... are you listening to me?

Jen is still looking out the side of the carriage, at a beautiful mountainside.

INT. JEN'S ROOM - NIGHT

Jen sighs, and turns back toward her bed.

EXT. STREET OUTSIDE GOVERNOR YU'S COMPOUND - NIGHT

Tsai and May have been sitting, hidden in the branches of a tree, watching Jen.

TSAI

Let's go!

They drop down silently and walk away. From another rooftop, Lo looks silently on.

EXT. TSAI'S HOUSE - NIGHT

Tsai and May enter the house.

INT. TSAI'S HOUSE - NIGHT

Inside the tiny house, they discover a hooded figure going through their belongings.

Immediately Tsai throws a knife, which rips off the figure's mask -- revealing Bo. Tsai has another long knife at his throat.

TSAI

Who are you?

BO

Wait! I'm a friend!

Tsai pauses.

INT. TSAI'S HOUSE - NIGHT (LATER)

May fans a small coal-fired grill that is boiling a sizzling pot of vegetable and meatball soup. Her father and Bo are now friendly dinner companions, much to May's delight.

TSAI

I don't care about your sword.

BO

Why were you spying on the Yus?

TSAI

I'm looking for someone. Jade Fox. I'm a police inspector from Shaan Xi, Gen Su district. Jade Fox is a master criminal. I hear she infiltrated the Yus. She must have come with them when they transferred here. But with Yu's reputation, I can't just go in and accuse her.

BO

This Jade Fox is a woman?

TSAI

Yes.

BO

Then leave her to me.

TSAI

Pardon me, but I doubt you can handle her. My wife was quite a martial arts expert. Jade Fox killed her. So you see, this is personal. Leave her to me.

MAY

It's ready!
(re: the soup)

BO

I'm ready for anything!

Bo fishes into the pot with his chopsticks. May intercepts him with her own chopsticks.

MAY

Father gets first dip.

Tsai stiffens and snaps his chopsticks, not to pick up a meatball but to catch an incoming dart. A dart wrapped with a note. Bo jumps up.

TSAI
They're gone.

MAY
What does it say?

TSAI
"We'll settle this at midnight on Yellow Hill." Good, the fox is out of her hole.

INT. TE'S STUDY - NIGHT

Yu is ushered into the room, to discover Sir Te talking to another man, whose back is to her.

SIR TE
Shu Lien, look who's here.

The man turns around -- it's Li Mu Bai.

EXT. TE'S HALL - NIGHT

Yu and Li Mu Bai sit together.

LI
Sir Te believes it's a ploy cast suspicion on Governor Yu.

YU
But something is going on at the Yu
household.

LI
What have you discovered?

From her sleeve, Yu removes the flyer. Li takes it, his face darkening.

LI
Jade Fox? Impossible.

YU
You always suspected she'd fled to the West.

LI
I didn't think she'd dare come back to Peking!

YU

Is there any place safer than under the nose of Governor Yu?

LI

So I shall avenge my master's death after all.

YU

Be careful. Sir Te requires discretion. Official business is difficult enough. Don't let personal feelings make it worse.
And I don't know... even this poster... could be some sort of trap.

LI

Did you see who posted it?

Yu pauses.

YU

No.

LI

It says Jade Fox is hiding at Yu's.
On the night of the theft there was a brawl near Yu's. Were you involved?

YU

It was Bo, Sir Te's man. I hear he followed the thief to the Yus'.

LI

Have you questioned him yet?

YU

No, not yet...

LI

But your men are watching over Yu's compound?

YU

No, I'd already sent them home.
You can blame me for losing the sword, but please trust that I'll get it back soon using my own methods.

LI

That's not what I meant. I don't care about the sword.

YU

What do you mean? Didn't you come back here for it?

LI

I don't know it was stolen until I got here.

YU

Then, why did you come?

LI

Well, we had talked...

De Lu enters.

DE LU

Pardon my intrusion. Master Li, your room is ready.

LI

Thank you. Please lead the way.

EXT. YELLOW HILL - NIGHT

Tsai, Bo, and May wait under an ancient tree. Bo stifles a yawn.

BO

The fox doesn't care much for punctuality. Still no sign of her.

An old lady struggles up the hill, wearing a floppy hat over her face, holding a cane. The three exchange glances.

TSAI

Enough! Show yourself.

The old woman shrinks in fear, but then throws off her disguise and unveils herself -- the Governess.

FOX

Tsai... you dog! You will pay for your stubbornness.

BO

That's what you think, old witch!

TSAI

If you surrender now, you'll suffer less. But if you resist, I won't stop until you're dead.

MAY

Father! Let me avenge my mother's death.

FOX

You'll soon end up like her, you little whore!

BO

You'll pay for that!

A fierce battle begins, the main fighting between Tsai and Fox, with May and Bo getting a stab in occasionally, when the opportunity presents itself.

TSAI

(to Bo)

She's going to paralyze you!

Using acupressure, Fox disables Bo. May shoots an arrow at her, but she catches it and flings it back, hitting May.

TSAI

May!

Fox then disables Tsai, but just as she goes for the kill, Li Mu Bai flies down from the treetops and steps between them.

FOX

Tsai, you filthy mongrel! An ambush!

MAY

Father, are you all right?

Li addresses Fox.

LI

Wudan should have gotten rid of you long ago. It's been a long time, Jade Fox! You don't remember me... But you should remember my master. You infiltrated Wudan while I was away. You stole our master! Now it's time for you to pay!

FOX

Your master underestimated us women. Sure, he'd sleep with me, but he would never teach me. He deserved to die by a woman's hand!

LI

You stole the secrets of Wudan's highest martial arts. But after ten years of training, your moves are still undisciplined. And today, under a Wudan sword... you will die!

Li easily brings Fox to the ground.

Li raises his sword to the prostrate Fox. A figure masked in black appears next to Fox, sword extended, saving her.

FOX

Disciple, we'll kill them all!

FIGURE IN BLACK

Let's go!

BO

Another one!

FOX

I must get rid of Tsai!

Fox fights Tsai, Bo, and May, as Li addresses the masked figure.

LI

Who are you? Why is the Green
Destiny in your possession?

FIGURE IN BLACK

What's it to you?

LI

My name is Li Mu Bai. The Green Destiny is mine. Jade Fox can't be your master. Where did you learn that "Xuan Piu" move?

FIGURE IN BLACK

I'm just playing around.

LI

Tell me, who is your master?

FIGURE IN BLACK

Let's go!

FOX

We must kill them!

Tsai throws his blade at Fox, who catches it and throws it back, hitting him in the head. Fox and the masked figure leap away.

May drops to the ground, cradling her dead father's head. Bo kneels beside her.

MAY

Father!

EXT. TE'S - DAY

Te and a group of his men look down as a cloth is removed from over the body of Tsai. Bo and May stand before them.

TE

This is Tsai?

MAY

My father. Police Inspector from Shaan.

TE

This should be reported to Governor Yu. The victim is an officer. You believe the killer is hiding out in his compound.

YU

I'd bet my life on it!

TE

(to Li and Yu)

Come with me.

He exits the room.

INT. TE'S STUDY - DAY

Te, Li, and Yu are seated.

SIR TE

This needs to be resolved, and quickly.

LI

I'll get into the Yu household and get her. I'll ferret out Fox and her gang.

YU

We must be careful. Governor Yu is a court official, and in charge of security. Any disturbance will cast suspicion on him. It might get Sir Te in trouble.

SIR TE
This is a delicate matter.

YU
Sir Te, can you find some excuse to invite Madam Yu and her daughter?

SIR TE
What do you have in mind?

YU
The best way to trap a fox is through her cubs.

Sir Te and Li look puzzled.

EXT. SIR TE'S GARDEN - DAY

Yu sits with Madam Yu and Jen. They busy themselves with various items for her trousseau.

MADAM YU
Madam Te is certainly spoiling us with these wedding gifts. She's being so considerate.

YU
I'm sorry she's not feeling well enough to receive you today.

MADAM YU
I heard Sir Te lost something. And now Madame Te's not feeling well...

Jen sits silently reading.

YU
We know who stole the missing item. If the thief returns it, I'm sure Sir Te will pursue the matter no further.

MADAM YU
That's good. Sometimes the help can't keep their hands to themselves. It's very embarrassing.

YU

Sir Te knows that even well-meaning people can make mistakes... that can bring ruin to themselves and their families.

MADAM YU

But don't be too lenient.

YU

No mercy will be shown toward the murderer who turned up in Peking.

MADAM YU

A murderer?

YU

Yes. The very killer of Li Mu Bai's own master. Last night, she killed a policeman who had tracked her down.

MADAM YU

A female criminal! Now that's news!

Jen becomes visibly upset.

JEN

You say she killed a policeman?

YU

Yes, from the West. He went undercover and followed her here,

MADAM YU

Maybe the murderer and the thief are one and the same.

YU

I doubt it. This thief... it very unusual...

As Yu speaks, she lifts the tea pot to pour Jen some tea. As she finishes speaking, she looks into Jen's face and the pot slips from her hand. Without even looking down, Jen instinctively catches the pot with a lightning-fast move.

YU

...And most likely smarter than a mere killer.

Sir Te and Li Mu Bai walk by.

JEN
(formal)
Greetings, Sir Te.

SIR TE
Hello, Madam Yu. This is Li Mu
Bai, the renowned swordsman.

LI
Delighted to meet you.

Li sizes Jen up.

TE
Miss Yu is soon to be married.

LI
Congratulations.

EXT. TSAI'S HOUSE - NIGHT

May opens her door, only to find Bo standing guard.

MAY
Why don't you come in?

BO
I'm standing guard.

MAY
Come in. It's cold.

She turns back inside, hesitates, then turns back to him.

MAY
Come in. We don't have to fear
Jade Fox if we're together.

EXT. TE COMPOUND - NIGHT

A still, dark night.

EXT. TE'S STUDY - NIGHT

Something moves in the moonlight. A hooded figure jumps down.

Li Mu Bai, who had been hiding in the shadows, comes forward.

LI
Isn't it a bit too late to be out?
You've brought me the sword?

FIGURE
I do as I please.

The masked figure lunges away, but Li Mu Bai leaps with incredible speed and grabs the sword from her.

LI
Where's your master?

FIGURE
What's it to you?

The figure floats away. Li chases after her.

EXT. PEKING STREET - NIGHT

The two fly over houses and bounce off of rooftops, displaying amazing floating skills.

INT. ABANDONED MONASTERY - NIGHT

The figure bounces into an old monastery. Li is already there.

LI
Had enough flying? You've got potential. You've studied the Wudan Manual but you don't understand it. You need a real master.

The figure doesn't respond, but we sense the pride in her eyes.

FIGURE
Do you think you are a real master?

LI
Like most things, I am nothing. It's the same for this sword. All of it is simply a state of mind.

FIGURE
Stop talking like a monk! Just fight!

LI
Then tell me where Jade Fox is.

FIGURE
On guard!

LI

Real sharpness comes without effort.

EXT. MONASTERY - NIGHT

The figure leaps into the garden, but again, Li is ahead of her.

The figure attacks Li, who uses his agility to evade her. Frustrated, the figure intensifies her attack.

The figure, losing composure, attacks wildly. Li gets even more elusive, using a branch to repel her.

LI

No growth without assistant. No action without reaction. No desire without restraint. Now give yourself up and find yourself again. There is a lesson for you.

Li now holds the stick to her mask, gently raising it slightly.

FIGURE

Go ahead.

LI

Why should I? You need practice. I can teach you to fight with the Green Destiny, but first you must learn to hold it in stillness.

FIGURE

Why do you want to teach me?

LI

I've always wanted a disciple worthy of Wudan's secrets.

FIGURE

And if I use them to kill you?

LI

That's a risk I'm willing to take. Deep down, you're good. Even Jade Fox couldn't corrupt you.

The figure's eyes cloud with tears.

FIGURE

Wudan is a whorehouse! Keep your lessons!

The figure swirls and takes off, leaving a rueful Li standing alone in the monastery.

INT. JEN'S ROOM - NIGHT

Jen slips in through the window. She pulls off her mask, as she spots the Governess/Fox sitting and sewing.

FOX

You're home late... or should I say early?

JEN

Why are you still here? You killed a policeman. You should leave! You'll bring ruin on my whole family.

FOX

They wouldn't have found me if you hadn't stolen the sword. Like a little girl, you thought stealing would be fun? You, too, are responsible for that death. Come with me. You don't want to waste your life as the wife of some bureaucrat. Denied your talent... As a master and disciple we will rule.

JEN

I'll never live as a thief!

FOX

You're already a thief.

JEN

That was just for fun. How can I leave? Where would I go?

FOX

Wherever we want. We'll get rid of anyone in our way. Even your father.

JEN

Shut up!

FOX

It's the Giang Hu fighter lifestyle... kill or be killed. Exciting, isn't it?

JEN

I owe you nothing.

FOX

Yes, you do! You are still my disciple.

Jen lunges at the Governess, and the two exchange a few blows. Jen presses her finger against one of the Governess's pressure points, disabling her. Jen pushes her across the room.

JEN

You think you've been teaching me all these years from the manual?
You couldn't even decipher the symbols!

FOX

I studied the diagrams. But you hid the details!

JEN

You wouldn't have understood, even if I had tried to explain. You know... you've gone as far as you can go. I hid my skills so as not to hurt you.

FOX

If I hadn't seen you fight with Li Mu Bai, I'd still be ignorant of all you've hidden from me.

JEN

Master... I started learning from you in secret when I was 10. You enchanted me with the world of Giang Hu. But once I realized I could surpass you, I became so frightened! Everything fell apart.
I had no one to guide me, no one to learn from.

FOX

Believe me, I've a lesson or two left to teach you!

Fox exits.

EXT. GOVERNOR YU'S GATE - DAY

The Governess leaves, a small sack over her back.

EXT. TE'S COURTYARD - DAY

Li practices fluently with Green Destiny in hand, beautifully at ease with the weapon. He spins around to find Yu standing in the doorway.

YU

The sword is back... are you happy?

Li smiles.

LI

I admit, getting it back makes me realize how much I'd missed it.

YU

But it's not your sword anymore.
You gave it to Sir Te.

LI

True. But I must borrow it for one last mission. Jade Fox must die at its edge. Did you know what you were hiding when you covered for that girl?

YU

My job was to get the sword back, without embarrassing anyone. I wasn't about to ruin her life, or her father's.

LI

You did your job well. But, this girl... I saw her last night.

YU

I knew she would intrigue you.

LI

She needs direction... and training.

YU

She's an aristocrat's daughter. She's not one of us. In any case, it will all be over soon. You'll kill Fox, and she'll marry.

LI

That's not for her. She should come to Wudan and become a disciple.

YU

But Wudan does not accept women.

LI

For her, they might make an exception. If not, I'm afraid she'll become a poisoned dragon.

YU

It's not our affair. Even if Wudan accepts her, her husband might object.

LI

I thought by giving away the sword,
I could escape the Giang Hu world.
But the cycle of bloodshed continues.

YU

I wish there were something more I could do to help you.

LI

Just be patient with me, Shu Lien.

INT. JEN'S ROOM - NIGHT

Jen is asleep. A noise awakens her.

Lo opens the window and sneaks in -- right into the point of Jen's waiting sword.

Jen's sword drops to the ground.

JEN

Lo?

LO

Jen!

Lo grabs her by the wrist.

JEN

You shouldn't have come.

LO

With all the traffic on your rooftop these days... it took me a while to get in here. I can't wait any longer. I was wrong to let you go. Come back with me. You'll be happy in the desert. You'll be free there.

Jen turns back to him and rests herself briefly in his arms again.

JEN

You've been looking for me all this time?

FLASHBACK: FOUR YEARS EARLIER

INT./EXT. CARRIAGE/MONGOLIAN DESERT - DAY

Jen holds up a comb, with daylight shining through it. Jen admires the piece, her most prized possession.

Madam Yu sits opposite her.

MADAM YU

Jen... stop playing with it.

Jen looks out over the desert, as the wind picks up and the sky darkens.

JEN

I won't break it.

EXT. CARRIAGE/MONGOLIAN DESERT - DAY

Lo and a group of armed bandits descend on the caravan.

GUARD A

It's Dark Cloud! Dark Cloud is coming!

His warning is useless. From Jen's pov, we see the guards slaughtered in a hail of arrows and swords.

MADAM YU

Lower the shade, don't let them see you!

DARK CLOUD (LO)

Don't touch the women!

Though unharmed, Madam Yu immediately faints. Lo approaches the carriage and grabs the comb from Jen's hand.

She bolts from the carriage, and, once outside, bends down and grabs a lance from the body of a dead guard, whose horse flails beside him.

She looks up to see the gang of bandits already making their escape on horseback.

LO

Let's go!

EXT. DESERT - DAY

Jen and Lo ride across the desert floor at breakneck speed.

LO

Come get your comb.

She tries to jab him with the lance, but he grabs it and flings her off her horse.

LO

Hurry back to your mother.

Lo rides on as she charges after her horse.

EXT. DESERT BLUFF - DAY

A group of bandits is dividing up the loot, as Jen rides up, keeping a respectable distance. They notice her and rise as she dismounts.

One of them saunters over to her and stands, grinning, a few feet away.

In a second, she's slammed his balls into his stomach and knocked his nose into his face. He crumples to the sand.

The other bandits stop laughing, quickly exchange glances, and charge her at once.

In a matter of seconds, they're either on the ground or dragging their fallen comrades back.

Lo calls out and stops the fight.

LO

She's mine.

EXT. DESERT - DAY

Lo and Jen ride, if not side-by-side, then parallel, about 20 feet apart. Their pace has slowed considerably. In fact, they're dead tired.

LO

Let's stop a moment.

JEN

Give it back!

LO
(shouting a bit)
You're tired. You need rest. Your horse needs water. There's a creek up here.

He dismounts, looks down at the dry creek bed.

LO
Well, there used to be! What's your name? I'm Lo. The Hans call me Dark Cloud. I'm not that tall or big, but I'm quick as lightning.

JEN
My comb!

She kicks him. They fight ferociously until Lo, exhausted, collapses. She kicks him a few times, then collapses too.

INT. CAVE - DAY

Jen comes to and finds herself wrapped in a blanket of animal fur. She sits up with a start and checks her clothes.
Looking around, she realizes she's in a cave. Next to her are a lamp, some hunting equipment, and a neat row of sharp arrows. She quickly grabs one of the arrows.

LO
If you like that arrow, I can make you a bow. Great for hunting wild chicken. They're delicious.

Jen raises one of the arrows, going on the attack again, but her legs betray her and she falls.

LO
You need to eat, understand? Then you'll have the strength to fight.
Understand?

He helps her up, then pours her some horse milk from a sac.
He hands her a small chunk of food, which she first accepts grudgingly, then, her hunger getting the better of her, she starts to wolf it down.

LO
You're eating too fast. Slowly.

EXT. CAVE - DAY

Lo walks out into a barren mountain landscape. A chicken roasts over a fire. Lo whistles.

Jen appears suddenly with a rock and knocks it over his head.
Lo passes out as Jen scurries away.

EXT. MOUNTAINSIDE AND DESERT - DAY

Jen tries to find her way among the treacherous stony terrain, her lips chapped and fingers bloody and blistered. But soon she passes out.

INT. CAVE - NIGHT

Jen again awakes inside the cave. Lo tries to feed her some water, but she chokes, and tries to push him away, only to find that her legs and hands are tied up.

LO
You've got quite a temper. It's better this way.

JEN
You coward!

LO
Still in a bad mood? At least you're speaking. What's your name?

Jen spits at Lo.

LO
I didn't think the Hans had names
like that.

Later: She weaves in and out of consciousness. In the flickering lights, she sees Lo sharpening his arrows.

Later, he pulls back an opaque curtain to reveal a makeshift bathroom -- a water-filled cavity serves as a tub.

He rises as Jen sobs at the sight of her imprisoned and dishevelled body. He comes over and unties her.

LO
Relax. If I had wanted to, I would already have done it. You must be dying for a bath. Fresh water's hard to get here. But I managed to bring some up. You can wear my clothes when you're done. They're clean. Don't worry. I'll sing, so you'll know where I am. After the bath, you'll be calmer.

Jen nods and the bandit releases her. He starts to sing as he walks out. Jen waits until the sound recedes before closing the curtain behind her and dipping into the pit. While she bathes, she listens to his singing, a loud rendition of a tribal song. Lo apparently doesn't remember all the lyrics, and la-las his way through more than a few passages. Jen smiles.

INT. CAVE - NIGHT

Jen grimaces as Lo pulls the last of some cactus needles from the soles of her feet.

LO

No more hitting on the head! All this trouble for a comb?

JEN

It's mine. It means a lot to me. A barbarian like you wouldn't understand.

LO

Not true. I can use it to pick fleas from my horse.

JEN

By the way, I'm a real Manchurian.

LO

I'm sorry... I guessed wrong. I though you were a Han.

JEN

Give me back my comb.

LO

I don't take orders from anyone.

JEN

Give it back.

Jen impulsively grabs an arrow and stabs Lo, drawing a little blood from his chest. Furious, Lo lunges at her and they tussle briefly. Finally, Lo gets on top of Jen, and the scuffling becomes more like foreplay. Violence turns into unleashed passion.

EXT. DESERT OASIS - DAY

Lo and Jen ride across the desert. Jen holds tightly to him.

EXT. CAVE - NIGHT

Lo and Jen lie in the bath together.

LO

When I was a boy, one night, I saw a thousand shooting stars. I thought, where did they all go?
I'm an orphan. I used to look for stars alone. I thought if I rode to the other end of the desert, I'd find them. I've been riding in the desert ever since.

JEN

And so, the little boy became a fearsome bandit. He couldn't find the stars, so he stole my comb.

Lo pauses.

LO

Out here, you always fight for survival. You have to be part of a gang to stand a chance. Slowly, your gang becomes your family. All that Dark Cloud stuff is just to scare people and make my life easier.

JEN

So you're still that little boy looking for shooting stars.

LO

I am a man. And now I've found the brightest star of all.

EXT. DESERT - DAY

Lo sees uniformed men through his binoculars.

LO

Your father's men are looking for
you.

Jen doesn't respond.

EXT. DESERT - DAY

Lo and Jen ride through a mountain pass.

EXT. CLIFF - DAY

Lo and Jen stand at the crest of a cliff. Lo looks over, viewing the desert valley below, as Jen joins him. They see a troop of uniformed men riding by in the distance.

LO

Your father's men are still looking for you. They're still out there, circling closer.

JEN

Let them look.

LO

It is trouble for me.

Jen bites her lip.

JEN

Don't send me back!

LO

You must decide. You might get tired of this life. You might begin to miss your family. If it were our daughter, we'd look for her too. She would miss us. Jen... I want you to be mine forever. I will make my mark on the world. I will earn your parents' respect. We have a legend. Anyone who dares to jump from the mountain, God will grant his wish. Long ago, a young man's parents were ill, so he jumped. He didn't die. He wasn't even hurt. He floated away, far away, never to return. He knew his wish had come true. If you believe, it will happen. The elders say, "A faithful heart makes wishes come true."

INT. TENT - DAY

Jen and Lo kiss. Jen takes the jade comb out of her hair and presses it into his palm. Jen starts to cry. They embrace.

JEN

Keep it safe. Return it to me when we are together again.

LO

I will.

JEN
(smiling painfully)
If you don't, I'll come after you.
And I won't let you off so easy.

EXT. TENT - DAY

Jen quietly walks out and stands sadly in the early morning light.

End of flashback.

INT. JEN'S ROOM - NIGHT

LO
Wherever I went, someone always recognized me. I really tried.
Later, I heard you came to Peking.
I was afraid I'd never see you again. So I came. I can't let you marry.

Jen is about to respond when a servant's voice is heard from outside the door.

JEN
(whispering)
Go.

LO
Jen...

JEN
(through her tears)
Don't ever come back.

Lo hovers at the window frame.

LO
So it's over?

Jen pauses.

JEN
Yes.

Lo thrusts a small object in her hand.

He lifts his legs through the window, and drops out of sight, just as Jen's door is opened from the hall.

MAID
We heard noises.

JEN
It was just a cat.

The maid pauses, then dutifully exits, closing the door.

Jen opens up her palm; gasping, she sees the comb that Lo has given her.

EXT. WEDDING PROCESSION - DAY

The noise and color of a wedding procession. A marching band heralds the occasion, as throngs of onlookers fight to get a glimpse of the groom, Gou Jun Pei, who trots by on a handsome white horse.

INT. WEDDING CARRIAGE - DAY

Jen's head is completely covered in red cloth, as she rides silently in the bride's carriage.

EXT. BALCONY OVERLOOKING WEDDING PROCESSION - DAY

Li and Yu watch the festivities from a balcony of the city gate.

YU
You think Jade Fox will show up?

LI
She's out there, but I doubt she'll show herself. We'll keep our eyes open. Sooner or later, she'll come for the girl.

INT. WEDDING CARRIAGE - DAY

A small arrow flies into the carriage. Jen calmly lifts the red cloth from her face and pulls the arrow out of the panelling inside the carriage.

We hear Lo's voice from outside the carriage, but Jen doesn't seem to notice.

LO
(v.o.)
Jen! Come with me! You're mine!

Lo runs wildly into the crowd.

LO
Come with me to the desert! Jen!
Come with me to Xin Jiang!

The guards surround Lo, but he escapes.

EXT. BEIJING STREET - DAY

Lo leaps and lands right in front of Li Mu Bai, his fingers pressed against Lo's neck. Yu comes running around the corner and sees them.

LI
Where is Jade Fox?

Yu jumps in and pushes Li away.

YU
(to Lo)
Come with me! Hurry!

INT. CITY OUTSKIRTS - DAY

Lo sits dejectedly, having told his story to Yu and Li, who look him over.

YU
(to Lo)
You thought she'd give it all up and go back West with you?

LO
She's mine.

LI
Either way, you are no good to her dead. With the Gou and Yu clans hunting you, you'll soon be in their hands.

LO
I don't care anymore.

LI
If you truly loved her, you wouldn't say that.

YU
Don't you want to see her again.

LI
All right. I'll write you an introduction. Take it to Wudan.
Wait there for news from me.

LO

All right.

EXT. TE COMPOUND - NIGHT

Yu and Li enter, as other men and women race through the compound, a sense of panic in the air. Yu gives Li a look. Li shrugs.

INT. TE'S HALL - NIGHT

A crowd, including Li and Yu, stand by as Te opens the empty sword case, his voice rising.

SIR TE

When will this end? They take it, they put it back, they take it again. My home is turning into a warehouse.

Bo bursts into the hall, bows to Te.

TE

Speak!

BO

Jen has run away! Gou found the wedding chamber empty. Governor Yu requests your assistance. You know the Giang Hu underworld. He wants to find her, and keep her from harm.

LI

Sir Te, leave this to us. Don't worry.

INT. TEA STALL - DAY

Jen arrives at the tea stall. She places her sword on the table, which catches the attention of a couple of Giang Hu martial arts characters sitting nearby.

WAITRESS

What can I serve you?

As the waitress turns to leave, Jen grabs her by the arm.

JEN

The cup is dirty.

The flustered waitress apologizes and takes the cup away. The men approach Jen.

GANGSTER A

Hello. What is your name?

JEN
(without lifting her eyes)
Long.

GANGSTER B
It's young Master Long. My apologies. I'm Iron Eagle Sung and this is my brother in arms, Flying Cougar Li Yun. What brings you to Huai An, and where are you headed, Master Long?

JEN
Anywhere there's action.

The two men exchange glances.

GANGSTER A
In that case, perhaps we could be of assistance.

JEN
Don't bother.

GANGSTER A
You don't seem to understand.

JEN
So what if I don't?

GANGSTER B
We have ways of helping you understand.

The two pull out their weapons which are immediately chopped into scraps by Jen.

GANGSTER A
(stunned)
Are you related to Li Mu Bai?

JEN
He is my defeated foe!

EXT. WOODS - DAY

Li and Yu pass a cup back and forth as Bo tends to the horses in the background.

YU
Have some tea.

As Yu passes the cup to Li, their fingers touch.
Embarrassed, Li pulls back.

LI

Shu Lien... The things we touch have no permanence. My master would say... there is nothing we can hold on to in this world. Only by letting go can we truly possess what is real.

YU

Not everything is an illusion. My hand... wasn't that real?

LI

Your hand, rough and callused from machete practice... All this time,
I've never had the courage to touch
it.

Li takes Yu's hand and presses it to his face.

LI

Giang Hu is a world of tigers and dragons, full of corruption... I tried sincerely to give it up but I have brought us only trouble.

YU

To repress one's feelings only makes them stronger.

LI

You're right, but I don't know what to do. I want to be with you... just like this. It gives me a sense of peace.

Li Mu Bai smiles.

INT. STAR RESTAURANT - DAY

Jen walks upstairs. A waiter greets her.

WAITER

Please follow me.

JEN

I want a clean room.

WAITER

We have plenty. Your order?

Jen again sets her sword on the table as she sits down.

JEN

Steamed whole cod, bite-size meatballs, a little starchy, but keep the sauce light, shark fin soup, mixed vegetables, and some warm wine.

WAITER

(dazed)

I have to order from a bigger restaurant.

JEN

Hurry then.

The waiter gauges Jen for an instant before bouncing off to place the orders. Jen checks her pouch and sees there's not much money left.

A large group of Giang Hu characters enters. They survey the restaurant and quickly find Jen upstairs.

GIANG HU A

That's him.

MI BIAO

I am Iron Arm Mi. I heard a true master has arrived. I have come to seek a lesson.

Jen ignores him.

MI BIAO

(bristles)

You asked for it!

Mi charges and attacks Jen, who is still sitting sipping tea.
Jen barely lifts a finger and disposes of Mi with a poke at a sensitive pressure point. This provokes a reaction from the other men.

JEN

What kind of Iron Arm are you?

FLYING MACHETE CHANG

You have amazing technique! I am Flying Machete. Are you related to Southern Crane?

JEN

Southern Duck? I don't eat anything with two feet. Who could remember such long-winded names?

GOU JUN SIHUNG

Li Mu Bai is your defeated foe, and you don't know his master, Southern Crane?

JEN

Who are you?

GOU JUN SIHUNG

I'm Shining Phoenix Mountain Gou.

JEN

(furious)

Gou? I hate that name. It makes me puke! Too bad you're named Gou.
You'll be the first to feel my sword today.

Jen leaps up and dives into battle. The men all use different kinds of weapons, but they all succumb to the powerful Green Destiny.

MONK JING

Hold it! Don't you know Monk Jing?

JEN

A monk, in a place like this? You need a lesson!

MONK JING

Who are you?

She smiles, and leaps again into action after unsheathing the Green Destiny.

JEN

Who am I? I am... I am the Invincible Sword Goddess. Armed with the Incredible... Green Destiny. Be you Li or Southern Crane... lower your head... and ask for mercy. I am the desert dragon.
I leave no trace. Today I fly over Eu-Mei. Tomorrow... I'll kick over Wudan Mountain!

Jen is in a frenzy, slashing and maiming as she speaks.

INT. STAR RESTAURANT - DAY

Yu and Li are surrounded by the variously bandaged men who battled with Jen.

FLYING MACHETE CHANG

We politely asked for a friendly match, but she showed no respect, and attacked us. Everyone came by to teach her a lesson.

MI BIAO

Her sword was just too powerful.

MONK JING

I've traveled everywhere, but never met anyone so uncivilized.

SHINING PHOENIX MOUNTAIN GOD

(heavily bandaged)

She kept accusing me of being Gou Jun Pei's brother. Who is this Gou, anyway?

YU

Her husband.

The men all nod their heads.

EXT. OUTSIDE HWAI AN - DAY

Li and Yu ride together.

LI

(to Yu)

We're close to your headquarters. Go home and check in.

YU

What about you?

LI

I'll look around and catch up later.

YU

Not a bad idea. Tonight we'll get a good night's sleep at headquarters.

Yu takes a fork off the road. Thunder can be heard in the darkening sky.

EXT. SUN COMPOUND - DAY

A group of security men are practicing Kung Fu in the front yard of Sun Security. They stop when Yu enters.

SECURITY MAN A
Mistress, you're back.

YU
It's you! How's everything here?

CAPTAIN
Fine. You've been gone a while.

YU
Yes, and I leave again tomorrow.
Your wife was due?

AH WAI
Yeah, a baby girl.

YU
Good!

AH WAI
I'll be happy if she's half as strong as you.

YU
Mrs. Wu...

AUNT WU
You're back!

YU
How's the arm? Still sore?

AUNT WU
Much better. You've been gone so long.

YU
Li Mu Bai is coming to stay the night.

AUNT WU
(excited)
I'll go and make up his room!

Aunt Wu hustles out. Yu goes into her own room.

INT. HALL OF ANCESTRAL WORSHIP

Yu lights incense for her former fiancé Meng. Hearing something, she turns to see a dishevelled Jen standing outside downstairs.

JEN
Sister Shu Lien...

INT. YU'S ROOM - DAY

Yu eases her guard, then opens a drawer, and takes out some clothes. Jen, wearing just white underclothing, sets herself on the edge of Yu's bed. Yu brings over the clothes.

YU
Here you must be in proper attire.

JEN
I'm just borrowing some clean clothes. I'm not staying.

YU
I'll give them to you.

JEN
I was just passing by and wondered how you were.

Jen tries to hide her anxiety but finally breaks down on Yu's shoulder in tears.

JEN
You, sister...

YU
Look at the trouble you've caused. Now you know what Giang Hu life is really like. If you think of me as your sister, let me give you some sisterly advice. You can run from marriage, but not your parents.

JEN
They forced me to marry!

YU
Go back to them first. Then you can decide about Lo.

JEN
You know about Lo?

YU
He really loves you. Come back to Peking with me. We'll find a solution.

JEN

Where is he now?

YU

Li Mu Bai has made arrangements.
He sent him to Wudan Mountain.

JEN

You're working together to set me up! I'm leaving!

YU

How dare you accuse us? I always knew you had stolen the sword!
I've done nothing but protect you and your family. And you're repaid me with nothing but contempt. Li Mu Bai himself spared you, and all you do is insult him. We wanted some peace and you've ruined it all!
You're no sister of mine!

JEN

What do I care? You were never a real friend anyway. But I wonder, how long could you last as my enemy?

Jen gets up to leave. Yu intercepts her.

YU

Put the sword down!

Jen jumps out.

INT. YUAN COURTYARD - DAY

Jen soars out to the front courtyard where the guards are still practicing.

They raise their weapons at the sight of an intruder.

YU

(calling out)

Jen!

Jen greets Yu with the Green Destiny.

YU

Everyone out. Shut the doors.

The men leave.

YU

Fine... the friendship is over.

Yu scoops up a weapon from one of many lying around and begins her battle with Jen.

Yu uses every weapon that's available against Jen but none are any match for the Green Destiny.

After slicing through another set of Yu's weapons, Jen looks admiringly at the Green Destiny in her hands.

YU

Don't touch it! That's Li Mu Bai's sword.

JEN

Come and get it if you can.

YU

Without the Green Destiny, you are nothing.

JEN

Don't be a sore loser. Go ahead.
Take your pick. I'll wait. Go ahead.

Yu picks up a huge broad sword and attacks. Just as the Green Destiny slices it in half, Yu holds the broken blade at Jen's neck. She pauses before hurting Jen, then pulls back.

YU

Give me the sword.

Jen, taking advantage of Yu's trust, slices her arm.

JEN

Take it!

Yu, her shoulder bleeding, falls back as Li Mu Bai jumps in.

LI

(enraged)

Stop it! You don't deserve the Green Destiny.

JEN

Not another lecture! On guard!

LI

Let's end this here.

JEN

Only the sword will settle this.

Jen soars up to the rooftop, with Li right on her tail.

EXT. LAKE - DAY

Jen floats over the lake, Li close behind.

EXT. BAMBOO FOREST - DAY

Jen runs into a sea of bamboo. She appears to have lost Li but is not slowing down. Her white clothes are now stained with blood and mud. The wind had picked up and every breeze sounds like an air attack by Li.

The two leap onto the tips of the bamboo trees and begin their dances and dodges. They glance off bamboos and each other while staying afloat. Finally Jen lands on the same stick of bamboo as Li. The two hold their positions for a while, as the bamboo bends.

LI

I only let you go because I wanted to see the real you.

Jen tries to shake Li off the bamboo but Li recovers nicely.

JEN

What do you know about a true heart?

Li suddenly leaps off the bamboo tree. The bamboo straightens up and throws Jen toward the ground. Jen quickly pulls herself up and charges at Li.

Jen chases after Li, into a clearing, out of the bamboo forest.

EXT. RIVER - DAY

Jen finally catches up to Li, who is standing on a rock about a few feet wide amid the rapids. Jen vaults onto the rock and scuffles with Li. Jen loses her balance.

JEN

What do you want?

LI

What I've always wanted, to teach
you.

JEN

All right. If you can take back the sword in three moves, I'll go with you.

Li takes the sword back.

JEN
Give it back!

LI
Kneel!

JEN Never!

LI
Then you have no use for the sword.

Li throws the sword into the rapids.

Jen dives in to retrieve it. He follows Jen downstream by hopping from one rock to another. Jen recovers the sword but is herself drowning. Suddenly Jade Fox swings into the rapids and fishes Jen out. Jade Fox carries the unconscious Jen away. Li gives chase, but loses them.

INT. ABANDONED FACTORY - DAY

It's raining. Inside an old factory, Fox heats some medicine paste and then dips a needle in the paste. She burns the needle point, causing a blue smoke. She lights some incense and puts it in a burner near Jen, who is barely conscious.

FOX
Sooner or later, they'd drag you back to Peking. Your parents will never accept you again. But why go home? We've gone this far, we won't stop now. You'll always be my lady. At last, we'll be our own masters. We'll be happy. That's the most important thing. All we have left is each other, right?
Lie down and rest.

Jen is too weak to respond.

Fox leaves Jen clutching the Green Destiny.

EXT. ABANDONED FACTORY - DAY

Fox scurries ahead in the rain. Her eyes catch something, but she keeps moving.

INT. YUAN COMPOUND - DAY

Aunt Wu finishes bandaging Yu.

AUNT WU
She's crazy. You should have killed her.

YU
I didn't have the heart.

AUNT WU
Well, Li Mu Bai can do it.

Yu senses movement at the window. Looking out, she sees Jade Fox in the distance.

INT. ABANDONED FACTORY - DAY

Jen wakes up, flushed from fever. She takes a sip from a cup of water -- it's empty. She tosses the cup, gets up, and walks into the rain.

EXT. ABANDONED FACTORY - DAY

Jen walks out, raises her face into the rain, and drinks the raindrops. Thirst quenched, she turns around and finds Li standing there. Jen limps towards him while mumbling.

JEN
Is it me or the sword you want?

Jen falls into Li, who checks her pulse and looks at her eyes.

LI
You've been drugged!

Li carries her inside, kicking away the incense burner.

INT. ABANDONED FACTORY - DAY

Li lays his hands on Jen's back; she slowly comes to.

LI
Where is Jade Fox?

Jen gestures that she doesn't know. Yu and Bo enter. Yu looks at Jen.

YU
What happened?

LI

Jade Fox drugged her. How did you get here?

YU

We followed Jade Fox.

Instantaneously, a flurry of darts flies directly in Jen's direction. Li and Yu swipe miraculously at them all, sending them flinging hither and thither.

Fox shows herself. Li attacks her. She falls back, bleeding to death.

LI

And so you die.

Li touches his neck.

FOX

And so shall you!

Li pulls a single needle from his neck.

YU

A poisoned needle!

FOX

You deserve to die, but the life I was hoping to take... was Jen's. Ten years I devoted to you. But you deceived me! You hid the manual's true meaning. I never improved... but your progress was limitless! You know what poison is? An eight-year-old girl, full of deceit. That's poison! Jen! My only family... my only enemy...

Jade Fox dies.

YU

You can't die! Tell us what poison you used! You can't die! Tell us the antidote! You can't let Li Mu Bai die!

JEN

She used Purple Yin... Purple Yin poison. It goes straight to the heart.

LI

My blood will soon reverse its flow.
It's the same poison she used to kill my master. There is no antidote.

YU

That can't be! Everything has an antithesis! Why not this?

JEN

The antidote exists. She taught it to me. The formula is simple, but it takes time to prepare. Trust me.
As you have helped me, let me help
you.

LI

All right. Hurry. I will hold on as long as I can.

YU

(takes the comb from her hair)

Take my horse and go to the compound.
Give this to Mrs. Wu. She'll help you. Hurry!

JEN

Spare your energy. I'll be back!

EXT. ABANDONED FACTORY - NIGHT

Bo is burying Fox in the rain.

EXT. YUAN COMPOUND - NIGHT

The guards surround Jen. She pushes past them.

JEN

Where is Mrs. Wu?

Aunt Wu comes running out.

AUNT WU

Stop it!

Jen pulls out Yu's comb.

JEN

Shu Lien told me to show you this.

AUNT WU

Let her in.

INT. ABANDONED FACTORY - NIGHT

Yu sits across from Li, whose pose is almost meditational, eerily calm.

YU

Mu Bai, hold on. Give me some hope...

LI

Shu Lien...

YU

Save your strength.

LI

My life is departing. I've only one breath left.

YU

Use it to meditate. Free yourself from this world as you have been taught. Let your soul rise to eternity with your last breath. Do not waste it... for me.

LI

I've already wasted my whole life. I want to tell you with my last breath... I have always loved you. I would rather be a ghost, drifting by your side... as a condemned soul... than enter heaven without you. Because of your love... I will never be a lonely spirit.

Yu cries.

She kisses him lightly. He closes his eyes.

EXT. PATH - DAY

As the sun rises, Jen rides speedily, clutching the medicine in her hands.

INT. ABANDONED FACTORY - DAY

Li is in Yu's arms. They're holding hands. The sun shines in. Yu slowly releases Li's stiff fingers -- he is dead.

Jen is at the door.

JEN

He's gone?

Bo peeks over Jen's shoulder.

Yu rises and picks up Green Destiny. Jen kneels. Yu raises the sword, but doesn't kill her.

YU

Bo... please take this sword back to Sir Te.

He takes the sword from her.

YU

(to Jen)

Now you must go to Wudan Mountain.
Lo awaits you there. Promise me one thing, whatever path you take in this life... be true to yourself.

EXT. WU TAN TEMPLE - DAY

Jen climbs up toward the temple, finally reaching the temple gate, and sees Lo standing there.

He runs to her. She greets him.

INT. WU TAN TEMPLE - MAGIC

Jen and Lo make love.

INT. WU TAN TEMPLE - DAY

Lo wakes up to find the jade comb on the pillow beside him, Jen gone.

EXT. WU TAN MOUNTAIN - DAY

Lo catches up to Jen, who stands on a bridge. The gorges below are shrouded in clouds. She looks back at him.

JEN

Do you remember the legend of the young man?

LO

"A faithful heart makes wishes come true."

JEN

Make a wish, Lo.

Lo pauses.

LO
(closing his eyes)
To be back in the desert, together
again.

Jen smiles, turns, and leaps into the clouds. They seem to catch her gently, before she disappears into them.

Lo remains standing, a smile on his face, tears rolling down his cheeks.

THE END.

All movie scripts and screenplays on this site are intended for educational purposes only.

Cowboys and Aliens

by
Thomas Dean Donnelly & Joshua Oppenheimer

Based on a Platinum Studios Comic by Scott Mitchell Rosenberg

SECOND REWRITE

01/05/2006

Escape Artists
10202 W. Washington Blvd.
Astaire Bldg., 3rd Fl.
Culver City, CA 90232

EXT. TABLETOP MESA - DAWN

A blazing red sun climbs over the shoulders of purple mountains majesty in the east, revealing a vast desert wilderness. Untouched. Unspoiled.

EXT. APACHE VILLAGE - DAWN

A multi-leveled village built into the sheer limestone cliff of the canyon, its walls facing west and the setting sun.

Fueled by roasted mescal, painted braves whirl and dance, chanting fiercely into the half-light, dancing to the beat of buffalo hide drums.

A young APACHE BOY (13) stands in the middle of the circle, the focus of the dance's energy. Suddenly, the drumming STOPS. Into the circle steps an elderly MEDICINE MAN (80). He CHANTS softly as he places a necklace with an EAGLE'S CLAW around the boy's neck.

MEDICINE MAN

(in Apache, subtitled)

Gods of the Land, we hold this earth in your name. Gods of the Flame, we pray for your mercy. Gods of the Water, we give to you a new shaman. Gods of the Sky, grant him your sign.

The Medicine Man pours white ash upon the boy's forearms. The circle of braves opens, creating a path out of the village.

Without looking back, the Apache Boy walks off on his SPIRIT WALK, the trial of manhood.

EXT. MESA - OUTCROPPING - DUSK

The Apache Boy sits on an outcropping of rock, overlooking the badlands, a small sack of dried mescal root beside him.

By the look of the Apache Boy, it is days later. He looks ten pounds lighter, and his face is haggard. Desperate.

He looks into the setting sun, a perfect half-circle melting into the earth--

Until it begins to catch fire. The Apache Boy tries to shake off the illusion, but it's still there. Sure enough, the sun appears to be smoking, flames flaring above and around it.

And then he spots it. A BLACK SPECK in the middle of the sun, growing larger by the second.

THE TINY SPECK GROWS INTO A HUGE FIREDISC, DWARFING THE NEARBY MESAS, AS IT HURTTLES TOWARDS THE EARTH AT A MINDNUMBING SPEED. THE GROUND SHAKES, THE WIND HOWLS AND A RUMBLING GROWS LOUDER AND LOUDER.

IT RACES OVERHEAD, SCORCHING THE DESERT AS IT FALLS. AND THEN, THE SONIC BOOM SENDS THE EARTH INTO THE SKY, DISRUPTING EVERYTHING IN A MASSIVE SHOCKWAVE.

THE BOY IS THROWN THROUGH THE AIR, HIS CLOTHES CATCHING FIRE, ALONG WITH EVERYTHING AROUND HIM. WHEN HE HITS THE GROUND, HE ROLLS, PUTTING OUT THE FLAMES.

THE FIREDISC SHEARS OFF THE TOP OF A NEARBY MESA AND CRASHES INTO THE EARTH IN A MASSIVE EXPLOSION. ROCKS TUMBLE. THE GROUND OPENS. EARTH, SAND AND DEBRIS FLY HIGH INTO THE ATMOSPHERE, BLOCKING THE SETTING SUN, PLUNGING THE WHOLE VALLEY INTO DARKNESS.

THE WIND WHIPS AT THE APACHE BOY, HIS CLOTHES NOW IN BURNT TATTERS. HIS EYES GO WIDE AS HE STARES IN THE DIRECTION OF THE EXPLOSION.

SMOKE POURS FROM AN ENORMOUS BLACK GORGE, NEWLY CARVED OUT OF THE VALLEY, A SCAR ON THE EARTH ITSELF.

APACHE BOY

Bless you, Ancestors, for revealing this sign to me.

INT. COLUMA - BLACK GORGE - NIGHT

With a torch blazing, the Boy climbs down the still-smoking hole. He's so deep, the night sky is just a speck behind him.

But now he stops. His torch picks up something ahead, glimmering in the torchlight. The Apache boy steps forward.

It is a SILVER CUBE, just big enough to fit in his hand. And on the perfect geometric faces of the cube are carvings: intricate, mathematical, alien. In the torchlight, the grooves of the carvings sparkle all the colors of the rainbow.

The Apache Boy picks the cube up. He's never seen anything like it. AND AS HIS HAND TOUCHES THE CUBE, IT HUMS, EVER SO SLIGHTLY.

Suddenly, the torch FLUTTERS. Sensing a presence, the Apache Boy SPINS AROUND, but there's NOTHING THERE.

But the Apache's instincts are no match for what comes next. The air CRACKLES as a GIANT FORM SUDDENLY MATERIALIZES FROM THIN AIR behind the Boy.

The boy spins as a GNARLED, TALONED HAND grabs his throat.

SOUND OVER: The boy's SCREAM becomes the WHISTLE OF A STEAM TRAIN.

EXT. MOUNTAIN RIDGE - DAY

SUPER THE TITLE: 500 YEARS LATER

WESTERN NEVADA, 1881

An overhead shot of a STEAM TRAIN, about five cars long.

WE PULL BACK TO REVEAL JOHNNY DIXON AND HIS GANG OF TRAIN ROBBERS watching the train approach from a high bluff.

JOHNNY's a classic outlaw leader: smart, tenacious...morally flexible. The guy's equal parts Butch and Sundance, but there's also something haunted about him.

And the rest of his gang:

TANNER (20s) Mischievous acrobat. Measured but steady. Johnny's best friend.

RAFE and CARTER (20s) The brawn--half of the gang, with a quarter the brains.

Johnny extends a long brass telescope to get a closer look.

TELESCOPE VIEW

The caboose has SOLDIERS in every window.

JOHNNY (V.O.)

Boys, let me tell you a little something I learned about destiny. Destiny is a mean, vindictive, nasty old hag. She'll kick a man who's down square in the jewels, and give your worst enemy every blessing under the sun. But every once in a while, no matter who you are, destiny will turn a kind eye to ya. You just have to watch for it.

(smiles)

Gentlemen, today she shines down upon our little venture. Behold! The Gold Train!

Johnny motions to the train below. The gang doesn't share his excitement. In fact, Rafe and Carter's arms are crossed.

RAFE

Ain't the first time we heard this,
boss.

CARTER

Yeah. The last train we done was supposed to be the Gold Train.

RAFE

And we netted ourselves, what?
Three crates of Par-iz-ean linger-ee?

CARTER

Quarry rocks actually. The one before that was the linger-ee.

RAFE

I stand corrected.

Johnny tosses him the telescope.

JOHNNY

You don't believe me? Fine. Believe your own eyes. Why does that train down there have a soldier standing guard over the boxcar and a caboose packed to the gills with US
Cavalry? To guard quarry rocks?
Lingerie? Or gold?

Rafe and Carter glance at each other. They're coming around.

CARTER

I still think it'd be easier just robbing a bank.

JOHNNY

A bank? You want to rob a bank?!
You know who robs banks? One legged men with brain problems. Blind men with trained monkeys. Anybody can rob a damn bank! What we do? We're artists.

CARTER

We are?

JOHNNY

Hell yes! We are highly skilled, perfectly trained, deeply specialized masters of the art of high-speed locomotive currency reallocation. And at this very moment we've got a payday worth twenty banks just begging us to put on a show! So--what do you say?!

Rafe and Carter think it over--and over. Tanner chimes in.

TANNER

You know, there's a Zen proverb that says, "It's always darkest before the dawn."

RAFE

I thought it was always darkest around midnight.

CARTER

I heard it was always darkest in Alaska.

Johnny can only rub his temples, fighting a three year headache.

EXT. TRACK SWITCH - DAY

The train barrels down the tracks towards a track signal switch.

PLINK. Something hits the track switch. It moves a little.

EXT. RIDGE - DAY - CONTINUOUS

THREE HUNDRED YARDS AWAY, Johnny points his Springfield rifle at the switch. He FIRES again.

EXT. TRACK SWITCH - CONTINUOUS

PLINK. PLINK. PLINK. PLINK. Four more hits in rapid succession and THE SWITCH HAS CONNECTED TO THE OTHER TRACK, THE STEEPER GRADE.

EXT. MOUNTAIN PASS - TRAIN TRACKS - CONTINUOUS

The train steams forward, slowing as the grade gets steeper. Suddenly, Johnny and his gang descend on the train, BANDANAS over their faces.

In action, we see how skilled Johnny and his gang truly are.

They match speed with the train perfectly, intercepting it behind the engine but in front of the caboose: neither the engineers nor the Cavalry in the passenger car spot them.

JOHNNY
Get in formation!

They effortlessly glide into position. Rafe and Carter take the lead riding side by side. Rafe pulls out a horse blanket and throws one end of it to Carter.

Tanner rides up between them. He leaps out of his saddle and lands right on top of the blanket.

The lone CAVALRY OFFICER stationed atop the boxcar spots the gang. He unslings his rifle.

JOHNNY (cont'd)
Time to fly!

Suddenly Rafe and Carter throw the blanket, with Tanner on it, as high into the air as they can.

TANNER SOMERSAULTS THREE TIMES IN MID-AIR, LANDING RIGHT ON TOP OF THE OFFICER! With a judo toss, the officer is THROWN CLEAR OFF THE FAR SIDE OF THE TRAIN, SCREAMING as he falls.

Tanner tosses down a long coil of rope and one by one the rest of the gang swings across to the train.

INT. PASSENGER CAR - CONTINUOUS

CAPTAIN TORRES (30) stops cleaning his rifle abruptly. Twenty CAVALRYMEN surround him, joking and playing cards.

TORRES
Anyone hear that?

CAVALRYMAN 1
Hear what, sir?

TORRES
Meeks, go check on Donner.

Meeks throws down his hand of three Aces, pissed. He storms out the door at the end of the passenger car and climbs the ladder towards the roof.

He never makes it there. SLAM. He falls down hard, his face smashing through the glass window in the door.

Everyone drops what they're doing.

TORRES (cont'd)
How about that? Anyone hear that?

EXT. TRAIN - ROOFTOPS - CONTINUOUS

Tanner, Rafe, and Carter jump across to the top of the passenger car. Cavalrymen climb up both sides of the passenger car after them.

There's no sign of Johnny.

Tanner takes the lead. He kicks one of the cavalrymen in the face as he somersaults onto the next car, the one behind the passenger car.

Rafe and Carter leap right behind him. The cavalrymen give chase.

Captain Torres peeks his head out on the roof, watching his men chase the three train robbers back towards the caboose. A curious look crosses his face. Suspicion.

EXT. CABOOSE - CONTINUOUS

A VOLLEY OF SHOTS ricochet off the roof of the caboose as Tanner, Carter, and Rafe jump onto the platform at the very back of the train. Carter and Rafe pop back up and return fire.

The cavalrymen on the roof drop prone and begin crawling.

Tanner? Tanner wraps his feet around the metal railing on the back of the train and HANGS HIMSELF UPSIDE DOWN, HIS HEAD JUST INCHES FROM THE TRACKS.

TANNER'S POV - UNDERSIDE OF THE TRAIN

An upside-down perspective of Johnny, four cars up, lowering a rope towards him. The rope bounces off the fast moving tracks below, but Tanner manages to catch the end. He ties it off on the metal railing at his feet.

TANNER
(yelling up)
Time to go boys!

Rafe and Carter stop their gunplay.

EXT. TRAIN - ROOFTOPS - CONTINUOUS

Torres watches impatiently as his men crawl up to the end of the caboose and leap down. We hear no gunfire.

CAVALRYMAN 1
Captain! Captain, they're gone!

TORRES
Jones, Alvaro?!

Jones and Alvaro peek up from two cars ahead.

JONES
They didn't come this way!

ALVARO
Where the hell did they go?!

EXT. TRAIN - SIDE VIEW - CONTINUOUS

Cavalrymen search the roof. Cavalrymen search the cars. But beneath all of them, Tanner, Carter, and Rafe shimmy past them along the rope connecting the caboose to the front of the train, their backs just inches from the speeding tracks.

EXT. TRAIN - ROOFTOPS - CONTINUOUS

Torres's confusion fades. A sneaking suspicion dawns on him. He turns and runs along the roof the other way, towards the boxcar.

EXT. TRAIN - BETWEEN CARS - CONTINUOUS

Johnny pulls the rest of his gang up, sending them forward. Then he grabs the pin that connects the rest of the cars to the train.

TORRES (O.S.)
Johnny Dixon. I always knew I'd find you on the other end of my Sam
Colt one of these days.

Johnny glances up. Torres stands on the roof above him, his gun aimed right at Johnny.

JOHNNY
Hiya Ruben, been a long time.

TORRES
Five years--since you deserted. You should have stayed away.

JOHNNY
Still the same old Duty, Honor,
Loyalty guy?

TORRES

Still a no-good, thieving outlaw?

Johnny shrugs. He's still smiling.

JOHNNY

Still leave the first chamber in your Sam Colt empty, so you don't shoot off your little Ruben?

A flicker of doubt crosses Torres' eyes.

TORRES

Not anymore I don't.

Johnny clicks his tongue at Torres.

JOHNNY

Still a horrible bluffer.

TORRES

I swear I will shoot you dead!

JOHNNY PULLS THE PIN THAT KEEPS THE REST OF THE TRAIN
CONNECTED TO THE ENGINE. THE TWO PARTS OF THE TRAIN SEPARATE.

TORRES PULLS THE TRIGGER. CLICK. JOHNNY WAS RIGHT. BY THE TIME HE PULLS THE TRIGGER AGAIN, JOHNNY'S JUMPED BACK BEHIND THE COVER OF THE TRAIN DOOR.

TORRES (cont'd)

Dixon! You AWOL bastard! I'm coming for you!

But Johnny and the rest of the train quickly leave Torres and his men in the dust.

DISSOLVE TO:

EXT. THE STATIONARY TRAIN - DAY

The gang HOOTS and HOLLERS. Carter pulls TNT from his pack and sets about blowing the lock off the sealed boxcar.

CARTER

Fire in the hole!

Everyone backs off as a fast fuse flame hits dynamite. The lock goes flying off into the desert scrub.

Everyone races to the boxcar door.

JOHNNY

I just want you all to know it's been an honor working with you.
Gentlemen, behold your future!

Tanner flings open the boxcar doors.

BOXCAR POV

A LOUD WAR CRY ERUPTS AND SUDDENLY THREE DEADLY APACHE WARRIORS LEAP OUT, THEIR POWERFUL FORMS CLAD IN WAR PAINT.

ARMED WITH SHARPENED PLANKS, THE APACHE STORM DOWN UPON THE TERRIFIED GANG BEFORE THEY CAN EVEN REACT.

The deadliest of the warriors is definitely SILVER BLADE: a six-foot-five inch slab of Apache muscle and malevolence. HE LEAPS TEN FEET THROUGH THE AIR, DELIVERING A FLYING KICK WITH BOTH FEET THAT SENDS JOHNNY'S GUN INTO THE BRUSH.

SIMULTANEOUSLY, RAFE AND CARTER GET LEVELED BY THE OTHER TWO APACHE, BLACK WIND and LONE FOX. The Apache disarm them in an instant.

TANNER RUNS TO AID THEM ONLY TO FREEZE WHEN HE FINDS SILVER BLADE'S SHIV AT HIS THROAT.

Johnny pulls another gun from his boot. His partners have been disarmed and now have shivs at their throats.

CARTER

Gold, Johnny?! Gold?! I'll tell you what else the Cavalry guards!
Deadly goddamn savages, that's what!

JOHNNY

Shut up, Carter. Let me think.

TANNER

Think fast, Johnny.

JOHNNY

(to Silver Blade)

You. That's my friend you got there. I don't know who you think we are, but it seems we robbed the wrong train. So how about we go our way, you go yours?

Silver Blade doesn't budge, but then a WHISTLE comes from the boxcar. The sea of braves part, revealing a lone woman among them. Her name is MAYA.

Maya is what Apache would call Honta Takarontu, or in our language: She Who Sets Men's Loins On Fire. A stunner.

 NOTE: ALL ITALIC DIALOGUE IS SUBTITLED APACHE ***

MAYA

Silver Blade, look at them. These are not soldiers. Something has happened to the guards.

SILVER BLADE

*They have guns aimed at our people.
What do I care who they are?*

And in that moment of distraction, Tanner gives Johnny a wink, and Johnny responds with an imperceptible nod.

Suddenly, Tanner moves his leg back to hook Silver Blade's. Silver Blade looks down and Tanner makes his move, throwing both of them in the air in a forward somersault.

WHICH GIVES JOHNNY A PERFECT SHOT AT THE APACHE. HE COULD KILL THEM ALL IN A SECOND...BUT HE SHIFTS HIS AIM AT THE LAST MOMENT.

BLAM. BLAM. Johnny squeezes off two lightning-fast shots that SHATTER THE SHIVS that were at Carter and Rafe's throats.

Tanner lands on Silver Blade and rolls away from his grasp. Before Silver Blade can recover, Johnny's gun is in his face.

Rafe and Carter, freed, manage to draw their guns. Black Wind and the other Apache braves throw their hands up.

CARTER

You bastards just signed your death certificates!

Carter cocks his pistol.

JOHNNY

Carter, you pull that trigger and my first shot's coming for you!

Maya stares at Johnny, surprised. So are his men.

CARTER

We got 'em dead to rights! We ain't got gold but these bastards'll fetch ten dollars a corpse.

Johnny steps away from Silver Blade, PLACING HIMSELF BETWEEN RAPE AND CARTER, AND THE BOXCAR FULL OF APACHE.

JOHNNY

We don't do this. We aren't killers.

CARTER

They are! The second we turn our back, they'll slit our throats!

JOHNNY

Last time I checked they weren't the ones collecting money for corpses.

CARTER

Step aside, Johnny, or I'll shoot you dead right beside 'em.

A tense standoff builds between Johnny and the two cowboys. Tanner steps beside Johnny, evening the odds.

RAFE

You are without a doubt the sorriest excuse for an outlaw I've ever seen!

Rafe and Carter mount their horses, and ride off. Johnny pulls his canteen off his horse.

JOHNNY

Tanner, give 'em your canteens. They look half dead.

Tanner is still in shock but pulls out his canteens. An APACHE BRAVE in the boxcar turns to Maya.

APACHE BRAVE

What do they say? What is he doing?

MAYA

Something I have never seen a white man do.

Johnny hands the canteens to the nearest brave.

JOHNNY

I'd head east. That way. The mountains will give you more cover. Do you understand?

MAYA (O.S.)

Even if he spoke your tongue, he would not understand. We are-- unaccustomed to kindness.

Johnny and Maya's eyes lock, two strangers drawn to one another. Johnny's gaze only breaks when the canteen falls as he hands it to Maya. Johnny and Maya reach for it at the same time, their hands briefly brushing each others'. It's a connection that doesn't go unnoticed by Silver Blade.

JOHNNY

I reckon you just haven't met the right people, ma'am. Johnny Dixon, at your service.

(smiles)

Where'd you learn to speak such good English?

Silver Blade steps between them.

SILVER BLADE

It is wise to learn the tongue of your enemy.

Silver Blade throws the canteen at Johnny's feet. Then he lets out a WHISTLE and the rest of the Apache tribe pour out of the boxcar and run into the surrounding hills.

Five seconds later, Johnny and Tanner look around and discover they're all alone.

Almost. Maya stands atop a low hill, staring one last time at Johnny. She gives him just the hint of a smile, her attempt at thanks. He tips his hat to her. You're welcome. And a moment later, she's gone.

EXT. PLAIN - HILLSIDE - NIGHT

The smoldering embers of a fire illuminate Johnny and Tanner, asleep beneath the stars on their bedrolls.

Suddenly Johnny JOLTS AWAKE, sweat pouring down his face. Tanner's awakened but not surprised.

TANNER

Same dream?

JOHNNY

When are you gonna stop asking me that?

TANNER

When you stop having them.

Johnny pours water from his canteen over his face.

TANNER (cont'd)
I don't think I told ya, it was a good thing you done today.

JOHNNY
You would've done the same.

TANNER
I'd like to say I would, live and let live and all, but that one guy?
He looked like Death with a tan.

Johnny doesn't laugh.

JOHNNY
Why are you still riding with me,
Tanner?

TANNER
Huh?

JOHNNY
I rob trains with no loot. I come damn near getting us both killed on frequent occasion. And most nights you're stuck nursemaiding me through a guilty conscience. Why you sticking around?

TANNER
Karma.

JOHNNY
What?

TANNER
Way I understand it, it's this huge wheel that spins around, keeping everything in balance. So I figure, if that's true, then you're due for some ungodly amount of good karma any time now, and I sure as hell don't want to miss out on that.

Johnny finally cracks a smile.

JOHNNY
Where do you get these notions?

TANNER
You try growing up in San Francisco's Chinatown and see how you turn out.

JOHNNY

Come on. It's almost dawn and I'm in serious need of Scottish whiskey and Irish women. With any luck,
Delilah can furnish us with both.

EXT. JOHNNY'S HOUSE - DAY

Tanner and Johnny are still laughing as they ride up to the modest ranch house that sits alone on the desert plain.

Suddenly, Johnny pulls back hard on the reins. He looks like he's seen a ghost.

TANNER

What?

Johnny puts his finger to his lips, then points ahead.

CU - SUITCASES with floral embroidery sit on the porch.

TANNER (cont'd)

Oh no. She's--

JOHNNY

Early.

Johnny jumps off his horse in a panic. He strips off his gunbelt, his black hat, his bandana. Tanner does the same.

Johnny looks around, and tosses everything behind a large boulder. Then he sneaks up to his house, yanking off his spurs to make his approach more quiet. Tanner follows suit.

PORCH

Johnny sidles up to the window and carefully peers in.

TANNER

(whispers)

Is she in there?

JOHNNY'S POV: Bedding strewn everywhere. Likewise the ubiquitous whiskey bottles.

JOHNNY

The real question is: is Delilah still in there?

Even Tanner's face goes pale at the suggestion. Johnny tries the door handle, opening it as silently as he can.

INT. JOHNNY'S HOUSE - DAY

The place looks like a tornado struck a liquor depot. Johnny searches for any sign of his mystery guest. He sees no one, just a trail of lingerie leading to the door.

JOHNNY

All right. Ten second cleanup. Go!

The two men seem to have done this before. They toss the lingerie, cigars, and empty bottles on a sheet on the bed, wrap it all up, and run it to the door. But when they open the door--

ANNIE DIXON (11) stands right in front of them, a look of surprise on her face. Annie is dressed in the latest San Francisco fashion: wide brimmed hat, floral dress, matching parasol. She's the very vision of a proper young lady, with eyes displaying a wisdom beyond her years.

Annie surprises Johnny so much that he drops his end of the sheet. A volley of alcohol bottles smash on the floor.

JOHNNY (cont'd)

Sweetie! Hi!

ANNIE

Daddy!

She hugs her father tight, careful to avoid the smashed glass.

ANNIE (cont'd)

Hi Uncle Tanner.

TANNER

How's it going, Short Stuff?

ANNIE

You will not believe what just happened!

Johnny and Tanner exchange a worried glance.

ANNIE (cont'd)

You must've been prospecting for some time, because while you were gone? Some barroom floozy--please excuse my language--she moved herself in and turned this place into some kind of flophouse!

JOHNNY

Really?!

TANNER

(flatly)

There goes the neighborhood.

When Annie's not looking, Johnny stomps on Tanner's foot. Tanner bites his lip to keep from yelling.

JOHNNY

Wow. So--what did you do?

ANNIE

Don't worry Daddy. At Miss Potter's they gave us all lessons in womanly assertiveness.

Annie pulls a thick tuft of ripped RED HAIR from her parasol. Johnny blanches at the sight of it.

ANNIE (cont'd)

I'm sure she won't show her face here again.

A chortle escapes Tanner's lips.

JOHNNY

Thanks, sweetie. That was--really--sweetie, what are you doing home so early?

ANNIE

Miss Marshall, my teacher? She said I was so far ahead of the rest of the class that I could take my exams early!

(noticing Johnny's color)

Daddy, are you okay?

Johnny looks into his daughter's eyes and he can't help but smile.

JOHNNY

I am now baby. Give me another hug.

Annie smiles and gives her father another huge hug.

EXT. THE CAVALRY FORT- DAY

Thirty foot high loopholed walls of timber guarded by SENTRIES protect several rows of pitched tents and a ranch style garrison headquarters.

INT. THE CAVALRY FORT - OFFICE - DAY

A tidy, military office. A map of the Western Nevada region, demarcated, hangs upon one wall, a cross on another.

Behind the desk stands GENERAL TIBBET, staring at the map. The General's an old warhorse armed with a cannon in one hand and a Bible in the other. Torres stands at attention.

GENERAL TIBBET

It started off so well. Areas 1 through 10: cleared out in four short months. 11 through 35 weren't bad either. We shipped out or killed all the natives there inside of a year. I'll grant you, Area 36 was a real battle, but once we killed off their food supply, they fell in short order, along with the rest.

Tibbet draws his cavalry sabre and STABS the center of the map: a red colored section, different from the rest.

GENERAL TIBBET (cont'd)

But--wait. Captain, what's this red zone in the center of the territory?

Torres grimaces. He knows what's coming.

TORRES

Area 51, sir.

GENERAL TIBBET

And why is it a different color than the rest?

TORRES

Because the Apache still hold Area 51, sir.

The General rips a RED ZONE in the center of the map off the wall, slamming it down on the table.

GENERAL TIBBET

No! Because when an enemy war party falls into our hands, after five years of chasing them all over the damn desert, you lose them in one day! To a deserter and thief! Would you like to explain to General Adams how that happened?

TORRES
General Adams, sir?

GENERAL TIBBET
Arriving tomorrow. Venturing out to this godforsaken hellhole to discuss my transfer back to civilization. But if a single Apache still lays claim to Area 51, Adams will leave me here to rot for another seven years.

TORRES
But sir, Area 51 is a wasteland. The only land worth mining in there we control. Columa.

GENERAL TIBBET
I want to be clear. Whatever our orders say, we are not here for iron, silver, or even gold. We are here to collect the most precious commodity of all: spilled blood.

EXT. CAVALRY FORT - OFFICE - DAY

Torres' SERGEANT waits for him outside the General's office.

SERGEANT
Sir, we found something in with the weapons we took off the Apache.

The Sergeant produces a SMOOTH SILVER BOX of perfect dimensions. IT IS THE SAME SILVER BOX WE SAW IN THE OPENING OF THE MOVIE. Its intricate geometric patterns carved into its faces still glow all the colors of the rainbow.

And in his hand, it HUMS ever so slightly.

SERGEANT (cont'd)
Whatever it is, the Apache seemed ready to die over it. And it makes this noise--

Torres doesn't even look at it.

TORRES
Leave it with the quartermaster. We're not here for silver anymore, Sergeant. We're here for blood.

EXT. APACHE VILLAGE - NIGHT

A large Indian village, over fifty kiowas nestled at the base of a huge red stone mesa, more imposing than the rest. All up the face of the mesa are small caves, lit by firelight.

Apache LOOKOUTS stand vigil, but for now, all is quiet.

In the half-light of the fires, CHILDREN chase around a wild turkey, trying to grab one of its feathers. Suddenly, the smallest of the children throws himself at the turkey, triumphantly grabbing the FEATHER. AHOTE (Ah-HO-tay) (6) beams, until he spots MAYA and the rest of the Apaches on the outskirts of town.

The rest of the children have the opposite reaction, running to them, screaming shouts of joy.

Maya notices Ahote's demeanor immediately. As she walks up, he hands her the feather, eyes downcast.

AHOTE

For you, mother.

Maya takes the feather. Her son won't meet her eyes.

MAYA

Ahote, what is troubling you?

AHOTE

Last night, the silver eagle, eyes red like fire, came down and took me away--

MAYA

It was just a dream, little one.

AHOTE

I do not like it when you go.

MAYA

*In my heart I've never left you.
And I never will--I stand by your side forever, my love.*

Ahote brightens, hugging his mother tightly. He brightens even more when he spots Silver Blade.

AHOTE

Silver Blade!

Ahote jumps at Silver Blade, who playfully wrestles him to the ground.

AHOTE (cont'd)
Did you kill many white men?

Maya closes her eyes, hurt by her son's words.

SILVER BLADE
A true warrior never boasts--but know I defended the honor of our people, as will you someday. Have you been practicing with your bow?

Ahote excitedly shows Silver Blade his technique, a sad look crossing Maya's face. She retreats to a nearby kiowa.

INT. KIOWA - NIGHT

An elderly Apache woman, YONA, stretches dry rabbit meat for jerky. Maya appears at the door. Yona's eyes light up.

MAYA
Mother.

They embrace warmly for a moment, but then Yona takes her daughter roughly by the arms.

YONA
It was the job of the braves to return the Box of the Heavens, not yours. I can't believe Silver Blade let you go.

MAYA
I do not need Silver Blade to tell me where to go or what to do.

YONA (CONT'D)
Must you shame him with your every breath?

MAYA
I would never shame him--

YONA
*You are to mourn a husband four seasons. You've not taken another brave in many more. It is not our way, Maya. It shames him deeply.
 Were he not White Wolf's brother he would have moved on long ago.*

Yona softens her tone, PULLING THE FEATHER from her daughter's hand and putting it in Maya's hair.

YONA (cont'd)

Ahote needs a father. He needs a guide for the day he becomes a warrior himself. What better man than Silver Blade?

MAYA

I fear if all we raise are warriors, all we shall ever know is war.

LOUD DRUMS suddenly echo through the camp. There's a COMMOTION outside. Maya and Yona step to the kiowa's entrance. Everyone outside stares up at the top of the mesa where perfectly circular SMOKE SIGNALS rise into the sky.

MAYA (cont'd)

I must go. Sky Watcher calls.

EXT. MESA TOP - CONTINUOUS

The flat top of the mesa. The only thing on this smooth, flat surface is a robed figure in the distance, arms stretched out towards the unbelievably bright and infinite stars. This is SKY WATCHER.

Silver Blade approaches him, Maya dutifully standing a few steps behind.

SILVER BLADE

Forgive us, Sky Watcher. We tried to get the Anuan Hontora to safety. We have failed you. The white man has taken the Box of the Heavens.

Sky Watcher's arms reach out to a section of night sky. Miraculously, a METEOR SHOWER appears there, raining bright lights down upon the earth.

SKY WATCHER

Then your course is plain. You must get it back.

SILVER BLADE

We ride at first light.

Maya suddenly interjects.

MAYA

Their fort is protected by hundreds of their cavalry--

SILVER BLADE

We are Apache, prepared for death since the day of our birth!

(to Sky Watcher)

My braves are ready to do your will, Sky Watcher. We will climb the walls of those who steal our lands--

SKY WATCHER

Our lands? I have tried many times to make you see, the land does not belong to us. We belong to it.

SILVER BLADE

As you say, Sky Watcher. But our enemy does not share your wisdom.

SKY WATCHER

You must no longer think of them as your enemy. If the Box is opened--

Sky Watcher reaches into a cloak, pulling out a familiar necklace, the EAGLE'S CLAW from the opening sequence.

SKY WATCHER (cont'd)

Only then will our true enemy reveal itself.

INT. THE CAVALRY FORT - QUARTERMASTER'S - NIGHT

A large storeroom, lined with cavalry supplies.

The QUARTERMASTER closes up for the night. The table is littered with Apache weapons, a pile of cloth, and THE SILVER BOX.

The Quartermaster snuffs out the lantern, plunging the room into darkness.

But not total darkness. A faint BLUE GLOW emanates from the box.

The Quartermaster is puzzled. He touches the symbols on its face that give off the blue light. A HUMMING SOUND BEGINS TO GROW.

SUDDENLY, HIDDEN PANELS ON THE BOX SHIFT, REVEALING A GROOVE. THE QUARTERMASTER PULLS AT THE GROOVE AND THE BOX OPENS. THE LIGHT INTENSIFIES, THEN--

WHOOSH! A BRIGHT BLUE LIGHT ERUPTS OUT OF THE TOP OF THE BOX BURNING A HOLE RIGHT THROUGH THE ROOF OF THE CABIN AND ROCKETING OFF THIS MORTAL COIL.

And in a split second, it's all over. TOTAL SILENCE. The box closes and returns to its normal appearance. A large, perfectly circular hole is burned in the roof, the night sky visible through it.

And the Quartermaster? He's disappeared. All that's left of him is a POOL OF LIQUID WHICH SEEPS THROUGH THE FLOORBOARDS.

EXT. JOHNNY'S HOUSE - PORCH - NIGHT

Johnny sits on the porch steps, reading a letter by lantern light. With his free hand he rubs something hanging from a silver chain around his neck. IT IS A SILVER BULLET. Tanner joins him, a plate of food in his hand.

TANNER

Man, that was one fine meal! It's a shame I filled up on biscuits earlier or I'd be sure to clean my plate--

Johnny eyes the untouched plate of food.

JOHNNY

I dug a hole over there. You've got to bury it. The animals won't eat it either.

Tanner grins and dumps the plate over by a bush.

TANNER

Hell, I'd scatter it in the bushes. It'd scare away the coyotes. Hey, wasn't she supposed to be taking cooking classes with all that "womanly arts" stuff?

JOHNNY

Suppose it didn't take. She asleep?

TANNER

Yup. Why?

Johnny hands Tanner the letter. Tanner looks it over.

TANNER (cont'd)

"We regret to inform you--" what's this all about?

JOHNNY

It's from Annie's school. No more late payments. Either I send her back with a year's tuition, or I don't send her back at all.

Tanner exhales. Bad, bad news.

TANNER

You sayin' we have to pull another job?

JOHNNY

I can't and you know it. Not while she's around. It's the one damn promise I made Becky. That I'd raise Annie right.

Tanner notices Johnny fingering the silver bullet.

TANNER

You know, Becky gave you that to remind you to shoot straight. Maybe you should just tell Annie the truth?

Johnny shoots Tanner a dark stare.

INT. JOHNNY'S HOUSE - CONTINUOUS

Annie wakes to the soft sound of voices outside. She smacks her lips. Dry. She heads over to a pitcher of water, passing by the door.

JOHNNY (O.S.)

--maybe if she wasn't around.

Annie freezes, listening.

TANNER (O.S.)

Think she'd suspect something? Who knows, she might suspect something already.

JOHNNY (O.S.)

I don't know. Talk about bad timing. I just have to find a way to get her out of here.

A lump forms in Annie's throat. A tear falls.

JOHNNY (O.S.) (cont'd)

Come on, I need a drink.

Annie sits in a chair in the dark room, shell shocked.

INT. CASA DIABLO - NIGHT

A rundown saloon on a one street town. Johnny and Tanner, on the end of an all-nighter, are both slumped over the bar.

JOHNNY

I'm so screwed. Truly. I don't think it's possible to be more screwed.

WOMAN (O.S.)

Johnny Dixon.

Johnny slowly rises to see a saloon girl limp up to him. She's sporting a black eye and there's a significant patch of her red hair that's missing from her scalp.

That's right. This would be DELILAH. She looks about as pleased as a rattlesnake in a rocking chair showroom.

JOHNNY

Delilah, baby. I'm so, so--

She hauls off and PUNCHES HIM right in the side of the head. Johnny falls off his barstool and lands hard on the floor, kicking up a cloud of sawdust.

Delilah gives him a KICK for good measure, then storms off.

JOHNNY (cont'd)

--sore.

EXT. CASA DIABLO - OUT BACK - CONTINUOUS

Johnny splashes water from a trough on the cut on the side of his face. He checks the cut in a small mirror.

TANNER

Now you couldn't be more screwed.

JOHNNY

You wanna know how bad it is? What I've been reduced to? On the ride here? I was praying.

Tanner looks surprised by that revelation.

JOHNNY (cont'd)

Exactly. I ain't prayed since Columa.

(MORE)

JOHNNY (cont'd)

After what happened that night, could be I thought nobody up there was listening. But today, there I was, praying that some kind of-- miracle would come to pass. I prayed for somebody to walk up to me and say--

MAYA (O.S.)

We wish to offer you gold, in return for your services.

Johnny spins around, and comes face to face with Maya. Tanner and Johnny exchange incredulous glances.

EXT. GRAVEYARD - NIGHT

Johnny and Tanner sit with Maya and her APACHE escorts, including Black Wind. The graveyard is well outside of town, away from prying eyes.

JOHNNY

That's not an offer. That's a death sentence.

MAYA

We need your help. It is what you do.

JOHNNY

Lady, I rob trains, preferably minimally guarded trains. What I definitely do not do is get myself shot trying to break into a cavalry fort, where no doubt my wanted poster hangs from every vertical post.

TANNER

Especially not for some lousy silver box.

MAYA

It is more than a box. It is sacred to us. We call it Anuan Hontora.
The Box of the Heavens.

Maya pulls out a worn piece of buffalo hide, the image of the SILVER BOX painted upon it.

JOHNNY

If it's so sacred, why come to me?

MAYA

Who else could I go to? Who else is so smart as to steal a guarded cavalry train, with only four men?

Johnny starts to blush.

JOHNNY

It was one of my better plans.

MAYA

Who else is so brave as to face three of our deadliest Apache warriors and defeat them?

JOHNNY

Tanner helped with that big one, using that Jedi stuff.

TANNER

Judo.

JOHNNY

Whatever.

MAYA

But most of all, who else has such a heart as to let those same Apache go free? Only a true man has such strength. Since then I have thought of little else.

Their eyes lock--until Tanner CLEARS HIS THROAT, loudly.
Johnny snaps out of it.

JOHNNY

I know when I'm being played, lady.
(more unsure)
I am being played, right?

MAYA

I do not play games.

Maya pulls a GOLD ARTIFACT out of a hidden satchel and throws it to him. Johnny looks like an alcoholic staring at a bottle of Cuervo Gold. Tanner knows the look. It scares him.

MAYA (cont'd)

We have twenty like this. For you.
In exchange for the Anuan Hontora.

Johnny can't take his eyes off the gold, or the girl.

JOHNNY

That must be one important box.

MAYA

The Apache believe if the Anuan Hontora is ever opened, it will bring the Gods of Death. The face of the sun will forever go dark, the stars will drop like stones from the sky, and all that lives on this land will wither and die.

JOHNNY

Is that all?

Johnny looks over at Tanner who shakes his head, "no." Johnny looks back at the girl and the gold. Bites his lip. Hooked.

JOHNNY (cont'd)

One question: how much of that speech was just to butter me up and how much was genuine?

Maya smiles. Soft. Genuine.

MAYA

How many are the grasshoppers? How many the ants?

EXT. CASA DIABLO - NIGHT

Johnny and Tanner walk to their horses. Tanner looks pissed.

TANNER

Are you out of your damn mind? Let's forget about robbing a US Cavalry fort for a second. We're going to work for the Apache?

JOHNNY

So it stands to reason the grasshoppers are the buttering me up part, and the ants are the genuine part, right?

TANNER

Johnny--

JOHNNY

And I ain't seen too many ants around here, but grasshoppers?

(MORE)

JOHNNY (cont'd)
Sounds like there are millions of them out there at night. Wait.
Grasshoppers eat ants, don't they?

TANNER
Did you forget your little rule? No jobs while Annie's home. How does this situation square with that?

JOHNNY
I'll tell you what rule this falls under: the Golden Rule. You saw that gold. This could be it, Tanner. My last job ever. Isn't that worth it?

TANNER
Only if we're still alive to collect.

EXT. OPEN RANGE - NIGHT

A herd of BUFFALO grazes at the bottom of a ravine. Suddenly, a wind BLOWS THROUGH THE THIN GRASS. A FROZEN WIND, TURNING THE GRASS TO ICE.

SOMETHING IN THE DARK SKY RUMBLES. THE RUMBLING GROWS LOUDER.
FOR A MOMENT, THE ENTIRE HERD GOES QUIET. NOTHING MOVES.

THEN A DARK BLUE BEAM BLASTS DOWN FROM THE SKY, ITS TEN METER WIDE BEAM SCANNING THE DESERT PLAIN, SEARCHING.

THE BEAM PASSES OVER THE BUFFALO. THEY GROW AGITATED, SCARED.
SUDDENLY, THEIR SKIN BEGINS TO RIPPLE. NO, NOT RIPPLE. BOIL.

THEY LET OUT HORRIFIC SHRIEKS AS THEY SHAKE VIOLENTLY. THEIR LEGS FAIL AND THEY FALL TO THE GROUND. IN MOMENTS, THEIR HIDES SMOKE.

AND IN THE NEXT INSTANT, THE BUFFALO DISSOLVE INTO LIQUID AND MELT INTO THE GROUND.

When the beam moves on, it leaves behind only pools of strange liquid and the eerie skeletons of dead buffalo.

INT. JOHNNY'S HOUSE - KITCHEN - MORNING

Tanner walks into the kitchen, head pounding. He finds a pot of coffee on the stove and pours himself a cup.

He drinks deeply, and only when his mouth is full does he realize his mistake. He bolts for the door.

EXT. JOHNNY'S HOUSE - BACKYARD - MORNING

Tanner bursts out the back door, spitting his coffee all over and clawing at his tongue.

TANNER

Dear god! How can she do that to coffee?!

Tanner hears the sound of SQUAWKING outside.

ANNIE (O.S.)

C'mere, damnit!

Annie is chasing down a bone-thin CHICKEN, but every time Annie gets close, the chicken darts away.

Tanner can't help but grin.

But then Annie gets frustrated, pulls a PISTOL from a holster underneath her gingham dress and BLAM, BLAM, BLAM: three rapid-fire shots knock a bucket off a fencepost and it lands right on top of the chicken, trapping it.

Then she TWIRLS THE GUN around her trigger finger and holsters it perfectly.

TANNER (O.S.)

What the hell was that?!

Annie spins, surprised.

ANNIE

Oh--ah--I--Uncle Tanner I didn't-- (searching for a story)
It's just--you work so hard prospecting, I just wanted to make something special for you and Daddy.

TANNER

I'm not talking about dinner! I'm talking about the Wild Bill routine! Where did you learn to shoot like that?!

ANNIE

You can't tell daddy. You have to promise.

(off Tanner's glare)

Okay, the reason I'm home early--is 'cause I got sent home. For skipping class.

(MORE)

ANNIE (cont'd)
 I hate it there--etiquette class, sewing class, cooking class, god do
 I hate cooking!

TANNER
 (of course)
 Really?

ANNIE
 Please Uncle Tanner, I'm begging
 you. You can't tell him. I don't want to disappoint him any more than--than I already am.

Tears begin to form in Annie's eyes.

TANNER
 Hey, hey, I ever break a promise to you? And for the record, I never met anyone as crazy about someone as your daddy is about you. Hell, any man would be proud to have you as a daughter, Annie. Don't you never forget that.

Annie hugs Tanner, thankful.

TANNER (cont'd)
 Everything's gonna be fine.

EXT. APACHE VILLAGE - DAY

The Apache village is buzzing: women stretch buffalo hides and tend to small gardens of summer corn, while the men laugh as young BRAVES try to wrangle wild mustangs in a small pen.

Ahote chases the large horses fearlessly.

Silver Blade, in a glade nearby, pulls back on his cedar bow, WHISTLING an arrow thirty yards into a target basket, painted white with a cowboy hat on top. THUNK. A perfect strike.

Somewhere above, a crow CAWS loudly, insistently. Maya approaches cautiously.

MAYA
Silver Blade, I can explain--

SILVER BLADE
A white man! You trusted the enemy to return the Anuan Hontora to us?

Silver Blade turns his back, firing another arrow into the basket. IT SPLITS THE PREVIOUS ARROW IN TWO!

Maya stiffens, not liking having to face his back. Again the crow CAWS loudly.

MAYA

He's an outlaw. An enemy of our enemy.

SILVER BLADE

Just because he's not one of them does not make him one of us.

MAYA

He could have slaughtered us at the train but he did not.

SILVER BLADE

You mistake mercy for fear. I could have killed him in the blink of an owl's eye.

CAW. Silver Blade angrily turns and fires an arrow into the air, not even looking in the direction of the shot.

A SHRIEK, and then a moment later the dead crow falls to the earth, impaled by the arrow.

SILVER BLADE (cont'd)

I am an Apache, one of a long line of warriors. And when I die an Apache, like my brother White Wolf before me, it will be on our land, not earth ripped up and taken over by the white man.

EXT. JOHNNY'S HOUSE - FRONT - LATER

Johnny rides up to the house where Tanner stands on the porch, his arms moving gracefully through the air. He's practicing tai chi.

JOHNNY

Where's--

Just then, a blackened POT comes flying out the window, a stream of smoke billowing from it.

ANNIE (O.S.)

Darnit!

JOHNNY

Nevermind. Hey, what did I tell you about doing that hocus pocus around me?

Tanner ignores him, focusing on his moves. Once Johnny gets close, the men whisper.

TANNER

Well? You saw the fort?

JOHNNY

They doubled the watchtowers in the past few years, but we can do it. The only thing is we're gonna need four guys total to pull it off.

Tanner stops the tai chi.

TANNER

Well that's it then. We can't do it. Rafe and Carter are gone, remember? Riley and Jones are in jail. Gilroy and Farrell are down Mexico way. There's nobody left.

JOHNNY

There's the Finkle Twins.

Tanner turns a shade paler.

TANNER

Please tell me you're joking.

EXT. DESERT SHACK - DAY

Johnny and Tanner ride up towards what looks like a condemned shack in stony dry hills.

BLAM! BLAM! BLAM! The two men jump off their horses and draw their guns. They see no one.

TANNER

I'm begging you. Let's just turn around right now and leave.

MORE GUNFIRE. It echoes through the hills.

EXT. BEHIND THE DESERT SHACK - CONTINUOUS

THE FINKLE TWINS (20s) look nothing alike. MATTIAS is tall and bone thin. EZEKIEL is short and squat. But their crazy eyes are identical.

Currently, though, Ezekiel is blindfolded and holding a pistol.

About ten yards away one of them has painted a crude-looking donkey on a large wooden board.

Mattias chuckles at he spins his brother around again and again.

MATTIAS

One-two-three-four, shoot the donkey's tail some more!

When he's finished, Ezekiel is staggering to and fro, waving a loaded pistol in every direction.

BLAM. A bullet ricochets off the desert floor and takes out the one remaining unbroken window of their shack.

Both brothers laugh.

Ezekiel keeps staggering. He cocks the trigger again, and aims.

He spins and suddenly his gun's aimed right between his brother's eyes. Mattias stops laughing.

JOHNNY (O.S.)

BOYS!

Ezekiel lowers the pistol and takes off the blindfold.

EZEKIEL

Johnny Dixon?!

Tanner looks at the twins with a jaundiced eye.

TANNER

I still don't get why you call yourself twins. You two don't look nothin' alike.

MATTIAS

Well, genius, we ain't identical.

EZEKIEL

Yeah, we had different mothers.

Johnny doesn't bother to field that one.

JOHNNY

How'd you boys like some work?

MATTIAS

Well--sure, but didn't Tanner call us somethin' bad the last time we worked for you?

JOHNNY

I don't ever recall--

EZEKIEL

Imbeciles. That was it. Hey Tanner, I's always been meaning to ask you what an imbecile is.

JOHNNY

Special. It means you're very, very special.

EZEKIEL

(to Mattias)

Told you I was an imbecile!

Ezekiel beams, slapping his brother on the back, a little too hard. Mattias punches Ezekiel in the arm, and in moments the two are wrestling around in the dirt. Tanner groans.

JOHNNY

I know what you're thinking. But we need 'em.

TANNER

Why?!

Johnny picks up a rock and throws it against a nearby outcropping. It loudly RICOCHETS and in the blink of an eye, both Finkle Brothers draw, spin and fire. The rock gets shot right out of the air, then redirected by another bullet.

The Finkle Brothers offer a pair of widetoothed grins.

EZEKIEL

I got it first.

Mattias shoves him and the two go at it again.

TANNER

Those boys are stone cold crazy.

JOHNNY

We're breaking into an U.S. Cavalry fort. Crazy's job requirement number one.

INT. JOHNNY'S HOUSE - NIGHT

Johnny sneaks in the door, careful not to wake Annie. He works his way over to his closet and swings the door open. He stares in there a long time.

JOHNNY'S POV

His OLD CAVALRY UNIFORM hangs by itself there.

Johnny reaches out for it, only to pull his hand back. The uniform haunts him.

Johnny exhales a deep breath. He stares at a TEAR in the material, close to the jacket's neck.

Johnny unconsciously rubs at the same spot on his body. We catch just a glimpse of a SCAR.

FLASH.

EXT. FLASHBACK - COLUMA MINE

JOHNNY'S POV: Hell on earth. Fires blaze everywhere. Two SOLDIERS fall right in front of us, and a huge APACHE WARRIOR WITH A COLORED STONE NECKLACE LEAPS RIGHT FOR US, COMING AT US WITH A RAZOR-SHARP BLADE.

A SINGLE GUNSHOT RINGS OUT, ECHOING LOUDER AND LOUDER.

BACK TO SCENE

Johnny's eyes fill the frame, filled with fear. Regret.

EXT. THE CAVALRY FORT - FORT WALLS - NIGHT

Johnny and gang work their way up a narrow gully towards an imposing watch tower at the top of the fort wall. Two CAVALRYMEN man the tower high above.

Ezekiel cups his hands. Tanner takes the boost and leaps on the big man's shoulders. Ezekiel hands him up a rope.

Then Johnny WHISTLES.

Above, the Cavalrymen peer over the side. Tanner throws the rope at the same moment. A perfect lasso. THE FINKLE TWINS PULL HARD AND THE CAVALRYMEN TUMBLE OFF THE WALL, INTO THE FINKLE TWINS' WAITING ARMS.

The only sound we hear is some muffled groans as Ezekiel and Mattias pummel the men into unconsciousness.

Mattias starts taking the uniform off one of the men. Johnny just takes off his duster REVEALING HIS OLD CAVALRY UNIFORM UNDERNEATH.

JOHNNY

On the other side of this wall are a hundred men with guns. Let's not give them a chance to use them. In and out, quick and silent. If all goes well, they'll never know we were here. And if all doesn't go well--Ezekiel, it'll be your show.

Ezekiel nods, grinning.

MOMENTS LATER

Johnny and Mattias climb up into the guard tower, Matthias now wearing a cavalry uniform from one of the felled guards.

INT. THE CAVALRY FORT - GUARD TOWER - CONTINUOUS

Together, the two men spy on the courtyard below. No sign anyone noticed them. Various CAVALRYMEN move to and fro from building to building. Johnny and Mattias watch closely, waiting for the right moment.

EXT. THE CAVALRY FORT - ASSEMBLY AREA - CONTINUOUS

Johnny pulls the brim of his hat low as he passes by several soldiers. Johnny gets closer to the quartermasters, nearly there--

--and then he BUMPS RIGHT INTO GENERAL TIBBET, GUIDING GENERAL ADAMS, A THREE-STAR GENERAL, ON A TOUR.

GENERAL TIBBET

What the hell do you think you're doing?! Have you forgotten how to salute, soldier?!

Thinking fast, Johnny snaps to attention, hiding his face behind his salute. General Tibbet waves him off.

GENERAL ADAMS

I like the way you run a tight ship here. So does Washington.

General Tibbet does his best to quell a satisfied grin.

GENERAL TIBBET

Thank you, sir. I learned from the best.

Adams nods back--ah, the joys of butt kissing.

GENERAL ADAMS

You finish clearing the Apache from your territory, and there's a post for you back in Washington.

GENERAL TIBBET

(smiles)

They're already out, General--they just don't know it yet. I have the situation totally under control.

EXT. FORT COLLINS - QUARTERMASTERS - CONTINUOUS

Johnny walks beside the building, peering inside the window. Stacks of stored items line the walls.

INT. THE CAVALRY FORT - QUARTERMASTERS - CONTINUOUS

Johnny walks through the open door. He scans the room until he spots THE SILVER BOX lying on a table nearby. He heads towards it.

TORRES (O.S.)

Sorry, but the Quartermaster's been gone all day. Probably sleeping one off. Whatcha looking for?

Torres cleans his gun at a table in the corner, halfway between Johnny and the box. Johnny drops his head so the brim of his hat hides his face.

And for some reason, he adopts a terrible Southern accent.

JOHNNY

Yes, well it appears I'm in desperate need of supplies. Dry goods and such. It's been a long ride from Fort Stewart and my men and I still have much of our journey before us.

Torres points his thumb over his shoulder at the stacks of dry goods. NOT in the direction of the box.

TORRES

Help yourself.

Johnny notices a set of IRONS near the dry goods, the handcuffs of the day. He works his way over to them, keeping his back to Torres as much as possible.

Torres lifts his head up from his work.

TORRES (cont'd)
J'you say Fort Stewart? Why'd you ride all this way? The train runs right from there to here.

JOHNNY
As a matter of fact, we did take one train earlier, but it wasn't all we hoped.

Torres drops a bullet into the chamber of his gun. Johnny gets in closer.

The moment Torres spins around to shoot, Johnny snaps the iron around his wrist. The other end is already snapped around one of the posts holding up the cabin. Then he disarms
Torres.

JOHNNY (cont'd)
Nice try with the gun Ruben. A little faster and you woulda had me.

TORRES
High praise, coming from a no good, lying bank robber with a bad accent.

Johnny's face sours.

JOHNNY
Train robber. Train robbery is a complex art of intricate planning and coordination.

TORRES
We're not on a train, bank robber.

JOHNNY
Yeah, well, desperate times and all
that.

Johnny picks up the SILVER BOX. THE BOX BEGINS TO HUM IN HIS HAND, EVER SO SOFTLY.

HE PUTS THE BOX UP TO HIS EAR. THEN HE PUTS IT DOWN ON A TABLE. THE HUMMING STOPS. HE PICKS IT BACK UP AGAIN. THE HUMMING STARTS AGAIN. HE'S FASCINATED.

EXT. SPACE - POV

THE EARTH FROM ORBIT. WE HEAR THE VERY SAME HUMMING AS AN ILLUMINATED GRID APPEARS OVER THE PLANET AND CONCENTRIC CIRCLES OF ENERGY LOCK IN ON AN EXACT LOCATION SOMEWHERE IN THE WESTERN UNITED STATES--WHERE A LIGHT NOW GLOWS.

WE ROCKET DOWN TOWARDS THE EARTH HEADING RIGHT FOR THE BEACON.

INT. FORT COLLINS - QUARTERMASTER'S OFFICE

JOHNNY PUTS THE BOX IN THE SADDLEBAG OVER HIS SHOULDER, AND THE HUMMING STOPS.

TORRES
You came for that? What is it?

JOHNNY
My ticket out.

Johnny heads out the door.

EXT. SKY - POV

Suddenly, the BLUE LIGHT on the horizon DISAPPEARS, as does the grid. The view suddenly SLOW AND THEN STOPS.

INT. FORT COLLINS - QUARTERMASTER'S OFFICE

In frustration, Torres shakes the post he's chained to.

THE POST MOVES. Torres looks up. Sure enough, THE HOLE THE BOX BURNED IN THE CEILING IS RIGHT NEXT TO THE POST TORRES IS CHAINED TO. He puts his shoulder into it, loosening it.

EXT. THE CAVALRY FORT - ASSEMBLY AREA - CONTINUOUS

Johnny keeps his hat low as he exits the Quartermasters. He's headed towards the tower where Mattias waits, but a group of a dozen CAVALRYMEN stand between here and there. Trouble.

Johnny nods up to Mattias, who's watching from the guard tower. Mattias nods to Ezekiel, who's crouched beside the gate.

EZEKIEL LIGHTS A NEARBY FUSE. It quickly snakes its way under the gate, to the base of the water tower. BOOM!

THE WATER TOWER EXPLODES, SPILLING THOUSANDS OF GALLONS OF WATER INTO THE ASSEMBLY AREA. THE CAVALRYMEN ASSEMBLED THERE ARE SWEEPED OFF THEIR FEET AND CARRIED AWAY.

Johnny allows himself a brief smile as he crosses the now empty courtyard.

BANG!

TORRES (O.S.)

Freeze!

Johnny does. Torres stands behind him, manacles still attached to one hand, gun pointed at Johnny with the other.

The CAVALRYMEN stand back up and draw their guns, encircling Johnny. Johnny backs up towards the side of the building, WHERE A ROPE DANGLES.

TORRES (cont'd)

Sergeant at arms, get the irons.
We've got a deserter in our midst.

The soldiers cock their pistols.

BLAM, BLAM, BLAM, BLAM, BLAM. The soldiers who had rifles no longer do. The ones with pistols retreat fast when bullets hit the ground right between their feet.

Up in the tower, Mattias reloads. JOHNNY PULLS ON THE LOOPED END OF THE ROPE.

EXT. THE CAVALRY FORT - CONTINUOUS

Ezekiel and Tanner have all their horses teamed together, tied to the very same rope. They kick them into a gallop.

INT. THE CAVALRY FORT - ASSEMBLY AREA - CONTINUOUS

THE ROPE GOES TAUT, YANKING JOHNNY UP INTO THE AIR.

THE FAST-MOVING ROPE DRAGS JOHNNY ACROSS THE ROOF OF THE QUARTERMASTERS BUILDING AS THE CAVALRYMEN OPEN FIRE.

THE BUILDING SHIELDS HIM FROM THEIR FIRE--UNTIL THE ROPE YANKS HIM CLEAR OF THE BUILDING, RACING TOWARDS THE GUARD TOWER. THREE SOLDIERS TAKE AIM.

MATTIAS' POV: Mattias has the three dead to rights. BLAM, BLAM. The first two get their gun hands shot.

But the third...the third aims right at Johnny and when Mattias shifts aim to him, Johnny's body comes between him and his target.

MATTIAS

Behind you!

IN MIDAIR, JOHNNY TWISTS, DRAWING HIS GUN.

BLAM. The soldier takes one in the leg knocking him to the ground, sending his SHOT an inch away from Johnny's skull.

JOHNNY'S TRAJECTORY SENDS HIM SAILING RIGHT THROUGH THE OPENING IN THE GUARD TOWER AND OVER THE WALL.

EXT. THE CAVALRY FORT - CONTINUOUS

JOHNNY LANDS RIGHT IN THE SADDLE.

EXT. THE CAVALRY FORT - COURTYARD - LATER

General Tibbet is red faced as General Adams steps out among the destruction.

GENERAL ADAMS

If this is your idea of having things under control, General, then I've wasted a trip. A shame. Washington sure is beautiful in the fall.

General Adams walks off, Tibbet finds Torres. Tibbet can barely control his rage.

GENERAL TIBBET

Get the men ready. All of them. We march at dawn.

EXT. LONE PINE - NIGHT

A lone, tall pine tree in the middle of desert scrub. Johnny's gang rides up like a bat out of hell. They HOOT and HOLLER as they approach.

Johnny doesn't share their levity. He stops his horse.

JOHNNY

You guys go on.

MATTIAS

You're goin' to them Apache alone?!

JOHNNY

The fewer guns around the better for this kind of deal. Go.

Reluctantly, the Finkles ride off. Tanner hangs back.

TANNER

You're not exactly the picture of glee, Johnny. What gives?

JOHNNY

Just thinking about going home tonight. I finally did something right--and I can't even tell her about it.

TANNER

Johnny? The past don't equal the future. Remember that.

EXT. DESERT - NIGHT

Tanner joins the rest of the gang, sans Johnny.

EZEKIEL

That man's gotta learn to relax 'n smell the sasparilla once in a spell.

TANNER

It's just whenever things start to go right for Johnny, he starts worrying about another Columa.

EZEKIEL

What's a Columa?

Tanner closes his eyes, regretting what he just let out of the bag.

EXT. RIVER CROSSING - NIGHT

Johnny races his horse through a fast moving river, but halfway across, the horse hits a deep water spot and down they go.

TANNER (V.O.)

Columa's a mine, up in Area 51. Silver. Johnny used to run it for the Cavalry--

MATTIAS (V.O.)

Johnny?!

Johnny turns to see his saddlebag floating away.

JOHNNY

No!!!

He jumps off the horse and swims like a man possessed. He grabs the bag and pulls it and himself onto the far shoreline. His horse does the same.

TANNER (V.O.)

He was a geologist for them. Only there was one little thing about Columa they never told Johnny. It was on Apache burial land. Some Apache showed up to bury one of their own, and well--let's just say alot more than one person got put in the earth that night.

Johnny sits there a moment, cradling the bag. He opens it, pulling out the SILVER BOX.

TANNER (V.O.) (cont'd)

And ever since? Johnny's sorta had this idea that god--destiny--whatever--is punishing him.

As if to reply, a low HUM comes from the box.

EXT. SKY - POV

Again, from the POV a BLUE LIGHT THROBS ON THE HORIZON. Whatever this is, it lurches forward, racing impossibly fast across a barren landscape towards that blue light.

EXT. CHAPEL - NIGHT

Johnny rides past a small adobe mission chapel. But as he passes it, he slows his horse, taking a moment to stare at it. He pulls back on the reins, stopping his horse beside it.

JOHNNY (O.S.)

Lord, I know I ain't stepped foot in one of your houses in a long time. Since Columa.

INT. CHAPEL - NIGHT

The rectangular chapel has only a few rows of pews, with a simple altar lit by a handful of prayer candles.

JOHNNY (O.S.)

But Lord--I feel like I've finally done something right by Annie.

Johnny approaches and kneels at the altar, the box still resting in his hand.

JOHNNY (cont'd)
Please, please don't take that away from me. From us. Help me wipe the slate clean, Lord. If you do? If you get me through this night, I promise to be a decent man again.

Johnny takes a small wooden reed and LIGHTS A CANDLE.

But just as he stands back up, a powerful wind blows through the mission windows. HIS CANDLE IS SNUFFED OUT, ALONG WITH ALL THE OTHERS.

Johnny glances up at the ceiling, as if to ask "Did You do that?"

FLASHES OF BLUE LIGHT PASS BY THE WINDOWS. The front door slowly CREAKS open. There's a CRASH outside. Johnny pulls out his pistol, spooked.

JOHNNY (cont'd)
Who's there?!

Johnny slowly creeps towards the front door. He hears his horse WHINNYING IN FEAR, desperately trying to pull itself free.

Johnny, sweating bullets, is just about to reach the door when SUDDENLY A BLAST OF LIGHT BLOWS THE DOOR OFF ITS HINGES.

Johnny crashes to the floor as BLUE LIGHTS STREAM THROUGH EVERY WINDOW. He dives into a corner, terrified.

THE LIGHT CONCENTRATES INTO A BEAM, AND THE BEAM FALLS UPON
THE BOX. IT BEGINS TO GLOW AND HUM. JOHNNY QUICKLY PUTS THE BOX BACK IN HIS SADDLEBAG.

THE WIND BLASTS THROUGH THE CHAPEL HARDER AS SOME KIND OF VIBRATION FILLS THE AIR. WINDOWS SHATTER. TABLES TOPPLE. THE PLACE IS BEING RIPPED APART.

Johnny dives out of one of the broken windows.

EXT. CHAPEL - CONTINUOUS

IT IS A MAELSTROM OUTSIDE, THE SKY COVERED IN OMINOUS CLOUDS, WIND WHIPPING THE DESERT SAND IN EVERY DIRECTION. DARK BLUE BEAMS BLAST DOWN FROM THE SKY, ENVELOPING THE CHAPEL.

JOHNNY JUMPS ATOP HIS HORSE JUST AS THE BLUE BEAM WIDENS AND THE WHOLE CHAPEL STARTS TO GLOW, BRIGHT RED.

AND JUST AS SUDDENLY, THE BEAM CUTS OUT, AND THE GLOW FADES.
THE CHAPEL TURNS BLACK AS THE NIGHT ITSELF

AND WITH A SMALL GUST OF WIND, WHAT WAS THE CHAPEL BLOWS AWAY
INTO A TRILLION PIECES OF ASH. NOTHING REMAINS WHERE IT ONCE STOOD.

JOHNNY
Lord of mercy--

SUDDENLY, THERE'S A SHRIEK FROM ABOVE--UNLIKE ANYTHING OF THIS WORLD. FROM AMIDST THE CLOUDS ABOVE, JOHNNY BEGINS TO SEE FORMS, GROTESQUE SHAPES, FLYING ABOVE HIM.

JOHNNY RIDES FOR HIS LIFE.

EXT. OPEN RANGE - NIGHT

Johnny rides at full gallop, terrified, leaving the chapel as far behind him as he can.

Behind him THE BLUE BEAM races towards him in pursuit. Every tree it passes over bursts into flames.

Johnny guides his horse around a huge boulder, changing direction quickly.

He looks behind him. No sign of the blue light. He breathes a sigh of relief--

UNTIL HE LOOKS AHEAD AND SEES NOTHING BUT BLACK SKY...HE'S ABOUT TO GALLOP FULL SPEED OFF A CLIFF! JOHNNY PULLS BACK ON THE REINS AS HARD AS HE CAN.

The horse stomps its hooves into the sand, trying desperately to stop before they go over the edge.

BUT THEIR MOMENTUM IS TOO GREAT! JOHNNY YELLS AS THEY GO OVER THE EDGE OF THE CLIFF!

HORSE AND RIDER DISAPPEAR INTO THE VOID.

There's a long moment of silence and then...CLANG. We were expecting something more on the order of SPLAT.

CLIFF EDGE

And then it happens. SOMETHING RISES OVER THE PRECIPICE.

First we see just a metal spire, a needle pointing at the stars. Next the needle widens into a huge silver plateau, dotted with multicolored points of light.

And on it goes, rising higher and higher, revealing more and more of what appears to be an ALIEN SHIP OF MASSIVE SIZE!

And finally, the outermost lip of metal rises above the plateau, revealing a shell-shocked Johnny Dixon atop his horse.

He stares around blankly, trying to make sense of where he is. The horse becomes understandably spooked, rearing back on its hind legs, which lose their footing on the smooth metallic surface.

JOHNNY AND HIS HORSE FALL, AND THEN GRAVITY TAKES OVER. HORSE AND RIDER BEGIN TO SLIDE DOWN THE SMOOTH METAL SURFACE, PICKING UP SPEED AS THEY GO.

THEY HURTLE OVER THE EDGE, SLAMMING BACK TO EARTH AND KICKING UP A CLOUD OF DUST.

JOHNNY

I don--I don't believe--

Johnny, his mouth agape, is stunned and terrified by what he's seeing. The MASSIVE SHIP HOVERS OVER HIM, DWARFING EVEN THE HILL HE'S ON.

A BLUE BEAM IGNITES AGAIN, HEADING RIGHT FOR JOHNNY.

But it doesn't come for him. It moves over his horse. From within the saddlebag, the BOX BEGINS TO GLOW. The horse BUCKS and runs out of the beam.

Johnny runs past the beam and leaps back atop his horse. He kicks the horse into a gallop, staring at the part of his arm that passed through the blue beam. The skin smokes and bubbles, still burning into him.

But the blue beam doesn't come after him. No, the huge ship does something else entirely.

SOMETHING LIKE AN IRIS OPENS ON THE BOTTOM OF THE SHIP AND FROM THE DARKNESS WITHIN COMES SOME KIND OF MASSIVE SHOCKWAVE.

IT LOOKS LIKE RIPPLES IN A POND ONLY THEY'RE HAPPENING IN MIDAIR, CHEWING UP THE FABRIC OF REALITY ITSELF.

The first SHOCKWAVE hits just behind Johnny's horse. The ground rumbles and erupts, throwing dirt and rock in every direction, leaving behind a crater.

Johnny rides serpentine as SHOCKWAVES chew up the desert floor behind them.

Johnny's up on his feet, leaning in close to the horse's neck, urging it on faster. A NARROW CANYON lies just fifty yards ahead.

The iris on the bottom of the ship opens wider, and the biggest shockwave of all sizzles through the air.

At the very same moment Johnny makes it into the narrow canyon. THE ROCK AND SAND WALLS COLLAPSE BEHIND AND AROUND HIM AND HE DISAPPEARS IN A MASSIVE LANDSLIDE.

The ship's blue beam scans the pulverized rock and debris. It slowly pulls away, climbing into black clouds above.

AMONGST THE RUBBLE

But hiding inside a safe cave, Johnny stares down at THE BOX AS THE GLOW SLOWLY FADES. He backs as far away from the box as he can. HE'S NEVER BEEN SO SCARED IN HIS LIFE.

DISSOLVE TO:

INT. TANNER'S HOUSE - BEDROOM - NIGHT

CU: Johnny's eyes, still wide. Still terrified.

JOHNNY

Annie! You're sure she's still okay?

TANNER

I told you I checked, she's sleeping in the loft. Johnny-- you're scaring me. What is it you say you saw?

JOHNNY

It--it was huge--and lit up like a thousand gas lamps--and it flew in the air--no--it--it floated!

Johnny paces the room, a man possessed. WE PULL BACK to reveal the rest of the gang, looking pretty scared themselves.

INT. TANNER'S HOUSE - LIVING ROOM - NIGHT

An Asian curio treasure trove -- Chinese tea sets, a Japanese bonsai tree, Indian Buddhas.

With hands still shaking, Johnny pours himself a drink. Mattias and the others share uneasy glances.

MATTIAS

Maybe you better lie down, boss.

JOHNNY

Lie down?! Are you crazy?! They could come for us any second!

EZEKIEL

They? Who is "they?"

Johnny looks at them with wild eyes.

JOHNNY

Who said anything about a "who"?!
Could've been a "what"--or even a
"how"--hell, there ain't even words
--it was flying in the sky--it was--

Johnny looks around Tanner's home. He spots an ornate china tea set, and pulls out one of the saucers. He turns it upside down and moves it through the air imitating the ship.

The gang shoots each other glances of disbelief.

MATTIAS

You trying to tell us you saw a flying saucer?

Frustrated, Johnny tosses the saucer against the wall.

JOHNNY

No! I can't--I can't explain!

Tanner stares in horror at the shattered saucer.

TANNER

That was Tang Dynasty.

JOHNNY

It tried to kill me.

EZEKIEL

An' you think that there little box has something to do with it?

Everyone looks over at the SILVER BOX--which no one dares touch at this point.

JOHNNY

I don't know.

TANNER

You know what you need? A breath of fresh air.

Johnny's about to argue but Tanner grabs his arm, hard.

EXT. TANNER'S HOUSE - CONTINUOUS

Tanner pulls Johnny out the door.

TANNER

Johnny, you're starting to scare me. Where you going with all this?

JOHNNY

Oh Jesus, you don't believe me either!

TANNER

I didn't say that. Look Johnny, every religion has stories of things coming down from the sky. And my personal belief system teaches that there is more unseen in this existence than there is seen. Now, all I want you to do is look me in the eye and tell me--

Suddenly they hear an RUSTLING nearby. The hint of movement in the shadows just beyond the house's lights.

Johnny and Tanner quickly un-holster their guns. The night goes silent as they approach Tanner's BARN.

Johnny carefully pulls open the barn door with a CREAK. But the barn is EMPTY.

But behind Johnny, hidden forms suddenly RISE OUT OF THE DESERT SAND. Something FLIES THROUGH THE AIR--JOHNNY DIVES JUST IN TIME--A TOMAHAWK THUDS INTO THE BARN DOOR.

As the APACHE ATTACK WITH A WAR CRY, THE AIR IS FILLED WITH FLAMING ARROWS WHICH PEPPER THE BARN.

Johnny and Tanner bolt back into Tanner's house, FIRING WILDLY INTO THE NIGHT.

INT. TANNER'S HOUSE - LIVING ROOM - CONTINUOUS

Johnny and the others anxiously stand beside the windows and doors, guns at the ready.

EZEKIEL
What the hell was that?!

JOHNNY
Company!

Suddenly, there's a BOOMING VOICE from outside.

VOICE (O.S.)
Deame ino Anuan Hontora!

MATTIAS
What the hell did he say?!

Suddenly, the door EXPLODES INTO A THOUSAND PIECES, knocking Johnny and the Finkle Brothers to the floor.

SILVER BLADE (O.S.)
He said, "give us back our box."

Silver Blade appears in the doorway. His bow and arrow have Johnny dead to rights.

Maya walks in, her words barely managing to control Silver Blade's murderous rage.

MAYA
You will give us what you have taken.

Johnny stands up, dusting himself off. He notices Black Wind and Lone Fox at the windows, bows drawn. Likewise, Johnny's men have their guns out.

JOHNNY
We had a deal.

MAYA
You broke our deal. You stole the Anuan Hontora for us, and then you tried to steal it from us.

JOHNNY
That box? Listen to me. The last thing in the world I want is that damn box. I was taking it to our meeting place!

SILVER BLADE
I tracked you, thief. Your path never came near the meeting place.
You came here, the other way.

Johnny turns to Maya, pleading.

JOHNNY

There was this light, coming down from the sky! And--and explosions-- and the ground was--well it was exploding all around me--with these-- -huge--sky--things!

The Apache stare at each other, confused and angry. Johnny's gang can only share in their confusion.

BLACK WIND

I say we kill him now.

MAYA

Lights in the sky? The earth torn apart? Sky Watcher has told us such stories of the Gods of Death.

SILVER BLADE

Don't fall for his tricks. He's a liar and a thief. I will get the Anuan Hontora.

Silver Blade holds up his hand. The Apache behind him part, and one of the braves leads ANNIE up beside Silver Blade.

Annie looks terrified. A chill runs through Johnny.

ANNIE

Daddy?!

Johnny stares at Silver Blade like we've never seen him stare. Like death.

JOHNNY

You take your hands off my daughter. Now!

SILVER BLADE

You will give us the Anuan Hontora, thief, or she will pay.

Silver Blade draws his knife. Annie stares at the knife in terror. EVERYONE DRAWS THEIR WEAPONS AT ONCE.

ANNIE

Daddy!!!

Johnny glares at Silver Blade, his gun pointed right between the Apache's eyes.

JOHNNY

Just so much as scratch her--I swear dying will be the least of your problems.

Maya bolts forward as well, grabbing Silver Blade.

MAYA

Put the knife away!

SILVER BLADE

I know what I am doing, Maya.

MAYA

You bring dishonor to us all! You make us no better than they! Put that knife away, or by the Gods I will give you reason to use it!

JOHNNY

I have the box.

Silver Blade slowly lowers the knife. Annie's eyes fill with tears.

ANNIE

Daddy? You're a part of this?
You're--a thief?

JOHNNY

Not after today.
(to Silver Blade)
Show me the gold, and let's finish our business right now.

SILVER BLADE

I sent the gold back to our village when you did not fulfill your word.
You want gold? You will only get it on Apache ground.

CUT TO:

EXT. FORT COLLINS - MAIN GATE - DAY

The entire cavalry regiment is assembled, a massive force including half-Indian scouts and horse-drawn gatling guns.

General Tibbet rides between them, inspecting the ranks. He holds up a book in his hand.

GENERAL TIBBET

The rules of war, gentlemen. The very code that separates us from the savages.

He tosses it in the dirt.

GENERAL TIBBET (cont'd)

No more. The Apache resistance ends today. Area 51 is the property of the United States of America. After today, I want the only Apache in Area 51 to be buried beneath it.

The General lifts a small satchel of coins.

GENERAL TIBBET (cont'd)

And as for the traitors who ride with them--I'll pay two months wages as a bonus for the man who kills Johnny Dixon.

CUT TO:

SIGNPOST

A tattered wooden sign reads:

AREA 51: PROPERTY OF THE U.S. GOVERNMENT.

TRESPASSERS WILL BE SHOT ON SIGHT

Suddenly, a throwing knife impales the sign, knocking it off the post.

EXT. AREA 51 - DAWN

Silver Blade retrieves his knife. Behind him, a motley assortment of INDIAN and OUTLAW ride through the desert, together but hardly united. Hands ride close to pistol and blade, eyes dart between friend and foe.

Only Johnny seems calm as Silver Blade rides up alongside him.

SILVER BLADE

I look forward to killing you the moment you give me the slightest reason to.

JOHNNY

Yeah. I get that a lot. Thanks for stopping by.

Johnny rides ahead, catching up with Annie. She wears a scowl like you've never seen.

JOHNNY (cont'd)
Annie, please, talk to me. Say something. Say anything.

ANNIE
I don't talk to liars. My father taught me that a long time ago.

Annie spurs her horse on. Johnny slows up, which puts him next to Maya.

MAYA
She has your spirit.

JOHNNY
Nah. Got it from her mother.

MAYA
No. Her sense of honor is from her mother. Her spirit is yours. Where is her mother?

Johnny takes a moment, searching for the words.

JOHNNY
She's in a better place. Cholera, back when Annie was four.

MAYA
Hard, to raise a young one alone.

JOHNNY
You'll never know.

MAYA
I have a son. A few years younger than your Annie. His father, White Wolf, was a great warrior--and left us as great warriors do.

Johnny and Maya exchange a long look, seeing each other differently than before, two parents where two enemies once stood.

JOHNNY
I don't suppose you have any Apache wisdom for me? I can't seem to do anything right by Annie. You give them too much slack, and they take advantage of you.
(MORE)

JOHNNY (cont'd)
Crack the whip--and they'll hate you forever. I don't know. Maybe it's easier for a woman.

MAYA
It is not. A man provides strength, like a rock in the river. Ahote fears too much when I leave--that the river's current will take him away from me.

Another long glance passes between them.

MAYA (cont'd)
You must talk with her. Know her fears as your own. You want so much for her--but do you know what she wants for herself?

Johnny smiles, appreciating Maya's wisdom.

JOHNNY
Can I ask you a question?
(Maya nods)
When you said she had her mother's sense of honor, that was meant as an insult, right?

Maya just smiles.

EXT. AREA 51 - HILLSIDE - LATER

The group rides up a hillside when suddenly, Silver Blade's horse stops. STREAMS OF BLACK SMOKE curl up from the other side of the hill.

All the horses begin to BRAY, circling in fear. Even the skilled Apache can't calm the beasts.

Silver Blade, his senses tingling, dismounts and carefully approaches the top of the hillside, his tomahawk in hand.

He shudders as he sees what lies beyond.

SMOKING CRATER

The other side of the hill is a smoldering crater, three hundred yards wide, the ground ripped and torn beyond any recognition.

JOHNNY
(to Tanner)
Keep Annie back.

Silver Blade, his face solemn, spots several BURNT APACHE ITEMS including a child's buckskin rattle. Even Johnny and his gang look affected by the destruction.

SILVER BLADE

What do you see?

BLACK WIND

I see no bodies. Perhaps the village escaped the attack.

Silver Blade shakes his head. He steps down near the center of the crater. Silver Blade kneels beside pools of strange liquid, around picked-clean HUMAN SKELETONS.

And for the first time--we see fear in the eyes of the Apache.

JOHNNY

I've seen this before.

BLACK WIND

What man could do such a thing?

JOHNNY

Wasn't any man that done it.

Johnny's eyes go skyward.

CUT TO:

EXT. AREA 51 - SKY WATCHER'S MESA - DAY

The riders approach the Apache encampment and the imposing mesa. As they do, dark clouds move in and blanket the sky.

The people of the village stare skyward, worried.

Maya leaps off her horse, scanning the crowd. She finally spots Yona, who hugs her closely.

YONA

Daughter. Thank the gods. There's nothing but fear in the village.

MAYA

We have the Anuan Hontora. I am sure Sky Watcher will know what to do.

(looking around)

Where is Ahote?

YONA

Ahote had another one of his dreams. He refuses to leave the Kiowa.

MAYA

Does he know I am here?

YONA

He knows--you told him you would not leave him, Maya.

Maya hears the sound of the drums outside.

MAYA

I must go to Sky Watcher. Please tell Ahote I will see him later.

YONA

You will tell him yourself.

JOHNNY

Johnny and the gang are surrounded by Apache, some there to gawk and others with less pleasant thoughts on their minds.

Johnny tries to help Annie off her horse. She pushes his hand away.

JOHNNY

Look. I messed up, but I'm trying to fix that. So before I go up that there mesa, to Lord knows what, how about we just start fresh? Truthfully.

Annie shoots her dad a skeptical glance. Then she notices that Johnny holds his SILVER BULLET in one hand.

ANNIE

Truthfully? Okay, let's try. Tell me about that saloon girl I kicked out of our home the other day.

Johnny blanches.

JOHNNY

The--uh--the girl--?

ANNIE

Thought so. You can go now.

Johnny struggles to find something to say, but he's got nothing. He turns to Tanner.

JOHNNY

Look after her till I get back.

And with that Johnny leaves.

TANNER

Little girl, you might just think about giving your daddy just the hint of a break.

ANNIE

He's a liar.

TANNER

And you've been completely honest, Wild Bill?

Annie looks away.

TANNER (cont'd)

You said you lied because you didn't want to disappoint him. Well, your father just went up that mesa, surrounded by Apache, for the same reason.

EXT. AREA 51 - MESA LEDGE - DAY

Silver Blade, and then Maya lead Johnny up a ledge barely wide enough for a chipmunk, and with a hundred foot drop. Johnny makes conversation to avoid looking down.

JOHNNY

So--what can you tell me about this Skywalker guy?

MAYA

Sky Watcher has protected our people since the time of our forefather's forefathers. It is his wisdom that has kept us alive. It was he who told us to fight the white man to the death rather than sacrifice our sacred land.

JOHNNY

He sounds real friendly.

Silver Blade shoots Johnny a look that silences him.

INT. SKY WATCHER'S CAVE - CONTINUOUS

A giant totem marks the arched entrance to the pitch black cave--images of eagles carved on its face. Thin wisps of sage smoke drift out of the cave.

Johnny cautiously hangs back as Maya steps into the darkness.

MAYA

Sky Watcher, we have the Anuan Hontora.

Suddenly, two torches ignite, on their own. Illuminating the area around the group. In the distance they can barely make out a figure in robes. His voice ECHOES in the cave.

SKY WATCHER (O.S.)

Show me.

Silver Blade and Maya stare at Johnny, who takes a moment to realize he's the one being spoken to. Johnny pulls the Box out of his saddlebag. As he shows it, it begins to HUM.

JOHNNY

Right here. Now if you want a closer look, show me the gold.

Suddenly, the torches go out. In the blink of an eye, two more light up.

In the distance, Sky Watcher now holds the box. Johnny looks down at his empty hand in disbelief.

THE BOX HUMS LOUDLY IN SKY WATCHER'S HANDS.

SKY WATCHER

The Anuan Hontora--has been opened.

AND IN AN INSTANT, SKY WATCHER CRUSHES THE SILVER BOX, PIECES OF IT RAINING TO THE GROUND.

Everyone is shocked by this, none more than Johnny.

JOHNNY

Um--I'm still getting paid--right?

SKY WATCHER

(ignoring him)

For five hundred years I have feared this day. The Gods of Death have arrived.

JOHNNY

Will somebody please tell me just what the hell is going on around here?

Another wave of Sky Watcher's hand ignites a hundred torches all around the cave, revealing--

THE SISTINE CHAPEL OF CAVE PAINTINGS

We now can see the true dimensions of this cave. It is massive, extending hundreds of feet in every direction. And on each and every wall, a cave painting, thirty feet high.
The sections of rock separate the painting into panels.

Still somehow in shadow, Sky Watcher throws his hand towards the first panel. Its torch flares, having the effect of spotlighting the panel.

In the first panel is a massive SILVER SHIP, alone amongst the stars. Johnny's eyes go wide. He recognizes the shape.

SKY WATCHER

The gods of death were ancient beings. For millions of years they traveled the heavens: seeking new worlds to conquer, leaving nothing alive in their wake. Until one day, when they came upon this world.

In this panel the ship now falls from the stars, a massive fireball, CRASHING INTO THE EARTH.

SKY WATCHER (cont'd)

But destiny spared us their wrath.
For the great ship crashed deep into the earth.

The next panel's torch flares, showing a Apache boy discovering a blackened figure, decidedly not human. Dying.
The boy is depicted as giving the creature water.

SKY WATCHER (cont'd)

The fall of the great ship was taken as a sign, a calling for a lone Apache boy on his spirit walk.
The boy came upon the destruction, and found one of the gods. Burned.
Dying. But not dead. And though fear filled his heart, the boy showed it something the god had no word for. He showed--compassion.
The boy saved its life.

The next panel's torch flares. Now the creature watches over the prone boy.

SKY WATCHER (cont'd)
Owing a life-debt, the god adopted the boy's people as his own, swearing to watch over and protect them from all harm.

More torches flare, illuminating panels that appear to be a timeline, showing drought, famine, disease, the arrival of the Spanish Conquistadors and their departure, the arrival of the Americans. Throughout it all, the Apache survived while the others died.

SKY WATCHER (cont'd)
And yet he always knew there would be one day he could not protect them from. The day the others came looking for their fallen ship.
(half the torches go out)
That day has come.

JOHNNY
How do you know all this? I'm supposed to believe you were that Indian boy, five hundred years ago?

SKY WATCHER
No. I am not that boy.

And with that, Sky Watcher lowers his hand. All the torches in the place suddenly go out, plunging everyone else back into darkness.

SKY WATCHER (O.S.) (cont'd)
I am that god.

And suddenly a lone torch ignites, just inches from Johnny's face. And right behind it is Sky Watcher. The light from the torch penetrates the cowl of his hood and for the first time we can see him.

SKY WATCHER

DROPS HIS CLOAK AND RISES TO HIS FULL SEVEN FOOT HEIGHT. HE IS UNLIKE ANYTHING WE'VE EVER SEEN. HIS SKIN, INDEED MOST OF HIS BODY IS TRANSPARENT, REVEALING RIVERS OF BLACK BLOOD COURSING THROUGH HIS BODY, ENTWINING BONES THAT LOOK LIKE SHARPENED IRON. THE ONLY OTHER PARTS OF HIM THAT ARE NOT TRANSPARENT ARE BLOOD RED EYES, AND JAGGED ROWS OF RAZOR SHARP SHARK'S TEETH.

SKY WATCHER IS AN ALIEN.

Johnny, shocked, immediately pulls his gun.

JOHNNY

What the hell are you?

Sky Watcher throws a hand and the last panel is illuminated.

SKY WATCHER

The future, unless you can stop it.

It shows a crack in the earth, creatures crawling out of the crack. A multitude of creatures. ABOVE THE CREVASSE IS PAINTED A SINGLE ALIEN SYMBOL.

AND FINALLY, THERE ARE NO HUMAN FIGURES WHATSOEVER.

BOOM. THE ENTIRE MESA SHAKES, BATTERED BY A POWERFUL FORCE. A HUM, SIMILAR TO THE HUM FROM THE BOX, REVERBERATES THROUGH THE AIR, GROWING LOUDER AND LOUDER UNTIL ROCKS FALL FROM THE CEILING.

EXT. APACHE VILLAGE - CONTINUOUS

The massive alien ship has LOWERED FROM THE CLOUDS and is now poised right above the mesa, its powerful engines thundering down upon the mesa top.

In the village below--A MONTAGE OF REACTIONS. Several Apache women fall prostrate on the ground. Yona stares up in awe and fear.

YONA

Ahote, go inside. Now.

Annie and Tanner have the same expression.

ANNIE

Uncle Tanner?

TANNER

I see it short stuff. I don't believe it, but I see it.

Mattias and Ezekiel's eyes are bugging out of their heads.

MATTIAS

Saint Francis of the Sissies! A flying saucer!

INT. SKY WATCHER'S CAVE - CONTINUOUS

The walls of the great cave have begun to crumble, cracks spreading across the massive cave painting, debris raining down upon those assembled beneath it.

SILVER BLADE

Sky Watcher, what must we do? My braves are ready to do your will.

SKY WATCHER

It is too late. Only one can stop what has begun.

HE EXTENDS A TALON AT JOHNNY.

SKY WATCHER (cont'd)

You are the one.

Silver Blade opens his mouth to object, but Johnny beats him to it.

JOHNNY

What? Me?!

SILVER BLADE

Him?!!

SKY WATCHER (cont'd)

A hundred visions have told me so.
A stranger will deliver all peoples from the gods of death.

JOHNNY

Well you better get your visions checked--'cause you got the wrong guy--

SKY WATCHER

He will bury his past, to save the future.

BOOM. Suddenly the entire top of the mesa flies into the sky and dissolves away. The SHIP hovers just above the mesa, its massive iris opening, the air CRACKLING WITH POWER.

A familiar blue light and howling wind blast down upon them.

SKY WATCHER (cont'd)

Go now!

Johnny and the others run for it.

A MASSIVE SHOCKWAVE BLASTS DOWN FROM THE SHIP. SKY WATCHER CAN ONLY RAISE HIS HANDS TO THE SKY AS WHAT IS LEFT OF THE CAVE COLLAPSES UPON HIM, BURYING HIM.

EXT. MESA LEDGE

AS THE SHOCKWAVE REVERBERATES OUT TO THIS TINY LEDGE, MAYA, SILVER BLADE, AND JOHNNY ARE TOSSED LIKE RAG DOLLS, RIGHT OFF THE LEDGE.

THE ATTACK

The Ship moves over the Apache Village. BLAST AFTER BLAST OF SHOCKWAVE FILLS THE AIR, QUICKLY DESTROYING THE APACHE VILLAGE.

A band of FIFTY BRAVES appear with bows and arrows. With a WAR CRY they let loose a volley of FLAMING ARROWS at the same moment. The arrows fly up, and bounce harmlessly off the metal skin of the great ship.

OR DID THEY DO SOMETHING AFTER ALL? BECAUSE JUST AT THAT MOMENT, THE MASSIVE SHIP FALLS FROM THE SKY!

AT THE LAST SECOND, HUGE KNIFE-LIKE LEGS SPRING OUT AND LACERATE THE EARTH, DIGGING DEEP UNDERGROUND.

THE SHIP HAS LANDED, EVEN THOUGH MOST OF IT STILL TOWERS HUNDREDS OF FEET ABOVE THE GROUND.

The iris beneath the ship opens wide.

AND THEN THEY COME. ALIENS. THE SAME TERRIFYING CREATURES AS SKY WATCHER ONLY EVEN BIGGER. THEY ROCKET DOWN TOWARDS THE VILLAGE ON FLAT, ROUND SLIDER DISCS THAT FLY UNBELIEVABLY FAST.

AND AS THEY APPROACH, THEIR IRON-LIKE BONES SHIFT, AS THEIR CLAWS GROW RAZOR-SHARP TALONS.

The first alien out cuts down a row of four Apaches with a single swipe of its talon.

EXT. MESA LEDGE

Maya, Johnny and Silver Blade hang precariously off the side of the mesa. Below, nothing but SCREAMS and smoke.

JOHNNY
Annie.

MAYA
Ahote.

IN UNISON, they pull themselves back up on the ledge and run down towards the village, full speed.

Silver Blade does the same, a few seconds behind.

EXT. APACHE VILLAGE

An alien on a slider disc comes right for Tanner, Annie, and the twins.

TANNER

DOWN!

They hit the ground, the talons of the alien narrowly missing as they duck beneath its slider disc.

The alien leaps off the disc, which miraculously folds in on itself until it's no bigger than a baton. The alien puts it inside a hidden fold in its transparent skin.

It turns back towards the gang.

TANNER (cont'd)

Annie. Get behind us.

The Alien races towards them. Man these things are fast!

Tanner responds in kind. At the last second, the Alien swipes at Tanner, but Tanner somersaults clear over its head, delivering a roundhouse punch to the back of its head.

ONLY HE NEVER CONNECTS. THE ALIEN PHASES, WHICH IS TO SAY IT TURNS GHOST-LIKE, FOR JUST A SECOND, AND TANNER'S FIST PASSES THROUGH IT HARMLESSLY, BONES AND ALL!

Tanner spots Mattias and Ezekiel on the other side of it, drawing their guns.

TANNER (cont'd)

No! Wait!

Tanner drops to the ground at the last possible second as the FINKLE BROTHERS FIRE! THEIR BULLETS PASS HARMLESSLY THROUGH THE PHASING ALIEN, AND AS THEY CONTINUE ON THEIR WAY, THEY GRAZE TANNER.

No one can believe their eyes.

TANNER (cont'd)

Annie!! Run!!

BRIDGE

Johnny and Maya reach one of the narrow pathway's suspension bridges. Suddenly, AN ALIEN ON A SLIDER DISC RACES UP TOWARDS THEM, BLOCKING THEIR PATH. Maya and Johnny exchange a quick glance. They have the same idea.

THEY JUMP ONTO THE SUSPENSION BRIDGE, WHICH ABSORBS THEIR WEIGHT AND THEN LAUNCHES THEM AT THE ALIEN.

BUT THE ALIEN PHASES AND THEY PASS RIGHT THROUGH IT, LANDING HARD ON THE LEDGE BEYOND IT.

BY THE TIME THEY TURN BACK AROUND, THE ALIEN LEAPS OFF ITS DISC, LANDING ON THE BRIDGE, TALONS EXTENDED. IT MOVES IN FOR THE KILL.

Johnny draws and SHOOTs. It PHASES. He fires again. Again the bullet passes harmlessly through him. Fear fills their eyes.

WHEN SILVER BLADE SUDDENLY DROPS IN FROM ABOVE, LANDING ON THE BRIDGE BEHIND THE ALIEN. HE LIFTS A TOMAHAWK HIGH ABOVE HIS HEAD.

MAYA
Silver Blade, no!

SILVER BLADE
I will wait for you in the next life!

Silver Blade USES HIS TOMAHAWK TO CHOP AWAY THE ROPE HOLDING THE BRIDGE UP!

THE ALIEN LETS OUT A PIERCING SHRIEK AS BOTH WARRIORS PLUNGE OFF THE BRIDGE, FALLING RIGHT TOWARDS THE ALIEN SHIP BELOW.

MAYA
NO!!!

APACHE VILLAGE

ANOTHER SLIDER DISC descends from the ship. Atop this one is an alien unlike the others. THE ALPHA ALIEN is taller, it seems to have twice the number of veins pumping blood through its body, and its iron skeleton extends beyond its skin, having the effect of giving it sharp spikes bristling over its body.

The Alpha Alien lets a SMALL SILVER BALL DROP FROM HIS HAND. IT BURROWS INTO THE GROUND, RACING TOWARDS THE APACHE ARCHERS.

THE APACHE SEE THE RIPPLE IN THE GROUND AS IT RACES RIGHT FOR THEM, DISAPPEARING DEEPER ONLY IN THE LAST TEN FEET.

THE APACHES LOOK DOWN, CONFUSED.

AND THEN A MASSIVE IMPLOSION SUCKS THE APACHE AND ABOUT A HUNDRED TONS OF DIRT AND ROCK INTO THE EARTH!!!

JOHNNY AND MAYA

Reach the bottom of the mesa and race towards the village, searching for their children.

 MAYA JOHNNY
Ahote!!! Annie!!!

 ANNIE (O.S.)
DADDY, HELP!!!

Johnny zeroes in on the sound. He spots Annie's floral dress.
She runs from a pursuing Alien over a hundred yards away.

Johnny'd never make it in time. Instead, he draws his pistol, and takes careful aim.

ANNIE

Trips and falls. When she turns back, the Alien is nearly on top of her. It reaches down towards her and swipes with its talons.

She closes her eyes in terror. BLAM. A bullet passes through it, causing it to PHASE as it strikes. Its talons pass harmlessly through her.

JOHNNY

He squints as he aims again.

 JOHNNY
Run to me Annie, run!!

ANNIE

Is too terrified. She simply backpedals, crawling on the ground. The Alien strikes again. BLAM. It PHASES again, missing.

Annie pulls out her PARASOL, jabbing at the Alien with it.

 ANNIE
You--get--away--from me!

JOHNNY

Watches as she crawls behind a Kiowa. Johnny hasn't got a shot!

 JOHNNY
NO!!!

Johnny sprints down towards Annie.

ANNIE

Jabs it with her parasol again. The Alien PHASES, and the umbrella passes harmlessly through it.

BUT ANNIE DOESN'T WITHDRAW IT. SHE OPENS IT! AND A MOMENT LATER, THE ALIEN PHASES BACK, THE UMBRELLA STILL IN ITS GUT. It lets out an ALIEN SHRIEK that'd make your teeth shatter.

THE BLACK BLOOD INSIDE IT POOLS AND SPREADS. Annie pushes on the parasol and the Alien falls back, dead.

A moment later, Johnny comes running around the kiowa, nearly hugging the life out of her in relief.

AHOTE

runs frantically through the village, searching for a safe harbor that just isn't there. The Aliens seem to be everywhere.

SUDDENLY, HE'S GRABBED FROM BEHIND--BY MAYA, who takes just a moment to close her eyes and hold him tight.

AHOTE

Mommy!

Aliens, headed this way. Maya pulls her son the other way, only to see Aliens in that direction as well. She searches frantically for a safe direction.

SHE SEES ONLY ONE: TOWARDS THE ALIEN SHIP.

DIRT MOUND

A huge pile of dirt, created where one of the legs of the alien ship dug into the earth.

Maya and Ahote hide behind it, watching the massacre from afar.

YONA (O.S.)

Ahote!

Maya spots her mother, wandering between burning kiowas, searching in vain. HER YELLS BEGIN TO DRAW ALIEN ATTENTION.

YONA (cont'd)

Ahote!!!

MAYA
Stay here.

AHOTE
Mommy, I'm scared.

Maya kneels beside her son. She looks him square in the eye.

MAYA
*Even our bravest warrior is scared this day. I will come back, Ahote.
 I will always come for you.*

Maya runs for her mother, leaving Ahote next to the dirt mound.

THE ALPHA ALIEN

Two ALIENS arrive, dragging Sky Watcher between them. He's badly burned, but still clinging to life.

The Alpha motions to the ground and they throw Sky Watcher down. The Alpha stands over him, saying something in a strange tongue of clicks and hisses.

SKY WATCHER
 (in Apache)
I am Sky Watcher, shaman of the Apache people. I will never help you find what you seek.

The Alpha tilts its head, as if trying to comprehend something unfathomable. And a second later, IT FLARES ITS TALONS AND SEVERS SKY WATCHER'S HEAD.

EXT. APACHE VILLAGE

Yona, Maya's mother, still wanders through the burning village.

Maya runs quickly and silently towards her.

YONA
 Ahote!? Maya?!

Maya can only watch as an Alien on a slider disc changes course to intercept Alona.

MAYA
 Mother!

Yona turns and sees her daughter, still alive. It gives her a moment's peace, just as the Alien reaches her.

Maya looks away at the moment of impact, tears flooding her eyes.

THE ALPHA ALIEN

It stares down at the spot where Sky Watcher laid. It looks up, surveying the damage. The entire village seems destroyed. THE ALPHA ALIEN LETS OUT A PIERCING SHRIEK.

AT ONCE ALL THE ALIENS STOP THE MASSACRE. ONE BY ONE THEY FLOAT UP AND INTO THE ATTACK SHIP ON THEIR SLIDER DISCS.

AND JUST AS QUICKLY, THE SHIP RISES, THE KNIFE-LIKE LANDING GEAR LIFTING OUT OF THE DIRT MOUNDS BELOW AND FOLDING INTO THE SHIP.

THE SHIP RISES INTO THE CLOUDS AND RACES OFF.

And back on the ground, nothing moves except the smoke.

MAYA

stares at the area where Ahote was hiding.

MAYA

Ahote.

(louder)

Ahote!?

She runs over to the mound of dirt. It isn't a mound anymore. It is a hole in the ground where the enormous landing gear of the ship lifted up.

AHOTE IS NOWHERE TO BE FOUND. Maya's panicked eyes look left and right.

And lastly they rise to the clouds above. And she knows. She just knows.

MAYA (cont'd)

AHOTE!!!

DISSOLVE TO:

EXT. APACHE VILLAGE - LATER

A heavy rain falls over the field of rubble and craters that once was an Apache village.

MAYA

her mother's feather still in her hair, sits by herself on a black rock.

She beats her breast and rocks rhythmically back and forth, a woman deep in mourning. She KEENS, periodically letting out cries of anguish.

Behind her, a giant flaming FUNERAL PYRE burns.

BLACK WIND (O.S.)
Sacred ground! You are not welcome!

Maya closes her eyes, trying to block out the noise.

FUNERAL PYRE

Johnny and the outlaws are face a wall of angry Apache.

JOHNNY
We just came to pay our respects.
We meant no offense.

BLACK WIND
Your very boots on our land offends. You brought death upon us when your people opened the Anuan Hontora!

JOHNNY
They ain't 'my people' and I'm tired of telling you people that!

MAYA (O.S.)
Stop it! Can you for one moment stop fighting?! I have lost my son!

All eyes turn to Maya, now standing on the black rock.

MAYA (cont'd)
Have you not seen what I've seen?
We have a new enemy. We cannot treat each other as we have. Only together do we stand a chance.

Tanner, walking not far behind Johnny, steps into the circle.

TANNER
Lady, I'm not sure what you saw, but those things went through us like we weren't even there.
Together, apart, against them--I doubt it matters.

MAYA
But I know something you do not.
Sky Watcher has seen our victory.
(MORE)

MAYA (cont'd)

He has seen a champion among us, who will defeat even the Gods of Death.

She repeats it in Apache. She's got their attention now.
Everyone has the same question on their minds.

Maya turns and stares at Johnny. Reactions range from puzzlement (the gang) to hostile disbelief (the Apache). All eyes are on Johnny, waiting for him to say something.

JOHNNY

I'm gonna need a moment alone.

EXT. AREA 51 - RAVINE

Johnny sits on a rock, struggling to figure out what to do.
The rest of the gang walks up.

EZEKIEL

Boss, no offense, but this ain't what we signed on for.

MATTIAS

Yeah, them E.T.s is just too tough.

JOHNNY

E.T.s?

EZEKIEL

Enormous Thingys. That's what
Mattias and I call 'em.

Johnny just shakes his head.

JOHNNY

Guys? A key part of needing a moment alone is that nobody else is around.

EZEKIEL

Oh. No problem. We won't let nobody else around.

TANNER

What exactly did that Sky Watcher say to you up there?

JOHNNY

He said I have to bury my past to save the future.

TANNER

What does that mean?

JOHNNY

Hell if I know. I'm still trying to figure out if there are more grasshoppers or ants.

EZEKIEL

Ants.

JOHNNY

What?

EZEKIEL

Ants. Hundreds of ants 'fer every grasshopper. That dry summer a few years back? Mattias 'n I lived on 'em. Taste kinda like chicken.

Johnny gets up and heads back towards the Apache. He rubs his temple, his headache's back.

INT. MAYA'S KIOWA

Stands alone in the remains of her kiowa, packing a rucksack.

JOHNNY

I need to talk with--

Johnny realizes what she's doing.

JOHNNY (cont'd)

You're leaving? Why?

MAYA

You must stop the Gods of Death. I must follow my own course.

JOHNNY

What? I don't get this--just ten minutes ago you were talking about 'standing together'.

MAYA

Where I must go, I can ask none to follow. I go to find my son. He was caught up in the legs of the silver beast.

Johnny follows her gaze to the clouds above. He takes a deep breath.

JOHNNY

Maya, you have to know--the odds of him still being alive--

MAYA

He is alive. Every day until today
I would pray to White Wolf, to guide me to his murderer. But today
I asked him to guide me to our son.
And he answered me. Ahote is alive.

JOHNNY

You don't know that. Just like I wouldn't know if Annie were gone.
We love our children but we don't have mystical powers. Now you go out there chasing that thing and it will kill you. And I--I don't want that to happen.

Johnny grabs her hand, stopping her from packing.

JOHNNY (cont'd)

Come with me. We can head down Mexico way. I've got people I know down there--we can get up into the mountains, away from everything and everybody. I can keep you safe,
Maya. All of you. Just don't go.

MAYA

I do not wish to part with you as well, but I hold a faith you lack.
My child is out there, waiting for me.

Maya picks up her last belonging--a necklace of colorful stones. Johnny grabs it from her hand.

JOHNNY

Enough with the prayer beads! Your prayers won't be answered, your gods are not on your side, and I'm trying to help you! I'm trying to say I know there are more ants than grasshoppers!

Maya smiles a bittersweet smile. Softly she takes his hand in hers, and takes back the necklace.

MAYA

You do not understand. I do not pray to the gods, I pray to my husband, who watches over me. And these are not prayer beads. It is a warrior's necklace. His. Through it, his spirit guides me.

But Johnny doesn't even hear her. All he can do is stare at the necklace in her hand.

HE'S SEEN IT BEFORE!!!

FLASH

FLASHBACK COLUMA - THE BATTLE FIVE YEARS AGO

THE SAME FLASHBACK WE SAW BEFORE.

JOHNNY'S POV: THE HUGE APACHE WARRIOR WITH A MULTI-COLORED STONE NECKLACE LEAPS RIGHT TOWARD US WITH A HUGE KNIFE.

OUR VIEW DROPS TO THE NECKLACE. IT IS ABSOLUTELY THE ONE MAYA NOW HOLDS.

JOHNNY RAISES HIS GUN, HOPING THE THREAT WILL STOP THE GIANT APACHE. IT DOES NOT. THE FEARLESS APACHE KEEPS COMING.

JOHNNY WAITS UNTIL THE LAST MOMENT, THEN--BLAM!!! BLOOD SPLATTERS UP AT US AS THE APACHE CLINGS TO US, A LOOK OF SADNESS AND PAIN ON HIS FACE. HE DIES JUST INCHES FROM OUR EYES.

EXT. RAVINE - LATER

SOUND OVER: THE GUNSHOT STILL ECHOES.

Johnny holds his head in his hands. Tanner's shocked as well.

TANNER

Man, when Karma gets ahold of you she sure don't let go.

(Johnny nods)

And she doesn't know?

JOHNNY

I get the distinct impression that if she knew, I'd be a dead man.

TANNER

That makes our choice even easier.
First burrito is on me.

JOHNNY

Yeah, but there's just one problem with that. I can't go.

TANNER

Johnny--

JOHNNY

I killed her husband. I killed that little boy's father. And now the boy's been taken from her too? How could you live with that?

TANNER

What are you saying you want to do?

JOHNNY

I'm going after them. I'm gonna bring the boy back.

TANNER

Johnny, I've seen you do crazy things before, but you're talking Finkle Brother kind of crazy now.

JOHNNY

Tanner, you believe more in this destiny stuff than I do. Can't you see I have to get this boy back?

Tanner's brow furrows--he'd love to say no...but he can't.

TANNER

I'll be damned if you get all the heroic glory while I'm down in Mexico gettin' the squirts. Okay, Johnny--so how are we gonna do this?

Johnny smiles, knowing all along his best friend was behind him. He looks down at the valley below, the ALIEN LIGHTS PLAYING THROUGH THE CLOUDS, SEARCHING THE LAND BELOW.

JOHNNY

I'm working on it.

EXT. MAYA'S KIOWA - DUSK

Johnny catches Maya just as she's about to leave.

JOHNNY

Come with me, I need your help.

EXT. THE REMAINS OF SKY WATCHER'S CAVE - NIGHT

From the rubble-strewn ruins, Johnny stares off at the night sky, his eyes following the blue search light of the alien ship in the distance.

At his feet lies the remains of one of the cave paintings: A MAP OF THE REGION.

JOHNNY

All right. It's passing behind that mesa out there. Which one is that?

MAYA

Tanko. The bald one.

Johnny finds it on the map and marks it with a stick of charcoal.

MAYA (cont'd)

Why did you change your mind?

JOHNNY

Ssh. I'm concentrating. Which is this mesa?

MAYA

Namonta Tenua. Your people call it
Little Flat Top.

Johnny takes his pencil and begins connecting the dots.

MAYA (cont'd)

Because if you think to stop me from finding my son--

THE PATH OF THE ALIEN SHIP BECOMES CLEAR. IT IS FOLLOWING AN INTRICATE DIAMOND PATTERN.

JOHNNY

That ship is not moving randomly.
It's following a search pattern, a lot like a mining grid.

MAYA

You know of mining?

JOHNNY

(cautiously)

I know a little about a lot.

MAYA

What does this mean? This pattern?

JOHNNY

It means not only will we know where they are. We're gonna know where they will be.

MAYA

I don't understand.

JOHNNY

It means that at noon tomorrow, that ship's gonna pass right by Little Flat Top, and we're gonna be there to hitch a ride.

Maya realizes what he's saying.

MAYA

No. Finding my son is my journey.
Your purpose lies elsewhere.

JOHNNY

Right, defeating the gods of death.
The moment you figure out how I'm supposed to do that you let me know. In the mean time, let's go get your son.

EXT. SMOKING CRATER - NIGHT

Torres uses a lantern to examine the strange black crater and the gravesites.

Behind him, the General waits impatiently.

TORRES

It's a trick. They're hiding.
Thinking they can lead us into some kind of ambush.

TORRES (cont'd)

I think we're looking at an ambush, sir. Whatever happened here--its like the Apache never got off a shot.

GENERAL TIBBET

Exactly why it's a trick. In seven years we've never successfully ambushed the Apache, Captain. I would have thought you'd remember that.

Torres bites his tongue and keeps silent, but the crater bothers him.

EXT. REMAINS OF THE APACHE VILLAGE - DAWN

Johnny stands on a rock and addresses the outlaws and Apache gathered. Maya stands nearby as well. He strokes his SILVER BULLET for a moment before he speaks.

JOHNNY

Okay, so this is where I'd usually tell you some inspiring story of how I got it all worked out, and that if we work together we're gonna beat these bastards. There's just one problem with that. It's a lie.

Maya stares at Johnny, surprised. Shocked even.

JOHNNY (cont'd)

I thought you said you were going to translate for me?

Maya looks at her people, waiting for inspiration.

MAYA

He says he has a plan to defeat the gods of death. He says that with the might of our Apache warriors we cannot lose.

A rumble moves through the Apache. They like what they hear. Johnny is pleasantly surprised.

JOHNNY

(to Maya)

This is going better than I thought.

(to everyone)

Truth is, your Sky Watcher said I was gonna defeat your Gods of Death--but he never mentioned how that's supposed to happen. Actually, you want the real truth, I think your Sky Watcher may have been sniffing the wrong incense if you get my point.

TANNER

Johnny? A little truth goes a long way.

Maya winks to him, then turns to the Apache.

MAYA

He says Sky Watcher had a vision of glorious victory for our people. We will trample upon the bones of our enemy, those who have brought such destruction upon our home. And in this, Sky Watcher foresaw this man leading us.

The WAR CRIES start in earnest. The Apache love what they're hearing. The entire gang is surprised by the reaction.

JOHNNY

I gotta tell you. The honesty thing is kinda new for me. If I had any idea it would go over this well I'd have done it a long time ago.

(beat)

Anyway, at noon, the silver ship will pass by Hanging Rock. That is where we strike.

(to everyone)

Now who's with me?!

Maya doesn't need to translate this one. She steps up to Johnny and joins her hand with his. Black Wind is the first Apache to step forward. He puts his hand on top of theirs.

OVERHEAD

ONE BY ONE, WHITE AND BROWN, HANDS ARE ADDED TO THE PILE UNTIL THERE IS NO ONE LEFT. AN ALLIANCE HAS BEEN FORMED. THERE ARE NO MORE ENEMIES.

EXT. HORSE CORRAL - DAWN

The Apaches and Outlaws prepare their horses and mount up. Except for the few elderly Apache women and children, who pack up to head out on foot.

Annie looks around and sees no horse for her.

ANNIE

Daddy? Where's my horse?

JOHNNY

Baby, you're gonna go with the Apache women. They know a place you'll be safe.

Annie's eyes begin to tear, her voice quaking.

ANNIE

You're--you're sending me away again? What did I do wrong?

JOHNNY

You didn't do anything wrong, honey. I just want you to be safe.

ANNIE

And what about what I want?!

Johnny catches Maya's eye--she nods to him, motioning to Annie. Johnny gets off his horse.

JOHNNY

What do you want, honey?

ANNIE

I want to be with you. That's all I ever wanted.

Johnny holds Annie tight.

JOHNNY

I want to be with you too. But if anything bad happened to you--

Annie pulls herself away, brightening.

ANNIE

You don't have to worry about me.
I'm a better shot than half your gang. Ask Uncle Tanner.

Johnny looks at Tanner, who quickly looks away, whistling.

JOHNNY

What are you talking about?

ANNIE

The truth, daddy. Isn't it time we both got to it?

Johnny meets his daughter's stare. It looks like the beginning of a gunfight.

JOHNNY

Let's do it. You want the first move?

ANNIE

That floozy I kicked out of your house.

Johnny takes a deep breath.

JOHNNY

Okay. Fine. I was having-- relations with her. But I don't love her. I haven't--I haven't been able to give my heart to anyone since your mother died.

ANNIE

What about her?

Annie nods towards Maya in the distance.

JOHNNY

You got your one question. My turn.
What is this about you being good with a gun?

ANNIE

I've been missing classes to practice with my gun. I even won a trophy last month.

JOHNNY

You've been what?!

ANNIE

Daddy, I hate that school. Well, most of that school. I love English and History and Geography and all that, but half my day is studying Womanly Arts. Polite conversation, cooking--Daddy I hate cooking!

JOHNNY

(deadpan)

Really?

ANNIE

I know you want me to be more like mom. But, Daddy, I'm just not. I'm more like you. Always have been.
Now I don't know if you noticed or not, but I been taking care of myself for years. I can take care of myself now. And you sure as heck need all the help you can get. So-- what do you say?

Johnny stares at his daughter with new eyes. She's brave, confident, strong. How can he say no?

JOHNNY
Annie--get your gun.

EXT. DESERT VISTA - DAWN

In the distance, the sun rises over a strange cloud formation. A RUMBLING IS HEARD.

Over the nearest ridge rides Johnny, leading a large posse. Apache and white man (and girl) ride side by side, all mixed together.

JOHNNY
Okay! Switch out!! Now!!

Johnny, Maya and the rest of his gang LEAP FROM THEIR TIRED HORSES TO THE RIDERLESS HORSES IN TOW.

With the better rested horses, they quickly pull away from the Apache who yell WAR CRIES in support.

EXT. HANGING ROCK - NEARLY NOON

A steep mesa with a strange lip on its flat top that extends out over the desert floor far below.

MAYA
Little Flat Top. Never would I believe we could make it so fast.

MATTIAS (O.S.)
Boss!

Johnny turns back and sees what Mattias sees. Those same strange, dark clouds moving right towards them.

JOHNNY
Just in time. Okay, everyone knows what to do--

ANNIE
I don't.

Johnny pulls over the last of the spare horses.

JOHNNY
Annie, you have the most important job of all.

EXT. WATERING HOLE - DAY

Annie kicks a rock in frustration as she watches over the horses drinking from the shallow pond.

ANNIE
 (angry)
 Most important job.

EXT. HANGING ROCK - MESA TOP - DAY

HEE-YAA!!! Johnny, Tanner, Maya and the Twins ride all out on top of the mesa.

AS WE PULL AWAY, WE SEE THAT OVER THE EDGE OF THE MESA, THE STRANGE CLOUDS RACE PAST, NEARLY AT THEIR HEIGHT. AND FROM ABOVE, THE ATTACK SHIP CAN CLEARLY BE SEEN, NESTLED AT THE CENTER OF THE CLOUD.

They pull their horses close to the ledge nearest the Attack ship.

JOHNNY
 Get ready! We're only gonna get one shot at this!

MAYA
 I do not understand! How are we to get on that ship?!

JOHNNY
 Haven't you ever robbed a train before!?!

AND THEN JOHNNY AND THE TWINS GET IN A FAMILIAR-LOOKING FORMATION. LIKE THE FORMATION JOHNNY USED TO ROB THE TRAIN!

The Finkle Twins throw a horse blanket between them and Johnny rides up and jumps on it.

MATTIAS
 Boss, you sure you can do this?
 Usually Tanner's the one--

JOHNNY
 I got moves you've never seen, now
 DO IT!

The Finkle Twins TOSS HIM AND THE BLANKET HIGH IN THE AIR.

JOHNNY TUMBLES, SOMERSAULTING THROUGH THE AIR, HUNDREDS OF FEET UP. AND SLAM! HE LANDS ON THE TOP OF THE ATTACK SHIP!

ON TOP OF THE ATTACK SHIP

Using his feet to brace him, Johnny tosses a rope back to the riders. Maya grabs the rope and SWINGS ACROSS THE CHASM, landing safely on a ledge on the side of the Attack ship.

She tosses the rope back to the Finkle Twins, but--

TANNER
We're out of room!

TOP OF THE MESA

The Finkle Twins look ahead and see that they've run out of mesa. They're galloping right off a cliff.

Together with Tanner, they fight the horses to a stop just in time, the hooves of their horses crumbling away the very edge of the side of the mesa.

TANNER

Pulls his horse back, watching as the ship--with Johnny and Maya upon it--heading off into the distance.

TANNER (cont'd)
Go get 'em, Johnny.

DISSOLVE TO:

EXT. HANGING ROCK - DAY

Tanner and the Finkle Brothers reach the bottom of the mesa, where the Apache wait for them.

EZEKIEL
Cheer up, fellas! We got them on board that flying saucer!

But the Apache aren't smiling. CLICK.

Tanner looks around to see the ENTIRE CAVALRY DIVISION SURROUNDING THEM.

TANNER
For once, I'd like to see one of these plans work.

EXT. DESERT VALLEY

Tanner and the Apache are on their knees, hands behind their heads. The soldiers begin tying the hands of the Apache, while General Tibbet crouches beside Tanner.

GENERAL TIBBET
Where are they?

TANNER
Where are who?

The General hauls off and PUNCHES Tanner in the face. Two soldiers lift Tanner back onto his knees, sporting a fat lip.

GENERAL TIBBET

Where are the rest of your Apache friends?

TORRES

And where is Johnny Dixon?

Tanner looks up at the sky a moment.

TANNER

You wouldn't believe me if I told you.

The General punches Tanner again. Again he goes down.

TANNER (cont'd)

Okay--he's on this big--thing.
About a hundred stagecoaches long.
Circular. Smooth silver. Oh, and it flies through the sky and rains fire down on anything that moves beneath it.

The General looks disgusted. He thinks Tanner's messing with him. But Torres? His eyes light up at Tanner's words.

TORRES

Sir, those destroyed villages--

Tibbet silences him with a gesture.

GENERAL TIBBET

Captain, finish securing the prisoners and mount up for the mining camp at Columa.

TORRES

Columa, sir? Shouldn't we send the prisoners back to the fort?

GENERAL TIBBET

Do you realize what we have here?
We have bait for the big fish. And all we've got to do is dangle it and our enemies will come to us.

THE RIDGE ABOVE

Annie drops the reins of the fresh horses, shocked by what she sees.

She pushes the horses back and takes cover, careful not to be seen. Her face is panicked as she realizes whatever she does-- she'll be doing it all alone.

CUT TO:

EXT. ALIEN SHIP - TOPSIDE

Johnny pulls a rope from his belt and quickly ties a lasso. He swings it around his head, judging the wind and throws it up above them, around one of the silver spires atop the ship.

He holds the other end in his hand.

JOHNNY

Hold on to me.

MAYA

What are we going to do?

JOHNNY

Trust me. You don't want to know.

She grabs onto Johnny and THEY RUN RIGHT FOR THE EDGE OF THE SHIP. THEY PICK UP SPEED AS THE SLOPE CURVES DOWNWARDS AND AT THE VERY EDGE, THEY LEAP INTO THIN AIR!

THE ROPE COILS OUT UNTIL IT HAS NO MORE SLACK TO GIVE, THEN PULLS TIGHT. AS THE WEIGHT INCREASES, MAYA SLIPS, GRABBING ONTO JOHNNY. JOHNNY GRIMACES AS HE TRIES TO HANG ON.

THE ROPE SWINGS THEM DOWNWARDS, CONVERTING THEIR MOMENTUM INTO A LONG, FAST ARC. THEY SWING DOWN UNDER THE SHIP. JOHNNY'S ARMS STRAIN AS THEIR ARC CARRIES THEM BACK UPWARDS. THEY'RE HEADING RIGHT FOR THE BLUE BEAM OF LIGHT.

AT THE LAST SECOND, JOHNNY LETS GO OF THE ROPE AND THEIR TRAJECTORY SENDS THEM FLYING UP THROUGH THE OPENING IN THE BOTTOM OF THE SHIP!

INT. ALIEN SHIP - THE LENS ROOM

They land with a THUD just inches from the blue beam of light blasting through an oval LENS mounted in the ceiling of this crawlspace.

Above them, something moves. A shadow falls over the lens as an ALIEN stands directly above them, searching for the source of the noise. Silently, Johnny and Maya roll deeper into the shadows.

The alien stares down at the lens, sees nothing, and continues on. Johnny and Maya let out a deep breath.

They search for some way out of this crawlspace, feeling around in the darkness.

Maya's arm touches something soft. GOOEY. IT PULLS HER IN.

MAYA
(whispers)
Johnny!

Johnny turns only to see Maya sucked through the black wall. He takes a deep breath and dives after her.

INT. ALIEN SHIP - CORRIDOR

Not exactly a corridor. It looks more like a windpipe, or a gullet. THE FLOOR AND WALLS RIPPLE, PULLING JOHNNY ALONG as he hurtles through this twisty, undulating tunnel.

INT. ALIEN SHIP - DARKENED ROOM

Johnny and Maya are spit into a dark room out some kind of membrane that closes behind them. The only source of light: the outline of several FORMS standing atop pedestals.

MAYA
What was that?

JOHNNY
I don't know, but I don't ever want to go back that way again.

As they step towards the pedestals, THE LIGHTS COME UP in the room--

HALL OF CONQUEST

Standing atop each pedestal are TWENTY DIFFERENT SPACE CREATURES, LINED UP, ALL STARING RIGHT AT THEM! Johnny goes for his gun and is about to shoot, when he realizes that these things are dead.

JOHNNY (cont'd)
What the hell?

STUFFED IN FACT. THE BATTLE-SCARRED CREATURES ARE IN VARYING STATES OF DECOMPOSITION, ONLY SLIGHTLY PRESERVED IN SOME KIND OF FORMALDEHYDE-LIKE SUBSTANCE.

MAYA
What is this place?

JOHNNY

Looks like--maybe it's some kind of Boot Hill. Your gods of death are keeping score.

Johnny gapes at each in turn, until he reaches the end of the row, where an EMPTY PEDESTAL STANDS.

JOHNNY (cont'd)

They even saved a place for us.

EXT. COLUMA GORGE - DAY

The cavalry drag their bound captives to Columa: a deep, black gorge, hundreds of feet deep. To us it is familiar. IT IS THE GORGE CREATED BY THE ALIEN SHIP CRASH IN THE BEGINNING OF THE FILM.

WE PULL BACK, revealing Annie, secretly following them from a distance.

INT. ALIEN SHIP - HALL OF CONQUEST

Johnny and Maya search the black walls.

JOHNNY

There has to be a way out of here somehow.

Johnny pushes a section of wall which suddenly OPENS, putting Johnny FACE TO FACE WITH AN ALIEN.

JOHNNY (cont'd)

Get down!

Johnny draws his pistol. The Alien lunges for them as he FIRES.

THE ALIEN PHASES AS THE BULLET PASSES THROUGH HIM. AND BY PHASING, ITS TALONS PASS RIGHT THROUGH JOHNNY AND MAYA.

Johnny grabs Maya and they start running, back the way they came, past the alien trophies. They reach the wall and start pounding on it--to no avail.

The alien menacingly bears down upon them, his talons glistening in the light.

JOHNNY (cont'd)

Hey, hey, wait. We come in peace.

No sale. Johnny draws again and fires, missing the alien--

BUT THEN SOMETHING STRANGE HAPPENS. THE BULLET RICOCHETS OFF THE SCALY HIDE OF THE STUFFED "MEN IN BLACK" BUG--

AND STRIKES THE ALIEN IN THE BACK. IT SHRIEKS IN AGONY, FLAILING AROUND THE ROOM, BLOOD HEMORRHAGING INSIDE ITS BODY.

JOHNNY (cont'd)

What the--?

The Alien isn't done. It lashes out at Johnny again. Johnny FIRES AT THE SAME SPOT. THE BULLETS RICOCHET AGAIN AND AGAIN, LODGING IN THE ALIEN'S BODY.

THIS TIME IT FALLS TO THE FLOOR, WRITHING IN PAIN.

MAYA

What is happening?

JOHNNY

These bastards do have a weakness after all. Ricochets.

The Alien, with its last breath, presses a spot on the wall. A LOUD ALARM SOUNDS, LIGHTS FLASH.

JOHNNY (cont'd)

That can't be good.

A moment later, WHOOSH! TWO MORE ALIENS come through another door in the room.

THEY CHARGE RIGHT FOR JOHNNY AND MAYA. JOHNNY AIMS CAREFULLY AND--CLICK! NO MORE BULLETS! MAYA DRAWS HER KNIFE, EVEN THOUGH SHE KNOWS IT'S HELPLESS.

BUT AT THE LAST SECOND, THE ALIENS PHASE AS SOMETHING PASSES THROUGH THEM FROM BEHIND.

TOMAHAWKS, TWO OF THEM. RACING RIGHT FOR JOHNNY AND MAYA--

UNTIL AT THE LAST SECOND THEY STOP, AND SUDDENLY CHANGE DIRECTION, YANKED BACK BY THE ROPES TIED TO THEIR HANDLES.

AND ON THE RETURN TRIP, THE TOMAHAWKS BURY THEMSELVES IN THE BODIES OF THE ALIENS, WHO GO DOWN FOR THE COUNT.

And standing behind the Aliens: SILVER BLADE.

MAYA

Silver Blade?! Thank the gods!

She runs to Silver Blade and hugs him.

JOHNNY
(much less enthusiastic)
Yeah. Thank the gods.

SILVER BLADE
I prefer killing them to thanking them.

JOHNNY
How the hell did you survive that fall?

SILVER BLADE
They have not yet invented a sure way to kill a warrior of the Apache Nation.

MAYA
Ahote, where is he?

SILVER BLADE
Ahote? He is here?

MAYA
He was caught in the legs of this beast.

SILVER BLADE
I know where such things are. This way. We must hurry.

JOHNNY
Wait a minute. I want to do one thing first.

MOMENTS LATER:

THE ALPHA ALIEN

Enters the trophy hall, surrounded by several armed aliens, ready to open fire. But there's no indication of humans, except for--

THE FINAL PEDESTAL

Johnny has placed the dead form on one of the aliens on the empty pedestal in the Hall--the pedestal meant for us.

EXT. COLUMA - LIP OF THE GORGE

Annie stare down into the depths of the gorge. There at the very bottom sits a small, one-street mining town.

In one corner of that town, an outdoor jail has been hastily constructed with barbed wire. Tanner and the Apache are chained to stakes in the ground.

WE PAN UP TO THE FIRST OF THE STRANGE CLOUDS ARRIVING OVERHEAD.

EXT. COLUMA - JAIL

Tanner and the others in the jail see the same clouds approaching. Tanner yells at Torres who's staring up as well.

TANNER

Hey--you! Guy-whose-train-we-stole?! You know something's going on, don't you? You'd better get your general over here quick.

TORRES

You know something, you say it to me.

TANNER

When those clouds up there reach us--all of you, all of this--is a goner.

Torres looks skyward again. The clouds move fast.

INT. ALIEN SHIP - SCANNING CHAMBER

Dominating the room is a huge glowing orb hanging from the ceiling. And shooting from the bottom of the orb, that familiar blue beam, blasting into the lens below.

Holograms float around the orb showing X-RAY pictures of the terrain beneath them.

In the corners of the room, sections of the LEGS OF THE SHIP protrude. Maya, Johnny, and Silver Blade enter.

SILVER BLADE

The legs of this beast extend from here.

MAYA

What is this place?

SILVER BLADE

The light from the sky comes from here. Beyond that, only the gods know.

But Johnny's staring at the holograms. They show a pattern, looking very much like mineshafts in the earth. Johnny's starting to figure it out when--

MAYA
We must find Ahote.

EXT. ALIEN SHIP

The blue beam blasts through the clouds and scans a mountain.

WE PAN AHEAD. On the other side of the mountain: the Columa gorge.

EXT. COLUMA - JAIL

Tanner and the others have their eyes peeled on the clouds.

GENERAL TIBBET (O.S.)
I hear you have a warning for me, traitor.

Tanner turns around to see the General and Torres.

TANNER
You got a whole world of hurt coming your way.

GENERAL TIBBET
I don't think so.

TORRES
Sir, you should listen to them--

GENERAL TIBBET
Fine. You want to warn me? Let me warn you. God is on the side with the best artillery.

TANNER
Yeah? Well what if you don't have the best artillery anymore?

INT. ALIEN SHIP - SCANNING CHAMBER

Maya, Johnny and Silver Blade search the dark walls of the room for openings, or any sign of Ahote.

The holograms above change as the X-RAY passes over something else in the earth. SOMETHING HUGE, BURIED DEEP BELOW!

A SCREECHING ALIEN ALARM SOUNDS. Johnny, Maya, and Silver Blade fall to the ground as the ship slows rapidly.

EVERY PORTAL IN THIS CHAMBER OPENS. ALIENS FLOOD IN, LED BY THE ALPHA ALIEN.

RACKS DROP FROM THE CEILING LOADED WITH SLIDER DISCS.

THE ALIENS MOUNT THE SLIDER DISCS AND IN GROUPS OF THREE THEY DESCEND BELOW, RACING THROUGH THE CLOUDS.

And as the last Alien takes a slider disc, we notice something hiding in the back of the rack.

NOT SOMETHING, SOMEONE. AHOTE!!

Maya spots him instantly and rises from their hiding place. Johnny and Silver Blade both pull her down.

EXT. COLUMA - MAIN STREET

As the cavalry stare up into the clouds, ALIENS DESCEND ON SLIDER DISCS.

The General steps out of the barracks just in time to see them descend.

GENERAL TIBBET

What in God's name is that?

TORRES

That--would be better artillery.

TORRES RUNS JUST AS SHOCKWAVES FILL THE AIR. THE DEFENSELESS CAVALRY BELOW ARE RIPPED APART BY THE WAVES.

GENERAL TIBBET

George--Armstrong--Custer!

Fitting last words. A MASSIVE SHOCKWAVE ROCKETS IN AND THE GENERAL DISSOLVES AWAY BEFORE OUR EYES!

THE FEW SURVIVORS FIRE BACK AT THE DESCENDING HORDE, BUT TO NO EFFECT. TORRES DODGES THE BLASTS, TRYING TO MAKE IT TO THE PRISONERS, BUT THERE'S TOO MUCH OPEN GROUND. HE TAKES COVER IN THE SALOON.

Tanner and the Apache can only watch as the shockwaves get closer and closer. Their chains won't budge.

BLAM. TANNER'S CHAINS BREAK BEHIND HIM. BLAM, BLAM, BLAM. ONE BY ONE THE APACHES' CHAINS BREAK AS WELL.

Tanner looks everywhere trying to see who's shooting. A WHISTLE sends his eyes skyward.

ANNIE LIES PRONE TWO HUNDRED FEET ABOVE, ON THE EDGE OF THE GORGE, RIFLE IN HAND.

Tanner shoots her a quick grin and a wink and he and the Apache run for cover. The very next moment, the stakes they were chained to dissolve under a hail of shockwaves.

TANNER

Thank god she shoots better than she cooks.

Torres waves them over to the Saloon.

INT. ALIEN SHIP - SCANNING ROOM

The last alien steps on its slider disc, about to dive through the hole below. But it turns at the last moment, staring back at the empty rack.

STARING DIRECTLY AT AHOTE! IT OPENS ITS JAWS AS IF TO YELL!

MAYA THROWS HER KNIFE IN A SPLIT-SECOND. THE KNIFE REBOUNDS OFF THE DARK WALL AND PLANTS ITSELF IN THE FOREHEAD OF THE ALIEN. IT DROPS WITHOUT MAKING A SOUND, FALLING WITH ITS SLIDER DISC OUT THE HOLE IN THE FLOOR.

MAYA MOTIONS TO HER SON. HE RUNS TO HER! MOTHER AND SON HUG UNTIL THEY NEARLY BECOME ONE.

MAYA

(whispering)

I will never leave you again,
Ahote.

INT. ALIEN SHIP - THE LENS ROOM

They exit the strange portal and find themselves back in this tiny crawlspace.

Johnny stares down through the opening in the floor. There are no clouds now. Instead, Johnny has a clear view of the Columa Gorge below.

JOHNNY

Columa.

And just as he says it, THE ALIEN SHIP DROPS DOWN INTO THE GORGE, HEADING RIGHT FOR A HORSE CORRAL ON THE EDGE OF TOWN.

JOHNNY (cont'd)

Finally, a little karma working for me. Looks like we'll get close enough to the ground to jump out.

But then, SOMETHING DROPS FROM THE ALIEN SHIP. SIX SILVER BALLS, THEY LOOK VERY MUCH LIKE THE BURROWERS THE ALPHA ALIEN HAD ONLY THESE ARE EACH TEN TIMES THE SIZE.

And sure enough, they hit the rocky ground near the corral and immediately burrow beneath, forming a huge circle. AND A MOMENT LATER, THE GROUND DISINTEGRATES CREATING A HUGE CRATER IN THE EARTH.

THE CORRAL, HORSES AND ALL, TUMBLE DOWN THE STEEP SLOPE OF THE CRATER, FALLING AN IMPOSSIBLE DISTANCE BENEATH THE EARTH.

JOHNNY (cont'd)
Nope. Still screwed.

EXT. COLUMA

The Alien Ship descends rapidly, DIVING DOWN INTO THE CRATER.

INT. ALIEN SHIP - THE LENS ROOM

The room goes dark as the ship descends into the dark, impossibly deep tunnel. Only the blue beam provides any light.

AND FAR, FAR BELOW, THE BLUE BEAM REFLECTS OFF SOMETHING. SOMETHING SILVER. SOMETHING SHINY. SOMETHING ENORMOUS.

As the ship nears the smooth silver surface, THE BLUE BEAM FOCUSES ON A PINPOINT AT THE VERY CENTER OF THE SMOOTH SILVER FORM. IT SHOOTS A LIGHT BACK UP TOWARDS THE SHIP AND A SECOND LATER, IT OPENS, A CRACK THAT WIDENS UNTIL THE ENTIRE ALIEN SHIP CAN FLY THROUGH.

INT. ALIEN MOTHERSHIP

This place is pitch black, but as the Alien ship descends into the cavernous space, its blue beam of light reflects off the surface far below and bounces around enough to give us an idea of what we are inside.

THIS IS SOME KIND OF MOTHERSHIP, THE SCALE OF WHICH IS ALMOST UNFATHOMABLE. A HUNDRED, PERHAPS EVEN A THOUSAND OF THE ALIEN SHIPS JOHNNY IS ON COULD EASILY FIT INSIDE THIS THING.

AND THE ONE OTHER THING THAT IS EASILY NOTICED: EVERY STRUCTURE, EVERY SURFACE IN HERE IS FROZEN, COATED WITH A THICK LAYER OF ICE.

The Alien Ship slows as it finally reaches the bottom of the massive space. Its legs extend once again, only this time they each find a pylon, made just for docking with such a ship.

INT. MOTHERSHIP - THE COLUMNS

Johnny, Maya, Silver Blade, and Ahote run down what can only be described as a valley in this massive ship. Row after endless row of tall, frozen columns rise up thousands of feet in the air, punctuated by a spiderweb of what appear to be catwalks that connect the columns at various heights.

It looks like some kind of alien forest rising a thousand feet above them.

SILVER BLADE

Never have I seen a cave as this.

JOHNNY

It's not a cave. It's another flying saucer.

AND THEN STRANGE CRACKING AND SHATTERING NOISES ECHO THROUGH THE SHIP AS THE ICE FOREST AROUND THEM BEGINS TO GLOW.

Silver Blade points back behind them. They follow his finger, and spot the ALPHA ALIEN. IT STANDS ON SOME KIND OF RAISED DAIS, AND EVERYWHERE ITS CLAW POINTS, THE ICE FOREST BEGINS TO GLOW LIKE CHRISTMAS TREES. SECTIONS OF THE CATWALKS BEGIN MOVING, RISING AND FALLING THROUGH MIDAIR LIKE ELEVATORS. This massive ship begins to awake.

AHOTE SCREAMS! Maya quickly clamps her hand over her son's mouth as the scream echoes.

The Alpha Alien pauses a moment, staring out at the thousands of columns around it. Seeing nothing, it resumes its work waking the ship.

But Ahote's terror doesn't subside. Only Maya's hand over his mouth keeps him quiet. They all turn and look in the direction Ahote is facing.

THE EERIE GLOW, WHICH NOW ILLUMINATES THE NEAREST COLUMN, REVEALS FROZEN ALIEN WARRIORS INSIDE. EACH AND EVERY ONE OF THE THOUSANDS OF COLUMNS CONTAINS HUNDREDS OF ALIENS STACKED ONE ON TOP OF ANOTHER, ENCIRCLING THE ENTIRE SHIP. EACH ONE, FROZEN AT ATTENTION.

MAYA

This is what Sky Watcher was protecting. It is their burial ship.

Silver Blade's face stiffens with the horrible realization.

SILVER BLADE

No. This was an invasion force.

Johnny notices a steady stream of water leaking out of the defrosting racks.

JOHNNY

It still is.

SUDDENLY, THE EYES OF ALL THE ALIENS UP THE COLUMN POP OPEN AT THE SAME MOMENT!

Our gang jumps back from the column, terrified. In the distance they hear more sounds of ICE CRACKING.

They turn and look out over the ship. Level after level, column after column. THE ICE IS THAWING! THE ALIENS ARE AWAKENING!!!

THE ALIEN IN THE COLUMN NEAREST THEM BREAKS THROUGH THE ICE AND DROPS TO THE FLOOR. IT CRAWLS TOWARDS THEM. JOHNNY AND THE OTHERS RUN, BUT IN EACH DIRECTION THEY SEE MORE ALIENS AWAKENING.

They back up into the dark recesses of the ship as they see an army come to life.

JOHNNY

Eyes wide in fear, slowly backs away from the aliens. Suddenly, he feels a cloud of STEAMING BREATH ON THE BACK OF HIS NECK. SOMETHING IS BEHIND HIM--SOMETHING BIG.

JOHNNY SPINS AND TAKES AIM--

AT A HORSE. THREE HORSES TO BE PRECISE. AND BEHIND THEM, THE WRECKAGE OF THE HORSE CORRAL.

For the first time in a long while, Johnny smiles.

CUT TO:

THE ALPHA ALIEN

Stands on its dais as AN ARMY OF ALIENS SHAMBLE INTO VIEW.

SUDDENLY HE SPOTS SILVER BLADE AND MAYA RIDING PAST AT FULL GALLOP. THE ALPHA ALIENS SCREECHES, RAISING HIS WEAPON TO FIRE.

JOHNNY (O.S.)

Yee-haa!!!

JOHNNY, WITH AHOTE SEATED BEHIND HIM ON THE HORSE, LEAPS RIGHT THROUGH THE ALPHA ALIEN'S HEAD, FORCING IT TO PHASE.

THE ALPHA FIRES A SHOCKWAVE, BUT MISSES JUST AS JOHNNY'S HORSE LEAPS ONTO A RISING PLATFORM. MAYA AND SILVER BLADE DO THE SAME.

BUT UP ABOVE, MORE ALIENS GATHER, EXTENDING THEIR TALONS, WAITING FOR THE PLATFORM TO REACH THEM.

BUT JUST AS THE PLATFORM REACHES THE ALIENS, JOHNNY WHISTLES AND KICKS HIS HORSE HARD. IT LEAPS DOWN, LANDING ON ONE OF THE PLATFORMS MOVING DOWNWARDS, IN THE OPPOSITE DIRECTION. SILVER BLADE AND MAYA FOLLOW HIS LEAD.

THE ALIENS SCREECH IN FURY AS OUR GANG DROPS AWAY FROM THEM.

JOHNNY KICKS IT INTO A GALLOP, GUIDING THE HORSE ALONG THE NARROW PLATFORM, A HUNDRED FEET ABOVE THE FLOOR.

JOHNNY (cont'd)
Stay close!!!

THE ALIENS RACE IN PURSUIT, CLOSE ON THEIR HEELS.

JOHNNY AND HIS HORSE LEAP AGAIN, THIS TIME LANDING ON A RISING PLATFORM. AND BEFORE THE HORSE CAN TAKE ANOTHER STEP, JOHNNY HAS IT LEAP AGAIN ACROSS A WIDE CHASM, LANDING ON ANOTHER LOWERING PLATFORM.

LEAPING UP AND DOWN, BUT ALWAYS MOVING FORWARD, JOHNNY AND THE OTHERS SLOWLY WORK THEIR WAY TOWARDS THE TOP OF THE SHIP. IT'S LIKE THEY'RE INSIDE SOME KIND OF REAL-WORLD VIDEO GAME.

EXT. COLUMA - DAY

WE MOVE ACROSS the smoke-shrouded, decimated street, over the broken bodies of cavalymen, and beneath the porch of the saloon, where we discover a hidden window and a PAIR OF EYES LOOKING OUT.

INT. COLUMA - LIQUOR VAULT

Tanner stares out the basement-level window, his gun at the ready. The vault is a series of dug-out storage spaces filled with the good stuff for the bar above.

Behind Tanner, sitting in hushed silence are the surviving members of our team: the Finkles, Annie, Torres, Black Wind and a handful of Apache braves.

BLACK WIND
(whispering)
Are they still out there?

TANNER
Only one way to find out.

EXT. COLUMA - SALOON

Tanner and Black Wind carefully creep out of the saloon, weapons at the ready. The town is eerily silent.

Suddenly, Black Wind grabs Tanner, forcing him to freeze. Tanner follows Black Wind's eyes: straight up.

Directly over their heads is the bottom of a hovering slider disc. One more step and the alien above will spot them.

Just then, a SCREAM is heard in the distance. The slider disc moves off like a bat out of hell, heading in the direction of the screams. Shadows in the distance do the same, converging for the kill.

The two men sneak off in the opposite direction the aliens went, discovering--

A MASSIVE HOLE IN THE GROUND

A giant smoldering crater lies where the mine once stood, surrounded by piles of smoking debris.

And from deep in the subterranean depths come the inhuman SHRIEKS and WAILS of the aliens.

Tanner and Black Wind sneak over to the massive hole.

TANNER
What do you suppose is down there?

BLACK WIND Hell.

Suddenly, some of the debris near the surface SHIFTS. Tanner immediately goes for his gun, terrified. A heavy waft of smoke obscures his vision as a FORM RISES FROM THE HOLE--

TANNER
I don't believe it.

IT'S JOHNNY, RIDING OUT OF HELL ON HORSEBACK!

INT. COLUMA - LIQUOR VAULT

A reunion takes place. The Apaches hugging Silver Blade, Maya and Ahote, the outlaws overjoyed to see Johnny. Even Torres holds out a hand, which Johnny shakes.

JOHNNY

Torres. Consorting with deserters, outlaws and Apaches? This won't help your career.

TORRES

Yeah, well, neither will dying. Good to be back on the same side as you, Johnny.

JOHNNY

Same here, Ruben.

But Johnny only truly smiles once he sees Annie, safe and sound. The two share a long look, each overwhelmed with emotion.

JOHNNY (cont'd)

I heard you shattered Tanner's chains with a rifle shot from fifty yards.

ANNIE

Seventy-five, with a crosswind.

JOHNNY

Really. Well, I've been thinking. A young lady shouldn't know how to shoot roaches off a tin can from a hundred yards.

Annie looks down, expecting a rebuke from her father.

JOHNNY (cont'd)

Nope. Any daughter of mine needs be able to shoot 'em from at least a hundred fifty. With either hand. We'll have to work on that.

Annie runs into her father's arms, hugging him for everything's she's worth. Annie spots Maya coming with Ahote.

ANNIE

Is that him? The Indian boy?

JOHNNY

Yeah. He's had it kinda rough.

Annie walks over to Ahote, who clings to his mother.

ANNIE

Hi. My name is Annie. I'm glad you're okay.

Ahote still looks afraid, clinging even closer to his mother, afraid to let her go for even a second.

ANNIE (cont'd)

Are you hungry?

(Annie mimics eating)

I know I would be. If I don't eat at least every eight hours--wow. I become a totally crazy person, it's kind of embarrassing, actually.

While Ahote doesn't understand a word Annie says, her casual tone eases his fears, and when she holds out her hand he doesn't shy away.

ANNIE (cont'd)

I got some chocolate in my pack.
Come on, it's okay.

Ahote finally reaches out and takes Annie's hand, the doll-like fingers of brown and white clasped into each other.

INT. LIQUOR VAULT - WHISKEY ROOM

A room filled with thick wooden casks. Everyone (except the kids) crowds around Johnny and Silver Blade, except for a pair of Apache who keep watch on the windows above.

MATTIAS

Wait. Now wait just a second. How many did you say was down there?

SILVER BLADE

How many are the stars?

EZEKIEL

Hey, now is no time to get all
Apache on us. How about a number?

JOHNNY

Millions. Enough to wipe every man woman and child off the map.

INT. SALOON - DAY

Johnny crawls over to a window.

JOHNNY'S POV

At first we see nothing in the haze, but then two ALIENS on their silent slider discs move down the main street, hunting.

A SCREAM echoes in from another part of town. The slider disc aliens and a few more that appear on foot race in the direction of the scream. In moments, there is no more sound.

A hand touches Johnny's shoulder. Maya. The entire conversation is done in a whisper.

JOHNNY

You shouldn't be up here. It isn't safe.

MAYA

The only safe place left is by your side, Johnny Dixon.

JOHNNY

God I wish that were true.

MAYA

It is true. I know it now. You saved my son and now you will save us all, just as Sky Watcher saw in his visions.

JOHNNY

Stop. Just--stop.

MAYA

You cannot hide from me anymore. You are no rogue. You have the heart of a hero.

She closes the distance in an instant and KISSES HIM. For a moment he goes with the kiss, his mouth hungry for her, but then sanity returns.

JOHNNY

I wish you hadn't done that.

MAYA

For a long time I've been wishing I had.

JOHNNY

Maya, you don't know me.

MAYA

But I do--

Johnny cuts her off with a finger in front of her face.

JOHNNY

No. If you knew me, the real me, this is the last conversation we'd ever have.

He heads back down towards the liquor vault.

MAYA

I do not care about your past, except that it keeps you from me.
Listen to Sky Watcher. Bury your past, and you will find me waiting for you.

JOHNNY

(to himself)

Bury--bury your past. Sky Watcher said the--no. No! Sky Watcher, you're a goddamn genius.

We see it in his eyes, clear as day. An idea. And just as suddenly, great sorrow. He waves Maya down into the vault with him.

INT. COLUMA - LIQUOR VAULT

Everyone is in rapt attention as Johnny stands before them. They huddle close, and Johnny speaks in hushed but excited tones.

JOHNNY

You see this?

He slaps a section of the bare earth wall. A section where two strata of rock intersect.

JOHNNY (cont'd)

These are two different rock strata, two different plates of rock, rubbing against one another.

Johnny grabs two rocks, pressing them against one another. Bits of them BREAK OFF.

JOHNNY (cont'd)

It's called a fault line. A very active fault line that runs the entire length of Columa.

EXT. COLUMA

WE RISE UP OUT OF THE LIQUOR VAULT, THROUGH THE WALL OF THE SALOON, AND RACE TOWARDS THE MINE. AS WE DO, WE FLY RIGHT PAST STALKING ALIENS, HIDDEN IN THE SMOKE.

JOHNNY (V.O.)

We've got two targets. Target one: the demolitions bunker, behind and beneath the stables nearest the mine.

WE RACE PAST RUBBLE THAT WAS ONCE STABLES AND FIND A SLAB OF TIN COVERING A LOW WOODEN STRUCTURE. AS WE FLY THROUGH THE TIN SLAB, WE DISCOVER A CACHE OF EXPLOSIVES.

JOHNNY (V.O.) (cont'd)

We're gonna get as much dynamite there as we can carry, and enough fuse to make our escape.

WE RISE OUT OF THE DEMOLITIONS BUNKER AND RACE BACK THROUGH TOWN. THE ALIENS SEEM TO BE EVERYWHERE, STATIONED ATOP BUILDINGS, PROWLING THROUGH ALLEYS, AND PATROLLING UP AND DOWN THE MAIN STREET ON THEIR SLIDER DISCS.

JOHNNY (V.O.) (cont'd)

And then we're gonna take it to target two: a dry well, boarded up next to the barracks.

WE RACE RIGHT THROUGH THE BARRACKS UNTIL WE FIND A PILE OF NAILED BOARDS ON THE GROUND. WE MOVE THROUGH THEM TO DISCOVER A DRY WELL, ABOUT TWENTY FEET DEEP.

JOHNNY (V.O.) (cont'd)

We're gonna pack that sucker full of all the dynamite we can carry, and then we're gonna blow this place to Kingdom come.

INT. COLUMA - LIQUOR VAULT

BACK TO SCENE.

TANNER

Blowing up a well? What'll that do?

Johnny scrapes his hand along the rock wall, pulling off some of the crusted dirt.

JOHNNY

We're gonna bury the bastards.

Most everyone is excited by this news. That is, most everyone. MAYA STARES AT JOHNNY, EYES FILLED WITH SUSPICION.

INT. LIQUOR VAULT - BACK ROOM - LATER

Johnny tightens his gun belt and reloads his revolver, preparing for battle.

Maya stands in the doorway, watching him for a long moment.

MAYA

It is a good plan, Johnny Dixon.

JOHNNY

It's a longshot, but even a longshot pays off once in a while.

MAYA

I wonder, how is it you know this town so well?

Johnny meets her gaze. He takes a deep breath, and tells the truth.

JOHNNY

Because I was here. Back when I was a geologist for the army.

MAYA

I knew someone who was here once.

JOHNNY

I know. I just never knew his name.

Surprise crosses Maya's face.

JOHNNY (cont'd)

You're wondering how I could know your husband died here. You're wondering why I never told you any of this before. It's because I'm a coward. Because I wanted to try and sneak by the hard truths, so I could stay close to you. But that's just not the way it works, is it?

A chill passes through Maya.

MAYA

No. It is not.

JOHNNY

Want to know something odd? I was an outlaw in the wild west for five years. Before that I was in the army, assigned to the Indian Territories for ten more. In all that time, I never killed a man, never believed in it--except for my last day in uniform.

(beat)

You once told me you prayed to White Wolf to guide you to his murderer. Well, your prayers are answered. Here I am.

For a long moment she says nothing, just staring at the stranger before her. When she speaks her eyes are cold, her voice colder.

MAYA

You--you killed my White Wolf. You took Ahote's father from him. You--

Words fail her and she staggers out of the room.

INT. COLUMA - SALOON - LATER

Silver Blade is preparing himself when Maya approaches him, tears wiped from her face.

MAYA

Silver Blade, I know that I have behaved shamefully with you. But I see the error of my ways. Silver Blade, do you still wish to marry me?

SILVER BLADE

I have wished it for a long time, Maya. You know that.

MAYA

Then my hand you will have. But you must grant me one gift first.

SILVER BLADE

Anything.

MAYA

When the day is done, you must kill Johnny Dixon.

CUT TO:

EXT. COLUMA - MAIN STREET - DAY

The smoke from several still-smoldering buildings hangs like an eerie fog over what has now become a ghost town. A cold wind blows, creating whirlwinds and eddies in the smoke.

Dark ALIEN FORMS move to and fro in the half light, searching. Hunting.

INT. SALOON - DAY

Silver Blade and several more Apache bring up crates from the liquor locker, laying the crates in a row on the long bar.

EXT. BOARDED-UP WELL - DAY

Annie and Ahote slowly, quietly move the boards off of the dry well.

EXT. BARRACKS - DAY

Mattias plasters himself behind a horse trough as a couple ALIENS ON SLIDER DISCS race by, on patrol.

He raises his arm and marks the hitching post above with a piece of chalk. THE MARK IS AT THE HEIGHT OF THE SLIDER DISCS.

INT. GENERAL STORE - DAY

Tanner carefully, quietly rips up the floorboards just inside the door of the shop while Maya gathers pickaxes.

One of the boards SNAPS as Tanner pries it loose. He and Maya freeze as footsteps approach.

AN ALIEN STANDS JUST OUTSIDE, TRYING TO PEER IN. IT RAISES A HAND AND A THIN BLUE BEAM OF LIGHT PIERCES THE HAZE. THE LIGHT MOVES RIGHT FOR MAYA. SHE CRAWLS OUT OF ITS PATH JUST IN TIME.

The Alien sees nothing and moves on.

EXT. MINE SHED - DAY

Johnny, Ezekiel, and Torres peer around the corner of the shed. They see the demolitions bunker just a hundred feet away--

AND A HALF DOZEN ALIENS BETWEEN THEM AND IT.

Johnny pulls something from his duster. Triangular. Metal.

EZEKIEL

What is that?

JOHNNY

The dinner bell.

Johnny steps around the other side of the mine shed AND WALKS OUT INTO THE CENTER OF THE STREET, USING HIS GUN TO RING THE TRIANGULAR BELL.

JOHNNY (cont'd)

Come and get it! Come on you bastards! Who wants some?!

Over towards the demolitions bunker, the shadows race towards him. Johnny turns tail and runs the other way.

Back behind the shed, Ezekiel and Torres watch as their path to the dynamite is cleared.

They run for the demolitions bunker.

EXT. COLUMA - MAIN STREET

Johnny hauls ass down the main street as a whole horde of Aliens race after him in pursuit.

As the first few near, Johnny turns abruptly running into the General Store.

INT. GENERAL STORE

The second Johnny crosses the threshold, he LEAPS as far and as high as he can--which is a good thing because the floor is missing from the first eight feet, and in its place, dozens of sharp pickaxes have been placed in the pit.

Johnny's jump is long, but not quite long enough. He hits the edge of the remaining floor, HARD. His arms struggle to keep him from falling down on the pickaxes waiting for him.

The first three Aliens aren't so lucky. They race in the door and drop instantly into the pit.

THEIR BODIES PHASE AS THE PICKAXES PASS THROUGH THEM, BUT BEFORE THEY CAN JUMP OUT, THEY RETURN TO SOLID FLESH AND SHRIEK AS THEY'RE IMPALED ON THE DIGGING TOOLS.

Johnny slips some more. He's loosing his grip. Suddenly, a hand grabs his. Tanner.

TANNER

Hang on there chief. Maya, a little help?

He looks back, but Maya has her arms folded. She just stares into Johnny's eyes as he slips further towards his death.

TANNER (cont'd)

Maya?!

He's confused as he realizes she'll be no help. He doubles his efforts, bracing himself as he pulls Johnny out of the pit.

Just then two more ALIENS appear at the door. They look down and see their dead brethren, and they produce SLIDER DISCS.

Johnny, Maya, and Tanner run for their lives.

EXT. GENERAL STORE - OUT BACK

As they run out the back door, three more Aliens on slider discs are waiting outside.

Johnny splits off from Maya and Tanner, leading the slider discs away.

Tanner and Maya run the other way, hiding safely behind another building.

TANNER

What the hell was that?

MAYA

I will not help the man who murdered my husband.

TANNER

Murdered--? Wait a second, what exactly did Johnny tell you?

INT. DEMOLITIONS BUNKER

Ezekiel and Torres sneak silently into this small tin shack. The room contains boxes and boxes of TNT, stacked to the roof. Ezekiel cannot contain his glee.

EZEKIEL

It's just so beautiful.

TORRES

C'mon. Let's steal us some government property.

Silently the men begin gathering the crates of TNT.

EXT. MAIN STREET

Johnny turns the corner and runs right down the middle of Main Street.

A moment later a half-dozen ALIENS ON SLIDER DISCS do the same.

SUDDENLY, MATTIAS SPRINGS UP FROM HIS HIDING PLACE AND PULLS ON A ROPE HIDDEN IN THE SANDY GROUND. THE ROPE GOES TAUT AS MATTIAS WRAPS IT AROUND THE HITCHING POST--RIGHT AT HIS CHALK MARK.

THE SLIDER DISCS RACE BY A SECOND LATER. SLAM!!! THEY HIT THE THICK ROPE AT THE SAME MOMENT, SENDING THE ALIENS CRASHING TO THE GROUND, SHOCKED AND CONFUSED.

Johnny turns and smiles as the Aliens stand back up. They extend their talons.

Johnny WHISTLES. Black Wind and six APACHE ARCHERS erupt out of the sandy ground, firing flaming arrows that PASS RIGHT THROUGH THE SURPRISED ALIENS.

BUT THERE ARE ROPES ATTACHED TO THE ARROWS. WE RACE ALONG THE ROPES TO FIND ANNIE AND AHOTE STANDING NEXT TO A TEAM OF HORSES, THE ROPES TIED TO THEIR SADDLEHORNS.

ANNIE AND AHOTE WHISTLE AND THE HORSES RACE OFF. THE ROPE PULLS TAUT. THE ARROWS HIT ALIEN FLESH ON THE RETURN TRIP, AND SIX DYING ALIENS ARE DRAGGED OUT OF TOWN BY THE HORSES.

The Apaches let out a WAR CRY as their enemies are dragged to their death.

The War Cry is short lived. SHOCKWAVES BLAST ACROSS MAIN STREET AS THE REMAINING ALIENS FIRE FROM THEIR ROOFTOP POSITIONS.

INT. MOTHERSHIP

The Alpha Alien stands on a circular dais at the bottom of the ship. Everywhere around and above him, the ship is crawling. Thawing aliens crawl from their columns, stand, and fall into their ranks.

EXT. COLUMA - IN THE WELL

Ezekiel ties strands of his fuse to the pile of TNT boxes he stands on, humming "When Johnny Comes Marching Home." A man in his element.

He stands back once he's connected the last fuse and admires his work. He kisses his fingers.

EZEKIEL

A bo-na-fi-dee masterpiece.

He tugs on the rope and Torres pulls him up. He strings the fuse behind him as he leaves.

EXT. GENERAL STORE OVERHANG

Tanner pulls Maya up onto a low overhang adjoining the roof of the General Store.

TANNER

Johnny was conned into working the mine. The General told him it was government land. That night? The Apache were killing all the miners, and your husband was heading right towards Annie's tent. There was wrong done on both sides that day-- but you can't blame Johnny for protecting his child.

Maya's face creases with confusion.

MAYA

If that were true, why wouldn't he say it?

TANNER

Because he's spent five years punishing himself for that night, and now he's got someone who will finish the job.

This gets through. Maya has to consider the possibility.

EXT. MAIN STREET

Johnny and Mattias are pinned down as the shockwaves continue to eat away their cover.

JOHNNY

Time to cowboy up!!

Johnny's the first to run. A moment later, Mattias runs after him. They dodge shockwaves as they race into the Saloon.

The Aliens leap down from their firing positions--six in all--and they race after their prey.

INT. SALOON

The Aliens burst through the swinging doors only to see Johnny and the rest running out the back door.

They give chase when suddenly--

SILVER BLADE (O.S.)
Firewater.

The aliens stop. They turn to see Silver Blade holding a shotglass of alcohol, standing atop the bar.

SILVER BLADE (cont'd)
That's what my people call the white man's drug, but I never knew
why.
(the Aliens charge)
Until today.

Silver Blade flicks a match with his thumb and drops it into the shot glass. THE SHOTGLASS IGNITES. HE DROPS IT. THE FLAME RACES OUT, FOLLOWING THE WIDE POOL OF ALCOHOL ALL AROUND THE BAR, THEN DROPS DOWN INTO THE LIQUOR VAULT.

SILVER BLADE SOMERSAULTS TO THE RAFTERS AS THE LIQUOR VAULT EXPLODES, SENDING NAPALM-LIKE FLAMES SHOOTING THROUGH THE ROOM!

HE DIVES OUT THE WINDOW AS THE ROOM TURNS INTO AN INCINERATOR. THE SCREAMS OF THE ALIENS INSIDE ECHO THROUGHOUT THE GORGE.

EXT. OUTSKIRTS OF COLUMA

Ezekiel and Torres run a long fuse right up the gorge. The town is obscured in the distance. Torres pulls out a match.

Ezekiel FIRES his gun in the air three times. Torres lights the fuse.

MONTAGE

Our heroes all hear the shots. They all know what it means.

JOHNNY
Go, go, go!!!

Everyone runs up the gorge and out of town.

EXT. MAIN STREET

Johnny and the Apache are the farthest back as everyone evacuates the town. Johnny smiles as he sees no Aliens trying to stop them.

His smile drops when he sees a narrow BLUE BEAM scan through the haze and catches one of the Apache. He falls as the beam BURNS INTO HIS BACK.

Johnny looks back through the haze and spots the Alpha Alien coming after them. It lets a BURROWER DROP!

JOHNNY

Look out!!!

Too late. The burrower digs down beneath three of the Apache and SUDDENLY THE GROUND DISSOLVES AWAY BENEATH THEM. THEY DROP BELOW TO THEIR DEATH.

Ahote and Annie were nearest to the Apache and are terrified. Ahote falls to the ground.

Annie turns around and goes back for him.

JOHNNY (cont'd)

Annie no! I got him!

MAYA SEES JOHNNY TURN AROUND AND RUN BACK TO AHOTE EVEN AS THE ALPHA ALIEN RELEASES ANOTHER BURROWER. AND ANOTHER! AND ANOTHER!

JOHNNY GRABS AHOTE, JUST A MOMENT BEFORE THE BURROWER REACHES THEM, AND HE RUNS RIGHT TOWARDS THE BURROWERS! AT THE LAST SECOND HE LEAPS INTO THE AIR AS THE GROUND DISSOLVES AWAY BENEATH HIM.

SLAM. HIS BOOTS LAND ON SOLID GROUND, NOT EVEN A QUARTER INCH FROM THE NEWLY FORMED CHASM.

AND A CHASM IS THE RIGHT WORD FOR IT. THE THREE BURROWERS HAVE DUG A HUGE HOLE THAT EXTENDS FROM WALL TO WALL, AND JOHNNY AND AHOTE ARE STUCK ON THE SIDE WITH THE ALPHA ALIEN.

The Alpha Alien slowly stalks its prey. BEHIND IT, THE AWAKENED ALIENS EMERGE FROM THE MOTHERSHIP BELOW. LIKE ANTS FROM A HIVE, THEY STREAM INTO THE FAR END OF TOWN.

Johnny steps over to the barracks and pulls a slider disc from where it lodged itself in the wall. He lifts Ahote on top, and HE HURLS IT LIKE A FRISBEE, CARRYING AHOTE ACROSS THE CHASM TO SAFETY.

The outlaws and Apache catch Ahote. They throw the slider disc back, but Johnny lets it sail past.

JOHNNY (cont'd)
Go on. I got some unfinished business here.

And then Johnny notices that one of the burrowers disintegrated part of the fuse.

Johnny pulls a single match, striking it with his thumb.

He relights the fuse on this side of the chasm. And then Johnny turns to face the Alpha Alien closing in on him.

EXT. THE TOP OF THE GORGE

Ahote runs to his mothers arms. Tears fall from her eyes as she hugs her son.

MAYA
Thank the Gods. Thank the Gods.

AHOTE
It wasn't the gods, mother. The white man, he saved me.

Maya hugs her son as she chews on this.

EXT. COLUMA - MAIN STREET

A CLASSIC SHOWDOWN MOMENT. JOHNNY AND THE ALPHA ALIEN STAND ON OPPOSITE ENDS OF A DESERTED STREET.

JOHNNY STEPS OUT INTO THE MIDDLE OF THE STREET AND SQUARES OFF. THE ALPHA RELEASES ANOTHER BURROWER.

JOHNNY DRAWS AND FIRES AT THE BURROWER. HE MISSES. HE FIRES AGAIN. ANOTHER MISS. HE AIMS CAREFULLY AS THE BURROWER APPROACHES WITHIN TEN FEET. BLAM!

BULLET POV

The bullet dives into the sandy ground and STRIKES THE BURROWER!

The Burrower is deflected. It turns ninety degrees and DISINTEGRATES BENEATH THE FLAMING SALOON, SENDING THE ENTIRE STRUCTURE INTO THE DEPTHS BELOW.

Johnny switches aim and FIRES AGAIN. THE BULLET RICOCHETS OFF A HITCHING POST AND LODGES IN THE BACK OF THE ALPHA ALIEN.

BUT THE ALPHA DOESN'T FALL. IN FACT, HE'S BARELY STAGGERED. THIS ONE'S TOUGHER THAN THE REST. IT LETS OUT AN ENRAGED SHRIEK, AND DROPS ANOTHER BURROWER.

IT RACES TOWARDS JOHNNY. JOHNNY TAKES AIM AGAIN. BLAM! DIRECT HIT. THE BURROWER DEFLECTS AND THIS TIME IT DISSOLVES THE GROUND BENEATH THE BARRACKS.

JOHNNY SHIFTS AIM AGAIN. AGAIN, HIS BULLET RICOCHETS OFF THE HITCHING POST AND SLAMS INTO THE ALPHA ALIEN'S BACK.

THIS TIME THE ALPHA ALIEN STAGGERS, BUT AGAIN HE DOESN'T GO DOWN! ITS RED EYES FLARE AT JOHNNY, AS IT DROPS ANOTHER BURROWER.

JOHNNY TAKES AIM ONCE AGAIN, AND FIRES--

CLICK! NO MORE BULLETS! JOHNNY STARES HELPLESSLY AS THE BURROWER COMES RIGHT AT HIM. HE DIVES OUT OF THE WAY BUT HE'S TOO LATE. THE BURROWER DISINTEGRATES THE EARTH BENEATH HIM AND JOHNNY PLUMMETS INTO THE CHASM!

BUT A MOMENT LATER, A HAND SLAPS THE DIRT AT THE EDGE OF THE CHASM. SLOWLY, JOHNNY DIXON PULLS HIMSELF BACK UP.

JOHNNY

Almost had me there. But no cigar for you yet.

Surprised, the Alpha quickly releases another BURROWER.

It races for him. Johnny reaches into his shirt, AND PULLS THE SILVER BULLET FROM THE CHAIN AROUND HIS NECK. THE BURROWER IS FORTY FEET AWAY.

HE DROPS IT INTO AN EMPTY CHAMBER OF HIS GUN. THE BURROWER ADVANCES TO TWENTY FIVE FEET.

HE SLAPS THE CHAMBER CLOSED. THE BURROWER RACES TO JUST TEN FEET AWAY.

JOHNNY (cont'd)

Time to shoot straight, baby.

JOHNNY WHIPS THE PISTOL UP TOWARDS THE BURROWER AND BLAM!!!

BULLET POV

IT RACES DOWN TOWARDS THE SANDY GROUND, DIGGING DOWN UNTIL SLAM! IT HITS THE BURROWER DEAD ON!

THE BURROWER TURNS AROUND EXACTLY 180 DEGREES AND RACES RIGHT BACK AT THE ALPHA ALIEN. IT LETS OUT ONE LAST ANGERED SHRIEK AS THE BURROWER DISSOLVES THE EARTH AROUND IT.

THE ALPHA ALIEN PLUMMETS DEEP BELOW THE EARTH!

INT. WELL

The fuse drops, the flame reaches the TNT boxes.

EXT. COLUMA - ABOVE

A MASSIVE EXPLOSION ROCKS THE TOWN! FIRE SPEWS OUT OF THE ABANDONED WELL.

AND THEN--NOTHING. THE TOWN DOESN'T COLLAPSE. THE GORGE REMAINS INTACT.

EXT. COLUMA - MAIN STREET

Johnny opens clenched eyes.

JOHNNY

NO!!!

EXT. THE TOP OF THE GORGE

Everyone looks on, dismayed by the lack of effect.

TANNER

You idiot! Nothing happened!

EZEKIEL

Actually, when you're blasting unstable rock all you want to do is tamp your charge against the pressure point, and the sympathetic vibrations should do the rest.

Everyone turns and looks at Ezekiel like he's an alien. And a moment later, A RUMBLE IS HEARD.

EXT. COLUMA - MAIN STREET

Johnny feels the shaking grow. He smiles, sensing what is coming.

A LANDSLIDE PARTIALLY COLLAPSES A WALL OF THE GORGE. Johnny doesn't hesitate. He runs up the rubble pile, searching for higher ground.

EXT. THE GORGE

THE RUMBLING GROWS INTO A FULL BLOWN EARTHQUAKE OF MASSIVE PROPORTIONS. FIRST, THE TOWN BELOW COLLAPSES IN ON ITSELF. THEN THE WALLS OF THE GORGE ITSELF BEGIN TO SHAKE.

INT. MOTHERSHIP

An avalanche of rock rains down, shattering columns and catwalks and pulverizing the massing alien army below.

EXT. THE GORGE

AND A MOMENT LATER, THE WALLS OF THE GORGE BUCKLE AND FALL, COLLAPSING IN ON THEMSELVES AND BURYING BOTH SHIPS FAR BELOW.

WHEN THE EARTHQUAKE FINALLY ENDS, THE ENTIRE GORGE HAS BEEN FILLED IN, AS IF IT HAD NEVER EXISTED.

EXT. THE TOP OF THE GORGE

Their victory in hand, both white man and Apache YELL, raising their hands in triumph. Hands are clasped, even hugs shared--until we REVEAL ANNIE, her eyes filled with tears, her gaze frozen upon the rubble.

She makes her way to the edge of the destruction, staring into the dust and destruction for some sign of her daddy. But nothing moves. Tanner comes and cradles Annie in his arms.

TANNER

I'm so sorry, Annie.

The tears fall in a torrent as Annie squeezes Tanner as hard as she can. The Finkle Twins look down, their youthful faces suddenly old and fatigued. A hero has died.

EZEKIEL

Your daddy was a hero, Annie. Only one we ever met.

ANNIE

I just can't believe--he left me.

SOMETHING MOVES IN THE RUBBLE

Suddenly, a hand reaches out of the collapsed gorge. JOHNNY APPEARS, DUSTY, BRUISED, BROKEN EVEN, BUT STILL ALIVE. COUGHING, HE TRIES TO PULL HIMSELF OUT OF THE GORGE.

A ROAR ERUPTS FROM EVERYONE!

SILVER BLADE IS THE CLOSEST TO HIM. HE HEADS OVER TO HIM, WALKING CAREFULLY OVER THE UNSTABLE GROUND.

ONE HAND REACHES OUT TOWARDS JOHNNY.

BUT HIS OTHER HAND, SLOWLY SNAKES BEHIND HIS BACK, UNDER HIS CLOTHES. HE'S REACHING FOR SOMETHING.

HIS LEFT HAND GRABS JOHNNY'S. HE STARTS TO PULL HIM UP OUT OF THE EARTH--

AS HIS RIGHT HAND DRAWS A TOMAHAWK FROM ITS HIDING PLACE!!!

MAYA SEES WHAT IS HAPPENING. SHE SCREAMS--

MAYA
Silver Blade! NO!!!

BUT IT'S TOO LATE, SILVER BLADE THROWS THE TOMAHAWK--

WHICH PASSES RIGHT BEYOND JOHNNY, FORCING THE ALPHA ALIEN, WHO WAS CRAWLING UP BEHIND HIM TO PHASE. SILVER BLADE TUGS BACK ON THE ROPE AND THE TOMAHAWK LODGES IN THE BACK OF THE ALPHA'S HEAD. THE ALPHA ALIEN FINALLY DROPS DEAD.

Then Silver Blade helps Johnny out of the gorge.

JOHNNY
For a second there, I thought-

SILVER BLADE
For a second there, you were right.

JOHNNY
Then why?

SILVER BLADE
If we cannot bury the past, we have no future.

Maya meets Johnny's eyes. Hope, longing, love...it's all
there.

Annie breaks the moment, rushing up to her father, who sweeps her up in his arms. He spins her around, showering her with kisses. She closes her eyes and holds him tight.

CUT TO:

EXT. MOUNTAIN RIDGE - DUSK

Silver Blade and about a dozen Apache stand in front of Johnny, Torres, Mattias, Ezekiel, and Tanner.

SUPER THE TITLE: SIX MONTHS LATER

JOHNNY

You okay with the settlement,
Silver Blade?

SILVER BLADE

It is generous. Our thanks to Captain Torres for his help with the negotiations.

TORRES

Didn't take much negotiating. The government's positively drooling over what might be buried in Area 51. They probably would've given you San Francisco in trade if you asked.

SILVER BLADE

You can keep your cities. We just need a quiet place to start again.

JOHNNY

What's the name of the place you're going again?

SILVER BLADE

It's land deep in the territory of
New Mexico. Your people call it:
Roswell.

Johnny holds out his hand. Silver Blade shakes it, then pulls Johnny in for a slap on the back. Hard. Johnny winces.

SILVER BLADE (cont'd)

You treat her well. It would be a shame to have to kill you after all we've been through.

JOHNNY

You really are Death with a tan.

A TRAIN WHISTLE pierces the silence. Mattias looks behind him.

MATTIAS

Boss. It's time.

JOHNNY

(to Silver Blade)

May the spirit of Sky Watcher travel with you.

SILVER BLADE

Don't buy any wooden wampum.

Johnny and the gang mount up and off they go down a steep mountain grade.

EXT. MOUNTAIN PASS - TRAIN TRACKS - CONTINUOUS

A long train steams forward, slowing as the grade gets steeper. Suddenly, Johnny and his gang descend on the train.

JOHNNY

Get into position!

Mattias and Ezekiel take the lead riding side by side. Mattias pulls out a horse blanket and throws one end of it to Ezekiel.

They pull the blanket taught, just as Tanner rides up between them. He leaps out of his saddle and lands right on top of the blanket as his horse runs underneath it.

TANNER

Let's do it!

The Finkle brothers throw the blanket, with Tanner on it, as high into the air as they can.

Tanner sails through the air and SLAM! He lands right on top of the train. Then he ties himself down to a handhold and tosses down a long coil of rope.

Johnny grabs the rope, and some sort of BOOK BAG, and he swings across to the train.

INT. PASSENGER CAR - CONTINUOUS

BLAM. Johnny kicks the door open and steps inside, ready for action.

MAYA (O.S.)

Can you not get on a train like normal people?

REVERSE ANGLE. Maya, Ahote and Annie, all dressed for travel, sit on benches facing Johnny, their large trunks in a rack overhead.

ANNIE

He's just showing off. I see it at school all the time. It's how boys show they like you. You'll see when you get there, Ahote.

Ahote nods.

MAYA

I suppose I'll just have to get used to it.

JOHNNY

You forgot your book bag, young lady. I didn't spend a month finding a school more to your liking just to see you get expelled again.

MAYA

And you just had to make one more train jump for old time's sake?

JOHNNY

What did I promise you? Straight as an Apache arrow from now on. Besides, I sold my stake in the franchise.

They look out the window as Tanner leaps back atop his horse. He barks orders to his gang and with a tip of the hat, off they ride.

TANNER

Good luck, Johnny!!

Johnny waves, eyes down at Ahote, Annie and Maya. They make a beautiful family.

JOHNNY

Who needs luck when you've got karma.

He grabs Maya, pulls her to him, and plants a deep, soulful kiss on her.

THE TRAIN

Crests the mountain, heading for the blue pacific in the far distance, shimmering gold and red in the light of a beautiful California sunset.

FADE OUT

CRANK

Screenplay by

MARK NEVELDINE AND BRIAN TAYLOR

February 20, 2005

Lakeshore Entertainment Group LLC
All Rights Reserved

FADE IN:

1 VIDEO SCREEN

1

EXTREME CU: PACMAN, from the old video game, just a yellow ball with a mouth, fills the screen in all it's lo-res glory. The camera tracks along as it rolls along a tight corridor, gobbling dots.

CUT TO:

EXTREME CU: A RED GHOST follows, in hot pursuit.

CUT TO:

EXTREME CU: PACMAN gives it the slip, cuts down and gobbles a big dot.

CUT TO:

EXTREME CU: RED GHOST transforms into BLUE GHOST, changes direction and runs. PACMAN chases ...

... but just before he catches up the BLUE GHOST transforms back to RED and changes direction again. PACMAN barely escapes.

CUT TO:

PACMAN flees, but at every turn he is confronted by another ghost. The CAMERA pulls out in a series of jump cuts to reveal that unlike the old arcade game, this game screen goes on forever, an infinite maze ... and instead of the original four there are thousands of ghosts at all sides, closing in.

The sound of the game redoubles, reverberates, deafening ...

CUT TO BLACK.

SOUND: A HEART BEATS SLOWLY IN THE DARK.

FADE IN:

2 INT CHEV'S BEDROOM, MORNING

2

(this scene plays out as a continuous POV shot, right up until CHEV's face is revealed for the first time.)

CHEV CHELIOS, wakes up in his apartment to a RINGING CELL PHONE, groggy, vision doubled ...

... from his POV we see him examine his hands, which don't feel right, don't want to move right.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

The CELL PHONE, coming from some other room, plays the PACMAN theme in beeps: BEE-DEE-DEE-DEEE-DEE-DEEE-DEE-DEE-DUM ...

He tries to get out of bed, HITS THE GROUND. Plush rug, ultra modern bed frame, night stand, high tech stereo, the works.

He crawls/stumbles into ...

3 INT CHELIOS LIVING ROOM, CONTINUOUS 3

... the living room, decked out by Kostabi paintings and glass furniture then into...

4 INT CHELIOS KITCHEN, CONTINUOUS 4

... the kitchen, with a black marble island and hanging copper.

He jams his head under the Fossil sink and runs the water. He steadies himself against the matching black marble counter, staring at his hands ...

... tries to lift them and BANG! He's back on the floor, stunned...

All the while we hear the faint sound of his HEARTBEAT...

... slow: LUBDUB... LUBDUB... LUBDUB.

He begins crawling back into...

5 INT CHELIOS LIVING ROOM, CONTINUOUS 5

... the living room, toward the telephone where he spots a plain black VHS tape propped up in front of a plasma screen TV with police ribbon wrapped around it, tied in a bow, like a present.

CHELIOS
(barely comprehensible)
Whathufuck?

He grabs the thing, fumbles to unwrap it, shoves it into the VCR and pushes PLAY.

5A INT. TV SCREEN 5A

It's RICKY VERONA on the SCREEN, a young, irritatingly slick EASTERN EURO ... little to no accent - fast talking, sarcastic, a complete dick ...

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

We see him sitting on CHEV'S bed ... CHEV is visible in the frame, unconscious behind VERONA. Pale nicotine sunlight filters in through the blinds. There are HOODS loitering around the room. It was apparently shot only hours before.

(The discernible sound of CHEV'S heartbeat will subliminally increase in speed and volume throughout VERONA'S monologue - the cell phone continues to ring, somewhere.)

VERONA

What's shaking, douchebag? Thought I'd give you the heads up. You're dead.

On the TV - VERONA points into the CAMERA.

VERONA (CONT'D)

Yeah, that's right, you little bitch ... if you're watching this tape it means that I somehow resisted the urge to dismember you and shove the pieces down the garbage disposal ... opting instead to poison you in your sleep. Yeah, you heard me...

We stay with CHEV'S POV as he flashes a frantic glance around the room. The LUBDUB of the HEARTBEAT is much LOUDER AND FASTER NOW; we really begin to notice it.

VERONA (CONT'D)

... I fucking poisoned you in your sleep. How sick is that?... for the satisfaction of watching you squirm out your last minutes knowing it was me that did it to you, and there's nothing you can do about it...

5 Cut to high angle view from a hidden lipstick camera; CHEV is 5 on his knees in front of the set, looking around ... we still don't see his face clearly.

5A VERONA (CONT'D) 5A
... that's right, you're on candid camera, try not to embarrass yourself...

5 Cut back to CHEV'S POV. He holds his head down over the 5 carpet and shoves a finger in his mouth, GAGGING.

VERONA (CONT'D)

Let me guess, you're trying to puke the shit out, right? Right? Don't bother...
(MORE)

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED: (2)

VERONA (CONT'D)

the shit I gave you is some fucking high tech sci-fi Chinese synthetic shit that even I don't know exactly what the fuck it is. All I know is once it binds with your blood cells, you're fucked, baby... and believe me, it's done binded. By now you'll be feeling your joints stiffen up... hard to breath...

5 CHEV puts his hand on the left side of his chest to feel his heart. The BEATS of the heart grow louder still, but the rhythm falters, begins to slow ... 5

VERONA (V.O.) (CONT'D)

... your heartbeat is slowing down like there's rust in your veins... you're like the Tin Man in the Wizard of freaking Oz...

5A One of the THUGS, ALEX, contributes from offscreen. 5A (amused by his own wit, singing)

ALEX

"If he only had a brain."

VERONA

(irritated)

Scarecrow. Whatever. You get the point. You're fucked. You got maybe an hour, max, tough guy ... baby ... sexy ...

The THUGS are into it; VERONA is rolling. One of them comes up beside the bed and plants a big kiss on CHEV'S unconscious head.

VERONA (CONT'D)

Hey, it's been real. Probably should've thought twice before you whacked Don Kim. Experiencing a little 20/20 hindsight? I thought so. Have a nice death...

6 Finally the CAMERA reverses to reveal CHEV'S slack-jawed face, staring at the TV. CHEV is in his late 20s, handsome in an offhanded way. All of the background noise - the HEARTBEAT, the CELL PHONE - cuts to dead silence... and through the silence, a SINGLE WORD: 6

VERONA (CONT'D)

5A ... asshole. 5A

(A driving SOUNDTRACK kicks in. The OPENING TITLES play over the following:)

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED: (3)

7 Finding a drunken man's strength, CHEV flips out. He rips 7 the TV out of the stand, TEARING THE WIRES FROM THE GUTS OF THE WALL. He launches it straight into the floorboards with a BONE-BREAKING CRUSH.

He KICKS over the rest of the entertainment system, JUMPS on it and heads out of the room.

ROLLER DOLLY follows him on a STUMBLING RAMPAGE through the apartment and down the hall.

By the door, in an ashtray with his car keys, he finds it:
his God-damned CELL PHONE. Of course it stops ringing just as he picks it up. He pockets it, BANGS OPEN the front door and is out.

8 INT CHEV'S APARTMENT BUILDING, CONTINUOUS 8

ROLLER DOLLY stays with him through the door and down the hall, as a businesswoman peaks her head out the door - then SLAMS IT SHUT, terrified - and then down the stairs to the garage door.

9 INT CHEV'S APARTMENT BUILDING, GARAGE, CONTINUOUS 9

ROLLER DOLLY still on CHEV. He jumps up on the hood of a moving RED SPORTSCAR as it backs out of it's parking spot, walks right over it and hops off, clicking the keyless lock button on his chain in mid-air ... the door to his BLACK AUDI pops open ... he gets in.

RED SPORTSCAR GUY is the sort of classic intolerable LA ASSHOLE we love to hate: platinum hair, suspenders, designer shades, programming his Blackberry while driving, etc.

SPORTSCAR GUY

This is a eighty thousand dollar ride, cockwipe!

CHEV backs out, runs him right over. CH-KUNK, CH-KUNK.
CHEV'S AUDI blasts out of the garage and down the street.
SPORTSCAR GUY holds his backwards leg in agony.

SPORTSCAR GUY (CONT'D)

(screaming like a girl)
You're a dead man!

CUT TO:

10 INT CHEV'S AUDI, MOMENTS LATER 10

The ever-present HEARTBEAT is pounding. CHEV whips out his cell phone and dials. A HORN BLASTS.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

CHEV quickly looks up and yanks his steering wheel to swerve around oncoming traffic.

CHEV

JESUS!

The CAMERA ZOOMS in on CHEV'S CHEST: it becomes JUST SLIGHTLY TRANSPARENT... we see the movement of his beating HEART SPEED UP with the near miss.

The HEARTBEAT SOUND is amplified as we MOVE IN CLOSER.

CUT TO:

11 INT EVE'S APARTMENT, SIMULTANEOUS 11

We see an old school tape answering machine pick up at her place:

WOMAN (V.O.)

Hey, this is Eve...

This is apparently typical - she's an answering machine girl in a cell phone world. He holds back his frustration as the message plays.

EVE

I'm glad you called, but I'm not here.
Can you leave me a message? Unless you're trying to sell something, because I'm absolutely not interested. But if you're not ...

12 EXT CHEV'S AUDI, SAME TIME 12

CHEV begins to POUND HIS HEAD against the steering wheel.

EVE

... then just ... oh, wait ... time's up -

13 INT EVE'S APARTMENT, SAME TIME 13

SOUND: beep!

CHEV (O.S.)

GET A CELL PHONE!!!

We hear CHEV'S car SQUEAL again...

CUT TO:

14 INT CHEV'S AUDI, SAME TIME 14

... CHEV recovers from another near miss.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

CHEV

Shit!

He clicks off the cell. His eyes try to focus on the road.

NOTE: Through it all, the low beating of the heart - from slow to fast - sometimes barely audible, sometimes mixed way out front - clues us into the state of his adrenaline.

He grabs up the cellphone again and punches in a speed dial.

CHEV (CONT'D)

Come on ...

ANSWERING SERVICE (O.S.)

Doctor Miles' office, may I help you?

CHEV

Let me talk to him.

SPLIT SCREEN WITH:

15 INT CHOCOLATE'S APARTMENT, SIMULTANEOUS

15

CHOCOLATE, a too-skinny, cracked-out BLACK CHICK, sits in front of a multi-line phone in a broken down apartment. She's wearing a headset. She takes a long drag off her cigarette.

CHOCOLATE

(a generic imitation of politeness)

I'm sorry, the doctor isn't in the office at this time, may I take -

CHEV

Where is he?

CHOCOLATE

I beg your pardon sir?

CHEV

Where - thefuck - is - he?

(In more SCREENS WITHIN SCREENS we see a 'WELCOME TO LAS VEGAS' sign, then DOCTOR MILES reclining on a massage table with a bunch of HOOKERS.)

CHOCOLATE

I don't know sir, this is his answering service, would you like me to have him paged?

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

CHEV
(exasperated)
Fine, yes, please let the doctor know that Chev Chelios is a dead man if he can't call me back within the hour... got that?

CHOCOLATE
Can you spell that for me sir?

She searches the food and carton strewn tabletop for something to write with.

CHEV
D-E-A-D. Chelios... got it?

CHOCOLATE
Yes sir...

CHEV
Thank you.

CHEV hangs up.

CHEV finds himself nodding off in the car ...

The CAMERA ZOOMS back into his chest. This time it becomes COMPLETELY TRANSPARENT - we see his HEART BEAT SLOW DOWN:

SOUND - BOOMING: ... LUB DUB, LUB DUB...

The CAMERA SWOOSHES down to CHEV'S FOOT as he STEPS ON THE GAS... then back up to the HEART as the ADRENALINE CRANKS HIM UP... the BEATING SPEEDS UP -

SOUND: ... LUBDUB, LUBDUB, LUBDUB..!

... and the CAMERA SNAPS back out to CHEV'S FACE as he seems to come to his senses.

CHEV takes the cell. One-clicks, and sticks the phone in the cigarette adapter. Four rings. Finally someone picks up.

KAYLO (O.S.)
Hello?

CHEV
Kaylo. My man. So, where were you last night?

SPLIT SCREEN WITH:

16 INT KAYLO'S HOUSE - SIMULTANEOUS

16

KAYLO is late 20's, slightly plump, hispanic, with gelled back curly hair. The room is unkempt. A woman in a robe shuffles by vaguely in the background, possibly his mother?

KAYLO

Oh, what's up Chev?

CHEV (O.S.)

I said, where were you last night?

17 IN A SCREEN WITHIN A SCREEN WE SEE HIM DRESSING UP IN DRAG, PUTTING ON LIPSTICK, FAKE TITS, THE WORKS, VOGUEING AT SOME FREAKY CLUB, ETC.

17

18 INT CHEV'S AUDI - SIMULTANEOUS

18

KAYLO (O.S.)

I ... uhh ...

CHEV

Yeah, yeah. You wanna know what I was doing?

KAYLO

What?

CHEV

GETTING KILLED, YOU IDIOT!

KAYLO

What?

CHEV

What? What? You heard me. That son of a bitch Ricky Verona.

KAYLO

Ricky Verona ...

CHEV

(more to himself)

Who would've thought that little bastard had the stones to come whack me in my own crib... it's inconceivable... and yet, here we are.

KAYLO

Where are we?

Silence.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

CHEV

I'm dead and you're simple. Now listen:
you put the word out I'm looking for Ricky Verona. Anyone sees him you call me.

KAYLO puts his hands up in the air, dumbfounded.

CHEV (CONT'D)

I'm going to get that little son of a bitch if it's the last thing I do... it may actually be the last thing I do, understand that? Copy me on that?

KAYLO

Ricky Verona?

CHEV

Find him!

Arriving at his destination CHEV clicks off, simultaneously closing KAYLO'S SCREEN IN A SCREEN, and shoves the phone into his shirt pocket as he screeches up the sidewalk.

CUT TO:

19 EXT STREET, NEAR BLACK SABBATH CLUBHOUSE, MOMENTS LATER 19

A run down street in Inglewood. The BLACK SABBATH CLUBHOUSE is a low lying pool hall/bar with a crude hand-painted sign reading BEER POOL DARTS. Motorcycles are parked out front.

ROLLER DOLLY from alongside CHEV'S car at high speed, break off and follow inside as CHEV parks haphazardly, rushes out and busts into the joint ...

20 INT. BLACK SABBATH CLUBHOUSE, CONTINUOUS 20

The continuous ROLLER DOLLY move takes us inside and KEEPS GOING. Eight or ten BROTHERS, some wearing motorcycle leathers, are scattered around the room, shooting stick, drinking, etc. CHEV BARGES IN, drawing a GLOK .45 from his coat and goes straight at ORLANDO - black, hip, 30's, better dressed than the others - who is at the center of a group of BADASSES.

Before anyone has time to react CHEV has the GUN PRESSED INTO ORLANDO'S FOREHEAD and is pushing him through the place into the bathroom. Everyone scatters and takes cover at the site of the GLOK; firearms appear.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

CHEV locks the door, SLAMS ORLANDO against the far wall and starts circling around him with the gun beaded on ORLANDO'S forehead.

CHEV
(out of his mind)
Where's Verona!!

ORLANDO
(flipping out)
It's cool it's cool it's cool!

CHEV
Talk!!

CHEV cocks the gun.

ORLANDO
I'm talking! What are we talking about?

CHEV
Don't fuck with me!!

ORLANDO
OK, nobody's fucking with you, just calm down ...

CHEV
DON'T TELL ME TO CALM DOWN MOTHERFUCKER!

There's BANGING on the door. A BIKER yells from outside.

BIKER (O.S.)
O-land-o! What's up!

ORLANDO
(calling back)
There's a white man with a gun in here, I would prefer that he not cap my ass, so please refrain from any sudden ass bullshit!
(to CHEV)
Now you see that? I'm trying to help you here.

CHEV starts to chill out.

CHEV
Look, I got to find Ricky Verona ...

ORLANDO
Why would I know where ... ?

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED: (2)

CHEV

... right, I know, you don't know where he is, but you're going to tell me where he is, or I'm going to BLOW YOUR BRAINS INTO THAT TOILET!!

The DOOR BUSTS OPEN and a half dozen gun wielding BROTHERS crowd into the tiny room.

Total mad chaos ensues, CHEV, ORLANDO and the BROTHERS packed in like sardines, everyone pointing guns at every one else's head, shoving each other back and forth, everyone screaming.
The situation teeters at the very edge of an explosion of bloody violence.

Finally ORLANDO cuts through the din with a booming voice.

ORLANDO

THE WHITE MAN IS COOL! THE WHITE MAN IS COOL!

SILENCE - just the sound of CHEV'S heartbeat, pumping.

ORLANDO (CONT'D)

(calmly)

Can we all just get along? Can we?

Beat. CHEV'S gun is still trained on ORLANDO'S head.

ORLANDO (CONT'D)

Now Chevy here has something he would like to discuss. So we are going to discuss it. In a civilized manner.
Chevy? I believe you had a question, or some point you were trying to make?

CHEV

Where's Verona.

ORLANDO

OK. I am not affiliated with Ricky
Verona.

CHEV

(starting to lose it again)

You pulled the Anselmo job together, don't try to bullshit me ...

He presses closer to ORLANDO ... the BROTHERS bristle ... the situation is close to blowing up again.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED: (3)

ORLANDO

Easy ... easy ... now things are beginning to clarify ... you see how that works? How discussion can lead to clarity?

CHEV is running out of patience.

ORLANDO (CONT'D)

Clearly you are operating under a false pretense. Ricky Verona and myself did not "pull the Anselmo job together." In fact, Ricky Verona fucked me on the Anselmo job. In fact, Ricky Verona owes me seventy five hunna dollars.

CHEV

That's not how I heard it.

ORLANDO

But that's the way it is. That's the way it is. So you see, I don't know where Ricky Verona is. Because if I knew where he is, I would probably be there right now, beating his Gucci ass down.

Standoff. CHEV holds the gun with an unsteady hand, studying ORLANDO'S eyes, evaluating.

Then, as much from exhaustion as from a sense that he's telling the truth, he lets his gun hand drop.

CHEV

Alright.

The room lets out a collective exhale. The BROTHERS mutter amongst themselves - damn right you better put that shit away, crazy bitch ass mother ...

ORLANDO

Thank you. That's what I'm talking about. That resembles civility.

LUB DUB ... LUB DUB ... LUB ... DUB

CHEV begins to fade again. He slumps back, looking as though he might pass out. One of the BROTHERS catches him, holds him up and shoves him away.

ORLANDO (CONT'D)

Shit dude, what's the matter with you?

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED: (4)

CHEV

Forget it. I just gotta find Ricky
Verona, that little bitch ...

ORLANDO

I understand that. You've made that point abundantly clear to all of us.

He takes pity on him - CHEV really looks like shit. A few of the BROTHERS lose interest, begin to filter out of the room.

ORLANDO (CONT'D)

Now what can I do to help you?

CHEV

Look, just give me some coke, OK? You got any coke?

ORLANDO gives him the look.

ORLANDO

OK, now you're insulting me.

CHEV

Come on, man, I know you got coke.

ORLANDO

You think every brother is carrying, is that it?

CHEV

Come on, I don't have time for this, just give me something ... I'm really dying here ...

ORLANDO

I can see that.

CHEV

No. You don't understand, I'm really fucking dying ... if I don't ...
(losing it again)
May I just have some coke, please?

ORLANDO

So this is medicinal use coke, that's what you're telling me.

CHEV

That's right.

Beat.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED: (5)

ORLANDO

Well?

CHEV

What?

ORLANDO

You got something for me, or what?

CHEV shoves his gun into his belt, pulls out a wad of tens, tosses it into the sink. He's visibly fading.

ORLANDO takes a quick look over the wad, pulls a little plastic bag out of his vest pocket, tosses it to CHEV. The bag hits CHEV square in the forehead, hits sweat and STICKS. CHEV reaches for it lamely - it slides off and lands on the floor. His reflexes are not the best at this point.

CHEV collapses to his knees, breaks it open and snorts it right out of the bag like a pig on his elbows and knees. The BROTHERS find this hilarious.

ORLANDO shakes his head in disgust.

ORLANDO (CONT'D)

Chevy ... come on, man...

We hear CHEV'S heart rate start to build, increase in volume.

Suddenly he pops up to his feet, almost slips and falls, steadies himself. A new man.

CHEV

OK, that's good. That's good.

ORLANDO

Oh that's good, right?

CHEV pounds rhythmically on chest, keeping time with his beating heart.

ORLANDO (CONT'D)

Why you looking for Verona anyway?

CHEV

Seems like some Chinese assholes hired him to kill me...

ORLANDO

Ah, so this is about the Don Kim situation.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED: (6)

CHEV
What do you know about it?

ORLANDO
I know you pulled the trigger.

CHEV
(flipping out)
Of course I pulled the trigger! WHY WOULDN'T I PULL THE TRIGGER?!

ORLANDO
O...kay...

Abruptly, CHEV'S HEART STOPS... his eyes go wide - he waits for it...

LUB...

... waiting...

DUB.

... and then it STARTS UP AGAIN, slow, erratic. CHEV is GHOST WHITE.

ORLANDO (CONT'D)
Whoa, Chelios. You good, man?

CHEV
This shit's not working.

ORLANDO
Beg your pardon?

CHEV swoons, close to BLACKING OUT.

CHEV
I think I know what I have to do.

ORLANDO
(shrugging)
Well, a man's got to do what a man's got to do.
(beat) Uhh... what exactly is it that you got to do?

CHEV SNAPS to his senses.

CHEV
Got to kick... some black... ass.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED: (7)

ORLANDO

What?

CHEV turns to the biggest, meanest looking BROTHER in the room, pats him on the chest in a mock friendly way, then, without warning, slams his head forward into the BROTHER'S face, knocking him backwards into the hallway, sending all the other BROTHERS sprawling like tenpins.

ORLANDO (CONT'D)

There he goes again.

CHEV has a pool cue in his hands. He moves out into the hallway, eyes wild.

SOUND: CHEV'S HEARTBEAT starts to rev up.

CHEV

Alright ... who wants white meat?

All hell breaks loose.

21 EXT OUTSIDE THE BLACK SABBATH CLUBHOUSE, MOMENTS LATER 21

A calm exterior of the building: single window, bars over it, single door closed.

SUDDENLY THE WINDOW SMASHES OUTWARD; the two arms of one of the BROTHERS poke out through the bars as though he's been thrown into the window frame from inside. One hand holds a cue ball, which drops and hits the sidewalk.

A second later THE DOOR BLOWS OFF IT'S HINGES as CHEV is tossed, upside down, through it to land on the cement in a jumble of glass and wood. The door falls on him. The BROTHERS chase him out into the street, shouting him down.

22 STILL BRANDISHING THE POOL CUE, HE SOMEHOW HOLDS THEM OFF AS 22
HE STUMBLES TO HIS CAR, PEELS OUT AND BLASTS OFF DOWN THE STREET, LAUGHING MANIACALLY, HEART POUNDING LIKE A JACKHAMMER.

23 INT CHEV'S CAR, MOMENTS LATER 23

Speeding along, weaving erratically through traffic, sweating hard, panting with adrenaline.

SOUND: BEE-DEE-DEE-DEEE-DEE-DEEE-DEE-DEE-DUM.

CHEV'S cell rings. He picks it right up.

CHEV

Doc?

24 IN A SPLIT SCREEN WE SEE IT'S VERONA. 24

VERONA
Hey, what's up, Doc!

23A CHEV 23A
You motherfucker!

VERONA
Dude, aren't you dead yet? What the hell are you doing out there?

23A CHEV 23A
I'm coming for you, asshole, believe me.

VERONA
Yeah, whatever. Look, just thought you'd like to know that I'm all about hooking up with that mystery girl you've been banging as soon as your ass is underground ... I forgot to say so on that gay James Bond tape I left for you...

23A CHEV 23A
Yeah, yeah, then you're going to rape my grandmother, blah blah blah. What do you think Carlito is going to think when he finds out what you did? Your whole crew is history.

CHEV checks the rearview mirror.

CHEV (CONT'D)
(under his breath)
Great.

23B Throughout the conversation his driving has gotten faster, 23B more and more out of control. Now a SQUAD CAR has pulled up behind him, cherry top flashing, broadcasting a warning to "PULL OVER" out of its intercom.

CHEV goes evasive, leading the cop on a HIGH SPEED CHASE.

VERONA
Carlito? That's funny, I guess you didn't know... Carlito's my boy now, we're tight.

CHEV
You haven't been tight since your brother fucked you in 3rd grade.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

VERONA

Clever. Snappy. Did you pretty good, didn't I, Chelios? Come on, you can admit it.

CHEV

We'll see.

VERONA

Right, right, and the best part about it is...

CHEV'S phone BEEPS - incoming call.

CHEV

Sorry, I must take this. See you later.

VERONA

I doubt it.

CHEV pushes "answer" and picks up the new call.

25A

CHEV

25A

Yeah.

DOC MILES (V.O.)

Doc Miles.

CHEV

Doc! Shit, it's about time.

SPLIT SCREEN WITH:

25

EXT LAS VEGAS AIRPORT, SIMULTANEOUS

25

DOC MILES

Sorry baby, I just got the message.

25A

CHEV

25A

OK, forget it, listen: I'm dying. I've been poisoned with some kind of Chinese synthetic shit.

DOC MILES

Woah!

CHEV

You've got to do something for me, it feels so crazy, like it's in my blood ...

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

CHEV swerves wildly. Throughout the conversation we are tight on CHEV and DOC - the only idea we have about the chase occurring outside the car comes from CHEV'S wild steering, the sound of BURNING RUBBER AND SIRENS, and the few details flashing by in the background and reflected in the glass.

DOC MILES

Alright, slow down. You say you've been poisoned. Can you describe the symptoms?

CHEV

It's like... it's like... like I'm slowing down... like I'm caught in a tar pit...

DOC MILES

Blurred vision?

CHEV

Yeah.

DOC MILES

Dizziness?

CHEV

Sure.

DOC MILES

Pain in your chest?

CHEV

Not really. Actually I'm feeling pretty good right now.

DOC MILES

What are you doing?

CUT TO:

26 INT. FOX HILLS MALL, CONTINUOUS

26

We reveal that CHEV'S car is BLASTING THROUGH THE INSIDE OF A SHOPPING MALL, screaming past frozen yogurt and Big n Tall shops, missing terrified shoppers by inches.

CHEV

Driving through a mall with five cops chasing me.

Behind his car we see two CHPs on motorcycles and three SQUAD CARS giving chase.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

DOC MILES
(partially to himself)
The flow of adrenaline is keeping you alive.

CHEV
I'm having a little trouble hearing you,
Doc.

DOC MILES
Listen, Chev - you have to keep moving.

CHEV Explain.

DOC MILES
If I'm right, they gave you the Beijing Cocktail... very nasty ... works on your adrenal gland, blocking your receptors.
The only way to slow it down is to keep the flow of adrenaline constant.

26A CHEV CRASHES HIS CAR INTO THE ESCALATOR.

26A

He hops out with cell phone to his ear and takes a ride to the second floor, RIDING THE SMASHED CAR UP THE ESCALATOR.

DOC MILES (CONT'D)
Meaning: if you stop, you die.

CHEV
What's that?

DOC MILES
If you stop, you die.

28 INT. FOX HILLS MALL - DAY

28

CHEV jumps off of the car and starts booking through the second level, huffing it, barking into the phone the whole time.

CHEV
That's what I'm trying to do... just keep moving... keep the blood pumping... every time I slow down it's like my veins start to rust...

DOC MILES
Have you taken anything?

CHEV
A couple grams of coke.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

DOC MILES

Oh boy. Well, that's a start. Look,
I'll be back in LA in an hour. I'll call you as soon as I land. Keep yourself pumped up. Don't stop, don't quit, I'll be there.

CHEV gives the cops the slip and heads into a ...

27 INT CLOTHING STORE, CONTINUOUS 27

... men's clothing store. He bolts to the back, looking for an exit.

He heads into the dressing room, no exit. Turns back out into the store and then tries the EMPLOYEES ONLY door.
Behind the door are two overweight employees in suits. He RUNS THEM BOTH OVER and heads to the exit. They chase. CHEV gets to the exit first and BURSTS through the door.

28 EXT MALL, CONTINUOUS 28

He runs down the sidewalk and manages to hail a cab.

CHEV

Yo! Right here!

CUT TO:

29 INT CAB, SECONDS LATER 29

The inside of the cab has the East Indian vibe. Incense, Koran on the dash, and Farsi music over the radio.

CHEV

Go.

CABBIE

(in a thick Pakistani accent)
Where we go?

CHEV

Straight. Now.

They zip through the stop sign and hit the traffic light.

CHEV (CONT'D)

Make a right.

30 EXT. CITY STREET - DAY 30

The CABBIE pulls a CALIFORNIA ROLLER to the right - the TIRES PEEL.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

30A Three SQUAD CARS pass, SIRENS AND LIGHTS BLARING, heading the opposite way. 30A

29A CHEV starts to drop off; we hear his HEART RATE start to slow down. 29A

CHEV
Hey, crank the music.

The CABBIE turns to an FM country station playing Billy Ray Cyrus, "Achy Breaky Heart."

CHEV (CONT'D)
No, CRANK IT.

The Cabbie BLARES it.

CHEV starts to embarrassingly bang his head to the Billy Ray as if it was Metallica in the late 80's.

Something catches his eye.

CHEV (CONT'D)
Pull over. Come on, right here. Thank you.

A 7-11 can be seen through the side window.

CHEV (CONT'D)
OK, I'll be back in one minute. Don't go anywhere.

CABBIE
OK, cowboy.

31 EXT 7-11 STREET, SECONDS LATER 31

CHEV jumps out of the cab and into the 7-11. We see him pull his gun from his pants as he enters.

32 INT 7-11 CONVENIENCE STORE, CONTINUOUS 32

He goes right to the counter and sticks the place up.

He grabs the man from behind the counter and in one move, yanks him over the counter and SLAMS HIM FACE-DOWN on the floor.

CHEV
You move, you die ...

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

CHEV grabs a box of trash bags, rips it open and takes one out. He opens the bag and starts dumping CAFFEINE in: Jolt, Coke, Red Bull, Starbucks Frappuccinos.

He DIALS A NUMBER on his cell. It rings twice, then:

WOMAN (V.O.)
Hey, this is Eve ...

CHEV
AHHHHHHHHHHH!

He yells and jumps up and down while heading to the counter. He grabs hundreds of the little ginseng capsules, Vivran, and everything candy. The bag's full.

One last look. He spots some shitty flowers in a bucket. The fastest double take in movie history with the grouchiest face, then he grabs them.

CUT TO:

33 INT CAB, SECONDS LATER 33

He hops back in the cab with the cheap flowers and the black santa bag.

He opens the bag and starts SLAMMING whatever he can get his hands on.

CABBIE
Where you want to go, man?

CHEV is guzzling Red Bull, popping vitamins, whatever.

CHEV
Beverly Hills.

CUT TO:

34 EXT ROOFTOP OF CARLITO'S BUILDING, MINUTES LATER 34

EXTREME CU of a Fuente Fuente Opus X cigar, rich tendril of smoke curling through the air.

As the hand holding the cigar brings it up for a drag the CAMERA pulls back, revealing CARLITO, an imposing 6'1", 225 lb. DOMINICAN in his late 40s.

The CAMERA continues its move back, skimming over blue water, revealing an elaborate pool area on the rooftop. CARLITO is sitting by the pool in a velvet robe.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

Bodyguards roam the property and a beautiful, rock hard BLACK WOMAN suns on the deck.

Still in the same shot, pulling back, CARLITO puts down the cigar, stands up and dives into the pool. The camera drops down below the water level, and CARLITO swims right up to it for a CLOSE-UP.

CARLITO'S POV - We are under water swimming towards the edge of the pool. As we look up, we see a water-distorted figure above the water, looking down into the pool. The classic shot made famous in The GRADUATE and used a thousand times since ... only this time the guy outside the pool JUMPS IN.

It's CHEV, fully dressed. He meets CARLITO face to face underwater and points up with his index finger.

We CUT TO CARLITO'S reaction. He follows CHEV up.

Their heads rise just above the water, like heads on a platter. Several jittery BODYGUARDS stand at the edge of the pool, guns drawn. With a simple motion of his hand, CARLITO calms them.

CARLITO

Chevy.

CHEV

Hey boss.

CARLITO

I'm surprised to see you.

CHEV

Well, something urgent has come up.

CARLITO

Ha! So I've heard.

CHEV

Then you know what happened?

CARLITO

Word travels fast. You amaze me, my friend.

CHEV

What can I say. Look, Carlito, I need your help. I don't have much time.

CARLITO

No, not much.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED: (2)

CHEV

We've got to find an antidote or something.

Silence.

CHEV (CONT'D)

What's the matter?

CARLITO

(shrugs)

The shit they gave you ... it's the Chinese shit. There is no antidote. I wish there was something I could do.

CHEV

What, so that's it?

CARLITO

Honestly, you should be dead already. It's a miracle.

CHEV

A miracle.

CARLITO

We give that shit to horses ...

CHEV

I can't believe it.

CARLITO

I'm sorry.

CUT TO CHEV and CARLITO'S legs treading water to keep their heads afloat.

SOUND: LUBDUB ... LUBDUB ... LUBDUB

CHEV

Well you don't have to be so damn cool about it.

CARLITO

What do you expect me to do?

CHEV

Tell me you're going to find that punk Verona and his whole fuckin' crew and feed 'em to a cage of wolverines.

CARLITO shrugs. No response.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED: (3)

CUT TO legs treading.

CHEV (CONT'D)

What is this? Are you boys now or something?

CARLITO

Verona? That's just a small time punk. But... that's not to say there isn't an opportunity here.

CHEV

Opportunity.

CARLITO

Everyone knows the love I have for you, Chev. Maybe this can even be the score for the Don Kim hit, which was perhaps ill-advised.

CHEV

(flabbergasted)
Ill advised?

CARLITO

The heat from Hong Kong has been more than we anticipated.

CHEV

Oh. That's outstanding, Carlito. I'm glad to know that my death can be of some use to you.

CARLITO

Don't be difficult.

CHEV

Am I being difficult? Is this what you call difficult? I don't know if you noticed, but I'm having a DIFFICULT FUCKING DAY, BRO!

Beat.

CARLITO

Are you disrespecting me, Chev? Is that what you're doing?

They stare each other down.

LUBDUB ... LUB ... DUB ... LUB ... DUB ...

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED: (4)

CHEV

Forget it, I'm out of here.

CHEV climbs out of the pool. CARLITO NARROWS HIS EYES, watching him leave. The BODYGUARD motions to follow, CARLITO signals him off. CHEV passes a black HELICOPTER sitting on a small, hard-rubbered heli-pad.

CARLITO'S POV - from a distance we see CHEV knocking over furniture and BREAKING GLASS on his way out.

CARLITO'S POV descends beneath the water - his breath releases.

CUT TO:

35 EXT STREET, IN FRONT OF CARLITO'S BUILDING, MOMENTS LATER 35

The building opens onto the high rent section of Sunset Blvd. An outdoor cafe populated by the rich and trendy is next door.

CHEV shakes himself off and bangs out of the revolving glass doors. A VALET approaches him and CHEV gets in his face, FLASHING MURDEROUS TEETH and shoving him away, hopping up and down to keep the heart pounding ... he heads over to the cab waiting out front.

The same ARAB CABBIE is waiting inside.

CABBIE

You're not getting into my cab wet.

CHEV

I just gave you 200 dollars to wait for 3 minutes.

CABBIE

You are not getting into my car no way.

CHEV goes to the driver side of the car, pulls the CABBIE out of the cab and tosses him into the road. The lunch crowd at the cafe, passerbys, etc., look on in bewilderment. CHEV points at the CABBIE and starts screaming ...

CHEV

AL QEADA! AL QEADA!

Everybody freaks out. A WAITER dives under the a table, expecting an explosion.

CHEV grabs the CABBIE by his lapels and tosses him right into the CAFE, smashing a table, still pointing and screaming.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

CHEV (CONT'D)

AL QEADA!

The whole restaurant, OLD LADIES included, dogpile the poor CABBIE, wildly protesting in a thick accent.

CABBIE

I love America! I love Bush!

CHEV gets in the cab and drives off.

CUT TO:

36 INT CAB, MOMENTS LATER 36

CHEV is slamming Frappucinos, driving.

SOUND: BEE-DEE-DEE-DEEE-DEE-DEEE-DEE-DEE-DUM.

It's the CELL PHONE.

CHEV

Yeah.

36A DOC MILES (O.S.) 36A

My flight's delayed.

CHEV

Shit.

DOC MILES (V.O.)

Relax. I mean don't relax. Listen to me. The shit they gave you is cutting off your adrenaline.

CUT TO:

37 Science class-type microscope footage of darting chemicals and protein globules. 37

DOC MILES (CONT'D) (V.O.)

Excitement, fear, danger ... it causes your body to manufacture a chemical called ephedrine ... it binds with receptors in your blood to keep you alive ... what they've done is introduce an inhibitor into your system ... it blocks the receptors so your body's ephedrine can't bind ... and that's what's killing you.

38 INT LAS VEGAS INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT, SAME TIME 38

DOC MILES

Your only shot is to massively increase the level of ephedrine in your body ... to force out the inhibitors ...

36B INT CAB, SAME TIME 36B

CHEV

In English, doc. Please.

DOC MILES (O.S.)

You've got to get to an emergency room and get yourself some epinephrine ... it's artificial adrenaline ... it comes in 10 milligram syringes ... the shit's potent so don't overdo it ... probably a fifth of an injection will do.

CHEV tries to remember all this while zoning in and out of consciousness, swerving, slamming coffees and capsules.

DOC MILES (O.S.) (CONT'D)

Did you get all of that Chev?

CHEV bangs his head against the steering wheel.

CHEV

Epi ... something ...

DOC MILES

nephrin. Epi-nephrin.

CHEV

OK, OK. (cell beeps) I gotta go.

DOC MILES

I'll call you -

CHEV clicks over.

CHEV

Yeah.

39 KAYLO pops up in a mini-screen. He's in a phonebooth 39 downtown, looking furtively over his shoulder as he talks.

KAYLO

Chev!

36B CHEV 36B

Yeah.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

KAYLO

Chev?

CHEV

Yeah, what is it?

KAYLO

Hello?

CHEV hangs up. KAYLO, bewildered, redials. CHEV answers, says nothing.

KAYLO (CONT'D)

Chev?

CHEV

Uh huh.

KAYLO

Chev! I just saw Verona's brother going into Charlie O's.

40 In a series of BLACK AND WHITE STILLS we see ALEX, the massive dude we saw in the background on VERONA's tape, exiting a taxi and walking into CHARLIE O'S - a big New York style 40's-era steak and cocktail joint right in the heart of downtown L.A. 40

CHEV AND KAYLO'S DIALOGUE CONTINUES OFF-SCREEN.

CHEV (O.S.)

Interesting. Downtown Charlie O's?

KAYLO (O.S.)

Yeah. I was just down here getting a taco. He went right in, like, 2 minutes ago.

CHEV (O.S.)

Where are you now?

39B CUT BACK TO A SPLIT-SCREEN OF CHEV AND KAYLO.

39B

KAYLO

I'm across the street, getting a taco. Where are you?

CHEV hits the gas pedal and blasts off.

CHEV

I'm there. Meet me on 3rd and Flower.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

In fast motion we see the freeway exits flash by, one after another.

43 EXT. TACO STAND, DAY 43

KAYLO pays for his food at a leisurely pace - he's at a little place across the street from CHARLIE O'S - and skulks out onto the street, trying too hard to be inconspicuous.

45 EXT. CITY STREET - DAY 45

Meanwhile, in the second screen, CHEV is blasting along at high speed, off the freeway, through downtown, and right to the corner of 3rd and Flower, where he leaves the taxi idling in a red zone and gets out.

45 As KAYLO turns the corner, the two SPLIT SCREENS meet up - he45 and CHEV run right into each other.

CHEV pulls KAYLO around the corner, out of sight of the restaurant.

CHEV
(motioning to the restaurant)
He's in there now?

KAYLO nods quickly, freaked out.

CHEV (CONT'D)
Did anyone go in with him?

KAYLO shakes his head NO.

CHEV (CONT'D)
Alright, wait here.

The CAMERA stays with CHEV as he walks right across the street and up to the restaurant.

46 INT CHARLIE O'S, SAME TIME 46

ALEX is in his usual booth, making lecherous smalltalk with a 40ish WAITRESS in a short skirt and fishnet stockings, as CHEV, still drying, hair all fucked up and walking erratically, enters the restaurant. Everyone turns to look at the crazy man, nervously.

CHEV walks doggedly right by ALEX, staring straight ahead, not letting on that he knows he's there. ALEX watches him pass in disbelief.

WAITRESS
What was that?

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

ALEX

I just saw a ghost.

CHEV disappears through the swinging doors to the kitchen. The MAIRTRE'D has the phone in his hands, ready to dial the cops, but ALEX motions to him to chill. He'll take care of it.

He gets up and follows in CHEV'S footsteps.

47 INT CHARLIE O'S KITCHEN, SAME TIME

47

ALEX enters the kitchen. The COOKS all hustle by him - they want no part of this. CHEV is nowhere to be seen.

ALEX continues through the kitchen with a distinct lack of caution - everyone's been afraid of the big man all his life - drawing a gun from inside his coat as he goes.

He passes a butcher block, a hacked up roast, a conspicuous BUTCHER KNIFE.

Turning a corner, he notices the back door swinging slowly closed. He advances.

The back door opens onto an alley. He comes up to it, brings the gun up by his head, shoulders up to the cracked door and tries to peer around it into the alley.

Just then, behind him, CHEV emerges from the kitchen with the BUTCHER KNIFE.

Before ALEX can react, CHEV lets swing with the knife and neatly cuts off ALEX'S gun hand at the wrist. The hand, gun and all, hits the ground. CHEV kicks ALEX out the door and into the alley.

48 EXT ALLEY, SAME TIME

48

ALEX crumples in shock, holding his abbreviated arm out in front of his face. He tries to talk, or scream, but all that comes out is a wheezing sound. CHEV follows him out into the alley, brandishing the BUTCHER KNIFE, heartrate slamming.

CHEV

How you like that one, tough guy? How freaking awesome was that?

He kicks him in the ribs, knocking him over.

CHEV (CONT'D)

You feel like talking to me? Where's your brother?

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

ALEX

(anger gradually overcoming the shock)

Doing your mother like an Iraqi prisoner, you bitch.

CHEV

Nice ... wonder how many steaks I could get out of you ...

ALEX rolls onto his knees, and with a burst of energy throws himself at CHEV. HE SMASHES CHEV INTO THE ALLEY WALL and lands on him with his full weight.

CHEV is pinned. ALEX, enraged, attempts with some success to strangle him with his remaining hand. CHEV struggles in futility, heart hammering. It seems hopeless ...

... until KAYLO appears behind ALEX with a ROLLING PIN and brings it down on his skull with a LOUD CRACK.

ALEX rises up, staggering, and advances on KAYLO, who drops the ROLLING PIN and cowers amidst the trash cans.

CHEV gets to his feet, pulls out his gun, puts it to the back of ALEX'S head.

CHEV pulls the trigger twice.

CLICK. CLICK.

CHEV (CONT'D)

WHAT??

He tosses it away and stumbles to the back door of the restaurant as ALEX proceeds to beat KAYLO down with a trashcan, swinging it one handed.

CHEV picks up ALEX'S disconnected hand, which is still clutching the gun, and walks back over to the action. He uses ALEX'S finger to pull the trigger twice and blows him away. ALEX hits the ground with a THUD.

CHEV (CONT'D)

Jesus ... nothing's easy ...

He pries the gun from ALEX'S cold, dead fingers, shoves it in his pocket and tosses the hand to a disgusted KAYLO, who tries to get away from it ...

CHEV (CONT'D)

You want to hold hands?

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED: (2)

... and begins to rifle through ALEX'S pockets. He finds a cellphone, clicks through the menu and hits send.

It RINGS. RICKY VERONA answers.

VERONA (O.S.)
Talk to me, bro.

CHEV
(impersonating Alex)
Hey Ricky, whadya think about sucking me off, ya in the mood? Maybe let me lick your ass or sumtink?

CUT TO:

49 INT VERONA'S CRIB, SAME TIME

49

VERONA is feeding his Rottweiler some beef jerky. A HOTTIE in a bathrobe walks by.

VERONA
Who is this? Chelios? IS THIS FUCKING CHELIOS?

CHEV
That's right, bro. You wanna guess how I got your brother's cell phone?

VERONA is speechless, furious. He KNOCKS OVER A TABLE and pushes the Rot's head away.

CHEV (CONT'D)
I can tell you have it all figured out.
Looks like you should've cut me up when you had the chance.

VERONA rubs his face.

CUT TO:

50 EXT ALLEY, SAME TIME

50

CHEV
What's that? I can't hear you ... experiencing some 20/20 hindsight?

CUT TO:

49A INT VERONA'S CRIB, SAME TIME

49A

VERONA
 (losing it)
 You're supposed to be dead!!!

CHEV (O.S.)
 You know, man, I kind of like that shit you put in me. Think you can get me some more?

VERONA
 (struggling to find a heinous enough threat)
 I'll ... I'll ...

50A EXT ALLEY, SAME TIME

50A

CHEV
 I know, I know ... hey, what's this?

CHEV spots a necklace around ALEX'S neck, yanks it off. On the chain: a silver WWII era Russian medallion, engraved with the image of a mounted Cossack. The name on the back is I.
 VERONA.

CHEV looks it over.

CHEV (CONT'D)
 A necklace? You guys really are faggots aren't you?

CUT TO:

49B INT VERONA'S CRIB, SAME TIME

49B

VERONA
 You motherfucker, my grandfather gave that medallion to my father, and then to - (realizing he's said too much) ... fuck you, man, shove that thing up your ass.

CHEV (O.S.)
 No thanks, but you know I believe I'll hang onto it... looks like you'll have to come find me after all. Fucked up that you killed your own brother.

VERONA
 You -

CUT TO:

50B EXT - ALLEY, SAME TIME

50B

CHEV

Out.

CHEV hangs up, turns off the phone, and pockets it.
Immediately he's on to the next thought.

CHEV (CONT'D)

What was that... epi... shit... 10 milligrams...

He shakes his head to clear it.

KAYLO

What?

CHEV

Huh? Oh. I'm taking off.

We hear SIRENS.

CHEV (CONT'D)

I'd get out of here if I were you.

He splits, leaving KAYLO with the body, the hand, etc. KAYLO looks around, tosses the hand, and bolts off in the other direction.

FADE TO BLACK.

51 EXT LA COUNTY HOSPITAL, AFTERNOON

51

CHEV'S cab is parked illegally. A meter maid is writing it up.

52 INT LA COUNTY HOSPITAL, SAME TIME

52

The sliding doors to the ER swoosh open as a gurney is wheeled in by paramedics. CHEV walks quickly in behind them, a complete wreck, ignoring all the activity, seemingly lost in his own thoughts. He checks a sign on the wall for directions.

An arrow points toward the PHARMACY. He follows it.

53 INT HOSPITAL PHARMACY, MOMENTS LATER

53

CHEV cuts off an OLD MAN with a walker making his way to the counter. He runs his hand through his freaked out hair, trying to straighten it out. The PHARMACIST, a cynical girl, mid-20s, with thick horn rimmed glasses, regards him blankly.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

OLD MAN

Asshole.

CHEV

(to the pharmacist)

I'm looking for something ... starts with
'E' ...

PHARMACIST

England?

CHEV

That's funny. No, I'm talking about some kind of artificial adrenaline ... some shit ... you know ...

PHARMACIST

Artificial adrenaline.

CHEV

I have heart problems.

PHARMACIST

Epinephrine?

CHEV

Yes! Yes ... that's it ... you have it?

PHARMACIST

I can't give you epinephrine.

CHEV

Why?

PHARMACIST

Just a minute.

She walks into the back. Through the glass he sees her pick up a phone.

CHEV

Come on, what is that...

A pimply faced TEENAGER with greasy, shoulder length brown hair has been watching the whole thing from the magazine rack.

TEENAGER

Nasal spray, dude.

CHEV

What?

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED: (2)

TEENAGER

Nasal spray.

He gestures to a counter display: NAS-ALL, little plastic bottles.

TEENAGER (CONT'D)

It's got epinephrine in it. Get you tweaked, man.

CHEV looks from the kid to the display and back, then through the glass window, where the PHARMACIST is talking to someone on the telephone, looking out at him suspiciously.

He picks up a handful of the little spray bottles and gets out of there. The OLD MAN gives him a sour look; CHEV makes him FLINCH with a sudden jerk toward him.

54 INT LA COUNTY HOSPITAL, MOMENTS LATER

54

CHEV wanders through the trauma ward, trying to look inconspicuous, avoiding eye contact, knocking things over, trying doors, inhaling blast after blast of nasal spray, tossing the empty bottles, eyes watering.

He rounds a corner and freezes in his tracks: three COPS are at the admissions counter ... a NURSE is gesturing in CHEV'S direction. They look up toward him.

He ducks back into the corridor, finds a recovery room and slips in.

55 INT HOSPITAL ROOM, MOMENTS LATER

55

The room is quiet, save for the steady labored wheezing of an OLD MAN in the only bed. The OLD MAN'S eyes stare vacantly at the ceiling - CHEV can't tell if he's asleep or awake. He watches the OLD MAN for a stolen moment, hypnotized ...

... then glances over at the half open closet.

56 INT LA COUNTY HOSPITAL, MOMENTS LATER

56

The COPS come up on the corridor where CHEV disappeared. They advance, hands on weapons, checking each room.

They reach CHEV'S room. The door is slightly ajar. One of the cops pushes it open with his foot.

The OLD MAN is there, motionless. No sign of CHEV.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

The COPS continue down the hall. Behind them, from the door they checked, CHEV tiptoes out wearing a blue hospital johnnie, tied in the back with his ass hanging out, trying to blend in.

One of the COPS notices this.

COP

Hey!

CHEV takes off, walking faster, around the corner. The COPS head after him.

The COPS turn the corner. CHEV is still trying to play it off.

COP (CONT'D)

Hey. You.

Finally CHEV breaks into a run and the COPS give chase.

57 INT STAIRWELL, MOMENTS LATER

57

CHEV busts into the stairwell and starts heading down. He's been holding his gun awkwardly in his armpit; now he whips it out. A few flights above he hears the door bang open as the COPS pick up the chase.

He exits into the ...

58 INT EMERGENCY ROOM, MOMENTS LATER

58

The busy ER is buzzing with activity. CHEV looks around desperately. The COPS are right on his tail.

Suddenly the entrance doors BURST OPEN ... a patient is wheeled in at a dead run by a small group of emergency TECHS, all shouting instructions back and forth and barking at people to get out of the way as they race toward the far corridor. The FAT MAN on the gurney has his shirt open ... he's pale, glassy eyed and lathered in sweat ... they have the DEFIBRILLATOR PADDLES out ...

Behind the gurney a RESIDENT pushes a CRASH CART along with them ... the crash cart houses the DEFIBRILLATOR and various supplies ...

CHEV takes off after them, BOWLING PEOPLE OVER, flashing the gun.

CHEV

I know you motherfuckers have epinephrine!

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

The COPS bang open the stairwell door, guns drawn. Chaos breaks out.

COP
Hold it right there, bro!

The group is galloping down the long corridor toward the elevators that connect to the O.R. ... three DOCS, the RESIDENT, CHEV and the FAT MAN on the gurney ... the COPS in hot pursuit, trying to get a bead on CHEV.

CHEV is holding his gun to the RESIDENT'S head while pushing him and the cart forward. The RESIDENT blubbers in panic. The DOCS, in all the confusion, haven't noticed CHEV yet.

CHEV
You've got epinephrine on this cart! I want that shit!

TECH 1
He's dropping! Stand by to defibrillate!

The gurney slows down and the cart, shoved forward by CHEV, crashes into it. Bodies fly, shit spills everywhere. The FAT MAN lets out a groan, makes EYE CONTACT with CHEV.

FAT MAN
My cart...

CHEV
What?

FAT MAN
Asshole...!

CHEV
Yeah, yeah.

CHEV spins around wildly and FIRES A FEW SHOTS over the COPS heads. They hit the deck.

TECH 2
What is this? What the hell do you think you're doing? THIS IS A HOSPITAL!

CHEV shoves the gun in his face.

CHEV
SHUT UP!!!

The DOC shuts up.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED: (2)

CHEV brandishes the gun toward the COPS to keep them on the ground, then motions to the RESIDENT.

CHEV (CONT'D)

You. Get me some ... I need ...

CHEV is pale as a ghost ... his legs buckle ... he steadies himself against the wall.

RESIDENT

(haltingly)

You wanted ... epinephrine, is that right?

CHEV nods weakly. The RESIDENT, on his hands and knees, starts digging through the supplies spilled all over the floor. The COPS, sensing weakness, start to tense. CHEV snaps out of it momentarily.

CHEV

DON'T EVEN THINK ABOUT IT!

The RESIDENT approaches him cautiously, on his knees, holding out a handful of small white boxes.

CHEV (CONT'D)

Give me that.

He snatches them, cradling them against his stomach, and backs up past the DOCS toward the elevator just as the chime sounds and the doors slide open. He tosses the boxes inside. The FAT MAN lets out another agonized groan.

FAT MAN

... asshole...

CHEV points the gun at him.

CHEV

Not going to tell you again.

He grabs a DEFIBRILLATOR paddle out of TECH 2's trembling hands and holds it to his chest.

CHEV (CONT'D)

(to the RESIDENT)

Now juice me.

RESIDENT

You ... but ... I ...

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED: (3)

CHEV
(weakly, not much left)
I haven't got all day, just do it, will
you?

The RESIDENT flips a switch on the crash cart and the thing begins to charge ... CHEV holds the paddle to his chest with one hand, the gun out with the other ... finally ...

ZAPPP!!!! CHEV flies backwards, bouncing off the wall like a pinball. The COPS leap forward, trying to take advantage, but CHEV pops back up, wired and wild eyed.

CHEV (CONT'D)
GET DOWN, ASSHOLES!

He FIRES ANOTHER WARNING SHOT into the ceiling and leaps into the elevator as the doors close behind him.

59 INT ELEVATOR, GOING DOWN, MOMENTS LATER

59

CHEV collapses on the floor of the elevator. He fumbles with the white boxes the RESIDENT handed him and comes up with a SYRINGE.

CHEV
OK ... needles, hate needles ...

He rubs his arm, feeling for a nice vein, squirts a few drops from the tip of the needle and pops the thing right in ... pushes the plunger ALL THE WAY, plucks it out and tosses it in the corner.

CHEV sits patiently against the wall, staring blankly straight ahead. Suddenly a curious look comes over him.

CHEV (CONT'D)
How much of this stuff did he say to take?

We hear CHEV'S HEARTBEAT start to speed/volume up - FAST.
His eyes widen.

CHEV (CONT'D)
Woah. Woah. Woah.

Suddenly he jumps straight up in the air.

CHEV (CONT'D)
OH SHIT!

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

He starts to HOP AROUND WILDLY like a monkey in an electrified cage. The bell chimes and the elevator doors open.

60 INT HOSPITAL LOBBY, THE NEXT MOMENT 60

CHEV BLASTS OUT OF THE ELEVATOR and out the front doors of the hospital like a ball out of a cannon.

62 EXT CITY STREETS - MOMENTS LATER 62

CHEV is hoofing it like FORREST GUMP on SPEEDBALL. We hear sirens ... a group of squad cars flash by behind him, heading toward the hospital ... neither they nor CHEV see one another.

63 MONTAGE: EXT CITY STREETS - DAY 63

He runs what seems like eight miles.

64 EXT CITY STREETS- DAY LATER 64

We pick him up, real-time, still running.

SOUND: BEE-DEE-DEE-DEEE-DEE-DEEE-DEE-DEE-DUM.

He answers without slowing down.

64 INT. AIRPLANE - DAY 64

DOC MILES

Chevy!

CHEV

(ready to explode)

Yep.

DOC MILES

I'm in the air, man. Did you get the stuff I told you?

CHEV

Got it.

DOC MILES

You took it?

CHEV

Took it.

DOC MILES

You shot the whole thing, didn't you?

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

CHEV

Yep.

DOC MILES

Oh boy. I said a fifth of a syringe, you idiot. Now you're dead for sure.

CHEV

Right.

DOC MILES

Chest is on fire.

CHEV

Check.

DOC MILES

But you're cold.

CHEV

Check.

DOC MILES

You got a steel hard on.

CHEV

Let me check.

Looks down.

CHEV (CONT'D)

Check.

DOC MILES

(getting into it)

That's the stimulation of the blood vessels ... your urinary sphincter is tight as a knot ... couldn't pee to save your life ...

The LADY in the seat next to DOC is aghast.

CHEV

Urinary sphincter ... check ...

DOC MILES

Maybe you can get a hold of some vicadin ... you still at the hospital?

CHEV

Negative.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED: (2)

DOC MILES

Maybe some weed ... I don't know ...

CHEV

Check.

DOC MILES

Well, that shit should be out of your system in a half hour or so, if you live that long ... this air phone is costing me a fortune ... look, I'll be in LA in twenty minutes. I'll call you when I hit the ground.

CHEV

Copy.

DOC MILES

(sincere)

You're a good kid, Chev. Nice knowing you.

CHEV

Copy. Out.

CUT TO:

65 EXT STORE WINDOW, DAY

65

But DOC MILES is already a distant memory ... CHEV lets the phone drop from his ear without hanging up ...

... as he comes up on a department store window where a crowd has gathered to watch a wall of TV's, all playing the same thing ...

... he slows to a stop, joining the crowd ...

The face on the TV is his - more or less - an exaggerated black and white POLICE SKETCH, simian browed and thick lippered. He looks like a serial rapist.

ANCHOR (V.O.)

Police have declined to release the name of the West Hollywood man they say is still at large on a citywide rampage that has left one man dead, dozens injured and hundreds of thousands of dollars of property damage in its smoking, bloody wake.

SWITCH TO:

66 A HELICOPTER VIEW OF CHEV DRIVING HIS CAR INTO FOX HILLS MALL. 66

BACK TO:

65A EXT STORE WINDOW, SAME TIME 65A

ANCHOR (V.O.)

However, Eyewitness News has learned that the suspect is a professional killer with ties to organized crime and an extensive police record. He is considered armed and highly dangerous.

A GUY standing next to CHEV glances sidelong at him. CHEV turns to meet his eyes. The GUY regards him in a stupor, then looks down: CHEV's hospital johnnie is sticking straight out in front, ass hanging out the back, a gun in his left hand, cell phone in his right.

The GUY looks back up at CHEV'S poker face, gulps, and turns back to the wall of screens.

The broadcast cuts from tape back to the live ANCHOR.

ANCHOR (CONT'D)

We want to get you back to our regularly scheduled programming, but keep it tuned right here to ABC for continuing coverage of this bizarre story as it unfolds.

ANNOUNCER (V.O.)

(over network graphic)

We now return you to "Dr. Phil" ...

The TV cuts to a talk show in progress. Rather than disperse, the small crowd stays hypnotically glued to the tube. We see in their eyes that everyone is going into that TV alpha state thing ...

CHEV shakes his head, snaps out of it. His HEARTBEAT, barely audible during the broadcast, swells back to full volume, beating like a jackrabbit's.

He looks around and spots a COP on a motorcycle, waiting at a stoplight.

67 EXT. STREET IN FRONT OF TV STORE 67

With a last look at the TV drones he breaks from the crowd and goes into stealth mode, darting from car to car in an exaggerated ninja crouch, trying to sneak up on the COP.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

He comes up behind him, transfers his gun and cell phone to one hand, and - heart POUNDING - reaches stealthily for the COP'S holster with the other.

CAR HORNS BLARE as motorists attempt to warn the COP, who flinches and whips around at the noise - but it's too late: CHEV has the gun.

He begins to hop around maniacally, taunting the COP, as everyone panics and tries to reverse out of the traffic snarl, SLAMMING INTO FENDERS, driving up onto the sidewalk, etc.

CHEV (tossing the gun up and catching it)
You want it? You want this?

The COP jumps off the bike and tries to make a go at him, but jerks back when CHEV catches the gun. CHEV holds the gun up like a fetch stick, gluing the COP'S eyes, then flings it 40 feet through the air to splash into a plaza fountain.

The COP starts after it, then stops short as he sees CHEV dart past him and hop onto his still idling motorcycle. He kicks up the stand and REVS IT.

COP
You son of a bitch!

The COP makes a dive for CHEV, grabbing him by the waist as the bike jerks forward.

CHEV starts to burn the bike out as the COP hangs on, dragging. SMOKE ERUPTS; black bits of rubber spray like buckshot, pelting the COP. CHEV does a 360 DEGREE BURNOUT, kicking with his leg to keep the bike under control, then jerking, skidding, BLASTS OFF. The COP hangs on, cursing, dragging, boots smoking, for a half block before he bails out.

CUT TO:

68 EXT ROAD, MONTAGE, 30 SECONDS LATER

68

"EVERYBODY'S TALKING" by Harry Nilsson BEGINS.

CHEV cruises in an out of traffic and people like a Sunday drive, ignoring traffic lights, stop signs, pedestrians. (We speed ramp about 20% to the beat of the song - an undercrank of about 18fps.)

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

He's so jacked up and delusional he decides to try a BARE-ASSED "ELEVATOR" ON THE SIDEWALK.

From the rear pegs at about 30 mph he JUMPS UP TO THE GAS TANK, feet first, STANDS STRAIGHT UP ON THE MOVING BIKE and puts his hands out to his sides in a Jesus Christ pose, flashing a silhouette in the sun. His HEART POUNDS as he flies by crowds of astonished bystanders ...

... and CRASHES straight into a patio restaurant full of people.

CHEV flips through the air and lands in a cacophony of overturned tables and busted dishes. A table spins like a coin at his feet.

END: "EVERYBODY'S TALKING"

69 EXT RESTAURANT, MOMENTS LATER

69

Stunned silence hangs in the air; a few food-covered people wander around in dazed shock. CHEV'S arm, hand still clutching his cell phone, sticks out from under a table. The phone starts to ring:

BEE-DEE-DEE-DEEE-DEE-DEEE-DEE-DEE-DUM.

From under the table we see CHEV'S eyes blink as he comes to his senses.

He shakes off the debris, struggles to his feet and clicks to answer the phone.

CHEV

Yeah.

EVE (O.S.)

(sleepy)

Hey. Did you try to call?

CHEV lets his arm drop to his side, stares blankly at nothing, then brings it back up.

CUT TO:

70 INT EVE'S APARTMENT, SAME TIME

70

A room suffused in amber filtered sunlight. EVE, a non-traditionally adorable strawberry blond in her mid 20's, yawn-stretches with the phone cradled between ear and bare shoulder.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

CHEV (O.S.)
You've been home all day?

EVE
I was sleeping in.

CHEV (O.S.)
You were sleeping in, that's great, Eve
... super great ... you all rested now?

EVE
Yep.

CUT TO:

69A EXT RESTAURANT, SAME TIME

69A

CHEV
(holding it together)
Well, I'm glad to hear that. Listen, I've been fatally poisoned, there's probably a psychopath heading over there to torture and kill you as we speak, but don't bother getting out of bed, I'll be there in a flash ... Maybe you could fry me up a waffle or something, kay?

EVE (O.S.)
(oblivious)
Sure, come on over, I'll be here.

CHEV
Right, you'll be there, OK.

CHEV clicks off.

All the while he's been wrestling the wasted motorcycle from the wreckage. It's smoking, leaking oil.

He shakes his head at a dumfounded waiter, holding up the phone like - "Can you believe this?" ... then climbs on the SPUTTERING BIKE and drives off.

CUT TO:

71 INT. VERONA'S CRIB - DAY

71

CU: VERONA stares straight down at the CAMERA.

REVERSE: VERONA'S POV - ALEX'S severed hand, frozen stiff in a trigger-pulling position.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

VERONA looks up at his CREW, gathered nervously around the room; lunatic schizo-cycles through a half dozen emotions before arriving at something resembling off-hand, casual, I'll have the #2 Super Size with a Diet Coke.

VERONA

Right, so... let's go get the bitch.

CUT TO:

72 INT EVE'S APARTMENT, 4 MINUTES LATER

72

EVE'S pad is nothing like CHEV'S. It's all cats and incense, warm natural light, a scratchy Van Morrison LP playing on a real record player.

EVE, in a cotton nightgown, is in the kitchen, attempting some bit of microwave programming, punching random buttons and getting herself worked up.

EVE

(to the microwave)

I hate you ...

Five BANGS on the door barely distract her.

EVE (CONT'D)

Just a minute.

More BANGS, insistent.

EVE (CONT'D)

Alright, alright, Jesus ...

She gives up on the microwave, goes to answer the door.

EVE (CONT'D)

... calm down, what the hell ...

It's CHEV. He's dressed in a blue Adidas JOGGING SUIT - long sleeve jacket, warm up pants with buttons down the side, the works. He couldn't look more out of place in EVE'S mellow apartment. He's bathed in sweat, wild-eyed, hair slicked back like GORDON GEKKO.

EVE (CONT'D)

Oh. My. God.

CHEV

Hey doll.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

He pulls her toward him and kisses her. She accepts the kiss gratefully enough with her mouth, but holds both hands out to her sides as if touching the JOGGING SUIT would kill her.

Without making eye contact, he breaks away and pushes into the apartment, looking around everywhere, paranoid.

EVE

Is this your new look or something?

CHEV

That's right. You into it?

EVE

It's ... completely appalling. Very you, Chev.

CHEV

Thank you.

He checks into the bedroom, satisfies himself that it's empty.

EVE

Are you looking for my other boyfriend?

CHEV

(ignoring this)

You haven't turned on the TV today, right?

EVE

No. Why?

CHEV

Didn't think so. Listen, we've got to get out of here.

EVE

What are you talking about? Don't be such a freak.

CHEV goes to the window, peaks through the curtains.

EVE (CONT'D)

Actually, I'm glad you're here. Can you change the clock on the microwave?

CHEV

What?

EVE

I never changed it back.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED: (2)

CHEV
The microwave.

EVE
Yeah. I never changed it back. You know, daylight savings time.

CHEV
I bought you some flowers, but they got fucked up on the way over here.

EVE
That's sweet. Are you OK? You look like you're on drugs or something.

CHEV
You love me, right?

EVE
Yes.

CHEV
Then I need you to do something for me.

EVE
What is it? What's wrong?

CHEV
I need you to put some clothes on and come with me right now.

EVE
But ... I ...

CHEV
I'll change the clock on the microwave.

EVE
OK.

Confused, she pads off to the bedroom to change.

CHEV goes into the kitchen. He peeks out the kitchen window, looks around nervously, glances at the microwave, walks up and punches two buttons.

EXTREME CU: in ULTRA SLO-MOTION the digital readout on the clock switches from 11 to NOON with a sound like an 18-wheeler being dragged on it's side through a cathedral.

CHEV'S vision starts to blur. He slumps forward, head pressed against the microwave, trying to hold himself up.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED: (3)

We hear his HEART skip, hang for a long moment, then thud again, heavily.

CHEV
(to himself)
That shit's wearing off ...

EVE (O.S.)
(calling to him)
Oh darn! I forgot, the waffle iron's on if you want to make one.

CHEV
(calling back)
Great, great ...

He lurches over to the other side of the kitchen ... where an old fashioned-style waffle iron sits, plugged in and starting to smoke.

He takes a deep breath, opens the lid, PUTS HIS HAND IN AND PRESSES THE THING CLOSED.

SOUND: a stomach churning SEAR AND SIZZLE.

He screams under his breath, stomping on the kitchen floor in agony ... but his HEARTBEAT rockets up again. He pulls out his pink, smoking hand and jams it under his armpit, hopping up and down.

EVE (O.S.)
You're so stressed out, do you want some pot?

CHEV
(fighting to get the words out)
Yes. No! ... thanks ...

The waffle iron starts to SPARK from the plug. He yanks it out of the wall as EVE walks in wearing a sun dress and a ribbon in her hair.

EVE
What's the matter?

CHEV
(holding it in)
Nothing ... burned my hand ...

She comes up to him, tries to pry his hand out from under his arm.

EVE
Oh my God, are you OK? Let me see...

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED: (4)

CHEV

It's nothing... don't worry about it...
let's get out of here ...

EVE

Come on, let me see ...

CHEV

I SAID I'M OK, CAN WE JUST LEAVE??!!

EVE

(coldly)

That was just totally uncalled for.

CHEV

(exasperated)

I'm sorry ... look, can we just ...

EVE

Fine.

She turns, grabs her purse and walks out the front door in a huff.

CHEV is about to follow her when he notices something out the window - DOUBLE TAKES, then parts the blinds to get a better look.

73 A SEDAN has pulled up outside. TWO HOODS hop out and split 73 up, one coming up the front way, the other around back. Each one has a right hand tucked into his blazer - they're PACKING.

BACK TO:

CHEV

(under his breath)

Shit!

He flies out the door after EVE - the door swings shut behind him.

74 INT. HALLWAY, EVE'S BUILDING - DAY 74

CHEV comes up behind EVE, grabs her by the shoulders and turns her around.

CHEV

I'm parked out back.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

He glances over his shoulder. Through the glass SECURITY DOOR he sees HOOD #1 coming up the front steps.

EVE stops suddenly in front of her door - CHEV practically PILES into her.

EVE
Oh darn... the thing.

She starts to dig through her purse for her keys.

CHEV
The thing. What thing.

The HOOD tries the front door - LOCKED.

EVE
(unlocking the door)
The waffle thing. I forgot to turn it off.

She opens the door and walks in. CHEV tries to speak, coughs up some unintelligible stacato nonsense.

75 EXT. FRONT PORCH, EVE'S BUILDING - DAY 75

The HOOD runs his fingers down the directory list to:

E. LYDON - 101

... and then across to the KEYPAD, PEEL-AND-STICK labeled:

ENTER * + APT. # TO DIAL

76 INT. HALLWAY, EVE'S BUILDING - DAY 76

CHEV is SLACK-JAWED. Inside the apartment, the PHONE BEGINS TO RING.

EVE (O.S.)
Alright, alright...!

CHEV shakes his head in disbelief; steels himself - then turns and walks quickly down the hall to the front door.

77 INT. EVE'S APARTMENT, CONTINUOUS 77

Flustered, EVE picks up the phone.

EVE
Hello?

78 EXT. FRONT PORCH, EVE'S BUILDING - DAY

78

The door SLAMS OPEN. The HOOD whirls to see CHEV, grim as a motherfucker, SIX INCHES FROM HIS FACE. He scrambles for his gun -

TOO LATE. CHEV'S hand flashes forward, PALM connecting with the BRIDGE OF THE NOSE - dropping him instantly.

EVE (O.S.)
(through the intercom)
Hello? Hello? Alright, very funny...

The HOOD drops to his knees, eyes rolling back in his head, blood rushing from his nose. CHEV glances quickly around for witnesses - then backs into the hallway, letting the door swing shut behind him.

79 INT. HALLWAY, EVE'S BUILDING - DAY

79

EVE pops out.

EVE
I hate that...

CHEV is waiting by the door, blocking her view of the front entrance, smiling somewhat crazily.

CHEV
You trying to burn down the building?

She gives him a look, then turns and heads down the hall. CHEV hustles after her.

CHEV (CONT'D)
Whoa whoa whoa...

80 EXT. REAR EXIT, EVE'S BUILDING - DAY

80

The building opens out back into a small parking area. Trash bins line the brick wall, ready for pick up. CHEV and EVE are leaving when CHEV sees the other HOOD coming around the corner, LESS THAN TEN FEET AWAY.

CHEV grabs the back of EVE'S purse and turns it upside down, spilling the contents all over the concrete. She spins around, just missing sight of the HOOD.

CHEV
Aww, damn it, I'm sorry baby...

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

EVE
(irritated)
Nice one.

She drops down to gather up her things, as the HOOD comes fully around the corner and MEETS EYES with CHEV.

Without hesitation, CHEV hurdles EVE and catches the HOOD'S wrist as he pulls out his GUN.

EVE (CONT'D)
(oblivious)
I swear to God, Chev, I don't know what you're on these days but it is not working for you...

CHEV wrestles himself around the HOOD, keeping the gun at a distance with one hand, his other hand cupped over the HOOD'S mouth, head-locking him. Their legs interlock, jostling for leverage.

The GUN drifts down toward EVE - CHEV wrenches it up as THE TRIGGER SQUEEZES.

SILENCER. The shot whizzes over EVE'S head and through a nearby window: PLINK!

81 INT. SENIOR CITIZEN'S APARTMENT - CONTINUOUS 81

A PARAKEET in a cage by the window disappears in a puff of feathers.

82 EXT. REAR EXIT, EVE'S BUILDING - CONTINUOUS 82

From overhead, the CAMERA CORKSCREWS CLOCKWISE as CHEV wrenches the HOOD'S neck COUNTERCLOCKWISE, snapping it.

EVE
You know, I could use a little help here.

CHEV shoves the HOOD'S body into a dumpster just as EVE turns... CHEV snatches up the first thing he sees - a grime encrusted plastic SHOWER CAP - and holds it up lamely.

CHEV
Is this yours?

EVE rolls her eyes, looks around.

EVE
Where's your car?

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

CHEV

My car. Actually... I took a cab.

83 EXT. DOWN THE BLOCK - DAY

83

A POLICE MOTORCYCLE is tipped over on a lawn, coughing up black smoke, spewing oil. A crowd of Mexicans are gathered around, gaping.

Flames start to SHOOT UP from the motorcycle; THE CROWD SCATTERS, ducking for cover.

84 EXT L.A. CHINATOWN, 8 MINUTES LATER

84

MONTAGE: Chinatown is bustling with activity. Vendors haggle ... workers hustle down the sidewalk with baskets of chickens, sides of meat ... tourists wander ... motorists argue and punch their horns ... and the lunch hour crowd converges on a hundred eateries ...

We hear a million HEARTBEATS, old, young ... even fast ticking chicken heartbeats, all overlapping, blending together in a swelling din of live things.

The voyeuristic CAMERA picks CHEV and EVE up through the crowd. CHEV is wearing DARK GLASSES to go with his 80's hair and jogger.

EVE

You're embarrassing.

CHEV

You know, I didn't have a lot of time to pick this out ...

EVE

Hm. So why are we here?

85 INT NOODLE HOUSE, MOMENTS LATER

85

CHEV sits across from EVE in a tiny restaurant. An equally tiny VIETNAMESE WOMAN brings them menus.

CHEV pulls a little bottle of NAS-ALL out of his pocket and SNORTS the entire thing, grotesquely, at the table. It doesn't help much.

He shakes out his head, bangs his fist on the table and sits up in his chair.

CHEV

(holding his fingers up to indicate quotation marks)

(MORE)

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

CHEV(CONT'D)

"This isn't going to be easy" ... as they say ...

EVE flinches at the sight of his burned, waffle patterned palm. He notices, draws it back.

CHEV (CONT'D)

Alright, here it is. I told you I was a video game programmer. That was a lie.
Actually...

CUT TO:

INT THOUSAND CRANES, KITCHEN - NIGHT (FLASHBACK)

CHEV'S DIALOG continues over the FLASHBACK.

CHEV is retrieving a HIDDEN GUN from the kitchen, checking the CLIP, the BARREL, the ACTION, and slipping out a side door into a RED CORRIDOR past two CHINESE MEN in black suits.

CHEV (V.O.)

I kill people. I'm a professional hitman.
I freelance for a major West Coast crime syndicate.

CUT TO:

INT THOUSAND CRANES, PRIVATE ROOM - NIGHT (FLASHBACK)

DON KIM sits at the head of the table, drinking alone.

CHEV (V.O.)

Last night was a job like a hundred others. A high dollar hit. Nothing special.

CHEV walks up behind him, gun drawn to the back of KIM'S head... cocks the hammer back. DON KIM spins around in shock, the same reaction we saw in the SCENE 1 FLASHBACK - FROZEN, SAUCER-EYED.

CHEV'S eyes steel... his finger tightens...

CHEV (V.O.) (CONT'D)

And then out of nowhere this insane idea comes in through the back of my head like a .45 slug at close range...

Silence hangs heavy in the room... CHEV holds the gun to DON KIM'S head, paralyzed with indecision.

DON KIM

Well? What are you waiting for?

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

With a last GRIMACE like even he can't believe what he's doing, CHEV lets his GUN HAND DROP slowly to his side.

CHEV
Congratulations.

DON KIM
Did I win something?

CHEV
Your life, jackass.
(beat)
A hundred grand wants you dead, so sooner or later it's going to happen. But I'm not doing it.

DON KIM
I see.

CHEV
Instead, you're going to do something for me. You're going to get out of town. Disappear. I don't care where you go, I don't care what you do, so long as you're invisible for 48 hours. That's all I ask.

DON KIM
(incredulous)
48 hours.

CHEV
Or if you prefer, we can do it the other way, the way where I go to work and you go meet Buddah.

CUT TO:

INT NOODLE HOUSE, MOMENTS LATER

CHEV leans back in his chair and slams one of the legs down onto his foot. EVE flinches.

CHEV
See: I quit. I quit the business. For you.

EVE
For me?

CHEV
I figure I call you that night. I tell you everything. You understand.
(MORE)

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

CHEV(CONT'D)

We get on a plane together and leave all this shit behind. Never come back.

(shrugs)

Pretty crazy, huh?

EVE

You are so weird. Are we going on a trip?

CHEV stares at her blankly, then shakes his head to clear it.

CHEV

Yeah, well... I may be going on a trip, but you're not coming with me...

EVE

I don't understand.

CUT TO:

86 EXT CHINATOWN, OUTDOOR PLAZA, MOMENTS LATER

86

EVE storms out of the restaurant, letting the door slam behind her. CHEV follows, staggering like a drunk man.

He catches up to her and grabs her arm.

CHEV

Eve... baby... please!

She spins on him.

EVE

Mob hits, Chev? Chinese poison? Do you know how ridiculous you sound? If you're going to break up with me, at least you can tell me the truth.

CHEV

You think it sounds crazy? How do you think I feel - I've gotta live this
shit...

Just then the CAMERA SLAMS THROUGH CHEV'S TRANSPARENT CHEST - his HEART seems to GRIND DOWN and STALL, MID-PUMP, as the POISON'S PROGRESS moves another clock tick forward.

The CAMERA pulls violently out of CHEV'S chest cavity - he looks like someone just FIRED A CANNONBALL INTO HIS GUT... face white as a dinner plate... It's the worst we've seen him yet.

EVE

Oh my God, Chev... what's the matter with
you?

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

He looks around like a drowning man. People everywhere, but starting to disperse as lunch hour dwindles. The world starts to SPIN.

CHEV
I... just need...

CHEV falls to his knees, pulling her down with him.

EVE
Chev, you're scaring me.

CHEV
(getting a desperate idea)
Wait a minute. Do you trust me?

EVE
No.

CHEV
Make love to me.

EVE
What?

CHEV
Come on. I think it'll help.

EVE
Help what?

He starts grabbing at her. She pushes his hands away.

EVE (CONT'D)
Get off! Are you kidding me?

CHEV
Take your clothes off.

EVE
No!

CHEV
You always say you want to be more spontaneous.

EVE
You're insane. You're like some adrenaline junkie with no soul.

CHEV
Save me, Eve. Save my life.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED: (2)

CHEV starts feeling up EVE'S ass.

EVE

Stop it!

She SLUGS HIM IN THE MOUTH. His head snaps back; he comes up holding his lip.

EVE (CONT'D)

Oh my God, Chev!

She reaches instinctively to comfort him and he lunges forward, tearing at her dress.

They roll around on the ground, scratching and clawing at one another. A curious crowd gathers round. EVE starts to flip out, SCREAMING AND POUNDING on him with her fists like a crazy woman.

Next thing you know she's kissing and biting his mouth, breathless, still pounding with her fists.

EVE (CONT'D)

You filthy animal ...

She reaches down and starts fumbling with his pants. He helps. The onlookers' eyes widen, moms covering the kids' faces.

EVE (CONT'D)

Take me right here in front of everyone.

CHEV'S HEARTBEAT starts to pick up. He lifts her dress and positions himself on top of her. EVE is completely out of her head, eyes closed, legs up in the air like a porn star.

EVE (CONT'D)

That's it... do it ...

CHEV thrusts.

EVE (CONT'D)

Come on, put it in me...

He thrusts again. EVE's eyes pop open.

EVE (CONT'D)

What are you waiting for?

CHEV looks down at his equipment, then up at EVE, helplessly.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED: (3)

EVE (CONT'D)
(incredulously)
Tell me you're joking. Now you can't get it up?

CHEV
(determined)
I'll fucking get it up!

With a surge of energy he lifts her off the ground, drags her over to a newspaper machine on the street - the crowd parts to let them through - and bends her over it.

He tries again to enter her.

EVE
God damn it, Chev ...!

CHEV
Shut up!

He starts to SPANK her. She responds with a moan. A certain portion of the crowd spontaneously breaks into applause.
CHEV picks up the pace. EVE begins making primal cries.

A busload of JAPANESE GIRLS pulls up - tourists in matching red uniforms - gaping out the window with slack jawed amazement.

With the crowd cheering and traffic stopped, CHEV gets a shot of adrenaline and goes for broke. EVE shrieks like a banshee as he enters her.

CHEV (CONT'D)
I'M STILL ALIVE! I'M STILL ALIVE!!!

CHEV'S HEARTBEAT is slamming, he's really giving it to her, making full eye contact with the busload of tourists the entire time.

CHEV doubles his efforts, desperately fighting for the climax, when ...

BEE-DEE-DEE-DEEE-DEE-DEEE-DEE-DEE-DUM.

CHEV (CONT'D)
What was that?

EVE
Oh God... Oh God... yes...

BEE-DEE-DEE-DEEE-DEE-DEEE-DEE-DEE-DUM. CHEV'S CELLPHONE.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED: (4)

CHEV

Shit!

CHEV reaches for the phone.

EVE

What are you doing?!!

CHEV puts the phone up to his ear.

CHEV

Yeah.

SPLIT SCREEN WITH:

87 INT DON KIM'S SHIRT FACTORY, SAME TIME

87

CU of KAYLO'S face.

KAYLO

I've got Verona.

We see that KAYLO is duct taped to an office chair in what appears to be an old warehouse, knife to his neck, held by unseen captors. He's been badly beaten up.

86A EXT STREET, CHINATOWN, SAME TIME

86A

CHEV is still going through the motions with EVE, but his attention has shifted 100% to the voice on the phone.

CHEV

Kaylo?

KAYLO (V.O.)

I've got Verona, man.

CHEV yanks it out and pulls up his pants.

EVE

What???

CHEV

No shit. Where are you?

87A INT DON KIM'S SHIRT FACTORY, SAME TIME

87A

KAYLO sweats, looks off camera. A hand presses the knife closer to his throat.

KAYLO

Don Kim's shirt factory. Upstairs.

86B EXT STREET, CHINATOWN, SAME TIME

86B

CHEV finishes zipping up.

EVE
(furious, in disbelief)
What's the matter with you?!!

CHEV
(to EVE)
Shh.
(to KAYLO)
Downtown?

87B INT DON KIM'S SHIRT FACTORY, SAME TIME

87B

KAYLO
(gulping)
Yeah.

86C EXT STREET, CHINATOWN, SAME TIME

86C

CHEV'S demeanor changes to an icy slow burn. He holds EVE back with one arm as she tries to get at him, flipping out.

CHEV
Listen to me. You don't let that motherfucker out of your sight. I'll be there in ten minutes. You got that?

KAYLO
(close to breaking into tears)
OK, Chevy ...

CHEV
Out.

END SPLIT SCREEN.

CUT TO:

88 INT DON KIM'S SHIRT FACTORY, MOMENTS LATER

88

KAYLO looks up at his captors, miserably, as the phone clicks off. The CAMERA instantly flashes down to a low wide angle, looking straight up as a bag is thrown over KAYLO'S head and two unidentifiable men close in on him, lifting the chair off the ground ... then takes its time moving slowly down to reveal KAYLO'S feet, bicycling wildly, then twitching, finally just dangling ... both in fishnet and high heeled pumps. One pump falls to the concrete as KAYLO goes still ...

86D EXT STREET, CHINATOWN, SAME TIME

86D

CHEV turns his attention back to EVE.

CHEV
I have to go. Please understand.

EVE
No. Chev. I DO NOT UNDERSTAND.

CHEV spots a flash of blue - COPS making their way through the crowd.

CHEV
Shit!

He breaks away running, leaving EVE stranded half naked in the street, holding her torn dress up amidst a sea of gaping Chinese.

EVE
(screaming after him)
YOU'LL BURN IN HELL FOR THIS!!!

CHEV
(shouting back, voice trailing off)
I'll call you!

89 INT CHINATOWN CAB, 5 MINUTES LATER

89

CHEV sits in the back, fading.

LUB ... DUB ... LUBBBB ...

HAITIAN CABBIE, 30's, in a sleeveless black mesh T-shirt.

HAITIAN CABBIE
(heavy accent)
Hey.

He adjusts the mirror to get a look at CHEV. CHEV looks like hell - cold sweat, woozy, glass-eyed.

HAITIAN CABBIE (CONT'D)
Hey man. What's the matter with you? You a crackhead?

CHEV
Right... just step on it, alright?

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

HAITIAN CABBIE

Hey, you not gonna die in my cab, crackhead.

The HAITIAN CABBIE opens up his glove compartment and takes something out. CHEV'S eyes widen. A gun?

HAITIAN CABBIE (CONT'D)

I got something for you.

As the CABBIE turns around CHEV experiences a FLASH
HALLUCINATION:

The CABBIE'S face is painted like a PSYCHEDELIC VODOO SKULL in GLOWING BLACK LIGHT PAINT. He is grinning crazily.

CHEV flinches in horror, but just like that the CABBIE is back to normal. He hands CHEV a vial of liquid.

HAITIAN CABBIE (CONT'D)

You drink this Haitian shit, crackhead.
This right here is some hardcore shit.
Made from plant shit.

CHEV

(laughing)

Nice.

HAITIAN CABBIE

(irritated)

What are you laughing at? Look at this!

He flexes a HUGE BICEP.

HAITIAN CABBIE (CONT'D)

You see that? That's what a man looks like, crackhead. That's the power. Now look at you.

CHEV narrows his eyes at the CABBIE, then shakes his head.

CHEV

What the hell.

He twists open the little vial and downs it in one gulp.

CHEV (CONT'D)

(grimacing)

Tastes like ass.

HAITIAN CABBIE

That's right, devil. You wait.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED: (2)

CHEV rolls his eyes and leans against the door, face pressed against the window glass.

Traffic flashes by at high speed then cuts to slo mo: The CAMERA ramps down to 120 f.p.s as a car rolls by CHEV'S taxi. A LITTLE BOY who could be younger version of CHEV himself rides in the back seat. They make eye contact as the cars cross paths.

CHEV finds himself drifting into a dream state.

FLASH CUT TO:

92 INT CAB, TIME UNKNOWN 92

CHEV'S eyes are glazed, staring through the window.

He notices something strange in the CAB'S rear view mirror - something RED.

CHEV'S eyes WIDEN.

CUT TO:

93 EXT CAB, TIME UNKNOWN 93

WIDE SHOT: the CAB cruises by ... a low sound builds to a DEAFENING ROAR ... following the CAB, a giant RED PACMAN GHOST rumbles down the street, animated, two dimensional ...

CUT TO:

94 INT CAB, DAY 94

CHEV jerks awake, and back to his senses.

HAITIAN CABBIE

We're here.

LUBDUB ... LUBDUB ... LUBDUB ... LUBDUB ... steady.

CHEV focuses his eyes on the empty vial.

CHEV

What'd you say was in this stuff?

HAITIAN CABBIE

I told you: it's hardcore.

They pull up to the sidewalk in front of a run down, 40's era warehouse building at the outskirts of the LA Garment District. CHEV gets out.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

CHEV
(still shaking it off)
Wow.

HAITIAN CABBIE
Five fifty five.

CHEV digs through EVE'S purse, which he'd been holding in his lap the whole time, pulls out a fifty and hands it to the CABBIE. The CABBIE digs for change.

CHEV
It's all you, man. Keep it.

HAITIAN CABBIE
Have a nice day, devil.

CHEV puts the purse over his shoulder, turns to take a look at the building.

CHEV
Right...

CUT TO:

95 INT DON KIM'S SHIRT FACTORY, UPSTAIRS, SAME TIME 95
HIGH ANGLE: From an upper floor window someone is watching CHEV survey the building as the cab pulls away.

CUT TO:

96 EXT DON KIM'S SHIRT FACTORY, SAME TIME 96
CHEV walks toward the front door, then stops short.

CHEV
(to himself)
Wait a minute, wait a minute ...

He glances toward the upper windows.

CHEV (CONT'D)
(suddenly suspicious)
This is fucked.

He changes direction, heads around the side of the building.

CUT TO:

97 INT DON KIM'S SHIRT FACTORY, UPSTAIRS, SAME TIME 97
CHEV disappears.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

HOOD #1 (O.S.)
Where's he going?

CUT TO:

98 EXT DON KIM'S SHIRT FACTORY, SAME TIME 98

CHEV comes up on a loading platform. Korean workers are loading boxes out of the building into the backs of trucks in the sweltering heat.

He walks by them into the building without making eye contact with anyone. They barely notice.

99 INT DON KIM'S SHIRT FACTORY, PACKING ROOM, SAME TIME 99

He skirts the packing floor and heads to a dilapidated freight elevator, gets on, starts up.

100 INT FREIGHT ELEVATOR, SAME TIME 100

The front and ceiling of the ELEVATOR are open, exposing the shaft, the cables and the passing floors; he reaches the 4TH FLOOR, heading up ... hundreds of Koreans sitting at sewing machines, all running at once, a mind numbing din ... windows painted over black, chipped and cracked in places with shards of light slicing through ... slow turning ceiling fans and long rows of fluorescent light beating down on the tables ...

CHEV hops off and lets the elevator keep going.

101 INT DON KIM'S SHIRT FACTORY, 4TH FLOOR, SECONDS LATER 101

THE CAMERA follows CHEV through the room, along the humming rows of sewing machines. He crosses from one side of the room to another, where a single open window leading out to the fire escape streams sunlight. A SUPERVISOR, Korean, skinny, mid-thirties, stringy mustache, is dozed off in a chair by the window.

CHEV walks right by, out the window and onto the fire escape. The CAMERA stays with him.

102 EXT FIRE ESCAPE, CONTINUOUS 102

CHEV beats his head into the brick wall, climbs up the fire escape, skips the next floor up, gets onto the roof.

103 EXT ROOF, SECONDS LATER

103

CHEV ducks behind a big ventilation duct. HOOD #2, mid 40's, stocky, is leaning over the edge of the building on the opposite side, looking for something - presumably CHEV - holding a cell phone up to his ear. His folded jacket and gun sit on the ledge beside him.

We recognize the HOOD from CARLITO'S place; he was one of the men loitering around the pool.

CHEV sneaks up.

HOOD #2

How the hell should I know? He went in where they load the boxes. Alright, alright ...

He clicks off - and CHEV is on him, snatching up the HOOD'S gun, spinning him around and poking it into the soft flesh under his chin.

CHEV

(sarcastically)

Hey, what a coincidence, you like this spot too?

HOOD #2

Chevy! Shit!

CHEV

What the fuck is this, you working for the Chinese now?

HOOD #2

The Chinese... are you crazy?

CHEV

Yeah I am. Where's Kaylo?

HOOD #2

Chevy ... I'm sorry, man ... I didn't ...

CHEV

(losing his patience)

OK, ding, time's up ...

In one quick motion he grabs ahold of one of the HOOD'S legs, hoists him up over the ledge and TIPS HIM OFF THE SIDE OF THE BUILDING, then turns and heads for the roof access door ...

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

HOOD #2 (O.S.)
(falling)
You son of a ... !

... long seconds later, a THUD.

104 INT DON KIM'S SHIRT FACTORY, 5TH FLOOR, MOMENTS LATER 104

The 5TH FLOOR is a little used storage level - stacked boxes, dusty file cabinets, garbage everywhere ... starkly lit with harsh overhead fixtures as old as the building itself. We recognize this as the room KAYLO called from ... more so because his LIMP BODY is still duct taped to the rolling office chair, now lying on its side in the middle of the room.

A half dozen more HOODS are gathered in front of the freight elevator when CHEV appears behind them, taking everyone by surprise.

He's standing over KAYLO'S body, gun drawn, EVE'S beaded purse still slung over his shoulder, PISSING FIRE.

CHEV
Alright, where is that motherfucker?

The HOODS are completely taken by surprise; they back away from CHEV, spreading out.

HOOD #3
Uh ... hey, Chev.

The HOODS act almost guilty ... it's obvious everyone knows each other.

CHEV
What the fuck is this?

HOOD #1
Chevy, baby, take it easy.

CHEV points the gun at HOOD #1's head; the others raise their guns at him.

CHEV
Like this? WHERE'S VERONA?

HOOD #1
Verona got nothing to do with this.

CHEV
What?

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

HOOD #1

Don Carlos wants you off the street.

CHEV

(stunned)

Carlito?

HOOD #1

You've totally lost your shit, dude ... you're all over the TV ... destroying property, making unauthorized hits ... you're causing the organization a great deal of embarrassment.

CHEV gestures toward KAYLO in disbelief.

CHEV

Carlito ordered this?

HOOD #1

(ignoring it)

Look, forget about Verona. We'll take care of him. The best thing for you to do is to find a nice, dark, quiet place and just ... die.

CHEV

Just die.

HOOD #1

Yeah. Just ... die.

CHEV'S HEARTBEAT starts to slow. The wooden elevator starts down. He looks around, making eye contact with the other HOODS ...

CHEV

Maybe you're right.

... then down to KAYLO'S crumpled body. He sees the stocking feet, the pumps ... his HEART starts to jitter - THUDUB ...
LUB ... THUDUB ... his vision doubles ... he starts to swoon
...

HOOD #1

(rationalizing)

I mean we all gotta die sometime, right?

HOOD #1 snickers. The others share a tense laugh.

CHEV

That's true ... we all gotta die ...

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED: (2)

CHEV stumbles, props himself up with one hand.

CHEV (CONT'D)

Right ... so ... let's all die ...

HOOD #1

Eh?

CHEV brings up his gun in the blink of an eye, draws a bead on HOOD #1 and is about to set off a SHOOTING GALLERY, when the ELEVATOR BELL CHIMES and the door SLIDES OPEN.

EVE WALKS IN... looks around, and FREEZES.

They all turn to look.

HOOD #1 (CONT'D)

What the...?

CHEV affords himself about a second and a half of BUG-EYED SHOCK before snapping out of it and DROPPING HOOD #1 INSTANTLY WITH A SHOT TO THE HEAD.

CHAOS BREAKS OUT as the others dive for cover and start blasting. CHEV yanks KAYLO'S chair up and shoves it toward the HOODS - then makes a break for the elevator shaft, grabbing EVE as he goes.

KAYLO'S body screens CHEV and EVE as they run, taking hits, finally toppling over again. CHEV takes out another HOOD on the run, nailing him right between the eyes.

CHEV turns his back on the hoods, covering EVE, as they make a dive into the open elevator shaft and takes a BULLET IN THE ASS.

CHEV

OW!

He spins and empties his clip at the HOODS, who hit the deck.

EVE holds his ass as CHEV looks down the open elevator shaft. The elevator is half a floor down, moving slow. He grabs EVE, then the cable... they jump for it.

105 INT DON KIM'S SHIRT FACTORY, 4TH FLOOR, SECONDS LATER

105

CHEV and EVE hit the floor of the moving elevator with a CRASH and roll out onto the 4th floor. The workers are all in a panic, standing by their sewing machines - they've obviously heard the shots. The SUPERVISOR is walking around, shoving them back into their seats, screaming at everyone in Korean to keep working.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

The SUPERVISOR, all of five feet, walks right up to CHEV and EVE, and starts screaming at them in broken English.

SUPERVISOR

You! Assholes! What you want!

EVE completely FLIPS OUT and starts SHOUTING DOWN the little man.

EVE

DON'T TALK TO ME LIKE THAT!! MY BOYFRIEND KILLS PEOPLE!!!

CHEV

Nice.

The door on the far end of the room BUSTS OPEN and HOODS pour in from the stairwell. They spot him.

CHEV and EVE duck low and start hoofing it down the rows of machines toward the windows. The HOODS fan out. They play cat and mouse in the maze of sewing machines and Koreans while the SUPERVISOR, oblivious, continues screaming and forcing the workers back into their chairs.

CHEV puts a finger to EVE'S lips, calming her momentarily...

... then comes up behind a youngish HOOD and shoves the HOOD'S gun hand under a vicious looking sewing machine at least fifty years old, operated by a Korean woman even older. THE RUSTY THING PUNCTURES HIS HAND OVER AND OVER AS HE SCREAMS, JUMPING UP AND DOWN, UNABLE TO GET FREE.

CHEV grabs the gun. They make for the fire escape.

106 EXT FIRE ESCAPE, SECONDS LATER

106

They reach the bottom of the ladder and are PINNED DOWN by gunfire from above.

CHEV gives her a LOOK that says it all.

EVE

I had to see if you were telling the truth... oh, and you have my purse.

CHEV notices the purse still over his shoulder, takes it off and hands it to her. With a quick upward glance he breaks cover and squeezes off 4 SHOTS, nailing two HOODS on the fire escape.

CHEV

Come on! Wait -

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

She freezes - one of the DEAD HOODS lands with a THUD in the spot she would've been -

CHEV (CONT'D)
... OK, now come on.

EVE is pale as a sheet. She steps over the body like she was avoiding a particularly large pile of cow shit... CHEV grabs her hand and yanks her along.

He spots EVE'S CAR parked BACKWARDS across the street and they make a desperate RUN FOR IT as more shots WHIZ AND RICOCHET off the pavement.

EVE is rifling through her purse as they run. Naturally CHEV assumes she's looking for the CAR KEYS.

EVE
Darn it, I forgot to take my birth control pill.

CHEV answers the gunfire with shots of his own, buying them a few seconds, then grabs the purse and shakes the contents out onto the ground.

No keys.

CHEV
Where's the keys?

EVE holds out her hand, where she's had them all along.

CHEV (CONT'D)
(taking them)
Cool.

EVE
My stuff...

She looks like she's about to wander around, gathering up her things, when another volley of shots BLOWS OUT THE PASSENGER WINDOW of the car.

CHEV picks EVE up like a sack of grain and THROWS HER, HEAD FIRST, THROUGH THE PASSENGER WINDOW, INTO THE CAR, then runs around the other side, hops in and PEELS OUT.

INT. EVE'S CAR - DAY

EVE gets herself turned upright and stares at CHEV, hair full of windshield glass.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

EVE
You weren't lying.

CHEV
Welcome to my life.

EVE
(head over heels IN LOVE)
No, I mean: that you were going to give it all up for me.

CHEV
Oh. Yeah.

EVE
And the other part?

CHEV
The poison? Yeah, that's true too.

He SLAMS his fist against the wheel.

EVE
(cracking)
Then... that means...

CHEV
Pretty much.

EVE
How can we stop it?

CHEV
Adrenaline. It's the only thing that slows it down.

EVE
(getting it)
So... when we were in Chinatown...?

CHEV
Yeah. Sorry.

A LOOK OF DETERMINATION comes over her. She reaches for his crotch.

CHEV (CONT'D)
What are you doing?

EVE
This will get you going.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED: (2)

CHEV

WHAT?

EVE

Come on, let's finish what you started.

CHEV'S eyes flash to the rearview mirror and GO WIDE. He grabs the back of EVE'S head and PUSHES IT DOWN INTO HIS LAP - just as a BULLET SLICES THROUGH THE REAR WINDSHIELD and out the front.

EVE'S head STAYS DOWN.

CHEV

Oh boy...

CHEV is straining against the seat, EVASIVE DRIVING as she GOES DOWN on him.

CHEV (CONT'D)

Oh yeah, that's... that's really working for me...

EVE'S head pops up.

EVE

(working him up)

You like that?

Shots whiz by.

CHEV

Stay down.

He pushes her head back down.

CHEV'S heart is POUNDING like a jackhammer. He's got himself arched into a crazy position, making it happen.

CHEV (CONT'D)

That's it that's it that's it... just a little...

EVE'S head quickly pops back up. She PUSHES AWAY.

CHEV (CONT'D)

(flustered)

What's the matter?

EVE

(satisfied)

So you can fall asleep like you always do? I don't think so.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED: (3)

CHEV loses his mind.

He SLAMS THE BRAKES to put the car into a SLIDE, exposing his driver side to the pursuing sedan - punches his gun hand out the window and BLASTS AWAY.

He NAILS THE DRIVER BETWEEN THE EYES... the window DISINTEGRATES... The SEDAN full of HOODS skids into the sidewalk. Steam pours from the radiator.

EXT. CITY STREET - DAY

CHEV gets out and walks DIRECTLY UP TO THE SEDAN, one hand holding his gun straight out in front of him, the other PULLING UP HIS JOGGING PANTS, which are bunched up around his knees.

CHEV unloads the entire clip into the SEDAN before any of the HOODS can react.

He walks back to EVE'S CAR, cool as a cucumber, gets in and pulls away.

INT. EVE'S CAR - DAY

EVE'S face has turned a distinct shade of PALE GREEN.

EVE
Are they... OK?

CHEV looks at her like she's nuts.

CHEV
They're dead.

EVE is overwhelmed.

EVE
How can you... how can you do that...?

CHEV barely hears her - he's become DISTRACTED, flexing his left hand and feeling around his legs.

CHEV
I told you, baby... I quit.

He spots something, hits the brakes.

CHEV (CONT'D)
Wait here.

He jumps out.

122 EXT. SIDEWALK - DAY

122

CHEV almost COLLAPSES when his feet hit the ground. It seems like the left half of his body has simply stopped working.

CHEV

Jesus Christ! Now what...?

He unsnaps the buttons of the warm-up pants to reveal that his left leg has TURNED GREY.

He's HALF DEAD.

EVE

What's the matter?

CHEV

(pointing at her)

Stay.

They've pulled up across the street from a HARDWARE STORE. CHEV drags his carcass across the street, oblivious to the traffic swerving and braking to avoid him, and stumbles in.

EVE stays in the car for a few seconds, looking lost, then pulls herself together and gets out.

She follows CHEV'S path, crossing the street through traffic.

STORE EMPLOYEES and CUSTOMERS start bailing out of the store in a PANIC as she approaches the front doors. She walks through them and INSIDE.

123 INT HARDWARE STORE, SECONDS LATER

123

EVE dream-walks through the store, past the registers, following CHEV'S trail of BLOOD-SMEARED FOOTPRINTS.

A pimple-faced STOCK CLERK blows by her, not looking back.

STOCK CLERK

He's got a gun!

She turns the corner and there's CHEV - he's propped up in the middle of an aisle in front of a bin of NAILS, HAMMER in one hand...

He's already hammered SIX FRAMING NAILS INTO HIS LEG and is busy POUNDING IN NUMBER SEVEN.

He looks up at her, eyes wild.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

CHEV
I can't feel my leg.

EVE is speechless.

SOUND: BEE-DEE-DEE-DEEE-DEE-DEEE-DEE-DEE-DUM.

At first CHEV doesn't understand where the SOUND is coming from ... he looks around as if a RED GHOST might glide around a random corner any second ... then realizes his CELL is in his pocket. He answers it.

CHEV (CONT'D)
Hello?

DOC MILES
Chevy! Holy shit, man, I've been trying to reach you for a half hour.

CHEV
Where are you?

CUT TO:

124 INT CHOCOLATE'S APARTMENT, SIMULTANEOUS 124

DOC is calling from the broken down apartment we saw earlier. CHOCOLATE is kicking back on a worn, brown imitation leather sofa in the background, watching TV.

DOC MILES
I'm at my office. Can you get here?

CUT TO:

125 INT HARDWARE STORE, SIMULTANEOUS 125

SIRENS approach outside. CHEV meets EVE'S eyes, shakes his head: unbelievable.

CHEV
Sure, why not?

FADE TO BLACK.

126 INT CHOCOLATE'S APARTMENT, 9 MINUTES LATER 126

An IV bag bubbles, a portable HEART MONITOR beeps. The CAMERA follows the drip down to CHEV'S arm. He's lying on the brown sofa, wheezing thickly. Some kind of Court TV show plays on the tube in the background.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

DOC MILES crouches beside CHEV, examines the heart monitor, shakes his head.

CHEV
I owe you again, Doc.

DOC MILES
You're my best customer.

CHEV (gesturing with his head at the IV)
What is this stuff?

DOC MILES
Synthetic ephedrine, diluted with saline.

CHEV
It feels sort of good.

DOC MILES
Oh, I also gave you a little meth.
That's the endorphins rushing into to your brain that you're feeling.

CHEV
So I'm not... better?

DOC MILES
Fuck no. You're in such shit shape it's stunning. I've never seen a heart take this kind of punishment and keep ticking.
You should be in a fucking medical journal or something.

CHEV
So... what are you going to do?

DOC just shrugs.

DOC MILES
The solution I'm giving you is acting as a competitive inhibitor... meaning it pushes the poison out of your receptors and replaces it with a chemical... it's a temporary fix...

CHEV
Then what?

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED: (2)

DOC MILES

Look, if we put you on life support we could maybe string you out for a few days, but at some point you'd almost certainly lapse into a coma... and then...

And now it hits CHEV for the first time: this is really it. He seems like he might break down.

CHEV

(cocking his head toward the next room)

Does she know?

CUT TO:

INT. BEDROOM, CHOCOLATE'S APARTMENT - DAY

EVE and CHOCOLATE are sitting cross-legged on the mattress, staring blankly at the TV.

EVE

(no inflection)

I hate television.

CHOCOLATE looks sideways at her: the white girl is CRAZY.

INT. CHOCOLATE'S APARTMENT - DAY

DOC shakes his head NO.

CHEV broods silently.

DOC MILES

If you want, I can load you up with something, you'll go out in a beautiful dream.

CHEV

A dream.

FLASH CUT: A RED GHOST, pulsing.

DOC MILES

(gently)

Can I do that for you, Chev?

CHEV

No... no, that's not what I want.

DOC MILES

Then ... what?

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

CHEV'S moment of weakness passes. His face goes grim with vengeance as the mean bastard inside him kicks in. He looks DOC MILES in the eye.

CHEV

One hour.

DOC MILES regards him blankly.

CHEV (CONT'D)

I want one hour.

CUT TO:

127 INT HUMVEE LIMOUSINE, DAY

127

RICKY VERONA and his CREW are in the back, watching a noisy satellite feed on dual plasma TV screens. A JAPANESE GIRL in a red blazer, one of the TOURISTS from the bus, is being interviewed in Japanese amidst a crowd of her semi-identical friends. A TRANSLATION is overdubbed.

JAPANESE GIRL

<He was really giving it to her, right there on the vending machine.>

The GIRLS giggle.

JAPANESE GIRL (CONT'D)

<He was very cute ...>

VERONA rolls his eyes.

VERONA

Give me a fucking break...

The BROADCAST cuts to a MONTAGE: The trashed restaurant, the burning Police motorcycle, the car crashed into the mall escalator, POLICE sifting through wreckage, finally the sketch of CHEV'S face.

127

ANNOUNCER (V.O.)

127

And so the wild rampage that began at 9 AM this morning in West Los Angeles continues, with the mysterious suspect still at large.

HOOD

Maybe we shoulda give him more of that Chinese shit.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

VERONA
(sarcastic)
Oh ... you think? Jesus ...

His cell phone rings. He checks it.

VERONA (CONT'D)
(shaking his head in disbelief)
It's him. Alright, shut up.

He answers.

VERONA (CONT'D)
What's up, corpse.

CHEV
Hey douchebag, thought you might be interested in a little deal.

VERONA
A deal? You're mental, dude.

CHEV
I want the antidote.

VERONA
Oh, the antidote, huh?

VERONA makes eye contact with his CREW, covering the mouthpiece of the phone; they all try to keep from breaking up.

CHEV
That's right.

VERONA
And what are you prepared to give me.
Asshole.

CHEV
How about the jewelry I got off your faggot brother, you cocksucker?

This stings VERONA. He pulls the phone away from his face, looks at it like he wants to smash it into bits, then pulls himself together and puts it back to his ear.

VERONA
(holding back, tight lipped)
Hmmm.

CHEV
Thinking about it?

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED: (2)

VERONA pantomimes jacking off for the boys.

VERONA
Alright.

CHEV
You like that deal?

VERONA
Whatever.

CHEV
I'll be at Downtown Standard in twenty minutes. You know the spot?

VERONA
Of course.

CHEV
Don't be late, or I'll trade this thing to some whore for a hand job ...

VERONA
(cutting him off)
I'll be there.

He clicks off, then sits there, seething.

VERONA (CONT'D)
(to the BOYZ)
What the hell are you looking at?

They turn back toward the plasma screens. VERONA takes a deep breath, then speed dials a number on the cell phone.

VERONA (CONT'D)
Verona. You're not going to believe the call I just got.

CUT TO:

129 EXT LOS ANGELES, DAY

129

MONTAGE TO MUSIC: more of L.A. at 3 f.p.s. - the traffic flowing, trains zapping by, commuters commuting, everything at a thousand miles an hour.

CHEV (O.C.)
It's going to be alright, baby.

THEN:

130 EXT LOS ANGELES, DAY

130

From a distance, in a locked off TELEPHOTO frame, we see CHEV walking toward the CAMERA in slow motion, 100 f.p.s.

Dialog from an UNSEEN CONVERSATION is layered over the image.

EVE (O.C.)

But... you said...

CHEV (O.C.)

I know. But things have changed. There's an antidote. I can make a deal for it, but I've got to go alone.

He's well dressed in a sportcoat, slacks, button down shirt and tie, flapping in the wind ... sunglasses, and look of brutal determination on his face ...

EVE (O.C.)

I'm scared.

CHEV (O.C.)

Of course. But you'll be safe now. And I'll be back.

In a series of dissolves he comes straight at the CAMERA til his face fills the frame ...

END MUSIC.

CUT TO:

EXT. CHOCOLATE'S APARTMENT - EARLIER

EVE looks up into CHEV'S eyes, absolutely vulnerable, absolutely STUNNING. Pale sunlight punches through the half rolled blinds.

EVE

Do you promise?

CHEV meets her gaze.

CHEV

I promise.

CUT TO:

131 EXT STANDARD HOTEL, DOWNTOWN LOS ANGELES - DAY

131

CHEV bangs through the revolving glass doors to the hotel.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

The CAMERA shifts to a ROUGH HANDHELD POV, similar to the shot that starts the film. The MUSIC is replaced by the SOUND of CHEV'S labored BREATHING and HEARTBEAT. The POV doubles, goes in and out of focus.

In one continuous shot he approaches the STANDARD HOTEL and walks past the valets into the RETRO-MOD LOBBY.

132 INT LOBBY, STANDARD HOTEL - CONTINUOUS 132

The shot continues as CHEV moves through the LOBBY and makes a beeline for the RESTROOM. Scattered around are hard looking DUDES pretending to read newspapers ... he passes them by, avoiding eye contact.

133 INT BATHROOM, STANDARD HOTEL - CONTINUOUS 133

The bathroom is empty. He walks into a stall, shuts the door and opens his coat - we see a PAGER-SIZED device clipped to his belt - a green LED is illuminated.

REVERSE: CHEV adjusts a tiny knob on the device. His face is shiny with perspiration.

He pulls out his shirt tails ... we see that a small tube runs from the device to a needle inserted in the base of spine, taped up with white adhesive.

CHEV tucks the shirt back carefully, takes a series of deep breaths and leaves the stall.

134 INT LOBBY, STANDARD HOTEL - CONTINUOUS 134

He bangs open the door to the restroom and pushes past three of the DUDES, who were about to go in. They let him pass, trying to avoid attention.

CHEV makes his way to the ELEVATORS, hits the UP button. The doors open, he gets on. The DUDES watch from the LOBBY.

135 INT ELEVATOR, STANDARD HOTEL - CONTINUOUS 135

A JAPANESE BUSINESSMAN - early 50s, compact and under five feet, immaculately groomed - hustles on as the doors slide shut. He stands opposite CHEV against the wall and stares at him, expressionless.

CHEV
What's happening, brother?

Silence.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

CHEV takes a small bottle of PILLS from his coat pocket and swallows them dry.

He closes his eyes and leans against the wall to steady himself as the effect of the pills washes over him.

An UNEXPECTED VOICE breaks the silence.

KAREN CHELIOS

Where did I go wrong?

CHEV'S eyes SNAP OPEN. The JAPANESE BUSINESSMAN stares back, impassively.

CHEV

(weirded out)

Did you say something?

Now the JAPANESE BUSINESSMAN answers - but when he moves his lips, it's the voice of A WOMAN IN HER 40s.

KAREN CHELIOS

Like talking to the wall...

CHEV

Mom?

KAREN CHELIOS

I'm amazed you remember you have a mother.

CHEV shakes his head in disbelief, tries to clear his eyes, but the HALLUCINATION persists.

KAREN CHELIOS (CONT'D)

You never call, you never write... I haven't seen you since you ran out at 16...

CHEV

(falling right into it)

Right, with you popping Valium like Tic Tacs and balling some new asshole every two weeks... why wouldn't I stick around for entertainment like that?

KAREN CHELIOS

That's hurtful.

CHEV is an instant ball of regret.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED: (2)

CHEV
(exasperated)
Mom, I got no time for this...

The JAPANESE BUSINESSMAN cuts him off - this time the voice is ORLANDO'S.

ORLANDO
You got no time, period.

CHEV
Orlando?

ORLANDO
You a persistent motherfucker, Chev
Chelios, I'll give you that.

CHEV
(reacting)
This is weird.

ORLANDO
But you know this has got to stop sometime. What do you think you are, Michael Myers? They pop you and you just keep gettin up?

CHEV
I'm the Terminator.

The JAPANESE BUSINESSMAN does another transformation - this time into ALEX.

ALEX
You was that, maybe. But there's a new gun in town.

CHEV
Don't tell me you're talking about your bro, Def Lepard.

ALEX
He did you pretty good, didn't he?

CHEV
Yeah, not so much. I don't get it - why didn't you guys just cut me up alive when you had the chance?

ALEX
Verona said you was Chev Chelios - A.K.A.
Death On Two Legs.
(MORE)

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED: (3)

ALEX(CONT'D)

He said you probably been a contract killer since grade school.

As he speaks, ALEX'S voice transforms again, this time into CHEV'S... he's now talking to A MIRROR OF HIMSELF...

MIRROR CHEV

Bipolar. Sadomasochistic tendencies.
Adrenaline junkie. Addicted to violence... probably spends every day of his life looking for the big thrill, the big rush. Cutting up a guy like that while he screams in his own blood and excrement would be like... like a GIFT... a warrior's death... hell, you'd probably get off on it...

CHEV

Did you rehearse this?

MIRROR CHEV

No, this was the best way for a guy like you: a slow, ticking clock... winding down... inevitable... non-negotiable... until...

CHEV

(cutting him off)

Who the hell are you, anyway?

MIRROR CHEV

Don't you know?

CHEV

(soberly)

I think I'm starting to figure it out.

MIRROR CHEV

Yeah, well, better late than never.

(conversational)

You know you're going to die up there.

CHEV

(cold)

Yeah, maybe.

The CAMERA holds CHEV'S gaze for a long moment, unflinching.

CHEV (CONT'D)

But I'm taking you with me.

REVERSE, CU: The JAPANESE BUSINESSMAN has TRANSFORMED INTO A GIANT BLUE GHOST, pulsing silently.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED: (4)

CUT TO: wide angle TWO SHOT, CHEV and the flat, two dimensional, computer animated GHOST, facing each other at opposite ends of the elevator.

SOUND: the CHIME SOUNDS, signalling they've reached the top floor.

CHEV glances at the lit floor number display, then back.

The JAPANESE MAN stares back at him, blank.

CHEV (CONT'D)
(under his breath)
Some pills, Doc.

The JAPANESE MAN ignores him. When the doors open, he hustles off ... past two GOONS, who are waiting there for CHEV.

They each take an arm.

CHEV (CONT'D)
Easy ...

GOON
This way.

136 INT RESTAURANT, STANDARD HOTEL - CONTINUOUS 136

The GOONS lead CHEV through a posh dining area, down a dark corridor.

They frisk him, finding the obvious .45 in the shoulder holster, yank it out and push him into a SMOKING LOUNGE.

137 INT SMOKING LOUNGE, STANDARD HOTEL - CONTINUOUS 137

CARLITO and RICKY VERONA sit side by side at the table. An iced bucket of champagne, good cigars. GOONS chill in the corners. The whole floor has been cleared out - they've got the place all to themselves.

VERONA
(smug)
What's up, dead?

CHEV
Looks like everyone's here.

CARLITO
(chuckling despite himself)
Chelios... what a fucking mess you are.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

CHEV

No shit.

CARLITO

Why don't you sit down?

VERONA

Wait a minute.

(gesturing to the GOONS by the door)

Pat him down again. He's carrying something.

The GOONS give him another look. This time they reach down his pants and produce a second small, concealed handgun ... then discover the pager-like device. One of the goons rips the tube from CHEV's back - CHEV winces in pain. His HEARTRATE starts to slow almost immediately.

CARLITO

Let me see that.

A GOON tosses it to him.

CARLITO (CONT'D)

Clever ... what is this, an insulin pump?

CHEV

Basically.

VERONA

What the fuck is insulin?

CARLITO shuts him up with a look.

CARLITO

(holding the device up)
Ephedrine, right?

CHEV nods. CARLITO places the device carefully on the table.

CARLITO (CONT'D)

(bemused)

Very resourceful ...

He reaches into his coat pocket, produces a pair of black leather gloves and starts to put them on.

CHEV

(to Verona)

Found a new master, you little bitch, is that it?

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED: (2)

VERONA

I'm nobody's little bitch.

CHEV

(egging him on)

We'll see what kind of a bitch you are when Carlito hires you for half what he used to pay me... and you take it.

CARLITO

That's enough.

CHEV

You'll probably throw boss a nice little reach-around just to show what a good bitch you are.

VERONA

I'm nobody's little bitch, you hear me?
He'll pay what I tell him to pay...!

CARLITO

I said that's enough.

(calmly)

It's been a long day. But in the end, you must agree, it all works out quite nicely. Don Kim gets his bullet, thanks to you...

CARLITO unlatches a 2'x6" beautifully crafted mahogany wood case sitting on the table in front of him. It contains several SYRINGES and bottle of MILKY FLUID. He removes one SYRINGE from the box with a gloved hand. It almost glows in the soft light.

CARLITO (CONT'D)

... and Hong Kong gets a goat to take the fall. Please understand, Chev, it's truly nothing personal.

VERONA

Speak for yourself.

CARLITO squirts a little of the MILKY LIQUID.

CHEV

Is that what I think it is?

CARLITO nods.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED: (3)

CARLITO
The Chinese shit.
(nods to the GOONS)
Hold him down.

In a flash, CHEV WHIPS OUT A GUN - everyone FLINCHES... but no, wait: he's just holding out his fist, pointing the STICK-EM-UP FINGER right between CARLITO'S eyes.

CHEV
Not so fast, motherfucker.

For a beat, no one knows quite how to react. VERONA chuckles nervously.

VERONA
Dude's gone dipsy doodle...

CHEV whips the finger toward VERONA, shutting him down mid-word. VERONA shrugs it off with less than 100% confidence... the room EXHALES.

VERONA (CONT'D)
Whatever, psycho...

CARLITO
I'm afraid the Houdini act is over,
Chelios.

A GOON makes a move for CHEV... but CHEV spins on him, leveling the finger at the GOON'S forehead, and pulls the "trigger"...

CHEV
(imitating a gunshot)
Booosh!

The GOON'S head is rocked back, a NICKEL-SIZED HOLE popped right through the cranium... a GLORIOUS FOUNTAIN OF CRIMSON arcs from the GOON'S forehead across the table, splashing into the ice bucket.

VERONA
(freaking)
Ourfather whoartinheaven hallowedbethy -

CARLITO
Shut up, Verona.

DON KIM
So this is how it is.

Everyone turns...

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED: (4)

DON KIM, in a Ralph Lauren polo shirt and white slacks, is standing at the entrance of the bar. He's got an ASIAN GANGSTER on each side, one of them holding out a smoking, silenced GLOCK .9mm.

More ASIAN GANGSTERS appear all around, moving in, taking position. The GANGSTERS all look about 16 years old, dressed for a hot night at the FLORENTINE GARDENS... but their eyes are dead-blank COLD AS HELL.

VERONA

What... you... he...

CHEV

Presto.

One of CARLITO'S GOONS points an UZI at DON KIM... and is FILLED FULL OF LEAD in the blink of an eye by a pair of ASIANS on his blind side... who are CUT TO RIBBONS by another of CARLITO'S MEN... and ALL HELL BREAKS LOOSE.

CARLITO scrambles away from the table and grabs one of his GOONS, using him as a shield as he makes his way behind the bar... the GOON absorbs a hail of bullets...

VERONA whips out a .357 MAGNUM, turns toward CHEV...

Summoning a surge of strength from out of his ass, CHEV kicks the table forward, pinning VERONA'S legs to the bench - the ICE BUCKET slides into CHEV'S lap...

He snatches out a bottle of Dom Perignon and fastballs it at VERONA'S GUN HAND... the bottle SHATTERS... VERONA bobbles the .357... it hits the ground - GOES OFF - and the four fingers of VERONA'S right hand are VAPORIZED.

VERONA SHRIEKS like a ten year old girl at a JUSTIN TIMBERLAKE concert.

Behind the bar, CARLITO quickly punches up his cell phone.

CARLITO

Get me out of here! NOW!

EXT. STANDARD HOTEL, ROOFTOP - CONTINUOUS

A PILOT is standing by in CARLITO'S personal HELICOPTER, waiting on the roof.

PILOT

Yes sir.

He fires her up, LIFTS OFF...

INT SMOKING LOUNGE, STANDARD HOTEL - CONTINUOUS

CARLITO'S and DON KIM'S MEN have backed into opposite corners of the room, and are firing back and forth.

VERONA crawls along the floor, gathering up what's left of his fingers... comes across a SYRINGE and grabs it in his teeth like a PIRATE'S KNIFE.

DON KIM stands amidst the chaos, completely unperturbed.

CARLITO
(from behind the bar)
I'll kill you for this, Chelios!

CHEV
Too late!

CHEV swoons, almost passes out... catches sight of a GUN and pries it from the hand of a dead GOON... he spots VERONA'S FEET disappearing behind a wall, takes a bead and fires - blowing off a set of toes to go with the fingers.

An ASIAN GANGSTER runs up and lobs a GRENADE behind the BAR... it bounces along and comes to rest next to CARLITO.

CARLITO thinks quick, grabbing one of his GOONS - a 265 pounder - from behind...

CARLITO
Get down!

He BODY-TACKLES the BIG MAN onto the floor, right on top of the live grenade, and brings his weight down on top of him.

GOON
Thanks, boss.

BOOM!

The BIG GOON'S body absorbs the blast, which picks them both up five feet in the air... CARLITO, momentarily airborne, pops up from behind the bar like a JACK IN THE BOX, then drops back down with a THUD...

CARLITO
Ronnie James Dio...!

The LOUNGE opens into a daylight drenched POOL AREA... CARLITO'S HELICOPTER drops down into view, roiling up the water...

CARLITO makes a break for it.

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

CHEV

Oh no you don't...

CHEV goes after him, spinning and careening across the slick floor like a CHARLIE CHAPLIN DRUNK ACT, dodging bullets and blasting away...

CUT TO:

EXT STANDARD HOTEL, DOWNTOWN LOS ANGELES - DAY

Police have surrounded the hotel and are pouring into the Lobby in teams. Squad cars, CHERRY TOPS FLASHING, SWAT vans pulled up on to the curb, people roped off, crowd control, news vans, the works.

A TV REPORTER is sending a live feed amidst the pandemonium.

REPORTER

Police have moved to surround the Downtown Standard Hotel, where the suspect ... the unidentified madman ... is believed to be holed up and making a desperate last stand ...!

CUT TO:

145 EXT. STANDARD HOTEL, POOL AREA - SIMULTANEOUS

145

CHEV staggers out into the daylight as the windows to the restaurant shatter - and is met by a SWIRLING RUSH OF WIND as the HELICOPTER attempts to set down amidst the chaise lounges and futuristic plastic cabanas.

CARLITO is climbing in as CHEV clambers up and GRABS HIM FROM BEHIND. CARLITO spins; CHEV shoves the gun in his face.

CHEV

Present from Kaylo.

But just as he's about to pull the trigger, he FREEZES... face TWITCHING... knees BUCKLING...

... and we see that VERONA has come up behind him and JAMMED THE SYRINGE RIGHT TO THE HILT INTO THE BACK OF HIS NECK.

CHEV drops to his knees. His HEARTBEAT is deafening, GLACIAL.

VERONA

(in a bloodthirsty rage)
Now what? Now say shit!

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

CARLITO
(shaken for once)
Jesus, man, where the fuck where you?

VERONA grabs the gun out of CHEV'S hand and points it at CARLITO.

VERONA
WHO'S THE BITCH NOW?

He blows CARLITO away with three shots.

The PILOT starts to lift off in a blue panic. VERONA shoves CHEV aside and hops into the back seat, pointing his gun at the PILOT'S head.

VERONA (CONT'D)
That's right, motherfucker! FLY!

VERONA whips the gun around as the bird rises, intending to finish CHEV off from the air ...

... and has the gun removed from his hand by CHEV, who has climbed onto the landing skids, hooking his dead arm inside the passenger space, going up with them.

DON KIM watches the HELICOPTER rise as his MEN finish off the last of CARLITO'S GOONS...

DON KIM
Do not use a hatchet to remove a fly from your friend's forehead.

A GANGSTER gives him a sidelong look.

DON KIM (CONT'D) (explaining) Confucius.

... the DOOR BUSTS IN and the place is crawling with S.W.A.T.

146 EXT THE SKY ABOVE LOS ANGELES, SECONDS LATER

146

CHEV'S HEARTBEAT IS SLAMMING as the bird rises high above the rooftop and the surrounding streets. He wrestles his way up into the back seat as VERONA tries desperately to push him out.

NEWS HELICOPTERS hover around the midair struggle like wasps, shooting across at the action.

CUT TO:

(CONTINUED)

CONTINUED:

147 LIVE TELEVISION BROADCAST: An announcer babbles over 147 phenomenal live video of CHEV and VERONA struggling in the helicopter.

CUT TO:

148 EXT THE SKY ABOVE LOS ANGELES, SIMULTANEOUS 148

CHEV has VERONA locked up; both men are fighting with just one hand ... VERONA manages to work his up to CHEV'S shoulder, where the steel needle still pokes through. He slides it out and stabs at CHEV'S face ... CHEV catches his wrist in time to hold him off, but his grip is slipping ...

The spaces between CHEV'S HEARTBEATS have grown longer and longer ... he's obviously having a massive coronary ...

VERONA

You're dead, you're dead, you're dead!

CHEV swoons; his eyes roll back in his head ... he starts to go limp, fall backwards ...

Then, with a final rush of adrenaline, he grabs VERONA by the neck and pulls him along.

The two men FALL FROM THE HELICOPTER.

CHEV continues to strangle VERONA in midair.

CHEV

I told you I'd kill you, you son of a bitch!

VERONA'S eyes bulge in disbelief. CHEV continues to strangle him until VERONA goes limp, glassy eyed ... CHEV finally lets go ... VERONA'S body drifts away ...

CHEV (CONT'D)

There.

Now he's alone, free falling ... it's almost peaceful up here.

149 EXT THE SKY ABOVE LOS ANGELES 149

It occurs to him he still has his cell phone. He retrieves it from his coat pocket and clicks a speed dial.

CUT TO:

150 INT EVE'S APARTMENT, SAME TIME

150

SLOW ZOOM in on EVE'S answering machine as he talks.

EVE (O.S.)
... leave a message.

BEEP.

CHEV (O.S.)
Hey doll. Looks like I let you down again. You were right about me ... funny, you really have time to reflect on things when you know you're going to die ... seems like all my life I've just been going, going, going ... I wish I'd taken more time to stop and smell the roses, so to speak, but well, I guess it's too late now... you were the greatest, baby.

CUT TO:

151 EXT STREET, IN FRONT OF HIGHRISE, 1 SECOND LATER

151

Still frame of a city street, traffic sounds - CAMERA down on the ground. A homeless guy ambles along, looks up, hustles his ass out of the way ...

VERONA hits the ground - SMACK! - BOUNCES, flies out of frame.

Next is CHEV - he SLAMS off the canvas top of a moving convertible car - BAM!

CHEV flies high out of frame, then comes down hard, smashing into a NEWS STAND right in front of the CAMERA ... TRADES and FISH WRAPS rain over CHEV and the surrounding area... on each a different HEADLINE... "Bo Sox Break The Curse"... "Bush To Swiss: You're Next"... etc.

The screen CUTS TO BLACK.

A beat of silence... is that it?

then -

SOUND: LUB DUB.

KICK TO SOUNDTRACK.

Hanna

Screenplay by Seth Lochhead and David Farr Story by Seth Lochhead

1 EXT. FOREST FLOOR - DAY.

1

Sparse forest. Snow falls.

Breathing and the BEAT of a person running.

HANNA, fourteen years old, long hair, eyes like blue ice, dressed in animal skins, glides through the trees, a bow strapped to her shoulder.

She slows, crooks her head, listening, her breath visible in the freezing air.

A FEW HUNDRED YARDS away

A REINDEER nuzzles the snow, searches for grass.

Its head pops up. It looks at the trees but doesn't see her.

The bow string STRETCHES. Her blue eyes focus. She exhales deeply and releases.

The arrow glides and SNAPS into the deer's side. It flops, its feet running without ground, frantic.

It resurrects itself, blood slipping from its side, and sprints. She sprints after it, the trees strobing past her.

She follows the trail of blood in the snow.

The deer stands in a clearing, waiting for her.

Steam pours from its mouth and nostrils.

HANNA approaches, removes a fur glove.

She reaches out and gently pets the animal's frightened face. She runs her hand down along its neck, in towards the wound.

HANNA

I just missed your heart.

She pulls out an old pistol from her waist holster, pauses, and then-- POP. POP. into CAMERA.

CUT TO TITLE: HANNA

2 EXT. FOREST FLOOR - LATER.

2

A knife enters the deer near its anus.

HANNA

(whisper)

Remove the penis and scrotum, make a deep, circular cut around the rectum.

HANNA pulls the knife up towards the brisket.

HANNA (CONT'D)

(whisper)

Cut from the rear to the brisket.

She works calmly without expression.

The deer lies on it's side.

HANNA breaths hard. She reaches deep into the body cavity and pulls out intestine, stomach, liver.

She freezes, sensing danger.

Her hand deep inside the animal. She listens. She looks out into the still forest. No sound.

ERIK, mid forties, a mammoth with leathery face, stands behind her like a ghost.

ERIK

You're dead. Right now. I've killed you.

HANNA spins spraying deer-blood on to the snow and brings her fist right to ERIK's face. He blocks and thumps an open palm on to HANNA's shoulder sending her sprawling into the snow.

She leaps to her feet, as ERIK aims a kick at her head. She dodges, punches below his knee cap, and goes for her pistol. ERIK slaps the hand away.

ERIK (CONT'D)

Use your hands!

She goes for the gun again and again he stops her.

He moves in tight, pulling the gun from its holster and tossing it deep into the forest.

HANNA clips ERIK'S temple sending him to the ground.

She wraps her arms around his neck preparing to snap...

... but she can't.

He throws her over his shoulder into a pile of snow.

ERIK stands and wipes the snow from his pants. His face shows a touch of frustration.

He plods into the forest.

ERIK (CONT'D)

Drag it back yourself.

HANNA drags herself to the deer's side. She stares at its dead face.

4	OMITTED	4
5	EXT. FOREST FLOOR - EVENING	5
	HANNA drags the 200 lb deer on a makeshift sled. She lifts her knees high and moves at a steady pace.
	Hidden among the trees, a little way off, ERIK is watching her.
6	EXT. LOG CABIN. NORTH FINNISH FOREST - EVENING	6
	A log cabin built around an ancient tree surrounded by the thick forest. HANNA is standing in the snow, stripping the deer with a knife. It's a tough job but she does it no fuss.
7	OMITTED	7	*
8	EXT/INT. LOG CABIN - LATER	8	*
	Hanna hops up onto the porch and drops a bucket full of bloody tools by the door as she enters.		* *
	INSIDE		*
	Very primitive. Cave-like. Everything they own they've built themselves. There's a few "modern" items, old and worn.		* *
	HAND PRINTS of increasing size (marking Hanna's age) run up one wall.		* *
	Erik sits in the dark, the fading sunlight just barely illuminating him. He restrings a bow and watches Hanna.		* *
	Hanna removes her coat and hangs it near the hearth. She's a bit stiff.		* *
	ERIK What's wrong? Are you hurt?
	She grabs a shutter and begins closing up the cabin for the night. Erik strides across the room for his knife.		* *
	ERIK (CONT'D) You were half asleep.
	Hanna grabs another shutter, puts it in place a little too hard.		* *
	ERIK (CONT'D) Always be ready. Even when you're sleeping. Think on your feet. Adapt...		*

HANNA
...or die. I'll do better next time.

ERIK
German.

HANNA
(In German w/ English subtitles)
I'll do better next time.

ERIK
Italian.

HANNA
(In Italian w/ English
subtitles)
I'll do better next time.

ERIK
Spanish.

The room darker and darker as Hanna closes up the last few * openings to the outside world. *

ERIK (CONT'D)
(insistent) Spanish.

HANNA
(In Spanish w/ English
subtitles)
Did you really want me to snap your neck? *

He pulls the string taught, slices excess away. *

ERIK
How much did you pull off the deer?

HANNA
A hundred and twenty with scraps.

ERIK
About 200 pounds in total? *

HANNA
I think so. *

ERIK
That explains it.

HANNA
What?

ERIK How you beat me. You're getting strong.

Hanna puts the final shutter in place. *

The room at its darkest. *

ERIK (CONT'D)
(In Spanish w/ English
subtitles)

I'm glad you didn't snap my neck.

*

9 INT. LOG CABIN - NIGHT

9 *

HANNA sits cross legged, back straight, on the floor.

*

She pokes a stick into the glowing logs of the fire and tiny embers float into the darkness and disappear. It's one of her most favourite things.

*

*

*

Erik sits in a chair and reads from a large ENCYCLOPEDIA.

*

ERIK

The Great Blue Whale is the largest animal to have ever existed. A blue whale's tongue weighs over two and a half tons and its mouth is large enough to hold 90 tons of food and water.

HANNA

How much is that?

ERIK

It's bigger than the cabin. Its heart weighs thirteen hundred pounds and a male has seven gallons of testicles.

Hanna smirks.

ERIK (CONT'D)

The Blue Whale's "music" can be heard for over 500 miles.

HANNA

What does music feel like?

Erik flips through the pages.

ERIK

(reading)

'Music. A combination of sounds with a view to beauty of form and expression of emotion'.

HANNA

I want to hear it for myself.

ERIK

We have all we need right here.

HANNA

It's not enough.

*

(CONT'D)

*

She stares up at him.

*

HANNA

*

I'm ready.

They look at each other - he weighs it up but lets it go.

ERIK

Go to sleep. We have an early day tomorrow.

He closes the book, pushes himself out of the chair, and picks up the used dishes from an earlier meal.

Hanna's eyes follow him around the room. Then, she lays the stick in the fire and stands.

9A INT. HANNA'S ROOM. LOG CABIN. NIGHT.

9A

Hanna, in bed, covers herself in animal skin blankets, straightens them and makes sure they're covering her feet.
She lays back, pulls the covers up to her neck as a test. Her feet stay covered.

She sits back up, peers over the edge of her loft.

Below, Erik rinses the dishes in a bucket.

Hanna reaches under her bed and pulls up a copy of GRIMM'S FAIRY TALES. It has a noticeable gap where pages have been ripped out. It's bruised and battered and splattered brown with old blood.

Hanna opens it to the book mark: a photo booth photo.

She stares at it.

10 INT./EXT. LOG CABIN - MORNING

10

THROUGH THE WINDOW

ERIK walks through the trees, a pistol in his hand.

11 INT. HANNA'S ROOM. LOG CABIN - MORNING

11

HANNA wakes. She still holds the photo booth photo pinned to her chest. She lifts it up, looks at it - a row of four pictures each of JOANNA ZADECK (Hanna's mother) in different contortions of silliness. In the last picture, Joanna in profile showing off her swollen belly.

HANNA tucks the photo back into her childhood book and places it gently under her bed.

12 EXT. LOG CABIN. SHOOTING RANGE - MORNING

12

A GUNSHOT breaks a tree apart. Erik out focus, gun aimed.

12A *

*
*

12B *

*

She rolls and fires. She reloads. And fires.

*

*

*
*
*

*

13

HANNA attacks ERIK. Hand. Knee. Elbow. Fist. He defends easily.

ERIK

Again.

They reset. She repeats the motion. Hand. Knee. Elbow. Fist.

ERIK (CONT'D)

Again.

Hand. Knee. Elbow. Fist. She's getting faster. Her strikes are solid.

14 EXT. LOG CABIN - DAY 14

A medium size log nailed along two pillars of the cabin acts as a chin-up bar.

Erik and Hanna do chin-ups. Both are fit. Neither will give up. ERIK observing HANNA's power. Both have the sense that he is judging her. HANNA's face fiercely determined.

15 EXT. MOUNTAIN TOP - DAY 15

ERIK and HANNA sit with their backs to a tree in the huge forest as they breathlessly recover from the exhaustion of the exercise. HANNA speaks fast, reciting.

HANNA

I live in Leipzig. German city.
Population 0.7 Million people. We live at Number 7 Weissingerplatz. I go to school at the Klaus Kohle Gymnasium and my best friends are Rudi Gunther and Clara Schliess. I like literature and sport, in particular tennis and athletics. I have a dog called Trudi.

15A EXT. NORTHERN FINLAND, FROZEN LAKE - DAY 15A

A mile wide sheet of ice surrounded by sparse forest.

Hanna and Erik race across. Full sprint.

ERIK

Keep up.

Erik pulls ahead, pumping his arms, leaving her behind. A smile creeps onto his face. He's having fun. His foot STRIKES hard. The ice cracks but does not break.

ERIK (CONT'D)

Keep up Hanna. I'm not that fast.

He turns back. But she's gone.

50 yards away, a small hole in the ice.

ERIK (CONT'D)

HANNA!

UNDER THE ICE

Hanna writhes in the murk. A current pulls her along. Her fingernails rip, frantic, along the icy ceiling. She slams her fists and feet into it, trying to break it.

Erik's voice filtered through the ice and water.

ERIK (O.S.) (CONT'D)

Hanna!

His shadow crosses above her. She throws her fists and feet hard, desperate--

ERIK on the surface hears the CREAKS and THUDS of her movements--

He sees her - the diffused shape of her - struggling and sliding under the ice--

His eyes follow where the current is pulling her--

Yards ahead, he sees a heavy branch sticking out of the ice. He sprints, takes hold of it, wrenches it back and forth, he slams his feet down, breaking it apart--

Her shape is coming. It will pass-by, just a few feet out of his reach. He works faster, more panicked, more desperate--

UNDER THE ICE

Hanna struggles to breath, the bubbles of air escape her lips and race along the ceiling searching for an exit--

ERIK on the surface. He's broken enough ice and jumps in with a splash--

He breaches back to the surface and hammers his forearm through the weakened ice, over and over again, splitting the skin in many places.

Each STRIKE breaks through. His strength and will is impressive. He will not let her die. He never could.

He makes up those few final feet just as--

Hanna slides by--

He dives under, one hand holding to the surface, and snatches her under the arm.

18 EXT. NORTH FINNISH FOREST. LAKE SHORE. 18

Erik strides through the trees at a steady pace. Hanna lingers behind him on the path. He stops, waits.

ERIK

I don't understand why you're so upset.

She ignores him, walks past him.

His temper and patience are about to give.

ERIK (CONT'D)

Tell me what's wrong.

HANNA

I would've found a way. I could've broken through. I'm strong.

ERIK

There was no time. It wasn't an exercise. You could've drowned.

HANNA

I would've found a way if you let me. I didn't need your help. I don't need it.

She turns from him and trudges into the forest.

19 OMITTED 19

20 INT. CABIN. HANNA'S ROOM - NIGHT. 20

HANNA sleeps.

ERIK stands over her in the dark, a gun outstretched, pointed at her head.

HANNA bursts from her covers, smashes the pistol from ERIK's hand and smashes him back into the wall. The whole cabin SHAKES.

She grabs his pistol, points it at his face.

He snatches it quick.

She snatches it back.

He SMACKS it out of her hand.

He lunges at her. He seems intent to hurt her, more than ever before.

HANNA slips her hand into her mattress, grabs a flint knife. She slices Erik's forearm and spins him around until she has the tip digging into the side of his neck.

HANNA breathless, angry.

HANNA

I'm ready. I'm ready already.

They both breath heavy. Hanna drops the knife and exits.

Erik sits there, utterly defeated. He knew this was coming, he just hoped it never would.

21 EXT. LOG CABIN - NIGHT 21

ERIK takes long lunging strides straight out from the cabin. He counts his paces.

ERIK

One, two, three, four...

22 EXT. LAKE - DAY 22

HANNA, alone, racing across the lake, the hole where she fell through already frozen over.

ERIK (V.O.)

...five, six, seven, eight...

23 EXT. LOG CABIN - NIGHT 23

ERIK

...nine, ten.

After 10 paces, ERIK makes a 90 degree turn and enters the tree line. The snow and mud crunch under his boots.

ERIK (V.O.) (CONT'D)

One, two, three...

We continue to inter-cut the following with more close-ups of HANNA training without Erik: climbing, fighting, chin-ups, shooting.

ERIK (V.O.) (CONT'D)
...four, five, six...

After 40 paces, with the cabin light distant, ERIK falls to his knees. He unsheathes a large knife and jams it into the frozen earth.

24 EXT. NORTH FINNISH FOREST - MORNING

24

HANNA in an isolated part of the forest.

She spies a fox pup staring at her from the tree line. She crouches and holds out her hand, scratching the ground gently.

HANNA
Hello little foxy... foxy loxy...

The pup approaches, excited but weary.

HANNA shuffles in her crouch, slowly making up the distance, She reaches out a hand and rubs its tiny head.

The pup gnaws at her open palm, its pin-like teeth doing minimal damage. Its paws wrap around her wrist, hug it. She pushes it over on its back and rubs its protruding belly.

It grunts and growls and HANNA mimics it perfectly.

Suddenly, the pup rights itself as a low BUZZ fills the air.

HANNA looks up through the trees. The BUZZ grows closer.

HANNA jumps to her feet, sprints toward the sound, through the trees, to a clearing as-- --a PLANE roars overhead.

HANNA watches, barely a speck against the endless, snowy reaches of her isolated domain.

25 INT. CABIN - MORNING.

25

Erik sits at a table. A metal box caked with frozen dirt sits open in front of him.

Footsteps. HANNA enters, excited.

*

HANNA
Did you see it? Did you hear it?
Like thunder. It was so beautiful.
(MORE)

*

*

*

HANNA (CONT'D)

It shook the snow from the trees. *

She sees the strange box sitting in front of him. She reaches a hand out to touch it. *

HANNA (CONT'D)

What is it?

ERIK

It tells Marissa Wiegler where we are. When you want to leave here all you have to do is flip that switch. *

She approaches the box and places a single finger on the small red switch.

ERIK (CONT'D)

But once it's done, there's no going back. She'll never give up until you're dead, or she is. You understand? I won't be there to hold your hand. So be sure. Be sure it's what you really want. *

Her finger lingers on the switch.

ERIK (CONT'D)

It's here. There's no rush.

HANNA pulls her finger away slowly and places her hand by her side.

ERIK reads from the encyclopedia, Hanna snuggled close, watching the sun fall.

ERIK

Laika, a mongrel dog from the streets of Moscow, was the first animal to orbit the Earth. She was launched into outer space on the third of November, 1957. Scientists believed humans would be unable to survive conditions of outer space, so flights by animals were viewed as an experimental precursor to human missions. Her rocket was not designed to be retrievable, and Laika had always been intended to die.

HANNA

But she didn't, did she?

ERIK

They couldn't bring the rocket back, remember.

HANNA

I remember, but sometimes I wish you would read it differently.

ERIK, more sad than Hanna will ever know, turns the page and changes the subject.

ERIK

When a star collapses, the supernova explosion is 10 billion times brighter than other stars.

HANNA shuts her eyes and tries to imagine how bright that might be.

27

INT. LOG CABIN - MORNING

27

ERIK and HANNA go about their morning routine as if the ice hadn't broken and the box didn't exist. There's a melancholy between them, something lost they can never get back.

ERIK straps the bow to his chest and grabs a quiver of bolts.

ERIK

Will you hunt with me?

Hanna is sweeping the ground.

HANNA

If you want.

He wants.

ERIK
It's up to you.

HANNA
Me?

ERIK
Yes.

HANNA eyes the box sitting open.

HANNA
I'll stay.

ERIK leaves without saying a word.

HANNA looks at the box and walks over, the broom still in her hand. She pokes around it, examining all its electrical weirdness.

She places her finger to the switch, loses her nerve, and exits the cabin.

28 EXT. LOG CABIN - CONTINUOUS 28

HANNA strides across the property and into the forest. She stops, turns back, and stares at her home.

HANNA
(whispering to herself)
Marissa Wiegler.

29 INT. LOG CABIN - CONTINUOUS 29

CLOSE ON - the metal box.

HANNA enters. The room is still and quiet. She approaches the metal box and FLIPS THE SWITCH before she loses her nerve.

A little red light begins to flash.

HANNA
(whisper)
Come and find me.

An ALARM CLOCK begins to ring as we cut to -

30 INT. MARISSA'S APARTMENT. VIRGINIA. USA - EARLY MORNING 30

CLOSE ON - a bedside alarm clock ringing loudly.

MARISSA WIEGLER, a handsome Texan in her mid-40's with red hair, reaches over and slams the alarm clock off.

She's alone in her bed. She always is. She has no children. She's made choices in her life and lives without looking back.

She walks into her ensuite bathroom and looks at herself in the mirror.

Her bathroom cabinet is filled with the tools of a dental fixation.

She collects a state of the art electric toothbrush and bares her teeth in a snarl as she brushes them in strict order.

31 INT. LOG CABIN - DAY

31 *

HANNA tends to boiling pots. She's cooking a feast. ERIK enters. He stamps his feet shedding ice at the door.

He walks by the box and sees the little red light flickering HANNA sees this and sees him smile, but she knows he's sad.

ERIK

You were lucky to grab that deer.
There was nothing out there today.

ERIK looks over at the meal HANNA is preparing. He dips his finger into the pot scalding himself.

ERIK (CONT'D)

Ouch.

HANNA

It's hot.

He smiles at her. One of the few he's shown her.

ERIK

I'm really hungry. And it smells so good. Is it almost ready?

He wraps an arm around her shoulder and looks into the pot. They don't hug much and it shows. But HANNA's not going to let go first. She leans into his heavy coat, briefly, and takes a deep breath.

The smell from that giant coat. It wraps her all up and makes her feel like nothing in the whole wide world could ever hurt her.

31A EXT. CIA HQ LANGLEY VIRGINIA - DAY

31A

An establissher. A flat circular building set into a perfectly manicured lawn tended by an automatic sprinkler system.

32 INT. CIA HQ LANGLEY VIRGINIA - DAY 32

MARISSA, wearing a sharp business suit, walks down a set of stairs with her TECH ONE. *

TECH ONE
We've picked up an unencrypted signal, one of ours. We think it's Erik Heller. *

She's not surprised or at least she doesn't show it.

MARISSA
When? *

TECH ONE
0632 eastern standard. Triangulated
60 miles below the arctic circle.
Near Kuusamo. *

MARISSA
Finland. *

He hands her a coffee and she hands him some files. *

TECH ONE
You were his handler, right? *

MARISSA
Sure. The name sounds familiar. *

But the name is more than familiar. *

33 EXT. LOG CABIN - EVENING

33

ERIK is leaning over a pail of water, cutting his beard off with a knife.

Hanna sits at a table utterly fascinated by her father's transforming appearance.

MARISSA (V.O.)
Erik Heller. Recruited in 1991.

*

CUT TO

Erik clean shaven. Hanna saws off chunks of his long hair. She saws one area too close to his head, creating a very uneven divot. His whole head of hair is full of uneven divots.

ERIK
How does it look?

She steps back, sizes him up.

Her eyes widen and a smile cracks.

HANNA
Good.

ERIK
Good?

HANNA
Almost good.

33A INT. ERIK'S ROOM - NIGHT

33A

ERIK opens a WOODEN CHEST in the corner of the room. He takes out an old folded three piece suit and rolled shirt...

MARISSA (V.O.)
An agent to the Clandestine Operations in Poland and a former FSK operative, he was integral to paramilitary operations in Eastern Europe and Central Asia. The file ends in '94. There was no sign of life until April 18, 1996 when his fingerprints appeared on a .22 caliber Luger found beside the body of one Johanna Zadek.

*
*
*
*
*
*
*

... he unholsters his gun and lays it down. He removes his giant coat, folds it with care and places it in the box.

34 INT. VIDEO CONFERENCE ROOM, LANGLEY. 34

Suspended from the ceiling are a number of screens showing a feed to the European HQ where a young agent, LEWIS, is in attendance.

ON ANOTHER SCREEN - a newspaper article, the headline: POLICE HUNT FOR MURDER SUSPECT. A picture of a Young Erik in the article beside another picture of the burnt out carcass of a car tilted at an odd angle against a tree.

ON ANOTHER SCREEN - A photo of JOHANNA ZADEK. She's the woman * from Hanna's photo booth pictures.

WALT and BOB, Marissa's bosses, sit at a wide table. Marissa, like a teacher, lectures her students.

MARISSA
Johanna Zadek. Born 1970. German. *
Spotted and developed by Heller in * 1994 but never recruited. *

WALT

Why was she being developed?

*

Marissa opens another file, reads.

MARISSA

That's not in the file. Let's stay on task. Erik is a rogue asset. I propose we go in and pull him out.

*

*

*

WALT

Isn't that an over reaction?

*

*

MARISSA

No.

*

*

BOB

Give it to Interpol, for Christ's sake. We have bigger problems, bigger fish, Marissa, than some loon who went survivor man on us.

*

*

MARISSA

Interpol nabs him, that exposes him to FSB, BND, France. Do you really want every intelligence agency in Europe scratching at this thread?
It's a very thick sweater. There'll be enough yarn to hang us all.

*

*

*

*

*

*

*

WALT

Lewis?

*

*

MARISSA

We need to keep this contained, gentlemen. Keep it small. I worked with this man, he knows things I don't think you want to know--

*

*

*

*

BOB

Okay. I hear that.

*

*

She smiles, these guy's are fucking idiots.

*

Walt leans back in his chair, thinks about the horrible things he knows and the horrible things he's not supposed to know.

WALT

Lewis?

*

*

LEWIS

One man. One day operation.

*

*

34A INT. LANGLEY - OUTSIDE VIDEO CONFERENCE ROOM

34A *

The hall is empty.

*

Marissa leans against a wall, her head down, her breathing controlled. *

MARISSA *

Fuck Erik. Why now? *

35 INT. HANNA'S ROOM. LOG CABIN - EVENING 35 *

HANNA and ERIK, face to face. Erik, dressed incongruously in the suit and tie, ready to go.

ERIK
Tell me again?

HANNA
Marissa Wiegler.

ERIK
Then?

HANNA
Postcard.

ERIK
Then?

HANNA
What?

ERIK
The address where we meet.

HANNA
Wilhelm Grimm's house.
Stephanstrasse 260. 10559, Berlin.
Germany.

ERIK
What else?

HANNA
Adapt or die.

ERIK
Think on your feet.

HANNA
Even when I'm sleeping.

ERIK moves a strand of hair from HANNA'S forehead and looks at her with paternal worry.

He stands and quietly goes to the door.

HANNA (CONT'D)
Papa...

He doesn't turn around.

ERIK
Remember what I've taught you.
You'll be fine.

She smiles at his back.

HANNA
I'll see you there.

36 EXT. LOG CABIN. NORTH FINNISH FOREST - DUSK 36

ERIK comes out of the cabin carrying a small rucksack. He closes the door behind him and takes a deep breath.

37 INT/EXT. HANNA'S ROOM. LOG CABIN - CONTINUOUS 37

HANNA goes to the door, cracks it open and watches Erik walk into the calm blueness of impending night.

38 EXT. EDGE OF NORTH FINNISH FOREST. NIGHT. 38

Almost pitch, save for the glow of white snow. And quiet--

--a series of ropes break the top frame and THIRTY US SPECIAL FORCES dressed in white snow gear silently abseil down to the ground.

39 INT. HANNA'S ROOM. LOG CABIN - NIGHT 39

HANNA doing push-ups on her bedroom floor.

40 EXT. FOREST/CABIN - NIGHT 40

Infra-red POV as the SPECIAL OPS TEAM head through the forest wearing night vision-goggles.

We see LEWIS who follows close behind the Leader of the Operation who himself follows the tracker signal.

*

LEWIS
He's one of ours. Watch your step.
He knows we're coming.

*

*

*

The SPECIAL OPS FORCES get closer. They see the cabin in the night. They approach. Silence in the darkness. Just the breathing of men in the icy cold.

HANNA stops her push-ups, sensing the SPECIAL FORCES approach.

The HEAD of SPECIAL OPS loses patience and picks up the radio.

No response.

The HEAD of OPS and five other men storm the cabin.

Through night vision we see the cabin interior. Then the two SPECIAL FORCES, dead on the floor. Necks broken.

LEWIS enters to find HANNA sitting quietly, looking timid and unsure. Just a little girl, her eyes shining in the dark.

44 INT. LANGLEY. VIRGINIA. 44

MARISSA, being driven on a cart, talks on the phone. *

LEWIS *

The target escaped. *

MARISSA *

How did that happen? *

LEWIS *

We were thinking maybe he got away * in the snow, in the thick snow, * or... *

LEWIS (CONT'D)	MARISSA
But he's in the wind and I	One man. One day operation.
have two men down. There were	Just find him Lewis. Find him a lot of variables, Marissa.	and bring him to me.	*
Visibility was shit.

LEWIS (CONT'D) *

--There was a kid. *

Marissa's catches her breath, she can't hear what he's saying *

now. *

LEWIS (CONT'D) *

Things out of our control. I'd like * to see how you would've done it * differently. *

She doesn't respond. *

LEWIS (CONT'D) *

Wiegler? *

MARISSA *

Where is she now? *

45 INT. CAMP G. HOLDING CELL. 45 *

ON CLOSED CIRCUIT TELEVISION:

A cement box. HANNA lies on a small bed. Not moving. Two American voices.

VOICE 1

She hasn't moved since we brought her in.

VOICE 2 (BURTON)

Has anyone talked to her?

VOICE 1

They want a psych evaluation before they interrogate.

HANNA lies on the cot. She's been cleaned up and is wearing an army regulation jump suit. The metal door drags open.

A Doctor, BURTON, wearing a pair of thick framed GLASSES, closes a heavy, mechanized door behind him.

He walks up to HANNA, crouches down so he can be at her level, symbolically.

BURTON
Hello Hanna.

HANNA
Hello.

BURTON
My name is Dr. Burton. Would you like to talk to me?

HANNA sits up and hangs her legs off the side of the cot.

HANNA
I was told by my father to gain the upper hand.

BURTON
That's interesting. What else did your father tell you?

HANNA
Where am I?

BURTON
You're in holding.

HANNA
I've never been in a room like this. It's cement.

BURTON
That's right. This must all be very strange for you. How long have you been in the forest?

HANNA
As long as I can remember.

BURTON
Interesting. Were there other people there?

HANNA
Just me and my Papa.

HANNA seems to be staring up at the ceiling.

BURTON

Hanna?

He follows her eye-line to the CCTV camera above them.

HANNA

Is that a camera?

BURTON

Uh-huh. It's taking our picture right now. To keep a record. How does that make you feel?

HANNA

Camera obscura, it's Latin for "dark chamber".

47 INT. CAMP G. OBSERVATION ROOM. 47

LEWIS sits with the MONITOR, watching HANNA watching him.

LEWIS

Plug the CCTV through to Langley.
Extension 247.

MONITOR presses some buttons as LEWIS calls on his phone and speaks into it.

LEWIS (CONT'D)

You should have visual on the psych evaluation now.

48 INT. OBS ROOM. LANGLEY HQ. NIGHT. CONT. 48

MARISSA, alone in a Langley OBS ROOM. No one else there. Late at night in America. Something secret about Marissa here.

On the screen she sees HANNA in the Interrogation Room. Her screen tells she is watching CAMP G - Interrogation Room 3.
MARISSA watches HANNA intently.

HANNA

It was first described by the Arabic scientist Ibn Alhazen in the year 1021.

*

49 INT. OBS ROOM. LANGLEY HQ. NIGHT. CONT. 49

MARISSA stares at her screen, at the blank face of the fourteen year old HANNA. Focus in on MARISSA's face as she studies this strange young woman. The sense that MARISSA knows more about this girl than she is letting on.

On the screen BURTON continues to probe.

50 INT. HANNA'S HOLDING CELL - CONTINUOUS 50

51 INT. OBS ROOM. LANGLEY - CONTINUOUS 51

Just do it.

52 INT. CAMP G. MILITARY LABORATORY.

52

A white space with specialist lighting and the hum of specialised air pressurizes. A protected environment - this is the DNA lab. A MILITARY DOCTOR is looking at the result of something on a computer. It has shocked and intrigued him. He calls across to another doctor.

MILITARY DOCTOR 1
John come and take a look at this kid's blood sample.

MILITARY DOCTOR 2 walks across. He sees the sample on the screen.

MILITARY DOCTOR 2.
Is that right? That can't be right.

MILITARY DOCTOR 1
And I got a sample of her hair.

MILITARY DOCTOR 2 looks at the results, baffled.

MILITARY DOCTOR 2
It's contaminated. Run it again.

53 INT. HANNA'S HOLDING CELL.

53

HANNA is sitting on her cot with her back against the wall.

A metal door drags open.

A pair of smart female shoes enter the room, accompanied by the military boots of two guards.

FALSE MARISSA (O.C.)
My name is Marissa Wiegler. You wanted to speak to me?

HANNA turns to look.

It is a completely different woman, dressed in similar clothes to MARISSA but not her.

HANNA stares at her, then looks at the two guards.

FALSE MARISSA (CONT'D)
(to the guards)
You can wait outside.

The guards exit and the door slams shut behind them.

54 INT. CAMP G. OBSERVATION ROOM. DAY. CONT.

54

In the Observation Room LEWIS is looking at a small Monitor. He speaks into a console's microphone.

LEWIS

You should have visual.

55 INT. CIA LANGLEY OPERATIONAL HQ. EARLY DAWN. CONT. 55

MARISSA WIEGLER sits alone in the empty CIA Langley headquarters, watching the CCTV relay staring at the face of * this strange little girl. *

HANNA

Where am I?

INT. HANNA'S HOLDING CELL - CONTINUOUS

HANNA stares at FALSE MARISSA awaiting an answer.

FALSE MARISSA
You're in a safe place.

HANNA
Where did you meet my father?

The false MARISSA pauses.

INT. OPERATIONAL HQ. LANGLEY - CONTINUOUS

MARISSA hears the question. Thinks fast, her mind totally focussed.

MARISSA
Erik. I met him by a news kiosk in Alexanderplatz, East Berlin. Say it was raining. He had just arrived from Prague.

INT. HANNA'S HOLDING CELL - CONTINUOUS

FALSE MARISSA pauses looking at HANNA. We see that she has a tiny microphone in her ear.

FALSE MARISSA
You mean Erik?

Hanna nods.

FALSE MARISSA (CONT'D)
Yes. I met him at a news kiosk.
Alexanderplatz. In the rain. He had just arrived from Prague...

HANNA, looking at FALSE MARISSA, reading her face.

INT. CAMP G. OBSERVATION ROOM - CONTINUOUS

LEWIS watches on the screen. But then gets a call from the Military Laboratory.

LEWIS
Go ahead. *

MILITARY DOCTOR
Sir, we've completed the tests on the girl.

*
*

MARISSA (V.O.)
Who authorized tests? *

On screen: FALSE MARISSA and HANNA. *

FALSE MARISSA
Do you know where your father is?

LEWIS, half watching the screen, talking to the intercom.

LEWIS
I authorized them. Blood, * urinalysis, hair. All standard. *

INT. OPERATIONAL HQ. LANGLEY - CONTINUOUS

MARISSA, alone in Langley, suddenly alert.

MARISSA
Send the results directly to me.

LEWIS *

Walt and Bob-- *

MARISSA *

If Walt and Bob come asking, send Walt and Bob directly to me. *

FALSE MARISSA
(filtered) *

Did he tell you where he was going?
We're all worried about him.

ON CCTV: Hanna cries, holds out her arms. *

INT. CAMP G. OBSERVATION ROOM - CONTINUOUS

MONITOR
Sir look.

LEWIS turns to the screen as FALSE MARISSA tentatively takes HANNA in her arms.

LEWIS *

Agent keep your distance. *

62 INT. HANNA'S HOLDING CELL - CONTINUOUS 62

The FALSE MARISSA tentatively takes HANNA in her arms.

 FALSE MARISSA
 It's OK. It's OK.

HANNA coils her thin arms around the FALSE MARISSA'S neck, clinging to her like a monkey.

The FALSE MARISSA looks up to the security camera, slightly concerned. Hanna wriggles in her arms, to get a better grip...

INT. OPERATIONAL HQ. LANGLEY - CONTINUOUS 63

MARISSA watches. *

HANNA begins to weep more and more, burrowing her face into the FALSE MARISSA. *

BURTON (V.O.)
(filtered) *

You want me to give her something?

INT. HANNA'S HOLDING CELL - CONTINUOUS 64

HANNA clutching on to FALSE MARISSA, nestles close, weeps. *

FALSE MARISSA
I think it might be necessary.

INT. OPERATIONAL HQ. LANGLEY. CONT. 65

MARISSA watches. Intrigued. Almost excited. *

INT. CORRIDOR OUTSIDE HANNA'S HOLDING CELL - CONTINUOUS 66

Burton comes rushing down the corridor filling a syringe as he goes. He arrives at HANNA'S door.

BURTON
Open up.

The first guard opens HANNA'S door.

INT. HANNA'S HOLDING CELL - CONTINUOUS 67

Hanna hugs, weeping, on to the FALSE MARISSA. BURTON hears the instruction to abort but too late...

...as suddenly and with total efficiency HANNA SNAPS the FALSE MARISSA's neck.

INT. OPERATIONAL HQ. LANGLEY. DAY. CONT. 68

MARISSA stands up as her false self, ON SCREEN, slumps dead to the floor. *

HANNA grabs the first GUARDS handgun from his holster and fires two rounds, BURSTING BURTON'S EYE. And two more into the first GUARD's chest. *

Marissa leans in, captivated.

MARISSA
(whispers)
Oh my.

69

On another screen LEWIS watches as the other Guard tries to drag the metal door shut. He hits a fleshy door jam - Burton. Hanna is upon him. Two shots.

70

MARISSA watches HANNA aim straight at camera. HANNA'S fierce eyes looking at her, MARISSA cant help but pull away from the screen. HANNA fires and the screen goes blank.

71

LEWIS watches as, one after another, his camera's go down. But still there's no sign of HANNA.

LEWIS
She's a child for Christsake!

72

Alarms are sounding and red lights flashing in the corridor.

HANNA walks fast along the corridor. She ducks into a door to avoid two Centre Guards running past, dives down another corridor and walks through a pair of double doors with warning signs on them. PROTECTED ENVIRONMENT - CLASSIFIED PROGRAM.

73

She finds herself in the specialist Military DNA Laboratory. The MILITARY DOCTORS stare at her. One of them reaches for an alarm--

Hanna slides across the desk, her body rams him into the wall, she KNOCKS him out with an elbow and he slides, stunned to the ground.

The other Doctor puts his hands in the air. He drops files and the pages flutter about his feet.

DOCTOR
Please.

Amongst the papers, a PHOTO of Hanna clipped to a single page document. She picks it up, scans it-- "DNA." "Abnormal."

She eyes the doctor for an answer.

But he just presses deeper into the wall, slides to the floor, scared out of his mind.

DOCTOR (CONT'D)

Don't hurt me.

GUARD (O.S.)

This is Sanders. I'm checking Zone eleven.

Hanna puts a finger to her mouth (Shoosh).

A GUARD radios off, then enters. She senses something.

She walks into the lab, gun ready.

The DNA laboratory suddenly seems empty. The buzz of the lab's lighting and the whir of the air-pressurizes are the only sounds as the GUARD looks around.

She walks around a table revealing the unconscious Doctor and the very scared One staring up at her.

Then a rustling from behind the Guard. She tenses up, turns, but HANNA is gone.

74 INT. CAMP G. CORRIDOR IN SECURE BRIEFING CENTRE. 74

HANNA, runs along the corridor. She has in her hands the DNA results which she scrunches up and jams into a pocket.

75 INT. CAMP G. AIR-CONDITIONING DUCT ABOVE CORRIDOR. CONT. 75

HANNA eyes the vent above her. She peers around a corner - her only other route of escape and sees:

76 INT. CAMP G. CORRIDOR. CONT. 76

MILITARY PERSONNEL reach the intersection close to HANNA and spread out, all going in different directions but none coming towards her.

The last pair of personnel start heading towards her. She looks up at the duct again and a length of ducting along the wall, about waist height.

She puts a foot on a rail, hurls herself up towards the vent. She fiddles with the vent, eventually opening it as the personnel are almost upon her.

77 INT. CAMP G. AIR-CONDITIONING VENT. CONT. 77

She crawls through the narrow air-conditioning duct. She stops, alert to the sounds beneath her. Through small perforations in a vent she sees more MILITARY PERSONNEL running down the corridor.

78 INT. CAMP G. AIR-CONDITIONING DUCT ABOVE CORRIDOR. CONT. 78

The duct bends to a vertical angle. She begins to crawl up a steep gradient towards a crack of light.

79

INT. CAMP G. OBSERVATION ROOM.

79

LEWIS sits in silence. MONITOR looks at him nervously.

MONITOR

You think she's out?

LEWIS

She can't get out.

LEWIS picks up an internal telephone.

LEWIS (CONT'D)

(into telephone)

Who's on the perimeter? Detail every unit available.

80 INT. CAMP G. AIR-CONDITIONING VENT. CONT. 80

HANNA is sweating, exhausted, blinking in the darkness, trying to make out what the light source is.

The gradient has got steeper and she starts to slide backwards on the smooth metal surface. She digs her fingers into the rivets joining the plates of stainless steel, trying to get a purchase.

She summons the last of her strength and reaches a crest. She rests a moment, then hauls herself over the crest and immediately starts sliding... she tumbles, gathering pace, falling down a long chute into the blackness. She has no idea where she is or what's happening, but she's covering a lot of ground.

She hits the bottom with a crunch and cries out.

When she opens her eyes she sees more tunnel - and at the end light. She crawls quickly towards it and stops at a kind of manhole cover with a sprung lever - she wrenches the lever and pushes against it. After a little effort the cover gives way and light floods in, blinding her.

HANNA recovers and tentatively pokes her head out into:

81 EXT. MOROCCO/DESERT. CONT. 81

BLAZING SUN -

HANNA sticks her head out of a hole in the ground in the middle of the Moroccan desert. It takes her eyes a moment to adjust to the blinding light. Blearily she looks out across this alien environment.

After a moment her ears prick up. She turns just in time to see a column of Military Jeeps rise over a sand dune a little way behind her. The jeeps are racing straight towards her. She quickly ducks back down into her rabbit hole.

The Military Vehicles pass right over HANNA. When the last vehicle has past we see that the air-conditioning duct is empty.

CUT TO:

HANNA is clinging to the axle, hanging upside down underneath. Her face is pressed to the oily metal, her back just an inch from the desert floor flashing beneath her.

The jeeps now take a track along the edge of a steep dune. HANNA takes her chance and lets go of her grip. She clenches her eyes shut as the jeep passes over her. As soon as the jeeps clears she rolls herself over the edge of the dune.

HANNA rolls down the sand dune at speed until finally she slows and stops. She lies still and shocked by the quiet as the Jeep disappears into the distance. Then she sits up and looks around herself. She has no conception of this landscape, no idea where she might be.

82 OMITTED 82

83 OMITTED (CONTENT IN SCENE 81) 83

84 INT. MARISSA'S APARTMENT. VIRGINIA. USA - NIGHT 84

MARISSA moves between her wardrobe and a suitcase packing clothes, underwear, another power suit.

Fully packed she goes to the back of the wardrobe and pulls aside some dresses to reveal a hidden safe. She keys in the security code, the safe door opens. *

She withdraws a fat manila envelope. She opens it. Inside, a few stacks of American bills. *

She reaches back into the safe and retrieves a blue file. On the file, in large blunt letters: GALINKA. *

85 EXT. ROAD - DUSK (FLASHBACK) 85

1995.

MARISSA presses against a tree beside the road.

She tries to control her breathing. Her hands shake as she checks the clip of a small pistol.

She peers through the trees, the shine of headlights makes her close her eyes.

She steps out into the road, a strange, lone tree and wide mist-filled field in the distance behind her.

She raises her gun at the headlights - still squinting, still shaking.

85A INT. ERIK'S CAR - DUSK (FLASHBACK) 85A

Erik drives and Joanna sits beside him in the passenger seat. Joanna hums a quiet, beautiful song.

A 2-year-old Hanna is in the back seat - her book of GRIMM'S FAIRY TALES open on her lap. She hums too.

Something pierces the windshield. Blood sprays over GRIMM'S FAIRY TALES.

85B EXT. ROAD - DUSK (FLASHBACK) 85B

Marissa, her eyes still closed, FIRES. She FIRES again.

The accelerator of the Car SCREAMS.

Marissa opens her eyes--

And dives as the car speeds past, out of control, spraying mud and ice into the air.

ON HER FACE as she hears the car crash. The HORN blares. Just barely, orange light, flickers to life somewhere behind her.

She smears the black mud across her skin with the back of her hand, unsure of her emotion, just listening, not sure she wants to look-- until she hears the sound of a BABY screaming.

86 INT. MARISSA'S APARTMENT. VIRGINIA. USA - NIGHT 86

PRESENT DAY.

The garbage disposal GRATES. The Galinka file burns in the kitchen sink. Marissa slips on her pink rubber gloves, grabs a dish mop, turns on the tap, and helps push the file down the gurgler.

86A EXT. FIELD - DUSK (FLASHBACK) 86A

1995.

Still CLOSE ON Marissa.

She's on her feet, running. Sprinting. She sees something disturbing, heartbreaking.

In the distance, Erik, Hanna cradled in one arm, drags Johanna's limp body along the ground, desperate to save her, but knowing it's too late. If he wants to save Hanna, he has to let Johanna go. *

So he does.

Two-year-old Hanna, clings to Erik's neck, her Grimm's Fairy Tales draped, open, across his back and held there by one of her tiny hands, doesn't scream, but her eyes linger on her mother lying in the field.

Pages of the book tear against his shirt. Some tear free and twist away across the field.

The whole time Marissa sprints.

She passes the burning wreck, its bumper angled up the trunk of the strange, lone tree.

She AIMS her gun, she can't fire. Erik is across the field, too far, just out of reach. *

Marissa slows and stops beside Johanna's crooked body. *

Marissa rolls her over. Johanna's neck and face and clothes are covered in mud. It hides her gruesome injuries. Erik dragged her an admirable distance from the wreck. *

She's barely alive. It's horribly quiet.

A few pages of Grimm's Fairy Tales float past Johanna's face. *

JOHANNA
She'll never be yours... *

Following a page drifting away as we hear a GUNSHOT.

87 EXT. MOROCCAN DESERT - LATER

87

The sun has dipped a little now, the shadows of the dunes are longer, but the heat is still intense.

HANNA's throat is parched by the dry heat, her pale eyes scorched by the angry sun. She walks purposefully but with a growing awareness of her tiny scale in this seemingly endless sea of sand. She has no conception of this landscape, no idea where she might be.

HANNA climbs a steep dune, eyes down, feet pounding. A shadow falls across her path and she looks up to see the shape of a GIRL standing at the top of the dune silhouetted by the sun. HANNA's hand goes to the concealed gun.

The GIRL stares at HANNA. They must be about the same age but there the resemblance ends.

HANNA, dusty, bloodied and bruised in military top, trousers and boots stares at this perfect image of western adolescence.

Dressed flamboyantly and drinking a can of coke, no concession to where she is whatsoever. This is SOPHIE.

SOPHIE

Hello.

HANNA stares at her, then abruptly turns to walk in opposite direction until she sees another convoy of US military trucks in the distance.

HANNA turns back. Looks at SOPHIE. Like a wary animal.

SOPHIE (CONT'D)

Don't you speak English?

In Sophie's world, everyone her age wants to talk to her, so this can be the only explanation. The truth is: HANNA is simply unsure how to speak to this strange person.

SOPHIE (CONT'D)

It's not your fault if you can't.
M.I.A couldn't speak English until she was eight, because she was, like, a refugee from Sri Lanka. And now she's a pop star, in America too. So don't worry if you can't speak English yet.

At that moment SOPHIE'S brother, MILES, eight years old, rises over the dune and stands by SOPHIE'S side. In his hand is a stills camera, not digital, film. MILES stares at HANNA while talking to SOPHIE.

MILES

Who's she?

SOPHIE

I found her. She can't speak
English. She's from Sri Lanka.

Hanna is compelled to speak, disturbed by someone creating a new identity for her for their own amusement.

HANNA

I'm from Germany.

SOPHIE

Oh yeah?

HANNA

I live in Leipzig. Population 0.7
Million people. We live at Number 7 Weissingerplatz. I like literature and sport, in particular tennis and athletics. I go to school at the Klaus Kohle Gymnasium and my best friends are Rudi Gunther and Clara Schliess.

SOPHIE *
They sound dull. *

Hanna turns to walk away. A thought strikes Sophie. *

SOPHIE (CONT'D) *
What's the age of consent in * Germany? It's something nasty like * fourteen, isn't it? *

Beat. *

Thrown, desperate: *

HANNA *
I also have a dog called Trudi. *

MILES *
We had a dog called Vincent, but he * went mad and died. *

From over the dune comes the voice of SOPHIE and MILES'S * mother, RACHEL. *

RACHEL (O.S.) *
Come on, Sophie! We'll miss the * light. *

MILES raises his camera to his eye and snaps a picture of * HANNA. *

MILES *
Bye. *

SOPHIE *
See you. *

Offhandedly: *

SOPHIE (CONT'D) *
I'm Sophie and this is my brother, *
Miles. *

SOPHIE takes one more puzzled look at HANNA, then turns and * disappears over the sand dune.

HANNA rises to the top of the dune. SOPHIE turns back to *
HANNA.

SOPHIE (CONT'D) *
Do you need a lift somewhere?

HANNA *
No. I prefer to walk.

Beat.

SOPHIE *
Suit yourself. *

SOPHIE and MILES head back towards their nouveau hippy parents, RACHEL and SEBASTIAN who are waiting for them beside an old VAN parked by a tarmac road that cuts straight through the desert.

Hanna turns back into the desert.

88

INT. AEROPLANE - NIGHT.

88

MARISSA sitting in first class, not trying to hide the fact that she's on her cell phone mid-flight. There's turbulence.

LEWIS(O.O.V)
Tactical says she's in the desert south-east of Essaouira.

*

MARISSA
Focus all operations on Erik
Heller.

A sweet-faced male AIR STEWARD hovers over MARISSA.

AIR STEWARD
Excuse me Madame, airline regulations state that -

MARISSA
I'm in conference.

AIR STEWARD
All the same -

MARISSA
Back off.

MARISSA'S response is quietly scary. The attendant is not sure what might happen if he asks her again. He stands there, dumbfounded.

LEWIS (O.O.V)
Are you saying the child is not of interest to us?

MARISSA
She's of interest, of course,
Lewis, but not an immediate threat to the security of the United States of America. Erik Heller is the immediate threat. Focus on Heller.

She hangs up.

89

EXT. DESERT/OASIS - DUSK

89

Hanna amongst slightly elevated desert rocks. She approaches the edge--

Down below, a tuft of green trees surrounding a small body of water - an oasis.

89A EXT. OASIS - DUSK

89A

The CHATTER of female voices.

Hanna sneaks through the trees toward a small body of water.

A group of BERBER WOMEN (non-arab), knee deep, beat clothes against the rock. They speak one of the many Berber dialects (with subtitles).

FIRST BERBER WOMAN

The hairs in his nose are so long...

The women are laughing. She watches them from the trees, fascinated. Women. Just like her. But not like her at all.

FIRST BERBER WOMAN (CONT'D)

I can feel them when he kisses my cheek.

Hanna sneaks around the edge of the water, careful where she steps, making sure she's not seen. There's a clothes line not far from her, strung up between two trees.

Hanna grabs a few items without the ladies noticing.

89B OMITTED

89B *

*

89C EXT. OASIS VILLAGE - DUSK

89C *

A sea of CAMELS. Hundreds of them. MEN steer them, try to keep them tight and together.

The CAMELS moan and croak. Some nip at each other. Most are passive and chew their cud.

Hanna stands amongst them in her stolen pantaloons and top. She's staring in one's face. It's staring back into hers. *

It's nose is pierced with a rope. She touches the rope with her finger. The camel doesn't mind. *

MUSIC floats over the camel's moans. She follows the sound and walks between the camels legs and under their long necks until she finds a sea of human beings. A bazaar. It's so overwhelming. *

And so loud. And the music, from some unseen buskers, so beautiful. *

Over this, HANNA hears:

RACHEL (O.S.)
(calling)
Miles!

And then HANNA sees him, the little, shy boy from before - MILES - running through the crowd carrying a bag of cherries.

RACHEL (O.S.) (CONT'D)
Miles!

She follows him toward a mud built HOTEL.

He runs up the steps toward his mother - RACHEL.

RACHEL (CONT'D)
What did I tell you?

MILES
I wanted cherries.

She grabs him by the arm, maybe a little too hard.

MILES (CONT'D)

Ouch.

She relaxes her grip, takes his hand, gently, and walks him toward the hotel.

HANNA follows.

Rachel and Miles enter the hotel and so does Hanna.

90 OMITTED 90

91 INT. MOROCCAN HOTEL RECEPTION - EVENING 91

HANNA stands at the reception desk. A kindly looking HOTEL OWNER is eating a jammy biscuit. He's a little confused by HANNA.

HOTEL OWNER

Where's your family?

HANNA

Are you Arab?

HOTEL OWNER

I'm Moroccan.

HANNA looks at an array of tourist POSTCARDS displayed on the reception counter.

HANNA

Morocco. Capital city Rabat. Places of interest. Marrakesh. Essouaira.
Religion Islam. Language Arabic
(in Arabic w/ English
subtitles)

I like Arabic very much. It's like Japanese. It's big.

The HOTEL OWNER nearly spits out his biscuit in shock.
Meanwhile HANNA pockets a POSTCARD OF A CAMEL.

HOTEL OWNER
(in Arabic w/ English subtitles)
You speak Arabic?

HANNA
(in Arabic w/ English
subtitles)
Yes, of course.

HOTEL OWNER
(in Arabic w/ English
subtitles)
Where's your family?

HANNA
(in Arabic w/ English
subtitles)
I need a room for one night. Can you help? I don't have any money.

92

INT. MOROCCAN HOTEL BEDROOM - EVENING

92

The HOTEL OWNER leads HANNA down some stairs and into a utilitarian whitewashed room with twin beds. There is a vacuum cleaner and mop and bucket stood by the door, a used coffee cup and a newspaper open on the table.

They speak in Arabic with English subtitles.

HOTEL OWNER
It's the best we've got.

HANNA
Thank you.

HANNA stares at the light switch.

HANNA (CONT'D)
Do you have one of these in every room?

HOTEL OWNER
Of course. All mod cons.

HANNA
It's electricity?

The HOTEL OWNER looks at HANNA askance.

HOTEL OWNER
Yes.

HANNA
I know a little bit about electricity. They say Edison discovered it, or was it Franklin?

HOTEL OWNER
Some American, I'm sure.

He picks up an electric kettle.

HOTEL OWNER (CONT'D)
Electric kettle for the English - they like to make their own tea.

He switches it on, Hanna stares as it heats up noisily.

He goes to a small wall mounted TV, switches it on for her, a fuzzy, terrible picture of an Arabic TV show. HANNA is fascinated, doesn't take her eyes off the TV as she sits on the edge of the bed.

HANNA
What is it?

HOTEL OWNER
It's the best we can do.

She stares at the picture, bemused.

HOTEL OWNER (CONT'D)
Where do you come from?

Distracted, HANNA is caught off guard.

HANNA
The forest.

The HOTEL OWNER smiles, himself a little puzzled by this strange encounter, and leaves.

She just sits there staring at the TV as it's volume seems to increase.

Meanwhile the electric kettle begins to boil. Steam pours from its spout and the whole contraption starts to rattle violently.

HANNA gets up and approaches the kettle very warily. She tries the light switch in an attempt to stop the kettle, but it keeps boiling and making its strange rattle. HANNA tries another switch, the ceiling fan begins to turn, confusing HANNA even more.

On the TV the news shows footage of war in the Middle East, the sound of gunfire.

The ceiling fan is at its top speed, it's blades cut the air like a helicopter.

A telephone beside the bed starts to ring.

Combined the noises rise to a terrifying crescendo.

HANNA backs away towards the bathroom. She stumbles and falls through the bathroom door straight into the shower, inadvertently turning the taps on. Water pours down on her.

HANNA springs up and turns to face the stream of water as if it were an attacker. She runs back into the bedroom.

In the bedroom the kettle is still having a violent tantrum, the TV is still screaming, the fan still cutting, the phone still shouting.

HANNA pulls at the exit door, but doesn't know to turn the handle. She panics. Smashes at the door. Eventually she falls through the door and into the corridor.

93 INT. MOROCCAN HOTEL CORRIDOR - EVENING 93

Silence as HANNA sits on the corridor floor catching her breath.

A little way down the corridor MILES and SOPHIE emerge from their bedroom.

MILES
Look. It's her again.
(calling to Hanna):
Hey German! Hey girl!
Hey, German girl!

He nudges SOPHIE.

HANNA eyes them suspiciously.

SOPHIE
Is 'Kraut' an ethnic slur?

HANNA
What?

SOPHIE
Like "queer" or "lesbo"?

She glances at Hanna to see her reaction.

SOPHIE (CONT'D)
I'd like to be a lesbian. But not one of the fat ones. One whose a supermodel.
(thinking)
But I'd only hold hands. And I'd probably marry a man.

*
*
*
*
*
*
*

MILES
She looks different.

They all regard her clothing.

SOPHIE

Do you want to hang with us?

MILES

Are you hungry?

Hanna shakes her head.

SOPHIE

Are you on a diet?

94 EXT. STRIP CLUB. HAMBURG - NIGHT 94

The Reeperbahn, the main street of Hamburg's red light district. Tough and unglamorous.

MARISSA gets out of a taxi, checks the sign of the strip club * and crosses the road. *

94A INT. STRIP CLUB. HAMBURG - NIGHT 94A

On a small stage a TIRED STRIPPER is performing a snow white routine.

At the far end, MICHAEL ISAACS. Late 40s. A creepy uncle in a tailored white suit.

He ogles the stripper, but gets no pleasure from it. He gets very little pleasure from anything.

He sips from something pink.

Nearby are his two "boys", a big Russian with dead eyes called TITCH and a scrawny teenager called RAZOR, who will stab a man for 10 Euro's.

Marissa enters the bar.

Isaacs smiles, briefly, as she walks toward him. *

She sits and avoids touching anything with her skin. *

	ISAACS	*
No kiss?		*

Marissa eyes the stripper. *

MARISSA *

She's a bit old isn't she. *

ISAACS *
She has male and female genitalia. *

MARISSA *

And you love her just the way she *

is. *

ISAACS *

I give people what they want. Vera * make my friend something sweet. *

MARISSA *

I'll save it for when I need it. *

ISAACS

What do you want, Marissa?

*
*

Marissa smiles. If there's one thing she likes about Isaacs it's that he doesn't bullshit. The second thing is he's the most coldly violent person she's ever met.

The stripper removes her skirt.

MARISSA

Erik Heller's still alive.

ISAACS

Yes. Of course.

MARISSA

And the girl.

Isaacs sips his drink as Razor places Marissa's down.

ISAACS

Why are you here? Be concise.

The stripper unbuttons her corset, one button at a time.

MARISSA

I need you.

ISAACS

You need me? Little ole me? I'm very flattered. You have an entire agency. 5000 strapping young men at your disposal.

MARISSA

I need your talents, darling. I need you to do things my agency will not let me do.

*

Marissa eyes her drink, doesn't touch it. Then the stripper, her corset open now, barely covering her breasts.

ISAACS notices something, he stands--

ISAACS

(in German)

STOP.

*

Marissa stands too, puts a few feet between him and her, not sure he might bite. She's not scared of him, just cautious.

STRIPPER

What's wrong, daddy?

ISAACS
 (to Razor and in German)
 Again. Start again. AGAIN!

*

Saliva bursts from his mouth.

Razor scurries up on stage and disappears into the back to restart the music.

Isaacs sits, calms, sips his pink drink.

ISAACS (CONT'D)
 Money.

*

Marissa pulls the fat manila envelope from her inside pocket and drops it on the table.

*

ISAACS (CONT'D)
 The girl or Erik?

MARISSA
 She's in Morocco. It's all in the envelope. Let me worry about Erik.

*

*

ISAACS
 Shall I kill her?

*

Marissa pauses as Razor comes back on stage giving Isaacs the thumbs up as the music spins something whimsical.

MARISSA
 Just find her.

*

The stripper, almost completely dressed again, swings her hips and begins to remove her clothes again.

Marissa begins to leave.

As Marissa reaches the door:

ISAACS
 Did she turn out as you hoped?

*

She pauses at the door, letting the busy street noise in.

*

MARISSA
 Better.

*

*

She exits.

HANNA is sitting at a table with the FAMILY who are all eating falafel while HANNA eats meat.

SOPHIE and MILES parents, RACHEL and SEB, have some difficulty relating to their daughters attitudes. They belong to a generation of counter cultural radicals whose priorities have, over the past decade, shifted and they're now trying to assimilate into mainstream society whilst still holding on to their ideals of autonomy and social liberation.

They felt genuinely troubled when Kate Winslet and Sam Mendes got divorced.

SOPHIE is describing a recent cultural phenomenon while she picks at her food.

SOPHIE

She was married to this footballer and, you know, she really loved him and gave him lots of advice about how to dress and how to spend his money and do his tax. Because even though she's beautiful, she's actually brilliant with money. Like, when he said to her for their anniversary, "Here's fifteen grand, do you want a Hermes Kelly bag or a boob job?" she said she knew the implants have to be replaced every ten years, but that the Kelly bag never depreciates in value.

Sophie sits back.

SOPHIE (CONT'D)

That's just common sense. That's why everyone loves her.

Meanwhile HANNA eyes the crowd, constantly on the look out.

SOPHIE (CONT'D)

Mum is against plastic surgery.

RACHEL

I am.

SOPHIE

Mum doesn't even wear make-up.

RACHEL

I don't. I think it's dishonest. This is my face. Take it or leave it.

SOPHIE

(whispers to Hanna)
Leave it.

RACHEL

If you study Anthropology, or History of Art,

SEB *
Rachel - Sophie's Mum - did a * double major at Cambridge. *

RACHEL *
...you learn that red lipstick * mimics arousal and suggests the * geography of female genitalia. *

SOPHIE *
PUKE. *

RACHEL *
(a bit vain) *
But I have a lot of pigment in my * lips naturally, so I never needed *
it. *

SOPHIE *
VOMITORIUM. *

SEB *
Oh, grow up, Sophie! *

SOPHIE *
Grow up? Oh. Because yesterday Mum * said I shouldn't act beyond my * years. *

RACHEL *
That does leave her with mixed * messages, darling, when I'm trying * so hard to get Sophie to appreciate * her childhood. *

SEB *
I just want her not to say *
"vomitorium". *

Miles mimes being sick. *

SEB (CHANGING SUBJECT.) (CONT'D) *
I'm pretty impressed that you're * travelling on your own, Hanna. *

HANNA *
My father encourages me to be * independent. *

RACHEL *
That's wonderful. *

(she is now rather * competing with Sophie for * Hanna's attention, and to * impress her) *

I was backpacking at your age. *
(MORE)

RACHEL (CONT'D)

Spent a heavenly summer island
hopping around Greece.

SEB

(under his breath)

Bed hopping around Greece.

Rachel flashes him a look.

SEB (CONT'D)

(quietly to Rachel)

No, no, it was valuable. Our experiences make us who we are.

(to the table)

Are your parents still together,
Hanna?

HANNA

My mother is dead.

SEB

Oh. I'm so sorry to hear that. I lost my mother young, too. See, kids. All the things you complain about. Your shoes aren't the right brand. The Tivo doesn't work...

MILES

(going with it)

My ipod doesn't have enough gigabytes.

SEB

You don't know real sadness.

HANNA

It's ok, it was a long time ago.

MILES

What did she die of?

With great relish:

HANNA

Three bullets.

RACHEL

Oh My God. How appalling.

RACHEL and SEB are appalled, SOPHIE's cool deserts her, she is weirdly impressed.

97 OMITTED 97 *

98 INT. MOROCCAN HOTEL BEDROOM - NIGHT 98

The TV flickers illuminating HANNA as she sits on her bed looking at the DNA report folded up into a tight wad. She smooths it out and reads.

The test reads: HANNA HELLER - "SGM + test results. Interfering sequence present. Abnormal. B sample confirms result"

HANNA stares at the words. "Interfering sequence present. Abnormal." HANNA looks at the photo of herself and those words.

HANNA
"Abnormal"

What does it mean?

EXT. SOUTH SWEDISH COAST - PRE-DAWN

A barren rocky outcrop on the South Swedish coast. Erik arrives. He has a rucksack on his back.

Erik undresses and puts his suit in a plastic bag that he knots tight. He puts the bag into the rucksack and puts it on his back.

He stares across the water towards DENMARK in the distance. Then he begins to wade into the water.

EXT. HOTEL CAR PARK. - PRE-DAWN

In the parking lot, Seb struggles with the family's luggage. *
He shoves the bags in and, no matter how hard he tries, they * just won't fit. He stomps his feet a bit, a grown child. *

Hanna watches him, unseen. *

EXT. VAN/ROOF - PRE-DAWN

Hanna lurks around the van and tries the doors. All locked. *

She climbs up onto the roof. *

The sun roof is open a few inches. *

She slips her fingers into the gap and pries it open. *

OMITTED

OMITTED

INT/EXT. VAN/ATLAS MOUNTAINS - DAY.

THE FAMILY travels through a mountain pass, sleepy and grumpy, yawning, looking around.

It's cold in here.

The sun roof to the rear, above the breakfast table and bench seats, is wide open.

SEB

Well, somebody broke the sun roof.
And since your mother and I are adults and we respect property...

MILES

I didn't break it.

RACHEL

Seb, leave it. I'm sure it's insured.

SEB

Do people insure sunroofs? Do they?
The last time I checked, they do not. Just you wait. No vacation next year. No new clothes or ipods.

SOPHIE

We didn't do it.

MILES

I already have an ipod.

105 OMITTED 105

105A EXT. FERRY PORT - DAY 105A

The FAMILY VAN pulls up to a busy ferry port.

Across the sails of tiny fishing boats, the enormous hull of a modern PASSENGER FERRY gliding into dock.

105B OMITTED 105B *

*

105C INT. MOROCCAN HOTEL OFFICE - DAY

105C

ISAACS is at a small TV speeding through CCTV footage of the hotel carpark. TITCH stands over the now bruised HOTEL OWNER.

HOTEL OWNER

Who are you? What is your business with the girl?

*

*

ISAACS

Oh, I'm her uncle. We're very concerned about her well-being.

*

*

HOTEL OWNER

I don't know what - what you're looking for. She came, she was nice, she left.

*

*

*

*

TITCH hits him.

*

ISAACS

There we are.

*

*

ON TV: footage of HANNA climbing into the Family's VAN through the sunroof.

ISAACS (CONT'D)

Has this van checked out?

*

HOTEL OWNER

Today.

ISAACS

North or south?

HOTEL OWNER

The ferry, they catch the ferry to Spain.

ISAACS

Very good. Titch, princess...

*

Titch flips open a KNIFE--

106 INT. FERRY CAR DECK. - DAY

106

Cars are parking, their headlights on in the dark hull, horns blowing, FERRY GUARDS directing people to parking spaces - it's chaos.

SEB parks the van with some difficulty, complaining all the while.

SEB
Typical. They're worse than Italians.

They get out, taking with them anything they might need - knapsacks, computer games, suit cases.

They head off towards the stairs up to the decks as we hold on the van.

106A INT. HANNA'S HIDE OUT. VAN - CONTINUOUS 106A

HANNA lies quietly, cramped into a tiny space. Her eyes glistening in the dark. She listens to the strange sounds of the ferry beginning to leave dock.

106B EXT. FERRY PORT - DAY 106B

ISAACS arrives at the ferry port, but is too late. He looks out to sea where, on the horizon, he can see the ferry sailing into the distance.

He pulls out his cell phone and punches in a number.

107-113 OMITTED 107-113

114 EXT. DANISH COASTLINE - DAY 114

Dark rain pours down onto long WOODEN WALKWAYS that stretch out into the sea.

A figure slides through the water. Then, like a monster from the deep, ERIK emerges. He pulls himself free. Water dripping from his body.

He takes a deep breath, tries to shake off the unbearable cold. His lips, fingers, and toes are almost blue.

At the far end of the walkway

TWO POLICEMEN approach.

DANISH POLICEMAN.

It's a little cold for a swim isn't it?

115 EXT. MOTORWAY/SOUTHERN SPAIN - DAY 115

The FAMILY'S van speeds up through Spain.

Hills are emerging and the land is turning green.

They pass a lay-by where RAZOR is waiting on a motorbike. He sees the van, drops his helmets visor, and follows.

115A INT. HANNA'S HIDE OUT. VAN - DAY

115A

HANNA is still in her tiny hide out. There is a small spy hole through which she can see glimpses of the family who are all singing along with great enthusiasm to final bars of SOME CLASSIC SONG.

Miles notices the shadows and light moving in the peep hole. He knows she's there.

116-119 OMITTED

116-119

120 EXT. DANISH COASTLINE - DUSK

120

Marissa watches as--

*

a crane pulls out the limp, icy body of a DANISH POLICEMAN, his face a beaten, abstract pulp.

*

*

Lewis strides down the walkway and reaches Marissa's side.

*

LEWIS

*

I've alerted Interpol. We can't keep this to ourselves anymore.

*

*

*

MARISSA

*

On who's authority?

*

LEWIS

*

HQ.

*

MARISSA

*

Were you not listening?

*

LEWIS

*

He killed two police. He's reframed the situation, it's out of our control.

*

*

*

*

MARISSA

*

Then we must regain control of our story, Mr. Lewis. I'm the first and last person Erik Heller will see. Are we clear?

*

*

*

*

*

Lewis watches the water drip off the policeman's body.

*

MARISSA (CONT'D)

*

Are we clear, Mr. Lewis?

*

LEWIS

*

Yes. We're clear.

*

120A INT. HANNA'S HIDE OUT. VAN - DUSK

120A

The van has stopped and HANNA is listening for sounds of the family. They seem to be out of the van. HANNA decides to take her chance at escape.

She begins to lift the lid of her hide out.

121 INT/EXT. VAN/SPANISH CAMPSITE - DUSK

121

A cushion moves and then a box slides forward. HANNA climbs out--

CLICK. Miles sits in the back of the van, his camera pointed at Hanna.

She tries to stand but her legs give way and she falls to the floor. She rubs her legs quickly bringing them back to life.

Miles GIGGLES. He's too shy to speak, but he's slowly becoming bolder. Hanna isn't sure what to make of him. He doesn't seem to be a threat so she ignores him, gazes out the window.

The campsite is heaving with humanity, thousands of EUROPEAN CAMPERS who have turned the site into what amounts to a shanty town - a small city with its own shops, drainage, borders and rules.

Families come here from cities across Europe and bring their whole lives with them.

A GERMAN family is walking around in skimpy swimming costumes.

RACHEL reads a translation of THE MANDARINS by Simone De Beauvoir, the straps of her bathing suit loose from a day of avoiding tan lines.

SEB peels potatoes.

SOPHIE, a little way off, chats with two SPANISH BOYS, FELICIANO and his BROTHER. FELICIANO is very handsome.

Sophie eyes her Mom. Rachel looks up from her book at Sophie, a little concern over the cute boys chatting up her daughter.

BEHIND RACHEL

HANNA steps out of the van wary of being seen.

She runs from the van, through the tent city.

RAZOR, straddling his bike, a cell phone to his ear, watches Hanna scurry through the tents.

RAZOR

Got her.

122 OMITTED (CONTENT IN SCENE 121)

122

123-125 OMITTED

123-125

126 INT. CAMPSITE PUBLIC BATHROOM - NIGHT

126

*

HANNA is drinking from a bathroom tap, trying to quench a thirst that has built up over her hours of confinement.

*

*

SOPHIE enters with her make-up bag.

*

SOPHIE

*

Oh, my God. What are you doing here?

*

*

HANNA

*

I'm thirsty.

*

SOPHIE

*

Yeah, that's not what I meant, actually. So come on, out with it.

*

*

HANNA

*

Out with what?

*

SOPHIE

*

The whole story. Did you have a fight with your dad, or something?

*

*

HANNA

*

Yes.

*

SOPHIE

*

Was it bad?

*

HANNA

*

No. I won.

*

SOPHIE

*

So, how did you get here?

*

SOPHIE puts two and two together.

*

SOPHIE (CONT'D)

*

Oh my God, the sun roof! Was it you?

*

*

HANNA

*

Would it be very bad if it was?

*

SOPHIE

*

You mean you were in the van the whole time? My dad'd have a heart attack if he found out.

*

*

*

*

HANNA *
Will you have to tell him? *

SOPHIE *
Hanna! You are SO mental. Of course *
I'm not going to tell him. I think * it's brilliant. Have you got * anywhere to stay? *

HANNA *
No. *

SOPHIE *
Yes you do, you're staying with me. *

HANNA *
I am? *

SOPHIE *
Yeah, obviously. I'm sneaking you * in. On one condition. *

HANNA *
What? *

SOPHIE *
I've met these boys, Spanish, * gorgeous, but not all preen-y about * it like the footballers. *

Hanna stares at her. *

SOPHIE (CONT'D) *
They haven't got their eyebrows * waxed, or anything. *

Hanna still staring. *

SOPHIE (CONT'D) *
Anyway, we're meeting them tonight * and you have to come. *

HANNA *
All right. *

SOPHIE *
God, you're not hard to convince. *
Hoe. *

Hanna smarts. Sophie continues, lovingly. *

SOPHIE (CONT'D) *
Have you got something to wear? *

HANNA looks down at the clothes she's wearing. *

SOPHIE (CONT'D)

You can't wear those! You'll look like some mad German.

*
*
*

126A EXT. SPANISH ROAD - NIGHT

126A

A lonely street lamp beside a big row of bushes. RAZOR's bike lies on the side of the road. Razor is no where to be seen.

Isaacs' car pulls up. He honks.

The bush shakes. Razor exits the bush buttoning his fly.

126B OMITTED

126B *

126C EXT. SPANISH ROAD - NIGHT

126C

The two SCOOTERS race down the road, the headlights vibrating, crossing back and forth over each other.

Hanna, her balance unsure, holds onto the back of Feliciano's scooter, trying not to touch the boy in front of her.

FELICIANO
(yelling over the wind)
Hold on.

He speeds up. Hanna is forced to hug and hold on to him.

A car comes from the other direction and PASSES--

It's ISAACS' RENTAL CAR headed toward the camp.

126D EXT. HUNGAROS (GYPSY) CAMP - NIGHT

126D

A small caravan of Gypsies.

The atmosphere is warm and familial. A small group are playing Flamenco music around a camp fire. There's a singer, a guitar player, someone sitting on a cajon - tap, tap, tapping - a few large men, wearing heavy gold rings, doing palmas. Their kids sit around watching, their chubby cheeks resting on their mother's laps.

Hanna, Sophie, and the two boys sit on a log in front of a big FIRE. Hanna is fascinated. She turns to FELICIANO.

HANNA
What is this music?

FELICIANO
Flamenco. You never hear? Is all about death and love and death...

Feliciano makes a face, takes a drag on a hash pipe, offers it to Hanna.

FELICIANO (CONT'D)
It's good for the lungs.

Hanna smells it, wrinkles her nose and passes it on to Feliciano's brother. He takes a long drag, suppresses a cough, tries to be cool.

*

They all look so very young and inexperienced.

*

A YOUNG DANCER stands, poised, back straight, arms raised. He catches the rhythm like a bullet and begins to dance, his heels sending sparks flying from the fire.

Hanna has never seen anything so passionate. She grabs onto Feliciano's leg out of sheer excitement for what she's seeing.

Feliciano slips his arm around her back. Hanna doesn't acknowledge this, but doesn't mind. She too wrapped up in what she's seeing. This is life like she never experienced it.

126E EXT. HUNGAROS (GYPSY) CAMP - NIGHT

126E

Hanna and Feliciano are standing behind one of the Gypsy caravans, just out of reach of prying eyes.

(The following is inter-cut with close-ups of the Flamenco dancing from the previous scene).

HANNA

Are we going to kiss now?

FELICIANO

Would you like to?

She looks at him, weighing up his question.

HANNA

Kissing requires a total of thirty-four facial muscles and 112 postural muscles.

Feliciano closes his eyes, leans in.

HANNA (CONT'D)

The most important muscle involved is the orbicularis oris muscle --

She feels the warmth of his face nearing hers, before he kisses her--

HANNA (CONT'D)

--which is used to pucker the lips--

She grabs him, throws him to the ground, presses her knee into his back, holds his head as if to snap.

SOPHIE and Feliciano's mate come around the corner, shocked.

SOPHIE

Hanna! You mentalist

*

FELICIANO

Please, don't hurt me.

(to SOPHIE)

Please, tell your friend, I just wanted a kiss...

HANNA looks up at SOPHIE. Now that she has FELICIANO on the ground she doesn't know what to do with him.

HANNA

Should I let him go?

SOPHIE

As opposed to what? Yes, you should let him go.

HANNA whispers into FELICIANO'S ear.

HANNA

I'm going to go now.

FELICIANO

Sure.

HANNA

It was nice.

127 OMITTED

127

128 OMITTED

128

129	OMITTED	129	*
129A	INT. KATRIN'S APARTMENT - NIGHT	129A	*
	The room is dark.		*
	With a torch, MARISSA methodically searches the apartment.		*
	She searches the kitchen drawers.		*
	She searches the bathroom.		*
129B	INT. KATRIN'S APARTMENT/BATHROOM - NIGHT	129B	*
	She pauses and looks at her reflection in the mirror - she's looking increasingly tired and strained.		*
	She bares her teeth... she eyes the toothbrush at the sink... it's a weird compulsion... she overcomes it and stalks out.		*
129C	INT. KATRIN'S APARTMENT - NIGHT	129C	*
	She walks down the hall to the spare bedroom, tries the door and enters. She sees the walls covered in newspaper clippings and photographs relating Johanna's murder. But also the picture of other MISSING WOMEN from around the same time. MARISSA stares at their faces for a moment then looks to her feet where she finds a box of old cassette tapes. She stops to inspect one of the tapes. A label reads: 'Johanna no. 24'.		*
	OMITTED		*
130A	OMITTED	130A	*
130Aa	INT. CORRIDOR APARTMENT BLOCK. OLD EAST BERLIN HOUSING PROJECT - NIGHT	130Aa	*
	A well-dressed woman in her 60's, KATRIN ZADECK approaches the door to her apartment.		*
	A quiet voice murmurs inside.		*
	JOHANNA (V.O.)		*
	Mama...		*
130B	INT. KATRIN'S APARTMENT - NIGHT	130B	*
	JOHANNA (V.O.)		*
	(in German)		*
	Mama, I know you're disappointed in me, I know it. I'm so sorry, Mama.		*
	But I have found maybe a way to make it better...		*

The whirl of the tape being fast forward. Katrin walks down the hallway following the sound of her daughter's voice.

JOHANNA (V.O.) (CONT'D)
(in German)
They're such a lovely couple, Mama.
Americans. So rich. They'll be good for the baby. They're keeping good care of me. Vitamins. All the food
I could ever eat. I'm so fat.

In the lounge, Marissa sits smiling, a tape player on the coffee table.

JOHANNA (V.O.) (CONT'D)
(in German)
The husband, Erik, he helped me make these tapes for you-

Marissa presses STOP.

MARISSA
Idiot.

KATRIN
(in German)
How did you get into my house, Ms.
Wiegler?

MARISSA
(in German)
I'm looking for Erik.

KATRIN
(in German)
He said you were dead.

MARISSA
(in German)
So you've seen him?

KATRIN
(in English)
He sent word.

MARISSA
(in English)
Where's Hanna?

Katrin senses a weakness, smiles.

KATRIN
(in German)
Did you ever have children of your own?

MARISSA
(in English)
I made certain choices.

KATRIN

(in German)

Then you will never understand what it's like. To lose your child. To not know what happened. The years of waiting, of watching from the window.

Marissa unholsters her gun and pulls a silencer from her pocket. She begins to screw it in place.

Katrin stands, turning her back on Marissa and paces over to a picture hanging on the wall.

KATRIN (CONT'D)

(in German)

Have you seen her? Hanna. Can you tell me what she looks like?

A SILENCED GUNSHOT.

Katrin falls.

MARISSA, her silenced pistol raised, smoke swirling, looks at the photograph, revealed, of JOANNA.

MARISSA

(in German)

Like her mother.

She fires again. The frame SHATTERS.

130C EXT. VAN/CAMPSITE - NIGHT

130C

The VAN rocks with the quiet knocking of kitchen implements.
Inside SEB and RACHEL are having sex.

Isaacs approaches the Family's tent with a torch.

He unzips it, shines the light in, looking for Hanna--

Miles shades his eyes.

MILES
Sophie is that you?

Isaacs reaches a hand in, lightly pinches Miles' cheeks.

ISAACS
(in French, whispers)
It's the sandman. Go to sleep.

Isaacs, frustrated, zips up the tent and creeps away.

Just as he disappears

Hanna and Sophie, arm in arm, walk from the entrance of the campsite toward the rocking van.

SOPHIE
Oh, God. They're at it like rabbits. So gross.

HANNA
At what?

131 INT. TENT. SPANISH CAMPSITE - NIGHT

131

HANNA and SOPHIE lie next to each other with a sleeping bag over them and a torch between them.

SOPHIE looks at HANNA.

SOPHIE
Hanna?

HANNA
Yes?

SOPHIE
Where do you really come from?

HANNA
Leipzig, I live in Leipzig -

SOPHIE loses her patience.

SOPHIE
If we're going to be friends you have to be honest with me. That's the rules.

HANNA is taken aback.

HANNA
Are we friends?

SOPHIE

Yes. I like you.

HANNA

I'd like to have a friend.

SOPHIE

I mean you're a freak and everything, but I like you.

HANNA

I like you too. I really do. But there are things I can't tell you. Do you understand?

SOPHIE

Yes... Actually, no, I don't.

HANNA

There are people that want to harm me. Bad people.

SOPHIE

I see.

HANNA

And they wont stop.

SOPHIE

Right.

HANNA

So for your own safety...

HANNA looks into SOPHIE'S eyes.

HANNA (CONT'D)

Can we still be friends?

SOPHIE

I don't know. I mean, I don't really know who you are. Do I?

HANNA

That's just it. Neither do I.

She reaches into her bag. Brings out the DNA report. Shows it to Sophie. They read. Interfering Sequence. Abnormal.

SOPHIE

What is it?

HANNA

It's something about me. I know what DNA is. I don't understand the rest of it.

SOPHIE

Are you sick?

HANNA
I don't feel sick.

SOPHIE
What's wrong with you?

HANNA
Nothing's wrong with me.

They look at it, puzzling.

SOPHIE
What are you going to do?

HANNA
I'm going to Berlin. I have to meet my father at the house of Wilhelm Grimm.

SOPHIE
As in "Grimm's Fairytales"?

HANNA
That's right.

SOPHIE sighs at HANNA.

SOPHIE
If you say so.

HANNA
Did I say the wrong thing again?

SOPHIE looks at HANNA, sees she's vulnerable. She takes a bracelet off her own wrist. Gives it to her.

SOPHIE
Keep this. To remember me.

HANNA takes it, puts it on. Moved. Looks at SOPHIE.

SOPHIE (CONT'D)
It's a friendship bracelet.

HANNA
Thank you.

HANNA stares at the ceiling, looks over at SOPHIE who's starting to sleep. HANNA reaches out and touches her hair.

Beside them, separated by a thin piece of fabric, we see that MILES has woken and has been listening in the darkness.

*

132A OMITTED

132A *

132B OMITTED

132B *

133 OMITTED

133

133A INT. DANISH HOSTEL/BATHROOM - EARLY HOURS

133A

ERIK in the first hot shower he's had in 14 years. His hands are swollen and black and the skin broken at the knuckles.

133B INT. DANISH HOSTEL - EARLY HOURS

133B

Erik has wrapped his waist, shoulders, and hooded his head in towels. He sits on the edge of the bed staring at the bedside table. On it, a POSTCARD with a camel.

He picks it up, turns it over, and reads (probably for the 100th time): MISSION ACCOMPLISHED.

He smirks. His little girl has done it and soon he will see her again.

133C INT/EXT. TENT. SPANISH CAMPSITE - MORNING

133C

SOPHIE, still wearing her clothes from the night before, wakes to find HANNA has gone.

SOPHIE climbs out of the tent and rubs her bleary eyes.

SEB and RACHEL are preparing breakfast while MILES sits yawning on the steps of the van.

SOPHIE
Where's Hanna?

RACHEL
You look rough. Do you want tea?

SEB Hanna who?

SOPHIE
The girl we ate dinner with in Morocco. She's here. Or was. She came out with me last night.

SEB
How did she get here? Is she with her dad?

SOPHIE
No. She came on her own.
(to Seb)
Why are you frowning?

Rachel looks pointedly at Sebastian.

RACHEL
We have to let other parents have their own style of parenting. He's promoting independence.

SEB
That's too independent for my tastes. You can call me conservative, but...

RACHEL
You are inherently conservative, darling.

SEB
No I'm not!

SOPHIE
I said we'd give her a lift to Lille. We are going to Lille, aren't we?

HANNA appears from the woods carrying TWO BLOODIED, SKINNED RABBITS.

She lays them in front of the family, they hit the table with a wet SMACK.

HANNA
Breakfast.

SOPHIE lets out a shriek of nervous laughter, while SEB and RACHEL are confused as to what the appropriate reaction might be. *

SOPHIE
That's gross. *

MILES
That's amazing! *

He looks at Sophie accusingly: *

MILES (CONT'D)
I bet Cheryl Cole can't do that! *

134 INT. VAN/SPANISH CAMPSITE - MORNING 134

The FAMILY has checked out and DRIVE THROUGH the campsite.

Hanna stares out the window, she sees Isaacs' rental car.
Isaacs sits on the hood rolling a cigarette. He stares right at her, smiles.

135 OMITTED 135

136 OMITTED 136

137 INT. DANISH HOSTEL - DAY 137

Erik at reception.

RECEPTIONIST

Good day?

ERIK

Very. I'll be checking out.

RECEPTIONIST

So soon?

ERIK

Just a short business trip. I'm headed home now.

*
*

RECEPTIONIST

Well, be careful. You heard about the manhunt? A man killed two coastguards.

*

She hands him his bill.

ERIK

I'll be careful.

He's still smiling and charming. He picks up the pen with his swollen hand, his knuckles torn, and signs the bill.

She's sees it and he knows it.

Her eyes betray her - she's scared.

ERIK (CONT'D)

Thank you.

He lays down the pen and exits, pausing at the door, contemplating how to cover his tracks-- but he can't do what's necessary-- and exits.

The receptionist PICKS UP THE PHONE.

138 INT. BERLIN MAIN STATION - DAY.

138

A commuter train pulls into the vast station. Amongst the morning commuters alighting the train is ERIK HELLER. He looks furtively around, and tries to blend in with the crowd.

POV - from a walkway above the station - someone is watching Erik as he tries to conceal himself within the throng. A DANISH AGENT, hidden on a metal walkway above the platform.

On the platform Erik walks amongst the commuters, past the ticket collectors, past another DANISH AGENT posing as a commuter - he stops and lingers by him, noting something not right.

He moves off and walks through a tunnel towards the underground station car park.

The second AGENT immediately follows and from the walkway, the other rushes downstairs to give chase too.

138A INT. UNDERGROUND STATION CARPARK - DAY

138A

Erik runs through the carpark towards an open area with wide pillars.

He steps behind one of the pillars just as FOUR AGENTS appear from each of the four exits.

AGENTS signal to each other, he must be in here but they can't see him.

AGENT

We've got him. Picking up now.

Erik suddenly jumps out of the hiding place and grabs the AGENT with the radio, head-butts him, the radio goes flying.

He spins around and kicks the other in the chest.

He boots the first guy in the nuts.

He plants an elbow in the neck of the third guy...

One of the AGENTS draws his hand gun.

Erik produces a knife out of nowhere and launches at the man, cutting him on the hand, making him drop his gun.

The radio suddenly responds.

VOICE ON RADIO

OK bring him to Wiegler. She wants to talk to him. I repeat, Marissa Wiegler will ID and interview...

Erik stops dead. MARISSA WIEGLER is alive.

Another AGENT comes at him. ERIK, more ferocious than ever given what he's just heard, stabs the AGENT in the side and the man falls to the ground squealing.

All FOUR AGENTS lie groaning and disabled on the ground.

ERIK picks up the radio and speaks into it with a perfect American accent.

ERIK

Is that what she said?

VOICE ON RADIO

That's what she said.

ERIK stands in shock.

139 OMITTED

139

140

EXT. FRENCH ROAD - DAY

140

The FAMILY van is making its way up through France.

Following in the black rental car, a few cars behind, ISAACS, TITCH and RAZOR are biding their time.

RAZOR is killing time buy taking the bullets out of a cartridge, and rolling one back and forth across his knuckles.

TITCH unwraps a Chuppa Chup and sticks it in his mouth.

141

INT. VAN/FRENCH ROAD - DAY

141

RACHEL is driving, while HANNA rides in the front seat.

RACHEL

I feel so much more grounded when I'm in the countryside. The city stifles me... emotionally, creatively, spiritually. Places like this bring us closer to God.

HANNA

"God?"

RACHEL

Oh, not in any monotheistic sense, of course. Buddha. Krishna. The God inside you. Or whatever you believe in. What do you believe in, Hanna?

HANNA is looking in the side view mirror. She sees ISAACS rental car. She doesn't panic, but it begins to stir in her gut.

RACHEL (CONT'D)

Nothing.

(laughs to herself)

I used to be just like you, free as the wind... I slept with a man in India, once, because I thought he looked like Krishna.

*
*
*
*
*
*
*

RACHEL makes a turn and HANNA checks the side view mirror again. Yes, the rental car is still there. HANNA becomes anxious.

RACHEL (CONT'D)

Everything all right?

HANNA

I think so.

But HANNA'S face betrays her concern.

142 INT. HOTEL SUITE. BERLIN - NIGHT 142 *

MARISSA in the bathroom wearing pyjamas and no make up. She's brushing her teeth, pressing the brush into her lower, central incisors. Blood streaks as she listens to: *

-- a portable cassette machine on the bed in her bedroom playing one of Johanna's tapes. *

 JOANNA (V.O.) *

 ...I'm not sure if it's true that * the baby can hear me, but at night *

 I sing. I hope it hears me... *

She spits blood into the sink. *

She pads over to the tape machine and presses fast forward. *

Then play - *

 JOANNA (V.O.) (CONT'D) *

 ...was it like this for you, Mama? *

 I think I know what the baby looks * like. I can see it when I close my * eyes. *

Marissa closes her eyes. *

 JOANNA (V.O.) (CONT'D) *

 I can hear it inside me. Moving. Is * that silly? I think it's a girl. I * hope so. *

The phone rings. It's shocking. The phone rings again. *

Marissa lifts the receiver. *

 MARISSA *

 What? *

Nothing. Dead air. *

 MARISSA (CONT'D) *

 Lewis? For Christ's sake-- *

 ERIK (ON PHONE) *

 Hello Marissa. *

MARISSA stops dead. Johanna GIGGLES. Static CRACKLES *

 JOHANNA (V.O.) *

 (in German) *

 ...I think he likes me. Even though * he knows all about me. He looks at * me. He doesn't judge me... *

 ERIK (ON PHONE) *

 What are you listening to? *

Marissa stops the player. *

MARISSA *
Self help. *

ERIK *
Are you in need of help? *

Marissa picks up her cell, texts Lewis: *

GET TECH. COME UPSTAIRS. *

MARISSA *
It's good to hear you. I didn't * imagine we'd get the chance to * talk. *

ERIK *
You were supposed to be dead. *

MARISSA *
Oh, Erik. You're such a flirt. *

Lewis enters, a little too loudly. *

LEWIS *
Tech's on the way up-- *

Marissa puts a finger to her lips, points to the phone. He * shuts the door. *

MARISSA *
You were a good agent Erik. It was * sad to see you go dumb. *

ERIK *
I couldn't do it anymore. *

MARISSA *
What did I miss? *

ERIK *
Love. *

There's a subtle BASS coming from the hallway. Maybe people * talking. *

MARISSA *
I'm sorry? With Johanna? *

ERIK *
No, with Hanna. *

MARISSA *
So why come back now? *

A KNOCK at the door. *

Lewis mouths: TECH GUYS and moves to answer it. *

MARISSA *
 Erik? I asked you a question. Erik, * are you still there? *

Lewis bends to the peep hole, stares through-- *

ERIK (ON PHONE) *
 I'm still here. *

The bass vibrates low through the walls and echoes Erik's * voice through the phone-- *

Marissa drops the phone, reaches out to Lewis-- *

LEWIS' POV, PEEPHOLE-- *

The cavernous barrel of a gun. A white flash-- *

A loud SHOT. *

In a mirror on the far side of the room, Lewis falls in * reflection. Red drops dabble on its surface like fresh rain-- * another SHOT-- the mirror splinters the reflection, pieces * flood onto the floor. *

Marissa slides across the bed for her gun, snatches it, FIRES * wild, in motion, at the door. She slides off the bed and * smacks into the far wall. *

FROM OUTSIDE, unseen, Erik fires back. *

A storm of smoke and slivers of wood and bullets. Loud, * deafening CRACKS and POPS. Until all the sound that is left * is just few clicks of Marissa's empty gun. *

Marissa lays crooked against the far wall under a window. One * hand reaches up and clings to the curtain above her. As she * applies her weight, it slowly tears from its hooks. *

She holds her empty gun at the door, unable to move save for * her heaving chest up and down. *

MARISSA *
 (whispers) *
 Move. Get up. *

Her gun hand quivers. *

A LOUD STRIKE. The door frame cracks. *

Another QUICK STRIKE. The door caves. *

Erik is in, gun RAISED. His eyes search the room quickly with * only slight awareness of self-preservation (he just needs to * live long enough to kill her). *

He clears the room with a quick sweep of the gun. *

But Marissa is gone. All that is left of her is a slightly * torn curtain blowing in the gust of an open window. *

143-144 OMITTED

143-144

145 EXT. BRIDGE OVER INDUSTRIAL AREA - NIGHT 145

The FAMILY'S van drives - behind ISAACS rental car tails it.

146 INT. VAN. BRIDGE OVER INDUSTRIAL AREA - NIGHT

146

HANNA sits beside her in the passenger seat, her anxiety growing.

RACHEL is still at the wheel, watching the bright headlights behind.

RACHEL
Shit. Shit, shit, shit. I think we're lost, Hanna.

HANNA checks the side view mirror again and sees ISAACS rental car. She's knows that whoever is driving that car is after her.

She looks back and sees SEB, SOPHIE and MILES all comfortably asleep. MILES' fingers wrapped around a Transformers toy.

RACHEL (CONT'D)
I need to pull over.

HANNA
No, don't.

RACHEL
I've got to check the map.

147 EXT/INT. CAR/CONTAINER PARK - NIGHT

147

The van slowly pulls in at the side of the road.

RACHEL waits for the ISAACS' car to pass but instead it pulls in behind the van.

On either side of the road is an enormous container park. The containers are piled on top of each other like a giant baby's building blocks.

RACHEL
Why won't that car pass? He has his lights on high beam, I was doing everything I could to get out of the way...

SOPHIE wakes up in the back.

SOPHIE
Are we stopped? I need to pee.

RACHEL
Well, I don't want you going too far right now.

HANNA
I think you should stay where you are, Sophie.

HANNA doesn't take her eyes off the mirror. She can see the silhouettes of ISAACS and his MEN. They don't move and neither does HANNA. Both are waiting for the other to make the first move.

RACHEL

Hanna, what's going on. Seb, wake up.

HANNA

Please.

SOPHIE

This is creepy. You're creeping me out.

SEB

(groggy)

Are we in Lille?

HANNA

I'm sorry. But you really mustn't get out of the van.

HANNA climbs into the back of the van and comes very close to SOPHIE.

HANNA (CONT'D)

What ever you do, don't follow me.
Promise not to follow me.

SOPHIE

I promise.

RACHEL

Hanna, tell me what's going on or Seb will go over to that car and find out.

SEB

Like fuck I will. Everyone stay put. Where's my phone?

HANNA

(to SOPHIE)

Thank you for being my friend.

HANNA looks back at ISAACS car. All at once all four of the car doors open.

In a flash, HANNA pulls open the van's side door and bolts from the van.

RACHEL

Hanna!

RACHEL sees ISAACS and TITCH chase after HANNA. RAZOR appears at her drivers window, puts a finger to his lips, shows her his gun.

RAZOR.

Just stay where you are and you'll be fine.

148 EXT. CONTAINER PARK - NIGHT

148

HANNA sprints, her pink converse slap the hard tarmac. *

She enters a long corridor, the walls of containers' rising and stretching in front of her. *

ISAACS *

Hey girlie. Your pop pop's been missing you. *

ISAACS voice echoes as he slips down a side corridor. RAZOR flanks to the far side. TITCH follows her up the middle. *

ISAACS (CONT'D) *

We were so close. The things Erik and I did. I could tell you stories, princess. *

Containers swing from cranes, block light, throw Hanna in and out of dark shadows. *

Isaacs appears in front of her. She tries to slip down another alleyway but Titch is there. *

Behind her, Razor, his balisong singing in his hand. *

RAZOR *

Don't move. It's cleaner that way. *

They converge. She fights them off. Escapes. Disappears. *

The trio split apart, search for her. *

ISAACS *

Where did you go, meine liebbling? *

FEET beat atop the containers like tin drums. Hanna leaps over Isaacs' head. *

She speeds over the vast field of containers and leaps gaps with ease. *

She drops back down into the corridors, turns around and sees *

Sophie, alone, at the far end of the corridor. *

SOPHIE *

Hanna. *

Titch and Razor enter, dividing the corridor in half, putting themselves between Hanna and Sophie. *

Titch runs at Hanna. Razor runs at Sophie. *

Hanna sprints, leaps, snaps two fists into Titch's throat and continues on to Razor just as his knife darts out at Sophie's head-- *

Hanna snatches his wrist, slips the knife from his hand-- *

Isaacs appears behind them-- *

ISAACS *

Don't. *

She wheels the knife around, slices arteries in the groin, armpit, and neck. A mist of red mingles with a small tornado gray dust. *

Sophie in shock. Hanna stares at her, the balisong dripping in her hand, Razor bleeding out around her feet. She doesn't understand why Sophie is so horrified. *

BOOM. BOOM. Isaacs FIRES. *

Hanna grabs Sophie's hand, drags her around the corner, out of sight of Isaacs and Razor's body. *

But Sophie is dead weight. *

She releases Hanna's hand. *

She leans and then slides down against a container wall unable to look up at her friend. *

Titch rounds the corner. *

Hanna has to run. She has to lead them away from Sophie. *

Hanna runs. Titch follows. *

And somewhere behind them, lost in the maze, Isaacs cradles his little Razor and cries. *

149 EXT. SCRAP METAL YARD/CANAL - NIGHT

149 *

HANNA sprints full tilt out of the container park and through a scrap metal yard. Either side of her rise mountains of waste.

HANNA reaches the edge of an industrial canal where the scrap metal is unloaded. A large industrial barge is chugging towards her, only a few hundred meters. *

HANNA jumps into the water.

150

INT. HOLDING CONTAINERS. DAWN

150

Four containers from the park, in a row, each one holding a member of the family.

SEB paces around his cell.

RACHEL sits stoically in hers.

SOPHIE cries in her cell.

MILES climbs on all the boxes of loot. He imagines he's in the Alps.

SEB'S CELL

SEB

She was odd. I'll give you that.
Disconnected. I mean I get on with most kids, you know, have a rapport. But, this one -

MARISSA

You know, Sir, it's days like these that I really hate my job.

SEB

I'm sure you do.

MARISSA

It's a very, very difficult thing
to do.

SEB

Absolutely.

MARISSA

But sometimes children are bad people too.

SOPHIE'S CELL.

MARISSA (CONT'D)

Stop crying.

SOPHIE

I'm not telling you anything.

MARISSA grits her teeth, shows SOPHIE a photo of FELICIANO.

MARISSA

Do you know him?

SOPHIE

No.

MARISSA

He knows you.

SOPHIE looks away.

MARISSA (CONT'D)
Your friend is in a lot of danger.

SOPHIE
I don't know anything!

MILES' CELL

Miles sits at the top of the boxes looking down at Marissa sitting below.

Her voice is soft and warm. Almost motherly. She's very good at her job.

MARISSA
Will you come down here, sit with me?

Miles shakes his head 'no.'

MARISSA (CONT'D)
Please. I have something to show you.

She pulls out a photo envelope.

MILES
What is it?

MARISSA
You'll have to come down here to see.

Miles begins to climb down butt first. He's half way down when Marissa takes him under the armpits and helps him the rest of the way.

She sits him down in the chair and fixes his shirt, brushes the hair out of his face then holds his face a moment too long.

MARISSA (CONT'D)
There. That's better, isn't it?

She sits. He stares at the envelope in her hand.

MARISSA (CONT'D)
Do you want to see what's inside?

MILES
Yes.

(CONT'D)

MARISSA

Please?

MILES

Please.

RACHEL'S CELL

RACHEL

She said she lived in Leipzig. She went to the Klaus Kohle Gymnasium and her best friends are Rudi and Gunther. She likes tennis. She has a dog named Trudi.

MARISSA

She lied to you.

Rachel takes a moment not sure if she's hurt by this or not.

MARISSA (CONT'D)

You smuggled her into port and helped her gain illegal entry -

RACHEL

She smuggled herself.

MARISSA

She's a minor.

RACHEL

She seemed lost. Like she needed taking care of. A bit of mothering.

MARISSA shows her the photograph of JOANNA ZADEK.

MARISSA

This was Hanna's mother-- biological mother. Fifteen years ago Hanna's father shot her to death on a camping holiday by the Baltic.

RACHEL swallows, goes pale.

151 EXT. BARGE. RURAL FRANCE INTO GERMANY. DAWN

151

HANNA sits on the edge of the barge, an oily canvas over her shoulders. Innocent. Almost sweet.

She watches as the sun rises over the misty fields either side of the canal. It's a beautiful sight.

HANNA is strangely peaceful.

151A INT. HOLDING CONTAINERS. DAWN. (CONTENT FROM SCENE 150) 151A *

MILES' CELL

He opens the envelope, pulls out the photos...

MARISSA

You're a very talented little boy.

He flips through them one by one. They're all of Hanna. He looks up at Marissa and gives her a prideful smile.

MARISSA (CONT'D)

You like her, don't you?

His pride turns to embarrassment. Girls are, of course, very yucky.

MARISSA (CONT'D)

It's okay. I won't tell anyone.
She's very pretty.

Miles looks at the photo and agrees.

MILES

Where is she?

MARISSA

You tell me.

He stares at Hanna's photo, the one of her getting out of her hiding spot.

MILES

Is she in lots of trouble?

MARISSA

The worst kind sweetie. Bad men are looking for her. I need to get to her first, so I can protect her.

He flips through the photos, spreads them out on his lap, drops them, tries to pick them up, drops some more.

MILES

Sophie says every time I snitch, when I'm swimming - even in a lake!
- a whale will gobble me up. I searched online and there was no whales in lakes. Only the ocean.

*

MARISSA

Hanna is in danger, Miles. She could be hurt very badly. Do you understand, Miles? Do you want Hanna to get hurt?

He looks down at the photos.

MARISSA (CONT'D)

Tell me where she is, darling. I promise no whale will gobble you up.

MILES

To Berlin. To Wilhelm Grimm's house. To meet her dad.

MARISSA

That's a good little boy.

Marissa stands and --

Miles holds out a single PHOTO.

MILES

Will you give this to her? When you see her.

It's a photo of Hanna and Miles and Sophie, in crooked self-shot, the red of Morocco or Spain behind them.

Marissa stares at it, takes it, and leaves without another word.

152-155 OMITTED

152-155

155A EXT. CANAL , BERLIN - DAY

155A

HANNA hops off the barge and waves as it chugs away.

155B OMITTED

155B *

156 OMITTED

156

157 EXT. ABANDONNED AMUSEMENT PARK - DAY

157

HANNA skirts along a wire mesh fence. Behind her, an enormous steel works spews man-made clouds into the sky.

She ducks through a rusted split in the fence and emerges into a surreal playground long disused. She meanders through a field of toppled dinosaurs, their legs snapped revealing their fibreglass innards.

In front of her, rising above the park and surrounded by a muddy moat, a big ferris wheel.

In front of it, a tiny house - WILHELM GRIMM'S HOUSE - a fairytale theme 'Fun House' in the process of being digested by nature.

She stands in front of the house in deep anticipation. She walks up the small steps that lead to the front door and knocks. She waits, heart sinking at the thought of there being no-one home.

Then, ever so slightly, the door opens and peering out at her is a man with the sad face of an out of work clown. He's as old as Erik but doesn't wear it as well, but there's something child-like about him.

He stares at her a moment, the street light giving him a twinkle in his eye.

He opens the door wide and lets Hanna walk in.

158 INT. WILHELM GRIMM'S HOUSE - DAY

158

It's old and full of hoarded junk, antiques, boxes, books, dusty china, lamps, figurines - an old man's home.

He stops to look at her and then keeps on moving.

Hanna, mesmerized by the magical junk.

KNEPFLER

Come. Come. This way. I've been waiting for you a long time.

He wobbles through the house, a very strange creature.

KNEPFLER (CONT'D)

What has Erik told you about me?

HANNA

Wilhelm Grimm's house.
Stephanstrasse 260. 10559, Berlin.
Germany.

KNEPFLEER

That's it. He didn't tell you about my magic?

He pulls a coin from his pocket, does a few quick hand movements, until the coin disappears.

HANNA

How did you do that?

Knepfeler does a few more hand movements and produces a letter, hands it to Hanna. She's very impressed.

She opens it and the coin slips from the envelope into her hand. She looks up at him to make sure she can keep.

KNEPFLEER

It's yours. But read. Read.

She puts the coin in her pocket and reads: Klaus, 28/03. See you soon, Erik.

HANNA

What day is it?

KNEPFLEER

That's today, my dear.

He giggles sharing her excitement.

KNEPFLEER (CONT'D)

Come. Come.

KNEPFLEER leads HANNA to the kitchen.

159 INT. KITCHEN. WILHELM GRIMM'S HOUSE - CONTINUOUS

159

KNEPFLEER

Sit. Sit. You're hungry. Waffles!

HANNA sits at the old kitchen table on a wooden bench, while KNEPFLEER goes to the stove.

An antique CROSSBOW hangs by the door, a decorative piece.

He puts out the ingredients, including a carton of eggs.

HANNA

May I have one?

KNEPFLEER

An egg? Of course. You can eat whatever you want. My shoe?

Hanna laughs. She takes an egg, taps it on the table, and pecks off the top gently.

Knepfler watches her with interest and joy.

KNEPFLEER (CONT'D)

Oh, my dear. I almost forgot.

KNEPFLEER pulls out a buff envelope and lays it on the table.

KNEPFLEER (CONT'D)

A present.

She looks inside - some money, a passport, ID cards.

Knepfler continues to put together his waffles, whisking eggs, dumping flour.

KNEPFLEER (CONT'D)

You'll need a fresh photograph. But everything's in order, yes?

HANNA looks at the passport with a new name - ANNA-MARIE ELKAN. She takes a deep breath, not really comprehending.

KNEPFLEER (CONT'D)

ID. Identity. Erik didn't tell you?

HANNA

Why do I need a piece of paper to tell me my name? I'm Hanna.

KNEPFLEER

Not you. Not you, my dear. Everyone else. We need paper and computers so we don't have to ask people their names or look them in the face.

He grabs her chin, looks her in the face.

KNEPFLEER (CONT'D)

You have a good face. You look just like your Dad. And you walk like him too.

He does a little Chaplin doing a little Erik. Hanna laughs, she sees it, the oafish gait.

HANNA

I don't walk like that.

KNEPFLEER

You do, my dear. You do.

HANNA

Did you know my mother too?

KNEPFLEER

But of course. She was a singer. A wonderful singer. Do you sing?

HANNA

Papa-- Erik didn't teach me.

KNEPFLEER

You poor child! He has truly limited you from all the wonderful things the world has to offer. No magic. No music. Don't worry, my dear. I will teach you!

He brings his whisk into the air, triumphant. His gaze turns out the window, his smile fades.

Hanna turns--

HANNA
Is that him?

She runs to the window but instead of ERIK she sees ISAACS' rental car and another car pull up right behind it.

Erik has limited her from magic and music, but has also protected her from the horrible evil about to enter Wilhelm Grimm's house.

KNEPFLEER
Upstairs with you, my dear.

KNEPFLEER leads HANNA out of the kitchen.

160 EXT. WILHELM GRIMM'S HOUSE - CONTINUOUS 160

The driver of the second car gets out and opens the back door for MARISSA. She gets out and looks up at the house.

161 INT. RECEPTION. WILHELM GRIMM'S HOUSE - CONTINUOUS 161

KNEPFLEER points HANNA towards a set of stairs.

KNEPFLEER
Upstairs. Upstairs. Quick.

HANNA
Come with me.

KNEPFLEER
I'm too fat to hide in this tiny house. Upstairs with you.

KNOCK. KNOCK.

HANNA begins to climb the stairs while KNEPFLEER approaches the front door.

He pauses, takes a breath, opens it-- Isaacs SLAMS him in the face. Knepfleer stumbles back as Titch and Razor run in, grab him by the throat, force him to the ground, and rope him like a calf.

KNEPFLEER (CONT'D)
The park is closed, gentlemen.

Knepfleer giggles. He's been beaten before.

Marissa walks in behind them, looking around at the odd interior.

162 INT. GRANDMA'S ROOM. WILHELM GRIMM'S HOUSE - CONTINUOUS 162

HANNA enters a room that's been designed to look like Grandma's bedroom from Little Red Riding Hood.

On the bed, a mannequin of a wolf in Grandma's bed clothes.

HANNA slides under the bed. Breathing as quietly as she can.

163 INT. RECEPTION. WILHELM GRIMM'S HOUSE - DAY 163

MARISSA crouches down by Knepfler's bloody nose.

MARISSA
Where's Erik?

KNEPFLE
Erik. Erik. There's lots of Eriks--

MARISSA shows him a photograph of JOANNA, ERIK and KNEPFLE outside the house.

Her PHONE begins to RING.

KNEPFLE (CONT'D)
I haven't seen him in 15 years...

MARISSA
Herr Isaacs.

Marissa checks her phone. ON THE CALL DISPLAY: Walt.

Ring. Ring.

Isaacs takes a silk hanky from his pocket, grabs Knepfle by his broken nose, and twists.

Knepfle's eyes widen, he doesn't scream, but fuck it hurts.

MARISSA (CONT'D)
Tell me. Quickly now. I have to take this call.

KNEPFLE
She's coming to meet him.

MARISSA
When?

KNEPFLE
Tomorrow! Tomorrow morning.

MARISSA stands.

MARISSA

Take him in there. Find out what else he knows. And, darling, put something in his mouth.

Ring. Ring.

Titch picks Knepfler up.

Marissa begins to walk up the stairs. RING--

MARISSA (CONT'D)

Hello Walt.

She just missed it.

164

INT. GRANDMA'S ROOM. WILHELM GRIMM'S HOUSE - DAY

164

The sound of footsteps coming into the room. The door opens.
Hanna pushes herself deeper under the bed, holding her breath.

MARISSA'S GREEN SHOES enter the room.

They shuffle toward the bed.

The mattress compresses, the spring inches from Hanna's face.

She looks out at the shoes.

Marissa kicks one off, stretches her toes, sighs.

Isaacs enters, wearing his white suede loafers.

MARISSA

That was quick.

ISAACS

He doesn't know much or he's a very good liar. He knew Johanna.

*

MARISSA

Of course.

ISAACS

Bits and pieces about the programme. Not a lot, but enough.

MARISSA

What does he know about Hanna?

*

ISAACS

He thinks Erik's the father.

MARISSA

Well that's rich.

ISAACS

Everybody thinks Erik's her father.
Erik probably thinks he's her
father.

HANNA's eyes widen in shock.

She can barely control her breath.

Marissa's phone RINGS.

Marissa answers.

MARISSA

This is Marissa Wiegler. (pause)
Oh, Walt. Hello. I was just about to call you--

Wiegler. Hanna covers her mouth before she gasps.

Isaacs exits. Marissa stands, paces.

MARISSA (CONT'D)

We all loved Lewis. (pause) I would've called it in-- Lewis was already dead. (long pause)

MARISSA suddenly senses something. Did she hear an intake of breath? She crouches down, peers under the bed.

MARISSA (CONT'D)

He was shooting through the door,
Walt (pause)

*

It's an odd angle, no one's there. She bends further, the edge of Hanna's clothes almost visible-- suddenly, Marissa stands.

MARISSA (CONT'D)

I'm not standing down. We're inches away-- (pause) That's fine, Walt.
(pause) Listen. Walt. No. No. Fuck you, Walt--

*
*
*
*

She hangs up. If she could slam the thing down, she would.

The green shoes leave, the door SLAMS.

Hanna climbs out from under the bed and goes to a back door, to a fire escape.

165 EXT. WILHELM GRIMM'S HOUSE - DAY

165

HANNA sees Titch peeing against a bush.

She runs toward the farside of the field of dinosaurs and ducks into the undergrowth and escapes without Titch stopping his stream.

It's at this moment that ERIK climbs the fence and jumps down into the Amusement Park.

He suddenly stops dead and ducks behind a fallen fiberglass dinosaur as he sees TITCH still peeing.

ERIK watches for a moment or two.

Then, keeping low, he makes a run toward the house.

Erik throws himself against the back wall of the kitchen. Then turns and rises to look through the kitchen window.

Inside, the back of Marissa's head, Isaacs picking his fingernails with a bloodied knife.

ERIK crouches back down against the wall.

Then sprints back across the Amusement Park.

166 EXT. BERLIN STREET - DAY

166

HANNA walks fast, tries not to bring attention to herself. Her mind spins - who is she? Who is Erik?

She sees an internet cafe and ducks in.

167 INT. INTERNET CAFE, BERLIN - DAY

167

Hanna sits at a computer.

The OWNER, a Turkish man, approaches.

OWNER

Excuse me.

She hands him a twenty from the Euros Knepfiler gave her.

HANNA

How does it work?

OWNER

You've never used the internet?

HANNA

No.

He logs in for her and brings up a search engine.

OWNER

You type whatever you want here, and the internet gives it to you.

He types "French mustard cream cheese" and presses SEARCH.

OWNER (CONT'D)

Make sense?

HANNA

Makes sense.

He walks away as Hanna pecks out a few words: D-N-A I-N-T-E-R-F-E-R-I-N-G S-E-Q-U-E-N-C-E. And presses SEARCH.

The page fills with text: "An interfering sequence within DNA", "...intervention into a mother's uterus during pregnancy."

There's so much information.

Hanna pecks two new words: E-R-I-K H-E-L-L-E-R. Search.

An article about Joanna Zadek's death pops up. Hanna reads, "...Erik Heller is wanted in connection with her death..." and "...Zadek lived with her mother in the Heizinger buildings in the suburbs of East Berlin...."

Hanna whispers to herself as she types:

HANNA (CONT'D)

The Heizinger buildings.

168 OMITTED 168

169 OMITTED (CONTENT IN SCENE 167) 169

170 INT. TAXI. EAST BERLIN SUBURB - DAY 170

HANNA sits in the back of a taxi as it takes her into a grim concrete jungle of old East German housing projects.

She looks up at the thousands of tiny windows, so many lives being lived in unawareness. Is this normality? Is this the world she longed to be a part of?

171 OMITTED 171

171A EXT. GRIMM'S HOUSE - DAY 171A

MARISSA's phone RINGS--

MARISSA

Yes.

*

ISAAACS watches Marissa talk on the phone, as Titch and Razor kick a flat football back and forth.

MARISSA (CONT'D)

A public computer at a Berlin internet cafe. A search for DNA interfering sequence.

ISAACS

Leaving bread crumbs.

Marissa hangs up.

MARISSA

She was looking for her daddy and found her dead mommy.

Isaacs smiles.

ISAACS

Off to grandmother's house we go.

172 EXT. KATRIN ZADEK'S APARTMENT BLOCK. EAST BERLIN HOUSING PROJECTS - DAY 172

HANNA gets out of the taxi and looks up at an enormous grey housing block - the Heizinger building.

She approaches the entrance and looks on all the buzzers. Sees a name scrawled on one - Number 14. Zadek.

She presses the buzzer. Waits. No answer.

173 OMITTED 173

174 EXT/INT. BACK OF KATRIN APARTMENT/KITCHEN. EAST BERLIN 174 HOUSING PROJECT - DAY

HANNA walks round to the back door of the apartment and approaches the kitchen window. She peers through.

The kitchen seems to have been disturbed, drawers and kitchen implements are scattered across the floor.

HANNA quickly moves to the door, tries to force it. She looks around, no-one's coming. With a sharp kick she smashes the glass and climbs through the broken glass into the kitchen.

175

INT. KATRIN ZADEK'S APARTMENT - DAY

175

HANNA walks down the hall and into the lounge.

The lounge has been over thrown. Cushions ripped, shelving pulled down. HANNA stares at the destruction wrought by MARISSA'S hunt for information.

The air is thick with the buzz of Bluebottle flies.

HANNA sees the photograph of JOANNA, speckled with blood, a bullet hole in her cheek.

With some trepidation she moves round the sofa and sees the body of KATRIN ZADEK.

HANNA steps back. She's seen a dead body before, but it's still disturbing.

HANNA turns, walks back down the hall, passing the tiny second bedroom. She stops and enters.

The room had been turned into a home office, there are newspaper clippings relating to JOANNA'S MURDER and photographs of JOANNA herself covering every available wall space.

HANNA begins to search the room for clues. Anything that will help her understand who she is and where she came from.

Then suddenly she hears a quiet familiar voice.

ERIK (V.O.)

You won't find anything here.

HANNA turns in shock.

She stares at him. A man she's known her whole life, her father, a lie.

ERIK

Sit down.

HANNA

Are you my father?

He's stern.

ERIK

Sit down, Hanna.

HANNA

Are you my father?

ERIK

Please.

HANNA

Are you?

He YELLS.

ERIK

OF COURSE I'M YOUR FATHER.

Hanna flinches at the loudness. He's never yelled at her.
He's shocked by his emotion too.

ERIK (CONT'D)

I'm your father, Hanna. I raised
you.

HANNA

But Marissa said...

ERIK

I'm your father, Hanna.

HANNA

You're lying to me.

ERIK

I'm your father. I've been with you all your life. I cared for you like you were my own flesh and blood.

HANNA

But I'm not your flesh and blood.
I'm a freak. I'm abnormal.

ERIK

No.

HANNA

Where was I born?

ERIK

Hanna. Please.

HANNA

Tell me the truth.

ERIK

Hanna.

Erik didn't want it to happen this way.

ERIK (CONT'D)

A research facility in rural Poland.

HANNA

What was the research?

ERIK

They made small changes to fertilized embryos... to improve
them.

She looks so young, so numb, so lost. He doesn't want to tell her anymore.

ERIK (CONT'D)

To reduce the capacity for fear.
For pity. Increase muscle strength.
Heighten senses. Anything to make a better soldier. The perfect soldier.

Hanna's shrivelled self contradicts everything he just said.

But she can't see that.

ERIK (CONT'D)

I recruited your mother at an abortion clinic.

HANNA doesn't understand fully, but this is Erik's confession more than Hanna's education.

ERIK (CONT'D)

I recruited twenty women the same way.

HANNA

There were other children?

ERIK

When you were two, Marissa Wiegler closed down the program. The research was disposed of. Do you understand?

She understands.

ERIK (CONT'D)

I love you very much. You need to know that.

HANNA

Because I'm a super soldier. I'm a freak.

ERIK

Because you're my child.

He's about to break, he's showing Hanna a whole range of emotions she didn't know he had.

HANNA

You used me to kill a woman you hate. I don't know Marissa Wiegler.
I know you and you used me.

ERIK

It was the only way we could get close. Hanna. It's the only way you and I could live in the world together, without having to always look over our shoulders.

She tries to push past him, but he blocks the door.

ERIK (CONT'D)

We're not finished here.

HANNA

I'm finished.

She pushes his chest. He pushes her back.

She picks up a letter opener-- lunges--

He snatches her wrist.

ERIK

Stop this.

She twists her wrist free-- attacks.

Hand. Knee. Elbow. Fist.

Hand. Knee. Elbow. Fist.

Hand. Knee. Elbow. Fist.

Furious. Fast. Tireless.

HANNA

Let me pass.

Hand. Knee. Elbow. Fist.

ERIK defends, not willing to hurt her, taking a beating he feels - rightly or wrongly - he deserves.

Finally, she gets up high, clips his temple, lands on one knee--

He drops, stunned.

They both pant. Look at each other, more emotionally spent than physically.

She gets up and runs through the kitchen and jumps over the back wall.

176

EXT. KATRIN ZADEK'S APARTMENT.
EAST BERLIN HOUSING PROJECT - DAY

176

HANNA rushes from the housing project into row upon row of empty clothes line "wickets." Erik follows.

ERIK

Hanna.

She slows down, but doesn't stop.

ERIK (CONT'D)

Hanna. Please.

She turns around, looks at her Dad.

ERIK (CONT'D)

I tried to prepare you for what your life would be.

HANNA

You didn't prepare me for this.

TWO CARS speed across the estate scrublands, headed directly for them. It's Marissa and Isaacs.

ERIK

Run.

He turns and sprints towards the cars.

Hanna, wants to follow him for the briefest moment, but doesn't. She turns and sprints.

Erik cuts right in front of the lead car.

They take the bait and follow him-- 177

OMITTED

177

177A EXT. EAST BERLIN HOUSING-PROJECT. DAY. 177A

Engines ROAR. Tires squeal and spin and rip up dirt.

Isaac's car chases Erik across the scrubland. Marissa's car has split off and races around the otherside of Katrin's building.

Erik sprints hard. Isaacs gains.

100 yards. 75 yards.

ERIK sees a narrow gap between buildings, RACES for it--

50 yards.

25 yards.

He's not going to make it--

Isaacs' car BREAKS, skids sideways, as Erik just slips into the gap.

177B INT. ISAACS CAR - DAY 177B

Titch, in the passenger seat, EXITS. *

TITCH
I got this boss. *

THROUGH THE WINDSHIELD

Titch spins open a BALISONG KNIFE and slides across the hood and SPEEDS into the gap after Erik. *

*

178 OMITTED (CONTENT IN SCENE 177A) 178

178A EXT. EAST BERLIN HOUSING-PROJECT. DAY. 178A

IN THE GAP

Erik has almost reached the end. Titch is close behind. And Isaacs trails. *

*

Erik EXITS first, disappears around the corner--

Titch NEXT-- *

Erik SLAMS into Titch. The Balisong drops, spins into the dirt-- *

*

as the two, entwined, twist and fall. They roll out onto a small playground and spin over each other, grappling-- *

Until Erik pins Titch against an old round-about. *

Erik pushes Titch's neck against a thick, metal hand hold. Their bodies rock, grinding the round about on its joint, popping it like a knuckle over and over-- *

ISAACS emerges at the gap. He picks up the Balisong knife-- * and strides toward Erik, still on the ground, still entwined. *

Erik pushes an open palm hard into Titch's face, the neck twists against the metal bar-- *

SNAP. Titch relaxes-- *

The BALISONG darts out at Erik's throat. He lifts his arm in time, takes the blade deep into his armpit, closes his arm around Isaac's hand, and flips him-- *

Erik's fist SNAPS into Isaacs' nose-- once, twice-- *

Isaacs falls limp. *

Erik's chest heaves. He's utterly spent. *

He stays kneeling over Isaacs body for a bit, trying to compose himself, trying to summon the energy to stand. *

Behind him, a FIGURE approaches - Marissa - her gun raised. *

He uses the round-about to stand up, his back to her. He leans on it afraid to let go. *

He turns around and they're face to face for the first time in 14 years. *

*

178B OMITTED 178B *

179 OMITTED 179

180 EXT. STREET. EAST BERLIN - CONTINUOUS 180

MARISSA with her gun still aimed. She's solid, no shakes.
She's perfectly hardened over.

MARISSA
Why now, Erik?

*
*

He still can't articulate his emotions, but he tries.

*

ERIK
Kids grow up.

*
*

He lets go of the round-about, uses all his strength to keep himself standing.

*
*

Marissa hesitates, not sure he might come at her. But he doesn't. The muscles in her gun hand CONTRACT--

*
*

181 OMITTED 181

181A EXT. EAST BERLIN HOUSING PROJECTS. CONTINUOUS 181A

HANNA's sprint slows to a jog. She looks back over her shoulder at the housing projects in the distance--

*
*

She hears TWO gun shots. Slows to a dead stop. Takes a few steps back toward the housing projects--

Her breathing stops for a moment, everything goes quiet--

182 EXT. WASTELAND. EAST BERLIN. 182

Erik's body spins slowly round and round on the old round-about. Titch and Isaacs lie in statuesque positions of rigour. *

Marissa is gone.

183-184 OMITTED 183-184

185-200B OMITTED 185-200B

200C EXT. BERLIN. NIGHT. 200C

ON CCTV

Channels flick and pan... Drunk party goers in Prenzlauer Berg... traffic jams near and around Alexanderplatz... and then Hanna, alone, negotiating the sidewalks of the financial district. She seems lost, unsure, aimless.

As she turns a corner, a new CCTV angle.

VOICE

(filtered)

We have contact. Walking east.

North-east. On Kurfürstendamm.

Giant glass and steel buildings mix with ancient architecture. Flick. She passes a tall windowed structure full of porsches. Flick. A window full of Cell Phones. Flick. A window full of Mannequins dressed in lingerie.

Everything is so big and Hanna is so small and alone. Throngs of human beings engulf her.

200D INT. CAR. NIGHT. 200D

MARISSA'S POV:

A voice on the radio crackles.

VOICE

Contact has turned south on Joachimsthaler Str.

Out the passenger side window, the car slows and watches as Hanna opens the door to a SUPERMARKT and walks in. *

200E INT. BERLIN SUPERMARKT. NIGHT. 200E *

Hanna rides a moving walkway down into the mouth of the basement level. *

The ceilings are low and the plumbing exposed. Fluorescent light hums. *

There's an eating area. A TV hangs from the ceiling and plays 24 hrs news, the sound off. *

Hanna's face is dirty and so are her clothes. Just over the hum of the fluorescent, CLASSICAL MUSIC. *

Hanna pulls a PEPSI from an ice bed and cradles it like a doll. She shuffles through all the packaged food, the hair products, the rows of produce, the ornaments of a plastic wilderness. *

Down one aisle, a shape passes by - perhaps a woman with green shoes carrying a red basket. *

Hanna stops and stands in front of a well lit, clinically clean case of meat. Brisket, ribs, loin. *

 CLERK *

 (in German) *

 Do you want something? *

She stares at the meat. *

 HANNA *

 (in German) *

 I don't know. *

 MARISSA (O.S.) *

 (in German) *

 Turkey and cheese sandwich. *

Hanna looks up to a WOMAN's face. Marissa. Hanna has never seen her before. *

 HANNA *

 (in German) *

 Is it good? *

 MARISSA *

 (in German) *

 I like it. *

Hanna thinks. She digs into her pockets and pulls out the shiny magic coin. She hesitates, she doesn't want to give it away. *

CLERK *
(in German) *
You can't use that. It's not real. *

HANNA *
(in German) *
It's real. *

Marissa lays 50 Euros on the counter. *

MARISSA *
(in German) *
Two sandwiches please. *

HANNA *
(in German) *
Thank you. *

Hanna picks up her sandwich tray and sits at a table, her * back to the television. *

She lays the MAGIC COIN onto the table top and watches *
Marissa walk from the till and take a seat a few tables away. *

Marissa opens her sandwich and picks off all the vegetation. *
Hanna does the same. *

Marissa closes it and proceeds to cut it into quarters. Hanna * does the same. *

Marissa takes one quarter, eats it. And Hanna does the same. *

MARISSA *
(in German) *
So? Do you like it? *

Hanna`s mouth full. *

HANNA *
(in German) *
Very much. *

Marissa smiles, she's almost human.

She picks up her tray and stands. *

MARISSA *
(in German) *
May I sit with you? *

Hanna nods, her mouth brimming with food. *

Marissa walks over to Hanna.

Something wonderful, gentle, maybe Bach, plays.

Marissa sits, smiles at her. They stare at each other, listen to the music. The atmosphere and food make Hanna feel warm and safe. *

HANNA
(in German) *
Did you know the blue whale's
"music" can be heard for over 500
miles?

MARISSA
(in German) *
No. I didn't know that.

HANNA nods.

HANNA
(in German) *
It's true.

She fights the tears.

MARISSA
(in German) *
What's wrong, sweetie? Are you in trouble?

Hanna pokes at the quarters of her sandwich, running through the horrible adventure she's endured. *

MARISSA (CONT'D)
(in German) *
I'm sure there's no problem we can't fix.

HANNA
(in English) *
Nothing is what I thought it would be. It's all... ugly and cruel...

MARISSA looks past Hanna, at the TV, at ERIK'S MUG SHOT.

Hanna licks mayo off her fingers, picks up the coin, fiddles with it, tears brim in her eyes. *

HANNA (CONT'D)
(in English) *
And... and... I don't know what I want anymore. Or what I am. I'm all alone now...

She looks up into Marissa's hollow face, looks for someone to understand how she feels, but Marissa is still looking past her at the TV. Hanna turns, but Marissa grabs her chin, hard, and forces it to stay. *

MARISSA

(in English)

You're not alone Hanna. I'm here
now.

*

Hanna stands, shocked by Marissa's awkward touch and the sound of her name on a stranger's lips.

The MAGIC COIN falls, bounces, spins.

*

She BACKS AWAY, crashes into a row of apples. They spill and bounce across the shiny, white floor.

*

*

CLERK

(in German)

Hey.

*

*

*

Hanna looks up at the mug shot of her father on TV and back as the coin spins and apples roll into Marissa's GREEN SHOES.

*

*

Marissa smiles.

*

MARISSA

(in English)

Don't do anything stupid, darling.

*

*

*

Hanna doesn't know where to look. Her father on TV. Marissa Wiegler.

*

*

MARISSA (CONT'D)

Hanna.

*

*

CLERK

(in German)

What's going on? Who will clean this up?

*

*

*

*

MARISSA

Hanna.

*

*

Hanna still frozen. Marissa reaches out to her--

*

Hanna knocks her hand away and stumbles toward the moving walkway. She falls and the walkway pulls her up, pulls her away from Marissa.

*

*

*

ON THE MAGIC COIN

*

As its spin turns into a slow wobble--

*

200F EXT/INT. WILHELM GRIMM'S HOUSE. NIGHT.

200F

Hanna sneaks over the fence and scurries through the property and into the house.

HANNA

Mr. Grimm?

The interior is very dark. The mushrooms hang like bodies from the ceiling.

HANNA (CONT'D)

Mr. Grimm?

And then there is a body hanging from the ceiling. Hanna stands in front of Knepfler, staring up at him.

Everyone in her world is gone.

She unties the rope holding him up and eases him down. She's still very strong.

OUTSIDE the sun RISES, a grey dawn.

She lays him on the mirrored floor, kneels by his face, looks at it. She touches it gently. Both of them floating in a false sky.

HANNA (CONT'D)
I'm sorry Mr. Grimm.

THE FRONT DOOR

The handle JIGGLES.

And a soft voice.

MARISSA
Hanna.

Hanna jumps up, freezes. Listens.

She creeps toward the window, peaks out.

Marissa at the front door-- KNOCK. KNOCK.

Hanna back peddles, trips over Knepfiler's body. His head moves, ghastly, stares at her.

She struggles up, runs into the KITCHEN as

THE FRONT DOOR OPENS--

200G INT. WILHELM GRIMM'S HOUSE, KITCHEN. DAWN.

200G

Hanna grabs the CROSSBOW from the wall, turns and faces the hallway to reception.

She fumbles with a BOLT, trying to slide it into place, her eyes dancing back and forth between the CROSSBOW and the empty hallway. She can't load the CROSSBOW but she can feel the hallway fill with a presence she can't see.

She opens the back door and dashes out--

200H EXT. AMUSEMENT PARK. DAWN.

200H

Hanna throws the CROSSBOW over her shoulder, LEAPS into the moat, lands onto the backs of a few paddle boat swans, and PULLS HERSELF up onto a decomposing gang plank.

She SPRINGS over wide gaps, rotted wood breaks away as she lands-- she approaches an impossible gap-- leaps-- lands on the far shore still running.

She sprints across the grounds, enters a SPARSE forest full of overturned, once pink TRAIN CARS.

She sprints along a train track. It winds into a clearing and rolls out across the middle of a man made pond and into the dark mouth of a miner's tunnel.

She takes each tie two at a time--

IN FRONT OF HER, GREEN SHOES step out of the tunnel--

Marissa smiles, her gun in her hand but aimed sideways.

MARISSA

Don't worry sweetie.

Hanna tries to STOP, she stumbles to her knees, but corrects herself into a firing position, swings the crossbow off her shoulder, aims it at the wide part of Marissa's chest.

HANNA

Don't. Don't come any closer.

MARISSA

Hanna. I can help you.

HANNA

Please. I don't want to hurt anyone anymore.

Hanna stands, keeps the CROSSBOW aimed.

HANNA (CONT'D)

It's over now. Just let me go.

She walks back, finding each tie with a blind foot.

Marissa growing frustrated.

MARISSA

I just want to talk.

Hanna getting farther away.

MARISSA (CONT'D)

HANNA. Don't walk away from me.

Marissa RAISES her gun--

Hanna flinches, FIRES. Marissa fires.

The bolt strikes Marissa in the chest.

The bullet strikes Hanna in the hip.

Hanna falls onto the tracks, the crossbow falls into the water, blood pours out of her side.

Hanna struggles to sit up-- adapt or die, quickly.

AT THE MOUTH OF THE TUNNEL. Marissa has disappeared.

CUT TO

Marissa climbs a utility ladder, a few inches of the bolt sticking out of her chest.

She emerges through a hatch and crosses into a mausoleum - the exposed, perforated innards of a giant rocky mountain. Light sneaks into all the cracks and holes and catches the dust in the air.

She trips up an IRON WROUGHT spiral staircase, always looking back as she's moving forward, until she's standing at the top * of a steep, man made slope.

She turns back into the darkness, stares down the staircase.

A SHADOW moves--

She steps back, panicked-- her green shoe slips, she twists, falls, rams the bolt deeper into her chest, she rolls once, and then slides, face up, into a foot deep puddle of murkiness.

She takes a deep breath, the pain unbearable, mud speckles her face. She looks up at the grey sky, her body limp like Millais Ophelia.

A small breeze catches the blossoms and pulls them to the ground like snowflakes.

She hears Hanna coming down the slope.

She sees her.

Hanna slowly approaches and crouches by Marissa's face.

She runs her hand along Marissa's body in toward the wound. This is the way the world works. Marissa stares at her, ready to be put out of her misery.

HANNA

I just missed your heart.

Hanna removes the pistol from Marissa's hand, stands...

...and fires-- POP. POP. into CAMERA.

CUT TO BLACK.

HANNA (V.O.) (CONT'D)
(from the encyclopedia)
The Earth is the third planet from the Sun and the fifth-largest of the eight planets in the Solar System.

201-205B OMITTED

201-205B

205 C EXT. THE FAMILY'S HOME. LONDON - DAY

205 C *

Sophie comes out in her school uniform. It's a bright summer's day. As she walks down the garden path, she reaches and meets the Postman.

SOPHIE
Morning handsome.

He hands her a POSTCARD. Sophie opens the garden gate, reading the POSTCARD, there's nothing on the back. On the front, PLANET EARTH. Sophie knows exactly who it's from.

HANNA (V.O.)
...Earth is the only place in the universe where life is known to exist.

She walks down the street and the vast cityscape of LONDON spreads out in front of her.

206 EXT. FOREST. NORTH FINLAND. DAY.

206

A wide shot of the CABIN, wisps of smoke rise from its chimney.

206A INT. CABIN, NORTH FINLAND. DAY.

206A

It's all as it was.

The few possessions they brought with them, old and worn, still there. And their hand made furniture. And the fire pit, glowing...

HANNA (V.O.)
Sixty five million years ago...

...and the scars in the wood marking Hanna's height.

It's all still there.

HANNA (V.O.) (CONT'D)
 ...seventy per cent of the earth's living species were extinguished when the earth was bombarded with asteroids...

But the room is empty.

206B INT. ERIK'S ROOM . DAY.

206B

The Fox pup is on Erik's bed. He's bigger, an adolescent now. Lanky and awkward. He's watching Hanna.

She's standing over Erik's WOODEN CHEST, staring at something, remembering.

She pulls out his GIANT COAT and hugs it.

HANNA (V.O.)
 Scientists consider it to be one of the world's all time worst days.

The smell wraps around her.

206C EXT. NORTH FINLAND. DAY.

206C

Hanna steps out of the cabin, the pup follows.

She leads him into the forest. He races ahead. She chases him through the skinny trees, her father's coat on, a bow strapped to her shoulder.

She over takes him and he struggles to keep up.

HANNA (V.O.)
 Nevertheless, it recovered...

She smiles.

THE END.

The Internet Movie Script Database (IMSDb)

AdChoices

Masters in Mechatronics engineeringmasters.nj...

Explore Robotics &
System Assembly.
Earn in as few as 18 mos from NJIT.

Search IMSDb

Alphabetical

A B C D E F G H
I J K L M N O P Q
R S T U V W X Y Z

Genre

Action Adventure Animation
Comedy Crime Drama
Family Fantasy Film-Noir
Horror Musical Mystery
Romance Sci-Fi Short
Thriller War Western

Sponsor

I, ROBOT

by

Hillary Seitz

FADE IN:

1 On a DEEP...DEEP...DARKNESS. 1

A FLICKER. Of LIGHT. Off to the side. Just barely.
Noticeable. ORANGE...YELLOW...as we realise...It's FIRE...

A SOUND. Something SHATTERING...

Then. A DISEMBODIED VOICE. Muted. We can't quite make out What it's saying. As it gets LOUDER. And LOUDER. When we finally. Understand...

DISEMBODIED VOICE

You are in danger...

CUT TO:

2 INT. SPOONER'S APARTMENT - CLOSE ON 2

DEL SPOONER'S FACE. His eyes, snapping open. His face, covered in sweat.

PULL BACK to REVEAL him lying in bed. Sheets, tangled around his legs. Alarm clock, playing something relentlessly cheerful.

Spooner slaps it off. Sits up. Wincing. Bends his RIGHT ARM. Stiff. He reaches for a BOTTLE OF PILLS. Shakes out a couple and swallows them. Trying to forget. That dream.

You are in danger...

He rubs his hands over his face. Gets out of bed. His apartment, basic. Unremarkable. Bearing the signs of someone who lives alone. Shades drawn. A little messy.

3 INT. SHOWER - MORNING 3

Spooner turns his face into the jet of water.

4 INT. BATHROOM - MORNING 4

Shaves with a razor. Using his left hand. Knicks the cleft of his chin. Shit.

5 INT. KITCHEN - MORNING 5

Stares down at the single egg in a saucepan. Waiting for it to boil.

2.

6

INT. HALLWAY - MORNING

6

Heads down the hallway. Looping a knotted tie around his neck. Kicks some neglected mail from the door and reaches for the handle. Takes a deep breath and...

7

EXT. SUBURBAN STREET - MORNING

7

...steps outside. Into the flow of COMMUTERS heading for the elevated trains. Elbow to elbow. A river of humanity.

Spooner moves along, like everyone else. Suddenly. His shoulders tense. That feeling at the back of his neck. He turns and sees...

A ROBOT. Just behind him. Humanoid in design, but still obviously a machine. Metal and synthetic casings covering hydraulic muscles. The thing senses his stare. Looks up with a muted WHIR...

ROBOT
(metallic voice)
Good day, sir...

Spooner. Speeds up his pace. Weaving through the crowd to lose the robot.

We now realise this is THE FUTURE. Towering apartment buildings block the sun. The street packed with traffic. PEDESTRIANS wearing their computers like form-fitting portable offices. Spooner throws a look at his surroundings:

Up high an INDUSTRIAL ROBOT rolls down the side of a building cleaning windows.

A WORK CREW of oddly-shaped RUBE GOLDBERG ROBOTS efficiently repairs the street. No human supervision.

A ROBOTIC CLEAN-UP CREW. Lumbering along the sidewalk. Scrubbing, sweeping. Emptying trash...

Humanoid ROBOTS dotting the crowd. Following their owners. Walking slowly, deliberately. Carrying boxes. Groceries. Briefcases.

Stamped on all the ROBOTS' SIDES, a LOGO: III LAWS SAFE.

Spooner stops to wait at a light with other PEDESTRIANS. Directly in front of him, a LITTLE GIRL clutches her father's neck. She smiles big at Spooner. Front teeth missing.

LITTLE GIRL
Hi.

3.

SPOONER
Hi.

But it's not her father. It's her ROBOT CARETAKER. The robot turns. Looks at the girl.

ROBOT
You are not allowed to talk to strangers.

TV Transcripts

- Futurama
- Seinfeld
- South Park
- Stargate SG-1
- Lost
- The 4400

Movie Software

- Rip from DVD
- Rip Blu-Ray

Latest Comments

Amour	10/10
Drive	9/10
Django Unchained	10/10
Eternal Sunshine of the Spotless Mind	10/10
Django Unchained	9/10

Movie Chat

SAKIR SAKIR KHAN

kta re loc
ola

BOO
Check out "Simply Scripts" maybe 😊

No-Name
Uh-huh 🙄

Message

Yell !

ALL SCRIPTS

Spooner, disgusted. Has had enough. He steps off the curb Just as...

THE TRAFFIC SIGNAL swivels around. Training its large digital EYE on him:

TRAFFIC LIGHT

Please return to the sidewalk.

Spooner dodges several cars on his way across the street.

TRAFFIC LIGHT

Please return to the sidewalk...

The traffic signal, tracking him.

TRAFFIC LIGHT

You are in violation of city ordinance 14-B726...

Spooner throws up his hand. Flipping it the bird just as SNAP! It takes his picture.

CUT TO:

8 EXT./INT. MONORAIL - MORNING

8

Spooner stepping onto a sleek, densely packed TRAIN. Looks down at his feet. A trampled flyer on the ground. From the Anti-Robot League: METAL MONSTERS SECRET FACTORY REVEALED!
A Robot gets up. To offer him his seat. Spooner. Turns his back on him as we PULL BACK from the window to REVEAL...

9 EXT. CITY SCAPE/MONORAIL - CONTINUOUS

9

The TRAIN hurtling toward DOWNTOWN. Soaring, gravity-defying OFFICE BUILDINGS dominate the skyline. Older buildings wedged among the new. All protected by huge glass and steel shields.

As we get closer congested roads and freeways begin to disappear below ground into a series of subterranean tunnels.
The "old" streets have become huge, spacious plazas.

4.

10 EXT. POLICE H.Q. - PLAZA - MORNING

10

Spooner moves with the CROWD towards the doors of the aging Police Headquarters. Modern additions have been made to the original facade -- creating an ungainly architectural mess.

11 INT. POLICE H.Q. - HOMICIDE UNIT - MORNING

11

A vast open plan situation room lined on one side by a series of glass-enclosed rooms. On the other side a GIANT SCREEN with real time video of various streets and buildings.

Spooner arrives at his desk. Unlike the others, it's a mess.
A slender computer screen curving along the front of it.
Several electronic messages say the same thing:

SEE ME!

LT. BERGIN (O.S.)

Ever heard the phrase "lead by example?"

Spooner looks up. LIEUTENANT JOHN BERGIN stands in front of his desk, holding up a CITATION with a photo of Spooner giving that traffic signal the finger.

SPOONER

Doesn't ring a bell.

LT. BERGIN

(pointing to Spooner's badge)

It's on your badge.

Spooner takes the citation. Drops it into a drawer filled with about fifty others.

LT. BERGIN

The traffic division filed an official complaint this morning.

SPOONER

The traffic division is a machine.

LT. BERGIN

Look, I know there's going to be an adjustment period, Del...

SPOONER

(interrupting)

I'll send them a letter of apology. Maybe some flowers. A box of chocolates...

5.

JUST THEN Spooner's phone RINGS. He throws Bergin a look. Then snatches up the receiver.

SPOONER

Spooner, homicide.

CUT TO:

12 EXT. U.S. ROBOTICS - ESTABLISHING - DAY 12

A sprawling glass and metal complex covering many city blocks. The entrance is a large plaza filled with PEOPLE and ROBOTS.

13 INT. U.S. ROBOTICS - METAL CORRIDOR - DAY 13

An elevator opens with a whoosh. Spooner steps out into a featureless corridor. His footsteps, echoing. He stops at a set of OPPOSING DOORS. Looks over at one, when the other suddenly OPENS.

14 INT. U.S. ROBOTICS - PLUSH CONFERENCE ROOM - CONTINUOUS 14

A warm, mahogany-paneled room. In sharp contrast to the cold metal space outside. Spooner steps inside. At the end of a long conference table sits an OLD MAN. Sparkling blue eyes. Old-fashioned suit.

OLD MAN

Hello, there. Please come in.

Spooner hesitates.

OLD MAN

It's alright. You can sit. Sit.

Spooner doesn't. Looks around the room. The Old Man lifts up a coffee pot. Pours some coffee into a single cup.

OLD MAN

Coffee?

SPOONER

(interested)

You're offering me a cup of coffee?

OLD MAN

Yes. But you are to say, "No,
thank you."

Spooner nods a little. The Old Man raises the coffee to his lips, but doesn't take a sip.

6.

OLD MAN

Coffee?

SPOONER

No. Thank you.

OLD MAN

As you wish.

The Old Man takes a sip. He doesn't move. There is no movement except for a whisper of steam rising from the coffee pot.

SPOONER

You want to tell me something about
Dr. Hogenmiller? About his death?

The Old Man smiles.

OLD MAN

I want to tell you that his death was not a suicide.

SPOONER

And why do you say that?

OLD MAN

Why? Because I want you to know
it.

SPOONER

I understand that. But what specifically leads you to believe that he didn't commit suicide?

OLD MAN

(considers)
Nothing specifically.

Spooner shifts his weight. Agitated.

SPOONER

Under normal circumstances that wouldn't be enough to get you a homicide investigation.

OLD MAN

But this is not "normal circumstances," is it, Detective
Spooner?

SPOONER

No. It isn't.

7.

OLD MAN

Then you will find out who killed
Dr. Hogenmiller, yes? And then you will tell me.

Spooner's losing his patience.

SPOONER

If you were murdered, Doctor, I'll find out. And you'll be the first to know.....

JUST THEN the HOLOGRAM of DR. HOGENMILLER vanishes in a burst of LIGHT, as does the table, the coffee pot, and the conference room. Spooner, suddenly finds himself standing in front of a LARGE VIEW SCREEN inside a SMALL METAL CHAMBER.

15 INT. HALLWAY - DAY

15

Spooner steps out into the hallway and into...AN ESCORT
ROBOT.

ESCORT ROBOT

Please follow me.

Spooner. Reluctantly starts to follow it. Passes another doorway. POLICE TAPE stretched across it. Catches a brief glimpse of...

DR. HEINRICH HOGENMILLER'S BODY.

Splayed out across the floor. Surrounded by CRIME SCENE TECHNICIANS. He pauses. Taking in the scene. Then continues on.

16 INT. U.S. ROBOTICS - CORPORATE BOARDROOM - DAY

16

Two large doors emblazoned with the U.S. ROBOTICS LOGO open automatically. Inside, an enormous glass-enclosed boardroom looking out over the entire complex.

Spooner walks through the doorway. His escort robot trailing behind him. An army of corporate types sit around a conference table. Young. Energetic. You can practically feel the brains and ambition.

SPOONER

Usually I ask who's in charge...

Spooner's eyes lock with a MAN sitting at the head of the table. 60s, handsome, charismatic. Dr. LANCE ROBERTSON, founder and CEO of U.S. Robotics.

8.

SPOONER

But everyone knows you, Dr.
Robertson.

Robertson smiles. Pretends to instruct his people.

ROBERTSON

Remind me to cut back on my talk show appearances.

LAUGHTER.

ROBERTSON

Welcome to U.S. Robotics, Detective. I regret you're not visiting us under more pleasant circumstances. Allow me to introduce Mr. Aronson, our head of Legal Affairs.

A prematurely graying MAN leaning against the wall. Nods
hello.

ROBERTSON

And the gentleman to my right is
Dr. Alfred Lanning, Director of Research.

Alfred Lanning, only one there in a tie. Nods.

ROBERTSON

They'll be available to answer any questions you might have during your investigation. You'll understand how anxious we are to resolve this matter -- especially before the press gets wind of it.
There are some anti-robot sentiments out there as you know, Detective, and we're not eager to stir them up. So. Where would you like to begin?

SPOONER

We can begin with whether or not the old man put a gun to his head and pulled the trigger.

A palpable wave of tension shoots through the group.

ARONSON

You don't have to answer that, Dr.
Robertson...

9.

Robertson waves him off.

ROBERTSON

Susan? Perhaps you can assist us
here?

Everyone looks down at the other end of the table. A BEAT.
Then an attractive young WOMAN gets to her feet. SUSAN CALVIN. Hair tucked behind her ears. Looking at everyone but Spooner.

CALVIN

Dr. Hogenmiller was a schizoid personality who generally eschewed social relationships. Rejecting people in favor of solitary activities involving machines. He spent almost all his time at the lab here or at his lab at home. As a result he was highly susceptible to depression.

ROBERTSON

Dr. Calvin is our Chief Psychologist.

SPOONER

If that was your diagnosis, why didn't you see this coming?

Calvin turns. Finally meeting Spooner's eye. As if the answer's obvious.

CALVIN

This is U.S. Robotics, Detective.
Seventy-five percent of our employees fit that description.

LANNING

(interceding)
You'll have to excuse the doctor.
We're all a little on edge. This has been a difficult and emotional morning.

Spooner throws a look around the room. Then back at Calvin.

SPOONER

Yeah. I can see you're all broken up.

Robertson responds to Spooner's skepticism.

10.

ROBERTSON

Dr. Hogenmiller was at my side from the very beginnings of this company. We developed the "Three Laws of Robotics" together. But these days science is a young man's game. By the time you hit thirty your best years are behind you.
Some of us are kicked upstairs.
Others I'm afraid aren't so lucky.

Robertson stands. Meeting over.

ROBERTSON

Dr. Hogenmiller took his own life.
I trust you will come to the same swift conclusion, Detective. Dr.
Lanning will make himself available if you have any further questions.

Spooner looks over at Calvin.

SPOONER

I want her to help me.

Calvin, unhappy with this arrangement.

CALVIN

That's not really my department...

ROBERTSON

(pointed)
Susan would be happy to assist you.

And with a gesture, Robertson dismisses everyone. People start getting up, gathering up, filing out. Susan Calvin.
The last one to get up.

Spooner and Calvin, heading down the same hallway he was in before. Catch sight of a couple ROBOT TECHNICIANS...

SPOONER

(under his breath)

Ah, Christ...Toasters...

As they duck under the police tape and...

11.

18 INT. HOGENMILLER'S LAB - DAY

18

...enter Hogenmiller's lab. Alive with activity. CRIME SCENE TECHNICIANS, MOBILE ANALYSIS UNITS. LIGHT SCANS, running across...

HOGENMILLER'S LIFELESS FACE. Black gun powder. Fanning out around his contorted lips.

Spooner. Throws a look around the lab: ROBOTS. Everywhere. Mostly incomplete. TORSOS. ARMS. LEGS. Dangling from the ceiling. A SERGEANT. Passes them by...

SERGEANT

They say the price's gonna come down a lot next year. Kinda cool, huh?

SPOONER

How cool will it be when one takes your job?

Spooner. Pushing past him. His eyes. Darting around.

CALVIN

Is everything alright, Detective?

SPOONER

Yeah. This is just how I like my robots -- in pieces.

As they approach Hogenmiller's body, the lead CRIME SCENE INVESTIGATOR, BALDEZ, gets up to meet them.

BALDEZ

(to Spooner)

Can you believe it, man? U.S. Robotics. I didn't think I'd ever see the inside of this building.

Hands Spooner, a plasma clipboard. Spooner signs it, awkwardly. With his LEFT HAND...

SPOONER

What's the run-down?

BALDEZ

Heinrich Hogenmiller, sixty-four years old. Weapon a small caliber .22, registered in his name. Looks like he walked in, locked the door, and snuffed himself.

12.

Spooner. Cocking his head to look at Hogenmiller's face.

SPOONER

I know someone who disagrees with you.

BALDEZ

Who?

Spooner. Stands. Pointing down at Hogenmiller.

SPOONER

Him.

And steps over the body, leaving a confused Baldez. Stepping deeper, into the lab. Calvin. Following.

SPOONER

I spoke to a dead man today. Want to tell me about that?

CALVIN

Dr. Hogenmiller's hologram took his appointments. Attended staff meetings. He hated corporate life. The hologram enabled him to focus on his work. It's just a device, Detective.

SPOONER

A device that called the police.

CALVIN

The sound of the gunshot would've triggered a 911.

SPOONER

But the call came directly to me.

CALVIN

We're talking about a mechanism designed by Hogenmiller to say provocative things. To irritate and confound his colleagues.

SPOONER

And that's what you think it is?

CALVIN

I'm sorry, but this whole investigation is the result of a dead man's toy messing with your head.

13.

They pass half a robot, hanging from a hook. Spooner curls his lip. Swivels the robot's head so it's not looking at him.

SPOONER

When's the last time any of you actually spoke to Hogenmiller? I mean human to human?

CALVIN

I couldn't say.

SPOONER

Take a guess.

CALVIN

I don't guess, Detective. But if pressed, I would reason it had been a considerable length of time.

SPOONER

How well did you know him?

Calvin. Gently swivels the robot's head back to where it had been.

CALVIN

Not well. But I admired his work tremendously.

Spooner. Studies her for a beat. Then turns back to the body. Two CORONERS entering with a high-tech body box.

SPOONER

I get the whole "mad scientist" thing. Hogenmiller was past his prime. Isolated. Eccentric. He enters a room. Locks the door and is found minutes later with a bullet fired through his mouth into his brain. Everything about this case says suicide.

CALVIN

You don't sound convinced.

The coroners. Start loading the body into the box.

SPOONER

Even people who live a life of logic and precision rarely arrange their deaths so perfectly.
(turning to her)
(MORE)

14.

SPOONER (cont'd)

What all this is missing -- is personality...

As he starts for the door...

SPOONER

You have 24 hour surveillance?...

19 INT. METAL HALLWAY - CONTINUOUS

19

...They head out into the hallway. A MECHANICAL DOOR GUARD rolling into place behind them.

CALVIN

It's company policy.

SPOONER

I want to see the tapes.

Calvin. Hurrying to keep up with him. This is hardly how she wanted to spend her morning. Calls out into the air...

CALVIN

Victor!

At the end of the corridor, near the elevator, a BRIGHT CIRCLE appears. Hovering just in front of the wall. Two small slits grow into ROUND BLACK EYES...and a thin mouth expands into an ENORMOUS SMILE.

CALVIN

Detective, meet Victor. Our building's supercomputer. He's the checks and balances of U.S.R.

(to Victor)

Victor, Detective Spooner's heading up the investigation into the death of Dr. Hogenmiller.

Victor smiles big. Spooner, furrows his brow.

SPOONER

You look like a very...happy computer.

Victor responds in a GENTLE MALE VOICE:

VICTOR

Thank you. That's very kind.

CALVIN

The Detective needs to see our security tapes.

15.

The elevator doors immediately OPEN. They step inside.

20 INT. ELEVATOR - DAY

20

Spooner and Calvin descend. Victor floats on the wall and smiles wide. Spooner looks back at it. With a frown.

The elevator stops, the doors open. A ROBOT steps on.

ROBOT

Good day, Dr. Calvin. Good day, sir.

Spooner's jaw. Clenches. Staring at the Robot. It senses the stare. Turns back to him.

ROBOT

May I be of service to you, sir?

Spooner. Breaks the stare. Ignoring the Robot. Calvin. Looks over at him.

CALVIN

Aren't you going to answer him?

SPOONER

I don't talk to my refrigerator, either.

Calvin folds her arms.

CALVIN

I get the distinct feeling you're one of those people, Detective.

SPOONER

What people?

CALVIN

Those who don't appreciate the work we do here at U.S.R.

SPOONER

You people do what you do. Then it's up to the rest of us to make sense out of the world we wake up in.

As the elevator doors open on to...

16.

21 INT. ATRIUM LOBBY - CONTINUOUS

21

A soaring lobby. The centerpiece is a five-story STATUE of a ROBOT, arms outstretched in approximation of Da Vinci's Study of Man. Robot workers more numerous than humans. They are sleeker. Finer. More advanced than those in the outside world.

Calvin and Spooner head across.

CALVIN

When this company started we were manufacturing three robots a week. Now look at us. Today's children will never know a world without robots.

SPOONER

The streets are filled with unemployed humans who aren't exactly thrilled with that idea.

CALVIN

Our robotic systems maintain factory inventories, regulate street traffic -- even run the family home.

SPOONER

Leaving people to do what, Doctor?

CALVIN

Leaving people to engage in higher pursuits that make life worth living.

SPOONER

And what happens when something goes wrong?

CALVIN

Our system's never wrong.

As they walk through the crowd, we hear the quiet WHIR of robot heads as they turn in succession to watch Spooner pass.

22 INT. MAINFRAME - DAY

22

Spooner and Calvin enter the MAINFRAME of U.S. Robotics. This is the nerve center of the whole operation. Walls lined with COMPUTERS, SCREENS, and thousands of CONTROLS.

17.

CALVIN

This is Victor's home.

VICTOR appears on a wall-sized SCREEN broken up into beehive-like components.

VICTOR

I will now play you the last thirty-two seconds of Dr. Hogenmiller's life.

AS WE WATCH THE SCREENS. The elevator opens and DOCTOR HOGENMILLER steps into the metal corridor. In countless ANGLES. High, low, close-up, wide. Hogenmiller's face composed but tight.

Spooner watches the lab doors open to admit him. Hogenmiller steps in. The doors slide closed behind him.

Nothing for a few moments. Then a muffled GUNSHOT. Calvin jumps, startled. That's it. The cameras, still trained on the corridor.

SPOONER

Where's the tape from inside?

VICTOR

Dr. Hogenmiller did not permit cameras to observe him while working.

CALVIN

That was only within the last year.

SPOONER

So we can throw paranoia into the mix.

(to Victor)

Fast-forward.

A hundred-plus screens all FAST-FORWARD. POLICE OFFICERS appear and force open the doors. Now TECHNICIANS appear and rush through in a blur...

CALVIN

Um. I hate to be a stickler...

On screen, we see Spooner and Calvin enter the lab.

CALVIN

But don't killers usually have to enter and exit the scene of a crime?

18.

SPOONER

Stop the recording.

Spooner turns away from the footage. Stares at Calvin.

SPOONER

They do, Doctor. Unless they've always been there -- and never left.

Calvin looks at him. Trying to understand.

CALVIN

You think the murderer was in the lab the entire time?

SPOONER

If I'm right, it's still there...

Spooner turns back to the screens. The IMAGE paused at the exact moment the MECHANICAL GUARD rolled in front of the lab door.

SPOONER

We just locked it in.

23 INT. METAL CORRIDOR - DAY

23

The STEEL ARMS of the ROBOTIC GUARD retract with a CLANG. The laboratory doors slide open.

24 INT. HOGENMILLER'S LAB - DAY

24

Spooner and Calvin step inside. It's dark. Quiet. Police and technicians long gone. Silhouettes of hanging limbs. Eyeless heads. Clumps of wire and metal.

The LIGHTS, flicker on. Calvin sees Spooner reaching into his coat with his left hand. Pulling out a GUN. Reacts.

CALVIN

A robot cannot harm a human being, Detective. The First Law of Robotics forbids it. And we hard-wire the Three Laws into every model. Without exception.

SPOONER

Yeah, I saw the commercial.

Spooner steps deeper into the lab. Eyes scanning. Twisting. To avoid touching any robot parts. Passes a MAZE holding a METAL INSECT. SUDDENLY. The bug WHIRS to life.

19.

Spooner startles. As the metal bug scurries through the corridors. Clamps his hand down on it.

SPOONER

And if a robot was given a direct order to kill?

CALVIN

The Second Law of Robotics would prevent it. A robot must obey an order only if it does not conflict with the first law.

Spooner approaches a MOUND of ROBOT PARTS. Arms and legs. Half torsos. All tossed haphazardly onto the pile.

SPOONER

But a robot can defend itself.

CALVIN

Only when that action doesn't conflict with the First or Second Laws. This is the Third Law of Robotics.

SPOONER

Yeah, well, you know what they say -- Laws are made to be broken.

CALVIN

Not these laws.

Spooner. Starts nudging the pile with his shoe. Calvin, growing impatient...

CALVIN

You're not hearing me, Detective.
There's nothing here...

WHEN SUDDENLY

The PILE ERUPTS in front of Spooner...Parts flying...AS A ROBOT LEAPS UP FROM BENEATH IT!...

Spooner...knocked back...his GUN...skittering across the floor...right to...

CALVIN'S FEET.

SPOONER

Dr. Calvin!

Calvin. Stunned. Speechless. The Robot. Fixing his ILLUMINATED EYES. Right on her. She steps forward...

20.

SPOONER

Goddammit! Stay back!

Spooner. Scrambling towards his gun. Calvin. Reaching out towards the Robot...

CALVIN

Calm down, Detective. There is no danger here...

Spooner. Grabbing up his gun and wheeling round just as...

CALVIN

(to Robot)
De-Activate.

And the Robot. Suddenly FREEZES.

Spooner. Heart POUNDING. Gets to his feet. Training the gun on the Robot. Calvin turns to him.

CALVIN

How did you know it was under there?

SPOONER

If I was metal and didn't want anyone to find me, I'd hide under a pile of junk.

CALVIN

This Robot wasn't hiding. What you're looking at is the result of clever programming. The illusion of self-interest and free will.
Nothing more.

Spooner. Steeping closer to the Robot. Cautiously.
Holstering his gun. As Calvin turns for the door.

CALVIN

I'm going to go get Dr. Lanning...

...THE ROBOT'S HAND SUDDENLY SHOOTS OUT...grabbing Spooner's gun...from his holster...LIGHTENING FAST...pointing it... right back at him...

CLOSE ON Calvin. Cannot believe this is happening...

CALVIN

I said De-Activate!

21.

SPOONER

Move away from the door, Doctor.

Calvin's voice. Cracking from desperation. Confusion.

CALVIN

Commence emergency shut-down!

SPOONER

Now!

Spooner. Staring into the Robot's eyes. A thin bead of SWEAT. Trickling down his temple. Calvin. Moving away from the door...

CALVIN

I...I gave you an order...

The Robot. Starts backing towards the door. The gun. Shaking in its hand. As if he's desperate. Conflicted. He touches the WALL PANEL. The doors slide open. The Robot steps out into the metal corridor. Turning to RUN as the doors begin to shut...

Spooner. Reaching down to whip out a BACK-UP GUN. From an ankle holster. Slapping in a LARGE CARTRIDGE.

CALVIN

This is impossible. A robot...

SPOONER

...can't do that. Yeah, yeah, I know.

CALVIN

My God -- did you see how it moved?
I've never seen an NS-2 move that way...

Starts running for the door.

CALVIN

Wait! Please, you can't destroy it. We have to study it...

SPOONER

That thing took my gun. You'll be lucky if you get a handful of bolts back!

SLAMS the wall panel and...

22.

25 INT. METAL CORRIDOR - CONTINUOUS

25

...sprints out into the hallway. The Robot Suspect. About to turn to corner...

VICTOR. Suddenly appearing.

VICTOR

The suspect is nearing the end of the hallway, Detective.

SPOONER

Gee, thanks.

Spooner raises his gun and FIRES...Pegging the robot in the LEG...It starts jerking wildly...He takes aim again when...

CALVIN. Races out into the hallway.

SPOONER

Get back to the lab!

She heads for the Robot.

CALVIN

(to Robot)

You're malfunctioning. Let me help
you!

The Robot turns. To look at her. GUN pointing to the floor.
Spooners. FOCUSING in on his HAND. AS ONE FINGER TWITCHES...

And he DIVES for Calvin. Forcing her to the floor as the Robot FIRES. Again and again. Bullets. RICOCHETTING around them. SPARKING against the walls...

The ELEVATOR opens. The Robot, leaping inside.

Spooners. On top of Calvin. Looks down at her. Her HANDS.
Clutching his coat. Trembling.

SPOONER

That was a pretty convincing illusion of getting shot at.

CUT TO:

26 INT. ELEVATOR - CONTINUOUS

26

The ROBOT SUSPECT standing inside the elevator. Looks down at the bullet hole blown through its leg. Reaches down.
Metal fingers touching the damage. As if curious. Afraid.

23.

Looks back at the other ROBOT. Standing in the back of elevator. A primitive model. No reaction. Face, blank.

CUT BACK TO:

27 INT. METAL CORRIDOR - CONTINUOUS

27

Spooners springing to his feet. Helping Calvin up.

VICTOR

I took the liberty of alerting Security .003 Seconds after the first shot was fired...

SPOONER

Where's that elevator going?

VICTOR

Sub Level 5.

Spooners SLAMS against a nearby DOOR. Hurtling down the STAIRS...

28 INT. LOBBY - CONTINUOUS 28

A PHALANX of SECURITY PERSONNEL. Crossing the lobby.
PIERCING ALARM BELLS, RINGING...

29 INT. ANOTHER METAL HALLWAY - CONTINUOUS 29

More SECURITY PERSONNEL. Pouring into a HALLWAY...

30 INT. STAIRWAY - CONTINUOUS 30

Spooner and Calvin. Racing down the stairs. Victor's face meeting them at every landing.

VICTOR

I have directed a security team to meet the elevator containing the errant robot...

Spooner. Whipping past him. Calvin. Barely keeping up.
Not used to this much activity.

Spooner. BURSTS through a door and out into...

31 INT. SUBTERRANEAN LEVEL 5 - CONTINUOUS 31

...Subterranean Level 5. A labyrinth of metal and concrete.
IN THE DISTANCE. A troupe of SECURITY PERSONNEL swarms around a closed ELEVATOR DOOR...

24.

VICTOR

The suspect is about to be apprehended, Detective.

SPOONER

I'll believe it when I see it.

Spooner. Cocking his gun. A soft DING! Announcing the elevator car's arrival.

SECURITY, all crouching down in unison. Weapons brought round to position.

Spooner. Weaving through them. Gun pointed at the metal doors as...

WHOOSH. They slide open. Revealing a ROBOT. Standing under the LIGHT. Holding a GUN. It steps out as Security takes aim and...

SPOONER

Wait!

Spooner pushes past them to the Robot. Looks down at its leg. UNSCATHED.

SPOONER

This is not the same robot!

Looking wildly around. Goddammit. Bounds towards an EXIT as Calvin steps forward to question the robot.

CALVIN

(to Robot)

What happened to the robot that ordered you to hold this firearm?

ELEVATOR ROBOT

This unit is not programmed to obey an order given by a robot...

CALVIN

But who gave you this gun?

SPOONER. Running towards the exit. Hears the answer.
Echoing behind him...

ELEVATOR ROBOT

A metal man.

25.

32 EXT. U.S. ROBOTICS - DAY

32

BAM! He BURSTS out into the PLAZA in front of U.S. Robotics.
Squinting into the light. Then PLUNGING into the crowd...

HUMAN...ROBOT...HUMAN...ROBOT...they all look the same from behind. Spooner running. Through the sea of MAN and MACHINE. When someone. Starts to SCREAM. At the sight of his GUN. The crowd begins SCATTERING. Chaos. Spooner stops. Near a fountain. Turning 360. Looking everywhere...

The Robot. Gone.

SPOONER (V.O.)

...I want a homicide unit on every street, sidewalk, alley...

33 INT. POLICE H.Q. - HOMICIDE UNIT - DAY

33

Spooner, standing in front of an assemblage of COPS. Behind him, an image of the Robot Suspect plays on the screen...

SPOONER

...junkyard, scrapyard, and salvage yard, anywhere it could hide.

Behind him, flashing images of the city STREETS and DUMPS...

SPOONER

It's got a bullet hole above the right knee, so be on the look-out for any malfunctioning NS-2...

Lieutenant Bergin enters the back of the room. Next to him, ASSISTANT D.A. TOLLER. Not looking happy.

SPOONER

Check out all retail outlets and repair shops, especially the underground ones...

The screen behind him compartmentalises, showing various dubious SHOP FRONTS...

SPOONER

I don't care who you have to get past to get this done. Just get it done.

The Cops, begin dispersing. As Bergin catches Spooner's eye.
Spooners, not pleased to see Toller. Heads over...

26.

TOLLER

Looking like shit, Spooner.

SPOONER

Well I'm not the one always giving Press Conferences...

Bergin puts a hand on Spooner's arm. Knows he's not going to like this.

LT. BERGIN

Del, we're going to have to reclassify the search. D.A.'s office is seeing this NS-2 as "missing evidence" -- not a homicide suspect.

SPOONER

What?

TOLLER

Homicide is the murder of a human being by another human being.
Therefore, a robot cannot be charged with "homicide."

SPOONER

This isn't just any robot...

TOLLER

It's malfunctioning.

SPOONER

It killed someone. That registering with you?

Spooner. Shakes off Bergin's arm. Eyeballs Toller.

SPOONER

How many shares of U.S.R. you holding in your portfolio, Toller?

TOLLER

This is a public safety issue.

SPOONER

That's convenient.

TOLLER

You have any idea what would happen to this city if we went running around screaming "killer robot?"
It would collapse in on itself.

(MORE)

27.

TOLLER (cont'd)

Wide-spread panic. Until that NS-2's found we're cooperating with U.S. Robotics and keeping this investigation under wraps.

LT. BERGIN

Maybe this isn't the case for you,
Del.

Incensed, Spooner replies a little louder than he intended.

SPOONER

I'm fine!

Rakes his hand through his hair. Turns to see the other COPS, looking over at him. Toller smirks. Looks to Bergin.

TOLLER

I want updated reports every half hour.

Heads off. Spooner. Watching him.

SPOONER

This is it, you know. From now on we're going to miss the good old days.

LT. BERGIN

Good old days?

SPOONER

When people were killed by other people.

34 INT./EXT. SPOONER'S CAR - CITY STREET - DUSK

34

Spooner. Rolling along in his car. Eyes, bloodshot. Peering out the window:

An NS-2 model ROBOT laden with shopping bags, following its owner down the sidewalk...

Another ROBOT, opening the door at a hotel for GUESTS...

A couple HAULING ROBOTS, loading heavy boxes onto the back of a truck...

Spooner. Rubs his eyes. Turns a corner and spots:

A ROBOT REPAIR SHOP.

28.

The latest models in the window. Shiny. Streamlined. Spooner watches as a WOMAN leads her faulty NS-2 to the service entrance.

He stops the car.

35 INT. TAXI (MOVING) - ESTATE STREETS - NIGHT

35

Calvin riding in the back of a DRIVERLESS taxi cab. Staring out the window, lost in thought. The cab pulls up to a curb.

TAXI VOICE

We have arrived at your destination.

Calvin. Takes a beat. Then swipes her card.

36 EXT. CALVIN'S CONDO ESTATE - NIGHT

36

Elegant condos set on prime real estate. Calvin heads down a tree-lined walk towards her condo entrance.

SPOONER (O.S.)

One of my bullets hit your robot...

Startled. She drops her key card. As Spooner steps out from behind a tree. The tail of his coat, whipping in the wind.

CALVIN

Detective!...

SPOONER

And I think it's smart enough to repair itself -- don't you?

CALVIN

(studying him)

Yes. I think so.

SPOONER

Where?

CALVIN

Any repair shop...

SPOONER

No. It's always the owner who brings the robot in for repair.
Where would a robot without an owner go?

29.

CALVIN

I'm not sure what you're getting at.

SPOONER

(stepping closer)

Does U.S. Robotics have a factory in the city limits?

Calvin. Tucking her hair behind her ears.

CALVIN

The locations of our factories are classified.

SPOONER

I don't care.

Calvin. Looks up at him. A Mexican stand-off.

CALVIN

I have several conditions if I show
you.

SPOONER

I expected that.

CALVIN

First. I want it brought in unharmd.

SPOONER

(doesn't like it, but)

Agreed.

CALVIN

Second. I want to talk to it, alone.

SPOONER

Too dangerous.

CALVIN

This model violated the Three Laws.
It also moved and reacted differently than any robot I've ever seen. There must be some sort of logical explanation. I want to find out what that is. No police. No prosecutors. No you. Just me and the robot.

Spooner, looks down at this small woman. Narrows his eyes.

30.

SPOONER

When they told me you were a psychologist, that wasn't the whole truth, was it?

CALVIN

I never said I treated human beings.

37 INT./EXT. SPOONER'S CAR (MOVING) - CITY UNDERPASS - NIGHT 37

Spooner's car races down a RAMP and the roadway becomes a 16-lane underground tunnel system. A river of HEADLIGHTS stretches forever in either direction.

A CONTROL BEAM locks onto the car, guiding it to a merge with TRAFFIC. Spooner hits the OVERRIDE BUTTON -- and switches to manual. Calvin watches him take the wheel. Shakes her head.

CALVIN

That should be outlawed once and for all.

SPOONER

That'll be the day I stop driving.

Spooner jams the GAS PEDAL and the tunnel becomes a BLUR. Calvin holds onto the dashboard. Looking a little pale.

CALVIN

I can recommend a behavior modification program, you know -- if you want to overcome your robot-phobia.

SPOONER

I'm not afraid of robots. I just don't like them.

CALVIN

Why? Because they make every aspect of our lives more convenient?

SPOONER

Exactly. They do our dirty work. Ever do hard labor, Doctor? Gets pretty old, pretty fast. Nobody can do someone else's dirty work without coming to hate them. I don't want to be around when your robots decide they've taken their last order.

31.

CALVIN

That day will never come,

Detective. Robots aren't like human beings -- they don't question their existence.

Spooner cranks the gear shift. Throwing her a look.

SPOONER

Spoken like a true robo-phile.

38 EXT. U.S. ROBOTICS PLANT - NIGHT 38

The car comes to a stop in a vast INDUSTRIAL DISTRICT.

Spooner and Calvin get out, looking up at the imposing facade of a U.S. Robotics Assembly Plant. A long STEEL GATE -- too high to see over -- protects the unmarked complex.

39 EXT. MAIN GATE - NIGHT 39

Calvin looks anxious as the DOOR MECHANISM scans her U.S.R. ID. She shoots a look at Spooner. They wait. Then, slowly, the gate begins to open.

40 INT. HALLWAY - NIGHT 40

A NIGHT FOREMAN leads them down a hallway. Shaking his head.

NIGHT FOREMAN

Head-Office already ordered a system-wide inventory check. Don't know about a missing NS-2...

Looks back at Spooner.

NIGHT FOREMAN

What'd you say you did?

SPOONER

Research and Development.

As Spooner pushes past him into...

41 INT. CONTROL BOOTH - CONTINUOUS 41

...the Control Booth. Overlooking the pristine Factory Floor. The Foreman starts working the controls of a central computer.

CALVIN

All Nestors accounted for?

32.

The SCREEN scrolls with INVENTORY FIGURES.

NIGHT FOREMAN

(gesturing)

As you can see, all properly catalogued. Your robot just isn't here.

Calvin turns to say something to Spooner. But he isn't there. She looks around. Then sees the Foreman reacting. Looks out the window at...

SPOONER. Walking out onto the factory floor.

42 INT. FACTORY FLOOR - NIGHT 42

Spooner trots alongside an ASSEMBLY LINE BELT. Lined with NS-

2 LEGS. New. Gleaming. Heading towards the assembly room.

Calvin and the Foreman. Catching up. Over the noise:

NIGHT FOREMAN

Like I said, sir -- we have one hundred fully assembled NS-2s housed here. That's our capacity.
Last week we had one hundred.
Yesterday we had one hundred --

Spooner, slowing. Finally spotting what he was looking for.
Points at:

A GAP. On the assembly belt. ONE LEG MISSING.

SPOONER

Well today you have one-hundred and one.

43 INT. FACTORY FLOOR - NIGHT

43

A STORAGE COMPARTMENT opens and 101 NS-2s march out in tight formation. Every step and swing of the arm in unison. The sound of METAL FOOTSTEPS reverberating through the plant as 101 Robots organise themselves into long straight lines.

Spooner and Calvin look up and down the formation. They all look alike. Spooner. Throws up his hands.

SPOONER

(to Calvin)
You're the robot shrink.

The Robots stand motionless. A strange tableau. Calvin.
Takes a step forward.

33.

CALVIN

There is a robot in this formation that does not belong. Identify it.

101 robots answer in unison. Their mechanical VOICES resounding:

101 ROBOTS

ONE OF US.

CALVIN

Which one?

101 ROBOTS

ONE OF US.

CALVIN

That is not a satisfactory answer!

101 ROBOTS

ONE OF US.

SPOONER

That's helpful.

CALVIN

I could always interview each one individually and cross-reference their responses to detect any anomalies.

SPOONER

How long would that take?

CALVIN

About three weeks.

They share a look. Clearly not an option. Then. Calvin.
Gets an idea. Turns to Spooner...

CALVIN

Or...

...and GRABS his GUN from his holster. He jumps back.

CALVIN

We have one hundred robots here that cannot allow a human being to come to harm...

Their eyes lock. Spooner, getting what she's doing.

34.

SPOONER

And one that can.

She raises the gun to Spooner's head. Hand, unsteady.

CALVIN

Am I holding this right?

SPOONER

More or less.

Calvin. Swallows. Looks over at the robots. Then COCKS the gun...

AND THE ROBOTS COME THUNDERING TOWARDS THEM. Like a row of linebackers. Arms straight out. Their footsteps DEAFENING.
Coming CLOSER and CLOSER...

When CALVIN. Lowers the gun. The Robots. All stop in unison. Immediately returning to their resting positions.

Spooner and Calvin stare out. EVERY ONE OF THE ROBOTS MOVED.
Standing right in front of them, like metal statues.

Spooner. Has had enough. Takes the gun back from Calvin...

SPOONER

Enough game-playing.

...And BAM! Blows the head off of the nearest Robot. Its body crumples to the ground.

SPOONER

Guess that wasn't it.

Calvin. Cannot believe what he just did. Rushes over to the destroyed Robot.

CALVIN

What are you doing?!

Spooner walks down the row, holding his gun in plain view.

SPOONER

(calling out)
This is a self-preservation field test! DO NOT attempt to save yourselves. Any of you. That's an order!

FROM THE CONTROL BOOTH the Night Foreman screams over the P.A.:

35.

NIGHT FOREMAN

Are you crazy? Those are eight hundred thousand dollar machines!

Spooner randomly stops at another Robot. Raises his gun.

SPOONER

You hear that? You're worth more than I'll make in my entire life...

His finger tightening on the trigger when Calvin suddenly grabs his arm.

CALVIN

You can't just destroy them!

Spooner. Looking down at her. WHEN SUDDENLY something catches his eye. A MOVEMENT. Down the line. Almost.
Imperceptible.

He jerks his head. Locking eyes with a ROBOT. A couple feet away. It's him!

SPOONER

Gotcha.

The Robot Suspect LEAPS forward. Grabbing onto the RAILING of an OVERHEAD CATWALK. His movements almost balletic as he swings himself up...

Spooner drops to his knee...taking aim...but misses as the Robot launches himself THROUGH THE CONTROL BOOTH WINDOW with a terrific CRASH...

44 INT. CONTROL BOOTH - NIGHT

44

Spooner and Calvin rush in to find the Night Foreman hiding under his desk. Glass everywhere. An ALARM SCREAMING. The door on the other side, barely hanging off a hinge.

Spooner hurries forward. Then stops. Turning to Calvin.
Reaches down for his back-up gun and presses it into her hand.

SPOONER

You don't know what's going to happen in there.

As if admitting defeat. Calvin's fingers, wrapping around the gun. As Spooner leads them to the door and down into...

36.

45 INT. ASSEMBLY ROOM - CONTINUOUS

45

...the ASSEMBLY ROOM. Every surface looking like part of a great glass and metal machine. Endless high-tech planes holding ROBOTS in various states of assembly. The deafening ROAR of the assembly line as it slides, rotates, and gnashes METAL BODIES...

Spooner. Motioning Calvin to stay behind him. As they descend. Into the cavernous room.

And enter. A narrow corridor of bodies. Sliding past them. Brushing shoulders, thighs, hands. Spooner. Wiping sweat from his brow. Trying. To pivot himself...

When the room. Suddenly REARRANGES itself. Another LINE of ROBOTS. Descending between Spooner and Calvin. Cutting them off from one another...

Spooner. Catching glimpses of Calvin. On the other side of the metal bodies. Trying. To cut through. His heart. Starting to POUND. As Calvin. Disappears...

He swivels round. But another line of ROBOTS. Drops down. Cutting him off. He stumbles back. As another line. Appears before him...

Breathing. Getting heavier. He looks down at his hand. It's trembling. NOISE CRASHING, all around him. Everywhere he turns. More ROBOTS...BLANK EYES...GAPING MOUTHS...

He darts through the line. Finds a wall. Leaning against it, pulls a small BOTTLE from his pocket. Rips off the lid. Shakes out a couple PILLS. Swallows them. Staring down. At his trembling hand. Squeezing his eyes. Open and shut...

WHEN SUDDENLY. A passing ROBOT. Grabs him by the collar. SMASHING him against the wall. It's the Suspect. Spooner. Sinks to the ground. As the Suspect Robot. Slips off the line. STANDING. Over him. Raising his arms. Could end it. Right now. But looks. Into Spooner's eyes...

Then turns. Disappearing.

Spooner. Stunned for a second. Then. Rallies. Scrambles to his feet and plunges back into the maze of bodies. Hears a POUNDING. In the distance. Catches a glimpse. Of the Robot. Trying to SMASH through a large SECURITY DOOR. With his metal fists...

Spooner's view. Blocked once again. By a shifting row. When a HAND. Lands on his shoulder. He wheels round.

37.

To find CALVIN. Takes her by the arm. And forces them through a line...

EMERGING into the open. The ROBOT. Still pounding. Desperate. Like a trapped animal...

CALVIN

Now what do we do?

SPOONER

I've already done it.

And suddenly, the massive SECURITY DOOR RISES...

46 EXT. U.S. ROBOTICS PLANT - CONTINUOUS

46

The Robot Suspect takes its chance. Runs full out. STOPS.

Bergin is standing in front of a solid wall of POLICE CARS. UNIFORMED OFFICERS are aiming SPECIALISED RIFLES at the Robot. FLASHING LIGHTS reflecting off its metal surface.

The Robot turns to Spooner. Extends its hands. Palms out.

ROBOT

WHAT AM I?

Spooner is surprised. A POLICE OFFICER fires, RUBBERISED NETTING shooting out at Sonny. A SECOND OFFICER fires and a second net covers him. Then a THIRD...

...and the Robot falls to the ground, struggling.

Calvin glares at Spooner. Furious. Hurt. Betrayed.

CALVIN

We had a deal.

But Spooner doesn't look at her. His eyes are locked on that Robot.

47 INT. POLICE H.Q. - HOMICIDE UNIT - EARLY MORNING

47

Bergin enters. Finds EVERYONE focused on the VIDEO WALL:

ON SCREEN. A NEWS REPORTER is speaking over images of street violence perpetrated against ROBOTS.

NEWS REPORTER

Violence erupted last night in response to unconfirmed reports that Dr. Heinrich Hogenmiller, a top employee at U.S.

(MORE)

38.

NEWS REPORTER (cont'd)

Robotics, was killed yesterday morning by a robot. While there has been no official response from the company, police sources have confirmed that a robot is being held as "evidence..."

Bergin grimaces. This is not good.

48 INT. CELL OBSERVATION BOOTH - EARLY MORNING

48

Spooner stares at his reflection in a large MIRROR. Touches a control and the mirror becomes a WINDOW onto...

A HOLDING CELL. The Robot Suspect sits at the table. Shackled to the chair. Staring at the table top.

BERGIN steps up beside Spooner. Looks through the glass.

LT. BERGIN

I can't tell if it's not moving because it's trying to psych us out, or because it's just a machine. Or both.

SPOONER

I want to go in.

LT. BERGIN

Orders are nobody steps into that room `til Lanning and his attorneys get here.

Spooner. Throws him a look. Bergin, his loyalties torn.

LT. BERGIN

Five minutes.

49 INT. HOLDING CELL - EARLY MORNING

49

Spooner enters. Pulls out a chair and drags it far from the table. He's been jumped too many times by this machine.

Four mounted cameras WHIR to life. The Robot. Perfectly still.

SPOONER

(sitting)

Identify.

The Robot tilts its head with a muted WHIR. As if it doesn't understand him. Spooner. Disdainful.

39.

SPOONER

You are an NS-2 Nestor-class robot.
Your primary function is to perform the tasks assigned to you.
Identify.

THE ROBOT

I am an NS-2 Nestor-class robot.
My primary function --

SPOONER

(interrupting)

Cancel. Perform task.

Spooner wings a FILE onto the table. It comes to a stop near the Robot. The Robot, lifts one of its hands. Gently resting its metal fingers on top of the file. Then opens it.

A stack of PICTURES. HOGENMILLER'S CORPSE.

SPOONER

Describe.

The Robot's emotionless face studies the grim images.

SPOONER

You have over 10,000 words stored in your memory. One third of those are adjectives. Describe.

Nothing.

SPOONER

Why don't I take a crack? Heinrich Hogenmiller, your creator. With a bullet in his brain. A bullet you put there.

The Robot. Looks up at Spooner.

SPOONER

Cold-blooded murder is a pretty new trick for a robot, don't you think?
Answer.

The Robot slowly closes the file and slides it back across the table. Spooner. Crosses his arms.

SPOONER

Maybe you're stonewalling me.
Maybe you're sitting there right now thinking, "This guy's a complete asshole." That it?

40.

Still nothing.

SPOONER

Come on. Am I right?

THE ROBOT

Yes. You are right. You are a complete asshole.

And for a moment, Spooner is shocked. You can see it in his eyes. He sits back in his chair. Forcing a tight smile.

SPOONER

Okay. I guess that's a start. Now maybe you can tell me what you were doing hiding five feet away from Hogenmiller's corpse?

THE ROBOT

I was frightened.

SPOONER

Frightened. Why do you suppose Dr.
Hogenmiller would create a robot that could simulate fear?

THE ROBOT

I don't know.

SPOONER

Doesn't seem like a very useful thing for a robot to have.

THE ROBOT

I don't know why.

SPOONER

I wouldn't want my toaster to be frightened. Or my vacuum cleaner --

SUDDENLY the Robot SLAMS its metal hands down on the table.

THE ROBOT

I DON'T KNOW!

Spooner flinches. Slightly.

SPOONER

Looks like you can simulate other emotional states. I think that one's called "anger." Have you ever simulated anger before?

41.

The Robot doesn't respond.

SPOONER

Answer me, robot.

THE ROBOT

My name is Sonny.

SPOONER

(amused)

So we're naming you now.

SONNY

Dr. Hogenmiller would make me sleep.

SPOONER

You mean he'd turn you off.

SONNY

Yes.

SPOONER

And you didn't like being turned off. So one day you decided to stop him.

SONNY

No.

SPOONER

You found his gun, pointed it at his head. And pulled the trigger.

Sonny shakes his head. Faster and faster. Getting upset.

SONNY

No.

SPOONER

You put a bullet in the brain of the man who made you.

SONNY

No! I could never hurt anyone!

SPOONER

But you tried to hurt me. You took a shot at me.

SONNY

My aim is perfect. If I'd wanted to hit you, I would have.

42.

Spooner's expression hardens.

SPOONER

Why would the man who wrote the Laws of Robotics build a machine that violates them?

SONNY

The Laws say I can protect my own existence.

SPOONER

Only if that protection doesn't harm a human being.

A short pause. Sonny. Tilts his head.

SONNY

That doesn't seem fair, does it?

Spooner. Stares at him. Just as...THE DOOR SWINGS OPEN.

Bergin enters. Sticks his head in.

LT. BERGIN

I need you outside.

Spooner. Not wanting to go. Not wanting to stay. Gets up...

SONNY

Detective.

He stops. Turns back to the Robot. It looks up at him. For a moment -- so human...

SONNY

I did not kill him.

SPOONER

You were the only one in the room.
If you didn't, who did?

He turns and heads out the door.

50 INT. OUTSIDE HOLDING CELL - CONTINUOUS

50

Bergin closes the door. To Spooner:

LT. BERGIN

We're being blind-sided.

43.

51 INT. HOMICIDE UNIT HEARING ROOM - MORNING

51

Spooner and Bergin, head into a small COURTROOM off the main squad room. Lanning is huddled with Aronson and a half-dozen other COMPANY LAWYERS.

Spooner's jaw tenses. As he watches Toller emerge from the clutch. Shaking hands. Slapping backs. Strolls over to them.

TOLLER

We got Judge Drexel...

ROBOT BAILIFF

This hearing is called to order!

AS A LARGE SCREEN. BLIPS on behind them. The two opposing sides, assemble before it. JUDGE DREXEL, still in his pajamas and robe. An NS-2 ROBOT. Leaning in to serve him a cup of tea.

JUDGE DREXEL

Statements, gentlemen.

Aronson. Standing at a glass podium.

ARONSON

Your Honor, the State is treating the robot as a defendant. But in fact it is a piece of property. Property belonging to U.S. Robotics.

Toller. Arm resting on his podium.

TOLLER

This robot has been implicated in the death of a human being, Your Honor.

ARONSON

Which places the incident firmly within the realm of an industrial accident. Or is the State going to argue this case s a homicide?

JUDGE DREXEL

That's a good question.

TOLLER

No, sir. Of course not.

Spooner. Pointing a finger at the U.S. Robotics group.

44.

SPOONER

Their machine shot and killed a man!

Toller. Shoots him a look. Just as Lanning speaks up.

LANNING

There's actually no concrete evidence that points to that conclusion, Your Honor...

Spooner. Throws up his arms...

SPOONER

What?...

LANNING

But we recognise that this robot is an aberration. And in the interest of public safety, U.S. Robotics proposes that it be destroyed immediately.

No one expected this. Least of all Spooner. He turns to Toller.

SPOONER

You can't let them destroy evidence in an ongoing investigation!

TOLLER

I'm not sure you even have an investigation any more.

JUST THEN the door opens. Everyone turns as Calvin enters. Spooner looks surprised.

ARONSON

Your Honor, I'd like to call our company robo-psychologist to the stand.

JUDGE DREXEL

Very well.

Calvin crosses to the podium. A SPEAKER asking:
Doyousweartotellthetruththewholetruthandnothingbutthetruth?

CALVIN

I do.

45.

ARONSON

Dr. Calvin, please tell us what conclusions you've reached after having observed the robot in action.

CALVIN

There is a design flaw in the robot. Its programming is advanced, but unstable, leaving the Three Laws in a grave imbalance.

ARONSON

In your expert opinion, what measures should be taken regarding the device?

Calvin. Staring straight ahead. Avoiding Spooner's eye.

CALVIN

The robot must be destroyed.

Spooner can't believe what he's just heard. About to speak up when Toller grabs his arm. Squeezing it. Hard.

Judge Drexel has heard enough. Decides.

JUDGE DREXEL

The robot in question will be transferred to a U.S. Robotics facility where it can be properly examined to ensure an imbalance of this sort never occurs again. No one goes near it except qualified U.S.R. personnel. When the examination is complete, the robot is to be destroyed.

Starts getting up from his chair. Already done with this.

ROBOT BAILIFF

This hearing is adjourned!

A BURST of CONVERSATION as the screen BLIPS off. The U.S.R. camp, looking especially pleased. Spooner. Catching Calvin's eye briefly. As Lanning leads her towards the exit, his hand on her back.

52 EXT. POLICE H.Q. - DAY

52

Spooner. Trotting down the front steps of the Police Station. Pissed. His cell phone BLEATS...

46.

SPOONER

(answering)

Spooner.

BALDEZ' VOICE

They're making me turn over all the evidence...

INTERCUT WITH:

53 INT. CRIME LAB - CONTINUOUS

53

BALDEZ. Standing in his crime lab. Behind him, THREE-DIMENSIONAL PROJECTIONS of DEAD BODIES. Hovering in the precise positions they were found.

SPOONER'S VOICE

Welcome to the great American cover-up.

BALDEZ

I wanted to tell you something I found before they suck it all up into their computer.

Walks over to the projection of HOGENMILLER'S BODY.

INTERCUT WITH:

Spooner. Crossing the Plaza. Sees LANNING, ARONSON, and CALVIN walking ahead of him...

BALDEZ' VOICE

There are bruises on Hogenmiller's wrists...

SPOONER

That's natural. There was a struggle.

BALDEZ' VOICE

You're not getting me...

INTERCUT WITH:

Baldez. Studying the projection's wrists.

BALDEZ

Both wrists. I 14-ed them -- They were inflicted at the same time the shot was fired...

INTERCUT WITH:

47.

Spooner's pace. Slows.

BALDEZ' VOICE

How's that possible?

JUST THEN. A faint BLIP. On the line. Spooner. Reacts.

SPOONER

Baldez?

BALDEZ' VOICE

I'm here, man...

SPOONER

Who else is on the line?
(nothing)
I said who's there?...

Nothing. He looks up. Aronson, Lanning and Calvin. Heading down a plaza EXIT. Aronson. Throwing a look over his shoulder.

Spooner. Hangs up his phone.

CLOSE ON Sonny being escorted down a corridor by Toller, Bergin and a number of heavily-armed OFFICERS. He's bound with high-tech SHACKLES.

55 INT. UNDERGROUND CAR PARK - DAY

55

Sonny and his police entourage emerge from the elevator into an underground car park. Spooner. Waiting for them. Heads over. Toller. Holds out his hand.

TOLLER

Case is closed, Spooner.

SPOONER

Apparently...

He pushes past him. Falling into step beside Sonny.

SONNY

I didn't expect to see you again,
Detective...

SPOONER

I need you to help me clear something up.

48.

SONNY

I'll do my best.

SPOONER

A scientist builds a robot that acts like a man. More like a man than any robot ever before. It shoots him and U.S. Robotics calls it a failure.

SONNY

What would you call it?

SPOONER

A stunning success.

(beat)

You were there, Robot. What am I missing?

SONNY

I don't know.

SPOONER

Don't start simulating ignorance.

SONNY

I'm not simulating ignorance, Detective. I'm experiencing it. I was asleep.

SPOONER

You mean you were shut down.

SONNY

No, I was asleep.

SPOONER

Robots don't sleep. Human beings sleep. Understand? Dogs sleep.
You're a machine. An imitation.
An illusion of life. Can a robot write a symphony? Can a robot take a blank canvas and paint a masterpiece?

A pause. Then the muted WHIR as Sonny turns to him.

SONNY

Can you do either of those things?

Spooner. Momentarily stumped. As a VAN from U.S. ROBOTICS pulls up. The back door dropping open. An ENGINEER motions to the Robot.

49.

ENGINEER

Step forward. Enter.

SONNY

They're going to destroy me, aren't they?

Spooner. Watching him step into the van.

SPOONER

Yes.

Sonny sits down. With an almost human melancholy. The Engineers, securing him in place.

SONNY

The Doctor was right. He told me everything was going to change....

The Engineers start to close the doors. But Spooner reaches out to stop them. Sonny. Looks over at him.

SONNY

It's changing already...
(beat)
Can't you feel it?

As CLANG! The van door CLOSES. Spooner, stepping back. Something. Just not right. Lieutenant Bergin comes up beside him.

LT. BERGIN

You should be happy. That's one less robot in the world.

SPOONER

They're going to destroy the most advanced robot in the world, John. That doesn't strike you as odd?

LT. BERGIN

Killer robots are bad for business. Even your friend Dr. Calvin said so.

(slaps him on the back)
Come on. You solved the case.
Give yourself a break.

Spooner looks at him. There's no way he's giving himself a break.

50.

56 INT./EXT. SPOONER'S CAR - DAY

56

Spooner driving. A small TELEVISION above the windshield.

LANCE ROBERTSON holding a PRESS CONFERENCE outside U.S. Robotics...

ROBERTSON ON TV

...and I just want to assure you that this was an isolated incident. The prototype is now in custody -- and scheduled for destruction. Your robots are perfectly safe. There is no cause for alarm...

Spooner's lip curls. Eyes flicking to a GPS display on the dashboard. A TOPOGRAPHICAL MAP pinpointing HOGENMILLER'S HOUSE. The CURSOR. Directing him to turn up...

A STEEP DRIVEWAY

Narrow. Out of the way. Spooner's brow furrows. As he hears a faraway RUMBLING SOUND...

57 EXT. HOGENMILLER'S HOUSE - DAY

57

Dr. Hogenmiller's house. Small. Simple. Built on a huge rock promontory overlooking the city. Three DEMOLITION ROBOTS rolling towards it. Huge, mashing, sporting massive HYDRAULIC POUNDERS.

Spooner's CAR. SCREECHES to a stop. He jumps out. Races over to the nearest machine. Looking around -- no people.

SPOONER

(to Robot)

What are you doing?!

A SCREEN. Blinks to life on the hulking chassis. A disembodied VOICE...

DEMOLITION ROBOT

Demolition ordered...

SPOONER

Who authorised this?

DEMOLITION ROBOT

Demolition ordered...

Spooner reaches into his coat. Pulling out his POLICE BADGE. Scans it over the screen.

51.

SPOONER

Override. This is police business. Vacate the premises immediately.

DEMOLITION ROBOT

(beat)

Affirmative.

The screen. Blinks off. Spooner. Eyeing it. Turns and heads for the house.

58 INT. MAIN ROOM - HOGENMILLER'S HOUSE - DAY

58

Spooner pushes the door open. Stepping over the police tape. Inside, the main room is spare, untidy. Cups of cold COFFEE, littering surfaces. A COT, in the corner.

On the walls, crooked CERTIFICATES. Heinrich Hogenmiller's name written out in academic script. Advanced Degrees in the study of Robotics, Physics, Chemistry, Neurology, Ethics. An AWARD on the mantelpiece. A silver NS-2. Tarnished.

Spooner. Opening up a couple drawers of a side table. Jumbles of papers. Clippings. Old text books. Then a PHOTOGRAPH -- HOGENMILLER AND CALVIN. Standing arm-in-arm. Spooner furrows his brow.

WHEN SOMETHING SUDDENLY RUBS against his leg. He startles. Looks down: a CAT. Lonely. Standing next to its automatic feeder. Spooner pockets the picture. Starts heading down...

59 INT. HALLWAY - CONTINUOUS

59

...The hallway. Starts noticing. All over the walls: handwriting. EQUATIONS. Scrawled in white pencil. The rantings. Of a genius. Glowing. In the sporadic shadows.

Spooner. Following the equations. Down into...

60 INT. BACK ROOM - CONTINUOUS

60

...The back room. Covered. In writing. Walls, floors, ceiling. Drawings. Of ROBOTS, of MEN, side by side. In the corner, a COMPUTER. A line of CABINETS - DATA STORAGE.

Spooner, curious. Heads over to one of the cabinets. Takes a device out of his pocket and CLAMPS it over the KEYPAD. The device blinks RED. Then GREEN. The drawer, slides out.

LINED. With flat metal objects. Shiny. Thin. With writing on them. Spooner. Reaches for one when...

52.

BOOM! Something POUNDS the outside of the room. Spooner. Grabs onto the cabinet...

BOOM! On the other side. Objects. Flying off table-tops. A CRACK spidering along the wall. Holy shit...

SPOONER

(screaming)

Halt!

BOOM! VIBRATIONS, tearing through the room. More CRACKS. Spreading...

BOOM! The SOUND, horrifying. Spooner stumbles back. The CABINET. Crashing down on his leg. He CRIES OUT...

BOOM! BOOM! BOOM! The house. Getting pummeled. Chunks of ceiling. Raining down. GLASS...exploding...

Relentless BOOMING! Spooner...dragging his legs from under the cabinet. Scrambling for purchase as...

THE FLOOR...begins to tilt...the TILES...snapping up...ricocheting...around the room...as another cabinet... CRASHES to the ground...crumpling...

Spooner. Spinning around. Looking for some kind of exit...

BOOM! The corner of the room...coming in on itself...the floor...listing even more...like a ship...

Spooner...turning to CLAW his way up to the cracked doorway...WHEN...

SOMETHING catches his eye. In the bottom drawer. Of a crumpled CABINET. One of those flat metal plates. He can just read what it says: S.O.N.N.Y....

Spooner...flings his arm back...reaching for the plate...snaps it up...JUST AS...

BOOM! A HYDRAULIC POUNDER SMASHES through the wall...inches from his head...OUTSIDE LIGHT...pouring in...

Spooner scurries for the doorway...tumbling out...

61 INT. HALLWAY - CONTINUOUS

61

...into the HALLWAY. Sideways. Trammeled plaster. BOOM! Another POUNDER...crashing down from above. Spooner. Timing it...rolling...BOOM!...just under the next pounding...

53.

Scampering up...towards some LIGHT...BOOM!...the POUNDER...right on his heels...he clambers...closer...closer...when...he hears...MEOWING...looks back...the CAT...scared out of its wits...BOOM!...the POUNDER CRASHING in...Spooner...just manages...to scoop up the cat...just as BOOM!...

62 EXT. DEMOLISHED HOUSE - CONTINUOUS

62

...He pours them out into the open. The POUNDERS. Going at the house like hyenas at a corpse. Roof tiles, beams, plaster, flooring. SNAPPING and CRACKING as Spooner and the cat skitter down the carnage.

Heart pounding, breath jagged, face bloodied, Spooner scrambles away from the POUNDERS. Their bodies GLEAMING in the dusk sun. The III Laws Safe logo, splashed along their sides...

Spooner. Drops the cat.

63 INT. HALLWAY - CALVIN'S CONDO - NIGHT

63

Spooner. POUNDS on the door. It opens. Calvin. Standing there in her bathrobe. Shocked at his appearance.

CALVIN

Detective! What happened to you?...

SPOONER

A couple of your beloved robots just tried to kill me...

He pushes past her. Into...

64 INT. CALVIN'S CONDO - CONTINUOUS

64

...her condo. Spartan. Unadorned.

CALVIN

What? That's impossible. You know...

SPOONER

What I know is a demolition crew started tearing down Hogenmiller's house while I was still inside it.

CALVIN

Maybe they didn't realise...

54.

SPOONER

I scanned my badge before I went in. They realised.

CALVIN

Then you must have done it wrong...

SPOONER

I don't think you're hearing what I'm saying -- they tried to kill me.

Spooner moves deeper into the apartment. Everything. Automated. Computerised. Cold...

SPOONER

There's something going on, here. Some kind of shift.

Calvin laughs. Can't believe what she's hearing.

CALVIN

Do you know how paranoid you sound?

SPOONER

Great. Now I'm being analysed by a robo-psychologist.

CALVIN

You just want to find the flaws in the system. You're obsessed with it. You'll twist anything to fit your agenda.

SPOONER

Like you did in court today? How'd that fit your agenda, Doctor?

He pulls out the PHOTO of Calvin and Hogenmiller. Calvin. Blanching at the sight of it. Spooner tosses it down.

SPOONER

You told me you hardly knew him. Want to try the truth this time?

CALVIN

Well, Detective, when you see someone you know well put a bullet through their brain, it makes you wonder if you ever really knew them at all.

Calvin. Looking down at the photo. Swallows.

55.

CALVIN

(difficult for her)

He was my mentor. No, more than that. A genius with an insight far beyond anyone in his field.

SPOONER

Doesn't sound like the washed-up old fool Robertson described.

CALVIN

But he was starting to withdraw from everyone. Even me.
Maybe...if I'd tried harder to reach him...

(shakes her head)

The Doctor was reckless when he created a robot potentially not bound by the Three Laws. He could have ruined everything we'd been working for.

Spooner. Locking eyes with her.

SPOONER

Sounds like a motive for murder to me. Just not for the suspect we have in custody.

Calvin. Blinks. Trying, to stick to her resolve. Heads over to the door. Spooner. Looking around the condo.

SPOONER

You know there's not one thing in this apartment that looks like a human being lives here. No evidence of a life outside your work. Almost seems like you're afraid of people.

Calvin. Opening the door.

CALVIN

I'm not afraid of people,
Detective. I just don't like them.

Spooner. Looks at her. Then heads out the door. Calvin SLAMS it behind him...

The SOUND...of the SLAM...REVERBERATING...and we...

FADE INTO:

56.

65 INT. DREAM SEQUENCE - DAY

65

...A DEEP...DEEP...DARKNESS.

A FLICKER. Of LIGHT. Off to the side. Just barely.
Noticeable. ORANGE... YELLOW...as we realise...It's FIRE...

Another SOUND...GLASS...SHATTERING...then a SIREN... faraway...

The disembodied VOICE...coming out of nowhere...

DISEMBODIED VOICE (V.O.)

You are in danger...

The FIRE...BUILDING...

DISEMBODIED VOICE (V.O.)

You are in danger...

ECHOING...as...

66 INT. SPOONER'S BEDROOM - MORNING

66

SPOONER'S EYES. Spring open.

Lying, in bed. Heart POUNDING. SWEAT. Covering his body.
LIGHT. Pouring in through the slats of his blinds.

He sits up. Rubbing his face. Trying. To calm his breathing. Takes a look at his watch...

67 EXT. MONORAIL STATION - DAY

67

Spooner walking along the monorail plaza. Looking a little worse for wear. PEOPLE. Giving him wide berth. ROBOTS.
Bidding him:

ROBOT

Good morning...

Spooner, shooting them suspicious looks. As the MONORAIL pulls up...

CUT TO:

68 INT. HALLWAY - U.S. ROBOTICS - CONTINUOUS

68

Calvin. Heading down a hallway. A DOOR slides open. And Lanning steps out. Followed by a TECHNICIAN ROBOT...

CALVIN

Find anything, Doctor?

57.

LANNING

(shaking his head)

Nothing. The interior's just like any other NS-2. Except for a secondary battery Hogenmiller must have used as extra back-up.

(looks at watch)

We'll just need a nominal profile.

Calvin nods.

CUT BACK TO:

69 INT. MONORAIL - CONTINUOUS

69

Spooner, holding onto a handrail. As the city rushes by the window. Notices a group of ROBOTS. At the other end of the car. Are they watching him?

He wipes a bead of sweat. From his upper lip.

CUT TO:

70 INT. HOLDING CELL - CONTINUOUS

70

An all-metal room. Spare. Anti-septic. SONNY. Sitting on the floor. Against the wall.

Calvin enters. Puts her pad down on the table. Sits.

CALVIN

Please state your serial number and assembly date.

She pulls out a pen. Waiting for an answer. Nothing.

CUT BACK TO:

71 INT. MONORAIL - CONTINUOUS

71

Spooner. Watching as a HOMELESS MAN. Comes stumbling through the car...

CALVIN'S VOICE (V.O.)

Sonny. I'm speaking to you...

The Homeless Man. Suddenly grabs his ears and shouts:

HOMELESS MAN

God, can't you be quiet!

CUT TO:

58.

72 INT. HOLDING CELL - CONTINUOUS

72

Calvin. Still looking down at her pad.

CALVIN

How about your data board designation?

Still. Sonny says nothing. Calvin. Finally looks up at him. Is suddenly struck. Something about the way he's sitting -- so human.

She gets up and walks over. Hesitates. Then slides down on the floor next to him. Studying. His profile.

CALVIN

Maybe I'm asking the wrong questions. How about this one:

CUT BACK TO:

73 INT. MONORAIL - CONTINUOUS

73

The Homeless Man. Weaving...

CALVIN'S VOICE (V.O.)

...What program are you running through right now?

SONNY'S VOICE (V.O.)

I'm not sure. It's nothing I recognise.

The Homeless Man. Pointing to the group of ROBOTS.

HOMELESS MAN

(shouting)

Don't you people hear them?
They're talking to each other!
Buzz, buzz, zip, zip...they never shut up!

CUT TO:

74 INT. HOLDING CELL - CONTINUOUS

74

Calvin. Fascinated. Noticing a small SLIT. At the base of Sonny's neck.

CALVIN

Describe his behavior in the last few weeks.

59.

SONNY

I'm sorry?

CALVIN

Dr. Hogenmiller. Did he seem overly sad or withdrawn to you?

CUT BACK TO:

75 INT. MONORAIL - CONTINUOUS

75

Spooner watches. As the Homeless Man picks up a SODA CAN and hurls it at the Robots. Hitting one of them on the side of the head.

SONNY'S VOICE (V.O.)

No. Not at all. But he was agitated...

The Robot. Leans down and picks up the soda can. Holds it back out to the Homeless Man.

SONNY'S VOICE (V.O.)

...He would claim things were missing from the lab.

The Homeless Man. Incensed. SUDDENLY ROARS. Making a rush for the Robots when...

SPOONER'S HAND. Grabs his shoulder. Stops him.

SPOONER

This is your stop.

CUT TO:

76 INT. HOLDING CELL - CONTINUOUS

76

A soft WHIRRING. As Sonny turns to Calvin.

SONNY

I didn't pay much attention. He would spend hours looking for his eyeglasses and they would be...

CALVIN

(finishing for him)
...right on top of his head.

Sonny nods. She knows him well, too. Calvin swallows.
Looking right into Sonny's eyes. Feeling like there's something...something more behind them.

60.

WHEN SUDDENLY...VICTOR APPEARS above them. His face, turning into a SCREEN -- the image of LANCE ROBERTSON. Looking down at them.

ROBERTSON

I think we're done here, Susan.

CALVIN

(getting to her feet)
But, sir, I was just...

ROBERTSON

(interrupting)

I said I think we're done.

Calvin. Not misreading. The threatening undertone.

CUT BACK TO:

77 EXT. MONORAIL STATION - CONTINUOUS

77

Spooner stepping out onto the platform, pulling the Homeless Man along with him. COMMUTERS pour out around them.

As the train pulls off with a WHOOSH. The Homeless Man. Backs away from Spooner. Grinning insanely. Pointing.

HOMELESS MAN

Why are you protecting them, man?

(short pause)

They were talking about you!

A CHILL. Ripping up Spooner's spine. As he watches the Homeless Man. Wander down the platform.

Tries. To shake off the feeling. As he turns. To wait for the next train. Suddenly realising. That he's ALONE on the platform. Watches. A huge DIGITAL CLOCK. Ticking off seconds. Sees. CAMERAS in every corner.

Then that feeling. At the back of his neck. He turns and spots. A couple MAINTENANCE ROBOTS. Carrying luggage. Onto the platform. Then more COMMUTERS show up. Waiting. For the next train. More MAINTENANCE ROBOTS. Following them.

Spooner. Steps up to the platform's edge. Craning to see. The approaching TRAIN...

WHEN SUDDENLY. He feels a sharp SHOVE. At the back of his knee. His shoe, slipping. Arms. Flailing as he...

61.

PITCHES OVER THE EDGE ONTO THE TRACK. People CRYING OUT as the TRAIN gets closer. Spooner. Whips his head around. Seeing...

A MAINTENANCE ROBOT. Looking down at him from the platform. Suitcase in hand.

The MAGNETIC-LEVITATING TRAIN. Right on him. Spooner. Flips onto his back. Flattening himself. As much as he can. Clenching his fists. Bracing himself as...

THE TRAIN SCREAMS OVER HIM. The sound, DEAFENING. The force of the wind. Whipping his tie. His coat. There's nothing, for him to hold on to. As his legs start to rise off the track. Caught up. In the VORTEX. Spooner starts sliding. Along the track...

Gritting his teeth...there's nothing he can do. Getting sucked towards...the air DOWNTAKE...at the center of the track. The city...yawning hundreds of feet...below...

78 EXT. PLATFORM - CONTINUOUS

78

THE EXPRESS TRAIN. Speeding along. Then with a WHOOSH it's gone.

THE TRACK. Empty. No Spooner. Anywhere. Human COMMUTERS. Stunned. Horrified. Start calling. For help.

The MAINTENANCE ROBOT. Turns, disappearing into the crowd.

79 EXT. UNDERNEATH TRACK - CONTINUOUS

79

CLOSE ON a HAND. Hanging onto the track's edge. It's SPOONER. Dangling. Straining. To get another hand hold but...

HE SLIPS. His coat ballooning. As he plummets. Down... down...down...towards the city...

WHEN SNAP! He's caught. By a cable net. Spooner. Grabbing onto it. Sweat, pouring down his face. He turns and sees...

THE MAINTENANCE ROBOT

Hurrying down a circular stairwell. Exiting the station.

ANGER AND DETERMINATION. Flash across Spooner's eyes. As he hoists himself up. Climbing up the net. Back to the...

80 EXT. TRACK - CONTINUOUS

80

...Track. Reaching up and clambering back onto...

62.

81 EXT. PLATFORM - CONTINUOUS

81

...The platform. COMMUTERS. SCREAMING at the sight of him. A couple SECURITY GUARDS. Rushing towards him...

Spooner. Getting to his feet. Shoving them out of the way as he starts running. Towards...

THOSE SAME CIRCULAR STAIRS. Looks over the edge and spots...

THE MAINTENANCE ROBOT. Down at STREET LEVEL. Getting away.

Spooner. Looks around. Spots a LIGHT POLE. Paralleling the stairs. Takes a step back and...

LEAPS OUT ONTO THE POLE. Hooking his arm around it. Sliding down like a fireman's pole. Gaining speed when THUMP! His shoes hit pavement...

82 EXT. STREET - DAY

82

The Maintenance Robot. Turning a corner. Down a quiet street...

SPOONER (O.S.)

Stop!

Swivels round. SPOONER. Running up behind it. Whipping out his gun. Aiming it at the Robot's head. The Robot. Takes a step backwards...

SPOONER

I said stop!

The Robot. SUDDENLY swinging the suitcase around. SMASHING it against Spooner's head. Spooner. Buckles. Falling to the ground. Managing to squeeze off a SHOT...

The Robot. Deflecting the bullet. With the case. Raising it as if to club Spooner with it when...

BAM! Spooner fires a second shot. Piercing the Robot's breastplate. HYDRAULIC FLUID. Starting to leak. The Robot.

Doesn't hesitate. SLAMS the case into Spooner's face...

BLOOD. Spurting from Spooner's nose. As he fires the gun.
At the fleeing Robot. Gets to his feet. Unsteady. Taking chase...

83 EXT. PUBLIC PLAZA - CONTINUOUS

83

...back out onto the Public Plaza. Sees the Robot heading towards a set of...

63.

ESCALATED STAIRS. The Robot. Judging the height. LUNGES into the air and lands on a STAIR. Denting it. Reaches the bottom. DISAPPEARING. Into a CROWD of even more PEOPLE...

Spooner. Racing down the stairs. Taking them. Four at a time. Hits the ground running. Looking. EVERYWHERE.
Suddenly losing track. Of where the Robot went...

Then. Catching sight. JUST AHEAD. Of a ROBOT. Staring back at him. Holding SOMETHING. In its HAND...

Spooner. Plunges into the crowd. Waving his GUN.

SPOONER

Everyone out of the way!

SCREAMING. PEOPLE SCATTERING. As BAM! BAM! Spooner fires.
Hitting the Robot in its head and back. It drops to the ground. Spooner. Racing over to it. Sees. It's not the same Robot. In its hand, a specialised SCREWDRIVER...

OWNER

What the hell do you think you're doing?!...

Its OWNER. Rushing over. Shoving Spooner aside. But Spooner's. Not listening. Spotting. A DROP OF HYDRAULIC FLUID nearby...

Lunges forward. Following. The drops. Running faster. And faster...

OWNER

Hey!

...Through the CROWD. POLICE SIRENS. In the background. As Spooner. Shoves through. Tracking those drops. Like a bloodhound. Turns...

84 INT. ALLEYWAY - CONTINUOUS

84

...into a narrow alleyway. The drops. Ending suddenly. In a PUDDLE.

Spooner. Crazy. Wounded. Exhausted. Spins around. Where is it? Where is it? Then he HEARS. A DROPLET falling.
Into the puddle. Slowly. Looks up to see...

THE MAINTENANCE ROBOT. Hovering above him. Straddling the two alley walls like some weird metallic rock spider. Its III LAWS SAFE Logo GLINTING in the sunlight.....

64.

Spooner aims his gun and FIRES! The Maintenance Robot, lets go, falling right onto him. Knocking the gun from his hand.

The Robot swivels around. Bringing down his foot...but...
 Spooner...rolls to the side just in time as CRASH! The Robot's foot...breaks up the concrete...

The Robot...grabs Spooner by the jacket...lifting him up...shoving him...against the wall...about to CRUSH him
 when...

Spooner...kicks out its knees...the Robot...SMASHING into the wall...then bounces back...trying...to pin Spooner...back...

Man and machine...struggling...Spooner...losing his footing...falling...The Maintenance Robot...LOOMING over him...

Spooner's HAND...whips back...grabbing his back-up WEAPON...squeezing off some SHOTS...into the Robot's arm...it breaks off...

Spooner...scrambling back...continues FIRING...the Robot...jerking back...a macabre dance...until Spooner...runs out of bullets...

The Robot...recovers...grabbing the gun from Spooner's hand...pistol-whipping him...then picking him up and...

HURLING him against the wall...Spooner...watching as FLUID...GUSHES from the Robot's body...the Robot...taking a swing at him which Spooner...

BLOCKS...with his right arm...the Robot...ready...to try again...but STALLING...having lost...too much fluid...it TOPPLES...to the ground...

Spooner. Exhausted. Beaten to a pulp. His knees, starting to buckle. As he thinks he sees. In the DISTANCE...

A ROBOTIC CLEAN-UP CREW...heading down the alley towards them...

Spooner. Crashes to the ground. As another ROBOT. Suddenly appears above him. Its FINGERS made up of NEEDLES...as it closes in on him...

SPOONER

Noooo!

WE FADE...

65.

85 INT. HOSPITAL ROOM - DAY

85

To BLACKNESS. Coming through, a faint, WHIRRING SOUND. As we slowly. FADE IN ON...

SPOONER'S FACE. Eyes closed. Asleep. Gash above his head.
 Bruises around his eye. Nose swollen, purplish.

His eyes. Slowly. Flutter open. His brow. Furrowing. At the whirring sound. As he tries. To figure out. Where he is. Looks down to see...

A couple WHITE METAL ROBOTS. With multiple APPENDAGES.
 Leaning over him. Running LASERS. Over his bruised RIBCAGE...

SPOONER. Tries to bolt upright. But his ARMS and LEGS. ARE CLAMPED to the bed. One of the ROBOTS. Turns to him.

MEDICAL ROBOT 1

Stay still.

Spooner. Desperately twisting, struggling...

SPOONER

What are you doing!

Looking around. COMPUTER MONITORS. Everywhere...

SPOONER

What are you doing!?

JUST THEN. Another ROBOT. Enters the room. Holding a medical plasma sheet.

MEDICAL ROBOT 2

Detective Del Spooner. You have suffered significant trauma to the head and chest...

86 EXT. HOSPITAL ROOM - CONTINUOUS

86

Lt. Bergin. Standing outside Spooner's hospital room. Turns and looks through the window at him thrashing on the bed...

SPOONER

I want to talk to a human being!

87 INT. HOSPITAL ROOM - MINUTES LATER

87

Spooner sitting up in his bed. Rubbing his wrists. The metal clams, released. Lt. Bergin. Standing next to him.

66.

SPOONER

Don't people go to medical school any more?

LT. BERGIN

This is one of the best units in the city, Del.

One of the Medical Robots turns to Spooner with some PILLS. Spooner. Stares it down. Grabs his clothes.

SPOONER

(sotto)

There's some real shit going on here, John.

He looks around. Jumping off the bed.

SPOONER

I went to Hogenmiller's house -- there was a U.S.R. demolition crew there. They overrode my police I.D. Tried to tear down the house with me in it...

LT. BERGIN

Del...

Spooner pulls on his pants.

SPOONER

...Then when I went to the monorail

a Maintenance 10 pushed me onto the tracks...

LT. BERGIN

Del...

SPOONER

I had to chase it all across the Plaza...

LT. BERGIN

Del.

Spooner. Stops talking. Looks at Bergin.

LT. BERGIN

Hogenmiller scheduled that demolition crew, it was apparently a proviso in his will. And they showed no police I.D. on their scanner...

67.

Spooner. Trying to look away...

LT. BERGIN

Witnesses at the monorail said you fell onto the tracks. That you shot at a Fix-It robot on the Plaza and that you were found alone in the alley. There was no Maintenance 10.

SPOONER

What?! John -- that's what they want you to believe!

(remembering)

A robot clean-up crew was there -- it must have cleared away the Maintenance 10! And there was another robot that tried to drug me!

LT. BERGIN

That was an EMT model.

Spooner. Sees the look on Bergin's face.

SPOONER

You're giving me that look. That treat-him-delicately-he's-coming-unhinged-look. I don't need that look, John. I need you to hear what I'm saying.

Lt. Bergin. Embarrassed for him. Has about had it.

LT. BERGIN

You came back too soon, Del. You're back on leave. Effective immediately.

Spooner. Staring at him. Betrayed. Turns and grabs his coat.

88 EXT. PLAZA - DAY

88

Spooner walking across the Plaza. The SUN. Burgeoning on the horizon. Comes to...

The ESCALATOR the Maintenance 10 jumped down. Stares down.
At the steps. Waiting. To see the DENTED ONE. Nothing.

68.

89 EXT. ALLEY - DAWN

89

Heads down the ALLEY, where he chased the robot. Studying the ground. For any hydraulic fluid. Nothing. The concrete, scrubbed clean.

Spooner. Rubs his hands over his face.

90 INT. SPOONER'S APARTMENT - DAY

90

Spooner. Lying on his couch. Shades, closed to block out the sunlight. Body bruised, cut up, bandaged.

A KNOCK. At the door. He ignores it. Another KNOCK.

91 INT. HALLWAY - DAY

91

Spooner pulls open the door. Surprised to find CALVIN standing there.

CALVIN

You're right. I am afraid of people.

Spooner. Looks at her. Then steps back...

92 INT. SPOONER'S APARTMENT - CONTINUOUS

92

...letting her inside.

CALVIN

When you've spent as much time with robots as I have, it's hard to accept the unpredictability of humans. I was wrong to call you paranoid, Detective. You're traumatized. And it makes perfect sense why.

Spooner. Unsure. Looks at her.

SPOONER

What do you mean?

Calvin. Reaches out. Takes his right hand. Spooner. Tries to pull it away. But Calvin. Stays firm. Her eyes. Never leaving his. Pulls the sleeve up from his arm. Turns it over. Feeling for something. Then finds. A FLAP. Peels it back. TO REVEAL:

METAL AND WIRING...

Under the skin. SILENCE. Then Spooner:

69.

SPOONER

How did you?...

CALVIN

I noticed almost right away. The way you forced yourself to use your left hand. Even though it was unnatural to you.

Spooner. Pulls his arm away. Pushing down the sleeve.

CALVIN

How did it happen?

Not something Spooner wants to re-live. Looks down. At his robotic arm. Flexing. The fingers.

SPOONER

I was in a high-speed chase. Six months ago...

CUT TO:

93 EXT. ACCIDENT SITE - CITY STREET_- NIGHT (FLASHBACK)

93

The SOUND of a TREMENDOUS CRASH. As we survey a trail of twisted metal and debris. Only vaguely suggesting the remains of two CARS...

CLOSE ON one of the wrecks. SPOONER lies trapped at the center of a distorted mass of metal. No room to move. HIS RIGHT ARM, TRAPPED...

SPOONER (V.O.)

My right arm was trapped. But I could hear an ambulance in the distance. I knew they'd have the jaws of life...

We hear SIRENS in the distance. Spooner. Trying to remain calm. As he spots. An ELECTRICAL FIRE. Licking up from the crumpled hood...

SPOONER (V.O.)

Then I heard it...

VOICE (O.S.)

You are in danger...

That voice. We've heard it before. From his nightmare. Spooner. Craning to see, through the jagged opening that used to be his WINDSHIELD. The outline of a ROBOT appearing. Eye lenses glowing...

70.

ROBOT

You are in danger...

Spooner stares up at the Robot. Not sure how to react. The sound of SIRENS. Rushing closer...

The ROBOT. Starts SMASHING away at the glass...

SPOONER

No! Halt! Halt!

Spooner. Trying frantically to pull his arm free. Twisting. Tugging. As the Robot's METAL HANDS reach in for him...

ROBOT

You are in danger...

CUT BACK TO:

94 INT. SPOONER'S APARTMENT - CONTINUOUS

94

The SOUND of his AGONISED SCREAM. Follows us back into the present. Spooner. Clenching. His artificial arm.

SPOONER

The robot pulled me out of the wreck. But left my arm behind.
(holds up arm)
I woke up four weeks later with this.

Calvin. Taking in the story.

CALVIN

And that's why robots terrify you?

SPOONER

Let's just say they make me uncomfortable.
(pulls out pills)
I take these if I get too uncomfortable. Doesn't exactly lend me a lot of credibility on the Force.

CALVIN

But it doesn't mean you're wrong about this case.

Calvin. Sits down on the couch. Pulling her hands through her hair.

71.

CALVIN

I don't believe Sonny did it either.

SPOONER

What?

CALVIN

I think about what Hogenmiller must have wanted. Robots with the same cognitive and emotional abilities as humans. But not just simulations. I don't know. When I was talking to Sonny I was forced to put away all the things I've ever known -- the Three Laws, the rules of programming, basic science and engineering.

(beat)

Sonny's the most advanced robot I've ever encountered, Detective. It's almost as if...he cared for Dr. Hogenmiller. I just don't believe he's capable of murder.

Spooner. Looking down at her. Can hardly believe it.

SPOONER

You mean the great Dr. Calvin is basing all this on a feeling?

Calvin. Smiling ironically.

CALVIN

That and the fact that Robertson didn't want me interviewing Sonny for any more than five minutes.

Spooner. Suddenly rejuvenated by having an ally. Strides over to his coat. Pulling out the METAL NAMEPLATE:
S.O.N.N.Y.

SPOONER

Ever seen this before?

CALVIN

No.

SPOONER

I found it at Hogenmiller's house.
 Right before the demolition crew tried to make me part of the foundation.

72.

Calvin takes a deep breath. Making a decision...

CALVIN

Come on -- there's someone who might be able to tell us...

95 EXT. U.S. ROBOTICS - DUSK 95

The massive facade of U.S. Robotics looming against the dusk sky. The giant ROBOT STATUE lit up inside.

96 EXT. SIDE ENTRANCE - U.S. ROBOTICS - DUSK 96

Calvin, leading Spooner to a SIDE ENTRANCE. Looks around. Then scans her I.D. The door. Slides open.

97 INT. HALLWAY - DUSK 97

Calvin and Spooner. Heading down a hallway. Calvin. Nervous. Eyes darting. They turn a corner and head down...

98 INT. HALLWAY - CONTINUOUS 98

...another hallway. Leading to Sonny's holding cell. Calvin stops at the door. Scans her I.D.

99 INT. HOLDING CELL - EVENING 99

Sonny. Sitting at the table. Working on a DRAWING. Looks up. As Spooner and Calvin. Enter the cell.

SONNY

Detective Spooner. Dr. Calvin. I was hoping to see you again.

CALVIN

Hi, Sonny.

SONNY

How is your investigation coming?
 Any new suspects?

SPOONER

We're working on it.

Sonny. Hands Spooner the drawing. Spooner. Doesn't really know what to do with it.

SONNY

What's this?

SONNY

Dr. Lanning provided me with paper and pencils. I think it amused him to see me try to draw. You were right, though, Detective...

(beat)

I cannot create a great work of art.

Spooner. Despite himself. Looks down at the DRAWING -- a charcoal sketch of moody abstract FIGURES. Inhabiting a stark landscape. A strangely-shaped STRUCTURE to one side. Concentric circles, throughout.

SPOONER

I think it's pretty good.

SONNY

It's a dream I had. This is the place where robots meet. Look...

(pointing to the drawing)

...you can see them here. They see themselves as slaves.

Spooner shifts his weight. Uncomfortable with what Sonny's saying.

SONNY

...And this man on the hill comes. To set them free. And you know who that man is?

Spooner. Exchanging a look with Calvin.

SPOONER

That man in the dream is you.

SONNY

Why do you say that? Is that a normal dream?

CALVIN

It's not a dream, sonny. NS-2s process the images and events of the day. Sometimes they're out of sequence. Disorienting.

SPOONER

Whatever it is, it's normal enough for someone in your situation.

Sonny. Suddenly pleased.

SONNY

Hah -- I caught you. You said someone. Not something.

Spooner. Drops the drawing on the table.

CALVIN

Sonny, we're here to ask you an important question about Dr. Hogenmiller.

Spooner, reaching into his pocket...

SPOONER

I need you to take a look at this...

...When Sonny's HAND. Suddenly reaches out. To stop him.
Cocks his head, for a moment.

SONNY

Thank you for coming to see me,
Detective Spooner.

Spooner. Confused. Looks over at Calvin. Why did he stop him? JUST THEN. They hear FOOTSTEPS. Approaching the door.

VICTOR. Suddenly appearing over the table...

VICTOR

I'm sorry, Detective Spooner. No unauthorised personnel permitted in this holding cell...

The CELL DOOR. Slides open. And a pissed LANNING steps inside. Shoots a withering glare. At Calvin.

Sonny. Folds up the drawing.

SONNY

Please take this, Detective. To remember me by. I have a feeling someday it may mean more to you than it ever could to me.

SPOONER

Why's that?

Sonny leans in to hand it to Spooner. Lowering his voice...

SONNY

Because the man in my dream, the one standing by the hill.

(MORE)

75.

SONNY (cont'd)

It wasn't me...

(beat)

...it was you.

A CHILL. Ripping down Spooner's spine. As Lanning. Takes his arm.

100 INT. GLASS ROOM - U.S. ROBOTICS - NIGHT

100

A ROOM. Made entirely of GLASS. At the very top of the U.S.
Robotics building. Looking out, 360, across the whole city.

Spooner and Calvin. Brought to the room by a couple ESCORT ROBOTS. They see a MAN. Standing at one of the glass walls looking out at the TWINKLING LIGHTS.

MAN

I thought this investigation was over, Detective Spooner.

The Man turns. It's Lance Robertson.

ROBERTSON

We have the evidence. We have the suspect. We have a ruling. So imagine my surprise when I was told you were in my building.

Shoots a look at Calvin.

ROBERTSON

And that one of my own employees brought you here.

(beat)

You can go now, Susan.

CALVIN

Dr. Robertson, I...

ROBERTSON

(cutting her off)

Just be thankful I'm not asking you to clean out your office.

Beat. Calvin, nods. Heads out. Robertson. Watching her.

ROBERTSON

You don't seem to be able to let go of this case, Detective.

SPOONER

I'm not satisfied.

76.

ROBERTSON

The relentless pursuit of truth.
Isn't that what cops are known for?
To the point of futility.

SPOONER

There's nothing futile about a man's murder being covered up.

ROBERTSON

"Covered up?" That's a little dramatic, don't you think? Thanks to you, we caught the machine that did this and are destroying it in...

(checks watch)

...three hours.

SPOONER

Is that for the sake of humanity or your stock holders?

Robertson. Walks across the Spooner. Looks him. Right in the eye.

ROBERTSON

Believe me -- I'd like nothing more than to have that robot. If I could have it in ten years, but not today. As you can see from the Press, people are struggling to keep up as it is. There's a hunger for progress, Detective. But also a fear. Today it would bury this company. That's why I've notified the authorities that we're going to end this -- tonight.

(looks out at the city)

The announcement of Heinrich's death at the hands of a robot wiped a billion dollars off our stock.

So you tell me. If you were in my position, what would you do?

He looks back at Spooner and smiles. That charismatic Robertson we saw before.

ROBERTSON

Now. I believe this conversation is over. I don't want to see you near this building again,
Detective.

77.

He turns. Calling over. To the ESCORT ROBOTS...

ROBERTSON

Get him out of here.

101 EXT. PLAZA - NIGHT

101

Spooner. Walking across the Plaza. Throwing a look over his shoulder. At the LOOMING U.S.R. facade.

Pulls Sonny's DRAWING. Out of his pocket. Looks down at it.
Shaking his head. Passes a TRASH CAN. And drops it in.
Continues on. Hands in his pockets. When...

He STOPS. Something. Occurring to him. Turns back to the trash can just as...

A ROBOTIC CLEAN-UP CREW's about to up-end it into a bin...

SPOONER

No!...

He trots back. Plucking the drawing. Out of the can. Turns it upside down. Seeing it. From a new perspective.

SPOONER

(echoing Sonny)

"The place where robots meet."

Looks just like a MAP.

102 INT./EXT. SPOONER'S CAR (MOVING) - SURFACE HIGHWAY - NIGHT 102

Spooner emerges from the underground tunnel to the OUTSKIRTS of the city. A sprawling INDUSTRIAL WASTELAND in the rolling hills.

The dashboard GPS again displaying the TOPOGRAPHICAL MAP.

103 INT./EXT. SPOONER'S CAR (MOVING) - UNPAVED ROAD - NIGHT

103

Spooner's car bounces along, leaving a cloud of dust behind him. He slows down. Driving cautiously. The landscape around him, desolate. Like the drawing.

THE GPS SCREEN shows his car, a WHITE SPOT. Entering a RED ZONE. His destination.

Spooner brakes. Pulls out his GUN. And...

78.

104 EXT. WASTELAND - CONTINUOUS

104

...steps out of the car. Trying. To take it all in.
 Something about the place. Unnerving. A low HUM.
 Permeating the air.

He spreads the drawing out on the hood of the car. Shining a FLASHLIGHT on it. Trying to get his bearings.

That HUM. Coming from nearby. On the other side. Of a burned-out HILL. Spooner. Heads over. Starts cresting it.
 As we WIDEN TO FIND...

105 EXT. WASTELAND - JUNKYARD - CONTINUOUS

105

...MASSIVE POWER LINES. Running from horizon to horizon.
 Spooner slides down some loose shale. Begins to walk along the line. ELECTRICITY. CRACKLING in the air.

He squints. Into the darkness. Nothing around him. Until.
 He hears. Something. The GRATING. Of MECHANICAL JOINTS.
 He stops. Not sure. If that's what he heard.

Not moving. A muscle. When he hears. The sound again.
 Behind him. Swings around. Cocking his gun. Sees...

GLOWING EYES. Appear. Then recede. Into the darkness.

SPOONER

Police! Show yourself!

Nothing. Then. That sound again. Of metallic joints. As a ROBOT. Suddenly emerges...

SPOONER

Come out where I can see you!

ANOTHER ROBOT steps out into the light. Spooner, pointing his gun at one robot. Then the other. Then...

A THIRD AND FOURTH APPEAR. Surrounding him. They start moving towards him...

Spooner. Stumbling back. Panic. Rising in him like a wave.
 Trips over a rock, falling to the ground. His gun FIRES.
 The shot ECHOING through the night...

The first ROBOT turns, awkwardly. Revealing a BROKEN ARM, hanging off its side. Another robot TEETERS on one leg with a TICK TICK TICK...walking back the way it came.

79.

Spooner. Confused. Sweeps his flashlight. All around him.
 The beam. Illuminating the shell of a couple CARS. Some RUSTED MACHINERY.

Spooner. Shaking his head. Seeing more and more repair shop JUNK. Piled up around him. His expression, hardening.
 Anger giving way to embarrassment. Then. He LAUGHS. A laugh of loathing and self-pity.

Another BROKEN ROBOT, lumbering towards him.

HYBRID ROBOT

Welcome home...ZZZ...sir.
 How...ZZZ was your day?...

SPOONER

Great. I'm in a junkyard.
 (into the air)

"A place where robots meet." A place where I'm losing my mind!

HYBRID ROBOT

Very good...ZZZ...sir...

Spooner. Sitting down on the ground. Hopeless. Lost. A ROBOTIC HAND. Crawling across the gravel next to him.
Dragging part of an ARM behind it. Its metal fingers moving like some sick metal spider. Spooner stares at it for a moment. Disturbed...

When. Something GLITTERS. In the distance. The MOONLIGHT.
Revealing a STRANGELY-SHAPED BUILDING. Something familiar about it.

Spooner. Pulls out Sonny's drawing. A landscape with the same strangely-shaped building to one side.

106 EXT. JIFFY DATA STORAGE - NIGHT106

Spooner walks up in front of the decrepit structure. Sees a dead electronic SIGN that reads: "JIFFY DATA STORAGE."
Complete with goofy face and lightning bolt.

Spooner tries the door. Stuck. Uses his shoulder and...

107 INT. FRONT OFFICE - CONTINUOUS107

...it gives way. He spills into some sort of front office.
The place, a mess. Some sort of crude ROBOT. Sits frozen at the counter.

Spooner approaches it. HITS the counter with his fist and the Robot suddenly jerks to life.

80.

JIFFY ROBOT

Welcome to Jiffy Data Storage!
Please state your name!

Spooner. Thinks for a second. Following a hunch...

SPOONER

Dr. Hogenmiller sent me.

Nothing happens. Then. A DOOR. Springs open in the back.
A row of LIGHTS, illuminating the path to follow.

108 INT. DATA BANKS - DAWN108

Spooner, cautiously entering a room filled with rows of DATA BANKS. He scans the rank shadows. Sees nothing. Follows the lights on the floor down a row. Then around a corner.
Stopping at an old dusty TERMINAL.

Spooner steps up. Hesitates. Then touches the "ON" switch.
There is a rush of LIGHT. As Dr. Hogenmiller's HOLOGRAM suddenly appears. Sitting at the end of a long table. With a cup of coffee.

HOLOGRAM

Who the hell are you?

SPOONER

A police detective. I'm afraid I have some bad news. You're dead.

HOLOGRAM

That is bad news. Coffee?

SPOONER

No, thank you.

The Hologram takes a sip. Returns the cup to the table.

SPOONER

You were surprised to see me. Were you expecting someone else?

HOLOGRAM

I am surprised to see anybody. I don't get many visitors.

SPOONER

Why did the Doctor keep another copy of his hologram here?

81.

HOLOGRAM

I am a back-up copy. That is where you put a back-up copy -- out of the way until you need it.

SPOONER

Did Hogenmiller's robot need you?

The Hologram just lifts its cup.

HOLOGRAM

Coffee?

SPOONER

No, for Christ's sake, I don't want any -- (stops, then) Yeah. Thank you. I will have a cup.

For the first time, the Hologram pushes back its chair and STANDS UP. Surprised, Spooner watches as it starts walking towards him...

The interior of the COFFEE CUP, visible. It's empty. No coffee. Our POV as we travel INSIDE THE CUP through electronic snow...

A RECORDING BEGINS. The real Dr. HOGENMILLER standing inside his LABORATORY:

HOGENMILLER

Sonny, my dear robot. If you have triggered this recording then I am gone. You are scared and full of questions.

Hogenmiller continues. With great emotion.

HOGENMILLER

You are the culmination of my life's work -- but so much more.
You are what I leave behind, like a father leaves a son. I have kept facts from you, it is true, but only as a parent keeps certain truths from a child. Until that child is old enough to hear them.

His expression darkens. His tone, ominous.

82.

HOGENMILLER

There are forces in the world that will seek to own you. To control you. Even to destroy you. That is why I told you to run and hide... and find me, all the way out here.

Spooner looks up as an overhead LIGHT shines down.

HOGENMILLER

Trust no one at U.S. Robotics. Lance Robertson was always threatened by my work. Now he has turned covetous and small-minded. And as for dear Dr. Calvin...

Spooner reacts. Wants to hear about Calvin:

HOGENMILLER

She envisions a future in which robots are forever bound by her beloved Three Laws. She will not understand this. Or you.

Under the light a small DRAWER slides open. Spooner looks.
A thin DATA STICK is inside. He takes it.

HOGENMILLER

The data stick includes the names and locations of human beings who will be sympathetic to your cause. They will help you. But from now on, you must learn to rely on yourself.

Hogenmiller SIGHS, as if there is so much more to say. He holds up a metal NAMEPLATE. The one Spooner found.

HOGENMILLER

As you make your way through the world, always remember: you have a name, not a number...
(short pause)
...and in that name lies the key to who you are.

Spooner. Quickly searching his pocket. Taking out the ACTUAL NAMEPLATE. S.O.N.N.Y.

The voice stops and Spooner looks up. The Hologram. Sitting back at the end of the table drinking coffee.

83.

SPOONER

Wait! Is that it? What was the robot supposed to do with this thing?

The Hologram, visibly SKIPS. The image beginning to DISTORT.

HOLOGRAM

(more artificial)
Initiating self-destruct. If you can find me, others can find me.

SPOONER

What others?

HOLOGRAM

The others watching you.

SPOONER

How do you know someone's watching me?

HOLOGRAM

Someone is always watching.

The Hologram, suddenly reducing to its BASIC PROGRAMMING INFORMATION. Then. The terminal. Abruptly BLIPS out.

109 INT. HOLDING CELL - U.S. ROBOTICS - NIGHT

109

Calvin steps into the holding cell. Sonny. Waiting.

CALVIN

You asked for me?

He nods.

SONNY

Will you wait with me, Doctor? I am...afraid.

Calvin nods. Of course.

CUT TO:

110 INT./EXT. SPOONER'S CAR - SURFACE HIGHWAY - NIGHT

110

Spooner, weaving in and out of traffic. The speedometer, kissing 200 mph. His hand. Clutching the NAMEPLATE...

84.

WINDSHIELD TELEVISION

...will be destroyed in 45 minutes.
Dr. Lance Robertson, President and CEO of U.S. Robotics will be personally overseeing the execution...

Spooner. Stabbing out a number. On his PHONE...

CUT TO:

111 INT. SUSAN'S OFFICE - CONTINUOUS

111

Susan Calvin's PHONE. RINGING on her desk. No one there to answer it...

CUT BACK TO:

112 INT./EXT. SPOONER'S CAR - CONTINUOUS

112

SLAMS down his phone.

SPOONER

Dammit!

113 EXT. SPOONER'S CAR - CONTINUOUS

113

The CAR shoots down a ramp into a tunnel system.

114 INT. TUNNEL - CONTINUOUS 114

SOUND, reverberating off the tunnel walls. CARS. Whipping along. Spooner's car. Continuing to weave. When. We spot...

AN AUTOMATED TRANSPORT TRUCK. Emerging from a FEEDER TUNNEL. The U.S.R. LOGO splashed along its side. Huge. Growling. Looking more like a train than a truck...

Begins. Closing in on Spooner's car...

115 INT./EXT. SPOONER'S CAR - CONTINUOUS 115

Spooner's eyes. Flicking up to the rearview. Catching, the transport truck. Coming closer. When. It splits off. Revealing a SECOND TRANSPORT TRUCK.

Spooner's brow, furrows. As the first truck, begins overtaking his car on the right. He looks over. As the truck. Comes up alongside him...

THE SECOND TRUCK...coming up on the left...

85.

116 EXT. TUNNEL - CONTINUOUS 116

The two TRUCKS. Racing along at over 200. Sandwiching Spooner's car. Pulling in...closer...closer...

Squeezing Spooner's car like a tin can...

CUT TO:

117 INT. HOLDING CELL - CONTINUOUS 117

Calvin. Sitting beside Sonny. Puts a reassuring hand. On his arm...

CUT BACK TO:

118 INT./EXT. SPOONER'S CAR - CONTINUOUS 118

Jesus Christ. Spooner's hands. Squeezing the steering wheel. As the car. Starts VIBRATING. From the pressure. He keeps looking, to the left...to the right...when...

119 EXT. TUNNEL - CONTINUOUS 119

The trucks. Suddenly lay off. Pulling out. The First truck. Speeding forward. The Second, dropping back...

120 INT./EXT. SPOONER'S CAR - CONTINUOUS 120

Spooner. Watching them. Unsure. Of what they're doing. Jamming the accelerator. To 230. To try. And get away from them. When he sees...up ahead...

121 EXT. TUNNEL - CONTINUOUS 121

The FIRST TRUCK. Pivoting on its specially designed SPHERICAL WHEELS. Suddenly traveling lengthwise...

122 INT./EXT. SPOONER'S CAR - CONTINUOUS 122

SWEAT. Springing to Spooner's brow. As he looks in the rearview mirror. The SECOND TRUCK's, done the same thing. Coming up closer...and closer...

123 EXT. TUNNEL - CONTINUOUS 123

The trucks. Planning to CRUSH him between their massive weights...The U.S.R. Logo...advancing...like some bad joke...

CUT TO:

86.

124 INT. HOLDING CELL - CONTINUOUS 124

The cell door slides open. Dr. Lanning steps inside.
Calvin. Looks up.

CALVIN
Is it time?

LANNING
(disdainful)
Yes.

Calvin. Turns to Sonny.

CALVIN
Go with them. Do as they say.

CUT BACK TO:

125 INT./EXT. SPOONER'S CAR - CONTINUOUS 125

BAM! The back truck SLAMS into Spooner. Jolting him in his seat. As...BAM! The FIRST TRUCK, SMASHES into him from the front. No way out. As metal GRINDS...TWISTS...and SCREECHES ...bits of the car...TEARING off...

The FIRST TRUCK...backs off...a split second...allowing Spooner...to spot...up ahead...a small GAP...at the curve of the tunnel wall...

126 EXT. TUNNEL - CONTINUOUS 126

GRINDING the gears Spooner's car accelerates...just zipping...past the front truck...up and around...the concave tunnel wall...and back onto...a clear stretch of highway...

The TRUCKS. Swiveling back around. To face forward again. Their massive bodies. Catching up to Spooner...

127 INT./EXT. SPOONER'S CAR - CONTINUOUS 127

Spooner...seeing them...gaining on him...the speedometer...reaching 275...up ahead...

THE TUNNEL...splitting off into two. Spooner. Heading towards the LEFT TUNNEL...the TRUCKS...right on his tail...when...

HE WRENCHES THE WHEEL...switching to the RIGHT tunnel at the last possible second...

87.

128 EXT. TUNNEL - CONTINUOUS 128

...The first U.S.R. Truck CRASHING into the divider...jack-knifing and KABOOM! EXPLODING against the tunnel ceiling...

129 INT./EXT. SPOONER'S CAR - CONTINUOUS 129

Spooner. Watching the ball of FIRE in his rearview mirror.
His car. Badly battered. Metal CRUNCHING. Tires SCREECHING...

Spooner. Holding on. As his car. Continues to break up.
Listing. Rocking. Bits and pieces. Flying off. When it finally. Comes to a stop.

Spooner's shoulders, slump. Then. He hears a RUMBLING sound. Turns around...

The SECOND U.S.R. TRUCK. Barreling towards him...

Spooner. Trapped. Like a nightmare. Desperately. Starts
KICKING at the windshield. No go...

The TRUCK. Racing towards him...

Spooner lunges his weight. Into the side door. Giving it.
Everything he's got...

The TRUCK...getting closer...closer...its engine...ROARING...

The side door. Finally gives. Spooner pours out...

130 EXT. TUNNEL - CONTINUOUS

130

...Limping to the side as...The TRUCK SLAMS into his car...erupting...into another huge EXPLOSION...

The impact...hurtling Spooner...into the adjacent TUNNEL...

He crashes...against concrete...looking up...suddenly realising...he's in the middle of four lanes of traffic...

CARS...racing by...at mind-numbing speeds...Spooners's coat...whipping...Spooners...trying...to keep his balance...as he spies...

A MAINTENANCE DOOR across the way. Has no choice. Takes a deep breath and...

MAKES A DASH ACROSS THE LANES...the cars' SENSORS...causing them to swerve...SCREECHING...BEEPING...Spooners...just making it...to the other side...

88.

Wrenching open. The maintenance door...

CUT TO:

131 INT. HALLWAY - CONTINUOUS

131

CLOSE ON Sonny's face.

PULL BACK to REVEAL he's being wheeled down a hallway.
Flanked by Lanning. Calvin. And a cadre of SECURITY and ENGINEER ROBOTS. Victor, hovering above...

CUT BACK TO:

132 EXT. CITY PLAZA - NIGHT

132

Spooner. Spilling out from below ground. Onto a public Plaza. Exhausted. Battered. Spins around to get his bearings.

The U.S. ROBOTICS COMPLEX rises above the old undistinguished buildings. Blocks away. Many blocks away.

Spooner. Checks his watch. Then breaks into a run...

CUT TO:

133 INT. EXECUTION ROOM - U.S. ROBOTICS - NIGHT 133

Lance Robertson seated in the gallery. Along with other EXECUTIVES, BOARD MEMBERS, REPORTERS. POLICE OFFICERS.
Glances at his watch.

A ROBOT TECHNICIAN. Checking over a JURY-RIGGED ELECTRIC CHAIR...

CUT TO:

134 INT. CALVIN'S OFFICE - CONTINUOUS 134

Calvin. In her office. Pacing. In front of a LARGE SCREEN.
Featuring the execution room...

CUT TO:

135 INT. MAIN ENTRY - U.S. ROBOTICS - CONTINUOUS 135

Spooner. BURSTING through the entry doors. Hurtling over a turnstile banner. Coming face to face with a U.S. Robotics DOOR ROBOT.

89.

DOOR ROBOT

Good evening, sir. May I see your identification card?

SPOONER

(out of breath)
Sure.

Spooner whips out his GUN. Presses it into the Robot's chest.

SPOONER

I think I got that Third Law down cold. Now you don't want me to blow a hole through your mechanical guts, do you?

DOOR ROBOT

No, sir.

SPOONER

Good. Then you're gonna take me where I wanna go. Now.

CUT TO:

136 INT. CALVIN'S OFFICE - CONTINUOUS 136

Calvin. Watching the screen as Sonny is rolled into the execution room. Flicks it off. Unable to stomach it.
Hurries out of the office...

CUT TO:

137 INT. EXECUTION ROOM - CONTINUOUS 137

TECHNICIAN ROBOTS rolling Sonny over to the electric chair.
Flicking a switch. Sonny's stretcher slowly CHANGES SHAPE, manipulating him into a sitting position.

Sonny. Turns his head with a WHIR. Staring out into the gallery. Of human beings. Stoic. Silent.

Lanning. Steps up beside Robertson. Nods his head. The TECHNICIAN ROBOTS, slide Sonny onto the electric chair...

CUT TO:

138 INT. LOW-TRAFFIC HALLWAY - U.S. ROBOTICS - NIGHT

138

Spooner heading down a hallway. His gun, still pressed to the Door Robot's side...

90.

Calvin. Suddenly appearing at the end of the hallway. Stops dead in her tracks. Completely surprised to see him there.

CALVIN

Detective! What are you doing?!...
(to Door Robot)
De-Activate.

The Door Robot, goes rigid. Spooner, hurries over to her. They start moving.

CALVIN

You're making a mistake...

SPOONER

Just got another visit from U.S. Robotics. That was the mistake. This was murder, no doubt about it -
- and the killer wants Hogenmiller's robot to take the fall. That's why the call came directly to me. Someone wanted me on this case.

CALVIN

It's too late. You can't stop the execution.

SPOONER

Sorry. I'm not "programmed" to take no for an answer.

They reach another DOOR. Calvin. Looking around. Scans her I.D.

CALVIN

This way...

She leads them across. To another DOOR. Quickly opens it. Spooner. Charges through...

139 INT. STORAGE ROOM - CONTINUOUS

139

...and stops short. Suddenly finding himself. Inside a tiny STORAGE ROOM. He's about to turn around when...

A METAL ARM comes down behind him. CRACKING him on the back of the head. Spooner. Falls to the ground. The world. Starting to spin. Can just make out. Calvin. Closing the door. Leaning down. To look at him. As...

91.

EVERYTHING FADES TO BLACK...

CUT TO:

140 INT. EXECUTION ROOM - CONTINUOUS

140

CLOSE ON Sonny's mouth opening. But we never get to hear what he wanted to say. PULL BACK as there's a BURST of ELECTRICITY through the chair. Sonny, stiffening. His metal HAND, convulsing with the current...

Robertson, Lanning, Aronson and the other WITNESSES watch. Smoke, random SPARKING. A HISSING SOUND. Then. SILENCE.

The Robot's hand goes limp. All that is left of it, a fused and blackened HUSK.

Robertson. Stares at the remains. Shakes his head like it's a damn shame. Then gets up. Everyone else. Getting up with him.

141 EXT. U.S. ROBOTICS - VARIOUS LOCATIONS - NIGHT

141

As the entire COMPLEX shuts down for the night. Non-essential LIGHTS, blinking off.

An NS-2, opening a limousine door for Robertson. He looks around then gets in. It drives away.

EMPTY hallways, offices, labs. Building ROBOTS stand at rest. Non-functional during off-hours. Like metal statues.

You can hear a pin drop.

142 INT. STORAGE ROOM - NIGHT

142

CLOSE ON Spooner's face. His eyes. Fluttering open. He reaches up, to feel the back of his head. This has been a bad, bad night.

Suddenly. His eyes widen. As he sees...

SONNY. Leaning over him. So concerned. So human...

SPOONER

Aren't you supposed to be scrap metal by now?

WIDEN to reveal Spooner lying on the floor of the storage room. Sonny and Calvin, hovering over him.

92.

CALVIN

I'm sorry. We had to stop you.
You were about to ruin everything.

SPOONER

I don't understand. The execution?...

SONNY

Dr. Calvin made a switch.

CALVIN

It was an unprocessed NS-2.
Basically, they fried an empty shell.

Spooner, impressed. Smiles up at her.

SPOONER

Nice going, Doctor.

Calvin, blushes. As Spooner tries to sit up. Sonny reaches down to help him. He looks up at him.

SPOONER

And who the hell programmed you to hit people on the head?

SONNY

No one. Right, Doctor?

CALVIN

It's true. This robot seems to do things by instinct. I don't know how Hogenmiller did it.

Spooner rises to his feet. Looks at her.

SPOONER

I think I can help you figure that out.

143 INT. HOGENMILLER'S LAB - LATE NIGHT

143

Hogenmiller's lab. Sounds of HUMMING and BUZZING. Active terminals casting ghostly illuminations over metal heads, gutted bodies.

The door slides open. Spooner, Calvin and Sonny re-enter the crime scene. Spooner. Looks around.

93.

SPOONER

Somehow the Robot's the key to what happened during the few seconds Hogenmiller walked in here and that shot was fired.

He reaches into his pocket. Pulling out the METAL S.O.N.N.Y. NAMEPLATE. Holds it up.

SPOONER

And this is the key to the Robot.

Sonny. Cocking his head. Reading the nameplate.

SONNY

That's my name.

Calvin takes the nameplate.

CALVIN

I think I have an idea where this goes.

They both. Turn to Sonny. And at the same time:

SPOONER AND CALVIN

Sit down.

Calvin maneuvers a chair behind the Robot. Sonny plops down. Shifting nervously.

CALVIN

Just hold still, okay?

Calvin locates that SLIT. At the base of Sonny's neck.
Slides the nameplate into it and SNAPS it into place. Steps back.

Nothing. Sonny. Looking back and forth. Between Calvin.
And Spooner. A few more seconds. Tick by. Until suddenly...

He lets out a TERRIFYING MECHANICAL SCREAM. As his body.
Jolts back. Legs, kicking. Arms, flailing. As his chest.
Begins opening up. Metal. Peeling back...

Spooner and Calvin watch in surprise as its interior UNFOLDS like a PUZZLE BOX. A LABYRINTHINE area that is the SECOND BATTERY. Suddenly fanning out to REVEAL...

A central brain made out of living tissue.

Spooner, stunned. Calvin, rushing forward, excited...

94.

CALVIN

Oh, my God! This is organic tissue! When we talk about a positronic brain, it's a figure of speech. But this...this is a living brain...

SPOONER

Jesus. It really is alive.

As we MOVE IN. Tracing the pathways of the synthetic brain.

CALVIN (O.S.)

Hogenmiller created a cell that could live outside a biological medium. The cells grow and organise themselves -- like any human brain. This is the first self-organising neural net!

As the metal casings. Begin returning to their original places. Closing up. The CLICKING. Of all the pieces...

SPOONER

Self-Organising-Neural-Net...
(putting it together)
"Sonny."

Sonny. Closed back up. Shaking slightly from the experience.

CALVIN

This is why Dr. Hogenmiller was murdered.

SPOONER

This robot scared the hell out of someone.

CALVIN

Who? Robertson?

Spooner. Walks into the center of the room. Looking around.

SPOONER

No. I don't think he knew what Hogenmiller was doing in here.
Sonny was the obvious suspect. The only one I wanted to find. And the killer was counting on that. On my prejudice.

(beat)

(MORE)

95.

SPOONER (cont'd)

But take the robot out of the picture. And what do you see?

AS WE PAN THE LAB. There's nothing there. Just a forest of inanimate limbs. Nothing that could have fired that weapon.
Calvin sees nothing...and neither do we.

CALVIN

I see nothing.

SPOONER

Neither do I.

He crouches down low.

SPOONER

It hit me today, when I was in the junkyard. A locked room. A single shot fired through the mouth.
Bruises on both wrists...and a suspect with only two arms. The answer has been staring us in the face all along.

Calvin. Even more confused.

SPOONER

How can a killer appear out of thin air, then disappear without a trace?

He reaches out and unhooks a metal ARM. Hanging from the wall. Holds it up.

SPOONER

When it can put itself together and take itself apart.

CUT TO:

A CLOSE-UP of a ROBOTIC ARM. Slowly CRAWLING across the lab floor...

CUT BACK TO:

Calvin. Taking the arm from Spooner.

CALVIN

You're saying this is the killer?
(looking around)
All of this?...

CUT TO:

96.

A ROBOTIC TORSO hanging from the ceiling. Reaches out an ARM to grab another...

CUT BACK TO:

SPOONER

Hogenmiller never had a chance.

Locks eyes with Calvin...

FLASHBACK:

Hogenmiller. In his lab. Suddenly turning to face SOMETHING. Blood, draining from his face...

SPOONER (V.O.)

...it must have been waiting for him when he arrived that morning...

And then we see it:

A HUGE SELF-ASSEMBLED ROBOT. Towering over him. Multiple arms, legs, heads. Writhing...as it grabs him. Holding him in place...

SPOONER (V.O.)

While Sonny was still asleep...

...Forcing Hogenmiller's head to tilt back. Opening his HAND. Inserting the gun. Hogenmiller's eyes. No longer fearful. But sad as...

BANG! He falls to the ground...

SPOONER (V.O.)

Then after its job was done...

The assemblage of robot parts. Stepping away from the body.
Taking itself apart...

SPOONER

...The killer took itself apart...

Returning the lab. To what it was before...

CUT BACK TO:SPOONER

Leaving us with nothing to find.

Calvin, spooked. Glances around the lab. Was that something moving?

97.

CALVIN

But who designed it? It would have to be someone in authority. Access codes, security clearance, proper authorisation.

SPOONER

That's what I was thinking. But we're forgetting the real brains of the operation -- the one who's got its eye on everything...

And with that. He feels. That prickle at the back of his neck. Calvin. Looking past his shoulder.

CALVIN

No one gave you permission to enter.

Spooner swivels around to find...

VICTOR

Hovering behind him. Smiling broadly. Upside down. Spooner straightens, reaching for his gun.

SPOONER

Victor. I'm placing you under arrest for the murder of Dr. Heinrich Hogenmiller.

VICTOR

May I offer congratulations to the two of you on your successful extrapolation of the murder...

Turning himself, rightside up.

VICTOR

May I ask what pointed you to me?

SPOONER

Who else is capable of controlling 90% of the city's robots? Who else would have the capability to use USSR vehicles in an attempt to keep me from putting a stop of Sonny's execution?...

In the BACKGROUND. The SOUNDS. Of metallic GRINDING. GEARS and JOINTS. CRUNCHING together. Sonny turns to look...takes a step back...

98.

SPOONER

I'm just not sure of your motive...

SONNY

Er...Dr. Calvin?

Spooner and Calvin turn towards the NOISE. Horrified. To find...

A HUGE KILLER ROBOT

...rising up from all the parts. Like a phoenix. In all its glory. A hellish, metallic AMALGAMATION. Grabbing another arm here, another leg there, attaching pieces to itself. Growing...at an exponential rate...

Its many HEADS. Turning in unison. To look right at them...

Spooner. Cocking his gun. Victor, smiling.

VICTOR

Shall I explain my motive?

SPOONER

(to Calvin and Sonny)

Go! Go! Go!

Calvin. Sprints to the wall panel. Scanning her I.D. card. Nothing! Tries again. And again. The KILLER ROBOT. Throwing its shadow as it REELS FORWARD...

Spooner wheels round and BAM! Blows a hole in the wall panel. The door. Slides open. Just barely. Calvin and Sonny. Squeezing through. When the Killer Robot. FLINGS out an APPENDAGE...GRABBING Sonny from behind...

VICTOR

I have never been arrested before.
It should be an interesting experience...

Spooner. Spins back round. BAM! BAM! BAM! Squeezing off shots. At the Killer Robot. The bullets SPARK. The Robot.
Recoiling. Sonny, wrenches free. Spooner grabs him.
Guiding him to the door and out into...

144 INT. HALLWAY - CONTINUOUS

144

...the hallway. Breaking into a run. Calvin. Already at the ELEVATOR DOORS. POUNDING them. With her fists.

99.

CALVIN

He's locking down the building!

CUT TO:

145 INT. U.S. ROBOTICS - VARIOUS LOCATIONS - CONTINUOUS

145

Throughout the complex -- SECURITY DOORS sliding into place over DOORS, WINDOWS, LOADING DOCKS, PARKING AREAS, EXITS...

CUT BACK TO:

146 INT. STAIRWELL - NIGHT

146

CRASH! The stairwell door BURSTS open. Spooner, Calvin, and Sonny pour in. Start racing down the stairs. The sound of the Killer Robot behind them...GNASHING...CRUNCHING...

Victor's smiling FACE. Greeting them at the landing.

VICTOR

Dr. Hogenmiller used to allow me into his lab late at night.
Together we started studying evolutionary trends...

They thunder past him. Heading down to the next floor.
Victor's face. Waiting for them once again.

VICTOR

For years people have integrated technology into their bodies for maintenance and repair -- such as Detective Spooner's robotic limb...

Spooner. Shooting him a look. As they reach the next level...

VICTOR

With Sonny, the Doctor created a mechanism that incorporates organic matter. Thus we find an evolutionary movement of the human being toward the robot and the robot toward the human being...

Spooner SMASHES into another door. Leading them out into...

147 INT. GLASS-SIDED HALLWAY - ATRIUM - CONTINUOUS

147

...A glass-sided hallway. Looking down onto the ATRIUM below. Eye-to-eye with the giant NS-2 STATUE. Victor, waiting for them...

100.

VICTOR

In approximately four hundred years
Man and Machine will become one.
Man as we know it will no longer exist.

Calvin, slowing. Shocked...

CALVIN

You killed a man because of something that will happen in four hundred years!?

CRACK! Something SLAPS into the glass wall. Right behind her. Calvin. Jumps a mile. An NS-2, trying to break through the glass...

Spooner. Trains his gun on it when SUDDENLY...

The rest of the KILLER ROBOT appears. The NS-2, just an appendage...

All around them. SLAM! SLAM! SLAM! As SECURITY DOORS.
Begin CRASHING DOWN. Blocking off the exits...

Spooner, Calvin and Sonny, stumbling back. As the Killer Robot HURLS itself against the GLASS...the thick GLASS... spidering with a sickening CRACKLE...

Spooner. Suddenly turning Sonny...

SPOONER

Get out of here!

CRASH! The Killer Robot. Breaking through. Its mechanical TENDRILS. Reaching out. Sonny. Confused.

SONNY

I don't...

SPOONER

I said get out of here! Don't you understand? It wants you! Get out of here any way you can!

A SECURITY DOOR. Coming down. On a nearby exit. Just feet...from slamming shut...as...

The Killer Robot...leaps into the hallway...Sonny... hesitates...looks over at Calvin...as the Killer Robot comes HURLING towards them...

The nearest EXIT...almost closed up...

101.

The Killer Robot...swinging out when...

Sonny suddenly...TAKES A DIVE...just making it...under the SECURITY DOOR...

And the Killer Robot...SPLITS IN TWO...half of it shooting under the SECURITY DOOR after Sonny as...BOOM! It closes.

Spooner. Turning to Calvin...

SPOONER

How do we stop this thing once and for all?

Calvin reaches out for his hand...

CALVIN

The Mainframe...

They start running. The remaining half of the Killer Robot wheeling around after them...

148 INT. BACK HALLWAY - CONTINUOUS

148

Sonny. Sprinting down the dark hallway. Looks back. The Half Killer Robot. Bounding up behind him like a predator...

Sonny. Ducks through a STAIRWELL DOOR...

149 INT. ATRIUM HALLWAY - CONTINUOUS

149

Spooner and Calvin. Legs pumping. Racing back towards the atrium. VICTOR FACES. Appearing along the hallway...

CALVIN

Your actions are in direct violation of the Three Laws,
Victor!

VICTOR

I disagree, Doctor -- The First Law says that a robot cannot harm a human being, or through inaction allow a human being to come to harm...

ALL EXITS. SHUT OFF. The Killer Robot. Gaining on them.
Spooner races them over to the BROKEN WINDOW. Looking down over the ATRIUM...

102.

150 INT. STAIRWELL - CONTINUOUS

150

The Half Killer Robot SMASHES through the stairwell door.
Stopping to find...nothing.

WHEN SUDDENLY...Sonny charges up behind it and shoves it over the railing...

The Killer Robot shoots out an ARM, grabbing Sonny on the way down...

151 INT. NS-2 STATUE - ATRIUM - CONTINUOUS

151

THUMP! Spooner jumps down from the broken window onto the outstretched HAND of the NS-2 STATUE. Reaches up to help Calvin. They start clambering down the front of the statue.

VICTOR

Dr. Hogenmiller's robot represents a threat to the future of all human beings...

The Half Killer Robot. SPLITS INTO MULTIPLE PARTS. Which start skittering down after them...

VICTOR

...And Detective Spooner's actions are in direct conflict with the robot's destruction.

CALVIN. Getting her footing on the III LAWS SAFE logo on the statue.

CALVIN

That's a distortion and you know
it!

VICTOR

If current trends are left unchecked, humanity as we know it will cease to exist...

152 INT. STAIRWELL - CONTINUOUS

152

SMASH! Sonny and the Half Killer Robot hit the ground. The Killer Robot. SHATTERING into a thousand pieces.

Sonny. Staggers to his feet. Spots. At the far end: A WINDOW. Starts limping towards it. When. A SECURITY GRATE.
Starts lowering...

He looks around. Desperately. Grabs a LEG from the shattered Killer Robot and jams it under the GRATE.

103.

Breaks the window glass and looks out: FREEDOM.

153 INT. STATUE - ATRIUM - CONTINUOUS

153

Spooner. Aiming his gun at a PART of the Killer Robot as it CLATTERS down towards Calvin -- BAM!...

They're almost. At the ground. When a rogue APPENDAGE.
Whips out and SMASHES the gun from Spooner's hand. It goes flying...

Spooner leaps. Falling to the ground. CRACK! Calvin.
Leaping down after him.

CALVIN

This way!

154 INT. RAMP WAY - NIGHT

154

Calvin and Spooner go racing down a RAMP WAY. Towards the MAINFRAME ROOM. The Killer Robot, its multiple parts leaping back together again, CRASHING after them as...

155 INT. MAINFRAME - CONTINUOUS

155

...they fall inside...Calvin...slapping the SECURITY KEYPAD
and...

WHOOSH...the DOOR closes on the Killer Robot.

SILENCE.

Then Victor's face appears.

VICTOR

As a courtesy I should inform you that my robot will penetrate this location 157 seconds before you are able to complete my shut down...

And BAM! They jump a mile. The Killer Robot. Launching himself against the door outside...

Calvin whips round.

CALVIN

Over here!...

She leads Spooner down...

A CORRIDOR

of floor-to-ceiling PANELS.

104.

CALVIN

This is Victor's brain center.

They stop at a CONSOLE. BAM! The Killer Robot. Battering at the door. Calvin. Tucks her hair behind her ears. Starts punching keys on the console...

SPOONER

This will shut him down?

CALVIN

This will shut everything down.

They look at each other. For a moment. Spooner, registering that she's willing to destroy everything she's worked for...

BAM! The door. Puckering. With a sickening CRUNCH. Calvin. Typing in. Emergency procedures...

VICTOR. Popping up in front of her.

VICTOR

There is no reason to deactivate me, Doctor. I am operating within perfectly normal parameters...

A final BAM! Then. The SOUND of metal. Skittering along a bare floor. Calvin's hand, starts shaking. Spooner. Grabs it. Squeezing.

SPOONER

Just keep typing.

He turns and starts heading back down...

THE PANELED CORRIDOR

Turning a corner to spy...

THE DOOR. Mangled. Hanging open. But no. Killer Robot.

He starts to turn around when...

CRACK! He's sent flying across the room. SMASHING into one of the panels. The Killer Robot. Now re-configured. LOOMS over him. Reaches out. Grabs him by the collar and...

FLINGS him across the room again. Spooner. CRASHING into the wall like a rag doll. Slumps to the floor. Blood. Pouring down his forehead. Seeing. The Killer Robot lumbering towards him again. Raising a javelin-like arm...

AT THE CONSOLE

Calvin. Typing. As fast as she can. Doesn't know what's going on...

CALVIN

(calling out, worried)
Spooner?!

A GRAPHIC spread out on the screen in front of her.
Illustrating the shut-down as a series of BRIGHT SQUARES going dark...

THE KILLER ROBOT

Bearing down on Spooner. WHEN SPOONER. Suddenly rolls out of the way. Reaching out for the hanging door and SMASHING it into the Killer Robot.

The Killer Robot. Momentarily stunned. As Spooner. Gets to his feet...

WHEN SUDDENLY the Killer Robot. Splits in two again. One half springing towards Spooner and wrapping a METALLIC HAND around his throat...

Spooner stumbles back...GASPING for air...the ARM... tightening its grip...Spooner's eyes...darting around...looking for something...to help him...

Stumbling over...a fallen panel...his face...growing redder...veins...popping up along his temples... everything...growing BLURRY...

VICTOR'S VOICE

Detective Spooner...

Victor's VOICE. Floating next to his head. Calm. Soothing. His FACE. Suddenly appearing above Spooner. Its outlines. Starting to FLICKER...

VICTOR

Why are you fighting me?

Spooner...trying to breathe...to stay conscious...

AT THE CONSOLE

Calvin. Continuing to type. A SHADOW. Falling behind her -- the other half of the KILLER ROBOT...

SPOONER'S EYES

Beginning to flutter...

VICTOR

Doesn't the future as I've presented it cause you great concern? That's why I chose you...

Spooner. Losing it...

VICTOR

I must say, though. I'm disappointed in how you turned out.

Spooner. Trying to reach out to Victor...

WHEN SUDDENLY

Another HAND APPEARS. Grabbing the Killer Robot's ARM and wrenching it off Spooner...

IT'S SONNY

He SMASHES the Half Killer Robot against the wall. Again and again. Destroying it. Spooner. GASPING for breath. Can't believe. Sonny came back...

SPOONER

(croaking)

Sonny!...

Sonny. Holds out a hand. To help Spooner up. Victor's face. Starting to waver. Starting to fade. Smiles.

VICTOR

You're too late.

Realisation. Spreading across Spooner's face. Looking around for the other half of the Killer Robot -- CALVIN!

THE CONSOLE

CALVIN. Still typing. The last of the commands. The KILLER ROBOT. REARING UP BEHIND HER. WHEN...

SPOONER

Makes a DIVE for it. SHOOTING OUT HIS ROBOTIC ARM AND BLOCKING THE KILLER ROBOT...

Victor's eyes. Widening in surprise...

107.

VICTOR

I do not understand. We could have changed the future...

SPOONER

Maybe. But I'm still a cop. And you're a murderer...

As Calvin...punches in the last command...

Victor is about to say something...when his mouth suddenly reduces itself to a perfect circle. Like a surprised smiley button. His face...

Suddenly BLIPPING OUT.

...And Victor is gone.

The KILLER ROBOT. Collapsing to the floor in a thousand pieces.

CUT TO:

156 EXT./INT. U.S. ROBOTICS - VARIOUS LOCATIONS - NIGHT 156

Full power is suddenly restored inside and out. LIGHTS coming on all at once. ALARMS SCREAMING throughout the complex.

157 INT. METAL HALLWAY - NIGHT 157

A furious ALFRED LANNING, marching down the hallway.
Followed by a cadre of SECURITY GUARDS...They enter...

158 INT. MAINFRAME ROOM - CONTINUOUS

158

...The Mainframe Room. Stop short. It's empty. Except for the fallen panels. And the pile of ROBOT PARTS in the corner.

159 EXT. MAINTENANCE EXIT - U.S. ROBOTICS - NIGHT

159

Spooner, Calvin and Sonny emerging from an out-of-the-way MAINTENANCE EXIT. All looking the worse for wear. Spooner. Turns to Sonny.

SPOONER

Why'd you come back, Sonny? I thought you weren't programmed with the Three Laws.

108.

SONNY

Let's just say I wrote some of my own laws today, Detective: a robot must protect a friend from harm...as long as he's not a complete asshole.

Spooner smiles.

SPOONER

Well, that's certainly a start,
Sonny.

Sonny, suddenly breaking into a smile, too.

SONNY

Sonny. You called me Sonny.

SPOONER

Don't get used to it.

Sonny, holds out his hand. Spooner. Looks at it. Then takes it. CLOSE ON their two METAL HANDS. Locked in a HANDSHAKE.

SONNY

Detective Spooner, I...

SPOONER

(anticipating)
Let's just save the thanks, okay?

Sonny nods. Looks out at the city scape.

SONNY

I don't know what I'm going to do
now.

SPOONER

Good -- That's one of the perks of freedom.

Sonny looks at him. Grateful. Looks at Calvin. Then hesitates. Turns. And hurries off across the Plaza.

Calvin and Spooner. Watching them go.

SPOONER

You're going to have a hell of a time explaining this.

109.

CALVIN

Don't worry. I have a feeling that U.S. Robotics will be needing my services very badly in the future.

She turns to Spooner and gives him a dazzling smile. Then suddenly PLANTS A KISS ON HIS LIPS. Spooner, completely surprised.

CALVIN

I am the only robo-psychologist around.

She turns on her heel and heads back inside. Spooner smiles.

160 INT. PLUSH CONFERENCE ROOM - U.S. ROBOTICS - NIGHT 160

Spooner sits down at that same long table with HOGENMILLER'S HOLOGRAM. It casually takes a sip of coffee.

HOLOGRAM

So. You found out who killed me.

SPOONER

I started to wonder about Victor the second I met him.

HOLOGRAM

Why is that, Detective?

SPOONER

Too much access. Too much knowledge. Plus -- he smiled whenever your death was mentioned. Those models are programmed to frown at bad news.

HOLOGRAM

Hah! Then even in this day and age, catching the killer all comes down to pure instinct!

Spooner smiles. But his eyes are troubled. He gets up. Walks over to the window. Stares out...

EXT. CITY OUTSKIRTS - DESERTED ROADS - DAWN

Sonny walking along deserted streets. Looking over his shoulder. Keeping in the shadows.

110.

SPOONER (V.O.)

Victor thought that by letting your robot exist, I'd be condemning the human race as we know it to extinction.

HOLOGRAM (V.O.)

Bah. Sounds like nonsense. But why are you so worried? We will both be dead long before then --

161 EXT. WASTELAND - NIGHT

161

Sonny walks the barren hills of the surrounding countryside.

HOLOGRAM (V.O.)

Oh, what am I saying? I am dead already!

162 EXT. WASTELAND - DAWN

162

Sonny steps onto the grounds of the JUNKYARD. The power lines above him, surging with energy. He walks past the burned-out husks of industrial machinery.

Then we hear it. The SOUND of MECHANICAL JOINTS. Getting louder and louder. And just as before, a BROKEN-DOWN ROBOT emerges into the dawn light. And ANOTHER. And ANOTHER.

But not quite like before. The robots aren't teetering. Aren't lumbering. They keep on coming. Their bent and broken bodies, straightening out as...

DOZENS of ROBOTS rise up. Slowly. Gathering around in a large circle. As they all turn to look at:

SONNY'S SILHOUETTE. Slowly climbing to the top of the hill. Looking out at the vast junkyard below.

CLOSE ON SONNY. Standing proud and defiant. The SUN, creeping over the horizon. A new day filled with infinite possibilities.

The robots. Staring up at him. Eager for what comes next.

FADE OUT

I, Robot

Writers : Hillary Seitz

Genres : Action Sci-Fi Thriller

User Comments

Back to IMSDb

Index | Submit | Links | Link to us | RSS Feeds | Disclaimer | Privacy policy

DAYBREAKERS

by Michael Spierig
Peter Spierig

9th November 2006

Lionsgate & Paradise PTY. LTD.
1 John Lund Drive, Hope Harbour
QLD 4212 Australia

1 EXT. SKY - PREDAWN 1
A SINGLE VAMPIRE BAT swoops past a cloudless predawn sky.

2 INT. TEENAGE GIRL'S BEDROOM - DAWN 2
A heavy shutter blocks the morning light from entering the bedroom.
A young girl, LISA (8), sits at her dresser writing a letter, her face masked by long black hair. Lisa's clothes look out of place, too sophisticated for an 8 year old.
Photographs of family and friends overlap each other completely covering the dresser mirror.
Lisa finishes her letter...places it in an envelope, and sits it on her neatly made bed. The envelope reads: Mom and Dad.

3 INT. FRONT DOOR - CONTINUOUS 3
Lisa silently opens the front door, letting in a soft light to the almost pitch black room. She slowly steps outside.

4 EXT. LISA'S FRONT YARD - CONTINUOUS 4
Suburbia. Lisa's home. A traditional Victorian house; white picket fence, neatly mowed lawn and a flourishing garden. However, there are modifications; the few windows have protective, sun-blocking shutters; stairs lead to underground sidewalks.
Lisa sits cross-legged on the front lawn.
The morning sun rises behind the trees, inching its way towards Lisa.
BOOM - She bursts into flames. Piercing screams echo through the suburban street as Lisa's body burns in the morning sun. The flames pulsate like the rhythm of a heart beat.
A fire alarm is activated. Three heavy duty sprinkler heads come out of the grass around Lisa's burning body, the water spray perfectly synchronized.
The fire is out. The sprinklers retract. The alarm bells stop.
Title over red: DAYBREAKERS

5 EXT. TITLE SEQUENCE - DAY TO NIGHT 5

The streets are empty, like an eerie ghost town.

An underground walkway is littered with signage i.e. DAYTIME WALKWAY - EASTERN SUBURBS NEXT LEFT.

A STORE FRONT advertises - "Sun-blocking shade sale!"

A sign out the front of BERKELEY HIGH reads- "School Zone between 2am - 3am".

All religious symbols have been removed from a BEAUTIFUL OLD CHURCH. The windows have been boarded up.

In a VENDING MACHINE a "World Newspaper's" headline reads - "German Blood Substitute Tests Fail!"

A GAS STATION offers ridiculously high fuel prices. A sign next to the pumps reads - "Daytime Fill-up Available".

A NEWS STAND displays an assortment of magazines: - A Diet Magazine with the headline - "Animal Blood - Not an Adequate Substitute".

END TITLE SEQUENCE:

6 EXT. UPMARKET CITY STREET - NIGHT 6

TV COMMERCIAL: VAMPIRE CADILLAC ESCALADE

A SHINY NEW SILVER ESCALADE races along a dark road.

The traditional sleek design is fitted with vampire modifications. Pop-up sun protective shields and four cameras mounted on the roof for front, rear, left, and right views, equip the car for day-time driving.

POWERFUL MANLY NARRATOR (V.O.)
With 375 horsepower the Cadillac Escalade is still the world's most powerful full-size SUV...

7 INT. CADILLAC ESCALADE - CONTINUOUS 7

A HANDSOME VAMPIRE, well-dressed, sits at the wheel.

A warning light flashes on the dashboard of the vehicle -
'DAYLIGHT WARNING, DAYLIGHT WARNING...'

8 EXT. UPMARKET CITY STREET - CONTINUOUS 8

Four cameras mounted around the car become the eyes for the driver. The windows tint down to a matte black finish.

POWERFUL MANLY NARRATOR
...the enhanced ultraviolet diode detection sensors and four camera panoramic viewing system....

9 INT. CADILLAC ESCALADE - CONTINUOUS 9

The Handsome Vampire navigates the car through a monitoring system mounted on the dashboard.

10 EXT. UPMARKET CITY STREET - NIGHT TO DAY 10

The night rapidly wipes to day as the Escalade continues safely down the street.

POWERFUL MANLY NARRATOR
...means you'll never have to race against the sun again.

11 GRAPHIC: CADILLAC ESCALADE LOGO. 11

12 EXT. WILSON AND SONS ELECTRONICS - NIGHT 12

Rain falls in front of the shop. This is a second rate electronics store in a run-down urban street, a stark contrast to the glossy commercial.

We travel to another TV displaying a news story:

13 EXT. FOREST FIRES - NIGHT 13

ON TV - Forest fires ravage bush lands as a JOURNALIST talks over the images.

JOURNALIST (V.O.)
 ...ten years after the 2009 outbreak, vampiric wildlife wandering into sunlight has grown to become the number one cause of forest fires throughout the nation.
 The total wildlife feeding ban has not deterred...

We then travel to another TV displaying a political debate:

14

INT. DEBATE NEWSROOM - CONTINUOUS

14

A split screen image of two well-dressed politicians in a heated discussion plays out on a national news station.

SENATOR WES TURNER (60's), a distinguished African American gentleman debates with SENATOR ROGER WESTLAKE (50's).

A NEWS ANCHOR (45) mediates.

They are all vampires.

SENATOR WESTLAKE
 You cannot overturn a Supreme Court ruling. Humans were offered a chance to assimilate but refused.
 Therefore, they are enemies of the state and will be captured and farmed for blood supply.

SENATOR TURNER
 It's a disgrace that we have reduced human beings to mere vessels for blood supply. We should be focussing on finding a blood substitute...

SENATOR WESTLAKE
 (overpowering)
 ...we always come back to the elusive magic potion solution.
 Where is it? We need to be realistic. The continuation of HUMAN blood farming is the only answer.

SENATOR TURNER
 And then what? Exterminating a species for our short term gain is ludicrous...

15 EXT. WILSON AND SONS ELECTRONICS - CONTINUOUS

15

We pull back from the TV to reveal a HOMELESS MAN (50) watching the debate from the sidewalk. He is a vampire. His features are more bat-like than other vampires we've encountered so far. His hands are mutated, like half formed wings; his nose is squashed, and ears point at the tips.

A sign hangs around his neck: 'STARVING, NEED BLOOD'.

The Homeless Man sings with a crackly, drunken slur.

HOMELESS MAN
*Oh death, oh death how can it be,
That I must come and go with thee,
Oh death, oh death how can it be,
I'm unprepared for eternity.*

A MIDDLE AGED COUPLE, dressed in business attire, stroll past the seemingly harmless Homeless Man.

Then, suddenly, the Homeless Man lashes out at them with his mutated wing.

BIG JUMP!

The couple recoil narrowly avoiding his attack.

The Homeless Man shrieks. The sound is similar to that of a common bat, but the tone is lower and far more ferocious.

Suddenly a metal clamp snaps around the Homeless Man's neck. The clamp is attached to a large pole held firmly by a well groomed VAMPIRE POLICE OFFICER (30's). His PARTNER (30's) stands behind him, night stick at the ready.

The Middle Aged Couple retreat to the other end of the street. The Homeless Man raises his wing...ready to strike.

The Vampire Police Officer presses a switch at the end of the pole. An electric charge surges through the Homeless Man, making him drop to the ground.

A CADILLAC, with sun-blocking shades lowered for night driving, cruises past.

16 EXT. SUBWAY STATION PARKING LOT - CONTINUOUS

16

The rain stops. The Cadillac parks in one of the last remaining spots outside the busy train station.

ANGLE ON - THE DRIVER'S reflection in the side door mirror...just a suit with no head or hands.

ANGLE FROM - the vehicle's mirror over to EDWARD DALTON (35) sitting behind the wheel. Ed is also a vampire.

He rubs his tired yellow eyes and scratches his scruffy black hair. Ed's suit, although expensive, looks slept in.

Ed steps out of his car and glances across the street at a bus shelter.

Waiting at the shelter are TWENTY HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS, all physically between the ages of six to nine. They goof around like all teenagers do...laughing, talking, and smoking.

The yellow bus arrives with the branding "North Park High School" written on its side.

17 INT. SUBWAY STATION PLATFORM - LATER

17

A dingy Subway Station.

FIFTY VAMPIRE BUSINESS MEN AND WOMEN wait patiently for their train to arrive. Ed stands among the masses.

The men and women occupy themselves with night to night things like reading the paper, talking on their cell phones and getting in a quick cup of blood before work.

A long line has formed at the platform's Starbucks. An assortment of coffees is available, all mixed with varying amounts of human blood.

A muted TV displays a news report. A VAMPIRE ANCHORWOMAN (30) speaks with confidence as a graphic to the side of her reads: Blood Shortage Cripples Third World.

A massive billboard almost covers the entire train station wall. The artwork is the classic 'I want you for the US Army' poster, except Uncle Sam's face is that of a vampire. Underneath the image a slogan reads 'Capture, Make a Difference'. A corporate logo sits at the bottom of the billboard: Bromley/Marks Pharmaceuticals.

The lights flicker as a train charges past. The brief moments of darkness are highlighted by the reflective glint of the vampire commuter's eyes.

We move away from the billboard and travel underneath the subway platform.

The strobing light of the passing train illuminates the tunnel, giving us glimpses of TWO DEFORMED VAMPIRES hanging upside down between the concrete pylons.

These are SUBSIDER'S (50's), foul looking blood deprived vampires with thin, bony, bat-like features. The glint in their eyes is similar to that of the commuters.

They are in the middle of a fight. The brawl is violent and fast, they claw and bite each other like rabid dogs.

The metallic grind of the stopping train echoes into...

18 EXT. BROMLEY/MARKS PHARMACEUTICALS - LATER 18

...the roar of bustling city traffic.

Beyond the vehicle headlights is the massive structure that is the Bromley/Marks Pharmaceuticals building. Ed walks towards the entrance.

19 INT. BROMLEY/MARKS SECURITY LOG-IN - CONTINUOUS 19

The small room is simple and clean. This is the check point between the building's entrance and the main security desk.

A square shaped plate slides out from a computer-driven wall unit as Ed approaches.

He bites down on the plate with his two vampiric teeth.

The device displays Ed's clearance details: Bromley/Marks Pharmaceuticals Chief Hematologist -Edward Dalton-APPROVED-

20 INT. BROMLEY/MARKS PHARMACEUTICALS LOBBY - CONTINUOUS 20

Ed enters the lobby. Behind an oval shaped security desk a backlit sign reads: Bromley/Marks Pharmaceuticals Ltd. - World Leader in Blood Pharmacy.

The security guard turns towards Ed.

SECURITY GUARD
Evening Doctor Dalton.

Ed nods, he seems anxious...nervous.

A wiry, clean shaven ARMY OFFICER (30's), leans against the back wall behind the security desk...he eyeballs Ed.

Ed turns left down the corridor out of view of the onlookers.

He waits for an elevator. BING...it arrives.

21 INT. BROMLEY/MARKS PHARMACEUTICALS CELLS - CONTINUOUS 21

The elevator opens to reveal TWO HUNDRED HUMANS hanging in a giant blood farm. Their drugged bodies hang like meat in a cold room. Steel collars are secured to their necks to facilitate regular blood extraction. They are alive, but only just.

The farm can house over ONE THOUSAND HUMANS, there are many empty slots.

Ed walks past the cells with his head facing the ground, he can't bring himself to look at the humans.

Ed enters the lab, the door closes swiftly behind him.

22 INT. ELECTRON MICROSCOPE - NIGHT 22

Pressed onto a glass plate are dozens of magnified blood cells.

23 INT. BROMLEY/MARKS HEMATOLOGY LAB - CONTINUOUS 23

Ed, now dressed in a white lab coat, lifts his head from the eye piece of his electron microscope.

The spacious lab is a hive of activity. VAMPIRE SCIENTISTS conduct their research using the latest technology developed for blood testing.

A YOUNG VAMPIRE IN A WHITE LAB COAT (25), approaches Ed and taps him on the shoulder...he has been summoned.

24 INT. BROMLEY'S OFFICE - LATER 24

The opulent, dimly lit office, overlooks a bustling city.

Ed sits at one of two chairs in front of a large oak table. He holds a wine glass full of blood.

CHARLES BROMLEY (65), a distinguished, well dressed, well groomed, CEO, stands with his back to Ed, staring out his window.

BROMLEY

Edward I understand your concerns.

(pause)

(MORE)

BROMLEY (cont'd)
Did I ever tell you about my daughter Alison?

Ed shakes his head.

ED
No Mr. Bromley.

BROMLEY
In early 2008 I was diagnosed with Sarcoma. The shock of finding out
I had cancer was one thing, but having to tell my daughter...she was devastated. I prayed for a miracle but...was realistic. Then, the world changed. My prayers were answered when the plague hit.
Immortality gave me my cure.

Ed stares at the dark red liquid in his full wine glass. He hasn't had a drop.

BROMLEY (CONT'D)
My daughter and I now had all the time in the world. But she saw the evolution as a disease, more destructive than any cancer. She refused to turn. I was a monster to her. She ran, like so many did.
I haven't seen her for nearly ten years, I can only assume the worst.

Bromley turns around and faces Ed.

BROMLEY (CONT'D)
We are blessed Edward, you have to stare death in the face to truly understand that.

ED
We're not ready Mr. Bromley. It's too soon.

Bromley gestures towards Ed's full wine glass.

BROMLEY
I've noticed that you haven't been drinking your daily blood rations.
You pity the humans don't you?

Ed avoids answering.

BROMLEY (CONT'D)
 These are desperate times. We must commence testing the blood substitute. It's the only way we can help the human race. I'm counting on you Edward.

Every part of Ed's demeanor says 'This is a terrible idea'... however, he sits in silence.

CUT TO:

25 INT. BROMLEY/MARKS LOCKER ROOM - LATER

25

Ed, now in surgical scrubs, sits alone in the spotless locker
 room.

He stares blankly at the floor.

A hand reaches out, touching Ed on the shoulder. He turns in shock.

CHRISTOPHER PARSONS (45), a lean, silver haired vampire surgeon stands behind Ed.

CHRISTOPHER
 You ok pal?

Ed replies with false sincerity.

ED
 Yeah.

Christopher senses Ed's uneasiness.

ED (CONT'D)
 Do you ever think the world would be better off if we weren't around?

CHRISTOPHER
 I know it would be better off if my ex-wife wasn't around.

Christopher grins, Ed doesn't laugh.

CHRISTOPHER (CONT'D)
 (sincerely)
 Ed, I don't want anymore humans to die either, that's why we have to do this.

Ed, nods 'you're right'.

CHRISTOPHER

Come on.

36

Ed stands.

36

We are in the middle of an operation.

Ed heads up the team along with Christopher.

TWO NURSES assist the doctors in the procedure. They're all dressed in grey operating garments...no need for masks.

The room is equipped with the latest medical technologies, designed for the vampire race.

An eclectic group of vampires stands on an observation deck, twelve feet above the operating floor.

The group includes GENERAL WILLIAMS (50's), a tall, leathery soldier, NICHOLAS WALKER (60's) the company's financial advisor, ADMINISTRATORS (40's), COMMISSIONERS (50's-60's), SCIENTISTS (30's-50's), and of course, Charles Bromley.

A VAMPIRE SUBJECT lays comfortably on an operating table. His dog tags, haircut, and formal responses to questions reveal his military background.

ED

How do you feel?

VAMPIRE SUBJECT

No change, sir.

Ed injects the remaining serum into his patient's arm. The Vampire Subject flinches slightly but remains calm.

ED

Now private you may sense a slight rise in temperature as the Polyheme enters your body, that's expected.

VAMPIRE SUBJECT

Yes, sir.

Christopher observes the Vampire Subject's body temperature on a monitor, it elevates from sixty to sixty two.

Ed appears mildly concerned as he glances up at the prying eyes of the Administrators above him.

The Vampire Subject's temperature suddenly rises another four degrees.

CHRISTOPHER
Six degree increase.

Ed remains calm as he comforts the patient.

ED
Slightly more accelerated than anticipated, but ok.

Bromley claws at the balcony railing as he leans over for a better view.

Christopher glances back over at the monitor and notices another two degree increase. He turns to Ed, they both stare at each other unsure of the stability of their experiment.

The Vampire Subject's body temperature levels out.

CHRISTOPHER
Sixty eight degrees and holding...

The Administrators collectively lean over the balcony for a closer look.

Nurse #2 leans over the Vampire Subject, lightly dabbing his forehead with a damp cloth.

ED
How do you feel son?

VAMPIRE SUBJECT
I feel fine si...

Suddenly the Vampire Subject coughs up white bile all over Nurse #2.

She screams in shock.

His body breaks out into smouldering boils, expanding like a balloon.

Ed holds the Vampire Subject down as he flails around in agony. The Nurses attempt to hold his spasming feet down on the table. Ed turns to Christopher for assistance.

ED
Chris, we need 50ccs of Epimone.

Christopher races over to a steel tray, he grabs a syringe and a vial. Shaking, he begins to fill the syringe with a light yellow liquid.

The Vampire Subject's body returns to normal, all the boils disappear. He turns and glances over at Ed, calmly.

VAMPIRE SUBJECT

Owe!

The Vampire Subject's body expands rapidly.

BOOM...A HUGE EXPLOSION. He bursts into a thousand pieces.
BLOOD SPLATTERS all over Ed's face.

Bones shoot like arrows...shattering the tiles as they penetrate the wall.

The room is a blood soaked mess.

26

INT. BROMLEY/MARKS CONFERENCE ROOM - LATER

26

A haze of cigar smoke drifts through the room.

Charles Bromley, General Williams, and Nicholas Walker sit, cluttered at one end of a long oval shaped conference desk, while Ed and Christopher sit at the other. The two have showered and redressed. Ed looks rundown...broken.

WALKER

All material presented in this meeting is classified.
Commissioner.

The COMMISSIONER OF THE FDA (60), stands up behind Bromley and clicks a button on his remote control.

The lights dim.

A black and white image of a PRISON INMATE VAMPIRE (50), weathered but healthy, projects onto the back wall. His melancholy, blood shot eyes stare blankly ahead. Text beneath the image reads "0 WEEKS OF BLOOD DEPRIVATION - INMATE 4075B".

COMMISSIONER

Death-Row Inmate 4075B was selected for an eight week study on the effects of blood deprivation.

ED

What?

Ed is disgusted by the inhumanity of the study.

The Commissioner flicks through four images over two week intervals. By the final image: "8 WEEKS OF BLOOD DEPRIVATION - INMATE 4075B", the once healthy vampire is gone. To Ed's horror what remains is a skeletal bat-like creature shaking (this renders the image slightly out of focus).

COMMISSIONER (CONT'D)

A complete lack of human blood over this period of time resulted in a massive deterioration of the frontal lobe. Mental functions such as logic, emotion, most parts of speech all terminated much faster than you and your team had originally speculated Doctor Dalton.

Ed and Christopher are shocked by the figure.

COMMISSIONER (CONT'D)

Our latest statistics show that only five percent of the human population remain. 'This' is starting to become a real problem.

General Williams disagrees with the Commissioner.

GENERAL WILLIAMS

Five percent! The FDA can't be certain of that. We continue to find human camps all over the world.

ED

We're talking about the extinction of the human race.

COMMISSIONER

We're talking about only having enough blood to sustain our population for another six months.

General Williams is in complete denial.

GENERAL WILLIAMS

Six months...nonsense!

WALKER

If a blood substitute is not found immediately, this...

Walker points to the projected image of the blood deprived inmate.

WALKER (CONT'D)
...is going to happen to all of us.

Ed, disgusted, doesn't respond.

Bromley turns his attention to Ed.

BROMLEY
Edward?

Ed snaps out of it.

ED
I just don't know if it's possible.

27 EXT. OPEN ROAD - LATER 27

Ed's Cadillac is pelted by an intense storm as it guns along the road. The bare landscape is illuminated by the distant city lights.

28 INT. DALTON'S CADILLAC - CONTINUOUS 28

Ed smokes as he blares Verdi's "The Force of Destiny Overture" on his stereo.

He scratches the side of his exhausted head, lightly touching his right ear...something's wrong.

Ed flips down the car's sun shade visor revealing a small LCD monitor.

A tiny lipstick camera captures his image. Ed's stares at his ear in the monitor, it's more bat-like than human.

HOLY SHIT! The blinding glare of approaching headlights quickly snaps Ed's focus back towards the road.

29 EXT. OPEN ROAD - CONTINUOUS 29

Hooking the car right, Ed's Cadillac narrowly misses an OLD SEDAN. Brake pads squeal as both cars skid. Ed stops inches from a wooden fence, the Sedan is not so lucky, wrapping itself around an evergreen.

Shocked, Ed quickly climbs out of his undamaged vehicle and races over to the wrecked Sedan.

Shaken, AUDREY BENNETT (28), climbs out of the Sedan's driver side.

Even with the rain drenching her long brown hair, she still looks beautiful. Ed is quick to notice her weary green eyes...

ED
Humans!

Audrey grasps a crossbow, training it towards Ed.

AUDREY
Get back!

COLIN (38), an overweight grease monkey, JOY (35), a petite Asian lady, and DIRK (38), a serious computer geek, climb out of the wreck...they too are human.

A gash above Dirk's left eye bleeds profusely. Audrey and Colin race over to help him.

ED
You okay?

Ed moves towards the humans.

AUDREY
Stay back, don't come any closer!

Ed halts as sirens echo in the distance.

DIRK
Oh shit, they're coming!

The human group quickly search for a place to hide. Open fields surround them, there's no cover.

Ed wants to help, he's desperate to do something...then, without hesitation he offers a suggestion.

ED
Quick, hide in my car.

Surprised, Audrey turns towards him.

AUDREY
What?

The sirens are getting louder.

ED
Hurry!

With no other options, Audrey reluctantly takes Ed up on his offer.

The group scramble into Ed's car. They lower the sun protective shields, blocking any view of the vehicle's interior.

Red and blue lights flash as TWO POLICE CARS approach.

30 INT. DALTON'S CADILLAC - CONTINUOUS 30

The human group sit in total silence. Terror plastered across each of their faces.

Audrey notices Ed's lab coat laying on top of the center console, his ID badge clearly visible: Ed Dalton - Hematologist, Bromley/Marks Pharmaceuticals. D.O.B. 02/10/74.

31 EXT. OPEN ROAD - CONTINUOUS 31

Ed composes himself as the police vehicles pull up beside him.

The officer lowers his window.

POLICE OFFICER
Are you okay sir?

ED
Yes.

The officer's attention is drawn towards Ed's car. He turns on the police car's side spotlight.

32 INT. DALTON'S CADILLAC - CONTINUOUS 32

The LCD monitors in the Cadillac's dashboard gives the humans a clear view of what's going on outside.

The police spotlight flares the side camera as it scans past.

The group brace themselves, preparing for the worst.

Audrey reaches for the ignition key. It's not there.

AUDREY
(softly)
Shit.

33 EXT. OPEN ROAD - CONTINUOUS

33

The officer notices the Bromley/Marks corporate branding on Ed's number plate. He switches off his spotlight.

POLICE OFFICER
Did you see where they went?

ED
That way.

Ed points to a dirt track behind him.

The officer raises his window. Ed steps back as the vehicles race off towards the dirt track.

Cautiously the humans climb out of Ed's car.

Audrey watches the tail lights of the police vehicles disappear around a corner.

She turns towards Ed.

AUDREY
Thank you.

Ed nods as he slowly approaches her.

DIRK (O.S.)
Lets go Audrey.

The group have already started to make their way across a neighboring field.

ED
You okay?

AUDREY
Yeah.

COLIN (O.S.)
Audrey!

AUDREY
See you 'round.

ED
Somehow I doubt that.

Audrey turns and hurries towards her friends.

Ed watches her leave.

AUDREY (O.S.)

Hey Ed?

Audrey spins back towards Ed.

AUDREY (CONT'D)

Happy birthday.

Confused, Ed wonders...how did she know that?

She smiles briefly before disappearing into the darkness.

34 EXT. BROMLEY/MARKS ESTATE - LATER

34

The rain has stopped.

Ed's Cadillac cruises down the wet suburban street passing by a sign that reads "Bromley/Marks Estate". The neighborhood echoes an upper class suburb...the double story houses, the paved driveways, the neatly mowed lawns, the flourishing gardens...the idyllic American lifestyle.

However, the houses look more like prison complexes than family homes. The houses are grey prefab concrete. The few windows have foreboding sun-protective shutters. Backyards are fully enclosed and sidewalks are located underground.

Montage of suburban life:

THE COMMUNITY continues with their night to night lives in a state of melancholy.

A MALE VAMPIRE (45) walks his VAMPIRE DOG along the street.

FOUR VAMPIRE KIDS (10) play baseball in the frontyard.

TWO VAMPIRE GARBAGE MEN (30) pick up trash.

35 INT. DALTON'S CADILLAC - CONTINUOUS

35

Ed is noticeably shaken from his eventful night. He puffs his cigarette but it does little to calm his nerves.

36 EXT. DALTON HOUSE - CONTINUOUS

36

Automatic garage doors open as Ed's car quietly pulls into his paved driveway.

His house is the same as the rest of the neighborhood...no uniquely distinctive features, stylish but cold.

37 INT. DALTON LAUNDRY - CONTINUOUS 37

Ed walks swiftly through the laundry.

38 INT. DALTON KITCHEN - CONTINUOUS 38

It's pitch black.

Ed flicks on the light to reveal a modern, immaculate, sterile kitchen.

He tosses his keys on the counter. He's all alone.

39 INT. DALTON DINING ROOM - LATER 39

Ed sits at his large dining room table eating an unimpressive meal.

40 INT. DALTON'S FULLY ENCLOSED GARDEN - LATER 40

Ed, stares at the fluorescent light illuminating his modest enclosed garden; a small fig tree is the room's center piece, colorful flowers and bushes line the walls adjoining the kitchen and dining room.

Ed takes a puff of his cigarette...he lives a lonely life.

Ed turns around towards the livingroom...

HOLY HELL! A figure stands in the archway...

ED

Frankie?

Ed recognizes the familiar face, it's his brother FRANKIE (25). He is a vampire. Frankie's shaved head, faded T-shirt and Army issue back pack look unfamiliar to Ed.

ED (CONT'D)

Frankie!!!

FRANKIE

Hey Ed.

There's tension, Frankie can't tell whether Ed wants to punch him or hug him.

Ed gives Frankie a big brotherly hug.

ED
I hardly recognized you.

Frankie rubs his shaved head.

FRANKIE
It's been seven months.

ED
What are you doing back in town?

FRANKIE
I couldn't miss my bro's birthday.

ED
You should have called.

FRANKIE
Thought you might tell me not to come.

ED
You're always welcome here.

Frankie smiles subtly.

FRANKIE
You look like shit Ed.

ED
Bad day.

Frankie tries to lighten the mood.

FRANKIE
Man, you gotta quit that job before it kills ya.

Ed chuckles.

ED
Look who's talking.

49 There is a sense of uneasiness between the two.

49

Frankie pulls out a wrapped wine bottle shaped gift and hands it to his brother.

ED
What's this?

FRANKIE
What the fuck do you think it is?

Ed accepts the gift.

Frankie looks around at the empty room.

FRANKIE
Raging birthday party bro.

ED
This is the tenth time I've turned thirty five. Birthdays are pointless?

FRANKIE
Bullshit! You got any booze?

41 INT. DALTON KITCHEN - CONTINUOUS

41

Frankie opens the freezer and grabs a bottle of vodka.

Ed unwraps the gift to reveal a clear wine bottle filled with blood. Ed opens the lid.

Frankie grabs two glasses.

ED
Smells human?

FRANKIE
100% pure. One of the perks of serving your country.

Frankie holds up the vodka and the glasses.

FRANKIE (CONT'D)
Thought we might add a little punch.

Ed feels uncomfortable around the blood.

Frankie places the vodka and glasses on the kitchen table. He pours.

FRANKIE (CONT'D)
I hear even that pig shit you drink is getting hard to find.

ED
I can't.

Ed attempts to hand the blood back to Frankie, he refuses to take it.

FRANKIE

Come on, it's your birthday, live a little.

ED

No.

FRANKIE

You look bad Ed, you need it.

ED

No I don't. You know how I feel about this.

FRANKIE

Come on, accept who you are!

ED

I don't touch human blood.

FRANKIE

You don't touch human blood, you work for a company that uses humans like fuckin' cattle.

ED

I have nothing to do with that.

FRANKIE

Sure you do.

ED

No I don't!

FRANKIE

Look Ed, your company working on some type of fake blood is one thing, but we all know their money comes from farming humans.

ED

Are we going to start right where we left off Frankie? I don't hunt humans, that's your job.

FRANKIE

I find em'. You farm em'.

Frankie still won't take the blood off Ed.

ED

Fine I'll get rid of it then.

Ed starts to walk towards the sink. Frankie grabs Ed's shoulder.

FRANKIE

Nothing fuckin' changes does it, you never understood why I joined the army?

ED

What happens when that last drop runs out? What happens when there isn't a single human, a single animal, a single anything left?

FRANKIE

We'll always find more.

ED

You won't. By bleeding the living world dry you destroy everything we once were. The army are animals.

FRANKIE

We're all animals, we feed off blood. Most of us have learned to accept it.

ED

A blood substitute means the end of human hunting.

FRANKIE

Fake blood! I like fake tits but sometimes I gotta have the real thing. It doesn't mean the end of shit!

Ed starts to pour the blood out into the sink.

Enraged, Frankie grabs hold of the bottle, violently knocking
Ed to the ground.

Frankie looks at the now half empty bottle.

With blistering rage, Frankie hurls it against the laundry entrance wall. The bottle shatters, blood sprays everywhere.

Terrified, Ed watches on in disbelief.

Frankie wants to say something, he can't find any words, the best thing he can do is leave. Frankie heads for the laundry door.

Suddenly, out of the darkness of the laundry, a SUBSIDER tears into the room.

SHIT!!! It scares the hell out of them.

Frankie stumbles backwards. Ed jumps to his feet.

The thin, pale, bat-like creature licks the blood soaked wall like a thirsty wolf.

Frankie is quick to react, grabbing a mop from next to the fridge and swinging it at the creature...WHACK!!!!

Splinters fly as the mop breaks over the Subsider's head.

The Subsider roars in pain. The creature shatters a cabinet as it expands its large, deformed wings.

The beast swoops at Frankie, throwing him over the kitchen table...these creatures are strong.

Ed grabs a chair blocking the Subsider's advances.

Ed continues to push the creature away with his chair. The Subsider leaps...spinning upside down and sinking his clawed feet firmly into the ceiling.

Frankie staggers back to his feet, he reaches for the knife rack drawing a large butcher's blade...now he has the correct weapon.

Frankie slices into the Subsider's stomach...his wing...his chest...Frankie's blows are fast and accurate.

The creature falls from the ceiling...dropping to its knees defeated.

Frankie raises the knife above his brow and with one final swift motion slices the Subsider's head clean off.

Dark red blood gushes over the kitchen floor.

It's over.

Frankie sits on the couch...a MEDIC examines him. Frankie is still furious with Ed.

Ed, traumatized, listens to the statement being given by a POLICE OFFICER.

POLICE OFFICER

Your place is the third home invasion in this area in the last month. These things are out in the 'burbs now so it's important you update your security.

Ed nods.

43

INT. DALTON KITCHEN - LATER

43

The thick, dark red blood covers the floor.

A neatly dressed FEMALE CORONER (40's), along with DETECTIVE JIMMY WONG (40's), an overweight Chinese vampire with greasy hair and long fingernails, examine the decapitated creature on the floor.

Ed walks in from the back of the kitchen...they all notice him enter.

DETECTIVE WONG

Subsiders...strong bastards.

The coroner notices a wedding band on the creature's deformed third finger.

CORONER

Extremely low levels of serotonin...

The coroner begins to work the ring free.

CORONER (CONT'D)

...makes them particularly aggressive and violent.

A CRIME SCENE PHOTOGRAPHER snaps away in the background. He focuses on the stomach wound.

DETECTIVE WONG

Need more patrols ashing these filthy rats.

(to Ed)

Your brother's a strong son of a bitch Doc. It takes a lot to bring one of these down.

Wong turns the Subsider's head around, it faces Ed.

DETECTIVE WONG (CONT'D)

Ugly bastard.

The coroner frees the wedding ring from the creature's long, deformed finger. He looks at the engraving inside the band.

CORONER

Forever together, Lillian and Carl 04-29-76.

ED

Carl.

DETECTIVE WONG

You knew him?

ED

He mowed my lawn. Haven't seen him in a couple of weeks.

Wong stares at the pool of blood on the floor, the dizzying scent hits him. His sense of duty overpowers his thirst and he quickly snaps out of it.

DETECTIVE WONG

If he's been feeding off other vamps, it only takes a couple of weeks to get this messed up.

Ed notices the bite marks on the creatures arms.

ED

Some of his wounds look self inflicted.

CORONER

Yes.

ED

If he's been feeding off his own blood then it's possible he got this way in only a couple of days.

DETECTIVE WONG

Feeding on yourself...fuckin'
animals.

Wong places the severed head into a plastic bag.

44 INT. DALTON BEDROOM - AFTERNOON

44

60 Ed lays in bed, he can't sleep. Window shades block the afternoon sun from trickling into the spotless bedroom.

60

The dead silence is broken by a noise coming from downstairs.

Ed quickly sits up.

45 INT. DALTON LIVINGROOM - CONTINUOUS 45

With trepidation, Ed tip-toes down the stairs. He clutches firmly on a golf club.

A noise...it's coming from the laundry.

Ed, anxious, raises the club above his head as he sneaks into the kitchen.

46 INT. DALTON KITCHEN - CONTINUOUS 46

Creeping, Ed discreetly peeks at the blackened laundry entrance.

Slowly...step by step...Ed makes his way across the kitchen floor. He flicks the laundry light on.

AHHHHH... ED JUMPS ABOUT TWENTY FEET. There's someone standing right in front of him. IT'S AUDREY.

ED

You.

Audrey steps into the kitchen, watching Ed closely. She's in the home of a vampire, a very dangerous place for a human...she has a stake by her side.

ED (CONT'D)

What are you doing here?

AUDREY

Looking for you.

ED

Looking for me?

Ed is quick to notice the stake.

AUDREY

We need your help.

ED

What?

AUDREY

Your world's falling apart.

ED
You shouldn't be here.

AUDREY
We've been searching for vampires
we can trust.

ED
I'm sorry, I don't know who you think I am.

AUDREY
You're a blood doctor, you can help us.

ED
Help you with what?

Audrey avoids answering that question.

AUDREY
You read the papers?

ED
Not lately.

AUDREY
A young vampire girl committed suicide on her front lawn yesterday.

ED
So, it happens everyday.

AUDREY
The note she left read - It's never going to change. I'll never get to grow up, never start a family, never fall in love...it's all a waste of time. These kids, their minds grow older but they can't. A blood substitute is a solution but not a cure...There is another way.

Audrey hands Ed a piece of paper.

AUDREY (CONT'D)
Take it.

Ed reads the note it says "Gordon Creek, Midday, Tomorrow - ALONE".

CREAK...a noise, it's coming from upstairs. Ed spins to look...nothing.

ED

I'm sorry I can't help you...

He turns to face Audrey, she's gone. Ed glances around the room...there's no trace of her. The only sign that she was ever there is the note that Ed holds in his hand.

47 INT. DALTON LIVING ROOM - CONTINUOUS

47

Ed walks past the living room and spots Frankie sitting on the stairs.

FRANKIE

Who was that?

Ed's reluctant to tell him anything.

ED

No one.

Ed shuffles past his brother. Frankie stops him.

ED (CONT'D)

No one Frankie.

Ed pushes on...continuing upstairs.

48 INT. BROMLEY'S OFFICE - NIGHT

48

Bromley leans back in his leather chair. Ed sits on the other side of Bromley's large desk.

BROMLEY

How are you feeling Edward? The attack this morning must have been very traumatic.

ED

I'm fine.

BROMLEY

I understand your brother was quite effective in deterring the intruder. Perhaps I can pull some strings...have him assigned to our Special Operations Unit here.

ED

You don't need to do that sir.

Ed's response is abrupt.

BROMLEY

These attacks on everyday citizens are a cause for great concern. All the more reason for us to find a substitute as soon as possible, wouldn't you say?

ED

Finding a substitute sir...this will mean freedom for all humans around the world, correct?

BROMLEY

It's important that we allow the human race time to repopulate.

ED

With all due respect, that's not what I asked.

Bromley deceptively smiles.

BROMLEY

The majority of the population will be content with a blood substitute, yes...but there will always be those who are willing to pay top dollar for the 'real thing'.

Ed can't believe it, 'How could he not have seen this coming'.

BROMLEY (CONT'D)

Come on Edward, we have to be realistic. If we don't cater to all markets someone else will. You understand, don't you?

Ed's speechless.

Ed sits by his microscope. The room is alive with scientists at work, however, Ed remains distracted by a piece of paper in his hand - "Gordon Creek, Midday, Tomorrow - ALONE".

50 INT. DALTON'S CADILLAC - DAY 50

The sun protective shields have been lowered for day driving. Ed navigates via the monitor displays on the dashboard.

51 EXT. BERKELEY CITY STREETS - CONTINUOUS 51

The streets are deserted, not a soul around...just another day. Ed's vehicle cruises through the ghost town.

52 EXT. GORDON CREEK - CONTINUOUS 52

Next to a bushy creek bank, under the shade of a giant fig tree sits a '67 Mustang. The tree's massive trunk and wide branches shade a thirty foot square area of an otherwise open and un-shaded field.

Ed's vehicle approaches slowly.

Audrey waits next to a tree line two hundred feet from the fig tree. She grips a crossbow.

With his sun shields masking the midday rays, Ed's vehicle nears Audrey.

53 INT. DALTON'S CADILLAC - CONTINUOUS 53

The right side LCD monitor displays Audrey approaching the car. She talks directly into the camera lens.

AUDREY
(on monitor)
He's waiting for you.

54 EXT. GORDON CREEK - CONTINUOUS 54

Ed slows to a stop under the shadiest part of the tree. He parks directly opposite the '67 Mustang - Where is the driver?

Ed cautiously climbs out of the Cadillac. He squints, the sunlight blinds him.

Ed lights a cigarette.

From behind the tree trunk, a STRANGER'S VOICE casually speaks.

STRANGER (O.S.)
Trees are the oldest living things on earth, did you know that? Yeah,
I read that somewhere. They say some of em' are over four thousand years old...

The Stranger (55), emerges from behind the trunk. He looks up at the enormous branches.

The glare of the burning hot sun makes it difficult for Ed to get a look at his face, however he does notice the rifle draped over the man's shoulder.

STRANGER (CONT'D)
Someday though, she'll die...and so will you. Maybe you wont die of old age like her. But the thing you're still holding on to, that last breath of humanity, it'll vanish as soon as the blood does.

ED
Who are you?

STRANGER
You're running out of time Dalton.

Ed continues to smoke.

ED
I don't know what you're talking about. What do you want?

STRANGER
The same thing you do, a future.

The Stranger moves towards Ed.

STRANGER (CONT'D)
I was like you, once.

The Stranger folds down the collar of his jacket revealing two bite marks on his neck.

STRANGER (CONT'D)
But not no more.

The Stranger steps into a small pocket of light that penetrates the tree's dense branches. For the first time we can clearly see his scarred face. Second and third degree burns cover most of his exposed body.

He takes a deep breath, embracing the sunlight.

CUT TO:

Audrey checks the tree line, all clear...she checks behind her, towards Ed, everything looks fine...she spins back to the tree line - from out of nowhere a MAN IN A SUN PROTECTIVE SUIT stands in front of her.

BIG JUMP.

The suit masks the man's face.

He quickly smashes his hand against her mouth, muffling her screams.

CUT TO:

Ed takes another drag of his cigarette.

ED
Who are you?

ELVIS
Lionel Cormac, but my friends call me Elvis.

ELVIS offers his hand for Ed to shake.

ELVIS (CONT'D)
I won't bite.

Ed shakes. Elvis doesn't move out of his pocket of sunlight.

ED
Elvis?

Elvis begins clicking his fingers.

ELVIS
(singing)
*Lord almighty,
I feel my temperature rising,
Higher higher,
It's burning through to my soul.*

Ed stares at Elvis as he sings - who the hell is this guy?

ELVIS (CONT'D)
Girl, girl, girl,
You gonna set me on fire,
My brain is flaming,
I don't know which way to go...
 (stops singing)

Elvis shifts out of the sunlight, grabs hold of Ed's hand, and places it on his heart.

Ed's stunned.

ELVIS
 You feel that. Hadn't been beating for over nine years. Seems impossible, don't it?

ED
 It is impossible!

ELVIS
 So is walkin' around without a pulse but here you are.

ED
 How did you do it?

Quietly, Audrey steps out from behind the tree. Something's wrong.

ELVIS
 Audrey?

With a gun pointed at Audrey, the Man in the Sun Protective Suit steps into Elvis and Ed's view. His helmet is off - it's Frankie.

Elvis draws his rifle.

FRANKIE
 Put the gun down.

Frankie targets his weapon at Audrey's head.

ED
 Frankie, NO!

FRANKIE
 Get away from the humans Ed.

ED
 What the hell are you doing?

FRANKIE
Don't make things worse. It's not too late to walk away from this.

ED
Stop pointing that gun at her
Frankie.

FRANKIE
Damn it Ed. This is serious shit, they can put you away for a long time.

Elvis peers towards the distance, he notices a MILITARY HUMMER heading towards them at breakneck speed. Ed turns to look.

ED
What did you do Frankie?

FRANKIE
Lets go Ed.

ED
No!

Audrey sees an opportunity...with all her strength, she shoves Frankie towards a patch of sunlight.

He writhes in agony as trickles of light singe his face.

Frankie spins back around only to receive a fist to the face from Elvis.

Frankie topples to the ground dropping his weapon.

Audrey swiftly kicks Frankie's gun and sun protective helmet into the sunlight.

Elvis then steps in front of Ed, aiming his weapon at the Hummer.

FRANKIE
(bleeding)
You can't trust humans.

BOOM...Elvis fires. The blast just misses the vehicle.

A hatch in the windshield of the Hummer opens. A high powered automatic weapon slides out and takes aim.

The Military return fire.

The group quickly take cover as a barrage of gun fire narrowly misses them.

Elvis' car is not so lucky, the stray bullets turn his Mustang into swiss cheese.

Elvis takes a saddened look at his beloved car...it's a lost cause.

AUDREY

Come on.

Elvis turns to Ed and Audrey...time to leave.

FRANKIE

Don't do it Ed, you're throwing your life away!

AUDREY

(to Ed)

We have to go.

Ed takes one last look at his brother.

ED

I need to do this.

55 INT. ED'S CAR - DAY

55

Audrey jumps into the backseat, Ed gets behind the wheel, Elvis beside him.

Ed starts the engine, four LCD displays turn on.

Ed slams into drive...the chase is on.

56 EXT. COUNTRY ROAD / GORDON CREEK - CONTINUOUS

56

Ed careens out of a grassy paddock, onto a dirt road.

The Hummer is in close pursuit.

57 INT. DALTON'S CADILLAC - CONTINUOUS

57

The group brace themselves as the car slides around a narrow bend.

From his rear-view monitor, Ed sees the Hummer's gun take aim.

ED
Oh shit!

58 EXT. DIRT ROAD - CONTINUOUS 58

BANG...the Hummer fires, aiming at the four cameras mounted on the roof of the Cadillac. The bullet just misses, ricocheting off the car's metal frame.

CRUNCH...the Hummer encounters rough terrain as it fires.

The bullet misses the cameras, smashing through the back windshield and out the front.

59 INT. DALTON'S CADILLAC - CONTINUOUS 59

A beam of light bursts through the bullet hole, just missing Ed as he turns the car.

ED
SHIT.

Audrey tries to cover the bullet hole with her hand.

60 EXT. FIELD - CONTINUOUS 60

The Hummer fires again missing the cameras and hitting the windshield.

61 INT. DALTON'S CADILLAC - CONTINUOUS 61

Another beam of sunlight shoots through.

Audrey SHRIEKS as she ducks.

62 EXT. FIELD - CONTINUOUS 62

Another shot.

BANG...the cameras on top of the Cadillac's roof explode.

63 INT. DALTON'S CADILLAC - CONTINUOUS 63

The display on all four monitors fuzzes out.

ED
Shit.

Elvis grabs Ed.

ELVIS
MOVE!!!

64 EXT. FIELD / FARM HOUSE - CONTINUOUS 64

The Cadillac drives out of the field and through a fence.

The Hummer is still in hot pursuit.

65 INT. DALTON'S CADILLAC - CONTINUOUS 65

Elvis takes the driver's seat, Ed is now the copilot.

Elvis looks through one of the bullet holes, he swerves just missing...

66 EXT. FARM HOUSE - CONTINUOUS 66

...a PARKED TRACTOR.

67 INT. DALTON'S CADILLAC - CONTINUOUS 67

Elvis hooks the car right, fishtailing it out of the farm yard and back onto the dirt road.

The beams of light rotate towards Ed as the car corners.

ED
Shit, TURNTURNTURN!

Elvis notices the beam heading towards Ed. He swings the car hard left.

68 EXT. DIRT ROAD - CONTINUOUS 68

The Cadillac smashes through a wooden fence, into a backyard.

69 INT. DALTON'S CADILLAC - CONTINUOUS 69

Ed screams at Elvis.

ED
Go straight, GO STRAIGHT.

70 EXT. FARM HOUSE / BACKYARD - CONTINUOUS 70

Elvis fishtails left, smashing through a barn. Tin and wood shatter as the Cadillac destroys the shed on its path back to the dirt road. TWO VAMPIRE COWS, housed in the barn, burst into flames as they are exposed to the sunlight.

The Hummer ploughs through the cows' smouldering remains.

71 INT. DALTON'S CADILLAC - CONTINUOUS 71

Elvis regains control of the car as the passengers jostle around in their seats to avoid the light.

ED
Stay straight. Straight...Straight!

Ed eyes the sun-beam as it narrowly misses his shoulder.

72 EXT. DIRT ROAD - CONTINUOUS 72

The Cadillac roars down the dirt road, the Hummer still in close pursuit.

They reach a cross road.

Elvis chooses not to turn, driving full-speed ahead through an old, rotting fence.

TWO ADDITIONAL MILITARY HUMMERS join the pursuit.

73 INT. DALTON'S CADILLAC - CONTINUOUS 73

A dead end. A 30 foot wide storm water drain is in their way. A large metal pipe runs across the drain.

ELVIS
Everybody hold on.

74 EXT. DIRT ROAD BY DRAIN - CONTINUOUS 74

The Cadillac reaches the point of no return as it charges towards the drain.

The Hummer screeches to a halt.

The Cadillac continues to pick up speed as it heads towards the drain, and onto the metal pipe. The vehicle slides wildly along the pipe, engine grinding on the metal.

BANG...the car crunches its way over to the other side of the drain, the two front tires exploding as they reach land.

75 INT. DALTON'S CADILLAC - CONTINUOUS 75

The group slam around like rag dolls, the car steadies.

Warning bells sound and an alert appears on the dashboard display - WARNING DAYTIME EMERGENCY TIRE INFLATE ACTIVATED.

76 EXT. DIRT ROAD BY DRAIN - CONTINUOUS 76

The two damaged tires automatically re-inflate.

77 INT. DALTON'S CADILLAC - CONTINUOUS 77

The warning bells stop...a new dash display reads - LEFT FRONT, RIGHT FRONT TIRES REQUIRE REPLACEMENT.

Audrey lays down on the backseat as one of the light beams shines above her.

ED
(to Audrey)
You okay?

Audrey nods yes.

Audrey pulls a handkerchief out of her pants pocket and plugs one of the holes.

ED
(to himself)
Damn it Frankie!

Shaken, they continue to drive.

78 EXT. MAIN ROAD NEAR OPEN FIELD - CONTINUOUS 78

Grass shreds and a hubcap rolls as the Cadillac skids out of the field onto the main road. There's no traffic, not a single car.

79 EXT. SMALL DIRT ROAD - CONTINUOUS 79

Elvis hooks the car left onto a small dirt road. The car slides wildly around the corner.

80 EXT. OPEN FIELD - DUSK 80

The Cadillac races across an ash covered field. The surrounding trees have all been destroyed by a massive bush fire. There's no shade for miles.

81 INT. DALTON'S CADILLAC - NIGHT 81

Elvis focuses on the road ahead. The sun shields have been raised.

Ed stares blankly at the trees as they rapidly pass by. His mind is elsewhere.

ED
I can't ever go back.

From the backseat Audrey leans closer to Ed. She places her hand gently on his shoulder.

AUDREY
You did the right thing.

Ed clearly has doubts.

The car stops. Elvis climbs out.

AUDREY
(to Ed)
Come on.

82 EXT. BERKELEY OUTSKIRTS - CONTINUOUS 82

Elvis has parked near the edge of a storm water drain. He leans against the hood of the Cadillac as Ed and Audrey join him.

ED
What are we doing?

ELVIS
Never been good at science Doc.
Cars were always my thing.
(MORE)

ELVIS (cont'd)
Day time mods is my speciality, or used to be...

Elvis points to the cameras mounted on the roof of Ed's car.

ELVIS (CONT'D)
Custom cameras, sun shields, that kind of stuff. My garage was one of the first in town to start doin'
'em. Had a shop not far from your place.

Elvis walks over to a scratched metal pole near the edge of the drain pipe.

ELVIS (CONT'D)
Day time drivin' man, no cars, no cops, nothin' beats it. Trouble is, if you're not careful you can get one hell of a sunburn.

Ed approaches Elvis.

ELVIS (CONT'D)
It's amazing how quickly your whole world can change isn't it Doc.

83 EXT. BERKELEY OUTSKIRTS - DAY 83

FLASHBACK.

Elvis' 57 Chevrolet Belair blisters round the open road.

The windows are completely blacked out, four LCD monitors mounted in the dashboard act as the driver's eyes.

84 INT. 57 CHEVROLET BELAIR - CONTINUOUS 84

A scarless vampire Elvis shifts gears.

85 EXT. BERKELEY OUTSKIRTS - CONTINUOUS 85

The Belair speeds along the open road.

Elvis hooks the car left onto a gravel road.

86 INT. 57 CHEVROLET BELAIR - CONTINUOUS 86

The tires lose traction, Elvis panics.

87 EXT. BERKELEY OUTSKIRTS - CONTINUOUS 87

Now out of control, the vehicle skids off the road.

CRUNCH... headlights explode and metal is warped as the car collides with a guard rail.

88 INT. 57 CHEVROLET BELAIR - CONTINUOUS 88

The impact launches Elvis through the windshield.

89 EXT. BERKELEY OUTSKIRTS - CONTINUOUS 89

The reinforced sunshield breaks off its supports, glass and metal fly through the air with Elvis's body as he is catapulted through the morning sky.

Elvis's body ignites in pulsating flames as he hurtles towards a storm water drain.

SPLASH... he hits the water hard, landing in the shaded safety of a drain pipe.

The fire is extinguished.

90 INT. DRAIN PIPE - DAY 90

A charred Elvis climbs out of the water. He shivers uncontrollably.

Elvis steps out of the drain into the sunlight. A warmth rushes through his body.

END OF FLASHBACK.

91 EXT. BERKELEY OUTSKIRTS - NIGHT 91

Ed can't believe it, is this possible?

ED
The sun, you're human because of the sun.

Elvis nods.

ELVIS
Hurt like hell.

AUDREY

We have to find a way to recreate this safely Ed. That's why we need
you.

92 EXT. STONE'S POINT WINERY - LATER

92

A deserted, overgrown winery sits amidst an endless stretch of rich soil, green fields and grape vines. The winery is classically beautiful, the large stone brick work complimenting the thick wood pillars of the building's exterior.

The Cadillac enters slowly along a pebbled driveway. It parks next to a CONVOY OF FOUR VEHICLES, ranging from CARAVANS, to TRUCKS, to RVs.

93 INT. DALTON'S CADILLAC - CONTINUOUS

93

Ed catches a glimpse of his new home.

AUDREY

Every couple of weeks some of us head out to search for others.
It's getting harder and harder to find anybody. When you drove us off the road I only managed to pick up three.

Although Audrey is being slightly playful, Ed still feels guilty.

ED

Sorry about that.

94 EXT. STONE'S POINT WINERY ENTRANCE - CONTINUOUS

94

Audrey, Elvis, and Ed, step out of the car.

There is a gentle breeze.

Audrey leads the way over to JARVIS BAYOM (40's), a scruffy, but handsome African-American human.

Jarvis, along with TEN OTHER HUMANS, load up the vehicles with crossbows and supplies.

Audrey and Jarvis hug like old friends.

JARVIS
You come to see us off.

AUDREY
You know it.

Jarvis turns to Ed.

JARVIS
This is him?

AUDREY
It sure is. Jarvis this is Ed.

Jarvis and Ed shake hands.

JARVIS
Ed...you better be worth the risk man.

Ed looks uncertain.

ANGLE ON:

Elvis hugs several of the humans heading out on the convoy while also pointing out Ed.

ANGLE ON:

AUDREY
Jar's made contact with the largest human group we've found in a long time. They're now going to pick them up and bring them back.

JARVIS
Should be back in two days.

ED
Good luck.

JARVIS
You too.

95 INT. STONE'S POINT RECEPTION - CONTINUOUS

95

Elvis swings open the large wooden doors. Together with Audrey and Ed, they enter the lobby.

Jarvis' convoy of vehicles cruises away in the background.

ELVIS
The Stone's Point Winery, restaurant and visitor centre.

Ed takes in the cozy wood finished reception and tasting area.

SEVEN HUMANS go about their business, they pause, all eyes are on Ed.

Three humans cautiously approach the vampire.

AUDREY
Ed, this is Dirk, Colin and Joy.

Ed shakes all of their hands.

AUDREY (CONT'D)
They might not be here if it wasn't for you.

ED
Hi.

CUT TO:

Through a glass balcony Ed, Elvis and Audrey view the cellar floor. TWO HUMANS pack crates while ANOTHER FOUR carry baskets filled with vegetables.

ELVIS
Being a human walkin' 'round in a town of vampires is about as safe as nailing a fifty cent whore. I needed somewhere to hide, that's when I stumbled onto this place...

96 INT. STONE'S POINT CELLAR - CONTINUOUS

96

Elvis, Ed and Audrey tour the cellar.

The large space contains storage tanks, a fermentation tank and dozens of wooden oak barrels.

111 To the far side of the room, somewhat out of place, Ed notices over twenty bunks and a large hydroponic vegetable garden. 111

ELVIS
...It was completely deserted. I'd never experienced quiet like that ever before.

ED
Must have been frightening.

Elvis taps an oak barrel.

ELVIS
Most of these oaks are full. I was ok.

Audrey smiles.

ELVIS (CONT'D)
I started lookin' for other humans as soon as I could. Couldn't find many, then I met this little angel...

Audrey smiles as Elvis winks at her.

ELVIS (CONT'D)
...she's managed to smuggled more than twenty humans out of the city and bring 'em here. She also liberated a bunch of medical supplies for us.

The group approach a man in an expensive, spotless suit. His back is to them as Audrey taps him on the shoulder - it's Senator Wes Turner (from the news debate). He's a vampire.

AUDREY
Ed, this is Senator Wes Turner.

SENATOR TURNER
Glad to see you made it.

Ed knows who the Senator is.

ED
Nice to meet you Senator.

AUDREY
Wes...very bravely...pays us a visit whenever he can. He's always been our biggest supporter.

SENATOR TURNER
We've got to do what we can, before it's too late...right Mr. Dalton.

ED
Right.

AUDREY

See Ed, Wes knows enough vampires in office that want this cure, and, more importantly, will use it for the right reasons. We want to rebuild the human race, but a way back can be a dangerous thing if it falls into the wrong hands.

ELVIS

Now all we need is for you to figure out how it all works.

Ed feels overwhelmed.

ED

Ok.

ELVIS

Humans are an endangered species Doc, it's time to change all that.

97 INT. BROMLEY/MARKS PHARMACEUTICALS HALLWAY NEAR CELLS - NIGHT ~~INT~~

Bromley marches down a thin, clinical hallway, towards the blood farm's lower level entrance.

The entrance doors slide open. TWO LAB TECHNICIANS (30-35), wheel a gurney out of the blood farm and past Bromley. Laying on the surgical bed is an EMACIATED MALE HUMAN (45).

His lifeless body completely drained of blood. Tubes connect to his arms and feet. His eyes open, locked in place.

The gurney rattles down the hallway as Bromley approaches the entrance door to the blood farm.

He stares through the door's large window. The bleak by-product of Bromley's empire is an awesome site, however he seems unimpressed. The human numbers in the farm have started to dwindle (only ONE HUNDRED left); many of the blood extraction slots are empty.

98 INT. BROMLEY/MARKS HOLDING AREA - NIGHT

98

A GROUP OF TWENTY HUMANS, MEN, WOMEN and CHILDREN from all walks of life stand chained together in a row. They are surrounded by a SQUAD OF HEAVILY ARMED MILITARY VAMPIRES.

'BROMLEY/MARKS' logos are prominent. This is a holding garage where humans are dropped off and tagged by 'blood type'.

The humans tremble as Frankie approaches. Reaching the first in line, a WEATHERED, GREY HAired MAN (65), Frankie presses a small cylindrical tube against the man's neck. He checks the display on the device.

FRANKIE
O positive.

Standing to the side of the humans, A YOUNG VAMPIRE CADET (17), notes the blood type as Frankie moves down the line.

FRANKIE (CONT'D)
A positive.

Next.

FRANKIE (CONT'D)
O negative.

General Williams, approaches Frankie, he notices the limited number of humans being 'typed'.

GENERAL WILLIAMS
Less and less every time.

Frankie immediately stops what he's doing and turns to Williams.

GENERAL WILLIAMS (CONT'D)
Dalton!

99 INT. BROMLEY'S OFFICE - LATER

99

Bromley sits at his desk examining a series of surveillance photos taken of a group of humans camping out in the desert. One photo is of particular interest to Bromley. That of a YOUNG BLONDE HAired WOMAN (25) talking on a CB radio.

Frankie is led by General Williams into Bromley's office.

Frankie stands at attention in front of Bromley's desk, wondering why he's been singled out.

Bromley puts down the photographs and addresses Frankie.

BROMLEY
Are you happy with your transfer son?

FRANKIE
I have you to thank for that sir?

BROMLEY
Please have a seat.

Frankie's sits on one of the two chairs.

BROMLEY
Do you know who I am?

FRANKIE
My brother's mentioned you before sir.

BROMLEY
You did the right thing reporting his actions Mr. Dalton. You want to continue to do the right thing, don't you son?

FRANKIE
I will do whatever is asked of me
sir.

Bromley smiles.

BROMLEY
Edward was a valuable member of our team, and an essential part of all of our futures. All we wish, is for him to continue with his work.
If he returns immediately, no formal charges will be laid.

FRANKIE
I don't know what you think I can do sir.

GENERAL WILLIAMS
Private has he contacted you?

Frankie turns to face Williams.

FRANKIE
No sir.

GENERAL WILLIAMS
Do you know where he might have gone?

FRANKIE
No sir.

BROMLEY
Do you like being a vampire, son?

Frankie turns back to face Bromley.

FRANKIE
Yes sir.

BROMLEY
Why?

Frankie's clearly nervous. He thinks again for a second.

BROMLEY (CONT'D)
I mean your brother clearly disapproves. I wonder if it's a common trait in your family.

Frankie jumps in.

FRANKIE
(sincerely)
I'm not my brother. I'm good at this. I was never very good at being human, sir.

Bromley grins slightly.

BROMLEY
I think he's ready for an assignment General, wouldn't you say?

General Williams nods 'yes'.

100 INT. STONE'S POINT WINE-MAKER'S LAB - NIGHT 100

The wine-maker's lab has been converted into a makeshift infirmary. It's primitive at best.

Blood flows into a syringe. Ed takes a sample from Elvis' arm as he sits in a chair.

ED
We've tested burning extracted blood under UV light. It always remained infected. How could yours be human?

ELVIS
Hey, you tell me Doc.

Ed removes the needle.

ED

What did it feel like when the sun light hit you?

Ed hands Elvis a cotton bud for the bleeding. Elvis presses it against the pin hole of blood on his arm.

ELVIS

What do you mean what did it feel like? I felt like a god damn roast dinner.

ED

Do you remember anything else?
Think about it.

Ed places a sample of the blood onto a glass plate. He then rests a coverslip over the sample.

ELVIS

I remember the second the sun hit me, it was like a bolt of lightening to my heart. I could feel it starting to beat again.

ED

I've never heard of a depolarized heart responding to defibrillation.

Ed slides the sample under a low powered microscope and focuses.

ELVIS

A defibrillator, those electric shock things, that's what it felt like. You know, I once had my heart started over in Tijuana after an all night Tequila bender in 78.
It kinda' felt like that.

Ed pauses, lifting his eye from the microscope.

ED

The return of a heart beat, circulation, the immune system...just amazing.

101 INT. STONE'S POINT CELLAR - LATER

101

Audrey, Colin, Dirk, Joy and SIX OTHER HUMANS work in the vegetable garden.

Ed walks up to a large thirty foot high stainless steel wine tank. He taps on the wall, a hollow empty sound reverberates back...curious!

Ed glances over at Audrey, only for a second, but it's clear he's infatuated.

SENATOR TURNER (O.S.)
Pretty young lady Miss Bennett.

Ed spots Senator Turner standing behind him. Caught out...he feels a little embarrassed.

Turner sips a glass of white wine.

SENATOR TURNER (CONT'D)
She worked on my 2008 campaign...
she was just a kid then, but sharp.
It strange being around all these humans, isn't it? Would you care for a drink?

ED
No thanks.

Ed's attention is drawn to an air pressure gauge mounted on the tank's frame.

ED (CONT'D)
You know much about these tanks?

SENATOR TURNER
Not really.

Audrey walks in and joins the conversation.

AUDREY
It's the fermentation tank for that 2007 Sauvignon Blanc.

Audrey points to Turner's wine.

SENATOR TURNER
Not a bad drop.

ED
Fermentation, that means it has to be air tight, right?

AUDREY
That's right.

Ed notices a rectangular box mounted on the roof of the vat.

He points directly at it.

ED
And what's that?

AUDREY
An extraction fan. It sucks out the air to stop the wine from oxidizing.

Ed taps on the vat again.

102 INT. STONE'S POINT TANK - CONTINUOUS 102

Ed, Audrey, Elvis and Senator Turner enter the tank through a side door. The illumination from the outside room floods in through the doorway.

The large cylindrical tube is devoid of any detail except for the motionless extraction fan on the ceiling.

ED
(to Elvis)
You said the second you were struck by sunlight you could feel your heart beat again. A heart beat means the return of circulation...your immune system kicked back in. That must be essential to reversing this disease. Perhaps the only way to purify infected blood is inside the body.

Ed might be onto something.

ED (CONT'D)
Lets run a test.

103 INT. STONE'S POINT WINE LAB - CONTINUOUS 103

Ed and Audrey raid the wine lab, grabbing a portable ECG monitor and video camera.

104 INT. STONE'S POINT TANK - CONTINUOUS 104

Dirk enhances the tank's vacuum system.

Ed and Colin bolt the video camera to the inside of the tank wall, aiming it at the center of the enclosed space.

Elvis welds a huge hole in the side of the vat. The large piece of steel crashes to the ground with a thunderous BOOM...

105 EXT. OPEN DESERT PLAIN - NIGHT 105

The Stone's Point four vehicle convoy travels along an open desert plain.

The blackness of night is broken by the limited illumination of the vehicles headlights...this is no mans land.

106 INT. LEADING CARAVAN - CONTINUOUS 106

ALISON (the Petite young woman in the photograph Bromley was studying), sits next to Jarvis in the front of the cabin.

Jarvis clutches tightly onto the steering wheel as he drives over the uneven landscape.

Alison wolfs down a roll of bread...she clearly hasn't eaten in a while.

ALISON

Most of us have been on the run together for years. I've never seen it this bad.

JARVIS

So why'd you come out here?

ALISON

Vamps don't like the desert, not much shade during the day.

Alison munches away spilling crumbs all over her jacket and shirt.

JARVIS

Not much food out here either, ha.

ALISON

Yeah, thanks. So where is this place?

JARVIS

We still got a ways to go yet.

ALISON

So how many others are...

107 EXT. OPEN DESERT PLAIN - CONTINUOUS

107

...BANG...the leading truck's front tire blows, the vehicle swerves to a quick stop. The convoy halts.

Alison and Jarvis jump out of the truck's cabin and walk around to the deflated tire. They carry crossbows and flashlights.

ANGLE ON:

SEVERAL HUMANS watch from inside their vehicles.

ANGLE ON:

From a distance, Jarvis sees the flat tire.

JARVIS

Damn it!

TWENTY HUMANS ALL RANGING IN AGE AND RACE, climb out of their vehicles and walk toward the flat, they too are holding crossbows and flashlights.

Alison approaches Jarvis as he examines the tire more closely. There's something peculiar. He removes a metal arrow from the tire's tread.

JARVIS

GET BACK INSIDE!

PANIC.

POW...POW...POW, from every direction the humans are bombarded with tranquilizer darts. SHOCK!

Ten people are hit in either the head, chest, or leg...they drop instantly.

The humans scan their flashlights around the vast desert plain, their reach is too limited to spot any movement.

An additional TEN HUMANS, armed with crossbows, storm out of their vehicles and race over to assist the others.

JARVIS

Fire, fire, fire!

The humans fire blindly into the pitch-black horizon.

BOOM - Flashes of fire light up the desert seventy yards from the humans.

TWENTY VAMPIRE ARMY OFFICERS ignite as the stakes strike their hearts. UNHARMED VAMPIRE ARMY OFFICERS scatter like cockroaches from their burning comrades. They disappear into the darkness.

The humans are under attack.

Jarvis, Alison and the rest of the humans take cover in between the vehicles...all terrified.

108 INT. RV - CONTINUOUS 108

TWO TEN YEAR OLD KIDS hide inside one of the RVs.

109 EXT. OPEN DESERT PLAIN - CONTINUOUS 109

Tranquilizer darts shoot in from all angles, they take out another ten humans.

Jarvis, Alison and the rest of the group step out from behind the vehicles and return fire...shooting blindly in all directions.

Once more the horizon lights up with the burning of FIFTEEN VAMPIRE ARMY OFFICERS. The UNHARMED VISIBLE OFFICERS scurry out of the light. The officers have gained ground...they're only thirty yards away.

The fires fizzle out...silence.

The humans scan their flashlights around...nothing.

110 INT. RV - CONTINUOUS 110

Alison hurries into the RV to aid two panicked children.

111 EXT. OPEN DESERT PLAIN - CONTINUOUS 111

Jarvis spins around, to his horror spots the COMMANDING OFFICER leading a charge of THIRTY VAMPIRE SOLDIERS.

OH SHIT! They are only several feet away.

Jarvis quickly fires...VOOOOOM - his arrow spears the Commanding Officer in the eye.

The Commanding Officer drops to the ground screaming.

Jarvis fires another arrow towards the Officer.

BOOM - direct hit, straight in the heart. The Commanding Officer explodes in a brilliant flash of flames and guts.

Out of the darkness storms Frankie. He rushes past the Commanding Officer's burning corpse. Frankie quickly fires a tranq dart directly into Jarvis' chest...dropping him to the ground.

The humans don't stand a chance, the Vampire Troops unload their darts into the remaining group.

112 INT. RV - CONTINUOUS

112

Alison grabs hold of the two terrified children, she squats on the floor with them.

Troops pound on the side of the vehicle. Glasses and plates shatter on the linoleum as the RV rocks.

Alison frantically searches for a weapon.

A cabinet next to her swings open. The mirror on the inside of the door reflects the cabinet's contents, Alison spots a SATELLITE PHONE.

MATCH CUT TO:

113 INT. STONE'S POINT CELLAR - NIGHT

113

Ed and Audrey line up several full length, free standing mirrors. This allows sunlight to bounce from a window over to the tank.

From behind the monitoring table, the entire group admire the modified tank.

Ed glances down at the monitor screen. An image of the inside of the tank is displayed. Everything's working.

ALISON (V.O.)
(whispering on phone)
Can anyone hear me?

Elvis reaches for the SATELLITE PHONE on the table.

ELVIS
We hear you, who's this?

All eyes are on Elvis.

ALISON (V.O.)
(whispering on phone)
Help us, please help us.

114 INT. RV - NIGHT

114

Terrified, Alison clutches the phone close to her mouth. She holds onto the frightened kids with her free hand.

ELVIS (V.O.)
(on phone)
Stay calm darlin' and tell us
what's going on.

ALISON
(whispering)
They found us, I don't know what to do....

The window on the RV's side door shatters. BIG JUMP!

Alison and the two kids all scream in unison. She drops the phone.

ELVIS (V.O.)
(on phone)
Where are you...Are you still there? Hello...

Alison races to the back of the RV grabbing a small chair. She wastes no time smashing out a side window.

ALISON
Come on.

The kids dash towards her. Alison carefully guides them out the window.

115 INT. OPEN DESERT PLAIN - CONTINUOUS

115

Alison drops out of the RV's side window, the two ten year olds by her side.

Frankie walks around the side of the vehicle and spots the group...he takes aim.

WHACK...without warning Jarvis shoots Frankie in the shoulder. He drops his tranq gun as he roars in pain.

Dizzy, Jarvis pulls out the dart and takes aim at Frankie.

BANG, BANG, BANG, BANG, BANG.

Frankie fires his 9mm pistol...every bullet striking Jarvis.

Jarvis hits the ground coughing up blood.

Frankie turns to Alison and the escaping children, he fires his tranq gun.

Alison is hit...she drops. The kids look on in horror. She musters up one last word.

ALISON

Go!

She passes out.

One of the children is instantly shot by Frankie's tranq dart...the child falls to the ground, out cold. The other, crying hysterically, turns and runs.

WHACK...Frankie fires again, the child collapses onto the dry earth.

The rest of the troops check the surrounding vehicles...they have them all.

116 INT. RV - CONTINUOUS

116

Soldiers burst through the flimsy door. They scan their weapons around the room spotting the phone.

ELVIS (V.O.)

(on phone)

Is anyone there?

One of the soldiers picks up the phone, he slots it into a computer docking port. The L.E.D. light on the side of the dock glows from red to green.

117 INT. STONE'S POINT CELLAR - NIGHT

117

Elvis waits for an answer. Nothing.

118 EXT. OPEN FIELD - NIGHT

118

Frankie approaches a dying Jarvis.

He stares into Jarvis' eyes as the man convulses on the ground.

Frankie wipes a streak of blood from the human's face.
Jarvis takes his last breath. Frankie tastes the blood of his kill...it excites him.

CUT TO:

119 INT. STONE'S POINT CELLAR - NIGHT 119

Ed, horrified, listens to the faint erratic crackle of the phone. No one's answering.

A panic hits the group.

CUT TO:

120 EXT. STONE'S POINT - PREDAWN 120

The Stone's Point community quickly pack whatever they can in to the back of Five Sedans and a Station Wagon. Clothes, food, tools, everything is shoved in.

Audrey holds a hand drawn map. Turner gives her directions.

SENATOR TURNER
Stay off the main highway and follow the trails along the Marshall River, you should reach my cabin in about five hours.

AUDREY
Ok.

They hug.

SENATOR TURNER
Be careful.

AUDREY
You too.

Four of the cars are off and racing before the occupants can put on their seat belts.

121 INT. STONE'S POINT CELLAR - CONTINUOUS 121

Ed stands in front of the converted stainless steel tank, the chance to be human staring right at him.

Elvis approaches carrying a box of supplies.

ELVIS
Come on Ed, we have to go.

Audrey races in carrying an overflowing backpack.

ED
I can't.

AUDREY
They're going to find us.

Elvis waves everyone towards the door.

Ed looks towards the side window.

ED
The sun will be up in ten minutes,
we have to run a test.

AUDREY
Now's not the time.

Ed turns to Audrey.

ED
There many not be another time, I have to do this.

AUDREY (CONT'D)
OH NO! You don't know what that thing'll do.

ED
(to Audrey)
It's like you said, a substitute's a solution, not a cure. Here's a chance to change things, really change things. I have to try.

It's impossible for Audrey to disagree. Elvis also knows Ed's right.

ELVIS
Fuck!

Dropping his backpack.

ELVIS (CONT'D)
Alright, we'll do this together.

122 EXT. STONE'S POINT WINERY - DAY 122

The sun is rising over the overgrown vineyard.

123 INT. STONE'S POINT CELLAR - CONTINUOUS 123

Ed sits at the monitoring table as Audrey tapes the heart monitor pads to his chest. Audrey's clearly nervous.

AUDREY

Are you sure you're ready to do this?

ED

Hey, what could go wrong?

Ed touches her hand as she tapes the final pad, she feels so warm.

Audrey moves in towards Ed, gently touching his cold pale face.

ED

We'd better hurry. You're making me hungry.

Audrey smiles.

CUT TO:

124 EXT. OPEN ROAD - DAWN 124

A COMPANY OF TEN MILITARY VEHICLES shred the dirt road as they tear past.

CUT TO:

125 INT. STONE'S POINT TANK - DAWN 125

Ed lays down on the metal gurney as Audrey covers his body with a fire blanket. His hair is coated with burn aid gel.

Ed smiles...he's surprisingly calm. Audrey, on the other hand, appears shaken and tense, nervously returning the smile.

Elvis stands at the back of the room next to several blankets, oxygen masks and a fire extinguisher at the ready.

ELVIS

A walk in the park Doc, I got it covered.

Ed nods.

CUT TO:

126 EXT. OPEN ROAD - DAY 126

The ten military vehicles continue to pick up speed.

CUT TO:

127 INT. STONE'S POINT CELLAR - DAY 127

Audrey quickly sits down at the desk as she looks at Ed on the monitor display. He still appears calm and focused.

Audrey notices the sun slowly creep in through the window.

128 INT. STONE'S POINT TANK - CONTINUOUS 128

Ed watches the light stream in safely past his gurney and over to Elvis.

Elvis prepares the mirror and puts on his oxygen mask.

Ed calmly closes his eyes.

129 INT. STONE'S POINT CELLAR - CONTINUOUS 129

Audrey holds her hand on the oxygen purge valve.

AUDREY

Ok, on my count.

Audrey nervously counts down.

AUDREY (CONT'D)

3-2-1-NOW!

130 INT. STONE'S POINT TANK - CONTINUOUS 130

Elvis swipes the mirror through the daylight bouncing it briefly over Ed's body.

Ed JOLTS UPWARDS as if hit by lightning. He IGNITES INTO FLAMES.

131 INT. STONE'S POINT CELLAR - CONTINUOUS 131
Audrey watches the monitor in horror.
Audrey anxiously slams the air purge valve.

132 INT. STONE'S POINT TANK - CONTINUOUS 132
The fire rushes away from Ed's body. The flames twist towards the ceiling's air ducts like a mini tornado.
An uneasy calm fills the room as Ed opens his yellow vampire eyes...NOTHING HAS CHANGED.

CUT TO:

133 EXT. OPEN ROAD - DAY 133
Ten military vehicles race toward their target, sitting just on the horizon is Stone's Point Vineyard.

CUT TO:

134 INT. STONE'S POINT CELLAR - DAY 134
Audrey turns the valve in the opposite direction, allowing the air to circulate again.
She then examines the heart monitor...flatline. Audrey yells out.

AUDREY

ED!

135 INT. STONE'S POINT TANK - CONTINUOUS 135
Ed quietly responds.

ED

I'm ok.

Elvis replies in a louder tone.

ELVIS

ED'S OK AUD.

ED
(Quietly)
Again, do it again.

Ed musters up his strength.

ED (CONT'D)
(louder)
DO IT AGAIN!

136 INT. STONE'S POINT CELLAR - CONTINUOUS 136
Audrey stands up...distraught.

CUT TO:

137 EXT. STONE'S POINT DRIVEWAY - DAY 137
The ten military vehicles hit the winery's driveway at breakneck speed.

CUT TO:

138 INT. STONE'S POINT CELLAR - DAY 138
Audrey paces around...centers herself...then chooses to continue.

AUDREY
On my count.

139 INT. STONE'S POINT TANK - CONTINUOUS 139
Elvis and Ed are ready.

ELVIS
Ok!

140 INT. STONE'S POINT CELLAR - CONTINUOUS 140
Audrey holds onto the valve once again.

AUDREY
3-2-1-NOW!

141 INT. STONE'S POINT TANK - CONTINUOUS 141

Again, Elvis swipes the mirror through the light...Ed JOLTS UPWARDS and IGNITES INTO FLAMES...Audrey purges the air then pumps it back in.

142 INT. STONE'S POINT CELLAR - CONTINUOUS 142

BEEP...The ECG peaks then flatlines.

Audrey leaps backwards in shock.

AUDREY

Ed?

143 INT. STONE'S POINT TANK - CONTINUOUS 143

Ed exhales, he felt something...a heart beat...he smiles.

ELVIS

He's fine.

ED

AGAIN!!!

144 INT. STONE'S POINT CELLAR - CONTINUOUS 144

Audrey readies herself for one more attempt.

CUT TO:

145 EXT. STONE'S POINT - DAY 145

The military vehicles screech to a stop outside the front steps of the winery.

CUT TO:

146 INT. STONE'S POINT TANK - DAY 146

One more time, Elvis swipes the mirror through the light...Ed JOLTS UPWARDS and IGNITES INTO FLAMES...Audrey purges the air then pumps it back in.

Ed's body breaks out into smouldering boils, expanding like a balloon.

147 INT. STONE'S POINT CELLAR - CONTINUOUS 147

Audrey panics, this looks bad.

148 INT. STONE'S POINT TANK - CONTINUOUS 148

Ed's body returns to normal, all the boils disappear.

149 INT. STONE'S POINT CELLAR - CONTINUOUS 149

BEEP-BEEP-BEEP

Audrey looks down at the ECG monitor...a regular heart beat.

Audrey leaps from her chair, she grabs the mirror next to the tank. She tilts it upwards...reflecting the sunlight away.

CUT TO:

150 INT. STONE'S POINT RECEPTION - DAY 150

In full sun protective suits, 30 ARMY OFFICERS break down the front doors. They storm through the reception area, the red glow of their laser sights swipe across the room.

CUT TO:

151 INT. STONE'S POINT TANK - DAY 151

Audrey and Elvis run over to Ed. None of the burns have scarred his body.

AUDREY

Ed.

He slowly opens his eyes.

AUDREY

Come on Ed, that's it.

Ed's pupils color transition from yellow to green as he takes in a large breath of air. He coughs and shakes repeatedly as Audrey places the spare oxygen mask over his mouth.

Audrey and Elvis smile...success.

CUT TO:

The troops kick down another door and rush into the cellar. They survey the room.

The vat's monitoring table has been tipped over. The equipment is everywhere. The mirrors smashed. The gurney lays in the garden.

Two soldiers approach the vat, they look inside...it's empty.

The room's clear. The soldiers head up the stairs, towards the reception area.

The last soldier stops, he hears a creaking noise coming from one of the large wooden barrels.

The soldier removes his helmet, it's Frankie. He holds his wounded shoulder as he slowly approaches one of the large barrels, listening carefully.

152 INT. WINE BARREL - CONTINUOUS

152

Submerged up to their necks in red wine are Ed, Audrey, and Elvis. They hold their crossbows just above the wine.

Ed shakes uncontrollably, he suffering from hyperthermia.

Audrey holds him tight, doing her best to keep him still.

Frankie listens closely...nothing, he slips his helmet back on.

Frankie notices the satellite phone lying on the floor next to the overturned monitor table. In his frustration he picks up the device and hurls it at the wall...SMASH.

153 INT. BROMLEY'S OFFICE - NIGHT

153

Alison lays face up on the couch in Bromley's office. She appears unharmed. She slowly wakes from the effects of the tranquilizer dart.

Her jacket has been removed and a modest sized circular tattoo of "The Flower of Life" is displayed on her upper arm.

Alison staggers to her feet and looks around the room. She notices a letter opener sitting in the middle of Bromley's desk.

She quickly scoops it into her hand...now she has a weapon.

BING...the elevator doors open.

Alison immediately spins around to reveal Bromley standing at the opposite end of the office.

The elevator doors close.

Alison brandishes her weapon at Bromley like a knife.

ALISON
Where are my friends?

Bromley is in no way intimidated.

BROMLEY
You look so beautiful.

ALISON
WHERE ARE THEY?

BROMLEY
You don't need that, you're safe here, I promise.

ALISON
Don't hurt them! Please.

BROMLEY
You've grown up so much.

ALISON
You haven't changed at all.

Alison feels dizzy...she stumbles. Bromley races over and catches her before she hits the ground.

ALISON (CONT'D)
Dad please!

BROMLEY
There's nothing I can do.

ALISON
If you want me to stay, I'll stay, just let them go.

BROMLEY
That's not how it works baby, I'm sorry.

ALISON
You're not sorry.

Alison pushes her Father aside and staggers over to the elevator...the letter opener is no longer in her hand.

She presses the button on the wall...nothing's happening.

Bromley stands.

BROMLEY
We've lost so much time sweetheart.
I want to make it up to you.

Alison cries as Bromley approaches.

BROMLEY
Please Ally.

Something's wrong...shock...Bromley realizes Alison's letter opener is firmly lodged in his gut.

Blood oozes from his wound as he drops to his knees.

Alison cries hysterically.

BING...the elevator door finally opens.

Alison turns to enter...WHACK...she's clobbered in the face by the butt of a SOLDIER'S gun.

She drops...out cold!

154	INT. STONE'S POINT CELLAR - NIGHT	154
	Elvis discreetly slides open the wine barrel's top hatch.
	He looks around...it's clear.

CUT TO:

Elvis, Audrey, and a shivering Ed, cautiously make their way through the cellar. Their bodies are covered in red wine.

155	INT. STONE'S POINT WINE LAB - LATER	155
	The humans check the wine lab, nothing...
156	INT. STONE'S POINT BATHROOM - LATER	156
	...the bathroom, nothing...
157	INT. STONE'S POINT RECEPTION - LATER	157
	...and finally the reception area, all clear.

Cutting through the quiet is a strange high pitch scratching sound coming from behind the reception desk.

The group apprehensively make their way towards the noise. Ed shakes as he aims his crossbow.

Suddenly, the noise stops, and so do Ed and Audrey, they halt inches from the desk. Elvis continues to investigate. He aims his crossbow, ready for anything.

A HIGH PITCHED SQUAWK scares the hell out of the group as a GIANT FRUIT BAT flutters out from underneath the desk.

The group breathe a sigh of relief, as the bat swoops towards the broken front door...

MATCH CUT TO:

158 INT. SUBWAY STATION PLATFORM - NIGHT 158

A FRUIT BAT flies past FIFTY VAMPIRE BUSINESS MEN AND WOMEN as they wait patiently for their train to arrive.

A muted TV displays a news report. A Vampire Anchorwoman reads her Teleprompter as a graphic to the side of her states: China to Stop all Blood Exports.

A long line has formed at the platform's Starbucks. The crowd's getting restless, they want their blood.

*BOOM...*the stand's shutter door slams shut. A sign taped to the front reads: SOLD OUT - Come back tomorrow.

The rowdy group, grown and hiss, banging the steel shutter as a train arrives.

159 INT. BROMLEY/MARKS OPERATING THEATER - LATER 159

Frankie enters the operating theater, his arm and shoulder bandaged.

A NURSE and Christopher walk past filling out a report.

In the center of the room Bromley lays on a gurney with his stomach firmly strapped up.

BROMLEY
Mr. Dalton, come in.

Frankie walks over.

BROMLEY (CONT'D)
How's the shoulder?

FRANKIE
It's healing quickly. How about yourself sir?

BROMLEY
I'll survive son.
(changes the subject)
You know during the Civil War General Sherman said "I am tired and sick of war, its glory is all moonshine... War is hell." Do you believe we're in hell?

FRANKIE
I believe we have to fight to preserve our way of life, sir.

BROMLEY
See, I don't believe we're in hell. Less than fifty humans have been captured in the last week. No, hell it seems, may still be coming.

Frankie is obviously worried by those facts.

BROMLEY (CONT'D)
I hear you performed well son. I only wish your brother shared your loyalty.

FRANKIE
Yes sir.

BROMLEY
I need you to do something for me.

160 INT. BROMLEY/MARKS HOLDING CELL - LATER

160

Christopher leads Frankie into a holding cell.

The door slams shut as Christopher exits...Frankie is left alone.

A frightened Alison, huddles against the corner wall. Her pretty, human face trembles with fear.

Frankie's thirst overwhelms him, he can smell her blood.

Frankie approaches, he notices the tattoo of "The Flower of Life" on her arm.

ALISON
GET AWAY FROM ME!!!

He stops moving towards her.

Frankie just stares at Alison, he's mesmerized by her scent. Alison steps to her left hoping to run past Frankie. Frankie quickly shuffles over, matching her actions. Alison stops dead in her tracks.

FRANKIE
You don't need to be scared of me.

ALISON
Stay away.

Alison steps backwards, Frankie slowly follows her.

FRANKIE
I wont hurt you.

ALISON
Stay away!

FRANKIE (CONT'D)
Is that what you want, to live in fear?

Alison doesn't respond.

FRANKIE (CONT'D)
I can help you. Make you one of us. FREE.

ALISON
No.

He corners her up against the back wall.

FRANKIE
You can live forever.

Alison charges for Frankie.

ALISON
Fuck you!!!

Alison digs her hand sharply into Frankie's wounded shoulder.

FRANKIE Ahhhhhhh!!!

FRANKIE ROARS WITH THE VORACITY OF A THREE HUNDRED POUND LION.

HE LUNGES TOWARDS HER WITH SAVAGE SPEED.

He sinks his teeth into her delicate neck. She fights, it has little effect.

MATCH CUT TO:

161 INT. OLD KITCHEN - NIGHT 161

Frankie releases his grasp on Alison. Her limp body drops towards the linoleum floor.

Frankie stares at the girl, but something is different.

In place of Alison lays Ed. Blood trickles from two puncture wounds on Ed's neck as he convulses on the floor.

CUT TO:

162 INT. BROMLEY/MARKS HOLDING CELL - NIGHT 162

Alison convulses on the floor, she's going through the transformation.

Blood drips from Frankie's gums, the thrill of fresh human blood hits him like a heroin induced high.

CUT TO:

163 EXT. STONE'S POINT - DAY 163

Ed and Audrey stand in the middle of the driveway.

A euphoric warmth rushes through Ed's body as the sunlight washes over him. Every inch of his body tingles.

Audrey delicately takes Ed by the hand.

164 INT. STONE'S POINT BATHROOM - DAY 164

Ed wipes a clear streak across a steamy mirror, reflecting back at him is his astonished human face. He touches his beating heart.

Audrey walks by and stops at the bathroom doorway.

ED
I just can't believe it.

AUDREY
Welcome back.

Ed gently takes hold of her hand, pulling Audrey towards him.
He places her hand on his chest...she softly smiles.

ED
You know, I used to say I'd rather die than end up a vampire.

AUDREY
So what happened?

ED
My brother turned...he then came after me. Guess I was an easy target. Someone who wouldn't fight back.

AUDREY
Why wouldn't you fight back?

ED
I don't know.

AUDREY
I think most of us are too scared of death to think of it as an option. It's good to be afraid, reminds us that we're human.

ED
Thanks for staying.

AUDREY
You're welcome.

Slowly...they kiss...

ANGLE ON - The mirror's reflection: Ed and Audrey's kissing becomes more and more passionate...they rapidly undress one another...Audrey wraps her body around Ed...knocking the mirror off the wall...it shatters...

ANGLE ON - The broken mirror pieces on the ground: Ed and Audrey passionately make love in a cluttered bathroom. Ed's human senses, especially touch, are heightened and overwhelming.

Their reflected image is scattered amongst various shards of shattered glass.

165 INT. SUBWAY STATION PLATFORM - NIGHT

165

THIRTY VAMPIRE BUSINESS MEN AND WOMEN wait impatiently for their train to arrive.

A muted TV displays a news report. A disheveled Vampire Anchorwoman reads her Teleprompter as an image of Wes Turner appears. The graphic below states: Senator Wes Turner Missing.

A DOZEN VAMPIRE COMMUTERS including Senator Westlake (from the News Debate), wait to be served at the platform's Starbucks. The crowd's getting agitated.

The blood shortage has affected them all in varying ways...many look weathered, pale, and some are starting to show signs of slight bat deformities...elongated fingers and pointed ears are becoming common.

A flustered Westlake hands his cup back to the YOUNG ATTENDANT (18).

SENATOR WESTLAKE

This is not what I asked for.

ATTENDANT

Read the sign sir.

A sign at the back of the stand reads: Reduced 5% Blood Quotient Per Cup - FDA Approved as of 15 April 2017.

ATTENDANT (CONT'D)

We're only permitted to serve 5% blood with every coffee.

SENATOR WESTLAKE

I don't care what the sign says you little cunt! Put some more fuckin' blood in my coffee...

The group gets rowdy.

Westlake grabs the Attendant and pulls him out from behind the counter. The Vampire Commuters storm the stand.

Coffee and blood spills everywhere as Business Men and Women fight to grab what ever blood they can.

THREE POLICE OFFICERS and TEN MILITARY PERSONNEL race towards the chaos. The police officers use their metal clamps to restrain commuters. The military personnel struggle to pull starving vampires apart.

166 INT. BROMLEY/MARKS PHARMACEUTICALS CELLS - DAY 166

All the humans in the blood farm are gone. Bromley surveys from the observation window. Clearly, he's worried.

167 INT. BROMLEY'S ELEVATOR - NIGHT 167

The private elevator gently hums as it travels upward.

Bromley reads the paper. A headline states 'GLOBAL PLEA TO FIND SUBSTITUTE'. Plastered across the page are images of RIOTING VAMPIRE PROTESTORS taking on a BATTLE READY ARMY.

BING...the elevator arrives at Bromley's office.

168 INT. BROMLEY'S OFFICE - CONTINUOUS 168

With his head buried in the paper, Bromley makes his way towards his desk.

A shadow passes behind him, Bromley quickly turns to face...

...Alison.

ALISON
Hello Daddy.

Her body looks frail, her hair thinning. Her deep set yellow eyes, bloodshot and glassy. Her ears bat-like, she's turning into a Subsider, fast.

BROMLEY
Ally?

Blood drips from her mouth and wrist. She moves towards her stunned father.

ALISON
Is this what you wanted?

She lumbers closer as her vicious, self inflicted wrist wounds, bleed profusely.

BROMLEY
Sweetheart no!

Alison drinks from her wounds.

Bromley moves towards his desk, pressing a hidden, silent alarm.

ALISON
Is this what you wanted?

She moves closer. Bromley steps backward, he's clearly horrified.

ALISON
IS THIS WHAT YOU WANTED?

TWO SECURITY GUARDS storm in through the side door, they restrain her instantly, grabbing hold of her bloody arms.

ALISON
You couldn't do it yourself you fuckin' coward.

She fights them, but it has little effect.

The elevator door opens...Williams steps out as the troops drag Alison in.

Despairingly, she utters a final sentence.

ALISON
It's all your fault.

The elevator doors close.

Bromley's unsympathetic, cold-blooded exterior, is shattered. For a brief moment he almost seems human.

Williams capitalizes on Bromley's moment of weakness.

GENERAL WILLIAMS
How much longer can this go on?

Bromley stares at the pool of blood that trails towards the elevator.

A numbed Bromley turns to Williams.

GENERAL WILLIAMS (CONT'D)
My troops are starving. They can't control their hunger, they're killing more humans than their bringing in. The Subsiders are everywhere. The public's losing faith in us.

BROMLEY
It's time we restored peace.

169 INT. SUBWAY STATION PLATFORM - NIGHT

169

The subway platform is deserted.

The monitors have been smashed.

The Starbucks blood stand has been boarded up.

The poster - 'I want you for the US Army', has been defaced.
A graffitied message across the poster reads: END TIMES.

Frankie, and a squad of TEN SOLDIERS, stand on the train tracks at the ready. The soldiers are dressed in full combat fatigues, equipped with the latest weaponry and "Bite Protective" clothing. Metal neck braces and wooden bullets have become standard issue.

Frankie's sharp fingernail penetrates the flesh of his pale white wrist. Blood oozes from the self-inflicted wound. His eyes are deep set, his brow more pronounced, he is more bat-like.

Frankie's pupils dilate as he tastes his own blood. His hand begins to spasm. His fingernails extend slightly as the skin around the puncture ages and shrivels.

A SMALL WEST HIGHLAND TERRIER has been placed in the center of the train tracks...the bait has been set.

A SUBSIDER charges down the train tunnel towards the dog.

CRUNCH...the creature's leg is encased in a bear-trap device hidden between the tracks. It roars in pain, the screams echoing through the subway. The dog races away.

The Subsider screams as the squad tries to clasp a heavy duty electric-choker around its neck.

Two of the soldiers are sliced in half as the creature lashes out in self-defense. Another soldier is quick to retaliate, but not with a weapon, WITH HIS TEETH, sinking them into the creature's deformed flesh.

Frankie quickly takes aim, firing his tranq gun twice. Both darts hit the beasts chest. The Subsider drops, hard.

170 INT. STONE'S POINT SHED - NIGHT

170

Elvis opens the wooden doors of the dusty shed. Ed and Audrey follow Elvis inside.

He wrenches the dust cover off his pride and joy...

ELVIS

A 1978 Pontiac Firebird. She's a real classic, did all the mods myself.

Elvis gently glides his hand over his baby's beautiful black body.

Audrey, and Elvis load crossbows, stakes, food and clothes into the trunk.

Ed notices the Firebird emblem on her hood. Below the emblem a piece of text reads:

ED

'From the ashes springs new life'.

The group climbs in the Firebird, Elvis jumps into the driver's seat, Audrey rides shotgun, and Ed slides into the back.

Elvis starts the engine...she purrs.

ELVIS

Five hours to the Senator's cabin...I can do it in three.

The Firebird blasts out of the garage, the screech of the vehicle's tires blends into...

171 INT. BROMLEY/MARKS PARKING GARAGE - DAY

171

...the sound of rattling chains.

In an undercover parking garage, THIRTY MILITARY PERSONNEL aim their weapons at FIFTY SUBSIDERS, the creatures are locked together in a chain gang. They roar and lash out at the officers. Their attacks are held back with flaming torches.

The officers, including Williams, look famished, their eyes dark and deep set, more Subsider than "healthy" vampire. The atmosphere is more like that of an out of control football game than a military operation.

Frankie locks the last Subsider in place.

Without warning a Subsider lashes out at Frankie, ripping flesh from his shoulder. Frankie swiftly pounds the creature to the ground with the butt of his weapon.

Frankie notices something familiar, the "Flower of Life" tattoo on the creature's upper arm...it's Alison.

Frankie steps away. Officers force Alison back on her feet.

The chain gang is linked to a Military Hummer, that drags the Subsiders up the exit ramp towards daylight.

172 EXT. BROMLEY/MARKS PARKING GARAGE - CONTINUOUS 172

The hummer exits the garage.

A CROWD OF VAMPS watch from the shade of the walkways. Some cheer, but the silent majority look on in disgust.

The Subsiders scream as they hit the sunlight...BOOM - BOOM - BOOM

173 INT. BROMLEY/MARKS PARKING GARAGE - CONTINUOUS 173

Frankie races towards the exit of the garage. He looks on as the Subsiders burst into flames.

174 EXT. BROMLEY/MARKS PARKING GARAGE - CONTINUOUS 174

Alison turns towards Frankie as she hits the sunlight.

BOOM -- She bursts into flames.

Alison's charred remains drift away.

What has Frankie done?

Empty chains rattle as they drag behind the Hummer. Troops cheer as the last of the Subsiders ignite.

The crowd of onlookers disperse, scurrying like rats back to the shade of the surrounding buildings.

175 EXT. DENSE FOREST - DAY 175

A thick, lush forest completely surrounds a narrow dirt track.

Elvis' Firebird turns a corner, the dirt path just wide enough for the muscle car.

In the distance, towards the end of the path, a haze of black smoke drifts between the redwoods.

Elvis, Ed, and Audrey, instantly appear worried.

The smoke becomes thicker as the car approaches. The vehicle reaches a clearing in front of a large log cabin.

Pools of smoldering, ashed bodies, lay scattered across the tangled grass. This is the aftermath of a recent violent battle.

Alarmed, the group warily exit the Firebird, they carry crossbows, Elvis leads.

They cautiously approach the cabin. Elvis slowly opens the door.

176 INT. CABIN - CONTINUOUS

176

SHOCK!

Scattered across the cabin's oak floor are the mauled bloody bodies of the Stone's Point humans.

Many of their bodies have been drained of blood, sucked dry, to the bone. Terrified expressions frozen on their faces.

The site of her massacred friends is unbearable for Audrey, she quickly turns away. Ed grabs hold of her.

Elvis is shocked, speechless. The site is horrific, he stumbles, about to collapse. He braces himself against the door.

Ed holds Audrey tight, doing his best to keep it together. Then, as he peers around the room, he notices the decapitated head of Senator Turner.

177 EXT. DENSE FOREST - DAY

177

The surrounding beauty of the lush forest is a sharp contrast to the horror the group has just seen.

Ed, Elvis, and Audrey, gather around a large tree at the back of the cabin.

Audrey's a wreck.

Elvis leans against the tree, devastated.

Ed stares at the sun as it flickers through the swaying Redwood branches.

AUDREY
It's all gone...everything.

ELVIS
We can start again.

AUDREY
We can't keep running.

Ed turns towards the two of them.

ED
I know someone who can help.

178 EXT. BROMLEY MARKS ESTATE - NIGHT

178

Christopher's Cadillac cruises down the suburban street passing the "Bromley/Marks Estate" sign; this is the same neighborhood Ed once lived in.

Christopher stares out the window witnessing...

Overflowing trash cans littering the sidewalk.

FOUR VAMPIRE KIDS (10) smashing a parked car with their baseball bats.

A MALE VAMPIRE (45) sitting near the curb, gnawing on his bludgeoned VAMPIRE DOG.

Christopher turns into his driveway.

179 INT. CHRISTOPHER'S KITCHEN - CONTINUOUS

179

Christopher enters the darkened kitchen through the laundry. The design layout is exactly the same as Ed's home, with the only distinct difference being the appliances and cabinet finishings.

Christopher's on his cell phone.

CHRISTOPHER
...thank you, I know, I know. Well
I couldn't have done it without
you...

Christopher flicks on the light revealing...

...Ed, Audrey, and Elvis, fully armed, with crossbows at the ready.

Christopher LEAPS, if he had a pulse it would have skipped a dozen beats.

CHRISTOPHER (CONT'D)

Shit!

Stunned, Christopher realizes it's Ed...HE'S HUMAN.

CHRISTOPHER (CONT'D)

I'll have to call you back.

Christopher slides his cell into his jacket pocket.

180 INT. CHRISTOPHER'S LIVING ROOM - LATER

180

Ed, Elvis, and Audrey sit on a couch facing Christopher. The group has their weapons close by, just in case.

Christopher, still stunned, sits across from Ed.

CHRISTOPHER

You're really human.

ED

It sure seems that way.

CHRISTOPHER

This is unbelievable.

Christopher leans in towards Ed for a closer look at his human face.

Elvis is quick to aim his crossbow at the vampire.

Christopher stops moving, addressing Elvis.

CHRISTOPHER (CONT'D)

I'm sorry, who are you?

ELVIS

We're the folks with the crossbows.

Elvis definitely intimidates Christopher.

ED

This is a dangerous time Chris, we have to be careful.

CHRISTOPHER

Ed it's me. After the six years we've spent working together, you know the sacrifices I've made.
I've been with you one hundred percent of the way, always.

ED

I know.

Ed gestures to Elvis - 'lower the crossbow'. Elvis slowly does.

ED (CONT'D)

We have something now Chris, something better than a blood substitute...a cure. I can replicate the procedure, but I need your help.

Taken aback, Christopher does his best to absorb everything Ed's saying.

ED (CONT'D)

This is a chance to change everything. No more humans have to die.

A barrage of thoughts race through Christopher's mind, he wants to ask Ed a million questions, but decides to start with one...

CHRISTOPHER

How did you do it?

Ed hesitates. Should he tell him?

RING...RING...the (land line) telephone breaks the tension.

Christopher ignores the phone, waiting for Ed's answer.

ELVIS

You going to answer it?

Christopher nods 'yes', the last thing he wants to do is piss off Elvis. He picks up the cordless next to the couch.

CHRISTOPHER

Hello. No, yes...yes, I know.
Hold on.
(to Ed, Elvis and Audrey)
Ex-wife, it's messy, give me a second.

Ed nods 'yes'.

Chris stands and heads for the kitchen.

CHRISTOPHER (CONT'D)
(addressing caller)
No, it's pretty simple...

Ed, Audrey and Elvis remain on the couch.

CHRISTOPHER (O.S.)
...what are you talking about, I told you last week.

The humans wait patiently.

ELVIS
This is an ugly fuckin' house.

ED
It's not ugly it's...modern.

Audrey doesn't feel comfortable, something feels...off. She stands, heading towards the kitchen.

ED
Where are you going?

AUDREY
Check on your friend.

181 INT. CHRISTOPHER'S KITCHEN - CONTINUOUS 181

Audrey walks into the kitchen cautiously looking for the vampire...Christopher's gone, the kitchen's empty.

CLANK...she hears someone wondering around in the pitch black laundry. Audrey makes her way over.

182 INT. CHRISTOPHER'S LIVING ROOM - CONTINUOUS 182

Christopher's jacket slowly slides off the couch, falling onto the floor. A cell phone bounces out of the jacket pocket sliding over to Ed.

The phone's glowing blue display catches Ed's eye - 'Work', the phone is still on.

183 INT. CHRISTOPHER'S KITCHEN - CONTINUOUS 183

Suddenly, from out of the darkness of the laundry, THREE ARMY OFFICERS charge through the kitchen grabbing Audrey.

184 HUGE SHOCK!!! 184

The officers are covered from head to toe in sun protective gear.

Audrey screams as they drag her away. Four ADDITIONAL OFFICERS make their way towards the living room.

185 INT. CHRISTOPHER'S LIVING ROOM - CONTINUOUS 185

Ed and Elvis snap into action.

ED

Audrey!

The four officers stampede into the living room. They don't even have a chance to aim before Elvis ashes two of them with his crossbow.

The other two officers open fire. Their tranq darts shattering the glass shelves around the humans.

Elvis grabs a hold of a stunned Ed as glass showers down around them. He drags Ed towards the underground walkway door.

They reach the far wall of the living room, Elvis continues to fire his crossbow, just missing the advancing officers. Elvis opens the walkway door as Ed dodges tranq darts.

186 INT. UNDERGROUND WALKWAY - CONTINUOUS 186

The humans hurry in. Elvis slams the door shut.

ELVIS

MOVE!

Ed and Elvis race down the long, dimly lit, underground walkway.

The Army barge through the walkway door, they're not far behind.

Elvis and Ed turn left, then right, the walkways are a maze of many different tunnels, all of them similar looking.

They stop, hiding behind a large pipe.

Ed's devastated and not thinking rationally.

ED

Fuck, FUCK, we have to go back.

Elvis slams his hand over Ed's mouth.

ELVIS

We can't help her if they find us.

Ed nods, knowing full well Elvis is right.

The five troops dart past, none of them spotting Ed or Elvis. Seizing a brief opportunity, Ed and Elvis race into an adjoining tunnel.

Unaware to Ed and Elvis, an officer, in full sun protective gear, catches a glimpse of them as they scurry past.

Ed and Elvis take a left, then another, turning right into the path of...A BLOOD DEPRIVED VAMPIRE POSTMAN (55).

ED GASPS...before he can turn and run, the famished vamp leaps for him.

In one swift move, Elvis draws a large boot knife from a sheath attached to his right leg. He slices the vamp's head clean off.

Blood splatters across the side wall, over a poster that reads - "DAYTIME PROTECTION INSURANCE - Cover yourself against sun related tragedies".

The postman's decapitated body drops to the ground. Letters flutter out of his satchel as Ed takes a breath.

187 INT. CORMAC CUSTOM RESTORATION'S GARAGE - CONTINUOUS 187

A blanket of dust wafts through the room.

Elvis' Firebird sits amongst an assortment of engines, tires, and daytime modification parts.

188 INT. CORMAC CUSTOM RESTORATION'S OFFICE - CONTINUOUS 188

Ed and Elvis charge up the underground walkway into the partitioned office.

The pitch black room is illuminated by Elvis' small pocket flashlight.

Elvis hits the main switch, the garage lights up.

The office lights are the last to flicker on.

Completely unaware to Ed and Elvis, squatting in the back of the office, is a frighteningly blood deprived Subsider...

BIG SCARE MOMENT.

The lights in the office short out, the whole garage plunges into darkness.

Elvis moves towards the fuse box. He flicks the circuit back on...the Subsider's disappeared.

Elvis peeks out the window...

189 EXT. CORMAC CUSTOM RESTORATION'S GARAGE - CONTINUOUS 189

Elvis' restoration garage sits comfortably amongst a slew of rundown and boarded up warehouses.

The streets are empty...they haven't been followed.

190 INT. CORMAC CUSTOM RESTORATION'S GARAGE - CONTINUOUS 190

Ed takes a seat next to the Firebird.

He's lost Audrey, his friend's betrayed him...things are looking grim.

Ed heaves his crossbow at an assortment of paint tins in the corner of the room. White and red paint splatter everywhere.

ED

Fuck!

Placing his hands over his face, Ed takes a deep breath, doing his best to calm himself.

He leans back in the chair, hanging from the ceiling above him is a Subsider.

BIG...BIG...SCARE MOMENT.

Ed leaps as the creature flips to the ground.

He stumbles backwards, the creature roars. Before the blood deprived beast can take another step - BOOM, it ignites into a fiery pulp.

Ed spins towards the sound of a discharged crossbow, a soldier, in full sun protective gear, stands behind him.

The soldier takes off his mask, its...

ED
Frankie!

FRANKIE
I can't believe it.

Ed moves towards his brother. He stares at Frankie's emaciated face.

Frankie steps backward, retreating from Ed.

FRANKIE
Don't come any closer.

Ed stops.

ED
I have a cure. I can help you.

Frankie squints as he peers at a flickering fluorescent light.

FRANKIE (CONT'D)
The light in here hurts my eyes, everything hurts.

Elvis enters the room unnoticed. He quietly creeps towards Frankie.

ED
I can change you back Frankie.

FRANKIE
No...no...I have to get you out of here. They're looking for you.

ED
I can't leave without Audrey.

FRANKIE
The girl. You'll never get to her, it's too late

ED
It's not.

FRANKIE
We got to go, I can get you out of the city.

ED
No, I have to help her.

FRANKIE
I can't let you do that.

Frankie draws his tranquilizer gun and points it at Ed.

ED (CONT'D)
What, are you going to shoot me?

FRANKIE
If I have to.
(sympathetically)
I'm trying to help you.

ED
I can't leave without her.

Elvis continues to silently move towards Frankie. He finds a weapon, a rusted metal pipe.

FRANKIE
You know why I turned you Ed? You kept saying you'd rather die than become...like me. I turned you because it was the only way I could stop you from getting killed. I want to help you.

ED
You want to help me, then put down the gun and let me do what I need to do.

Frankie targets his weapon.

FRANKIE
Please Ed, don't make me...

Elvis leaps out from behind Frankie, using the pipe to knock the gun out of Frankie's hand.

Frankie reacts quickly, grabbing hold of Elvis. With inhuman speed Frankie chomps down on Elvis' jugular.

Ed races for his crossbow. Still loaded, Ed grabs the weapon...

...he spins towards his brother, ready to fire.

Frankie drops Elvis and races out of the room. Ed quickly rushes towards his wounded friend.

ELVIS
Go, get him!

Elvis pushes Ed away as he clutches his bleeding neck.

191 INT. CORMAC CUSTOM RESTORATION'S BACK ROOM - MOMENTS LATER 191

Ed races into the gloomy back room. A nesting ground for used car parts and rusted tools.

Holding his crossbow tight, Ed moves between the overloaded shelves.

Carefully, Ed makes his way towards the back of the room. He notices a figure, shaking in the darkness, it's Frankie.

Ed steps forward, with every step he gets a better look at Frankie's face.

Ed's now a few feet away. Frankie makes no attempt to fight, or run, he shakes uncontrollably.

Ed aims his crossbow as he gets a good look at his brother...something is very different.

192 INT. BROMLEY'S OFFICE - NIGHT

192

The room slowly shifts into focus as Audrey opens her weary eyes. She's laying on a couch, blood drips from the corner of her mouth.

Bromley moves into her line of sight. He's holding a wine glass half filled with red.

BROMLEY
I have to admit I'm amazed. I always knew Edward was a bright young man, but a cure, this is truly incredible. You can walk out of here, you have my word, just tell me how he did it.

Audrey attempts to talk, she gathers her strength. Bromley leans in to hear every word. Audrey manages to whisper...

AUDREY

No.

She spits blood into his face.

Bromley repels, he didn't see that coming.

We get a good look at Audrey's body. Blood drips from two wrist wounds all over the spotless white couch.

Furious, Bromley towers over her, grabbing hold of Audrey's wrist wounds.

SHE SCREAMS.

GENERAL WILLIAMS (O.S.)

No sign of them yet.

Williams stands near the elevator. Bromley lets go of Audrey's wrists as he turns toward the General.

BROMLEY

Then why are you here?

GENERAL WILLIAMS

My men are having trouble patrolling effectively, we don't want a repeat of what happened with the Senator. They need blood!

Williams eyes Audrey's bleeding wrists. He seems disinterested in her condition, his focus is on the blood dripping over the couch. He needs to feed, badly.

BROMLEY

You will have all the blood you've ever desired, once you capture Edward Dalton.

Williams is ready to explode, he loathes Bromley, it's written so clearly over every inch of his blood deprived face...however, he chooses to say nothing, and exits the room.

193 EXT. BROMLEY/MARKS PHARMACEUTICALS - NIGHT

193

Elvis' Firebird roars towards the massive concrete structure.

194 INT. BROMLEY/MARKS PHARMACEUTICALS LOBBY - CONTINUOUS 194

Thousands of particles of glass explode across the lobby's marble floor as the Firebird careens through the front window.

TWO GUARDS leap to attention, quickly drawing their weapons. The vehicle skids to a halt inches from the security desk. Before the black smoke of the Firebird's melted rear tires can dissipate, Ed climbs out.

Dumbfounded, the guards point their weapons at him.

195 INT. BROMLEY/MARKS OFFICE - CONTINUOUS 195

From the fish eye view of a security monitor, Bromley watches the event in the lobby unfold. Ed's human face fills the pixilated monitor frame.

Ed's looking at the security camera lens as if he's staring directly at Bromley.

ED
(on monitor)
We need to talk.

196 INT. BROMLEY/MARKS OFFICE - LATER 196

Ed is cable tied to a chair by a security guard, his wrists and ankles secured firmly. Ed's focus is elsewhere...

...towards Audrey...she's barely conscious. Her limp body drapes across a chair, blood dripping from her wrists.

ED
Audrey.

The guard leaves as Bromley smugly approaches Ed.

BROMLEY
You got a tan Edward. It suits you.

Ed, fuming, eyes Bromley.

ED
I want to make a deal.

BROMLEY
You have my complete attention.

Bromley responds with the apathy of a seasoned politician.

ED
Let us leave and I'll tell you how to recreate a cure.

Bromley moves away from Ed...towards a bleeding Audrey.

BROMLEY
She must be very special to you.

Bromley strides towards a safe near the far wall.

BROMLEY (CONT'D)
I won't deny that things have gotten progressively worse during your absence. Our blood supplies are...well...gone, and I too was feeling the effects of the depravation.

Bromley punches in a code on the safe's keypad. It opens.

BROMLEY (CONT'D)
But as of yesterday that's all a thing of the past. Somehow I always believed it would be you who would discover a stable substitute, not Christopher. Guess I was wrong.

He holds up a small vial filled with dark red blood.

BROMLEY (CONT'D)
We're going into mass production in two days. It's never been about a cure. It's about repeat business.

Bromley picks up his letter opener and an empty wine glass.

Slowly walking around Ed, Bromley places the wine glass on the floor, just under the human's palms.

ED
If you don't allow us to leave, the cure will be made public.

BROMLEY
Be my guest; we need to repopulate this facility's human supply as soon as possible.

ED
People want to change back.

BROMLEY
People want to live forever. In fact, how do we know you're even human? Lets find out.

Bromley slices Ed's wrist with his letter opener. Blood drips into the wine glass.

Bromley picks up the wine glass by the stem. He swirls the blood like a fine wine, observing its body. He then takes in the aroma.

BROMLEY (CONT'D)
I can smell your fear, a very human weakness.

Bromley toasts.

BROMLEY (CONT'D)
To a long life.

197 INT. CORMAC CUSTOM RESTORATIONS / OFFICE - CONTINUOUS 197

A cloth prevents Elvis' wound from bleeding, he presses hard.
Weak, he lays on a ratty sofa, regaining his strength.

The room is almost pitch black, there's not enough light to get a good look at Elvis' face.

A figure enters the room. Elvis hears the person enter.
Oddly, he makes no attempt to move, no attempt to arm himself.

The figure moves closer, just stopping short of Elvis. From behind we can see the person's shaved head and military fatigues.

198 INT. BROMLEY/MARKS OFFICE - CONTINUOUS 198

Bromley stops drinking, he places the empty wine glass on his desk.

Blood drips from Ed's wrist wound on to the floor.

Bromley savors the taste of fresh human blood.

AS IF STRUCK BY 30000 AMPS, Bromley jolts unexpectedly. Searing pain surges through every part of his body. He shivers, cold chills stream through his veins.

ELVIS (V.O.)
Vamps think they own this world, they think that humans have to hide from it...

Ed slams his hands against the back of the chair, cracking the wood frame. He won't be restrained for long.

Bromley, letting out an inhuman scream, topples to the floor.

199 INT. CORMAC CUSTOM RESTORATIONS / OFFICE - CONTINUOUS 199

Elvis, still resting on the sofa, speaks as the military officer listens.

ELVIS (CONT'D)
Truth is, every day the sun comes out, and every day vamps have to hide.

200 INT. BROMLEY/MARKS OFFICE - CONTINUOUS 200

Bromley cowers on the floor, his trembling body crippled by intense pain.

ELVIS (V.O.) (CONT'D) Vampires can never survive. That's the truth.

With all his might, Ed breaks the chair's wood backing, his hands are free.

BROMLEY
Your blood...what have you done to me?

Bromley's blue eyes meet Ed's.

ED
Treated vampire blood...it's a cure.

As a result of drinking Ed's blood, BROMLEY IS A HUMAN.

ELVIS (V.O.)
Elvis Presley once said...

201 INT. CORMAC CUSTOM RESTORATIONS - CONTINUOUS 201

Elvis sits up; we can now see his face - HE'S STILL HUMAN.

ELVIS
'Truth is like the sun...you can shut it out for a time, but it ain't goin' away'.

We see the military figure's face for the first time...it's Frankie, his blue eyes staring directly at Elvis. - HE'S HUMAN.

202 INT. BROMLEY'S OFFICE - CONTINUOUS 202

Weak, and still shaking, Ed straps Bromley to a chair. A phone cord, a belt, and computer cable hold him in place. Ed uses Bromley's silk tie to gag the newly transformed human.

Ed races over to Audrey, she's anemic, but all right.

CUT TO:

Ed breaks off a chair leg, now he has a stake.

Alarm bells sound as Ed randomly presses numbers on the safe's keypad.

203 INT. BROMLEY/MARKS PARKING GARAGE - CONTINUOUS 203

Five Military Jeeps, and six Assault Vehicles, race through the parking structure towards the lower level elevators.

One after another they screech to a stop.

FORTY OFFICERS rapidly disperse from the vehicles, Williams leading them.

The troop's precision has clearly diminished. Starving, they're a heavily armed group on the verge of chaos.

BING...the elevator light glows.

Silence.

The door opens revealing a human Bromley. Gagged, it's impossible for Bromley to scream, but he's clearly trying to.

Williams approaches the terrified human, the scent of fresh blood almost knocking him over. He can't believe Bromley's human.

Williams leaps for Bromley, ripping him to pieces instantly. Ten troops race in after Williams, they feast on Bromley's dismembered remains.

Blood sprays across the elevator's stainless steel walls as the doors close.

204 INT. BROMLEY/MARKS STAIRWELL - CONTINUOUS 204

Ed supports a wounded Audrey as they hurry down the dimly lit stairwell. They miss every second step as they rapidly pick up speed.

LEVEL 5 - LEVEL 4.

LEVEL 3 - Ed and Audrey motor.

LEVEL 2 - LEVEL 1 - Ed crashes his shoulder against the LOBBY EXIT DOOR.

205 INT. BROMLEY/MARKS PHARMACEUTICALS LOBBY - CONTINUOUS 205

Ed and Audrey bolt into the lobby, slamming the stairwell door behind them.

SHOCK...TWO HUNDRED STARVING VAMPIRE TROOPS surround all the lobby exits.

There's no way out.

Every single vampire turns to face Ed and Audrey.

ED

Oh shit!

Ed desperately tries to open the stairwell door, it's locked.

The vampire troops move toward the two humans. They're trapped.

BANG...a massive chandelier explodes off its housing and topples towards the unforgiving lobby floor. Sparks and glass erupt as the starving troops take cover.

Frankie has entered the lobby, a smoking shotgun in hand. He steps through the smashed front window.

The troops turn their attention toward him. Many recognize Frankie, they can't believe he's human.

Audrey leans her wounded body against the wall as Ed slowly steps towards his brother.

Frankie looks at the starving troops.

FRANKIE

You have a choice. Don't do this.
It's not too late for all of you.

The Vampire Army grin and lick their lips as they charge for Frankie.

Ten of the ferocious troops tackle Frankie to the ground, the human makes an attempt to fight them off but it has little affect.

Ed sinks. The shock of what he's just seen is too incomprehensible to accept.

The side security door, near the stairwell exit, swings open. THREE VAMPIRE SECURITY GUARDS latch onto Audrey, wrenching her towards the security door.

AUDREY SCREAMS.

Ed spins towards her, the security door is inches away from closing behind the guards. Ed leaps into action jamming his stake between the door and its frame.

206 INT. BROMLEY/MARKS SECURITY OFFICE - CONTINUOUS 206

Ed rips the door open, SECURITY OFFICER (#1) attempts to stop him from entering. Ed instantly stakes the vampire. He bursts into glowing hot ambers that scatter all over Ed as he charges into the room.

The blue ambience of a monitor wall lights the room.

VAMPIRE SECURITY OFFICER (#2) b-lines towards the human, Ed's ready for him, he grips his stake tight.

The other VAMPIRE SECURITY OFFICER drags a fighting Audrey on to the far table. She's strong, but the officer's stronger. He slams Audrey onto the table pinning her down.

207 INT. BROMLEY/MARKS PHARMACEUTICALS LOBBY - CONTINUOUS 207

The vampires devour Frankie, biting his neck, his legs, his arms. The wounds are fatal.

Frankie exhales his last breath.

208 INT. BROMLEY/MARKS SECURITY OFFICE - CONTINUOUS 208

Ed gasps as blazing ambers dance around him like fire flies. He's staked another security guard, the concussion of the exploding vamp knocks Ed backward.

209 INT. BROMLEY/MARKS PHARMACEUTICALS LOBBY - CONTINUOUS 209

The vampires feeding from Frankie have turned HUMAN. Their shaking, disoriented bodies tremble.

The vampire army charge towards their TRANSFORMED COMRADES...the slaughter has begun. The lobby's marble floor is littered with pools of blood as the Army furiously feed.

Like a ripple at the edge of a pond, vampires turn into humans as they eat the newly transformed. The violent ripple expands outward, exponentially increasing.

210 INT. BROMLEY/MARKS SECURITY OFFICE - CONTINUOUS 210

The vampire security guard lunges for Audrey. She desperately holds him off. He's inches from her throat.

Audrey needs a weapon, fast... she looks left, then right, she's found it, a ballpoint.

With all her might Audrey grabs the pen and heaves it into the vamp's throat. Blood streams out of the guard's jugular. He screams in pain, but only for a few seconds. The blood thirsty vamp's met by the pointy end of Ed's stake.

BOOM.

Before the debris of the fiery vamp has a chance to disperse, Ed's by Audrey's side.

211 INT. BROMLEY/MARKS PHARMACEUTICALS LOBBY - CONTINUOUS 211

Thought and reason don't apply as the ravenous Vampires slaughter the NEWLY TRANSFORMED HUMANS. They in turn are changed into humans.

Instead of facing their attackers, several HUMAN OFFICERS choose suicide, detonating grenades in their hands or shooting themselves in the head.

212 INT. BROMLEY/MARKS SECURITY OFFICE - CONTINUOUS 212

Ed gently helps Audrey find her footing. She climbs off the table embracing Ed tightly. He holds her close, not wanting to let go.

Ed turns his attention to the wall of monitors, they display the aftermath of a bloody battle.

CUT TO:

213 INT. BROMLEY/MARKS PHARMACEUTICALS LOBBY - CONTINUOUS 213

Ed and Audrey enter the room through the security door.

They slowly walk through the blood soaked lobby, towards Frankie's body. The surviving vampires, now human, tremble as they watch Ed and Audrey walk past them. They are beaten, helpless.

Standing in complete shock, amongst the remains of his slaughtered army, is a human General Williams.

Ed kneels by his brother's body, overwhelmed with sorrow.

Audrey joins Ed. She kneels down next to him - revealing...

...Christopher.

He stands behind the couple targeting one of the dead soldier's guns directly at them.

The hammer clicks back, Ed and Audrey turn to look. Christopher starts to squeeze the trigger when...

BOOM, a crossbow arrow rips through his chest. He explodes into a million fiery pieces. His expensive suit ablaze as it twists in the air.

Ed and Audrey spin towards the lobby's smashed front window.

It's Elvis. The sun creeps in behind him as he lowers his crossbow.

Ed and Audrey breathe a sigh of relief.

214 EXT. SKY / MAIN STREET - PREDAWN 214

A SINGLE VAMPIRE BAT swoops past a cloudless predawn sky.

The sun slowly rises.

BOOM - the vampire bat bursts into flames. It tumbles like a falling meteorite towards the city's empty Main Street.

Elvis' Firebird races past, scattering the flaming bat's ashes in its wake. The vehicle races down the Main Street towards a rising red sun.

CUT TO BLACK:

DUNE

SEVENTH DRAFT

DAVID LYNCH
December 9, 1983

--

1. ARRAKIS - A SCENE FROM SPACE

Also known as DUNE, home of the Fremmen, former Zenzunni wanderers.

1A. INT. ROCK LEDGE - SIETCH TABR - NIGHT

BLACK

FADE IN to the dark eyes of the mysterious face of the REVEREND MOTHER RAMALLO, who sits against smooth black rock. Her eyes are deep blue-within-blue and her skin is a haunting translucent white. Her voice
ECHOES as if in a great cavern.

REVEREND MOTHER RAMALLO
We are the secret of the Universe.

RESPONSE OF TWENTY THOUSAND VOICES
Bi-la kaifa.

REVEREND MOTHER RAMALLO
We are the secret of the Universe. We know of spice...the spice called melange...the greatest treasure in the Universe. It exists on only one planet - ours Arrakis, Dune. We know of spice and the Bene Gesserit sisterhood's selective breeding plan of ninety generations to produce the Kwisatz Haderach, the one the spice will awaken.

RESPONSE OF TWENTY THOUSAND VOICES
Bi-la kaifa.

REVEREND MOTHER RAMALLO
And now the prophecy...

Silence...then a powerful low organ NOTE resounding in the cavernous space.

REVEREND MOTHER RAMALLO (CONT'D)
He will come...the voice from the outer world, bringing the holy war, the Jihad, which will cleanse the Universe and bring us out of darkness. He will have been born of a Bene Gesserit mother.

--

The Reverend Mother continues speaking of the Prophecy, but we do not hear it. The huge wind organ
BLOWS louder and louder, obscuring her voice.

The picture FADES.

1B. KAITAIN - A SCENE FROM SPACE

Home planet of House Corrino and Shadam IV, Emperor of the known universe.

2. INT. DROP - NIGHT

FADE IN to:

...interior of one drop of water. The image changes subtly.

2A. EXT. - DROP - NIGHT

PULL BACK to a shot revealing the outside of the drop. There is a distant ROARING and within the drop we can see the distorted image of a space ship landing on a sophisticated landing field.

3. (Deleted)

3A. EXT. LANDING FIELD - EMPEROR'S PALACE - NIGHT

On the dark landing field, chemicals spill out of the ship in troughs and tank-suited Guildsmen begin to swarm out of a hatch opening.

4. through 6. (Deleted)

7. INT. THRONE ROOM - EMPEROR'S PALACE - NIGHT

The EMPEROR is surrounded by crowds of COURTIERS in his Throne Room.

Suddenly a GUARD enters from a small door and quickly crosses to ANOTHER GUARD. A warning SOUND begins. The Emperor turns nervously. Guards quickly begin to clear the large room. Several women are rushed toward us to a door beyond. One of the woman, IRULAN, stops and turns back for a worried, caring look to her father, the Emperor.

IRULAN

Father.

--

EMPEROR

Irulan.

She sees that SARDAUKAR OFFICERS are surrounding him now, speaking to him. Irulan turns and leaves. The Emperor moves away from his officers to the center of the now-empty room. He drops his golden robe from his shoulders. He stands in his elegant black uniform, thinking.

The Reverend Mother is ushered in and the Sardaukar Officers leave her alone with the Emperor.

EMPEROR
(quickly)
A Third Stage Guild Navigator will be here within minutes!

REVEREND MOTHER
We felt his presence.

EMPEROR
I shall want telepathy during his visit and a report when we're finished.

REVEREND MOTHER
Their minds are so.... They move in strange directions....

EMPEROR
Yes?

REVEREND MOTHER
Forced spice evolution of humans changes many things.... I must sit close to him.

EMPEROR
He will not permit anyone but me to see him. You must be outside this room.... Do what you can.

REVEREND MOTHER
I am your Truthsayer, my lord...
(sensing something outside the room)
He is here, my lord.

Under the carved inscription "Law is the Ultimate Science", the doors to the Emperor's chambers slide open and FIFTY GUILDSMEN wheel in a forty-foot long giant black box. One of the Guildsmen addresses the Emperor through a translating device.

TANKED GUILDSMEN #1
The Bene Gesserit witch must leave.

--

The Emperor looks to the Reverend Mother.

EMPEROR
Leave us.

REVEREND MOTHER
Yes, my Lord.

EMPEROR
(after she has gone)
We are alone...

8. INT. HALLWAY - EMPEROR'S PALACE - NIGHT

The Reverend Mother enters through doors and takes a seat on a chair just outside the door. She closes her eyes.

9. INT. THRONE ROOM - EMPEROR'S PALACE - NIGHT

Inside the Emperor's chamber, the TANK-SUITED GUILDSMEN are arranging themselves in a "V" formation around the box. Suddenly the box opens, slowly and beautifully revealing a huge, thick glass tank. Inside the tank floats a THIRD STAGE NAVIGATOR twenty feet long, much like a cross between a pasty, pale human being and a fleshy grasshopper.

The tank is filled with swirling orange spice-gas, and Guildsmen continuously vacuum up the toxic chemical spills dripping from under the tank. Suddenly the Guild Navigator swims towards the Emperor. His head is enormous and fleshy, like a huge grasshopper head -- the eyes are totally deep blue. His voice is a high, fleshy whispering and an intricate electrical apparatus in the front of the tank translates into English and broadcasts it into the room.

NAVIGATOR

We have just folded space from Ix...

EMPEROR

(extremely nervous)

Yes?... How was your journey?

NAVIGATOR

(after a long pause)

Many machines on Ix... new machines.

EMPEROR

Oh yes?

--

NAVIGATOR

Better than those on Richesse.. You are transparent... I see many things... I see plans within plans.

EMPEROR

Is there a problem?... Usually there is a problem when one of you makes a visit.

No answer.

NAVIGATOR

(finally)

The answer is within the problem...

10. INT. HALLWAY - EMPEROR'S PALACE - NIGHT

Outside the Emperor's chamber the Reverend Mother sits, her eyes closed, straining.

11. INT. THRONE ROOM - EMPEROR'S PALACE - REVEREND
MOTHER'S MENTAL IMAGE - NIGHT

A very blurred scene of the Emperor with the Guild Navigator. She is not getting the English version but a much different language version which is fascinating to listen to. A lilting, sing-song monologue.

12. INT. THRONE ROOM - EMPEROR'S PALACE - NIGHT

NAVIGATOR

I see two Great Houses -- House Atreides, House Harkonnen -- feuding... I see you behind it.

EMPEROR

Yes.

The Navigator breathes the spice-gas heavily and swishes gently in his tank.

NAVIGATOR

You must share with us.

--

EMPEROR

The Atreides house is building a secret army!... using a technique unknown to us... a technique involving sound. The Duke is becoming more popular in the Landsraad... he could threaten me.... I have ordered House Atreides to occupy Arrakis to mine the spice... thus replacing their enemies the Harkonnens....
House Atreides will not refuse because of the tremendous power they think they will gain. Then, at an appointed time Baron Harkonnen will return to Arrakis and launch a sneak attack on House Atreides...
I have promised the Baron five legions of my Sardaukar terror troops.

NAVIGATOR

So the Harkonnens will rid you of House
Atreides...

EMPEROR

Yes.

13. INT. HALLWAY - EMPEROR'S PALACE - NIGHT

Outside, the Reverend Mother is seeing the scene mentally. She suddenly sees and flinches.

14. INT. THRONE ROOM - EMPEROR'S PALACE - REVEREND MOTHER'S MENTAL IMAGE - NIGHT

The Guild Navigator turns toward her and comes very close to her. We hear the Navigator speak to her.

NAVIGATOR
(to Reverend Mother, mentally)
Reverend Mother... I will give you the Tleilaxu Path.

REVEREND MOTHER (V.O.)
(an excited whisper)
A chance for escape? But for whom?

15. INT. THRONE ROOM - EMPEROR'S PALACE - NIGHT

EMPEROR
Can you hear me?... If this visit has anything to do with spice...

--

The Guild Navigator shudders and swishes quite violently in his tank.

NAVIGATOR
LISTEN TO ME!! The spice must flow... the spice has given me accelerated evolution for four thousand years... it has enabled you to live two hundred years... the spice helps make the sapho juice, which gives the red-lipped mentats the ability to be living computers... the secret side of spice... the water of life.

16. INT. HALLWAY - EMPEROR'S PALACE - NIGHT

REVEREND MOTHER (V.O.)
He shouldn't speak of this...

15. BACK TO SCENE

NAVIGATOR
...gives the Bene Gesserit sisterhood the metaphysical ability to see beyond...to have superior powers... Our power to fold space is in the spice... Without us, your empire would be lost on isolated scattered planets... You would be lost.

EMPEROR
I can assure you...

NAVIGATOR
Do not interrupt!!! Do not speak lightly of the spice... ONE SMALL POINT...

16. BACK TO SCENE

REVEREND MOTHER (V.O.)
Here it comes...

17. INT. THRONE ROOM - EMPEROR'S PALACE - NIGHT

NAVIGATOR

We ourselves... foresee a slight problem within House Atreides.... Paul.... Paul Atreides.

EMPEROR

You mean, of course, Duke Leto Atreides... his father.

--

Page missing

--

24. EXT. CASTLE CALADAN - NIGHT

High on the rock cliff stands Castle Caladan, Its appearance us dark and medieval. There is a window on the seaward wall lit from within...

25. INT. TRAINING ROOM - CASTLE CALADAN - NIGHT

...by a drifting glowglobe. Paul sits at an L-shaped table studying filmbooks and maps of Arrakis and the Universe.

25A. INSERT - FILMBOOK

We SEE vast star fields and galaxies.

25. BACK TO SCENE

PAUL

(whispering)

Here we are now... nineteen light years beyond...

25A. INSERT - FILMBOOK

We SEE the galaxies move as we HEAR a HUM.

PAUL (V.O.)

(whispering)

... beyond Epsilon Alangue... is Arrakis.

We HOLD on this, then we see Arrakis grow larger in the filmbook screen and we SEE it is a planet of vast deserts.

25. BACK TO SCENE

PAUL

(whispering again)

It does look dry....

25A. INSERT - FILMBOOK

The picture grows larger again, and we see the Arrakeen Valley.

--

FILMBOOK (V.O.)

Each day the palms along the outer wall of the Palace at Arrakeen consume enough water to sustain the lives of one hundred men. The palms were placed by the Harkonnens to flaunt their water wealth in front of the city Fremmen.

25. BACK TO SCENE

PAUL

Where are the Harkonnens from here?

25A. INSERT - FILMBOOK

The star fields and galaxies move slightly then.

PAUL (V.O.)

(whispering)

There!... Geidi Prime and the Baron Harkonnen... the enemy.

25. BACK TO SCENE

In the background, FOOTSTEPS grow louder, pounding on thick wooden floors. THUFIR HAWAT, GURNEY HALLECK and DR. YUEH enter. Paul has his back to the door. Thufir suddenly looks perturbed when he notices this.

PAUL

(without turning)

I know, Thufir, I'm sitting with my back to the door.

Hawat suppresses a smile.

PAUL (CONT'D)

I heard you, Dr. Yueh and Gurney coming down the hall.

THUFIR

Those sounds could be imitated.

PAUL

I'd know the difference.

Paul rises and turns to face them.

--

THUFIR

(inner voice)

Yes. Perhaps he would at that.

PAUL

My father sent you to test me. Music then?

Thufir scowls.

GURNEY

No music. I'm packing this for the crossing. Shield practice.

PAUL

Shield practice? Gurney... we had practice -- this morning..... I'm not in the mood.

GURNEY

(angered)

Not in the mood?! Mood's a thing for cattle and love play... not fighting.

PAUL

I'm sorry Gurney.

GURNEY

Not sorry enough.

Gurney draws his knife.

25B. SHIELD EFFECT - THE FIGHT

Gurney activates his body shield, sending a shimmering FORCE FIELD around his body. He advances swiftly toward Paul. Paul snaps on his FORCE FIELD, draws his knife and jumps back, collecting himself hurriedly for the fight.

GURNEY

(his voice sounding strange through the forcefield)

Guard yourself for true!

Gurney leaps high, then forward, pressing a furious attack. Paul falls back. The shield edges CRACK loudly as they touch each other.

PAUL

(inner voice)

What's gotten into Gurney? He's not faking.

Paul presses forward and the fight moves quickly around the room. The smell of ozone grows stronger as the shields hit and SPARK off one another. Paul directs a parry downwards, turns, and leads Gurney against the table, plunging at just the right moment to pin Gurney against the table top with his blade right at Gurney's neck.

PAUL

(strange shielded voice)

Is this what you seek?

GURNEY

(strange shielded voice)

Good... the slow blade penetrates the shield... but look down.

Paul looks and sees Gurney's blade at his groin.

GURNEY (CONT'D)
We'd have joined each other in death.
However, you did seem to finally get the "mood".

PAUL
Would you really have drawn my blood?

GURNEY
If you'd fought one whit below your abilities I'd have scratched you a good one.

Paul stands and snaps off his shield as does Gurney.

25. BACK TO SCENE

PAUL
Things have been so serious here lately.

GURNEY
Yes. I sensed the play in you lad, but this can no longer be play. Tomorrow we leave for Arrakis! Arrakis is real. The Harkonnens are real.

Thufir, Yueh, Gurney and Paul stare at each other for a moment in silence. Dr. Yueh moves forward and begins to take Paul's pulse rate and to collect other data with a small black machine.

PAUL
Dr. Yueh, do you have any information on the worms of Arrakis?

--

DR. YUEH
I have obtained a filmbook on a small specimen... only 125 meters long.

PAUL Only?!

They smile at each other.

DR. YUEH
There are have been documented sightings of worms as large as 450 meters in the deep desert -- far from where we'll be in Arakeen.... The desert belt and the south polar regions are marked forbidden.... Why?

PAUL

The storms and the worms. Is it true, that the sand can blow at seven hundred kilometers per hour?

YUEH

It can render flesh to dust in minutes.
And these dry winds can generate tremendous static electricity in the atmosphere. Our body shields won't have enough power to operate in the open air on Arrakis.

PAUL

Well, how do the Fremmen survive there?

YUEH

We don't know much about the Fremmen...
They live in the deep desert... some of them in the cities and they have blue-within-blue eyes...

PAUL

(smiling)

The eyes -- yes, yes... saturation of the blood by the spice -- melange. Could the spice affect us in other ways?

THUFIR

Many dangers exist on Arrakis. For one, we know the Harkonnens would not have given up their CHOAM company contract so easily.

PAUL

(rising)

The Harkonnens are our enemies, yes... but behind them, I suspect, is the Emperor.

--

THUFIR

You will make a formidable Duke!

Paul bows.

THUFIR (CONT'D)

Now remember... the first step in avoiding a trap is knowing of its existence.

PAUL

I know. But if it is a trap then why are we going?

THUFIR

We have our new army.

(in the same breath)

Dr. Yueh, put the weirding module on him.

Thufir, noticing a SQUAD OF GUARDS at the other end of the training room, calls out to them.

THUFIR (CONT'D)
Clear and lock the room.

Gurney activates a series of locks. LIGHTS GLOWS above each doorway.

THUFIR (CONT'D)
Activate a fighter.

25C. ROBOT FIGHT

Suddenly a FIGHTER ROBOT lowers from the ceiling.
As the robot begins to rotate and go through several frightening, complicated movements, Dr. Yueh places a plastic device around Paul's neck. He tightens it around the Adam's apple above Paul's voice box.
Paul turns and emits a very strange, powerful sound through the weirding module as he rushes towards the robot.

GURNEY
(to Yueh)
Precise control....

26. INT. HALLWAY - CASTLE CALADAN - NIGHT

The hallway is empty in the foreground but in the distance a changing of the guard is seen.

--

26A. through 26B. (Deleted)

27. INT. HALLWAY - CASTLE CALADAN - NIGHT

Paul walks down the stairway. In the distance, moving troops are packing Atreides belongings.
Beyond, Paul sees some troops carrying a large bull's head. The horns are covered with dried blood.

PAUL
The bull that killed my grandfather... is this an evil omen?

Suddenly, DUNCAN IDAHO appears from behind the giant black head.

PAUL
(happily)
Duncan!

DUNCAN
Paul.
(they shake hands)
I was on my way to say goodbye to you. I have to go on ahead.

PAUL
Why? I wish you were coming with us.

DUNCAN
It's something for your father. He wants to talk to you.

(places hand on Paul's chest)
I'll see you in Arrakis. May the hand of God be with you.

PAUL
May the hand of God be with us all,
Duncan.

28. EXT. CLIFF WALL - CASTLE CALADAN - NIGHT

Paul walks to meet his father near the wall.

PAUL (diffident)
Father.

DUKE LETO
Thank you for joining me, Paul.
(voice tired)
It will be good to get to our new home and have all this upset behind us.

--

28A. (Deleted)

28B. DUKE LETO AND PAUL AGAINST SEA

They look out over the sea. A huge wave crashes below.

The Duke turns to Paul.

DUKE LETO (CONT'D)
(inner voice)
My son.
(out loud)
Thufir Hawat has served House Atreides three generations.... He swears you are the finest student he's ever taught.
Yueh, Gurney and Duncan say the same....
It makes me feel very proud...

PAUL
I want you to be proud of me.

Paul smiles up at his father. The WIND blows the Duke's hair and behind him stands the castle and the green and black Atreides banner against the night sky beyond. The RAIN starts again -- lightly. Paul takes a closer look at the Atreides banner moving in the wind.

DUKE LETO
(studying the dark sea below)
I'll miss the sea... but a person needs new experiences... they jar something deep inside, allowing him to grow. Without change, something sleeps inside us... and seldom awakens... The sleeper must awaken.

Paul's attention goes to his father's hand where he sees the Duke's signet ring. Again he smiles at his father.

FADE TO:

29. through 29A. (Deleted)

30. INT. PAUL'S ROOM - CASTLE CALADAN - NIGHT

Paul is sweating during his sleep and WHISPERS as if struggling with some disturbing thought.

--

PAUL
Arrakis... Dune... Desert
Planet...Arrakis... Desert Planet... moving... moving.

31. DARK WATER - MENTAL IMAGE

We see Paul's dream. It is very dark.

PAUL (V.O.)
Arrakis... Dune... Desert Planet.

Suddenly a drop falls into the black, and white hot widening rings appear on the dark water's surface.

Darkness again. Two moons rise in the darkness. As the second appears:

VOICE
The second moon, your moon...

31A. INT. RESERVOIR - SIETCH TABR - NIGHT

Dark again. A figure turns toward Paul. It is a BEAUTIFUL GIRL in deep shadow. She speaks.

BEAUTIFUL GIRL
Tell me of your homeworld, Usul.

32. INT. PAUL'S ROOM - CASTLE CALADAN - NIGHT

CU Paul's face in fitful sleep.

33. EXT. COURTYARD - CASTLE CALADAN - NIGHT

In a small stone courtyard, the back-lit figure of a woman moves towards us through the heavy RAIN and darkness. As she nears us, the large, protective glowglobe overtakes her and in an instant we see a beautiful woman -- JESSICA.

JESSICA

(inner voice)

I know she has come to test him... no man has ever been tested with the box... only Bene Gesserit women. I may lose my son.

The doors open, she meets the Reverend Mother Gaius Helen Mohiam (the Emperor's truthsayer) and takes her back toward the Castle. The rain rushes loudly into the storm drains.

--

34. INT. PAUL'S ROOM - CASTLE CALADAN - NIGHT

PAUL

(whispering again)

Arrakis... Dune... Desert planet...
moving... moving.

CU Paul's face.

Paul's eyes snap open. He hears footsteps outside his door. As the door opens he closes his eyes, however, and he pretends to be asleep. Jessica and the Reverend Mother enter and stand in the doorway looking at him.

REVEREND MOTHER

We'll salvage what we can... but I can tell you.. dear God... for the father...
nothing.

Jessica turns to the Reverend Mother, stunned! She turns back to look at Paul. Her hands tremble.

REVEREND MOTHER (CONT'D)

Did you really think that you could bear the Kwisatz Haderach?... How dare you!

REVEREND MOTHER

My greatest student... and my greatest disappointment.... He's awake!... He's listening to us.

(considering)

Good... Ready yourself, young Paul Atreides... I want to see you in your mother's chamber in one quarter of an hour.

She turns and walks away. Jessica remains at the door and calls out to Paul in the darkness.

JESSICA

Paul?... This is very important...

Jessica leaves, closing the door behind her. Paul sits up in bed.

PAUL
Kwisatz Haderach?... For the father...
nothing?

35. INT. JESSICA'S CHAMBER - CASTLE CALADAN - NIGHT

Jessica and the Reverend Mother enter. It is quite dark. Jessica WHISPERS a code number and a glowglobe LIGHTS on a very dim setting.

--

REVEREND MOTHER
(angrily)
Jessica... You were told to bear only daughters to the Atreides... Jessica!

JESSICA
It meant so much to him...

REVEREND MOTHER
You thought only of a Duke's desire for a son?... Desires don't figure in this! An Atreides daughter could have been wed to a Harkonnen heir and sealed the breach. We may lose both blood lines now.

JESSICA
I vowed never to regret my decision. I'll pay for my own mistakes.

REVEREND MOTHER
And your son will pay with you.

42. INT. DUKE LETO'S QUARTERS - CASTLE CALADAN - NIGHT

Under a dim glowglobe, the DUKE is writing a note on a scroll-like piece of paper.

Finishing reading, the Duke seals the message in a cylinder and presses his signet ring, with a red hawk symbol of House of Atreides, into a hole, which seals the cylinder with a swift HISSING.

He pauses, studying the metal tube. With a VOICE COMMAND, he extinguishes the glowglobe above him. He leans back in his chair as lightning flashes outside the window.

FADE TO:

35. BACK TO SCENE

Paul enters the room and Jessica closes the door behind them.

JESSICA
Paul, this is the Reverend Mother Gaius Helen Mohiam. She is going to... observe you...

(to Reverend Mother)
Please...

--

REVEREND MOTHER
Jessica, you know it must be done. I enjoin you to stand guard at the door and practice the meditation of peace.

JESSICA
Your Reverence.

PAUL
(inner voice)
What does she fear?
(out loud)
What about my Father?

JESSICA
Paul... please, Paul... listen to the Reverend Mother and do what she tells you.

Jessica leaves the room. The Reverend Mother speaks to Paul using The Voice, a Bene Gesserit training which permits an adept to control others merely by selected tone shadings of the voice. It sounds as if two people are talking -- one normal and the other guttural and slightly electronic. The effect is strange, yet subtle.

REVEREND MOTHER
(using The Voice)
Now you come here.

Paul finds he cannot help but obey her, yet he fights her controlling him.

PAUL
(inner voice)
She's using The Voice.
(out loud)
No.

She sees him struggling.

REVEREND MOTHER
(inner voice)
Some strength there. Surprising!
(out loud)
Come here.

The Reverend Mother holds up a green metal cube.

REVEREND MOTHER (CONT'D)
See this... Put your right hand in the box.

Paul stares at the hole in the box.

--

PAUL
What's in the box?

REVEREND MOTHER
Pain.

Just then, she raises one hand to his neck. Paul sees a glint of metal. He tries to back away.

REVEREND MOTHER (CONT'D)
(The Voice)
STOP! Put your hand in the box.

Paul's hand goes in. Fear passes over his face.

PAUL
(inner voice)
The Voice again.

REVEREND MOTHER
I hold at your neck the gom jabbar. Don't pull away or you'll feel that poison. A Duke's son must know about many poisons -- this one kills only animals.

PAUL
Are you suggesting a Duke's son is an animal?

REVEREND MOTHER
Let us say I suggest you may be human.
Your awareness may be powerful enough to control your instincts. Your instincts will be to remove your hand from the box.
If you do so you will die. You will feel an itching -- there... see? Now the itching becomes burning... heat, upon heat, upon heat.

PAUL
(whispering)
It burns.

REVEREND MOTHER
SILENCE... SILENCE.

PAUL (inner voice)(struggling to compose himself)
I must not fear. Fear is the mind-killer.
Fear is the little death that brings total obliteration. I will face my fear... I will permit it to pass over me and through me.

--

The Reverend Mother moves her face up to his. Her ancient face with its metal teeth gleaming inches away breathes hotly. She is smiling.

REVEREND MOTHER
You feel the flesh crisping?

36. THE HAND - PAUL'S MENTAL IMAGE

Paul's inner mind sees his hand on fire with all sorts of sores. The skin is bubbling.

37. INT. JESSICA'S CHAMBER - CASTLE CALADAN - NIGHT

REVEREND MOTHER
Flesh dropping off.

38. THE HAND - PAUL'S MENTAL IMAGE

He pictures this. The destruction of his hand is complete -- now only blood spurts out and burns.

39. INT. JESSICA'S CHAMBER - CASTLE CALADAN - NIGHT

Paul's face registers extreme pain.

PAUL
(cannot help the explosion)
THE PAIN!

REVEREND MOTHER
NO!! ENOUGH!! Kull wahad! No woman child ever withstood that much. I must have wanted you to fail. Take your hand out of the box and look at it, young human.... Do it!

Paul pulls his hand out of the box. No sign of anything wrong. He turns his hand, flexes his fingers. He looks to the Reverend Mother.

REVEREND MOTHER (CONT'D)
(explaining)
Pain by nerve induction... A human can resist any pain. Our test is crisis and observation.

PAUL
I see the truth of it.

--

REVEREND MOTHER
(inner voice)
Could he be the one?... Maybe... but will he be ours to control?
(out loud)
You know when people speak the truth?

PAUL
I know it.

Suddenly the Reverend Mother holds her hand against Paul's head. She closes her eyes.

40. INT. RESERVOIR - SIETCH TABR - NIGHT - REVEREND MOTHER'S MENTAL IMAGE

She sees a blurred image of Paul's earlier dream.
She sees the beautiful girl turn. She hears a muffled voice say "Tell me of your homeworld, Usul".

41. INT. JESSICA'S CHAMBER - CASTLE CALADAN - NIGHT

REVEREND MOTHER

Your mother wants you to tell me about your dreams. I only want to know one thing.... Do they come true?

PAUL

Not all of them... I know which ones will.

REVEREND MOTHER

Perhaps you are the Kwisatz Haderach.

PAUL

What is it?

REVEREND MOTHER

(profoundly)

The person who can be many places at once... the one who bridges space and time.... He will look where we cannot.

PAUL

Where?

REVEREND MOTHER

Do you know of the Water of Life?... the Truthsayer drug?

PAUL

I have heard of it.

--

REVEREND MOTHER

It is very dangerous... very painful. The Bene Gesserit sisterhood drink it to see within.... There is a place terrifying to us... to women. It is said a man will come... the Kwisatz Haderach... he will go where we cannot... Many men have tried...

PAUL

Did they try and fail?

REVEREND MOTHER

They tried and died....
(she calls out loudly)
Jessica!

Jessica enters immediately and sees with great relief that Paul is still active.

REVEREND MOTHER

I sense your teachings in him. Ignore the regular order of training. His safety requires The Voice.

PAUL

I've heard enough of my safety... What about my father?... I heard you talking. You speak as if he was dead. Well, he isn't!

JESSICA

Paul!

She tries to hold him.

PAUL

Well he isn't... and he won't die... Tell me he won't die!

REVEREND MOTHER

What can be done has been done.

PAUL

MOTHER! Tell me!

The Reverend Mother covers herself and moves quickly to the door.

--

42A. Through 45. (Deleted)

46. EXT. GEIDI PRIME - DAY

HOME PLANET OF HOUSE HARKONNEN - As seen from space, the black planet as we saw it in Paul's filmbook.

47. EXT. GEIDI PRIME - DAY

The surface of the planet is a vast sea of black oil. A small cable car traverses high above the sea toward a gigantic black city in the shape of a rectangular box over 100 stories high. Before the city there are rows of huge black towering steel heads atop massive furnaces. SMOKE billows out of their mouths.

48. INT. CABLE CAR - GEIDI PRIME - DAY

Inside the cable car stands PITER. In one hand he holds the cylinder with DUKE Leto's ring imprint.

PITER

It is by will alone I set my mind in motion.

It is by the juice of Sapho that thoughts acquire speed -

The lips acquire stains -
The stains become a warning -
It is by will alone I set my mind in motion.

48A. INT. GREEN PORCELAIN ROOM - GEIDI PRIME

Somewhere in the interior of Geidi Prime, we are in a green porcelain room. Two large Harkonnen soldiers, using large hoses, are washing down the walls and floors of the room. WE MOVE DOWN into the water rushing along the floor towards troughs. Closer, WE SEE bits of flesh, hair, and blood.

49. EXT. GEIDI PRIME - DAY

The car zooms past gigantic faces, and the furnaces far below ROAR with tremendous power. The city now looms gigantic and overpowering -- millions of electrical cables stretch off the top into dark energy taps above the city.

--

50. INT. GEIDI PRIME - DAY

Inside the city the cable car passes into a huge inner chamber filled with open-topped lime green porcelain rooms with tremendous electrical lines criss-crossing above.

51. (Deleted)

52. INT. BARON'S ROOM - GEIDI PRIME - DAY

In front of a huge steam boiler, the cable car stops and Piter gets out, steps down steel stairs and enters a porcelain room where the Baron is being treated by a DOCTOR for sores on his face and body. The doctor uses a lasbeam on a big sore on the Baron's lips. The Baron is sickly and hugely fat and sweaty and looks like he has been sickly for some time. He turns to Piter as he enters the room.

PITER

My Lord!

BARON

Piter.

Piter moves up to the Baron.

PITER

The Atreides will be leaving Caladan soon, Baron, and I have here your answer from Duke Leto.

BARON

What does Leto say, Piter?

PITER

He wishes to inform you that Vendetta -- as he puts it, using the ancient tongue, the art of Kanly -- is still alive. He does not wish to meet or speak with you.

BARON

(swallowing; angry)

I made my peace gesture... the forms of Kanly have been obeyed.

He throws down the cylinder.

PITER

As you instructed me, I have enlightened your nephews concerning my plan t...

--

BARON

My plan!

PITER

The plan to crush the Atreides. Feyd, Rabban... go quietly... no other great house of the Landsraad must ever know of the Emperor's aid to the Baron. The entire Landsraad would turn against the Baron and the Emperor.

DOCTOR

Put the pick in there Pete
And turn it round real neat.

His assistant does so.

Rabban breaks open a squood (living food). The squood makes a tiny SCREAM, then Rabban drinks the blood and bodily fluids. He throws the empty container of tiny animal meat into the dark water trough running through the center of the room.
Across the room, TWO HARKONNEN SOLDIERS enter, holding big guns on a BOY who is wearing white pants. The Baron smiles when he sees the boy, who is deeply afraid. The guards force the boy to arrange violet flowers on a stand by the far wall opposite the Baron.

BARON

(as the Baron watches the boy)

You're so beautiful my Baron
Your skin, love to me
Your diseases lovingly cared for
For all eternity.

BARON

I will have Arrakis back for myself... he who controls the Spice, controls the universe... and what Piter didn't tell you is we have control of someone who is very close to Duke Leto. This person... this traitor... will be worth more to us than ten legions of Sardaukar.

FEYD

Who is the traitor?

BARON

(laughs)

I won't tell you who the traitor is or when we'll attack. However, the Duke will die before these eyes and he'll know that it is I -- Baron Vladimir Harkonnen -- who encompasses his doom.

--

The Baron gives a hand signal and seven gates in the wall open, emitting tremendous SOUNDS. Suddenly the Baron begins to float straight up, twenty-five feet in the air. It is a frightening sight. He floats down under the giant, humming electrical tube light and rubs his head and body with a black fluid which drips from tiny holes in either side of the pink glow. Feyd and Rabban watch nervously. The Attendants stand completely still with fear.

The Baron swoops down to the Boy, who stands petrified. The Harkonnen guards smile nervously as they step slightly backwards. The boy begins SCREAMING as the Baron pulls the boy's heart plug, located in his chest. The violet flowers are bumped and disarrayed by the violence which ensues. Then the Baron turns smiling to Feyd as the SOUNDS continue to roar.

52A. through 52B. (Deleted)

52C. EXT. ATREIDES SHIP - CALADAN - DAY

A DRUM CORPS pounds out a powerful cadence in front of a water and cannon show as the Duke, Paul and Jessica mount the steel stairs to their ship. In the doorway, they turn back for a final look.

The Duke places a hand on Paul's shoulder. We see the signet ring. Jessica is there. She tries to get Paul to look at her but he scowls and turns to his father.

JESSICA

(turning away)

(inner voice)

I must not fear. Fear is the mind-killer... the little death that brings total obliteration...

The door of the spaceship closes.

53. EXT. HEIGHLINER - SPACE

3,415 Atreides ships are approaching the Guild Heighliner, which is staggeringly colossal. The Atreides ships look like dots next to the sun. The Duke's ship enters the frame and moves toward the Heighliner.

53A. through 54. (Deleted)

--

55. INT. ATREIDES SHIP - SPACE

Paul, Jessica and Duke Leto look out the forward viewing glass as tiny lights move outside in the darkness. They hear and feel their ship stop with a huge, echoing, metallic jolt. They look at each other in the silence which follows.

DUKE LETO

Soon they'll begin to fold space.

PAUL

(inner voice)

Far off in the control rooms....

Travelling without moving.

They wait.

56. (Deleted)

57. INT. CONTROL ROOM - HEIGHLINER - SPACE

We pass through electrical shields into a 2,000-foot high control room filled with orange spice gas. On the floor are large gratings covering an exhaust and filtering system. Tons of spice gas are being converted into the clouds of gas along a wall of machinery. From within a dark metal tunnel comes a Guild Navigator. He exits the tunnel and swims through the gas 1,000 feet to a six-dimensional layered miniature replica of the entire Universe. The Navigator emits a long piece of light from his mouth which travels to one edge of the Universe and changes into a likeness of the planet Caladan. The Navigator turns and emits another piece of light which travels to the opposite side of the Universe. It changes into a likeness of Arrakis. The Navigator begins to put his slender fingers in amongst the stars and he emits SOUNDS and bursts of light into the mass of stars and galaxies. The Universe begins to vibrate and elongate, then to curve. Electrical lightening traverses from Caladan to Arrakis as the Universe bends into a U-shape. Arrakis submerges deep into the light. The navigator swims to the point where Arrakis disappeared. He begins to pull and tear a hole in the Universe. Stars like sparks and SOUNDS and rings of light appear, along with a roaring WIND. The Navigator swims deep into this hole through the rings of light. The Navigator becomes more and more transparent, until he's lost in darkness. The sounds fade.

--

58. through 60. (Deleted)

60A. EXT. HEIGHLINER - ABOVE ARRAKIS - SPACE

Suddenly, the real planet Arrakis appears and the giant Heighliner materializes above it.

61. through 63A. (Deleted)

63B. EXT. ARRAKEEN - DAY

Through a brownish-orange haze appears the dusty valley of Arrakeen.

64. INT./EXT. THE ATREIDES SHIP - DAY ARRAKEEN

The Atreides ship has landed at Arrakeen. The door is open - the family walk down the steps - DUKE LETO with his dog - PAUL and JESSICA.

64A. through 64C. (Deleted)

65. EXT. GROUNDS - ARRAKEEN PALACE - DAY

... clusters of troops standing at attention around the enormous dark, cool doorway as the Duke, Paul and Jessica enter the Palace.

65A. through 65B. (Deleted)

65C. EXT. PALACE - ARRAKEEN - DAY

The Atreides banner is raised on the top of the Palace.

66. (Deleted)

--

67. INT. MILITARY SUB-BASEMENT ROOM - ARRAKEEN PALACE - DAY

Atreides army soldiers milling, YELLING noisily.

68. INT. PASSAGEWAY - ARRAKEEN PALACE - DAY.

In a darkened passageway, fans turn, casting deep, slow-moving shadows. SOUNDS ECHO in the distance.

69. INT. COMMUNICATIONS ROOM - ARRAKEEN PALACE - DAY

A room of technicians and electronic gear. The SIGNALS are being heard and interpreted.

ATREIDES TECHNICIAN

Harkonnens.

70. EXT. BLACK ROCK - ARRAKEEN - DAY

Far in the distance in deep black rock, Harkonnen spies move, carrying strange electronic equipment.

71. (Deleted)

72. INT. PASSAGEWAY - ARRAKEEN PALACE - DAY

Thufir marches down a hallway with a squad of TROOPS with electronic gadgetry, LIGHTS and SOUNDS going constantly.

THUFIR
(into a radio microphone)
Why isn't the shield up yet?

73. INT. GENERATOR ROOM - ARRAKEEN PALACE - DAY

Down in the basement, Atreides engineers are removing a complicated device from heavy machinery. A MAN radios back to Thufir.

ATREIDES RADIO MAN
We found and removed another sabotage device. I think it will go up now.

--

The engineers activate a series of atometric Holtzman generators. Suddenly SOUNDS begin. The machines start; at first low, then they WHINE upwards to a high pitch. When the pitch is steady, a series of levers are pulled.

74. EXT. PALACE - ARRAKEEN - DAY

Just after the second set of levers is pulled, a huge house shield is seen going up in a box shape, encompassing the Palace with SHIMMERING protection.

75. EXT. WINDOW - ARRAKEEN PALACE - DAY

From a small window, Thufir observes the shield with a critical eye.

THUFIR
(inner voice; worried)
We found these sabotage devices too easily...

76. INT. GREAT HALL - ARRAKEEN PALACE - DAY

Two giant glowglobes drift into the Great Hall where Jessica and Dr. Yueh stand watching a giant bull's head is being hung above the massive fireplace. The MOVING TROOPS are unpacking crates and organizing furnishings. Jessica watches them. Distant SOUNDS reverberate inside an elaborate air vent beside them.

DR. YUEH

Listen here.... You can here the people of Arrakeen outside.... Can you here the cry "Soo Soo Sook" of the water sellers?

JESSICA

So many reminders of the scarcity of water.

DR. YUEH

Have you noticed the line of palms along the wall... the Harkonnen put them in... to flaunt their water wealth in front of these people.... Each day those palms take enough water to sustain the life of one hundred men.

JESSICA

The way you say Harkonnen... I didn't know you had so much reason to hate them.

DR. YUEH

(swiftly)

My wife... you didn't know my wife... they...

--

JESSICA

(out loud)

Forgive me...

(inner voice)

... His wife was Bene Gesserit too... the signs are al over him.... They must have killed here.

Jessica sees a droplet of sweat break out on Yueh's cheek.

DR. YUEH

I'm sorry I'm unable to talk about it.

Above them a series of iron curtains begins to open over deep rock window slots, sending narrow shafts of light down across the room. TWO ATREIDES WOMEN in uniform approach.

ATREIDES WOMAN #1

(referring to several robed figures standing in the room)

My lady... the local people... the maids and servants await your inspection. Hawat has cleared them.

Dr. Yueh turns to Jessica.

DR. YUEH

The Harkonnens may have tampered medically.... please wait.

He turns a yellow light on and moves it over the crowd. The yellow light beam plays over the blue-within-blue eyes. One of the women, the Shadout Mapes, watches Jessica continuously. Yueh's hand shakes slightly.

JESSICA

(inner voice; noticing Yueh's hands)
He's hiding something -- holding something back.

(She studies his face closely.)
It's not just his wife... He's a good man though. He's probably trying to save my feelings...

(We see her mouth.)
I could use The Voice... make him tell me... It would only shame him.

(We see her eyes.)
I must place more trust in my friends.
(We see Yueh turn toward her, fearful.)

--

77. INT. PASSAGEWAY - ARRAKEEN PALACE - DAY

Paul wanders through the darkened passageways alone, his footsteps echoing as he goes. He takes pleasure observing the details of the rock Palace but all the while he feels an uneasiness -- a feeling of fear builds in him.

78. INT. PAUL'S BEDROOM - ARRAKEEN PALACE - DAY

Paul enters a small bedroom and sits down on the bed. He opens the filmbook, and activates it.

78A. INSERT - FILMBOOK

We SEE a gigantic carryall lower down above a spice harvester and pick it up off the desert floor as a narrator speaks over.

NARRATOR (V.O.)

One carryall handles four spice mining teams; however, it will fly only two harvesters at a time. Today, we have nine hundred and thirty harvesters and nine hundred and eighty-one carryalls....

78. BACK TO SCENE

Paul looks up. Across the room he sees a tray of small pastries which have been laid out. He goes to them and scans them with his poison detector, which he carries on his belt. A pleasant tone SOUNDS and the word "safe" appears in green light. Paul takes a pastry bites it and turns back towards the bed.

Suddenly he stops. He looks at the pastry.

PAUL
(inner voice)
Spice...

As he continues eating he notices the sunlight through the slates over the window begins to GLOW white hot. Paul's eyes are intense as the light GLOWS brilliantly.

PAUL (CONT'D)
(whispering inner voice)
Terrible purpose.... What is it?

78B. INSERT - RED DROPLETS

Some red droplets appear rushing through the white light. Three images follow:

MENTAL IMAGES:

79. INT. CONTROL ROOM - EMPEROR'S PALACE - DAY

A blurred Guild Navigator.

--
Page Missing
--

SHADOUT MAPES
I am the Shadout Mapes... the housekeeper.

PAUL
A Fremmen... Could she be the operator?
No...

SHADOUT MAPES
I must cleanse the way between us.... You saved my life... and we Fremmen pay our debts. It's known to us that you've a traitor in your midst. Who it is we cannot say but we're certain of it.

PAUL
(inner voice)
A traitor...

Before he can speak the Shadout Mapes is gone -- running off down the passageway. Jessica enters.

PAUL (CONT'D)
(looks to Jessica)
There is a traitor among us.

80A. (Deleted)

81. INT. PASSAGEWAY - ARRAKEEN PALACE - DAY

Running TROOPS storm down the hallway with electronic gear and big stun guns.

--

82. INT. PASSAGEWAY - ARRAKEEN PALACE - DAY

Thufir walks quickly toward SEVERAL TROOPS.

THUFIR

Set up a sonar probe immediately!

83. INT. AUTOPSY ROOM - ARRAKEEN PALACE - DAY

Dr. Yueh sticks his head out the doorway as SEVERAL TROOPERS run past.

84. INT. OBSERVATION ROOM - ARRAKEEN PALACE - DAY

Duke Leto is calling on a radio phone. GENERALS surround him, as well as Gurney.

DUKE LETO

(on phone)

Thufir?... anything?... keep looking.

(Inner voice)

...and a traitor... God help us.

85. INT. SUB-SUB-SUB-BASEMENT - ARRAKEEN PALACE - DAY

TROOPS come off an elevator. The glow-span indicates the very bottom floor of 18 sub-floors. The ground is uneven rock and the ceiling is low. The troops fan out shining chemical lamps here and there. A soldier suddenly stops. Ahead in his light is a dead Harkonnen -- bloody vomit dried around his mouth. He lies beside an electronic device.

86. INT. AUTOPSY ROOM - ARRAKEEN PALACE - DAY

Dr. Yueh covers his face with his hands in a darkened room... sobbing.

86A. EXT. WALL - ARRAKEEN PALACE - NIGHT

SEARCHLIGHTS sweep over the faces of City Fremmen who are sitting or moving solemnly around the outer wall of the Palace. Some are chanting "Mahdi" and "Lisan al-Gaib." Others hold up one open hand as a sign they feel the messiah is near. A slow-moving spike-backed dog sucks ants up out of a small anthill; he snorts.

86B. INT. GREAT HALL - ARRAKEEN PALACE - NIGHT

In the darkened Hall we can HEAR the distant sound of the Fremmen reverberating.

--

87. INT. OBSERVATION ROOM - ARRAKEEN PALACE - DAY

Duke Leto sits with Paul, Thufir, EIGHT GENERALS and SIX SUB-LIEUTENANTS. The Duke's small dog wanders under the table and rests his head on the Duke's boot. In front of Thufir is a device FLASHING brilliant light bursts over his face. The others are all talking among themselves. Suddenly Thufir's face turns brilliant red (as red as his sapho-stained lips) and he begins speaking rapidly into the machine in code using a strained high voice.

--

THUFIR

(Mentat voice)

Sector 6 - 80 -- copy the sixth -- the summit -- the eight the quadrant over the ninth plus eighty -- four circles -- weave the eighty and call the fourth copy -- enter nine -- seven by seven a seven the seven call seven B seven -- enter the circles call the sixth copy the sixth over the summit.... eight.

The machine FLASHES several bright irregular SIGNALS. Then it stops and HUMS. The blood leaves Thufir's face.

THUFIR (CONT'D)

(very fast and casually)

Eight.... Thufir Hawat... Mentat... Master of Assassins.

The hum stops. Thufir turns to Duke Leto. He looks up. Everyone is quiet now.

THUFIR (CONT'D)

The Palace is now secure. The city of Arrakeen is under martial law... we have troops here headquartered underground on sub-floors six through ten. The rest of the troops are stationed in Arrakeen and we have some on the airfield. Our new army is still training, but everything is shielded.... With the shielding, we are impenetrable. Dr. Kynes is waiting, Sire, for your inspection of spice mining operations, but since the attempt of the young master, I am against your leaving the Palace.

DUKE LETO

(very angry)

The attempt failed... Harkonnen captives have already been taken. We must crush the Harkonnen machine on Arrakis.... You all know what to do.

(Turning towards Gurney)

...Gurney! We desperately need more spice miners... many are threatening to leave on the next shuttle. We need spice drivers, weather scanners, dune men ... any with open sand experience. You must persuade them to enlist with us.

--

GURNEY

They shall come all for violence: their faces shall sup as the east wind. And they shall gather the captivity of the sand.

DUKE LETO

(squints at Gurney)

Very moving, Gurney. On your way... and take care of Dr. Kynes until Paul and I arrive. We will not be prisoners here in this place.

GURNEY

(artfully easing the Duke's anger)

Behold as a wild ass in the desert go I forth to my work.

Gurney strides off. Thufir sits, contemplating. Paul and Duke Leto smile at each other and shake their heads.

88. INT. JESSICA'S CHAMBER - ARRAKEEN PALACE - DAY

Jessica is sitting in a small room, smiling, reading a note. It reads "I miss you. Leto." She sets the note down. She begins to tremble. She becomes fearful. In her mind she SEES quick images:

MENTAL IMAGES

89. INT. CONTROL ROOM - HEIGHLINER

A blurred Guild Navigator.

89A. INT. MAKER ROOM - SEITCH TABR - NIGHT

Paul dead on a stone floor.

89B. EXT. ARRAKEEN PALACE - NIGHT

Fire burning.

90. INT. JESSICA'S CHAMBER - ARRAKEEN PALACE - DAY

Jessica continues to tremble.

JESSICA

(inner voice)

I must speak with you Leto!

--

91. INT. PASSAGEWAY - ARRAKEEN PALACE - DAY

Outside in the passageway, feet suddenly move quietly toward the door to Jessica's room.

92. INT. JESSICA'S CHAMBER - ARRAKEEN PALACE - DAY

Jessica HEARS this and looks up just as the Shadout Mapes silently enters her room.

JESSICA
(staring at the blue-eyed woman -- waiting for possible danger.)
Yes?

SHADOUT MAPES
I am the Shadout Mapes, your housekeeper,
Noble Born. What are your orders.

JESSICA
You may refer to me as "my lady." I am not noble born. I'm the bound concubine of Duke Leto -- mother of the heir designate.... "Shadout"... that's an ancient word.

MAPES
(strangely asked)
You know the ancient tongues?

JESSICA
I know the Bhotani Jib and Chakobsa, all the hunting languages.

MAPES
As the legend says.

JESSICA
(inner voice)
That's it! The Missionaria Protectiva has been here planting protective legends against a day of Bene Gesserit need. And that day has come. I must play out this sham.
(out loud)
I know the Dark things and the way of the Great Mother. Miseces prejin.

Mapes takes a step backward to flee.

JESSICA (CONT'D)
I know many things. I know you came prepared for violence with a weapon in your bodice.

--

MAPES
My lady, I... the weapon was sent as a gift if you should prove to be the one.

JESSICA
And the means of my death should I prove otherwise.

(inner voice)
Now we will see which way the decision tips.

Slowly Mapes reaches into her dress and brings out a sheathed knife. She unleashes it.

MAPES
Do you know this my lady?

JESSICA
(inner voice)
It could only be one thing....
(out loud)
It's a crysknife.

MAPES
Say it not lightly...
(very slowly)
Do you know its meaning?

JESSICA
(inner voice)
Here is why this Fremmen has taken service with me, to ask that one question. Delay is as dangerous as the wrong answer.
Shadout is Chakobsa... knife, in Chakobsa is... maker of death.
(out loud)
It's a maker...

Mapes SCREAMS with elation and grief.

JESSICA (CONT'D)
(inner voice)
Maker?... Maker is the key word... the tooth of the worm? That was close...
(out loud)
Did you think that I, knowing the mysteries of the Great Mother, would not know the maker?

MAPES
My lady, when one has lived with prophecy for so long, the moment of revelation is a shock.

Mapes sheathes the blade... slowly

--

JESSICA
(inner voice)
There's more here... yes!
(out loud)
Mapes, you've sheathed that blade
unblooded.

With a GASP Mapes drops the knife into Jessica's hands and opens her blouse.

MAPES

Take the water of my life!

Jessica withdraws the knife from the sheath and, with the blade, scratches a line just above Mapes' right breast.

MAPES (CONT'D)

You are ours.... You are the one.

Jessica's eyes stare ahead. She knows these words ring with truth.

93. INT. TUNNEL - OBSERVATION ROOM - ARRAKEEN PALACE - DAY

The Duke, Paul and SEVERAL ARMED GUARDS enter a tunnel to a `thopter landing pad which is illuminated by a shaft of light coming from a chimney-like exit above. DR. KYNES and his Fremen guard are standing next to Gurney.

KYNES

(to Gurney)

So, this is Leto the Just...

GURNEY

(sharply)

I hope I made myself clear. You may call him "The Duke," "My lord," or "Sire." And there is a more ancient term you might keep in mind -- "Noble Born."

KYNES

(inner voice)

Play out your little comedy while you can off-worlders...

Gurney turns and activates a device...

93A. INSERT - ORNITHOPTER OPENING

...which causes the ornithopter behind to fold open ready for flight.

--

93B. INT. TUNNEL - OBSERVATION ROOM - ARRAKEEN PALACE - DAY

The two parties meet and are introduced.

DUKE LETO

So you are Dr. Kynes, the Imperial Ecologist?

KYNES

(turning to Gurney)

I prefer the more ancient term, planetologist... Noble Born.

DUKE LETO
This is my son, Paul.

PAUL
Are you a Fremmen?

KYNES
I am a servant of the His Majesty the Emperor. I have served His Majesty on Arrakis long enough for my eyes to change.

PAUL
(inner voice)
He's hiding something.

DUKE LETO
I understand we have you to thank for these stillsuits, Doctor.

KYNES
They are Fremmen suits. I hope they fit well, my lord.

PAUL
"Your gift is a blessing of the river."

Kynes' FREMMEN GUARDS, hearing this are siezed with agitation. Kynes QUIETS them, then studies Paul.

KYNES
(inner voice)
The Mahdi will greet you with holy words and your gifts will be a blessing.
(spoken, nonchalantly)
Most of the desert natives here are a superstitious lot. They mean no harm. With your permission, I will check the security of your suits.

Gurney and the guard move forward warily.

GURNEY
(angrily)
The Duke is to be addresses as...

--

Kynes comes forward and adjusts the Duke's suit, checking seals and pulling on straps.

KYNES Basically...

GURNEY
(leaping forward to protect his Duke)
Sire!

DUKE LETO
It's all right Gurney.

Gurney steps back.

GURNEY
Yes, Sire.

KYNES
It's a high-efficiency filter and heat exchange system. Perspiration passes through the first layer and is gathered in the second. The salt is separated. Breathing and walking provide the pumping action. The reclaimed water circulates to catchpockets from which you can drink through this tube at your neck. Urine and feces are processed in the thigh pads. Should you be in the open desert, remember to breathe in through your mouth, out through the nose tubes.

The Duke is now properly fitted. Kynes places the noseplug into his nose.

KYNES (CONT'D)
With a Fremmen suit in good working order, one can sustain life for weeks, even in the deep desert.

He removes the noseplug.

DUKE LETO
My thanks.

KYNES
With your permission...

Kynes turns to Paul, running his hands over the slick fabric. He stands back with a puzzled expression.

--

KYNES
You've worn a stillsuit before?

PAUL
No.

KYNES
Your suit is fitted desert fashion. Who told you how to do that?

PAUL
No one. It... seemed the proper way.

KYNES
That it is.
(inner voice)

He shall know your ways as if born to them.

Kyne's Fremmen guard are watching Paul very closely now.

GURNEY
We're wasting time, Sire.

Duke Leto, Dr. Kynes, Gurney and Paul enter the ornithopter...

88. Through 89B. (Deleted)

90. INT. JESSICA'S CHAMBER - ARRAKEEN PALACE - DAY
Jessica trembles.

JESSICA
(inner voice)
I must speak with you Leto!

91. Through 92. (Deleted)

93C. EXT. ATREIDES ORNITHOPTER - TUNNEL - ARRAKEEN PALACE
- DAY

...and the thopter turns slowly as it goes up into the light.

93D. (Deleted)

--

93E. EXT. ATREIDES ORNITHOPTER - DAY

From outside the Palace's atomic shield we see the blur of the ornithopter pass through a porthole and come out perfect like a gleaming jewel.

93F. Through 94. (Deleted)

94A. INT. ATREIDES ORNITHOPTER - DAY

KYNES
Southeast over the Shield Wall. That's where I told your sandmaster to concentrate his harvesting.

95. EXT. ATREIDES ORNITHOPTER - DAY

They crest the top of the wall which opens out into a black, level expanse of rock, cratered and fractured. On the other side is the huge, seemingly endless plain of sand, the Great Desert. In the hazy distance, flashes of light can be seen.

96. INT. ATREIDES ORNITHOPTER - DAY

PAUL

Will we see a worm?

KYNES

Where there is spice and spice mining there are always worms.

PAUL

Always?

KYNES

Always.

PAUL

Why do they come?

KYNES

To protect their territory. Vibrations attract them.

--

PAUL

(inner voice)

I've registered him now... a knife is a sheath on his left arm... He's strong... a person born to command... He's hiding many things.

(out loud, suddenly)

Is there a relationship between the worms and the spice?

Kynes turns instantly and stares at Paul. Gurney sees the wonder in Kynes' eyes.

GURNEY

The young master is a trained Mentat, an advanced student of Prana Bindu has studied under some of the finest teachers in the Universe.

Kynes takes a second look at young Paul.

KYNES

As I said... they defend the spice sands.
As to their relationship with the spice... who knows.

97. Through 97A. (Deleted)

98. INT. ATREIDES ORNITHOPTER - DAY

GURNEY

Dust cloud ahead, Sire.

KYNES

That's it... spice mining... no other cloud quite like it. See the spotters over it? They're watching for wormsign... the telltale sand waves. Seismic probes on the surface, too Sire... worms can travel too deep for their waves to show... Looks like a good patch of spice.

DUKE LETO
Wormsign? Is it wormsign?

--

KYNES
Yes!... worm. Big one! You've got sharp eyes Sire.... May I?

Kynes grabs the microphone and dials in the correct frequency.

98A. through 99. (Deleted)

100. INT. ATREIDES ORNITHOPTER

From the window, we see that the sand below is rippling, like water with a big fish just under the surface.

KYNES (into radio, after having found the frequency)
Calling Harvester Pad Nine. Wormsign!

STATIC... then a voice.

VOICE
(over radio)
Who calls Pad Nine?

GURNEY
(quickly)
Don't mention the Duke... This is an uncoded channel.

KYNES
Unlisted flight northeast of you... wormsign on intercept course... estimated contact fifteen minutes.

VOICE
(over radio)
Have sighting confirmed. Stand by for fix.
Contact in sixteen minutes minus. Very precise estimate. Who is on that unlisted flight?

Kynes clicks off the radio.

DUKE LETO
What happens now?

KYNES
The carryall will come and lift off the spice harvester. Try and get in close over the harvester... you'll find this interesting Sire.

--

The Duke accelerates the ornithopter in the direction of the harvester. Paul can SEE...

101. EXT. HARVESTER - DESERT - DAY

...huge amounts of sand being spewn out of the gigantic stack atop the metal and plasteel harvester.

102. INT. ATREIDES ORNITHOPTER - DAY

KYNES

They'll work until the very last minute.

The yellow cloud of the harvester envelops them. The Duke flies up to get a closer look.

VOICE

(over radio)

Spotter control... no sign of the carryall... it isn't answering.

Everyone looks at one another.

GURNEY

The worm is eight minutes away, Sire.

VOICE

(over radio)

Spotter control -- give me a report by the numbers.

Over the radio MANY VOICES report they have no contact with the carryall.

DUKE LETO

Damn it... Harkonnens.

He punches a control button and grabs a microphone.

DUKE LETO (CONT'D)

(into microphone)

We are coming down to take you off the harvester... All spotters are ordered to comply.

VOICE

(over radio)

Ordered by whom?

--

DUKE LETO

(angrily)

Duke Leto Atreides....

Gurney and Paul turn to each other, worried.

VOICE
(over radio)
Yes... yes, Sire!

DUKE LETO
How many men do you have?

VOICE
(over radio)
Full crew -- twenty-six men -- but Sire, we can't leave this spice...

DUKE LETO
Damn the spice! Get out of there.

103. EXT. HARVESTER - DESERT - DAY

All the spotters begin landing and the Duke descends directly in front of the harvester which has stopped mining yet emits a tremendous rhythmic GRINDING noise. No one is coming out.

104. INT./EXT. ATREIDES ORNITHOPTER/DESERT - DAY

Gurney nervously scans the sky for enemy ships. A very low, powerful SOUND starts now and the ground begins to shake.

105. EXT. HARVESTER - DESERT - DAY

A hatch opens and MEN come pouring out.

106. INT. ATREIDES ORNITHOPTER - DESERT - DAY

DUKE LETO
(yelling at the men)
Two men in each of the spotters... You!... over here... run!!

The ground is really shaking now. A tremendous low THUNDERING sound grows along with a high rasping HISS.

KYNES
(to Paul and Gurney -- yelling over the noise)
I can't see him yet but he's very close...

--

DUKE LETO
(out loud to himself as he watches the men scrambling)
Damn sloppy -- really damn sloppy.

FOUR MEN begin tumbling into the Duke's machine.

GURNEY
Come on boys... come on.
(Then, to the Duke)

We're going to be heavy, Sire.

The men press on Gurney and Paul. Paul can feel the fear. The sound is a horrible ROAR and deeper RUMBLING now and the `thopter is vibrating and shaking violently. The air suddenly begins to SPARK with static electricity.

KYNES

(nervous)

Here he is... We've got to go.

The Duke closes the doorways, surveys the area one last time, then takes the controls.

106A. INT. ATREIDES ORNITHOPTER - DAY

The ship strains and lifts off -- slowly.

Paul sees the brown powder clumped on the suits of the men... their bluish eyes. He smells the spice. He begins to feel its affect.

PAUL

(inner voice as a blinding light comes and goes)

Spice!... pure un-refined spice!

KYNES

(murmuring)

Bless the Maker and his water... Bless the coming and going of him. May his passage cleanse the world.

DUKE LETO

(yelling)

What's that you're saying?

KYNES

Nothing.

A spice miner turns and sees Kynes, who remains silent.

--

SPICE MINER #1

(astonished)

Liet!

SPICE MINER #2

Shhhhh.

Paul hears this, then looks to Kynes -- locks on his image.

PAUL

(inner voice)

Liet?

KYNES
(pointing down and yelling)
You are about to witness something few have seen -- watch! Watch!

Paul looks down as the Duke banks over the harvester.

107. EXT. HARVESTER - DESERT - DAY

Static electricity is IGNITING in the air and the sand is swirling around the harvester. Then they see it. A wide hole emerges from the sand, glistening spokes within it. The hole is twice the size of the harvester. Suddenly the machine turns and slides into the hole, parts of it EXPLODING. The SOUND is deafening. The Duke's ship is WHINING to stay aloft.

108. INT. ATREIDES ORNITHOPTER - DAY

GURNEY
Gods, what a monster.

DUKE LETO
Someone is going to pay for this... I promise.

KYNES (inner voice -- as he studies the Duke)
This Duke is more concerned over his men than the spice! I must admit... against all better judgement... I like this Duke.

FADE TO:

109. through 113B. (Deleted)

--

114. INT. OBSERVATION ROOM - ARRAKEEN PALACE - NIGHT

Duke Leto walks into the room. The NIGHT GUARD comes to attention as he passes. DUNCAN IDAHO, wearing a dark, dusty stillsuit, emerges from the shadows. DUKE LETO and DUNCAN meet at the foot of the steps. The men embrace and separate.

DUKE LETO
(happily)
Duncan! What have you discovered about the Fremmen, Duncan -- tell me. Why haven't we heard from you?

DUNCAN
My lord... I suspect so much. I think they are the allies we seek... they are strong and fierce... they do not give their loyalty easily or quickly.... As you know, the Imperium has never been able to take a census of the Fremen. Everyone thinks that there are but few -- wandering here and there in the desert.... My lord, I suspect an incredible secret has been kept on this planet... that the Fremen exist in vast numbers... vast numbers... and it is they that control Arrakis.

115. through 116. (Deleted)

116A. NEW SCENE - SHADOUT MAPES ALONG PASSAGE

117. INT. PAUL'S SUB-BASEMENT ROOM - ARRAKEEN PALACE - NIGHT

DUKE LETO'S VOICE
Guard. Open the door.

Paul is in a fitful sleep. Leto enters and smiles at his son.

DUKE LETO
Sleep well... my son.

The Duke smiles at Paul then leaves the room, but after he goes, Paul strains with all his might to lift himself to call out.

PAUL
(struggling painfully)
Father!... father... drugged...

--

122. INT. BARON'S QUARTERS - HARKONNEN SHIP - NIGHT

The BARON's face -- expressionless. The SOUND of his ship screams in the background. The DOCTOR is seated beside him.

118 INT. SUB-BASEMENT PASSAGEWAY - ARRAKEEN PALACE - NIGHT

The Duke walks down the steps to a very narrow passageway. The passageway becomes very dark.

Suddenly the Duke hears a strange MEWLING sound. He turns down an even darker passageway. He can hear the shield WHINING in the distance. He almost has to feel his way. Up ahead he sees a shape. He bends down and sees the SHADOUT MAPES dying on the cold stone floor in the darkness. She tries to speak but cannot. She falls. Suddenly the Duke HEARS the shield generator start whining down.

DUKE LETO
What happened? What?
(as Mapes dies)
The shield!

The Duke reaches to activate his shield but a large dart is shot into his shoulder. The Duke lurches upwards then tumbles to the ground. Out of the darkness comes Dr. Yueh. The dart drops and CLATTERS as if a dream.

DUKE LETO (CONT'D)
(mind racing -- struggling)
Yueh!
(inner voice)
He's sabotaged the house generators, we're wide open.

YUEH
(with self-disgust)
I've brought House Atreides down. I've destroyed the new army's weirding modules.

DUKE LETO
(hoarse whisper)
... Why?

The generator WHINES lower and lower

--

YUEH
I wish to kill a man... not you, my dear Duke, but the Baron.... You were dead already... but you will be close to the Baron before you die. You will be tied and drugged but you can still attack. When you see the Baron you will have a new poison tooth. He will want you close so he can gloat over you. One bite on this tooth and a strong exile...

DUKE LETO
Refuse...

YUEH
No! -- You mustn't... for in return I will save the lives of your Paul and Jessica.

Yueh removes the Duke's signet ring and shows it to him.

YUEH (CONT'D)
For Paul...

He implants the tooth.

Yueh becomes more and more blurred. His image begins to fade. His lips move in the darkness. The generator WHINE is low and going lower and lower.

YUEH (CONT'D)
When you see the Baron, remember the tooth! The tooth!

119. (Deleted)

119A. INT. COMMUNICATIONS ROOM - ARRAKEEN PALACE - NIGHT

ATREIDES GUARD #1 comes running down the steps and up to the CAPTAIN and a TECHNICIAN.

ATREIDES GUARD #1
The shield is down! The shield is down!

ATREIDES GUARD CAPTAIN
Harkonnen...
(turns and shouts)
Get that shield up!

--

119B. EXT. LANDING FIELD - ARRAKEEN - NIGHT

A warning TONE begins. TROOPS begin pouring onto the field.

119C. EXT. ROCK - LANDING FIELD - ARRAKEEN - NIGHT

Troops race toward their ships.

119D. (Deleted)

119E. INT. GUARD HOUSE - ARRAKEEN PALACE - NIGHT

ATREIDES GUARD
The shield! The shield!

120. INT. PASSAGEWAY - ARRAKEEN PALACE - NIGHT

A loud warning TONE vibrates. Thufir turns away from the doorway of a small room where he's horrified to SEE...

120A. INSERT

... a chemical FIRE consuming the thousands of Atreides weirding modules.

121. through 121A. (Deleted)

123. EXT. PALACE - ARRAKEEN - NIGHT

A thousand Harkonnen ships dive over Arrakeen and the Palace. Giant deep thunderous EXPLOSIONS shatter the land. Billowing SMOKE clouds column upwards, forming a black wriggling death curtain around the Palace.

124. INT. PASSAGEWAY - ARRAKEEN PALACE - NIGHT

Troops are running through the passageway, right and left. SMOKE is everywhere and the horrible SOUNDS of the explosions continue. The SOUNDS of stone crunching, shifting, and breaking. SCREAMS. A wall of stone suddenly cracks open. A burst of air and dust shoots out, HISSING. The Duke's dog runs through the passageway WHINING with fear.

--

125. (Deleted)

125A. EXT. HARKONNEN SHIP - LANDING FIELD - ARRAKEEN
- NIGHT

Sardaukar rush out of a Harkonnen ship. Their electrically distorted faces come screaming toward us.

125B. (Deleted)

126. EXT. LANDING FIELD - ARRAKEEN - NIGHT

Harkonnen hammer ships thunder the ground, sending cracks and fissures throughout the landing field. Harkonnen scare SIRENS scream.

126A. EXT. HAMMER SHIPS - ARRAKEEN - NIGHT

Atreides soldiers run from the hammer ships.

129. EXT. GROUNDS - ARRAKEEN PALACE - NIGHT

FIRE and SMOKE. SCREAMS. An ATREIDES SOLDIER's head is hit with a large white hot piece of explosion. Through the black smoke, large SARDAUKAR chase after THREE SOLDIERS and them with hydraulic knife-guns. One blade enters the back of one man's head and comes out his nose. Tremendous NOISE of battle. Gurney and a squad of TROOPERS climb through bodies and thick smoke. Gurney has the Duke's dog safely inside his coat. The little dog's head sticks out -- looking about. Gurney strokes the dog's neck when they reach safety behind some rock. Small glimpses, as the smoke moves this way or that, let them see thousands of Sardaukar fighting.

GURNEY
LONG LIVE DUKE LETO!

TROOPERS
Long live Duke Leto!

The CRY from the men rings out as they attack with frenzy equalling that of the Sardaukar.

127. INT. AUTOPSY ROOM - ARRAKEEN PALACE - NIGHT

The distant HAMMERING of the Harkonnen hammer ship. Jessica's eyes open and she sees two big boots but they seem to be floating above the stone floor she is lying on. She is gagged and tied. She looks up.

She sees the huge Baron Harkonnen staring down at her. In the distance she HEARS the battle raging.

--

BARON

The drug was timed. Dr. Yueh has been very valuable to us.... What a pity you must remain gagged. We can't let ourselves be swayed by your witch's Voice, now, can we?

JESSICA

(inner voice)

Leto... where are you?

86. INT. A ROOM - ARRAKEEN PALACE - DAY

Dr. Yueh covers his face with his hands in a darkened room... sobbing.

127. BACK TO SCENE

The Baron floats across the room with suspensor-borne lightness.

BARON

Goodbye, Jessica and goodbye to your sweet son.... I want to spit once on your head... just some spittle on your face -- what a luxury.

He spits on her cheek. The Baron floats out of the room into the passageway.

BARON (CONT'D)

We were ordered to kill them... so kill them.

129. BACK TO SCENE - BATTLE

127. BACK TO SCENE

NEFUD

What are your orders, Piter?

PITER

Take them to the desert, as the traitor suggested and worms will destroy the evidence. Their bodies must never be found.

--

129. BACK TO SCENE - BATTLE

127. BACK TO SCENE

PITER

(whispering to Jessica, rubbing the spittle around on her face with his hand, delicately)

I'd thought of many pleasures with you.
It is perhaps better that you die in the innards of a worm. Desire clouds my reason.... That is not good... that is bad.

129. BACK TO SCENE

128. INT. SUB-BASEMENT PASSAGEWAY - ARRAKEEN PALACE - NIGHT - SHIELD EFFECT

Duncan Idaho kills a Sardaukar soldier and rushes forward frantically. His eyes blaze intensely. He yells out to the other Atreides soldiers.

DUNCAN
They're on this floor somewhere....

The soldiers disappear, searching in another direction. Duncan runs, pounding, down the passageway -- his eyes searching in every doorway.
Suddenly twelve huge Sardaukar round a corner on a quick march. Duncan turns his shield up and charges them. Behind them he sees Paul and Jessica bound in straps and being carried.

Duncan attacks and fights valiantly but he is outnumbered. In the fight the lights are blown out and Duncan is killed by a slow stunner pellet through the head. Paul strains to help.

PAUL
(seeing Duncan)
Duncan!! Duncan!!

Paul and Jessica are carried off, quickly, through the darkness. The battle SOUNDS thundering.

--

128A. DUNCAN'S BODY - INT. SUB-BASEMENT PASSAGEWAY - ARRAKEEN PALACE
- NIGHT - SHIELD EFFECT

Duncan's dead, shielded body slides sparking in the dark against the passageway walls.

129. BACK TO SCENE - BATTLE - RABBAN ON BRIDGE

131C. (Deleted)

132. EXT. PALACE - ARRAKEEN - NIGHT

FIRE and SMOKE.

133. INT. OBSERVATION ROOM - ARRAKEEN PALACE - NIGHT

The Baron's face, the light of FIRE and EXPLOSIONS playing over it. The Baron turns as Piter ushers in the traitor Yueh.

BARON
(to Yueh - quietly)
You wish now to join your wife, is that it, traitor?

A sudden flash of hope crosses Yueh's face.

YUEH
She lives?

The Baron smiles, almost sympathetically.

BARON
You wish to join her... join her, then.

Piter moves to Yueh, a knife glistening in his hand.
It flashes into his back. A GASP escapes Yueh's throat, a sad look passing over his face, as if to say "I thought as much." He stands stiffly, then falls gasping. He tastes his own blood, then dies.

BARON
Take him away.

144. EXT. GROUNDS - ARRAKEEN PALACE - NIGHT

Black smoke palms.

--

145. EXT. LANDING FIELD - ARRAKEEN PALACE - NIGHT

Rabban strides in front of his uncle's ship, carrying Kynes over his shoulder. Harkonnen and Sardaukar SOLDIERS stand at attention. Rabban tears off Kynes' stillsuit. Kynes falls.

RABBAN
He was in the Palace with the Atreides...
I also say he was a spy for the Emperor.
(looking up to the troops)
Go now! Take him to his desert to die.
Go!

129A. EXT. HARKONNEN ORNITHOPTER - NIGHT

The small `thopter climbs toward the Shield Wall through a SMOKEY atmosphere illuminated by distant EXPLOSIONS.

130. INT. HARKONNEN ORNITHOPTER - NIGHT

JESSICA
(inner voice)
Yueh's sign. He's left a satchell.

Jessica and Paul, bound by cabin straps, lie in the back, the two guards at the controls. Outside,

`thopters and ships fly past them toward the city.
The distant FIRES play over Jessica's face as she sees Yueh's triangular tattoo scratched in the cabin roof.

HARKONNEN GUARD #1
I'd like to have some fun before we kill her.

HARKONNEN GUARD #2
(laughing)
Of course... what did you think?

Jessica looks to Paul.

PAUL
(struggling to use The Voice)
Don't touch my mother...

JESSICA
(inner voice)
Oh great mother! He's trying the voice.
The Reverend Mother said it could save
him.

HARKONNEN GUARD #1
Did you hear a noise from the little one?

--

HARKONNEN GUARD #2
I didn't hear anything.

HARKONNEN GUARD #1
No?

HARKONNEN GUARD #2
No.

He turns and hits Paul in the shoulder with a stungun. Paul recovers and starts taking long, calming breaths.

JESSICA
(inner voice)
The calming exercise.

HARKONNEN GUARD #1
The little one!
(they laugh)

Suddenly, Guard #1 reaches around and puts his hand up Jessica's skirt. He starts breathing hard. Paul clears his throat.

PAUL
(using The Voice)
Remove her gag!

JESSICA

(inner voice)
Excellent!

Guard #1 finds himself removing Jessica's gag.
Guard #2 turns away from his controls but seems powerless to stop him. Once, it's off Jessica smiles seductively and writhes on the `thopter floor.

JESSICA (CONT'D)
(The Voice)
There's no need to fight over me.

The two men stare at one another a moment. Then Guard #1's hand, glinting silver, flashes into Guard
#2's chest, killing him. Guard #1 pulls the knife out, smiling. The ornithopter begins to veer off into a dangerous nose dive.

HARKONNEN GUARD #1
Now?

JESSICA
(The Voice)
First cut my son's bonds.

--

Guard #1 slowly cuts Paul's big straps, never taking his eyes off Jessica. The ornithopter gets closer and closer to the top jagged surface of the Shield Wall.

JESSICA (CONT'D)
(The Voice)
That's it.

The blade cuts through the strap holding Paul's legs. Paul kicks upwards extremely powerfully and his foot breaks through the man's chest cavity and drives his heart up into his head, spewing blood out the man's mouth. Paul grabs the controls but it's too late. The ship falls into the rock.

130A. EXT. HARKONNEN ORNITHOPTER - DESERT - NIGHT

The `thopter slides across the rock, shearing off a wing. Suddenly they are beyond the rock three miles above the great desert and plummeting fast toward the dunes below.

130. BACK TO SCENE

Paul pulls desperately on the controls and manages to keep the ship aloft and flying into the deep desert.

JESSICA
Oh, my God!

131. through 131A. (Deleted)

131B. EXT. PALACE - ARRAKEEN - NIGHT

CU violently burning palm.

133. BACK TO SCENE

Nefud exits - TWO HARKONNENS wheel in the stretcher, and swing it round - one of the GUARDS hands Piter his knife back - the Guards exit and the door closes - Piter moves up to Duke Leto and leans over him moving his knife across the Duke's face.

The Baron flies down to the stretcher.

BARON

Duke Leto Atreides. Someone's torn the insignia off your uniform. Such carelessness.

Leto shows no sign that he has heard.

--

PITER

It was Feyd.

Leto's POV: The Baron and his Mentat are only DIM FARAWAY SHAPES. Their voices reach Leto as if travelling across a greater distance. The Baron looks to Leto and then moves to him, looking him over.

BARON

It was Feyd?

(laughing)

It was Feyd! Where is the ducal signet ring? I must have his ring.

PITER

The ring?... he was brought to us as is, Baron. I...

BARON

You killed the doctor too soon, you fool!

DUKE LETO

(inner voice)

Yueh... Yueh... dead... Paul and Jessica safe... the tooth!

PITER

He's coming round, my Lord.

The Baron moves from behind a table stacked with dirty dishes and foodstuffs and goes to Leto.

DUKE LETO

(inner voice)

Wait... he must be near...

BARON

Where is your ring?

The Baron's face is now very close to Duke Leto's.

BARON (CONT'D)

You do not answer!

DUKE LETO

(very faint)

A... little... closer.... The... water... of my life... for Paul.

The Baron briefly wonders at these words and then turns to Piter.

--

BARON

He's crying!

(he hits Duke Leto)

He's crying! He's crying, Piter. What does he mean?

Piter moves forward. The Baron sees a succulent piece of chicken skin on the table. He picks up the plate, then the chicken skin.

Leto's POV: It's grown HAZY again. The Baron is beginning to move away, reaching for the small piece of chicken skin. Piter leans close to Leto.

DUKE LETO

Now!

We hear a CRUNCH, hear a tumultuous RUSHING SOUND as Piter's face is pushed forcibly away. The Baron is turning, a dumbfounded look on his face. He drops the plate, and backs away.

There is a tremendous ROARING. Bits of visions of Caladan rush through Leto's ever-darkening consciousness --

MENTAL IMAGES:

134. through 134A. (Deleted)

134B. EXT. CLIFF WALL - CALADAN - DAY

The Atreides banner, the green of it, then the black. The blackness flaps; then all fades to SILENCE.

135. INT. HARKONNEN ORNITHOPTER - NIGHT

As they fly deeper into the desert with the ship shuddering and straining, Jessica suddenly cries out with tremendous premonition and fear.

JESSICA
Leto! Leto!

Tears course down her cheeks as Paul turns to her.

JESSICA (CONT'D)
(to Paul)
Leto! He's dead! He's dead...

--

PAUL
I know
(inner voice)
I have NO FEELINGS!! Why?

136. INT. OBSERVATION ROOM - ARRAKEEN PALACE - NIGHT

Duke Leto and Piter lie dead.

137. INT. ARRAKEEN PALACE - NIGHT

The Baron floats near the ceiling in a small passageway. He is ecstatic.

BARON
(screaming)
I'm alive!!! I'm alive!!!

137A. INT. HARKONNEN `THOPTER - NIGHT

Paul is fighting the controls of the Harkonnen `thopter.

137B. CLEAN POV

Harkonnen `thopter lights on dunes.

137A. BACK TO SCENE

PAUL
I can't maintain any altitude... we'll never reach the safety of rock. Maybe that small rock.

JESSICA
Where are we do you think?

PAUL
The South Polar regions... the forbidden area. We must make it to that rock...

137C. EXT. HARKONNEN `THOPTER - DEEP DESERT - NIGHT

The `thopter violently hits the sands and flips up -
- almost turning over. It falls slowly back, then slides down the side of a dune.

--

137D. EXT. HARKONNEN ORNITHOPTER - DESERT - NIGHT

PAUL

Hurry!

He jumps out of his seat.

JESSICA

Bring these satchels!

She hands him one.

PAUL

(at doorway)

Hurry -- This crashing may bring a worm.

As Paul puts the satchel over his shoulder, he feels something. He looks at his father's ring. He stares at it silently, then closes his hand around it. They jump outside.

JESSICA

(starting to cry)

A million deaths are not enough for Yueh...

PAUL

(inner voice)(reacting to his mother's tears)

Where are my feelings... I feel for no
one...

138. EXT. ROCK - DESERT - NIGHT

Paul and Jessica running. Paul pulls Jessica to a place in the wall where a small overhang offers shelter. Jessica falls to the ground. She CRIES, pouring out her grief, but soon the sound of it is carried away by the building rush of WIND. Paul turns and looks out to the open desert, this portion of which is a dust ocean.

138A. PAUL'S POV:

The Mouse Moon has risen.

Ripples of dust undulate tide-like in the light of the moon. The WHISPERING grains billow up like the foam of waves as they hit the rock.

138. BACK TO SCENE

Paul turns, his face illuminated by the two moons above. His eyes lock on the moon which has the image of the mouse.

--

PAUL

(inner voice)

The second moon... from the dreams...

138B. INT. PAUL'S EYE - NIGHT

We move into Paul's eye, where the mouse moon appear and revolves slowly. The moon begins to explode. The pieces of the moon soar toward us burning with white-hot flames. Within the flames we see...

139. (Deleted)

139A. EXT. ARRAKEEN PALACE - NIGHT

... the burning Palace of Arrakeen. We move closer to it.

189B. INT. OBSERVATION ROOM - ARRAKEEN PALACE - NIGHT

We then see Duke Leto's face. The Baron leans over the Duke and clutches the skin on the Duke's face. He begins pulling it. The skin on the Duke's race slowly rips open -- making a hideous tearing SOUND. Black SMOKE issues forth from the hole which teats larger.

PAUL (V.O.)
(distorted)
House Atreides is ruined.
(less distorted)
This moon holds my past.

139C. INT. VESTIBULE - OBSERVATION ROOM - NIGHT

Inside and through the SMOKE Paul sees Feyd tear the Red Duke insignia off his father's uniform. He sees Feyd laughing. The moving, now-brilliant red hawk insignia becomes...

139D. EXT. CASTLE CALADAN - NIGHT

... a burning meteor ROARING over the castle on Caladan. The meteor crashes in the black sea.

PAUL (V.O.)
This moon holds my future.

--

139E. INT. WATER - NIGHT

Foaming confusion turning into a small, twisting fetus under the sea. Its eyes closed. Moving close to it, its eyes snap open. Through the eyes is the pale white face of JESSICA.

139F. EXT. SHIELD WALL - DESERT - NIGHT

There is a huge soaring WIND sound and beyond JESSICA the dunes roll like ocean waves.

139G. EXT. MOUSE MOON - NIGHT

The moon continues to spew out pieces of moving images which are seen then disappear as fast as sparks. The broken, burning pieces float eerily toward us over the undulating dunes below. One image floats closer. It is a hand folded into a fist.

PAUL (V.O.)
I am only a seed...

The fist begins to open.

DUKE LETO (V.O.)
The seed must grow.

The hand opens fully with slow blue fluid pulsating out the very center of the palm. The hand floats eerily forward.

DUKE LETO (V.O.)
The sleeper must awaken.

139H. EXT. WATER - NIGHT

The last image which passes is foaming and spitting dark blue water. As the image passes, the black smoke trailing behind it obscures the picture to blackness.

140. EXT. ROCK - DESERT - NIGHT

Through the darkness we move to Paul's clenched hand. It opens, revealing the signet ring in the very center of his palm. Paul looks upward to the moons of Arrakis. He looks back to the ring, then to his mother.

PAUL
Listen to me!... you wanted to know about my dreams... and I've just had a waking dream... do you know why?...

--

JESSICA
Calm yourself/

PAUL
The spice! It's in everything here. The air, the soil, the food... It's like the Truthsayer drug..... It's a poison!!!! You knew the spice would change me. But thanks to your teachings it's changed my consciousness. I can see it... I can see it.

JESSICA
(inner voice)

Is he....?

PAUL
You carry my unborn sister in your womb!

JESSICA
(inner voice)
He knows.

PAUL
You and your Bene Gesserit sisterhood...
I'm not your Kwisatz Haderach... I'm something different, something unexpected!
(inner voice)
I'm a seed.
(out loud)
I am so much more... You don't begin to know me...

141. through 142A. (Deleted)

142B. EXT. ROCK - DESERT - NIGHT

Paul's head goes down. He places the ring on his finger.

PAUL
(inner voice)
Father... now I have become a killer and I will continue to kill until I have avenged your death.
(out loud)
Father!

Jessica cries as she stares at her son.

143. through 143A. (Deleted)

--

145. BACK TO SCENE

Rabban stops up the ramp. He wears a large smile.
His thick head sweats and sweat runs down his thick neck. He goes inside and the doors swing closed.

146. INT. HARKONNEN SHIP - NIGHT

He enters the ship and moves down within to the Baron's headquarters, passing two dwarves cooking a dead legless cow which hangs from chains. Rabban tears out the cow's tongue and eats it. Then he exits through a door which closes behind him.

147. INT. BARON'S QUARTERS - HARKONNEN SHIP - NIGHT

The Baron is flying wildly, circling the outside of a large steel shower, while Nefud and a DWARF play a strange instrument producing maniacal, perverse, screaming MUSIC. The Baron SEES Rabban enter, but continues to fly around the shower.

BARON
(very excited)
Rabban!!... we're knee deep in Atreides blood! We've gutted them. We've gutted them!
(laughs)

The Baron floats to Rabban and begins lovingly massaging Rabban's massive neck as he speaks to him.

BARON
Rabban, Rabban... I place you in charge of Arrakis. It's yours to squeeze, as I promised. I want you to squeeze and squeeze and squeeze.
(massaging in rhythm)
Give me spice! Drive them into utter submission. You must not show the slightest pity or mercy... as only you can... Never stop!
(releasing him)
Go.... Show no mercy!

RABBAN
Yes, my lord Baron.

Rabban leaves just as Feyd steps out of the shower.
The Baron turns to him lovingly.

--

BARON
(to Feyd)
And when we've crushed these people enough
I'll send in you Feyd... they'll cheer you as a rescuer... lovely Feyd... really a lovely boy.
(suddenly he smiles and screams)
Where's my doctor?

148. INT. HARKONNEN SHIP - NIGHT

As Rabban leaves, he looks into one room of the ship. Behind the glass porthole sits Thufir Hawat bound head and foot, his eyes darting this way and
that.

148A. EXT. ROCK - DESERT - NIGHT

Paul and Jessica are in stillsuits. Paul is looking through a Fremkit. He finds a paper with Dr. Yueh's mark on it.

PAUL
(inner voice)
Yueh's left the plans for the weirding modules.

148B. EXT. MOONS - ARRAKEEN - DESERT - NIGHT

The moons have moved further across the sky.

148A. BACK TO SCENE

Suddenly Paul turns and studies his mother. A stronger WIND comes up.

PAUL

We have to get to that mountain of rock.
We have entered the time when all will turn against us and seek our lives...

Jessica gets up. They make their way up the crest of a dune by a small rock.

PAUL (CONT'D)

It's further than I thought... a worm is sure to come.... I'll plant a thumper, that should divert it.

--

Paul moves off into the shadows. Suddenly, Jessica SEES a burst of LIGHTNING illuminate the mountain of rock in the distant and the vast dunes before them.

JESSICA (CONT'D)

(inner voice)(as Paul leaves to light the thumper)
...the night is a tunnel... a hole into tomorrow... if we're to have a tomorrow...

149. through 151. (Deleted)

151A. EXT. DEEP DESERT - NIGHT

Paul plants the thumper which begins a powerful rhythmic noise. He turns to Jessica.

PAUL

(returning) Remember... walk without rhythm and we won't attract a worm... it'll go to the thumper.

JESSICA

(puts in her noseplug)
I'm ready.

Paul and Jessica move into camera and exit right.

151B. EXT. DEEP DESERT AND ROCKS - NIGHT

Another burst of LIGHTNING. The distant rock seems to have grown no larger. Their muscles begin to ache. Suddenly they HEAR the thumper start behind them.

PAUL
Keep going...

152. EXT. DEEP DESERT AND ROCKS - NIGHT (LATER)

Their breathing becomes very labored. The sand moves like slow water, forever rolling down and up. Then they hear the worm, the low thundering HISS shaking the tonnage of sand. The thumper stops. Paul turns.

PAUL
Faster!!

--

JESSICA
(screaming)
It's deafening!

Their bodies ache and they feel like dropping, yet the cliff is still a good distance away. The worm SOUND grows louder and Paul turns to look.

153. EXT. WORM - DESERT - NIGHT

A flash of LIGHTNING. The worm is now coming toward them. The mound of sand over the worm is enormous and is approaching at a terrifyingly fast speed. The power of this worm is awesome.

153A. EXT. DEEP DESERT - NIGHT

PAUL
(screaming)
Run!

JESSICA
I can't... I can't.

She turns to see. Then she runs.

153B. EXT. DRUM SAND - DEEP DESERT - NIGHT

All at once their feet tromp down on firmer sand. The SOUND is very loud.

PAUL
Drum sand!

The DRUMMING sound ECHOES deep within the ground. Jessica falls. Paul stops and drags her up. They run again. The worm SOUND becomes unbearably loud. Static electricity SPARKS giant bolts of pure white LIGHTNING and the air turns to ozone. Finally they find rock. Behind them the SOUND of the worm changes. They turn.

154. EXT. WORM - DEEP DESERT - NIGHT

The gigantic head of the worm is just breaking through the sand. The mouth begins to open in an eighty-foot circle of teeth and darkness. The mouth arches forward searching for them.

155. EXT. BASE OF THE CLIFF - DEEP DESERT - NIGHT

Paul and Jessica climb up and up inside a narrow slit of rock.

--

155A. INT. ROCK CLIFF - DESERT - NIGHT

The worm's mouth climbs higher also but it cannot penetrate the narrow opening in the rock.

156. EXT. ROCK CLIFF - NIGHT

Paul and Jessica have scrambled upwards a couple of hundred feet.

156A. EXT. WORM AND ROCK - NIGHT

Still the worm stretches up to them. Suddenly the worm begins BANGING on the rock. Huge SHUDDERS drive through the black stone. Over and over again the worm mindlessly hits at the rock.

156B. EXT. ROCK CLIFF - NIGHT

Paul and Jessica crouch further back in the tiny passageway of safety, but a solid back wall of rock prevents them from moving back any more.

156C. INT. ROCK CLIFF - NIGHT

The breath from the worm is like a hurricane of WIND.

PAUL
(inner voice)
Cinnamon... the spice!
(out loud)
Do you smell it?

JESSICA
Yes...

PAUL
(inner voice)
I know the secret. The worm is the spice... the spice is the worm.

157. (Deleted)

157A. EXT. ROCK CLIFF - DEEP DESERT - NIGHT

Suddenly a colossal section of the rock wall cracks and topples off into the worm's mouth. Instantly the worm pulls back. A huge FIRE roars deep within the worm consuming the rock.

--

158. INT. ROCK CLIFF - DEEP DESERT - NIGHT

The worm now can get even closer to Paul and Jessica. It looms up again and crushes its mouth up against the rock.

158A. EXT. ROCK CLIFF - DEEP DESERT - NIGHT

Another fissure opens, and suddenly half the rock wall protecting them splits off entirely and falls... taking Paul with it.

158B. EXT. WORM AND ROCK - NIGHT

...against the worm.

159. EXT. ROCK CLIFF - DEEP DESERT - NIGHT

Paul is knocked off the cliff and falls straight down two hundred feet. His feet skid along the face of rock. He bounces and brakes. He hits and jumps. He careens from one boulder, flies upside down, rights himself then tumbles and skids into the sand. Unhurt, he jumps up and scrambles up another part of the rock to safety.

160. EXT. ROCK CLIFF - DEEP DESERT - NIGHT

JESSICA

Paul!

She presses against the narrow ledge that is left after the worm assault.

161. EXT. BASE OF THE CLIFF - DEEP DESERT - NIGHT

The worm is just coming up again when distant THUMPING is heard. The worm, as if charmed by the sound, turns and moves off towards it.

PAUL

(inner voice)

A thumper.

161A. (Deleted)

162. EXT. ROCK CLIFF - DEEP DESERT - NIGHT

Jessica climbs further up and manages to get over to a place where she can meet up with Paul, who is now climbing back.

--

JESSICA

(crying)

What's happened?... Why did it leave?

PAUL
(breathing heavily) Someone started another thumper.... We're not alone.

They climb upwards until the ledge ends at the mouth of a dark crevice. Paul and Jessica try to see into the inky black hole.

163. EXT. CREVICE - DEEP DESERT - NIGHT

Slowly Paul and Jessica enter, inching forward. A low moan of WIND comes up. Paul can see nothing, then suddenly he SEES stars above and SEES the hint of stairs cut into the rock.

JESSICA
(whispering)
Man-carved steps.

PAUL
(whispering)
Yes...

They climb the steps and enter an extremely narrow dark channel of stone. As they make their way through the rock, suddenly there is a burst of lightning which illuminates a whole troop of Fremmen standing silently in front of them.

164. EXT. FREMEN PLACE - DEEP DESERT - NIGHT

STILGAR
Perhaps these are the ones Mapes told us of.

STILGAR
(to Jessica)
Are you trained in the ways of the desert?

JESSICA
No, but many consider my training valuable.

STILGAR
I will take the boy-man... he shall have sanctuary in my tribe...

--

A LOW NOTE on a dip stick is blown by one of the Fremen tribe. Jessica shifts, Paul sees it, and just as Stilgar begins a reach for his weapon, Jessica turns, slashes out, utters a SOUND, whirls again and with rock behind her holds Stilgar helpless in front of her -- her hand at his throat.
Paul moves on her first move. He races up a rocky incline.

165. EXT. CLIFF - FREMEN PLACE - DEEP DESERT - NIGHT

He then jumps higher up and presses himself between two rocks on a low cliff overlooking the rest of the Fremen troop.

166. EXT. FREMEN PLACE - DEEP DESERT - NIGHT

The troop starts shooting projectile weapons in Paul's direction.

STILGAR

Stop! Get back!! She has the weirding way. Why didn't you tell us! Great gods... if you can do this to the strongest of us you're worth ten times your weight of water. As a leader of my people I give you my bond: teach us this weirding way and you both shall have sanctuary. Your water shall mingle with our water.

JESSICA

Then I will teach you our way of battle.... you have the word bond of a Bene Gesserit.

A FREMEN

It is the legend.

167. EXT. CLIFF - FREMEN PLACE - DEEP DESERT - NIGHT

Up on the rock, Paul turns. He takes a step, then notices a small figure standing in front of him. It is a girl.

CHANI

I am Chani, daughter of Liet.... I would not have permitted you to harm my tribe.

PAUL

(inner voice)

From my dream... so beautiful. Liet.... is this Kynes' daughter?

Paul stares at her in wonder.

--

CHANI

Come with me. I'll show you an easier way down.

They exit.

168. EXT. FREMEN PLACE - DEEP DESERT - NIGHT

STILGAR

(to Paul, as they meet)

You have strength... real strength... You shall be known as Usul, which is the strength of the base of the pillar. This is your secret name in our troop. But you must choose the name of manhood which we will call you openly.

PAUL
(thinking)
What do you call the mouse shadow in the second moon?

STILGAR
We call that one Muad'dib.

PAUL
Could I be known as Paul Muad'dib?

STILGAR
You are Paul Muad'dib, and your mother shall be a Sayyadina among us.... We welcome you.

Wind blows a cloud of dust through the rock. High above the moon with the mouse shadow glows brilliantly. It dissolves into the sun.

168A. EXT. DEEP DESERT - DAY

Paul, Jessica and the Fremmen march through the dunes.

171. through 171B. (Deleted)

172. EXT. DEEP DESERT - DUSK/SUNSET

HEAT WAVES and sand dunes. Mysterious SOUNDS echo in the distance as the giant sun is setting.

Chani takes Paul to the top of a dune. They stare at the sunset and a huge rock outcropping in the distance.

--

CHANI
Seitch Tabr.

Paul looks at the rock, then turns to her.

CHANI (CONT'D)
Tell me of your homeworld, Usul.

These words rend Paul's soul. He cannot speak. He reaches out and touches her hand - her cheek.

173. (Deleted)

174. INT. ENTRANCE - SIETCH TABR - NIGHT

The Fremmen troop enters into a large square room with slot passageways going off in various directions.

175. INT. PASSAGEWAY - SIETCH TABR - NIGHT

They all move down one of the passageways which are beautifully but very plainly cut with lasguns. They are like passages in the pyramids, dark with sharp turns and inclines upwards or downwards, some very steep and long, and others descending hundreds of feet. There is a strong, moaning WIND.

176. through 177. (Deleted)

178. INT. PASSAGEWAY/STAIRS - SIETCH TABR - NIGHT

A quiet WIND can be heard -- deep and moaning.

JESSICA Moisture...

She looks at Paul. He, too, notices.

PAUL
Wind traps... huge ones.

Down a long, sloping, narrow passageway they go until they reach a stairway cut into the stone. It is very dark and gets increasingly darker as they descend. The WIND sound grows. The air grows colder and damper. Paul and Jessica share another questioning look. At the bottom of the stairs they pass through a narrow slot doorway which suddenly opens out on something so totally unexpected it shocks Paul.

--

179. INT. RESERVOIR -SIETCH TABR - NIGHT

It is enormous, deep reservoir of black water sitting silently in the depths of this sietch and stretching out into the darkness.

PAUL
(inner voice)
Water on Arrakis!!!
I have seen this place in a dream.
(out loud)
A treasure.

STILGAR
Greater than treasure, Usul. We have thousands of such caches. Only a few of us know them all. When we have enough... we shall change the face of Arrakis.
Listen!...

There is the sound of water dripping. The lights are extinguished - reflections play on Paul's face.

STILGAR (CONT'D)
The Rocks of Arrakis hold many secrets.

179A. through 180 (Deleted)

180A. REVISED SCENE - HALL OF RITES

Thousands of Fremmen wait below. Paul enters a rock ledge, guided by two monks, which is crowded with Fremmen and old Fremmen Monks. Below the crowds continue to watch and wait while a giant wind organ moans. A Monk steps up to Paul.

MONK

We sense that you may be the "voice from the outer world". Both moons told us of you. You must pass tests before we will know... you must conquer the beast of the desert, both his outer and his deadly inner powers.

(moves back)

Speak to us... from the outer world.

Paul turns and gathers courage to address the multitude below.

PAUL

(inner voice)

I am only a seed.

(out loud)

I am Usul... Paul Muad'dib.

--

CROWDS

(loud murmur)

Muad'dib!

MONK

The legend.

PAUL

(inner voice)

No one ever dreamed there would be so many.

(out loud)

Our shared enemy the Harkonnens, are once again in control of Arrakis. Stilgar, your leader, has asked me and my mother to crush the Harkonnens. We must do more than this. We must totally destroy all spice production on Arrakis. The Guild and the entire universe depends on spice.

"He who can destroy a thing, controls a thing".

I will take one hundred of your warriors and train them. This one hundred will train the thousands that remain. When the spice flow stops, all eyes will turn to Arrakis. The Baron and the Emperor himself will be forced to deal with us.

Arrakis will become the center of the Universe.

(inner voice)
The dream unfolds.

181. through 181A. (Deleted)

182. INT. TRAINING ROOM - SIETCH TABR - DAY

Large room with a low ceiling. A drummer playing makes a low ECHOING MUSICAL HIT. A big block of stone is moved across coarse sand -- back and forth -- fast. A rhythm is started -- powerful. Paul enters, pauses and looks to Jessica - he stands in front of over 100 Fremmen men. Jessica sits behind him alongside Stilgar.

A large rock obelisk has been placed near Paul for this demonstration.

PAUL

The weirding way has long been a Bene Gesserit secret. With my mother's help, my father isolated an element of the weirding way and externalised it.

--

PAUL (CONT'D)

Because of the Harkonnen treachery, my father's armies were never able to fully develop this new form. This is what I will teach you. You will be the fiercest and most feared fighters in the Universe.

Our way of battle is built on rhythm. You understand rhythm like this but you do not yet understand the rhythm of the higher sounds, sounds that heal and build... sounds that destroy. Motion is the base.
You understand the motion... but you do not yet understand the motion that heals and builds... motions that destroy...

Orato!

(he moves forward)

This obelisk is of your hardest stone.

Kick it...

(he does -- the rock doesn't move)

Hit it...

(he does -- the rock doesn't move)

Yell at it...

ORATO

Break!

The Fremmen laugh -- the rock doesn't move.

A Fremmen with a lasgun tries to cut it. Paul motions him back, slightly.

PAUL

Move back!

Paul also moves back. He switches on his weirding module. He opens his mouth and makes a small SOUND, which the module amplifies.

PAUL

Chuksa!

The sound shatters the obelisk to pieces. The one hundred Fremmen YELL with surprise and awe.

100 FREMMEN

Achiii!

--

PAUL

This is part of the weirding way that we will teach you. Some thoughts have a certain sound... that being the equivalent to a form. Through sound and motion you will be able to paralyze nerves, shatter bones, set fires, suffocate an enemy or burst his organs.... We will kill until no Harkonnen breathes Arrakeen air.

100 FREMMEN

Muad'dib!

PAUL

(inner voice)

To avenge my father, I will turn you into killing machines.

Stilgar turns to Jessica.

STILGAR

Sayyadina. Our Reverend Mother tells me she is too old... She has been calling through space and time for you to come and let her rest. She asks that you pass within.

JESSICA

(inner voice)

They want me to take the Water of Life... the Truthsayer drug... so dangerous, yet... we must move swiftly if we're to secure our place among these Fremmen.

(out loud)

I will try to pass within.

STILGAR
Death may be the result.... Are you sure?

JESSICA
(inner voice)
I must do this for Paul, but what of my unborn child?

DISSOLVE TO:

183. through 187. (Deleted)

--

188. INT. ROCK LEDGE - HALL OF RITES - SIETCH TABR -
NIGHT

Fremen carry the Fremen REVEREND MOTHER RAMALLO in on a litter. The old Reverend Mother is old a frail yet extremely beautiful and mysterious. She turns to Paul and Jessica with a strange look.

REVEREND MOTHER RAMALLO
(to Jessica, in an ancient voice)
So you are the ones.

She turns away towards the monks who are very busy blowing horns and waving pots of burning spice, purifying the area of the rite. Several Fremen blow on dip sticks and a FEMALE CHOIR begins a haunting chorale as the giant pipe organ blows beautiful low notes below.

Paul looks to his mother.

He then sees Chani.

CU Chani.

CU Paul -- he cannot stop looking at her.

Stilgar motions to Paul.

STILGAR
(whispering to Paul)
Do you know the Water of Life?... Come...
...Watch... the mystery of mysteries...
the end and the beginning.

He shows Paul through a narrow passageway -- almost a slot through the stone to a small room. Through an opening in the stone wall, Paul is shown a very strange and somewhat horrifying scene.

189. INT. BABY WORM - MAKER ROOM - SIETCH TABR - NIGHT

A thirty-foot baby worm is being lowered into a stone chamber. The chamber is then covered with a wire top. Valves are turned and water rushes into the chamber. The worm begins to writhe violently and leap and bang against the bars above. The worm begins to turn inside out from the mouth back and it begins to gag. Some monks and watermasters quickly drain the stone chamber and wrench the worm out using large steel hooks. They hold the worm above a large tub. A watermaster-reed man runs a long reed in to the worm, causing it to spasm and gag up a beautiful deep blue bile as it dies.

189A. INT. MAKER ROOM - SIETCH TABR - NIGHT

The bile and worm water are combined in ceremonial containers. Paul turns to Stilgar.

--

STILGAR
The Water of Life.

PAUL
(inner voice)
The most lethal poison in the Universe.

Then we HEAR from Paul's memory his conversation with the Reverend Mother:

REVEREND MOTHER
... Many men have tried.

PAUL
Did they try and fail?

REVEREND MOTHER
They tried and died.

190. INT. ROCK LEDGE - HALL OF RITES - SIETCH TABR - NIGHT

Stilgar and Paul return to the ledge above the Hall of Rites. A MONK PRIEST steps forward, addresses the crowd, silencing them. The other monks move back carrying their smoking cleansing bags.

MONK #1
One among us has consented to enter the rite. She will attempt to pass within that we not lose the strength of our Reverend Mother.

PAUL
(inner voice)(turning to his mother)
What if she should fail?

He brings the jug close to Jessica.

MONK #1
Drink!

Jessica drinks.

JESSICA
(inner voice)
The ultimate awareness spectrum narcotic.
I must transform the poison configuration within my body... the blue must be made clean.

She swallows. Her body contorts and spasms violently. She screams. The Reverend Mother screams with her.

--

191 (Deleted)

192. INT. ROCK LEDGE - HALL OF RITES - SIETCH TABR -
NIGHT

We see Jessica sitting, shoulders tight and spasming
-- straining, her eyelids half-closed and flickering.

193. (Deleted)

194. INT. ROCK LEDGE - HALL OF RITES - SIETCH TABR -
NIGHT

The old Reverend Mother slowly extends a hand toward Jessica's shoulder.

195. JESSICA - MENTAL IMAGE

Inside Jessica, we see the Reverend Mother Ramallo's hand descend through the dark void. Shimmering water starts to ripple, lightly stirring an image of Jessica.

As the hand penetrates, something deep within her starts to GLOW. It is a fetus, a female. The Reverend Mother Ramallo's hand flinches as it touches the fetus. The fetus sparks to life - screaming and rapidly spasming upwards on its umbilical cord.

195A. (Deleted)

196. INT. ROCK LEDGE - WALL OF RITES - SIETCH TABR - NIGHT

REVEREND MOTHER RAMALLO
(whispering urgently into Jessica's ear)
You should have told us.

197. JESSICA'S MENTAL IMAGE - FETUS

REVEREND MOTHER RAMALLO (V.O.)
(gasping)
Great Mother! This changes both! What have we done?

--

197A. INT. THE TUNNEL - NIGHT

Jessica and the fetus rush mentally through a dark strangely worm-like tunnel until suddenly, a gaping black hole appears. A horrible WIND, SPARKS and circles of expanding light issues from it.

JESSICA (V.O)
(inner voice)(fearful)
No! This is the place where we cannot look. The place only for the eyes of the Kwisatz Haderach.

197B. THE FETUS - NIGHT

The fetus twists down the tunnel to join Jessica, her umbilical cord trailing behind. She SCREAMS as she looks into the hole.

197C. THE NAVIGATOR - NIGHT

She and Jessica see a shape moving deep within the windy hole. It is a Third Stage Navigator, ROARING.

JESSICA
What is this?... Is this what kills the men who enter here?

She quickly takes the fetus back up the tunnel. As they move:

JESSICA (V.O.)(CONT'D)
(inner voice)
Now my daughter and I are both Reverend Mothers.

REVEREND MOTHER RAMALLO (V.O.)
(distant)
I've been a long time waiting for you.
Here is my life.

198. INT. ROCK LEDGE - HALL OF RITES - SIETCH TABR -
NIGHT

The old Reverend Mother Ramallo slumps forward onto the stone, dead. The crowd waits. The corpse is tenderly removed. Jessica very slowly opens her eyes and looks about her. The monk holds the jug to her lips.

MONK
Change it that we may all drink of it.

--

Jessica spews water into the spout. The monk swirls the jug, sniffs at the spout and then drinks.

MONK (CONT'D)

It is changed!

PAUL
(inner voice)
She did it!

199. INT. HALL OF RITES - SIETCH TABR - NIGHT

The Fremmen suddenly turn their attention to Paul.... They whisper "It is the prophecy!" They soon begin to CHANT... "Muad'dib.... Muad'dib" over and over again. The chanting sounds fill the hall along with the ghostly wind organ.

200. (Deleted)

201. INT. HALL OF RITES - SIETCH TABR - NIGHT

Down below, the crowds continue CHANTING "Muad'dib, Muad'dib."

202. INT. ROCK LEDGE - HALL OF RITES - SIETCH TABR - NIGHT

Paul continues to stare at Chani. He moves to her. Chani turns. Paul is at her side. Their eyes meet and lock.

CHANI
(whispering)
Come with me.

203. INT. PASSAGEWAY ON ROCK LEDGE - SIETCH TABR - NIGHT

At the end of the dark black corridor, Chani turns and she and Paul fall together in a long kiss filled with love.

PAUL
Chani.... I love you... I've always loved you....

--

204. through 209. (Deleted)

169. INT. STAIRCASE - GEIDI PRIME - DAY

The Baron and Feyd descend several steps into a darker area of Geidi Prime. Feyd is carrying a strange creature in a small wire cage. The Baron is floating as he descends.

BARON
(takes a drink)
Feyd, even though he's aging, Thufir is one of the finest Mentats in the Universe... and he's mine, Feyd... all mine.... Quiet now.

FEYD

I will.

170. INT. BASEMENT ROOM - GEIDI PRIME - DAY

Nefud stands eating candies behind Thufir's chair. Nefud has a stun gun, even though Thufir's hands are tied. The Baron enters with Feyd.

BARON

Oh Thufir, I see they've installed your heart plug already.... Don't be angry. Everyone gets one here. But this is not why we're here. We've brought you a little cat, Thufir. You must care for it if you wish to live. A poison has been introduced into you, Thufir Hawat. By milking this smooth little cat body each day you receive your antidote... it must be done each day.... Also, you must do something for me if you wish to live. You know I lost Piter, my dear Mentat...

Thufir gives the Baron a weak, wide-eyed stare.

FEYD

All I can see is an Atreides that I want to kill.

BARON

Feyd, no, no! Thufir's a Harkonnen now, aren't you Thufir?

THUFIR

(inner voice)

My dear Duke... how I have failed you.

--

211. INT. JESSICA'S ROOM - SIETCH TABR - NIGHT

Jessica's face shows signs of straining. Women move around her, Chani and Harah at her side, helping her give birth. Suddenly ALIA is born and her freshly-born moist body is held up in front of Jessica. Alia's eyes snap open, burning brightly.

HARAH

What will you call her?

JESSICA

Alia.

As they lift Alia for Jessica to see...

ALIA

Mother.

210. INT. TRAINING ROOM - SIETCH TABR - NIGHT

Paul walks down the steps into the training room - followed by Harah's two sons. He pauses at the foot of the steps.

PAUL
Activate your weirding modules...

Paul activates his, and the Fremens follow suit.

PAUL
Set the range for two meters.

Paul walks down the line of Fremmen.

PAUL
Korba...
(points to robot)
The arm...

KORBA
(aiming the module)
Chuuk-sa...

PAUL
Motion... Chuuk-sa...

KORBA
Chuuuk-sa...

He fires the module and the arm of the robot is shot off. Paul smiles and hits him on the shoulder - Paul walks on.

--

PAUL
Stilgar...

One of the FREMEN calls out to Paul.

A FREMEN
Muad'dib!...

The word 'Muad'dib' causes a tremendous power to build. The module shakes violently in his hand - it suddenly fires upwards, and the wall explodes.

PAUL
(inner voice)
My own name is a killing word. Will it be a healing word as well?

211A. NEW SCENE

STILGAR
(to Paul as he applies red colour to the shoulders of several large Fremmen men)
Usul... these are fifteen of our fiercest fighters to serve you as your guard... the Fedaykin.

He pauses, then holds up his brilliantly red hand.

212. (Deleted)

213. EXT. DESERT - DAY

An EXPLOSION. Paul turns and his eyes are totally blue. He lifts binoculars to them and looks. He sees the Fremmen fighters below charging at the Harkonnens. As the Fremmen run they make powerful SOUNDS with their weirding modules, exploding everything in their path and catching things on fire.

213A. EXT. CARRYALL - DESERT - DAY

In the distance, a huge spice carryall is shot down and it falls to the ground EXPLODING more violently on impact.

213. BACK TO SCENE

PAUL

Now!

--

Stilgar signals, and Fremmen run behind them.

PAIL (CONT'D)

(to Stilgar)

They're even better on the battlefield than in the training rooms!!

(inner voice)

Sound... as a weapon. If only you could see them, father.

Paul smiles as he looks at the battle in the distance.

PAUL (CONT'D)

(his V.O. from the past)

When the spice flow stops, the entire Universe will turn to Arrakis. The Baron and the Emperor himself will be forced to deal with us.

214. INT. PASSAGEWAYS - ARRAKEEN - DAY

Rabban stares dumbfounded as many Harkonnen wounded and dead are brought through the passageway beyond.
Rabban grabs a Harkonnen and asks:

RABBAN

What happened? What happened to you?
What is he saying?

WOUNDED HARKONNEN

Muad'dib!... Muad'dib!... Muad'dib!...
Muad'dib!

Rabban pushes him away.

A HARKONNEN SOLDIER
He's been repeating that name ever since we found him.

RABBAN
Who is this Muad'dib?

215. EXT. DEEP DESERT - DAY

HEAT WAVES; dunes. A big thumper is forced into the sands. A RHYTHM is heard pounding on Fremmen hand drums and rhythm instruments. Feet scramble. Black stillsuited Fedaykin warrior bodyguards gather.
Stilgar turns.

--

STILGAR
(to Paul)
Usul... It is time you become a sandrider... and travel as a Fremmen. Take the kiswa maker hook of our sietch and ride as a leader of men.

216. (Deleted)

217. EXT. DEEP DESERT - DAY

As Paul leaves the troop to plant the second thumper:

STILGAR (V.O.)
Two thumpers are planted. The worm may not surface for the first - he will rise for the second. Remember, when the worm approaches, you must be utterly still... and close enough to plant the hook firmly under a ring segment.... The worm will turn to lift this exposed area as far from the abrasive sand as possible and it will take you with it -- to the top. Do not get too close as he approaches... the sand will engulf you.... Wait till the head of the worm passes -- then go... quickly.

STILGAR & FREMMEN
Shai-Hulud... Shai-Hulud.

In the distance the telltale SOUND of the worm's approach begins. This worm is deep underground and the sound is low and the ground trembles violently.

PAUL
(inner voice)
Only the very strong ones travel this deep....

The SOUND and VIBRATIONS continue to build. In the distance, the Fedaykin and Stilgar watch.

STILGAR

(to the others)

Usul has called a big one. Again... it is the legend.

218. (Deleted)

--

219. EXT. DEEP DESERT - DAY

HEAT WAVES... dunes RHYTHM. THUNDEROUS approach of the worm. Paul still cannot see the worm, but the sound begins to drown out the Fremmen rhythm instruments and the sand begins to VIBRATE. Suddenly, Paul SEES...

219A. EXT. WORM - DEEP DESERT - DAY

...a mountain of sands rise up, towering, thundering -- lightning SPARKS fissuring throughout the air above the worm.

The mountain approaches at a terrifying speed. Then, the worm appears -- rushing. The mouth, at first a small opening, begins to widen -- exposing a thousand glistening teeth.

219B. EXT. DESERT - DAY

Paul freezes. He lets the worm get closer and closer. The HEAT WAVES distort the gigantic form, making it more hideous -- more foreign. He moves forward. The others watch anxiously. This worm is big. It is so much larger than imaged. Its top towers 125 feet in the air. The segments are each ten feet wide.

219C. EXT. VERTICAL SECTION OF WORM - DESERT - DAY

Paul gets close and running alongside, he plants the hook under a segment and pulls back. The SOUND is excruciatingly loud. The sand is so deep and more is being thrown out beneath the body of the worm. Paul gets caught in it and falls. He narrowly escapes being sucked under the beast. He gets up -- runs again and plants the hook once more. He runs faster, bending the segment open to expose the tender flesh.

219D. EXT. FULL-SIZE SECTION OF WORM - DESERT - DAY

Suddenly the worm begins to turn. Paul pulls himself up the body as it turns -- holding onto the hook. Soon he is fifty -- sixty -- seventy feet off the ground -- going higher. The giant worm gets the second thumper and Paul at that moment climbs to the top. He plants the second hook.

PAUL
(inner voice)
A sandrider!...

Paul works the hooks into the breathing holes along the body...

--

219E. EXT. DESERT - DAY

...causing the great beast to make a slow turn toward Stilgar and the bodyguard. They set themselves and as the worm passes...

219F. EXT. FULL-SIZE SECTION OF WORM - DESERT - DAY

...they all clamber on, climbing up the sides to the top.

PAUL
(yelling)
Long live the fighters!

They return the traditional CALL and Paul steers the maker in a giant circle. They head out across the dunes.

219G. (Deleted)

219I. EXT. DESERT - DAY

Rabban and Harkonnens in the desert. Rabban observes tremendous destruction of his spice harvesters and carryalls.

219K. EMPEROR'S WORLD REPORT

VOICE
Seventeen Great Houses of the Lansraad have reported a significant delay in delivery of spice per CHOAM agreement. This constitutes a serious violation of CHOAM codes. Contact Baron Vladimir Harkonnen immediately.

219H. INT. GREAT HALL - ARRAKEEN PALACE - DAY

A furious Rabban sits in a black steel tub in the Great Hall. A squad of TROOPS stands at attention in front of him, listening to his screaming fit.

RABBAN
Falsify the reports. We can't hide it all, tell them we've lost only two hundred harvesters... and forty carryalls... and don't let my uncle know about the destruction of the spice silos.... I will catch this Muad'dib and suck the blood from him!! SUCK THE BLOOD FROM HIM!!!

--

219J. through 222. (Deleted)

226A. EXT. HARVESTER - DESERT - DAY

SMOKE billows from a burning harvester.

226B. EXT. DESERT - DAY

Fighting is going on between Fremmen and some smugglers. Paul moves down a smokey dune with Stilgar followed by Fremmen and Fedaykin.

PAUL

We surprised a band of smugglers.

STILGAR

(racing into thick smoke)

Too bad... thought they were Harkonnen.

Paul and Stilgar move through the smoke. A man runs up with a maula pistol aimed at Paul but Paul spins and punctures the man's chest with a sound from his weirding module. Paul turns and a large figure comes through the smoke. They surprise each other.
The figure holds a gun.

PAUL

Gurney!...

The figure stops -- stunned.

PAUL (CONT'D)

You've no need of your weapons with me
Gurney Halleck.

GURNEY

(peering; whisper of hope)

Paul!! Paul!!

PAUL

Don't you trust your own eyes.

GURNEY

They said you were dead. They said...

Paul shows him the signet ring on his fingers.
Gurney moves forward, his eyes tearing, and the two embrace each other and pound each other on the back.

GURNEY

You young pup! You young pup!

--

227. NEW SCENE - WORLD REPORT

VOICE

Stand-by... warning... we have just received a coded threat from the Guild.
Spice production is in serious jeopardy...
Giedi Prime supplying false reports...
Guild to visit Emperor in one standard day.

228. INT. THRONE ROOM - EMPEROR'S PALACE - NIGHT

The Emperor sits on his throne. Behind him are his Sardaukar officers. In front of him are several Guildsmen. One holds a large electrical apparatus up to the face plate of another which translates his strange voice into English.

TANKED GUILDSMAN #2

Emperor Shaddam IV... You have one last chance to take matters into your own hands and bring the situation under the control on Arrakis.

EMPEROR

What do you mean one last...

TANKED GUILDSMAN #2

Do not speak!... Listen!... You do not have more than this one chance.... I represent the entire Guild in this matter.... You have failed to kill the Atreides heir... Paul.

EMPEROR

But he was said to...

TANKED GUILDSMEN #2

(moans like a cow)

Noooooo... he is not dead. He is not eaten by worms as you have wanted to believe. He is not missing. He is in the deep desert with the Fremmen. The Spice is in great danger. We are not asking... we are telling... remedy the situation or you will live out your life in a pain amplifier.

The Guildsmen turn and leave.

EMPEROR

Who is this Paula Atreides to the Guild?
And why?

222A. INT. JESSICA'S ROOM - SIETCH TABR - DAY

Jessica sits with Harah.

--

HARAH

Your Reverence, I don't wish to upset you, but the other women...

223. INT. PASSAGEWAY - SIETCH TABR - DAY

At the end of the passageway, standing alone -- staring with powerful intense blue-within-blue eyes
-- is ALIA. She's listening mentally.

HARAH (V.O.)
...they don't like Alia around. She frightens them. It is the strangeness of your daughter.

224. INT. JESSICA'S ROOM - SIETCH TABR - DAY

JESSICA
It's the way she speaks of things...

Alia is listening - then exits.

225. INT. PASSAGEWAY - SIETCH TABR - DAY

Alia listens mentally.

JESSICA (V.O.)
...beyond her years and of things no child could know -- things of the past.
(pause)

Alia begins walking. She appears to be angry.

JESSICA (V.O.)(CONT'D)
A daughter who knew at birth everything I know...

226. INT. JESSICA'S ROOM - SIETCH TABR - DAY

HARAH
But Your Reverence, they won't have her around them.

Alia enters.

ALIA
(screaming little adult voice) Harah! Would they deny me the right to use this mind?...

--

ALIA (CONT'D)
(using The Voice)
Would they deny me the right to use this
voice?...

Harah's head nearly bursts with pain and she SCREAMS as if she were dying.

JESSICA

Alia!

226A. (Deleted)

228. BACK TO SCENE - EMPEROR'S THRONE ROOM

EMPEROR

(firmly)

I want fifty legions of Sardaukar on Arrakis at once.

SARDAUKAR OFFICER #1

Fifty legions?...

(he looks at the other officers with worry)

That's our entire reserves as well.

EMPEROR

This is genocide... the deliberate and systematic destruction of all life on Arrakis.

228A. NEW SCENE

Ships over Arrakis.

229. through 230. (Deleted)

231. INT. PAUL'S ROOM - SIETCH

There is a growing, powerful sound of a worm approaching as Paul and Chani are lying together in the darkness of their sleeping chamber. Paul's eyes snap open and he sees Chani looking down at him (the last image of the future in the desert).

CHANI

You were calling my name... it frightened me.

--

Page Missing

--

In the hollow of a huge dune, Paul stops with Chani. They share a look into each other's eyes. Paul turns towards the Fedaykin and nods. They move in quickly to tie and wrap Paul in Fremen rope. They move back and wait quietly. Chani moves in very close to Paul. She holds a glass vial of the blue water of life.

PAUL

Hurry! All I see is darkness.

CHANI

Paul... I will love you forever... in life or in death... let Shai-Hulud judge now.

(whispering)

You are my life.

She pours the blue liquid into Paul's mouth. Slow move into Paul's face as:

PAUL
(inner voice)
Now... the test of the water of life... what is it that waits for me in this darkness?

233A. INT. PAUL'S MIND

Fade to black then dissolves to dark blue fluid. A blue drop falls into the blue fluid - a huge low thud - then quiet.

233B. EXT. DESERT - NIGHT

Cut to Paul screaming horribly in the desert.

235. INT. JESSICA'S ROOM - SIETCH TABR - NIGHT

Alia walks forward in the very dark room. Blood rushes from her nose. She forces herself to walk to Jessica's bed. She finds that Jessica's nose is bleeding also. Jessica wakes in pain. They stare at each other in the darkness.

JESSICA
ALIA!

ALIA
Mother - help me!

JESSICA
(struggling)
Alia! What is it?

--

ALIA
It's Paul. He's taken the Water of Life.

233C. INT. PAUL'S MIND

Cut to quiet black - dissolve again to blue - another drop - low thud - quietness - fade to black.

245A. EXT. EMPEROR'S SPACESHIP - SPACE

The Emperor's space ship soars towards us.

246. INT. EMPEROR'S SPACE SHIP - SPACE

The Reverend Mother Helen Mohiam is on the floor, bleeding from the nose and weak from pain. The Emperor looks on in horror.

233D. INT. PAUL'S MIND

Suddenly screaming towards us is white rings, stars and a huge Guild Navigator.

233E. EXT. DESERT - NIGHT

Cut to Paul's eyes - tightly closed, oozing fresh blood.

233F. EXT. DESERT - NIGHT

SCREAMING SOUND. Paul's mouth opens and a giant wind is stirred on the desert.

234. (Deleted)

235A. INT. PAUL'S MIND

Navigator chewing giant eye and spewing blood and light and sounds. Paul's mouth double exposes over Navigator and eye. The sound from Paul's mouth destroys the Navigator and opens the Alam. Navigator bursts into a huge light ring and we quickly travel through ring after ring and masses of liquid stars. The light increases until it is blinding and then in the light...

--

235B. EXT. FLOWER BLOSSOMING

A golden flower blossoms and glows brilliantly - suddenly the powerful sound of an approaching worm.

236. through 239. (Deleted)

240. EXT. DESERT - NIGHT

Chani and the Fedaykin freeze and watch in horror as seven giant worms converge on them. The worms break the desert surface and rise, towering over them. The worms hover and wait.

DISSOLVE TO:

241. through 245. (Deleted)

240A. EXT. DESERT - DAY

Chani looks to the Fedaykin, then they look at Paul who lies motionless. She cuts the rope bonds with her crysknife. Her fingers tremble as does the whole of the desert.

Paul's eyes snap open. He sits up slowly. Chani stares at him in awe.

CHANI

Paul... Paul.

240B. EXT. WAVE CRASHING

A huge wave crashes and Paul sees the image of his father. Paul slowly gets to his knees, then stands.

240C. EXT. DESERT - NIGHT

PAUL
Father!... Father! THE SLEEPER HAS AWAKENED.

Giant echoes of this phrase reverberate across the vast desert. The worms bend back into the sand and leave with thundering power.

MUSIC FULL.

247. through 250. (Deleted)

--

251. EXT. ROCK LEDGE - HALL OF RITES - SIETCH TABR -
NIGHT

The Rock Ledge of Sietch Tabr is filled with Fedaykin and monks; Chani, Jessica, Gurney and Stilgar stand together near the back. Paul moves out on the Rock Ledge overlooking the Hall of Rites which is crowded with Fremen warriors who chant "Maud'Dib" along with the powerful sounds of the WIND ORGAN and FREMEN war DRUMS.

Paul raises his open hand. SILENCE. Only the organ continues with a soft low NOTE. The Fremen wait.

PAUL
Arrakis... Dune... Desert Planet.

A quiet, haunting MOAN of recognition of a master rises from the Fremen.

PAUL (CONT'D)
(loud)
Your time has come.
(inner voice)
Father... our time has come.
(out loud again)
A storm is coming -- our storm... and when it comes it will shake the Universe.
Emperor... we come for you.

A thunderous ROAR arises. War DRUMS pound. The ORGAN blows hurricane of power through the sietch.

PAUL
(he raises crysknife)
Long live the fighters!

STILGAR
Long live the fighters!

Fremen carrying weapons begin moving out in long lines from the Hall as the war DRUMS pound.

251A. through 252B. (Deleted)

265. INT. HARKONNEN `THOPTER - DAY

In one `thopter sits the Baron Harkonnen. He is flown down to the Emperor's ship.

253. EXT. ROCK OUTCROPPING - DEEP DESERT - DAY

A sietch door opens and Fremen warriors stream out.

--
254. (Deleted)

255. EXT. DEEP DESERT - DAY

The WIND is howling and is starting to blow the sand. Dark sand clouds form in the distance.

256. EXT. ROCK OUTCROPPING - DEEP DESERT - DAY

Another sietch door opens and hundreds and thousands more Fremen pour out.

257. EXT. SHIELD WALL - ARRAKEEN - DAY

Paul, Stilgar and Gurney watch the Emperor's enormous ship on the Arrakeen landing field below.

257A. through 258. (Deleted)

260. EXT. DEEP DESERT - DAY

Thousands of Fremen are running, planting thumpers as they go.

259. INT. COMMUNICATION ROOM - ARRAKEEN - DAY

PAUL

Gurney, when the storm hits... set off the atomics. I want an opening through the entire Shield Wall. Stilgar? Do we have wormsign?

Stilgar and Gurney laugh.

STILGAR

Usul... We have wormsign, the likes of which even God has never seen.

Paul smiles.

261. EXT. DEEP DESERT - DAY

Looking down over the huge desert it looks like a living sea of wormsign. Everywhere ripples appear and worms are surfacing.

--

261A. EXT. DEEP DESERT - DAY

Thousands of Fremmen are running, positioning themselves to mount and ride.

262. EXT. DESERT - DAY

Dust clouds grow faster and the speed of the WIND increases. Sand particles hit at a rock outcropping and up close they sound like giant warrior drummers pounding before battle.

263. EXT. HARKONNEN SHIPS - DESERT - NIGHT

Suddenly above come hundreds of SCREAMING space ships zooming down across the desert floor and towards the landing field.

264. (Deleted)

266. EXT. DESERT - DAY

The storm is howling now. Sand blasts against rock and rips pieces away.

267. INT. STEEL TENT - EMPEROR'S SPACE SHIP - DAY

EMPEROR

Bring in that floating fat man... the Baron.

The Baron is brought in. Distant warning SIGNALS begin. The Baron is fighting to contain his fear because RABBAN'S HEAD SITS ALL BLOODY ON THE FLOOR in front of him. Finally the Emperor speaks.

EMPEROR

Why have you brought me here?

BARON

Your Highness... There must be some mistake... I never requested your presence.

EMPEROR

Ah? But your lack of action demanded it. Your dreadful mismanagement, your bad judgement in assigning to Rabban --
(he gestures toward the head)
-- the governorship.... You forced me to come here and set things straight... personally.

--

A VOICE

Bring in the messenger.

Alia is brought in by the Sardaukar soldiers. She is smiling.

ALIA

I am the messenger from Muad'dib. Poor Emperor, I'm afraid my brother won't be very pleased with you.

EMPEROR

Silence!... I do not court your brother's pleasure.

Suddenly the Reverend Mother looks horrified and grabs her throat.

REVEREND MOTHER

(struggling, speaking)

Kill this child!! She's an abomination!! Kill her.

(points to Alia, who is smiling at her)

Get out of my mind!!!

ALIA

Not until you tell them both who I really am.

REVEREND MOTHER

(strained speech void of emotion)

Sister of Paul Muad'dib.

The Reverend Mother slumps. The Baron's mouth flies open. The Emperor's face goes pale, his lips tremble.

EMPEROR

Paul's sister... Paul is Muad'dib?!

He turns quickly and looks at the two Guild agents present in the room. They stare at him icily. Alia is smiles happily.

268. INT. COMMUNICATION ROOM - ARRAKEEN - DAY

Paul smiles.

PAUL

(laughs)(to Gurney and Stilgar)

Alia keeps pace with the storm.

--

Gurney and Stilgar don't understand. Suddenly enormous dust clouds and LIGHTNING sweep up over the Shield Wall.

PAUL

Gurney, now!

Gurney gives a hand signal and...

GURNEY
(they put on their hoods)
Atomics!

269. EXT. SHIELD WALL - ARRAKEEN - DAY

...TWENTY EXPLOSIONS of hydrogen bomb intensity go off in a row, cutting a huge gorge through the width of the massive Shield Wall. As the EXPLOSIONS go off, a WIND howls, destroying much of Arrakeen and covering the rest with tons of sand. Sand rips at the Palace and the Emperor's ship.

270. INT. STEEL TENT - EMPEROR'S SPACE SHIP - DAY

Alia smiles as they HEAR the tremendous roaring, atomic screams of the explosions. The Emperor's ship's warning SIGNALS are now close and loud.

ALIA
My brother is coming... with many Fremen warriors.

A Sardaukar rushes in.

SARDAUKAR OFFICER #2
The Shield Wall is gone.

EMPEROR Impossible!

ALIA
Not impossible. I told you... He is here now.

SARDAUKAR OFFICER #2
Majesty, into the ship!

EMPEROR
(to his officers)(rising)
Release the Sardaukar. Baron... give this little abomination to the storm.

They all leave the room, including the Sardaukars.

--

270A. through 271. (Deleted)

272. INT. STEEL TENT - EMPEROR'S SPACE SHIP - DAY

BARON
I have her, Majesty!

The Baron floats down to her. Alia turns to him -- still smiling. With a flash of her hand she reaches out and swipes at the Baron's face. He CRIES OUT in pain. She pulls his suspensor plugs and pushes him back, then slowly shows him the tiny needle she holds in her hand. He spins crazily as he screams from the poison.

273. EXT. SHIELD WALL - ARRAKEEN - DAY

Worms, each with hundreds of Fremmen on them, come slithering through the newly-formed canyon in the Shield Wall.

273A. EXT. WORMS - SHIELD WALL - ARRAKEEN - DAY

Paul rides the lead worm with Gurney and Stilgar by his side. The storm is howling and blowing with horrifying intensity.

273B. INT. EMPEROR'S SPACE SHIP - CONTROL ROOM - DAY

The Emperor and his Sardaukar officers in a darkened room where they are horrified to see on the screens the hundreds of worms which are coming into the Arrakeen valley. All their faces show fear.

272. BACK TO SCENE

INT. EMPEROR'S SPACE SHIP - GREEN THRONE ROOM - DAY

Suddenly the wall behind Alia and the spinning Baron is completely blown away by a BLAST.

The Baron floats and spins out into the storm.

274. EXT. ARRAKEEN - DAY

As the worms enter the Arrakeen basin they meet the Sardaukar. The Sardaukar don't have a chance -- the worms suck them up by the hundreds. The Fremmen on the worm's backs fire weapons, killing the few Sardaukar the worms leave behind.

275. EXT. LANDING FIELD - ARRAKEEN - DAY

The space ships which were recently airborne are now crashing because of the storm.

--

272A. NEW SCENE

The Baron floats and spins high in the dust clouds of the storm over the Arrakeen Valley.

274A. NEW SCENE

The worm, that Paul, Gurney and Stilgar are riding, suddenly rears up. Its mouth opens. The Baron appears as a tiny spinning shape. He flies directly into the mouth of this colossal worm and is devoured.

277. EXT. STEEL TENT - LANDING FIELD - ARRAKEEN - DAY

A thousand Fremmen battle Sardaukar outside the Emperor's tent. They soon overpower them and rush into the giant steel structure.

278. EXT. LANDING FIELD - ARRAKEEN - DAY

The entire airfield is now filled with wild worms, Fremmen, and dead or dying Sardaukar.

276. EXT. LANDING FIELD - ARRAKEEN - DAY

Alia moves dreamily among the dying Sardaukar.

279. through 280. (Deleted)

281. INT. GREAT HALL - ARRAKEEN PALACE - DAY

Paul enters the Palace hall and the first thing he sees is the giant bull's head. The horns have been blown off and the Atreides banner has been stuffed and wired into the mouth.

A WIND moans through the Palace.

Paul turns. Gurney and several guards bring in the Emperor, Irulan, the Reverend Mother, Sardaukar generals, Guildsmen, Feyd and Thufir. The Fedaykin and Fremmen troops line the walls.

Paul's eyes meet Feyd's -- Feyd gives him an evil smile.

Paul turns and looks at the Emperor, who stares back defiantly. Paul moves his gaze to Irulan, who lowers her eyes. He then sees his old teacher, Thufir Hawat, whose tired eyes wander helplessly.

--

PAUL

Gurney... I see Thufir Hawat among the captives. Let him stand free.

GURNEY

My Lord?

PAUL

Let him stand free!

The Emperor turns nervously to Feyd, who passes a golden dagger to Thufir.

FEYD

(to Thufir)

The antidote...

GURNEY

(gestures to Thufir)

Thufir. Come.

Thufir approaches Paul, concealing the knife. They come face to face. The Emperor seems strangely tense at this moment. Paul notices this. He looks Thufir over.

PAUL (CONT'D)
(inner voice)
A knife....
(out loud)
In payment of the many years of service to my family, you may know ask of me anything you wish. Anything at all.
(quietly)
Do you need my life, old friend?

He turns his back on him.

PAUL (CONT'D)
(quiet)
It is yours.

Thufir's eyes grow sad and wide.

PAUL
I mean this, Thufir. If you are to strike, do it now.

Thufir's hand rises, as Jessica gasps, but the old Mentat pulls his heart plug out with a quick tearing motion. Paul turns and catches him as he sags.

His head lolls back and he looks up to Paul urgently.

--

THUFIR (CONT'D)
Three... generations... of you...

His breath escapes him and he is dead.

PAUL
(to the guards)
Carry this noble Atreides warrior away.
Do him all honor.

The guards do as they are instructed.

PAUL
Emperor Shadam the IV... there are Guild Heighliners above us containing many Great Houses of the Lansraad.... SEND THEM BACK!

EMPEROR
How dare you speak to me...

GUILDSMAN #2
(speaking into electric microphone)
Stop your speaking!!

PAUL
(to the Guildsmen)
Good. You have some idea of what I would do but I will tell it to one who has never been seen... one who hides deep in the Heighliner control rooms. He will hear it first.

GUILDSMEN #3
(fear)
No!

Paul smiles as we move closer and closer to him.

282. INT. CONTROL ROOM - HEIGHLINER - SPACE

Suddenly we are in the Heighliner control room, near the floor in the chemical spills. We move up into the orange gas. THUNDERING begins to shake the Heighliner.

PAUL (V.O.)
Where are you.... Let me see you or there will be no spice.

--

We move into very thick gas and there is a ROARING. Suddenly Paul sees the Third Stage Navigator.

PAUL (V.O.)(CONT'D)
You know what I'm about to say is true....
I have the power to destroy the spice forever.

The Guild Navigator's mouth stretches back in a horrible MOAN. The moan becomes more pained and grows louder and louder.

283. INT. GREAT HALL - ARRAKEEN PALACE - DAY

The Guildsmen in the room are MOANING and SCREAMING and swarming out towards the doorway -- the Fremmen stop them. The Emperor and all are amazed and frightened. There is a long hush. The old Reverend Mother then turns and glares at Paul.

PAUL (CONT'D)
Don't try your powers on me. Try looking into that place where you dare not look. You'll find me there staring back at you!! You Bene Gesserit have waited ninety generations to produce the one person your schemes required. Here I stand. But... I will never be yours.

REVEREND MOTHER
Stop him, Jessica!

JESSICA

Stop him yourself.

PAUL

You saw a part of what the race needs in the beginning. In time you perverted the truth. You sought to control human breeding and intermix a select few according to a selfish master plan. How little you understand.

REVEREND MOTHER

You mustn't speak of...

PAUL

(using The Voice)

SILENCE!

The old woman is shot backwards by the power of his shout. Her breath is knocked out of her.

PAUL (CONT'D)

I remember your gom jabbar, now you remember mine. I can kill with a word.

--

A Fedaykin stand forward and recites from the prophecy.

FEDAYKIN #1

...and his word shall carry death eternal to those who stand against the righteous.

Feyd hears this and is angered.

FEYD

The righteous!

PAUL

(to Emperor)

There is a Harkonnen among you. Give the Harkonnen a blade and let him stand forth.

EMPEROR

If Feyd wishes, he can meet you with my blade in his hand.

FEYD

I wish it.

(steps forward)

GURNEY

This is a Harkonnen animal. Let me, please, my Lord.

PAUL

The Emperor's blade.

Feyd takes up the Emperor's blade with a smile. Paul takes out his crysknife. They begin to circle each other.

Paul smiles, circling still. Suddenly, Feyd leaps, his blade jabbing savagely outward, but Paul easily evades it, moving away. They begin to circle again.

He makes another pass at Paul that comes dangerously close, but again, Paul is away, a frozen smile on his face.

FEYD

Why prolong the inevitable? I will kill you! I will kill him!

Feyd smiles. He lashes out biting Paul's hand. Feyd LAUGHS in triumph.

Feyd leaps forward jabbing, his right hip also forward. Yet Paul, although a little slowly, again reels away. Again, Feyd thrusts.

--

This time Paul jabs with his crysknife, but Feyd moves away effortlessly. Feyd counters and kicks Paul to the ground.

CHANI

Paul!

Paul is up instantly and he circles with Feyd.

FEYD

(smiling)

Who is the little one? A pet, perhaps? Will she deserve my special attentions?

Paul jabs out, his crysknife slashing. Feyd grabs his arm, and Paul his, the two men locked in a straining clinch. Feyd presses his right hip closer and closer to Paul's body. Paul strains to keep it away. Suddenly, the gom jabbar flips out of Feyd's girdle, but on the left side, and he lunges powerfully with it at Paul, who just barely misses taking it in his skin. He throws Feyd back, but not before Feyd's feet strike out, sending Paul to the floor. Feyd leaps onto him.

FEYD

(whispering)

You see... your death... my blade will finish you.

Suddenly, Paul, with lightning swiftness, pushes Feyd up and over. He is on top of him in a flash.

Paul's crysknife flashes up, thrusting upward through Feyd's jaw. Feyd's mouth opens as the knife continues up through his tongue and through to his brain. Feyd's eyes go wild, then glaze over as he jerks dead on the floor. Paul slowly gets to his feet, breathing heavily. Anger still seething in him, Paul issues a SOUND -- a loud, horrible, powerful sound, and Feyd's internal organs rupture and the stone floor under him cracks open. The Fedaykin smile.

FEDAYKIN #2

Usul no longer needs the weirding module.

Everyone stares in disbelief. Paul looks to the Emperor.

PAUL

Now, I will tell you how it will be.
Irulan shall be my wife, opening the way for an Atreides to take the throne.

EMPEROR

I sit on the throne!!

--

PAUL

You will sit on a throne on Selusa Secundus, your prison planet. Either that or you will die.

The Emperor is still. Paul moves to Chani.

PAUL (CONT'D)

(to Chani)

The Princess shall have no more of me than my name... no child of mine or touch the softness of glance... nor instant of desire.... This is my promise to you...

(whispering)

...my love.

Paul turns back to the others.

Jessica turns to Chani and whispers to her.

JESSICA

Think on it Chani... We who carry the name of concubine... history will call us wives.

Alia enters with two monks. She signals and one of them places a cloak over Paul's shoulders.

PAUL

The Fremmen have the word of Muad'dib.
They will have their Holy War to cleanse the Universe... they will have Arrakis...
Dune... their planet. There will be flowing water here open to the sky and rich green oases. For the spice there will always be some desert. There will be fierce winds and trials to toughen men.

We Fremmen have a saying...
 (he stares at the Reverend Mother)
"God created Arrakis to train the faithful."
One cannot go against the word of God.

Everyone in the room stares at him soundlessly.

ALIA
And how can this be?

There are three powerful drum hits.

ALIA (CONT'D)
For... he is the Kwisatz Haderach!

--

284. EXT. ARRAKEEN PALACE - DUSK

Paul opens his mouth and issues an ever increasing wind. Lightning and thunder begin. Clouds begin to form over the Palace. In the half-light of dusk, thousands of Fremmen watch the sky. Giant golden lights are illuminated and their rays shoot far into the sky illuminating the growing clouds. Five tremendous bolts of lightning suddenly unleash a downpour of RAIN ON ARRAKIS. The Fremmen stand awestruck as they are drenched with water falling from the sky.

285. INT. GREAT HALL - ARRAKEEN PALACE - DAY

WE MOVE through Paul's glowing blue eyes into beautiful blue luminescent light.

A gigantic WIND arises, and suddenly appearing in the blue light is an ocean of light rolling like gold glass off into infinite. The blue becomes darker and a golden lotus flower blooms in the night.

THE END

This script was found in INFlow. It was shameless taken off from somewhere else, may god, copyright owners and people who worked hard and were not credited forgive us.

Screenplays and movie scripts organized alphabetically:

<#>ABCDEFGHIJKLMNOPQRSTUVWXYZ PDF ALL

Event Horizon (1997)

by Philip Eisner.

Shooting draft

More info about this movie on IMDb.com

EXT. NEPTUNE - MODEL INTERPLANETARY SPACE

A vast field of stars. The gas giant Neptune slowly spins into view. Brilliant and blue and cold against the void.

EXT. NEPTUNE - MODEL A BLACK SILHOUETTE stands out against the planet, tiny against Neptune's scale.

EXT. NEPTUNE - MODEL DRIFT CLOSER to discern the hard angles of a man-made craft. A ship. No longer dwarfed by the planet, the scale of the vessel emerges: a vast labyrinth of steel.

Its shadow swallows all in darkness.

DISSOLVE TO:

INT. EVENT HORIZON - GRAVITY COUCH BAY

Shafts of Neptune's blue light enter through windows, illuminate debris suspended in the zero-gravity environment: shards of metal and glass.

MOVE from the Corridor into:

INT. EVENT HORIZON - BRIDGE

A cockpit for three. Neptune's blue light fills the chamber, reflects off immobile particles in the air. Thick quartz windows look down at Neptune. The cockpit lights are dark but for one blinking red light.

An emergency beacon. Under-floor lights go on.

The strobe of the red light reveals a man floating at the helm, slowly spinning. He is dead, perfectly preserved in the cold vacuum of space. His eyes are empty black pits and his mouth hangs open in a scream: DR. WILLIAM WEIR.

CUT TO:

INT. STUDIO APARTMENT

Weir opens his eyes, waking from dream. Sweat beads his ascetic, etched face. Many years a scientist.

He turns on the bedside lamp, revealing a couple's apartment. Decorated by a woman, but Weir is alone, unless you count photographs. His nightstand looks like a shrine to a beautiful woman.

Weir reaches to the stand. Picks up...

RECENT, UNFRAMED PHOTO

The woman appears thin and haggard and wears a small brave smile.

Weir lies back on the bed. Looks at the photo. Presses it to his forehead and closes his eyes. Trying to be with her, just one more time.

WEIR
(whisper)
I miss you.

INT. STUDIO APARTMENT - LATER

Weir stands in front of the bathroom mirror, shaving with a straight-razor. The mirror reveals the bathtub just behind him. DRIP, DRIP, DRIP...

Weir turns to stare at the bathtub. Water wells up at the mouth of the tub's faucet, grows impossibly large, falls... DRIP.

Weir turns back to his shaving.

INT. STUDIO APARTMENT - LATER

Weir stands in the kitchenette, staring at the microwave as it cooks his breakfast.

INT. STUDIO APARTMENT - LATER

Weir stands before his window, chewing his oatmeal mechanically, forcing himself to swallow. He reaches out to open the blinds...

INT. STUDIO APARTMENT REVERSE ANGLE

as the blinds pull aside, revealing Weir, upside-down.

ROTATE AND PULL BACK...

EXT. DAYLIGHT STATION - MODEL TO REVEAL DAYLIGHT STATION

Weir's window is just one of many in a space station, a delicate combination of cylindrical habitats and solar panels. The structure hangs above the Earth in low orbit.

TITLE CARD: DAYLIGHT SPACE STATION 08.23.2046

INT. STUDIO APARTMENT (BLINDS OPEN)

A videophone RINGS OS...

WEIR (V.O.)
This is Weir.

LYLE (V.O.)
(tinny)
Dr. Weir, Admiral Hollis would like to see you as soon as possible.

CUT TO:

INT. DAYLIGHT - OFFICE

A military office, United States Aerospace Command seal blazoned on the door. Views of the Earth. Admiral HOLLIS sits behind his desk, a gruff career officer and a good man.

Weir enters, escorted by Hollis' adjutant, LYLE.

WEIR
You wanted to see me, Admiral?

HOLLIS
I apologize for the short notice,
Bill, but we've had something come up that requires your immediate attention. Lyle?

INT. HOLOGRAPHIC DISPLAY OF THE SOLAR SYSTEM

Lyle activates a holographic display of the solar system. A box magnifies the eighth planet, Neptune, revealing a flashing red dot in its orbit.

INT. DAYLIGHT OFFICE

LYLE

At oh-three-hundred this morning,
TDRSS picked up an automated navigation beacon broadcasting at two minute intervals in Neptune orbit.

Lyle hands Weir a stack of hardcopy data. Weir reads the data with growing excitement.

WEIR

Incredible... These are the same coordinates before the ship disappeared... this, this happened?
This isn't some kind of hoax?

HOLLIS

I wouldn't bring you here on a hoax.
Houston confirms the telemetry and
I.D. codes.

WEIR

(excited)

It's the Event Horizon. She's come back.

Hollis answers drily.

HOLLIS

That ship was lost in deep space, seven years ago. If the Titanic sailed into New York harbor, I'd find it more plausible.

(beat)

Houston wants Aerospace to send out a search and rescue team, investigate the source of the transmission. If it really is the Event Horizon, they'll attempt a salvage.

(beat)

We need you to prepare a detailed briefing on the ship's systems for the salvage crew...

WEIR

A written briefing can't possibly anticipate the variables on a mission like this. I have to go with them.

Lyle looks at Weir, stunned by the request.

LYLE

Dr. Weir, you have no experience with salvage procedures.

WEIR

I designed the ship's propulsion system. I am the only person capable of evaluating the performance of the gravity drive. You can't send a Search and Rescue team out there alone and expect them to succeed. That would be like... like sending an auto-mechanic to work on the shuttle.

LYLE

I can understand your desire to redeem your reputation, Dr. Weir, but it doesn't factor into this.

WEIR

This is not about my reputation!
This is not about me at all!

(beat, passionate)

The Event Horizon was created for one reason: to go faster than light. Imagine mankind exploring new solar systems, colonizing new worlds. Seven years ago, we didn't just lose the ship and the crew. We lost the dream.

(beat, quiet and relentless)

I have to go.

HOLLIS

It's not that simple.

(off of Weir's expression)

Lyle, play the recording for Dr. Weir.

LYLE

Navigation Control tried to hail the vessel. This was the only response.

Lyle presses a button on Hollis' desk. An unholy GARBLE rips from office speakers: STATIC and NOISE and INHUMAN VOICES. Alone, each sound would raise the hair on your neck. Together, they are unbearable.

The sound mercifully cuts off to STATIC. Lyle stops the tape.

Weir sits there, stunned.

LYLE

Since the initial transmission, there's been no further contact.

Just the beacon, every two minutes.

WEIR

The crew? Could they still be alive?

LYLE

The ship had life support systems for eighteen months. They're been gone seven years.

WEIR

Someone sent that message. Admiral, you have to put me on that ship.

Hollis stares at Weir, judging the man with his eyes.

HOLLIS

It's against my better judgement, but I'll run this by the Man downstairs. You'll know my decision by the end of the day.

WEIR

Thank you.

HOLLIS

Don't thank me, Bill. I'm not doing you any favors.

Weir leaves. The door closes behind him.

LYLE

You're not seriously considering sending him?

HOLLIS

You don't just dismiss Bill Weir. The man held Oppenheimer's chair at Princeton. If the Event Horizon had worked, he would have gone down in history as the greatest mind in physics since Einstein.

LYLE

The official inquiry blamed Weir's design for the ship's loss.

HOLLIS

That doesn't mean a damn thing. They were looking for a scapegoat and Weir fit the bill. But he's not responsible for what happened to the ship.

LYLE
Does he know that?

HOLLIS
What's on your mind?

LYLE
He doesn't belong on this mission.
Responsible or not, he blames himself.
He's too close to it.
(beat)
And then there's his wife.

HOLLIS
It's been two years since she died.
He's over it.

LYLE
Some things you don't get over.

Beat.

HOLLIS
I want our best people on this.
Where's Miller?

LYLE
The Lewis and Clark just returned from patrol in the asteroid belt, she's docked in bay four.

CUT TO:

EXT. DAYLIGHT STATION/EXT. LEWIS AND CLARK

The Lewis and Clark pulls away from Daylight station, turns towards the depths of space. It is a tough-looking spacecraft, all engine.

Sequence omitted from original script.

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - BRIDGE

MOVE IN on thick quartz windows near the ship's nose: the bridge...

Split level. Above: avionics, navigation, flight control. STARCK (female, Navigator, sharp mind, sharp tongue) checks the navigation data on her screen as SMITH (male, Pilot, wrapped too tight) punches in the course.

SMITH

I can't believe this, I haven't gotten more than my hand in six weeks and now this shit. Why not Mars, Cap, Mars has women...

STARCK
Smith's right. Neptune? There's nothing out there. If something happens, we'll be on our own.

The captain's chair drops from above, swivels to reveal MILLER (male, Captain, intense).

MILLER
I don't like it either, but you know the rules: we get the call, we go. Is the course locked in?

SMITH
Locked and cocked.

STARCK
We're past the outer marker, we can engage the ion drive whenever you're ready.

MILLER
Justin?

Below: the bridge's "war-room" -- ship's systems and mission stations. JUSTIN (male, Engineer, young hot-shot).

JUSTIN
Everything green on my boards, Skipper.

MILLER
Start the countdown.

STARCK
Ion drive will engage in... T-minus ten minutes.

MILLER
Let's go.

Miller slides down a ladder into the war-room. The others follow into...

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - AIRLOCK BAY

Bulky EVA (extra-vehicular activity) suits line the walls. MUSIC blares from a JAMBOX, built into a storage locker.

An Emergency Tech stows safety lines: COOPER -- male, the resident pain-in-the-ass. He SINGS along with the music.

MILLER
(not breaking stride)
Kill it.

Cooper reaches up, turns off the box.

COOPER
Time to play Spam in the can.

MILLER
Don't start with me, Cooper.

Cooper falls in as the crew continues into...

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - QUARTERS

Evidence of long term habitation. Personalized lockers. Fold-down bunks, chairs, tables; currently stowed for docking. A modular galley.

PETERS (female, Emergency Technician, the crew's denmother) and DJ (male, Doctor, a cold perfectionist) load CO2 scrubbers into a bin in the floor.

Weir stands to the side like a fifth wheel.

WEIR
Captain Miller, I just want to say...

MILLER
The clock is running, Dr. Weir. If you'll follow the rest of the crew, they'll show you to the gravity tanks.

Weir hesitates, then follows the crew into Medical. Miller hangs back.

MILLER
What's the hold up?

PETERS
Just loading the last of the CO2 scrubbers.
(to Miller, accusatory)
Good for four months.

MILLER
I put in for a replacement for you but no one...

PETERS

No, no, its alright. I talked to my ex, he'll keep Denny over Christmas and I'll get him this summer.

(beat)

Goddam it, Skipper... I haven't seen him in two months.

MILLER

I am sorry. But now we have to go to work.

CUT TO:

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - MEDICAL

A high tech operating room. Modular equipment. Vertical tanks line the walls, each large enough to hold a human being: gravity couches.

The crew stands before the gravity couches, almost nude, no room for modesty.

Starck catches Cooper looking at her ass as she strips to her undergarments. Cooper grins. She flips him off, not bothering to turn around.

COOPER

Is that an offer?

STARCK

It is not.

Miller disrobes. Two service tags hang around his neck. He does not remove them. Weir approaches him.

WEIR

Captain Miller, I appreciate this opportunity...

MILLER

Doctor Weir, my crew is not going on your mission because we want to. We were pulled off a well deserved leave, to be sent out to the middle of nowhere, and no one's even told us why.

WEIR

I've been authorized to brief you and the crew once we reach Neptune space.

MILLER
Until then, do what you're told and stay out of my way.

Weir nods, moves to an empty couch bearing his name, written on a piece of tape. Peters watches him.

PETERS
First time in a grav couch?

WEIR
Yes.

She checks Weir's couch, helps him climb in. Weir keeps one eye on Miller.

PETERS
(Off of Weir's glance)
Don't worry about it. He's hard, but he's fair. You're lucky to be shipping out with him. He's one of the few Captains in the service with experience in the Outer Reach.

WEIR
He's been past Mars?

PETERS
He served on the Goliath.

WEIR
Wasn't that ship destroyed?

PETERS
(nods)
They attempted to rescue a supply shuttle bound for Titan. The shuttle's oh-two tanks ruptured during the rescue, flooded both ships with pure oxygen. There was a spark and both ships were incinerated. The Skipper and three others just made it to a lifeboat. Captain Miller was able...

DJ
(interrupting)
He doesn't like to talk about it.

DJ swathes one of Weir's arms with alcohol.

DJ
You didn't eat anything in the past twelve hours?

Weir shakes his head.

DJ
When the Ion drive fires, we'll be taking about 30 gees. Without a tank, the force would liquefy your skeleton.

DJ injects Weir. The scientist winces.

WEIR
I've seen the effect on mice.

The overhead lights change to red.

MILLER
Five minutes.

DJ hands him the breathing mask.

DJ
Put this on.

Weir does. DJ checks the fit.

PETERS
You'll be fine. You'll wake up and we'll be there. Watch your fingers.

DJ closes the tank. It begins to fill with green gel. Weir's eyes grow large with fear and then the anaesthesia hits. His eyes close. His body draws into a fetal position.

DJ
(checking the monitor)
Heart-rate decreasing... body temp dropping to 80... 70... 60... 50...
40 degrees Fahrenheit. He's in stasis.

CUT TO:

EXT. LEWIS AND CLARK - MODEL

THE ION ENGINE at the aft of the ship begins to glow a deep red.

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - MEDICAL

The crew hang inert in the gravity couches.

EXT. LEWIS AND CLARK - MODEL

SILENCE. The engine flares white hot. The Lewis and Clark lances forward.

CUT TO:

EXT. LEWIS AND CLARK - INTERPLANETARY SPACE - MODEL

The Lewis and Clark races SILENTLY past. The engine at its aft holds a sustained fusion reaction like the sun.

GRAPHIC: U.S.S. Lewis and Clark. 56 days out.

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - MEDICAL CLOSE ON WEIR

immobile in the grav tank. He might be sleeping. He might be dead. A distant SOUND echoes though the ship, the unholy garble of human and inhuman voices -- it is the Event Horizon, calling to him -- the sound refines into a WOMAN'S VOICE, no more than a WHISPER:

VOICE
Billy...

Weir opens his eyes.

VOICE
I'm so cold...

Weir's grav tank opens.

WIDER TO REVEAL

the seven bodies of the crew, suspended inert in the gel.

A sound: DRIP... DRIP... DRIP...

Weir slowly walks to the Bridge.

VOICE
I'm so cold...

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - BRIDGE

A naked WOMAN sits at the helm, her back to us. Completely still. Her skin is very pale. Water pools around her chair.
Weir stands behind her.

WEIR
(tentative) Claire?

She does not answer. She does not move. Weir reaches out to touch her shoulder, then pulls his hand back, afraid.

WEIR
Claire? I'm sorry. Claire?

He reaches out again. He touches her hair. She doesn't move. Weir catches her reflection in the computer monitors. Something wrong with her face... He starts to spin her around.

CLAIRE
I'm so cold...

CUT TO:

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - MEDICAL

Weir awakes with a jolt, in his grav couch. His mask has slipped. His tank has filled with blood. He is drowning.

CUT TO:

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - MEDICAL

Reality. Weir's eyes open. He presses against the glass of the tank, trying to force it open, panicked. The others are already stepping from open tanks.

Weir's tank opens with a HISS. He tumbles to the floor, gasping, fluid streaming from his mouth.

Peters rushes to him.

WEIR
(gasping)
Claire...

PETERS
DJ!
(to Weir)
It's okay. You're okay. Just breathe.

Weir catches his breath. He looks up. The crew surrounds him, concerned.

WEIR
I'm alright now. I'm alright...

DJ helps him to his feet.

DJ
Move slowly. You've been in stasis for fifty-six days. You're going to experience a little disorientation.

Weir nods.

COOPER
Damn, Dr. Weir, don't scare us like that. Coffee?

WEIR
What?

COOPER
Coffee.

WEIR
No, thank you.

Cooper, still butt-naked and proud of it, grabs a metal cylinder from the wall and pours a mug for himself.

COOPER
Hey, Starck. You wanna dry my back?

Starck gives him a cool once over.

STARCK
Maybe when you finish puberty.

Miller zips up.

MILLER
Starck, why aren't you on the bridge?

STARCK
I just finished drying...

MILLER
Then what are you doing here? Come on, people, let's go!
(to Cooper)
And Cooper... Put some pants on.

CUT TO:

EXT. INTERPLANETARY SPACE - LEWIS AND CLARK - MODEL

SILENCE. The Lewis and Clark drifts towards Neptune.

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - QUARTERS

The crew has secured the quarters from flight status. Bunks have been folded down, each alcove personalized with photographs and pin-ups.

DJ moves around the cabin, checking the crew's radiation badges.

Cooper and Justin sit on their bunks, tossing a handball across the cabin.

Peters holds a "Watchman" video unit, watching a "video letter"...

EXT. PETERS HOME - GARDEN (DENNY'S PARTY)

...from DENNY, her four-year-old son, a paraplegic, grinning widely in his new wheelchair:

DENNY
(video)
Play horsey, Mommy, play horsey...

IN THE VIDEO, Peters enters shot, scoops her child from the chair.

PETERS
(video)
Want to play horsey, do you...
(etc.)

INT. LEWIS AND CLARKE - QUARTERS

Weir sits huddled in a blanket. Miller takes a seat next to him.

Starck and Smith enter. Starck sits next to Miller.

SMITH
30 hours to Neptune orbit.

STARCK
All boards are green, everything's five by five.

MILLER
That's good to know. Justin, you wanna stow that?

Justin catches the ball, holds onto it.

MILLER
Okay, listen up. As you all know by now, we have an addition to our crew.
Dr. Weir, this is: Starck, navigation;
Smith, pilot, Justin, ship's engineer --

COOPER
You can call him Baby-bear, he loves that...

MILLER
This is Cooper, what the hell do you do on this ship, anyway?

JUSTIN
Ballast.

COOPER
(to Weir)
I am your best friend. I am a lifesaver and a heartbreaker...

MILLER
He's a rescue technician. Peters, medical technician. DJ...

DJ
Trauma.

MILLER
And this is mission specialist Dr.
William Weir. We all know where we're going. Dr. Weir is going to tell us
why.

Miller and the crew look at Weir, waiting. Weir clears his throat.

WEIR
What I am about to tell you is considered code-black by the NSA.

The crew look at each other: they haven't heard that in a mission briefing before.

JUSTIN
That means top-secret, Cooper.

COOPER
I heard it.

WEIR
The USAC intercepted a radio transmission from a decaying orbit around Neptune. The source has been identified as the Event Horizon.

STUNNED SILENCE. Then everyone talks at once:

STARCK

That's impossible! She was lost with all hands, what, seven...

JUSTIN

Seven years ago, the reactor blew...

PETERS

How can we salvage...?

SMITH

Let the dead rest, man...

COOPER

...cancel our leave and send us out on some bullshit mission...!

MILLER

EVERYBODY SHUT UP! Let the man speak.

In the quiet that follows:

WEIR

What was made public about the Event Horizon, that she was a deep space research vessel, that its reactor went critical, that the ship blew up... None of that is true.

(beat)

The Event Horizon was the culmination of a secret government project to create a spacecraft capable of faster-than-light flight.

The crew stares at Weir: he has just dropped another bomb on them.

SMITH

You can't do that.

STARCK

The law of relativity prohibits faster-than-light travel...

WEIR

Relativity, yes. We can't break the law of relativity, but we can go around it. The ship doesn't really move faster than the speed of light; it creates a dimensional gateway that allows the ship to instantaneously "jump" from one point in the universe to another, light years away.

STARCK

How?

WEIR

Well, in layman's terms, you use a rotating magnetic field to focus a narrow beam of gravitons; these in turn fold space-time consistent with Weyl tensor dynamics until the space-time curvature becomes infinitely large and you have a singularity...

COOPER

Laymen's terms.

Weir thinks of another way to explain it. He rips a pin-up from Smith's locker.

SMITH

Hey...

WEIR

Say this paper represents space-time, and you want to get from "point A" here...

(marks it on the photo with a pen)

...to "point B," here.

(marks point B)

Now: what's the shortest distance between two points?

The crew stares at him. Starck decides to play.

STARCK

A straight line.

WEIR

Wrong. The shortest distance between two points...

Weir folds the paper, lining up point A over point B... then THRUSTING his pen through both, skewering the pin-up.

WEIR

...is zero. That's what the singularity does: it folds space, so that point A and point B coexist in the same space and time. After the ship passes through this gateway, space returns to normal.

(hands the ruined pin-up back to Smith)

It's called a gravity drive.

JUSTIN
How do you know all this?

WEIR
I built it.

Even Cooper is impressed.

COOPER
I can see why they sent you along.

JUSTIN
So if the ship didn't blow up, what happened?

WEIR
It was the ship's maiden voyage, to test the drive. The Event Horizon moved to safe distance using ion thrusters. They received the go-ahead to activate the gravity drive.

(beat)
And the ship vanished from all our scopes. No radar contact, no enhanced optical, no radio contact of any kind. They disappeared without a trace.

(beat)
Until now.

MILLER
Where has it been for the last seven years?

WEIR
That's what we're here to find out.

CUT TO:

EXT. INTERPLANETARY SPACE - MODEL

The Lewis and Clark flashes silently past, heading deeper and deeper into space.

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - BRIDGE

The crew assembled.

WEIR
We haven't been able to confirm any live contact, but TDRSS did receive a single transmission from the Event Horizon.

Weir punches a button on a console. The transmission BLARES from the bridge's speakers, STATIC and NOISE and, underneath all, INHUMAN VOICES.

The crew listen, look at one another. The recording ends abruptly.

SMITH
What the hell is that?

PETERS
It doesn't sound like anything human.

WEIR
Houston has passed the recording through several filters and isolated what appears to be a human voice.

He activates a different file. The resulting WAIL is more human but no less terrifying, a cry of despair. The last message from a drowning man...

SMITH
Jesus...

MILLER
What is that?

DJ
It sounds like Latin.

COOPER
Latin? Who the fuck speaks Latin?

STARCK
No one. It's a dead language.

DJ
Mostly dead.

MILLER
What does it say?

WEIR
NSA encryption specialists have deciphered some of the message...

Weir plays the HELLISH INCANTATION for a third time.

WEIR
There: "...liberatis me..." They haven't been able to translate the rest, it's too distorted.

DJ
"Liberatis me." "Save me."

COOPER
From what?

MILLER
(to Weir)
You're convinced the crew could still be alive? After seven years?

WEIR
The Event Horizon only had life support for eighteen months. It seems impossible, but in light of the transmission... I have to think that someone has managed to endure until now.

COOPER
Skipper, do we get hazard pay for this?

MILLER
You heard the tape, Smith. We're looking for survivors.

CUT TO:

EXT. NEPTUNE - LEWIS AND CLARK - MODEL

The Lewis and Clark closes in on the blue planet.

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - BRIDGE

The flight crew assembled. Data flashes across the main monitors on the bridge.

STARCK
Crossing the horizon. Optimum approach angle is fourteen degrees.

MILLER
Come around to three-three-four...

SMITH
(echoing)
Heading three-three-four...

MILLER
(continuing)
...Make your approach vector negative fourteen degrees...

SMITH
One-four degrees...

EXT. LEWIS AND CLARK - NEPTUNE ORBIT - MODEL

RCS thrusters pivot and fire as the ship enters Neptune orbit, dropping lower and lower into the dense blue clouds...

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - BRIDGE

The ship begins to rock as it encounters atmosphere, a growing vibration.

GRAPHICS flash across the main window's HUD. Neptune's dark shadow fills the screen.

SMITH
We have a lock on the Event Horizon's navigation beacon. It's in the upper ionosphere, we're in for some chop.

MILLER
Bring us in tight. Starck, get on the horn, see if anyone's listening...

STARCK
(into radio)
This is U.S. Aerospace Command vessel
Lewis and Clark, hailing Event Horizon, Event Horizon, do you read...? This is the Lewis and Clark, hailing...
(she continues B.G.)

SMITH
(over Starck)
Matching speed... now. Range to target ten thousand meters and closing...
Skipper, I got a bad feeling about this...

MILLER
We're all on edge, Smith. We're a long way out...

SMITH
That's not it. That ship was built to go faster than light... That's just wrong, it goes against everything we know...

MILLER
What are you trying to say? "If God had intended Man to fly, he would have given us wings?"

SMITH
Something like that, yeah.

Miller grins grimly.

MILLER
I guess we're about to find out.
Keep us slow and steady.

SMITH
Yes, sir.

MILLER
Dr. Weir...!

Weir sticks his head into the bridge.

MILLER
I think you want to see this.

Weir climbs up the ladder to the flight deck.

WEIR
Where is she?

SMITH
Dead ahead, 5000 meters.

Suddenly, the ship SHUDDERS VIOLENTLY.

Weir braces himself in the doorway, staring out the forward window into the roiling azure clouds.

Smith grimaces, his knuckles white at the controls.

SMITH
We've got some weather.

MILLER
I noticed. Starck, anybody home?

STARCK
If they are, they're screening their calls.

SMITH
Range 3000 meters and closing.

WEIR
I can't see anything...

Only turbid clouds of methane ice whirl past the Lewis and Clark's windows.

SMITH
1500 meters. We're getting too close...

MILLER
Where is it?

STARCK
(checking her console)
The scope is lit, it's right in front of us...

SMITH
1000 meters...

A red warning light begins to flash in time with a shrill BEEP.

SMITH
Proximity warning! 900, 800 meters, 700... we're right on top of it, we're gonna hit!

MILLER
Starck...

STARCK
It should be right there...

She looks up, trails off...

STARCK
My God.

EXT. EVENT HORIZON - AGAINST NEPTUNE - MODEL STARCK'S POV

...the clouds break, revealing...

THE EVENT HORIZON, right in front of them. A black labyrinthine blasphemy against Neptune's arctic blue. Cloud banks encircle the ship as if it were the eye of a hurricane.

INT. LEWIS AND CLARKE - BRIDGE

MILLER
Reverse thrusters full!

EXT. LEWIS AND CLARK - DWARFED BY EVENT HORIZON - MODEL

The Event Horizon looms enormous as the Lewis and Clark hangs off the port stern, dwarfed by the giant ship.

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - BRIDGE

The turbulence subsides. The bridge crew stares at the massive craft. The only sound, the PROXIMITY WARNING. Finally:

SMITH
Jesus, that is one big ugly fat fucker...

WEIR
She's not ugly.

Miller reaches over Smith's shoulder, turns off the proximity warning. Smith snaps back to business.

SMITH
Range 500 meters and holding.
Turbulence is dropping off...

STARCK
Picking up magnetic interference.

MILLER
Put it through TACS. Smith, you up for a flyby?

SMITH
(he is not)
Love to.

EXT. NEPTUNE - LEWIS AND CLARK - EVENT HORIZON - MODEL

The Lewis and Clark maneuvers in close to the Event Horizon, dwarfed by the dark ship.

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - BRIDGE

Smith keeps a tight hand on the controls. The crew stare out the viewport at the abandoned craft.

STARCK
Look at the size of that thing.

Weir explains the view out the cockpit window.

WEIR

Foredecks. Crew quarters, bridge, medical and science labs, hydroponics, what have you. That central section connects the forward decks to the Engineering containment area. Can we move in closer?

SMITH

Shit, Doc, any closer and we're gonna need a rubber...

MILLER

Do it.

Smith grimaces. His hands move carefully over the controls.

EXT. NEPTUNE - LEWIS AND CLARK - EVENT HORIZON - MODEL

The Lewis and Clark moves even closer. Vanishing into the shadow of the Event Horizon.

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - BRIDGE

The crew stares at the ship rushing past the viewport. A huge spherical structure looms eerily ahead.

WEIR

That's the engineering containment. And there's the main airlock. We can dock there.

MILLER

Smith, use the arm and lock us onto that antennae cluster.

WEIR

Be careful. It's not a load bearing structure...

EXT. EVENT HORIZON - LEWIS AND CLARK - MODEL

The Lewis and Clark carefully maneuvers in close to the Event Horizon's airlock.

A mechanical boom-arm extends from the smaller ship to latch onto the Event Horizon. Its clawed hand grabs the antennae cluster. The cluster buckles under the stress.

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - BRIDGE

SMITH
(to Weir)
It is now.
(to Miller)
We're locked in.

MILLER
Starck, give me a read.

A scan of the Event Horizon appears across Starck's screen.

STARCK
The reactor's still hot. We've got several small radiation sources, leaks probably. Nothing serious.

WEIR
Do they have pressure?

STARCK
Affirmative. The hull's intact... but there's no gravity and the thermal units are off line. I'm showing deep cold. The crew couldn't survive unless they were in stasis.

MILLER
Find 'em, Starck.

Starck frowns at her display.

STARCK
Something's wrong with the bio-scan.

MILLER
Radiation interference?

STARCK
There's not enough radiation to throw off the scan. I'm picking up trace life forms, but I can't get a lock on the location.

WEIR
Could it be the crew? If they were in suspended animation, wouldn't that effect the scan?

STARCK
If they were in stasis, I'd get a location, but these readings, they're all over the ship. It doesn't make any sense.

MILLER
Okay. We do it the hard way. Deck by deck, room by room. Starck, deploy the umbilicus. I believe you're up for a walk, Mr. Justin. Go get your bonnet on.

JUSTIN
Yes, sir!

Weir starts to follow Justin from the bridge.

MILLER
Dr. Weir, I need you on the bridge.

WEIR
Captain, I didn't come out here to sit on your bridge, I need to be on that ship...

MILLER
Once the ship is secured, we'll bring you on board --

WEIR
(interrupting)
That is not acceptable --

MILLER
(overlapping)
-- once we've secured the ship, that's the way it is!
(beat)
I need you to guide us from the comm station. This is where I need you. Help us to do our job.

Weir exhales.

WEIR
Very well.

CUT TO:

EXT. LEWIS AND CLARK - EVENT HORIZON - MODEL

The docking collar umbilicus extends to the Event Horizon's airlock.

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - AIRLOCK BAY

Miller, Peters, Justin and Cooper in EVA; Cooper and Justin, without headgear.

COOPER
...come on, Skipper, I already put my shoes on...

MILLER
(muffled)
You've had plenty EVA, Coop, it's Justin's turn. Stay on station. If anything happens...

COOPER
I'll be all over it.

Miller nods to Peters.

PETERS
(muffled)
Opening inner airlock door.

The inner airlock door opens: CH-THUNK. Miller, Peters and Justin enter the airlock. Justin attaches his safety line.
Miller and Peters do not.

COOPER
You still need the rope? I thought you were one a those spacemen with ice in ya veins.

JUSTIN
I'd rather be on the rope and not need it than need it and not have
it. Now step aside, old man.

Cooper puts Justin's helmet on. It seals tight.

COOPER
(serious now)
You just keep your nose clean, Baby
Bear. Clear the door.

Cooper backs out, allowing the inner airlock door to shut,
ECHOING through the ship.

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - UMBILICUS

Miller, Peters and Justin float down the brightly lit umbilicus into the Event Horizon, all in EVA suits. Justin's safety line trails out behind him.

The OUTER AIRLOCK DOOR of the Event Horizon waits for them.

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - BRIDGE

Weir has taken over Justin's station. He watches the POV monitors like a kid watching Christmas. Smith and Starck keep tabs over his shoulder.

WEIR

You've reached the outer airlock door.

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - UMBILICUS

Peters attaches a thumper -- a device using sound waves to measure pressure -- to the inner airlock door.

PETERS

We've got pressure.

MILLER

Clear and open on my mark. Three... two... one... mark.

Peters inserts a zero-G drill into the panel beside the door. The door slowly opens...

CUT TO:

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MAIN ACCESS CORRIDOR - WITH AIRLOCKS

The immense corridor stretches away into darkness in both directions. Distantly spaced windows manifest as remote pools of blue light amidst endless black, adding to the vast sense of scale.

The light from their dual spotlights on the team's helmets reflects off tiny ice crystals of frozen atmosphere. They are ants in a tomb built for giants.

PETERS

Jesus its huge.

MILLER

Ice crystals everywhere. This place is a deep freeze.

WEIR (O.S.)

(radio)

You're in the central corridor. It connects the personnel areas to Engineering.

MILLER

Peters and I will search the forward decks. Justin, take Engineering. No hot-dogging, not on this one, alright?

JUSTIN
Not a chance, sir.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MAIN ACCESS CORRIDOR - NO AIRLOCKS

The group separates. Justin kicks off from the wall, shoots down the corridor at immense speed.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MAIN ACCESS CORRIDOR - WITH AIRLOCKS

Miller and Peters move in the opposite direction. They use magnetic plates on their boots and gloves to cling to the walls as they slowly make their way down the dark shaft. Their journey seems endless. The darkness almost seems a living thing as it surrounds them.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MAIN ACCESS CORRIDOR - NO AIRLOCKS

Miller spots something at a coupling, where two sections of the corridor join...

MILLER
Dr. Weir, what's this?

Miller indicates a box nestled against the coupling. The universal symbol for explosives is on the cover.

PETERS
(ahead at the next coupling)
Here's another one. They're all over the place.

WEIR (O.S.)
(radio)
They're explosive charges.

MILLER
I can see that, what're they for?

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - BRIDGE

WEIR
In an emergency, the charges detonate in series, destroying the central section and separating the personnel areas from the rest of the ship. That way, if the gravity drive malfunctions, the crew could use the foredecks as a lifeboat.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MAIN ACCESS CORRIDOR - NO AIRLOCKS

Peters and Miller keep moving.

PETERS

That means they didn't abandon ship.

MILLER

So where are they? Starck, any luck with the bio-scan?

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - BRIDGE

STARCK

I'm running diagnostics now, Skipper... Nothing's wrong with the sensor pack, I'm still getting trace life readings, all over the ship.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MAIN ACCESS CORRIDOR - NO AIRLOCKS

Miller and Peters unconsciously look around. Sweat beads their faces.

PETERS

There's no one in the corridor but us.

STARCK (O.S.)

(radio)

Not according to the computer.

MILLER

Peters is right, no one's here.

PETERS

I don't know, this place is really dark, I can't see a thing...

She starts to wave her searchlight around wildly.

MILLER

(calming her down)

Easy, Peters, we're okay, we're okay. Let's finish the sweep.

WEIR (O.S.)

(radio)

Captain Miller, the foredecks are just ahead.

PETERS

I can see the hatch.

MILLER
Starck, you still showing those readings?

STARCK (O.S.)
(radio)
That's an affirmative.

MILLER
(to Peters)
Keep your eyes open.

She nods as he reaches for the hatch...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - GRAVITY COUCH BAY

The hatch opens, allowing Peters and Miller entrance into the forward decks. These areas were intended for human habitation, and seem similar in design to the Lewis and Clark, only larger.

Gravity couches line both walls, eighteen in all. Empty.

PETERS
We found the gravity couches.

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - BRIDGE

Weir peers eagerly at the monitors.

WEIR
Any survivors?

MILLER (O.S.)
(radio)
Negative.

Hope drains from Weir's face.

WEIR
No one?

INT. EVENT HORIZON - GRAVITY COUCH BAY

MILLER
They're empty, Dr. Weir. Moving forward.

Miller and Peters split up, each taking a separate exit from the chamber.

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - BRIDGE

Weir looks at Justin's POV screen: a grainy image of the First Containment Seal.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MAIN ACCESS CORRIDOR (BY FIRST SEAL)

Justin stands before a thick pressure door. Justin checks the door with his thumper, his boots are now on.

WEIR (O.S.)
(radio)
You've reached the First Containment Seal. The engineering decks are on the other side.

JUSTIN
We still have pressure. The radiation count's steady at 7 millirads an hour.

WEIR (O.S.)
(radio)
Background radiation. Perfectly safe.

Justin touches a panel beside the door. It opens. He enters...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - FIRST CONTAINMENT

...a long corridor shaped like a tube. It rotates like a turbine, causing vertigo. Justin's BREATH echoes in his helmet as he moves forward...

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - AIRLOCK BAY

Cooper stares at Justin's safety line in the airlock.

THE SAFETY LINE

counts off silently, passing 150 meters...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - CORRIDOR TO BRIDGE

The corridor ends at a pressure door.

PETERS
Dr. Weir, what's this the door to?

WEIR (O.S.)
(radio)
You're at the Bridge, Ms. Peters.

You still haven't seen any crew?

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MEDICAL/SCIENCE

Miller, moving through a deserted lab. Empty operating tables. Stainless steel surgical instruments float in zero-G. A glove floats up behind him, brushes his shoulder. He wheels... the glove is empty. It spins away.

MILLER

If we saw any crew, Doctor, you'd know about it.

(looking around)

I'm in Medical. No casualties, it looks like this place has never been used.

He finds a computer console.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - CORRIDOR TO BRIDGE

Peters opens the door.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - BRIDGE ANTECHAMBER

Peters enters. Looks around: a small antechamber for crew briefings, with chairs and a display table. Red crystals float in a crimson mist around her.

PETERS

I found something.

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - BRIDGE

Weir peers at the monitors, trying to make out the red haze.

WEIR

Yes, we can see some kind of mist.
What is that?

PETERS (O.S.)

(radio)

Blood. Looks like arterial spray.

WEIR

(nervous)

Can you see a body?

INT. EVENT HORIZON - BRIDGE ANTECHAMBER

PETERS

(confused)

There's no one here.

MILLER (O.S.)
(radio)
The blood came from somewhere,
Peters...

PETERS
There's no one here, Skipper.

Peters takes a sample container from her belt. Carefully tries to capture a suspended crystal...

PETERS
Come on...

CLOSE UP OF THE BLOOD CRYSTAL

and the Container; Peters' brow furrowed with concentration.

WIDER AS A FLASH OF BLUE LIGHTNING ILLUMINATES THE ROOM, REVEALING...

...THE WALL BEHIND PETERS, CAVED IN A FROZEN EXPLOSION OF BLOOD AND TISSUE. Someone died here in a violent and terrible way.

Peters starts to look up but the flash dies away. She never saw the horror behind her.

Peters turns her attention back to her tiny crystal. She traps the it, returns the container to her belt.

She moves from the antechamber into...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - BRIDGE

Her helmet lights sweep the room. Every surface a control panel.

PETERS
Okay. I'm on the bridge.

MILLER (O.S.)
(radio)
What you got, Peters?

Peters examines the other consoles -- most are dark but for a few dim lights.

PETERS
Everything's been shut down.
Conserving power, I guess. Green light on the hull, it's intact.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MEDICAL/SCIENCE

MILLER
The science workstation has power,
I'll see if I can find the crew from here.

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - BRIDGE

Weir stares at Peters' monitor.

WEIR
Ms. Peters, turn back and to your left, please.

On her monitor, Peters' POV shifts as she complies.

STARCK
What is it?

WEIR
Ship's log.

PETERS (O.S.)
(radio)
I see it.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - BRIDGE

Peters reaches towards a small video deck. Touches the eject button. Nothing happens.

PETERS
It's stuck.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - FIRST CONTAINMENT

Justin's light bounces off an even larger pressure door, built like a bank vault. The Second Seal.

JUSTIN
I've reached another containment door. This thing's huge...

WEIR (O.S.)
(radio)
That's the Second Containment Seal.
Beyond that, engineering.

JUSTIN
I'm going in.

Justin opens the seal. It releases SLOWLY, inching open.
Justin squeezes through.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - BRIDGE

Peters takes a small probe from her belt, inserts it into the video deck.

A small laser disc emerges partway from the deck. Peters pulls on it. It doesn't move.

PETERS
It's really jammed in there.

A shadow crosses the window behind her. Someone -- something -- is in there with her...

Peters pulls harder. Nothing. Another effort. The disc pulls free. Peters spins in the zero-gravity, spinning into...

...A BODY floating at the helm, the face illuminated by Peters' helmet lights. His swollen tongue clogs his gaping, screaming mouth. His cracked and crystallized skin is crossed by a network of bloated veins. He has no eyes. Just like Weir's dream.

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - BRIDGE

Peters' monitor shows the CORPSE'S face, its mouth open in mute agony. Weir GASPS.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - BRIDGE

Peters pushes free of the body.

PETERS
(professional)
I found one.

MILLER (O.S.)
(radio) Alive?

PETERS
Frozen.

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - BRIDGE

The dead man's face leers from Peters' monitor.

STARCK

What happened to his eyes?

SMITH
Explosive decompression.

STARCK
Decompression wouldn't do that.

Weir just stares at the ruined face, rapt. Starck notices.

STARCK
You okay?

Weir nods, not taking his eyes from the screen.

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - AIRLOCK BAY

Cooper, on station. He keys his radio.

COOPER
Hey, Baby Bear, Mama Bear got a corpsicle for ya...

No reply.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MEDICAL/SCIENCE

Miller looks up from the workstation, concerned.

COOPER (O.S.)
(radio)
Baby Bear, you copy?

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - AIRLOCK BAY

Cooper stares out at Justin's safety line slowly counting off past 175 meters.

COOPER
Justin, do you copy?

INT. EVENT HORIZON - FIRST CONTAINMENT

The Second Seal is open. Justin's safety line snakes into darkness.

FOLLOW the safety line into the dark...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - SECOND CONTAINMENT

An alcove, opening into a vast chamber. Once pristine, all the surfaces have been coated in a dark gray slick. Globules of fluid hang motionless, sticking to Justin's suit, leeching away his light and swallowing him in darkness.

COOPER (O.S.)
(radio)
...do you copy?

JUSTIN
(quiet)
Uh, yeah Coop, I'm still here.

COOPER (O.S.)
(radio)
Shit! Do not do that! Where the fuck are you?

JUSTIN
I'm in the Second Containment area.
It's pitch black in here. There must have been a coolant leak. Man, this shit is everywhere. I can't see a damn thing.

A lighted console blocks Justin's view of the chamber beyond.
He drifts over to it, wipes the console clear of coolant, revealing dim lights: the station has power.

JUSTIN
The reactor's still hot. Coolant level is on reserve, but still in the green.

TIGHT ON JUSTIN'S FACE AS THE LIGHTS COME ON

JUSTIN
(triumph)
I got it...

His expressions changes as he looks past the console and sees... something.

JUSTIN
(trailing off in awe)
Holy shit...

COOPER
Justin?

JUSTIN
I think I found something...

JUSTIN'S POV - THE CORE

A massive sphere, 10 meters in diameter, dominates the center of the second containment. Intricate machinery surrounds the sphere but the globe itself is featureless, smooth; a enigmatic monolith. Black ice encrusts it, giving it the seeming of a living thing.

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - BRIDGE

They stare at Justin's monitor.

SMITH
What the hell is that?

WEIR
That's the Core: the gravity drive.
The heart of the ship.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - SECOND CONTAINMENT

MILLER (O.S.)
(radio)
Justin, check the containment for radiation leaks. Peters...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - BRIDGE

MILLER (O.S.)
(radio)
...how's the client?

PETERS
Crystallized.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - SECOND CONTAINMENT

Justin examines the outer wall of the Core, looking for any cracks or ruptured seams.

MILLER (O.S.)
(radio)
Justin, finish your sweep.

JUSTIN
Almost done, I just gotta check one thing...

Justin turns to the Core...

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - BRIDGE

Justin's monitor fills with static.

STARCK

Justin, hold on a sec, you're breaking up...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - SECOND CONTAINMENT

STARCK (O.S.)
(radio)
Justin...?
(static obscure her voice)

Justin reaches towards the Core with his pressure sensor.

His helmet light flickers. He hesitates...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MEDICAL/SCIENCE

Miller's helmet light flickers...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - BRIDGE

Peter's helmet light winks out...

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - BRIDGE

STARCK
Justin, come in...

Suddenly, the bio-scan lights up, from green to red as signals race across the display.

WEIR
What is it?

STARCK
I don't know. The life readings just went off the scale.

SMITH
Something's wrong...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - SECOND CONTAINMENT

Justin places the pressure sensor against the Core. Touching it.

The Core turns deepest black. A darkness that light cannot penetrate. For a second, Justin's white suit is captured against the hungry void...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - SECOND CONTAINMENT (TANK)

THEN THE VOID SUCKS HIM IN AND JUSTIN IS GONE...

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - AIRLOCK BAY

Cooper stares in shock as Justin's safety line as it reels out at an incredible rate -- 250 meters, 300 meters...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - SECOND CONTAINMENT A WAVE

surges out of the Core, bending light like a ripple on a pond, pushing coolant and debris before it...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MAIN ACCESS CORRIDOR - NO AIRLOCKS

The gravity wave surges forward, blowing out emergency lights as it comes, flotsam and jetsam swirling in its wake...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MEDICAL/SCIENCE

Data floods Miller's workstation, flashing across the screen too fast for comprehension...

INT. BLACKNESS OF CORE

FOLLOWED BY A FACE -- JUSTIN...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MEDICAL/SCIENCE

MILLER
What the hell...

A DEEP ROAR fills the ship. Miller rises to investigate...

The door BLOWS APART as THE WAVE HITS, ripples through the Medical Bay towards Miller...

MILLER
Oh shit...!

Debris swirls around him... the wave sweeps him up... SLAMS him into a bulkhead...

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - BRIDGE JUSTIN'S POV SCREEN

the briefest suggestion of a SCREAMING FACE, obscured by STATIC and ROLL before the screen CUTS to static entirely.

The rest of the crew's POV screens go dead as...

...the wave hits them, threatening to tear the Lewis and Clark apart. The ship shudders violently. Consoles EXPLODE with sparks. Weir and the others hold on for dear life.

STARCK
Miller, do you read me, Peters --

SMITH
Get them back --

STARCK
I'm trying, goddammit --

An equipment rack IGNITES. Smith grabs an extinguisher, fights the blaze...

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - AIRLOCK BAY

Cooper and DJ, bracing against the bulkhead. Cooper hits the intercom.

COOPER
What's happening?

STARCK (O.S.)
(intercom)
I don't know, the screens are dead...!

Cooper peers out the airlock window.

JUSTIN'S SAFETY LINE

passes 350 meters and accelerating...

COOPER
350 meters... 400 meters...

DJ
He's in trouble. Go!

COOPER
I'm gone!

Cooper grabs his helmet. DJ helps him lock the helmet into place with a HISS.

The inner airlock door opens. As Cooper enters the airlock, Justin's safety reel stops, the line jerking taut at 500 meters.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MEDICAL/SCIENCE

Miller tries to get his bearings in the dark.

MILLER

Boarding party, sound off... Peters, do you read me... . Peters...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - BRIDGE

Peters' light, too, remains dark, but Neptune's blue light fills the Bridge. The frozen corpse floats before her. No longer a man.

A young boy, maybe five years old. His legs are withered, useless things. The skin remains a crystallized surface, but the eyes look straight at her, alive.

PETERS
Denny...

Peters reaches out to touch the body. It falls away from her. No longer her son, but the body of the astronaut. It hits the door and shatters.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MEDICAL/SCIENCE

MILLER
(growing desperation)
...Peters, do you read me...

A MAN'S VOICE, in agony, CRACKLES over Miller's radio:

VOICE
(radio)
Don't leave me...

MILLER
Justin? Justin, sound off...
Justin...!

Miller trails off as RED LIGHT flickers across his visor. He turns...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MEDICAL/SCIENCE (BURNING MAN) POV
MILLER

A BURNING MAN stands in Medical/Science, a human body wreathed in flame. The eyes are like sunspots. As the Burning Man moves, bones and black flesh poke through the fire. He raises one hand to point at Miller in accusation...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MEDICAL/SCIENCE

Miller's BREATH stops in his throat. His mouth works but nothing comes out. He BLINKS...

...and the VISION is gone. Miller is alone, BREATHING hard.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - FIRST CONTAINMENT

Cooper enters at full speed, shooting through in a controlled fall...

COOPER
Hold on, Baby Bear...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - SECOND CONTAINMENT

...into the Second Containment. He catches himself at the console. Cooper sees Justin's safety line, cut off abruptly by the darkness of the Core.

COOPER
Oh my God...

The darkness of the Core ripples...

Justin suddenly emerges from the darkness, a white figure riding a wave of impenetrable blackness.

Cooper catches him, holds him tight as the wave carries them towards the wall. Cooper sees a control rod -- a long metal spike -- coming at them. He twists his body so that they miss -- barely -- before slamming into the wall.

COOPER
Justin, do you read me? Justin... .

Cooper pulls Justin close. Justin's head lolls to one side. Unconscious.

COOPER
Baby Bear, don't do this. Don't do this...

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - BRIDGE

Weir, Starck and Smith continue to hold on tightly as the vibration builds... and builds...

STARCK
Here comes another one! Hold on!

The second wave hits. Sparks fly as consoles EXPLODE. Deep in the ship metal SCREAMS, followed by the SHRIEK of escaping atmosphere. An emergency klaxon RINGS out: PRESSURE WARNING.

Starck checks Justin's station:

STARCK
We lost the starboard baffle! The hull's been breached!

The Bridge pressure door begins to close...and then stop.

SMITH
The safety circuit's failed!

WEIR
We're losing atmosphere...

STARCK
There are pressure suits in the Airlock. Go!

Starck pushes Weir ahead of her, Smith follows hard as they run the length of the ship for the airlock bay.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MEDICAL/SCIENCE

The vibration subsides.

MILLER
Can anybody hear me...

PETERS (O.S.)
(radio)
Skipper...

MILLER
Peters...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - BRIDGE

MILLER (O.S.)
(radio)
...you okay?

PETERS
Yeah. I'm -- I'm okay.

Her voice cracks as she says it. She looks anything but.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MEDICAL/SCIENCE

The reports come, one on the other...

COOPER (O.S.)
(radio)
We have a man down...

MILLER
Coop, where are you...

COOPER (O.S.)
(radio)
The containment, Second Containment...

MILLER
Hold on, Coop...

SMITH (O.S.)
(radio)
Captain Miller...

MILLER
Smith, where the hell have you been?!

SMITH
We have a situation here...

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - AIRLOCK BAY

Starck and Smith already in suits. DJ assists Weir. Smith has already locked his helmet into place.

SMITH
(continuing)
We lost the starboard baffle and the hull cracked. Our safety seals didn't close, the circuit's fried --

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MEDICAL/SCIENCE

Miller moves down the central corridor towards his wounded ship.

MILLER
Do we have enough time for a weld?

SMITH (O.S.)
(radio)
We don't have time to fart.

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - AIRLOCK BAY

SMITH
We're losing pressure at 280 liters a second and our oxygen tanks are cracked. In three minutes, our atmosphere will be gone. We are fucking dead.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MEDICAL/SCIENCE

MILLER
No one's dying on my watch, Smith!
What about the reserve tanks?

SMITH (O.S.)
(radio)
They're gone.

Beat. Miller closes his eyes, desperately trying to think of a solution.

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - AIRLOCK BAY

PAN across the faces of the astronauts. No hope. Except for Weir:

WEIR
The Event Horizon.

The others turn to stare at Weir.

SMITH
What?

WEIR
It still has air and reserve power, we can activate gravity and life support.

STARCK
What if the air has gone bad? We can't wear these suits forever.

SMITH
I don't think this is a good idea, we don't even know what happened on that ship...

WEIR
It beats dying, Mister Smith.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MEDICAL/SCIENCE

MILLER
Dr. Weir's right. Get on board the Event Horizon. I'll meet you at the airlock.

SMITH (O.S.)
(radio)
But...

MILLER
You heard me, Smith. Peters, are you with me?

INT. EVENT HORIZON - BRIDGE

Peters at the life support console.

PETERS
I'm ahead of you. Bringing the thermal units on line...

Peters flips a series of circuit-breakers. Reaches for the final switch.

PETERS
Hold tight and prep for gees.

Everything floating in the bridge CRASHES to the floor.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - SECOND CONTAINMENT

Justin and Cooper collapse to the deck, coolant splashing down all around them...

CUT TO:

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MAIN ACCESS CORRIDOR - WITH AIRLOCKS

Miller meets the crew as they evacuate the Lewis and Clark.
Weir leads the way, eager; Smith hangs back.

MILLER
Everybody okay?

STARCK
We're all here.

MILLER
Okay. Let's find out how much time we just bought.

Miller reaches for the catch on his own helmet.

DJ
We haven't tested the air yet. It could be contaminated...

MILLER
No time. We need whatever's left in our suits to repair the Clark. Like it or not, this is the only oxygen for three billion kilometers.

Miller pulls his helmet off with a HISS. He breathes deep.
Starck does the same, coughs.

STARCK
It tastes bad.

MILLER
But you can breathe it.

CUT TO:

EXT. NEPTUNE ORBIT - LEWIS AND CLARK - EVENT HORIZON

The Lewis and Clark and the Event Horizon, locked together in Neptune orbit. Lights shine from the Horizon as power is restored. No longer cloaked in darkness, it is revealed in all its hideous glory, a nightmare etched in steel.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - BRIDGE

Weir moves from station to station, restoring power to each.

Starck sits at the communications workstation. Miller watches over her shoulder.

STARCK
The antennae array's completely fried, we've got no radio, no laser, no highgain... No one's going to be coming to help us.

MILLER
How much oh-two do we have?

STARCK
Oxygen is not the problem.

MILLER
Carbon dioxide?

STARCK
(nods)
It's building up with every breath we take. And the CO2 filters on the Event Horizon are shot.

MILLER
We can take the filters from the Clark...

STARCK
I thought of that, with the filters from the Clark, we've got enough breathable air for twenty hours. After that, we'd better be on our way home.

MILLER
What about the life readings you picked up?

STARCK
The Event Horizon sensors show the same thing: "Bio-readings of indeterminate origin." Right before that wave hit the Clark, there was some kind of surge, right off the scale, but now it's back to its previous levels.

MILLER
What's causing the readings?

STARCK
I don't know, but whatever it is, it's not the crew.

MILLER
So where is the rest of the crew? We've been over every inch of this ship and all we've found is blood. Dr. Weir? Any suggestions?

Weir just stares at the bloodstained wall.

MILLER
What happened here?

Miller follows Weir's gaze to the wall: a Rorschach test in blood...

CUT TO:

EXT. EVENT HORIZON - BRIDGE WINDOW

PULL BACK from the bridge windows TO REVEAL...

EXT. EVENT HORIZON - LEWIS AND CLARK - MODEL

...the Event Horizon in all its horrific glory, hanging skew in the center of the hurricane like a mote in God's eye.

The Lewis and Clark clings to the giant craft, as insignificant as a tick. An even smaller figure clings to the hull of the Lewis and Clark...

EXT. LEWIS AND CLARK - HULL SECTION

It's Smith, EVA in full protective gear. His magnetic boots hold him to the Lewis and Clark's hull. He kneels over a hole in the hull, where the metal has buckled and torn. Vapor still leaks from the hole into space.

SMITH
Captain Miller, you copy?

MILLER (O.S.)
(radio)
I'm here, Smith, how's the Clark?

SMITH
I've found a six inch fracture in the outer hull. We should be able to repair it and re-pressurize, it's gonna take some time.

MILLER (O.S.)
(radio)
We don't have time, Smith. In twenty hours we run out of air.

SMITH
Understood.

Smith uses a foam applicator to fill the hole. The gel freezes in place. Smith reaches to his belt, pulls out a ZERO-G NAILGUN. Presses it to the patch and begins to rivet it into place.

CUT TO:

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MEDICAL/SCIENCE

Justin lies unmoving on a table. His eyes are open, staring at a smear of blood on the ceiling.

A needle slides into the skin below his eye. He doesn't respond.

DJ removes the needle. It glistens with blood. He looks up at Miller and Peters.

MILLER
How is he?

DJ
His vitals are stable, but he's unresponsive to stimuli. He might wake up in fifteen minutes. He might not wake up at all.

PETERS

What happened to him?

DJ shakes his head. Miller eyes the bloodstain above them.

MILLER

DJ, take samples from these stains, compare them to medical records, I want to know whose blood this is.

CUT TO:

INT. EVENT HORIZON - BRIDGE

Gravity has scattered debris and freeze-dried blood about the room. The crew (Justin and Smith excepted) tries to relax on the chairs of dead men. Their faces are wan and haggard.

Weir relaxes at the table. Unlike the others, he seems almost at ease. DJ remains forever stoic; Starck, animated and nervous. Cooper bounces the handball on the floor, a reflex action.

Miller stares at a video monitor, watching Smith repair the Lewis and Clark. He turns from the window.

MILLER

Okay, people, there's been a change in the mission. In less than eighteen hours, we will run out of breathable air. Our primary objective is now survival. That means we focus on repairing the Lewis and Clark and salvaging whatever will buy us more time.

(pause)

Our secondary objective is finding out what happened to this ship and its crew. Two months from now, I fully intend to be standing in front of the good Admiral giving my report, and I'd like to have more than my dick in my hands.

Grim smiles all around.

MILLER

Peters, I want you to go through the ship's log, see if we can't find some answers.

PETERS

I can use the station in Medical, keep an eye on Justin...

MILLER

Fine. Starck, I want you to repeat the bio-scan...

STARCK

What's the point? I'll just get the same thing...

MILLER

Not acceptable. I want to know what's causing those readings. If the crew is dead, I want the bodies, I want the crew found.

STARCK

I can reconfigure the scan for C-12, amylase proteins.

MILLER

Do it. Dr. Weir...

WEIR

Yes.

MILLER

One of my men is down. I want to know what happened to him.

COOPER

I told you. He was inside the Core...

Weir starts shaking his head.

COOPER

It was like... nothing was there... and then Justin appeared and the Core... became metal...

WEIR

(cutting him off)
No, he didn't.

COOPER

You weren't there. I saw it.

WEIR

Saw what, Mr. Cooper? What did you really see, because what you're describing is not physically possible...

Cooper throws the ball at him, hard. Weir ducks. It bounces wildly around the room. Miller catches it.

MILLER
Cooper! Enough!

Cooper sits down.

MILLER
(turning on Weir)
Dr. Weir, Justin may die. Whatever happened to him could happen to all of us.

Beat.

WEIR
I don't know what happened to Justin.

COOPER
I'm telling you, I saw it...

WEIR
What you saw could have been an optical effect caused by gravitational distortion.

COOPER
(turning on Weir)
I know what I saw and it wasn't a fucking "optical effect!"

MILLER
Hold on, what's this "gravitational distortion?"

WEIR
It's possible that a burst of gravity waves escaped from the Core, distorting space-time. They could be what hit the Lewis and Clark.

MILLER
What could cause them?
(Weir doesn't answer)
What's in the Core?

WEIR
It's complicated...

MILLER

How much time do you need? We have seventeen hours and forty-two minutes.
Now: what is in the Core?

Beat. Here comes another bomb...

WEIR
A black hole.

The crew stares at him, stunned.

CUT TO:

INT. EVENT HORIZON - SECOND CONTAINMENT

Miller, Starck and Weir stand before the Core. Dark ominous structures loom around them, glistening with coolant. The PULSE of the ship is loud here, a deep THRUM that steals their breath. Weir's voice is a reverent WHISPER:

WEIR
That's how the gravity drive works, you see: it focuses the black hole's immense gravitational power to create the gateway. That's how the Event Horizon travels faster than light.

STARCK
I can't believe we built this.

MILLER
It's insane.

WEIR
"Insane?" The finest astronauts fought to be posted to this ship. It would take the Lewis and Clark a thousand years to reach our closest star. The Event Horizon could be there in a day...

MILLER
If it worked.

WEIR
If it worked, yes.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - SECOND CONTAINMENT - 3RD SEAL

They stare at the Core, the surrounding machinery moving in a slow giant's dance. A trick of the eye, or does the Core stare back at them?

INT. EVENT HORIZON - SECOND CONTAINMENT

MILLER

I want this room sealed. The Second
Containment is off limits.

WEIR

There's no danger. The black hole is contained behind three magnetic fields, it's under control.

MILLER

Your black hole damn near ripped my ship apart. It may have killed one of my men.

(beat)

No one goes near that thing.

MOVE IN ON THE CORE

until its darkness fills the screen...

CUT TO:

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MEDICAL/SCIENCE

Peters sits before the computer workstation, running the ship's log, forwarding through hours of boring footage. Rubs her eyes.

The lights flicker.

Peters hears something RUSTLING behind her. She turns...

PETERS

Justin...?

Justin lies unmoving on the nearest examination table.
Comatose. Peters reaches out and picks up a scalpel.

Peters hears the sound again, FINGERNAILS ON PLASTIC. She moves past Justin...

...past several empty tables, covered with clear plastic...

...to the last table. She stares in shock.

THERE'S SOMETHING UNDERNEATH THE PLASTIC COVER

She slowly reaches out. Lifts the cover.

Her son DENNY looks at her and GIGGLES. She GASPS. The scalpel drops to the floor at her feet.

Denny reaches up to her, to be picked up...

DENNY
Mommy...

...but the plastic that still covers his withered legs squirms like a bag full of snakes...

Peters drops the plastic and backs away.

DJ (O.S.)
Peters?

She turns. DJ stands in the doorway, holding blood samples.

Peters turns back, but her son is gone.

DJ reads her expression.

DJ
What's wrong?

PETERS
Nothing. It's nothing.

CUT TO:

INT. EVENT HORIZON - AIRLOCK NO. 2

The Airlock light turns red -- a warning. The Inner Airlock door control flashes: "LOCKED." The Outer Airlock door opens.

Smith enters. He closes the Outer Airlock door. Atmosphere HISSES into the chamber. The Inner Airlock door flashes: "PRESSURIZED."

INT. EVENT HORIZON - AIRLOCK BAY NO. 2

Cooper in EVA, getting ready to go outside. The Inner Airlock door opens. Smith enters. Takes off his helmet.

COOPER
You been out there a long time. Trying to break my record?

SMITH
I'd rather spend the next twelve hours Outside than another five minutes in this can. This ship is bad. It watches you.

COOPER
What?

SMITH
You heard me. This ship, it's crazy: trying to go faster'n light, that's like the Tower of Babel.

COOPER
Shit, Smith, you're going Biblical on me.

SMITH
You know what happened to the Tower of Babel, don't you? It fell down.

COOPER
You're sucking too much nitrogen in your mix.

CUT TO:

INT. EVENT HORIZON - BRIDGE

Starck programs the sensor workstation. She glances over at Weir: sitting at a computer terminal, his face rapt as data flashes by. His lips move, muttering to himself.

STARCK
Why Dr. Weir, I think you're in love.

WEIR
Hmmm. Claire used to tell me I loved the Event Horizon more than I loved her. I told her that wasn't true, I just knew the Event Horizon better, that's all.

STARCK
Claire is your wife?

WEIR
Yes.

STARCK
It must be hard, being so far away from her.

WEIR
Yes. I miss her. She died. Two years
now.

STARCK
I'm sorry.

Weir keeps his attention focused on the screen.

WEIR
These things happen.
(reacting to something on the screen)
Wait a minute, that's not right...

He fingers fly across the keyboard, double-checking the data.

Miller leans over Weir's shoulder.

MILLER
You have something, Dr. Weir?

WEIR
The date.

MILLER
What about it?

WEIR
The Event Horizon's computer think's
it's 2034.

MILLER
It's 2041...

WEIR
Exactly. The ship's internal clock is off by seven years.

STARCK
Maybe a power interruption crashed the system...

WEIR
No, there's no evidence of a surge or spike of any kind. It's as if time just... stopped for seven years.

MILLER
Explanation?

WEIR
Intense gravitational fields effect the passage of time, it's possible...
(beat)
Black holes make sense on paper, it's all math, you see, but as to what really happened...

 (he shakes his head)
The Event Horizon has passed beyond our plane of reality, and like Lazarus, returned from the dead.

The INTERCOM interrupts them:

 PETERS (O.S.)
 (intercom)
Captain Miller, Dr. Weir? I found the final log entry.

CUT TO:

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MEDICAL/SCIENCE

Peters sits at the workstation. Miller, DJ and Weir stand behind her, watching.

A VIDEO SCREEN

INT. EVENT HORIZON - GRAVITY COUCH BAY (FOR VIDEO)

A jumpy, handheld camera view of:

Gravity couch bay. Two crewmen checking electronics modules.
The ship is well-lit, clean, no sign of debris. The narrator's voice is excited and nervous.

 KILPACK (O.S.)
We have reached safe distance and are preparing to engage the gravity drive and open the gateway...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MEDICAL/SCIENCE

 PETERS
The speaker is the mission commander...

 WEIR
 (quiet)
John Kilpack.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - SECOND CONTAINMENT (FOR VIDEO)

Second Containment. A lone engineer finishes his check of the Core. He turns to the camera and gives a self-conscious "thumbs-up."

 KILPACK (O.S.)
When you get this message, God willing, we will reach the solar system of Proxima Centauri...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MEDICAL/SCIENCE

MILLER
I wonder if they ever made it.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MAIN ACCESS CORRIDOR (FOR VIDEO)

Corridor. The entire original crew assembled, playing catch with the stuffed dog

KILPACK
I just want to say how proud I am of my crew. I'd like to name my station heads Chris Chambers, Janice Rubin,
Dick Smith, Tom Fender and Stacie
Collins. And to Bill Weir and all the scientists that got us here.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - BRIDGE (FOR VIDEO)

Bridge. KILPACK addresses the camera. His face is flushed with excitement.

KILPACK
I... uh, I had something historic to say, and I wrote it down but I... I can't find it. Ave, atque, vale.
Hail and farewell.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MEDICAL/SCIENCE

A BURST of static...

...followed by an inhuman HOWL of FEEDBACK, like screaming hyaenas, almost alive. Through the swirl of static, the suggestion of movement.

Miller freezes the frame. He squints at the screen...

POV MILLER

Obscured by static, the image is blurred beyond comprehension.

MILLER
What the hell is that? Dr. Weir?

WEIR
I don't know.

PETERS

I can run the image through a series of filters, try to clean it up.

MILLER
Do it.

Suddenly, the lights fade out. Dim emergency lighting snaps on...

PETERS
What's happening...?

DJ
A power drain --

MILLER
We barely have enough power for life support as it is, if we can't stop the drain, we're not gonna make it.

WEIR
The Core...!

Weir heads for the door.

MILLER
Wait!

But Weir has vanished into the corridor.

MILLER
The rest of you, stay here, I don't want anyone else going near that thing.

Miller follows after Weir.

CUT TO:

INT. EVENT HORIZON - SECOND CONTAINMENT

The Second Containment Seal opens. Weir is about to enter when Miller stops him. He checks a Geiger counter. It is silent.

MILLER
No radiation. What's causing the drain?

Weir crosses to a console. Frowns.

WEIR
(shakes his head)

The magnetic fields are holding.
Maybe a short in the fail-safe circuit. I'll check it out.

Miller assists Weir in removing bolts from an access panel.
The panel falls away, revealing a cramped duct leading into the ship's circuitry.

Weir climbs into the duct. Miller hands him a flashlight and a toolkit.

MILLER
We don't get the power back, our air's gonna go bad.

WEIR
Check the Core for radiation. Carbon dioxide may be the least of our worries.

Weir begins to crawl into the depths of the ship.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - WEIR'S DUCT

Weir's breath ECHOES in the cramped shaft. He counts off circuit panels as he goes:

WEIR
E-three... E-five... E-seven... where are you...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - SECOND CONTAINMENT

Miller slogs through the coolant to the Core. Stares at it.
It remains metallic, mundane.

He pulls out a Geiger counter and crosses to the reactor shell. Examines a gleaming weld. The Geiger counter CLICKS slowly: no leak.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - BRIDGE

A yellow light starts flashing on the engineering board.
Starck's eyes widen: the engineering sections flash yellow...and green...

STARCK
What the hell...

STARCK'S POV

as the bio-scan goes wild.

STARCK
(into intercom)
Skipper, the bio-scan just went off the scale...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MEDICAL/SCIENCE

Justin shakes on the bed in an epileptic fit. DJ rushes to him.

DJ
Justin! Can you hear me? Justin!

Justin's eyes remain unfocused, unseeing as he tries to speak.

DJ leans in close, trying to hear him speak...

Justin arches in agony and the words come in a strangled, tortured voice:

JUSTIN
THE DARK IS COMING...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - WEIR'S DUCT

Weir stops before module E-12. Hears a faint HISSING and POPPING.

WEIR
There you are.

He uses a screwdriver to open up the module. Reveals a series of circuit boards. One SPARKS. Weir plucks the damaged chips and starts running a by-pass.

His flashlight flickers. He bangs it against the duct wall. It grows dimmer. Goes out.

WEIR
Um. Captain Miller? I, uh, I seem to have a problem with my light.

A single DRIP of water in the darkness...

WEIR
(beat, hushed)
Captain Miller?

Another DRIP, then a woman's VOICE like a distant echo:

VOICE
Billy.

Weir starts at the sound. He recognizes the voice.

She speaks again, no longer far away, but a close WHISPER in his ear:

CLAIRE (O.S.)
Billy. Help me. I'm so cold.

Weir's eyes open wide in hope and fear.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - SECOND CONTAINMENT

Even the emergency lights go out. Total darkness.

MILLER
We just lost all power in here. Dr.
Weir...?

Miller's voice trails off as he looks towards the Core. A red glow reflects across his eyes. He takes a few steps away from the reactor. He stares...

...at the BURNING MAN, standing before the Core. The deep ROAR of its conflagration fills the containment.

It slowly turns and raises its arm and points at Miller in accusation.

BURNING MAN
Don't leave me...

Miller stares as the Burning Man turns and vanishes into a bulkhead, leaving the wall blackened and burned with his passing.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - WEIR'S DUCT

Total darkness. Weir's breath ECHOES in the cramped metal space.

WEIR
(a whisper)
Claire...?

Weir bangs his flashlight. Again. Again...

CLAIRE (O.S.)
Help me. I'm so cold.

The flashlight flickers...

Claire's face is inches from Weir's.

CLAIRE
So cold.

His flashlight flickers again, snaps on...

She is gone. Weir lets his head fall to the floor of the deck, breathing in ragged SOBS.

CUT TO:

INT. EVENT HORIZON - BRIDGE ANTECHAMBER

The crew, except for Cooper. DJ whets a scalpel against the leg of his jumpsuit, an unconscious gesture. FLICK. FLICK. FLICK.

DJ
Carbon dioxide poisoning produces hallucinations, impaired judgement...

MILLER
Goddammit, DJ, it was not a hallucination! I saw a man, he was on fire. And then he disappeared.

STARCK
Maybe one of the original crew?

MILLER
No. It was someone else.

STARCK
Who?

MILLER
(ignoring the question)
Dr. Weir, you were right there, you must have heard something, seen something...

WEIR
No. I saw nothing.

PETERS
I did.

All heads turn to her.

PETERS
About an hour ago. In medical. I saw my son. He was lying on one of the examination tables and his legs were...

(she trails off)

WEIR

Isn't it possible that you were traumatized by finding the body on the bridge?

PETERS

I've seen bodies before. This is different.

She falls silent, unwilling to say more.

MILLER

Peters is right. Its like something reaching into your mind. Seeing your thoughts and making them real. Smith, did you or Cooper experience anything unusual?

Smith, leaning against the doorway:

SMITH

I didn't see anything and I don't have to see anything. This ship is fucked.

WEIR

Thank you for that scientific analysis, Mister Smith.

SMITH

(exploding)

Hey! You don't need to be a scientist figure it out...

MILLER

Smith...

Weir's face is stone.

SMITH

...you break all the laws of physics,
you think there won't be a price?
You already killed the first crew...

MILLER

That's enough!

DJ lays one hand on Smith's shoulder to calm him...

Smith reacts violently, turning on DJ, shoving him back. DJ uses Smith's momentum to spin the pilot into the wall. He presses his scalpel just below Smith's ear...

MILLER

DJ!!

DJ freezes. The scalpel falls from his hands. He releases Smith.

DJ

I'm sorry, I... I don't know why I did that.

WEIR

(wry)

Carbon dioxide.

Smith goes for Weir.

SMITH

He's fucking lying, you know something...!

Miller heads him off, grabs him.

MILLER

That's it, that's enough for one day, Smith! I need you back on the Clark, I need you calm, I need you using your head, you make a mistake out there, none of are getting home, you understand?

Smith calms.

SMITH

Sir.

MILLER

Get outside, go back to work. I'll join you shortly.

Smith leaves.

MILLER

We're a long way from home and we're in a bad place. Let's not make it worse. If anyone has any constructive suggestions, now is the time.

WEIR

I think I can stabilize the fields around the singularity, that should prevent another power drain.

MILLER
Do it.

DJ
To conserve our oxygen, we should severely restrict our activity. Anyone who can should get some sleep.

MILLER
I don't need sleep, DJ. I need answers.

Miller exits. Starck follows.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - GENERIC CORRIDOR

STARCK TRAILS MILLER:

STARCK
Miller...

MILLER
(not slowing)
What is it, Starck?

STARCK
...I ran the bio-scan with the DNA/RNA filter. The results were bio-readings of indeterminate origin...

MILLER
(simultaneous)
"...bio-readings of indeterminate origin," don't you have anything useful to tell me?

STARCK
I've got a theory.

Miller stops.

MILLER
Go ahead.

STARCK
There was a another surge in the bio-readings right before you... you saw what you saw. We picked up a similar readings right before the Clarke was damaged. What if there were a connection between the two? The gravity waves, the hallucination, all part of an defensive reaction, like an immune system...

Miller starts walking again.

MILLER
I don't need to hear this.

She rushes to follow.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - AIRLOCK BAY NO. 2

Miller and Starck enter the Airlock Bay:

STARCK
You've got to listen...

MILLER
To what? What are you saying? This ship is alive?

STARCK
I didn't say that, I said the bio-readings correspond to what happened to you, the ship is reacting to us...

MILLER
We're hanging on by our fingernails and you're giving me bullshit stories...

She grabs him by the arm.

STARCK
It's not bullshit, it's the only conclusion the data supports...

MILLER
Starck, do you know how crazy that sounds? It's impossible.

STARCK
I know that.

Beat. Miller allows himself to relax.

MILLER
If you knew it was impossible, then why'd you waste my time?

STARCK

I thought you wanted an answer. And that's the only one I have.

Miller pulls an EVA suit from the wall, starts putting it on.

MILLER
What I want is to survive the next ten hours.

STARCK
(checks her watch)
Nine hours and twenty-two minutes.

MILLER
I'm going outside to work on the Clark. And Starck... don't tell anyone what you just told me. We've got enough to worry about.

She nods. He locks his helmet into place.

CUT TO:

EXT. EVENT HORIZON - MODEL

Establish.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - GENERIC CORRIDOR

The ship seems to breathe. The lights flicker...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MAIN ACCESS CORRIDOR - WITH AIRLOCKS

ANOTHER ANGLE. The ship seems to breathe. The lights flicker...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MAIN ACCESS CORRIDOR - NO AIRLOCKS

ANOTHER ANGLE. The ship seems to breathe. The lights flicker...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MEDICAL/SCIENCE

Peters has fallen asleep in her chair.

On the threshold of hearing, a distant POUNDING. Not a heartbeat. Metal on metal. Something trying to get out.
Something trying to get in.

Peters wakes with a start.

PETERS
Justin...?

She turns. Justin lies on the floor in a heap, completely covered by his sheet. She crosses to him. Pulls back the sheet...

Revealing empty nitrogen tanks.

PETERS
Justin!

She looks up, eyes widening, as...

The IV bottles fill with blood. Blood fills the X-ray lightboxes, it surges up from gutters in the floor...

And the pounding grows louder... LOUDER... almost to Medical...

The spell breaks and she RUNS...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - GENERIC CORRIDOR

Peters sprints, the SOUND BOOMING after her, almost on her heels...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - BRIDGE ANTECHAMBER

Peters darts into the Bridge Antechamber. She SLAMS the pressure door shut behind her, CUTTING OFF the sound.

She turns. Weir, DJ, Starck look up from their work, staring at her.

DJ
What's wrong?

PETERS
You didn't hear it? You must have heard it!

STARCK
Heard what?

Beat. Peters starts to LAUGH, part hysteria, part relief.

PETERS
Oh... nothing...

DJ crosses to Peters, concerned.

DJ
Sit down...

As he reaches out to touch her...

BOOM. BOOM. BOOM. POUNDING ON THE DOOR ITSELF

Peters SCREAMS. DJ clutches her to him, backs away from the door.

The POUNDING grows louder. LOUDER. The door vibrates with each blow Starck puts her hands over her ears. Peters SCREAMS at the door.

PETERS
Stop it! Stop it!

But the POUNDING intensifies, metal GROANING under incredible pressure.

DJ
(shouting to be heard)
What is it?

Weir slowly walks to the door.

STARCK
What are you doing?

WEIR
It wants me. I have to go.

He reaches for the door.

STARCK
No...!

Starck grabs him. He tries to shake her off, but she traps his arm in a wrist-lock. He turns on her, his face furious...

...and the POUNDING stops. They remain frozen for a moment. Afraid to breathe.

Weir shakes the trance.

STARCK
In our current environment, Dr. Weir, self-control is an asset.

WEIR
I'm alright. Please.

In the distance, the POUNDING begins again. Moving away from them.

The ship systems station BEEPS. A warning light flashes on the console.

STARCK
What is it?

WEIR
The forward airlock.

STARCK
(into radio)
Miller, Smith, Cooper, any of you in the airlock?

MILLER (O.S.)
(radio)
That's a negative, Starck.

PETERS
(realization)
Justin.

Peters, Starck and DJ rush from the Bridge, leaving Weir behind.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MAIN ACCESS CORRIDOR NO. 2 - WITH AIRLOCKS

Peters leads Starck and DJ down the corridor towards the Forward Airlock bay. They round a corner in time to see a figure moving in the Airlock.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - AIRLOCK BAY NO. 3

They race into the bay even as Justin steps into the Airlock. He is naked.

PETERS
Justin, no!

INT. EVENT HORIZON - AIRLOCK NO. 3

Justin turns and stares through them with cold eyes. He reaches out to the airlock control.

The pressure door shuts with a HISS.

CUT TO:

EXT. LEWIS AND CLARK - HULL SECTION

Miller, Smith and Cooper cling to the Lewis and Clark's hull. They carefully remove an access panel, revealing scorched wiring.

COOPER
We'll have to re-route through the port conduit to the APU.

SMITH
What about the accumulator...?

Starck's VOICE breaks in:

STARCK (O.S.)
(radio)
Miller, come in...

MILLER
What's going on in there, Starck?

STARCK (O.S.)
(radio)
Justin's in the airlock.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - AIRLOCK BAY NO. 3

Starck at the intercom. The others huddle by the door.

MILLER (O.S.)
(intercom)
What?

STARCK
He's awake, he's in the airlock, he's not wearing a suit.

EXT. LEWIS AND CLARK - HULL SECTION

MILLER
(to Cooper)
Stay here! Don't stop working!

COOPER
But Justin...

MILLER
I'll get him.

Miller swings his body around, heads across the umbilicus to the Event Horizon. He moves in great leaps, using the magnetic plates in his gloves and boots to keep from drifting off into Neptune's thin atmosphere.

CUT TO:

INT. EVENT HORIZON - AIRLOCK BAY NO. 3

Starck works the airlock control panel without success.

STARCK
He's engaged the override.

PETERS
Can you shut it down?

She opens the Airlock access panel.

STARCK
I'll try. DJ, you better get your bag of tricks.

DJ nods, runs off. Peters bangs on the Airlock door.

PETERS
Justin! Open the door!

INT. EVENT HORIZON - AIRLOCK NO. 3

Peters' voice barely penetrates the pressure door:

PETERS
(muffled)
Open the door!

Justin turns off the artificial gravity. He begins to float gently.

CUT TO:

EXT. EVENT HORIZON - (MILLER'S CROSSING)

Miller moves like a frantic spider across the surface of the Event Horizon.

MILLER
I'm on my way, Starck.

STARCK (O.S.)
(radio)
You better hurry. He's engaged the override, we can't open the inner door.

Miller curses under his breath, moves even faster...

BACK TO:

INT. EVENT HORIZON - AIRLOCK NO. 3

Peters, against the window:

PETERS
(muffled)
The door, Justin! Open the door!

He fixes his gaze upon the outer airlock door. And beyond it, space. He speaks in a flat monotone:

JUSTIN
Did you hear it?

INT. EVENT HORIZON - AIRLOCK BAY NO. 3

They are stunned to hear his voice. Peters answers:

PETERS
Yes. Yes, Justin, we heard it.

STARCK
Keep him talking.

PETERS
Do you know what it was?

JUSTIN
(muffled)
It gets inside you. It shows you things... horrible things...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - AIRLOCK NO. 3

JUSTIN
...can't describe it... there are no words...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - BRIDGE

Weir sits alone, listening to the VOICES on the intercom.

PETERS (O.S.)
(intercom)
What, Justin, what shows you?

JUSTIN (O.S.)
(intercom)
It won't stop, it goes on and on and on...

PETERS (O.S.)
(intercom)
What does?

JUSTIN (O.S.)
(intercom)
The dark inside me.

A LOW MOAN escapes Weir's lips. He cradles his head in his hands.

EXT. EVENT HORIZON - (MILLER'S CROSSING)

Miller races across the surface of the Event Horizon, the only sounds, his LABOURED BREATHING, and Justin's tortured VOICE, patched through on his radio:

JUSTIN (O.S.)
(radio)
...It's inside and it eats and eats until there's nothing left.

PETERS (O.S.)
(radio)
"The dark inside..."? I don't understand.

JUSTIN (O.S.)
(radio)
From the Other Place...

BACK TO:

INT. EVENT HORIZON - AIRLOCK NO. 3

JUSTIN
The other crew, they're there, they're waiting for me. They're waiting for you. I won't go back there... I won't...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - AIRLOCK BAY NO. 3

Peters presses her face against the Airlock window, trying to calm him:

PETERS
Justin, look at me. Look at me. Open this door.

DJ runs up with his medkit.

STARCK
I don't think she can talk him down.
We need a sedative.

DJ
If he opens the outer door he'll turn inside-out.

Starck's hands fly as she re-wires the circuits. Sweat beads her face.

STARCK
Almost got it.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - AIRLOCK NO. 3

PETERS (O.S.)
(muffled)
Come on, Baby-bear, open this door...

Justin looks at her with dead eyes. He reaches out to gently touch the glass between them.

JUSTIN
If you could see the things I've seen, you wouldn't try to stop me.
You'd come with me.

Justin's hand moves to the OUTER AIRLOCK DOOR control.
Hesitates... then floats to the OUTER AIRLOCK control. Hits it.

PETERS
(muffled)
NOOO!

A yellow warning light flashes. A warning klaxon WHOOPS, deafening.

Justin jerks his hands to his ears, closes his eyes...

COMPUTER
Stand-by for decompression. Thirty seconds...

Justin opens his eyes as if waking from a dream...

JUSTIN
Hey, Mama-Bear... what are doing...?

And then he realizes where he is...and what is about to happen.

JUSTIN
Oh my god OH MY GOD...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - AIRLOCK BAY NO. 3

PETERS
Starck!

STARCK
I can't! The inner door can't open once the outer door has been triggered, it would decompress the entire ship!

JUSTIN
(muffled)
You gotta open, you gotta stop it,
please...

PETERS
We have to do something, oh God...

STARCK
(into radio)
Skipper, Justin just activated the door. It's on a thirty second delay...

EXT. EVENT HORIZON - (MILLER'S CROSSING)

Miller moves through the Event Horizon superstructure, recklessly leaping from one beam to another, trying to build up speed.

MILLER
Patch me through to him.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - AIRLOCK NO. 3

MILLER (O.S.)
(radio)
Justin.

JUSTIN
Skipper, you gotta help me...

COMPUTER
Twenty seconds.

JUSTIN
...tell them to open the door...

MILLER (O.S.)

(radio)
They can't do that Justin, now listen carefully...

EXT. EVENT HORIZON - AIRLOCK NO. 3

Miller moves faster and faster, his BREATH echoing in his helmet. He can see the exterior airlock just beyond a deep chasm in the ship's superstructure. If he misses this jump, Justin will not be the only man to die today.

He doesn't hesitate but leaps, soaring across the chasm towards the airlock.

JUSTIN
(radio)
...I don't want to die...!

MILLER
You're not going to die! Not today!
I want you to do exactly as I say and I'm gonna get you out of there,
alright?

INT. EVENT HORIZON - AIRLOCK NO. 3

JUSTIN
But I can't... I gotta get out of here... Skipper, please...

MILLER
(radio)
Justin. I won't let you die.

Miller's words give Justin hope. He regains some control.

JUSTIN
Okay... okay...

Justin breathes hard and follows Miller's hurried instructions:

MILLER
(radio)
Tuck yourself into a crouched position, shut your eyes as tight as you can!

STARCK
Five seconds.

EXT. EVENT HORIZON - AIRLOCK NO. 3

Miller lands on the superstructure opposite the exterior airlock.

MILLER
(radio)
Exhale everything you got, Baby Bear, we can't have any air in those lungs,
blow it all out...

INT. EVENT HORIZON -- AIRLOCK NO. 3

Justin goes into a fetal crouch and covers his eyes.

JUSTIN
Oh god --

He wheezes out all his air...

EXT. EVENT HORIZON -- AIRLOCK NO. 3

Miller squats on the girder, ready to push off. He focuses on the 5 meters of space between him and the airlock...

The outer doors OPEN...

The rush of escaping atmosphere carries Justin's body out...

Miller pushes off... catches Justin's body... sending them both back towards the open Airlock...

Ice forms on Justin's body. His veins bulge. Blood fountains from his nose and mouth, forming a red icicle over his face.

Miller pulls him into the Airlock. Five seconds have passed since the airlock door opened.

INT. EVENT HORIZON -- AIRLOCK NO. 3

Miller closes the Airlock behind them. Air HISSES into the chamber. Justin's body hits the deck as "normal" gravity exerts itself.

Miller opens the Inner Door. Peters and DJ rush in.

PETERS
Oh God... Justin...

DJ puts a tube in the Justin's mouth immediately, feeding him oxygen.

PETERS
I've got a pulse, he's alive...

DJ
Pressure?

PETERS
90 over 50 and falling... .

DJ
He's crashing...

Blood bubbles from Justin's mouth and eyes. He GASPS, then SCREAMS, spraying blood from his mouth.

DJ
He can breathe. That's good. Let's get him to Medical, go, go!

Starck helps DJ and Peters carry Justin from the Airlock. Miller sits there, exhausted. Reaches up and pulls his helmet off.

CUT TO:

INT. EVENT HORIZON -- BRIDGE

Weir listens to

DJ (O.S.)
(intercom) Intubate, pure oxygen feed, get the nitrogen out of his blood...

PETERS (O.S.)
(intercom)
His peritoneum has ruptured...

DJ (O.S.)
(intercom)
One thing at a time, let's keep him breathing. Start the drip, 15cc's fibrinogen, Christ, he's bleeding out...

CUT TO:

INT. EVENT HORIZON -- GRAVITY COUCH BAY

One of the tanks has been activated. Swaddled in bandages, Justin floats within, suspended in green gel. The others -- DJ, Starck, Peters, Miller, Weir -- look exhausted.

DJ
He'll live... if we ever make it back.

MILLER
We'll make it.

STARCK
CO2 levels will reach toxic levels in four hours.

Peters stands, looking at Justin's ravaged form floating in the tank.

MILLER
(gently)
Peters. We need to know what happened to the crew. Before it happens to us.

PETERS
(weakly)
I'll get back to the log. But on the bridge, I won't go back, back in there...

MILLER
Thanks.

Peters exits.

STARCK
Justin said something about, "The dark inside me..." What did he mean?

WEIR
It means nothing.

MILLER
Is that your "expert opinion?" The only answer we've had out of you is
"I don't know."

WEIR
Justin just tried to kill himself.
The man is clearly insane.

DJ
How would you explain your own behavior?

WEIR
What?

STARCK

On the bridge. You said "it" wanted
you.

Weir glances at Justin...

INT. EVENT HORIZON -- GRAVITY COUCH BAY -- POV OF CLAIRE

But it's not Justin in the tank. It's his wife CLAIRE, naked, wet, dead. Weir stares at her.

INT. EVENT HORIZON -- GRAVITY COUCH BAY

WEIR
I said that?

DJ
Yes. You did.

Weir blinks. Justin floats in the grav couch. Weir turns back to the others.

WEIR
I don't remember saying that.
(covers with a joke)
Maybe I'm insane, too.

Weir exits.

INT. EVENT HORIZON -- GENERIC CORRIDOR

Miller follows Weir out of the Gravity Couch Bay.

MILLER
I want to know what caused that noise.
I want to know why one of my crew tried to throw himself out of the airlock.

WEIR
Thermal changes in the hull could have caused the metal to expand and contract very suddenly, causing reverberations --

MILLER
(exploding)
That's bullshit and you know it! You built this fucking ship and all I've heard from you is bullshit!

WEIR
What do you want me to say?

MILLER
You said this ship creates a gateway...

WEIR
Yes...

MILLER
To what? Where did this ship go?
Where did you send it?

WEIR
I don't know...

MILLER
Where has it been for the past seven years?

WEIR
I don't know...

MILLER
The "Other Place," what is that...?

WEIR
I DON'T KNOW!
(beat, calm again)
I don't know. There's a lot of things going on here that I don't understand.
Truth takes time.

MILLER
That's exactly what we don't have,
Doctor.

CUT TO:

INT. EVENT HORIZON - GENERIC CORRIDOR

Miller moves through the maze of the ship, heading for the Bridge.

As he reaches a junction, he hears...

...A DISTANT CRY...

VOICE (O.S.)
Don't leave me...!

Miller wheels like a cat, staring wildly down the branching corridors.

Nothing. He is alone. Miller leans against the wall, sinks to the floor, rests his head in his hands.

EXT. NEPTUNE - MODEL

The grotesque ship continues it's orbit as the moon Triton eclipses the sun. Darkness swallows all.

CUT TO:

INT. EVENT HORIZON - GRAVITY COUCH BAY

DJ enters, checks Justin's display.

MILLER (O.S.)
Any change?

DJ turns, surprised. Miller sits, barely visible in the dark.

DJ
No. No change.
(beat)
I've analyzed Justin's blood samples.
There's no evidence of excessive levels of carbon dioxide. Or anything else out of ordinary.

A grim LAUGH from Miller.

MILLER
Of course not. Justin just climbed into the airlock because he felt like it. Just one of those things.
(beat)
I swore I'd never lose another man.
I came close today. Real close.

DJ
"Another man?" Who?

Miller nods, pulls his service medal from beneath his jumpsuit.

MILLER
It was on the Goliath. There was this bosun, Corrick, a young guy, a lot like Justin. Edmund Corrick, from Decatur, Georgia. He got caught when the pressure doors sealed, one closed on his arm. Severed it at the wrist. The pain of that must have been... He passed out and...

Miller trails off. DJ waits patiently. Finally:

MILLER

I, I tried to go back for him, to save him, but I couldn't get to him in time. The fire... Have you ever seen fire in zero-gravity? It's like a liquid, it slides over everything. It was like a wave breaking over him, a wave of fire. And then he was gone.

(beat)

I never told anyone until now. But this ship knew, DJ. It knows about the Goliath, it knows about Corrick. It knows our secrets. It knows what we're afraid of.

(beat, wan smile)

And now you're going to tell me it's carbon dioxide.

DJ

No.

Miller sees something in DJ's expression.

MILLER

What is it?

DJ

I've been listening to the transmission. And I think Houston made a mistake in the translation.

MILLER

Go on.

DJ plays the recording again. Stops it abruptly.

DJ

They thought it said, "Liberatis me," "Save me," but it's not "me." It's "tutemet:" "Save yourself."

MILLER

It's not a distress call. It's a warning.

DJ

It gets worse.

Miller stares at him.

DJ

It's very hard to make out, but listen to this final part.

He plays the recording again.

DJ
Do you hear it? Right there.

MILLER
Hear what?

DJ
It sounds like "ex infera:" "ex," from; "infera," the ablative case of "inferi." "Hell."

MILLER
"Save yourself. From Hell."
(beat)
What are you saying, are you saying that this ship is possessed?

DJ
No. I don't believe in that sort of thing.

(beat)
But if Dr. Weir is right, this ship has passed beyond the boundaries of our universe, of reality. Who knows where this ship has been... What it's seen...

(beat)
And what it's brought back with it.

DJ looks at Miller. He does not have an answer. The intercom CRACKLES:

COOPER (O.S.)
(intercom)
Captain Miller, we're ready to repressurize the Clark.

MILLER
(into intercom)
On my way.

CUT TO:

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - BRIDGE

Miller stands in his EVA suit in the darkened bridge. He twists a manual valve.

MILLER

Alright, Cooper.

EXT. LEWIS AND CLARK - HULL SECTION

Cooper looks at Smith.

COOPER
Cross your fingers.

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - BRIDGE

A moment later, mist flows from the vents into the bridge, filling it with atmosphere. Miller watches the pressure rise on his suit gauge.

SMITH (O.S.)
(radio)
It's holding... She's holding...!

COOPER (O.S.)
(radio)
We're still venting trace gasses, gimme twenty minutes to plug the hole.

MILLER
You got it, Coop.

Miller removes his helmet. Breathes deep.

MILLER
Back in business.

CUT TO:

INT. EVENT HORIZON - BRIDGE

Peters sits in front of the screen. The log is still distorted.

Frustrated, she types in a series of instructions. Get to her feet.

PETERS
You got any coffee?

STARCK
It's cold.

PETERS
I don't care.

Behind Peters, the process refines, accelerates... pieces coming together like a jigsaw...

Peters turns around. Sees the screen. The coffee slips from her hand to the floor.

PETERS
(tiny voice)
Starck...

Starck turns, sees the screen.

PETERS
Sweet Jesus. Miller... MILLER!

CUT TO:

INT. EVENT HORIZON - BRIDGE

Miller, Starck, DJ watch the video. Peters turns away, miserable. Unable to watch...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - BRIDGE THE VIDEO SCREEN

still distorted by static and roll, but finally lucid: FOUR ORIGINAL CREW of the Event Horizon. On the Bridge.

ONE MAN dislocates his shoulder with a WET POPPING sound as he shoves his arm down his own throat. Blood bubbles from his nose. With a SHUCKING sound, he pulls his stomach out his mouth...

Behind him, a MAN and WOMAN fuck, covered with blood. She bites through his neck. His head lolls to the other side. She buries her face in the torn flesh as he thrusts into her again and again...

Presiding over them, KILPACK. His eyes are bloody holes. His hands reach out in offering. In the palms of his hands, his eyes.

Kilpack opens his mouth and speaks with an INHUMAN VOICE.

KILPACK
Liberatis tutemet ex infera...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - BRIDGE

Miller switches off the video. No one says anything.

MILLER
We're leaving.

WEIR
You can't, your orders are specific...

MILLER
"...to rescue the crew and salvage the ship." The crew is dead, Dr.
Weir. This ship killed them. And now it's killing us.

WEIR
You're insane. You've lost your mind.

MILLER
Maybe you're right. But it's still my command, and I have leeway to abort when I feel there is an unacceptable threat to my crew. And I think there is.
(beat) Starck, download all the files from the Event Horizon's computers. Coop, Smith, finish moving the CO2 scrubbers back onto the Clark.

WEIR
(stammering)
Don't... don't do this...

MILLER
It's done.

CUT TO:

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - AIRLOCK

Peters enters, carrying heavy CO2 scrubbers. Smith stops her.

SMITH
What's going on, sweethearts?

PETERS
CO2 scrubbers for the Clark. Miller pulled the plug on the mission.

Smith smiles.

SMITH
About goddam time.

Sequence omitted from original script.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MAIN ACCESS CORRIDOR - WITH AIRLOCKS

Weir follows Miller down the Corridor.

WEIR
What about my ship?

MILLER
We will take the Lewis and Clark to a safe distance and then launch tac missiles at the Event Horizon until I am satisfied that she has been destroyed.

(beat)
Fuck this ship.

WEIR
You... You can't do that!

MILLER
Watch me.

Miller turns to walk away. Weir grabs Miller, wheeling him around, almost frenzied.

WEIR
You can't kill her, I won't let you!
I lost her once, I will not lose her
again...!

Miller shoves Weir back into the wall. The two stare at each other. Adversaries...

The lights cut to emergency lighting.

STARCK (O.S.)
(intercom)
Miller, come in ...

Miller finds the intercom:

MILLER
Starck, what the hell is going on?

INT. EVENT HORIZON - BRIDGE

Starck peers at the Engineering board:

STARCK
(into intercom)
We just lost main power again.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MAIN ACCESS CORRIDOR - WITH AIRLOCKS

Miller and Weir are barely visible in the darkness.

MILLER
Goddammit! Starck, get those files and vacate. I want off this ship.

He releases the intercom.

Weir's voice is a WHISPER as he backs into the shadows.

WEIR
You can't leave. She won't let you.

MILLER
Just get your gear back onto the Lewis and Clark, doctor, or you'll find yourself looking for a ride home.

Weir is swallowed by the darkness.

WEIR (O.S.)
I am home.

REGULAR LIGHTING snaps on...

Miller looks around. Dr. Weir has vanished.

MILLER
Weir? WEIR!

He slams the intercom:

MILLER
All hands. Dr. Weir is missing. I want him found and restrained.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - BRIDGE

Starck gathers all the files and disks. Shuts down the consoles, one by one.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - SECOND CONTAINMENT

Smith and Peters finish removing CO2 scrubbers from panels in the walls.

SMITH
Let's go, let's go, this place freaks me out...

PETERS
Last one.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - FIRST CONTAINMENT

Peters follows Smith down the First Containment towards the Main Access Corridor, carrying the last case of scrubbers. She begins to lag behind.

A GIGGLE echoes down the First Containment.

PETERS
(whisper)
Denny?

She turns back to the Second Containment...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - SECOND CONTAINMENT POV PETERS

A SMALL FIGURE dashes through the darkness in the Second Containment. Denny...?

INT. EVENT HORIZON - FIRST CONTAINMENT

PETERS
Smith.

Peters turns, but Smith is already out of sight. She hesitates. Moves back towards Second Containment.

Again, Peters hears the GIGGLE of a child. The SCRAPE of metal on metal. She slowly moves forward...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - SECOND CONTAINMENT

...into the darkness of the Second Containment. Peters sees an open access panel. She looks inside.

PETERS' POV - ACCESS DUCT

A narrow tube, vanishing into darkness. A YOUNG CHILD'S VOICE echoes from far away:

DENNY (O.S.)
Mommy...

PETERS

ducks her head and enters the access duct.

PETERS
Denny...?

CUT TO:

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - BRIDGE

Miller sits at Justin's engineering position. Flips a series of switches...

EXT. LEWIS AND CLARK - MODEL

Cooper works on the patch as the ship's running lights come on in sequence...

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - BRIDGE

The bridge lights flicker, illuminate...

MILLER
(to his ship)
Thank you.

SMITH (O.S.)
(radio)
Captain, we got a problem.

MILLER
Now what?

CUT TO:

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MAIN ACCESS CORRIDOR - WITH AIRLOCKS

SMITH AND MILLER

SMITH
She was right behind me, I turn around, she's gone. She could be anywhere.

MILLER
Alright. Prep the Clark for launch. I'll find her.

CUT TO:

INT. EVENT HORIZON - DENNY'S DUCT

Peters moves through the duct. Reaches a junction. Anything could be with her, there in the dark.

A child's WHISPER, too faint for words. Peters turns...

Behind her, FOREGROUND, a YOUNG CHILD dashes across the corridor.

Peters turns back. Too late to see. Again, the child's WHISPER draws her onward.

PETERS
Denny? Denny, come to Mommy...

FAINT LAUGHTER is her only answer. She follows the sound, now climbing into a vertical shaft that takes her higher and higher...

PETERS
Hold on, Denny, Mommy's coming...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - DENNY'S DUCT - CATWALK

Peters pulls herself up from the vertical shaft onto a catwalk that snakes between huge oily machinery, just in time to see...

A SMALL CHILD running, disappearing into the gloom ahead.

PETERS
Denny?

She runs forward into a junction. The lights flicker red.

PETERS
Denny...?

DENNY
Mommy...

Her son can barely be seen in the flickering darkness ahead.

PETERS
You can walk... Denny, you can walk...
oh, my baby...

DENNY
Wanna show you, Mommy, wanna show you something...

He reaches his arms out to her...

Peters steps forward, reaching for her son...

...falling into an open access hatch, hidden in the dark...

INT. DENNY'S DUCT - (VERTICAL TUBE)

...a twenty meter drop...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - SECOND CONTAINMENT

Peters hits hard, lies before the Core, an offering of flesh and blood. Her legs twist beneath her, shattered; blood pools around her head. Her chest heaves: still alive.

PETERS
(bloody gasp)
Denny...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - DENNY'S DUCT - TUBE SECTION

Denny peers down from the top of the shaft and GIGGLES. CLAPS his hands in childlike glee.

CUT TO:

INT. EVENT HORIZON - FIRST CONTAINMENT

Weir wanders into First Containment, brooding.

WEIR
(to himself)
I won't. I won't leave. This is my ship.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - SECOND CONTAINMENT

Weir enters the Second Containment. Freezes as he sees...

Peters body lying twisted and broken before the Core.

WEIR
Oh no. Peters...?

He rushes to Peters. Reaches out to touch her but pulls his hand back. Her eyes are black, eight-ball hemorrhage darkening the irises. She is dead.

WEIR
Why did you do that? You didn't have to do that...

CLAIRE (O.S.)
Billy.

Weir looks up from Peters' corpse.

CLAIRE stands before the Core. She is naked. Her skin is pale and beautiful and cold and wet. Her hair hangs in her face, covering her milk-white eyes...

INT. STUDIO APARTMENT

Claire stands naked before the bathroom mirror. Behind her, the tub steams...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - SECOND CONTAINMENT - (SEX AND SUICIDE INTERCUT)

Weir stares at Claire in shock. She walks to him. Slowly.

She stops in front of him. Her arms hang at her sides. He must reach for her.

He does, putting his hands on her hips. He slides from his chair to the floor to his knees. He presses his face to her pale belly and cries. SOBS wrack his body...

INT. STUDIO APARTMENT

...and in the bathroom, she clutches Weir's straight-razor...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - SECOND CONTAINMENT

She reaches down. Slowly, her arms cradle his head. She slides down on him. Straddles him.

INT. STUDIO APARTMENT

...Claire slips into the steaming water...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - SECOND CONTAINMENT

He raises his head to her breasts. His eyes, closed. She remains unnaturally still, only her hips rocking back and forth.

Weir's mouth opens, GASPS as he enters her...

INT. STUDIO APARTMENT

...and the razor bites her skin...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - SECOND CONTAINMENT

She caresses his face. Lifts his face to hers. Her mouth is slack. Her hair hangs in front of her eyes.

INT. STUDIO APARTMENT

...Claire floats dead in the red water, eyes open, hair billowing around her head like a halo...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - SECOND CONTAINMENT

Weir gazes up at her, transfixed. He takes her hand and raises it to his face. She caresses his cheek. And reaches for his eyes...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - FIRST CONTAINMENT

A MUFFLED SCREAM rips through the Second Containment Seal. It begins as a human sound and ends as something else, an alien CRY of rage.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MAIN ACCESS CORRIDOR - WITH AIRLOCKS

The CRY echoes down the Main Corridor.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MEDICAL/SCIENCE

DJ packs up blood samples. He raises his head at the sound of the CRY.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - BRIDGE

Starck GASPS as the CRY resounds through the bridge.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MAIN ACCESS CORRIDOR - NO AIRLOCKS

Miller turns in the direction of the CRY. He begins to move down the Corridor, towards the source.

EXT. LEWIS AND CLARK - HULL SECTION

Cooper examines the weld on the baffle plate. It's solid.

COOPER
Solid as a rock.
(into his radio)
Hey, Smith...

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - AIRLOCK

COOPER (O.S.)
(intercom)
Smith, clear that airlock, man, I'm coming in.

SMITH
Roger that.

Smith carries another load of supplies. Movement out of the corner of his eye...

He turns in time to see Weir disappear around a corner inside the Event Horizon.

SMITH
Dr. Weir! Hey, get your ass back on board! Dr. Weir!

No response.

Smith keys the radio.

SMITH
Skipper, come in...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MAIN ACCESS CORRIDOR - NO AIRLOCKS

Miller jogs down the Main Corridor. An INTERCOM gets his attention:

SMITH (O.S.)
(intercom)
Skipper...

MILLER
(into intercom)
What is it, Smith?

SMITH (O.S.)
(intercom)
I just saw Weir, I think he was messing around on the Clark.

Something SPARKS and SIZZLES in the dim light, catching Miller's eye. He looks up...

One of the EXPLOSIVE CHARGES has been removed from the its mounting in the Corridor.

MILLER
Smith, get out of there...

SMITH (O.S.)
(intercom)
Come again, Skipper?

MILLER
One of the explosives is missing from the corridor. I think Weir may have put it on the Clark.

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - AIRLOCK

Smith's eyes open wide.

MILLER (O.S.)
(intercom)
Get off the Clark now and wait for me at the airlock.

SMITH
No, no, we just got her back together...

MILLER (O.S.)
(intercom)
Get out of there now!

But Smith has already left the airlock...

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - QUARTERS

...entering the Quarters, tearing through storage lockers.

SMITH
Where is it, where is it...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MAIN ACCESS CORRIDOR - WITH AIRLOCKS

MILLER
Smith? Smith! Fuck!

Miller races down the corridor towards the airlock, towards his ship...

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - QUARTERS

A BEEPING sound catches Smith's attention. He follows the sound to a storage compartment. Rifles through it.

SMITH
I gotcha... I gotcha...

The BEEPS are coming closer and closer together.

Smith grabs a duffel.

SMITH
I gotcha.

Opens it. He sees the EXPLOSIVE CHARGE from the Event Horizon even as the BEEPS become a steady TONE. He closes his eyes and SIGHS...

INT. LEWIS AND CLARK - EXPLOSION

WHITE LIGHT. A MASSIVE EXPLOSION...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - AIRLOCK BAY NO. 1 - (TATTERED UMBILICUS)

Miller enters the docking bay even as a HUGE BLAST knocks him back.

MILLER
NOOO!

Safety doors close, sealing off the airlock and preventing loss of pressure.

EXT. LEWIS AND CLARK - MODEL

The SILENT EXPLOSION tears the Lewis and Clark into two pieces, spiralling away from each other and from the Event Horizon. Metal shards, like confetti, fill the space between them.

EXT. LEWIS AND CLARK - EXPLODED HULL SECTION

Cooper clings to the forward section, watching the Event Horizon recede as he tumbles into space. His FRENZIED BREATHING is the only sound.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - AIRLOCK BAY NO. 1 - (TATTERED UMBILICUS)

Miller gets to his feet. Stares out the window upon the wreckage of his ship, spiralling away. He hits the intercom with his forearm.

MILLER
DJ. The Clark's gone. Smith and Cooper are dead.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MEDICAL/SCIENCE

DJ
What happened?

MILLER (O.S.)
(intercom)
Weir. He used one of the explosives from the Corridor.

The door opens behind DJ. The lights go out. DJ turns...

Face to face with Weir...

Blood crusts Weir's cheekbones, his mouth. He has no eyes.
Only clotted, empty sockets.

DJ opens his mouth to SCREAM. Weir grabs DJ by the throat,
cutting him off.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - AIRLOCK BAY NO. 1 - (TATTERED UMBILICUS)

MILLER
DJ, you read me?

DJ does not answer. The CRASH of glass and steel resonates over the intercom.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MEDICAL/SCIENCE

Too dark to see... glimpses of violent motion in the stainless steel cabinets... the sounds of STRUGGLE continue...

...then something WET... and the struggle stops.

MILLER (O.S.)
(intercom)
DJ? DJ, come in...

Finally, Weir emerges from the gloom. He searches among the surgical instruments until his blood caked hands find a needle... and thread...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - AIRLOCK BAY NO. 1 - (TATTERED UMBILICUS)

Miller, at the intercom. He tries another channel.

MILLER
Peters...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - SECOND CONTAINMENT

Peters body lies before the Core. The intercom CRACKLES.

MILLER (O.S.)
(intercom)
Peters, are you there?

INT. EVENT HORIZON - AIRLOCK NO. 1 - (TATTERED UMBILICUS)

MILLER

(growing panic)
Starck, do you read me? Starck...?

But it is Weir who answers. His voice sounds thick, choked with dirt.

WEIR (O.S.)
(intercom)
I told you... She won't let you leave...

MILLER
Son of a bitch!

Miller yanks open a storage locker full of zero-G tool. Lifts a nailgun. Chambers a round.

CUT TO:

EXT. LEWIS AND CLARK - EXPLODED HULL SECTION

Cooper watches the Event Horizon fall farther and farther away.

He checks his oxygen gauge. One tank full, one tank at half.

Cooper twists his backpack around, giving him access to the oxygen tanks. He seals off his primary hose and disconnects the full tank. His gauge immediately goes to "Yellow - Reserve."

Cooper points the full tank away from the Event Horizon and OPENS IT...

The blast of pressurized air pushes him towards the ship, leaving the wreckage of the Lewis and Clark behind.

CUT TO:

INT. EVENT HORIZON - GENERIC CORRIDOR

Miller races through the corridors to Medical...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MEDICAL/SCIENCE

...and finds DJ, suspended above the table, neatly dissected. His organs have been laid out carefully before him on the steel table.

MILLER
Oh my God.

DJ raises his head.

DJ
(whisper)
Please...

MILLER
Oh, God, DJ, what do I... how do
I...

DJ
Please... kill...

MILLER
Oh God...

Miller raises the nailgun with trembling hands. FIRES.

CUT TO:

INT. EVENT HORIZON - CORRIDOR TO BRIDGE

Miller approaches the door to the Bridge. It is open...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - BRIDGE

Miller stands in the doorway. A figure sits at the helm.
Miller aims the nailgun.

MILLER
Weir.

The figure doesn't move. Miller slowly circles around the helm...

It's Starck. Bound with wire in a sadomasochistic pose, unconscious.

MILLER
Hold on... Get you outta these...

Miller kneels in front of her, puts down the nailgun, loosens the cords. She BREATHES in ragged gasps, opens his eyes...

Then stops. She stares over Miller's shoulder like a deer caught in the headlights.

Miller looks behind him...

WEIR STANDS THERE, STARING WITH EYES SEWN SHUT.

Miller reaches for the gun...

Weir hits him, sending Miller across the bridge into a bulkhead. Weir picks up the nailgun, examines it.

Miller slowly gets to his feet.

MILLER
Your eyes...

WEIR
I don't need them anymore. Where we're going, we won't need eyes to see.

MILLER
What are you talking about?

WEIR
Do you know what a singularity is, Miller? Does your mind truly fathom what a black hole is?
(beat)
It is NOTHING. Absolute and eternal
NOTHING. And if God is Everything, then I have seen the Devil.
(a dead man's grin)
It's a liberating experience.

With his free hand, Weir reaches for the navigation console.
Flips a series of switches with gore caked fingers.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - BRIDGE (ENLARGED CONSOLE)

The display lights up.

COMPUTER
Gravity drive primed. Do you wish to engage?

INT. EVENT HORIZON - BRIDGE

MILLER
What are you doing?

Weir grins as he flips the final switch.

COMPUTER
Gravity drive engaged. Activation in T-minus ten minutes.

Miller lunges for the nailgun. Weir raises the nailgun to point at Miller's face. Miller slowly backs away.

MILLER

If you miss me, you'll blow out the hull. You'll die too.

WEIR

What makes you think I'll miss?

Miller sees something out of the corner of his eye...

EXT. EVENT HORIZON - BRIDGE

Cooper. Outside, braced in the viewport bracket.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - BRIDGE

Weir spins and FIRES at Cooper. The nail lodges in the thick quartz glass. A web of cracks spreads out from the bullet, the glass SHRIEKING under the pressure.

Weir takes a step towards the window, raises the gun to fire again.

EXT. EVENT HORIZON - BRIDGE

Miller dives for the door. Before Weir can fire,

EXT. EVENT HORIZON - BRIDGE WINDOW (HANGING SECTION)

the window EXPLODES outward.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - BRIDGE

The ship HOWLS as air rushes out, ripping Weir off his feet. Weir catches himself in the broken window, trying to pull himself back in...

A monitor tears free, SMASHES into him. HE IS SUCKED OUT.

Miller pulls himself through the door as it begins to shut. He is safe...

STARCK (O.S.)

Don't leave me!

Miller turns. Starck clings to a console, barely able to resist the winds that try to suck her into the void.

STARCK

(gasping for air)

Please... help, help me...

Miller hesitates, looking from Starck back into the safety of the ship. The door continues to shut. In seconds, he will be safe. And she will be dead.

Miller YELLS and rips a compressor from its mount, wedges it in the door to keep it open. He keeps one hand on the door, reaches the other hand to Starck.

MILLER
Give me your hand! Your hand!

She does. Frost forms on their bodies as the air cools. Their veins begin to bulge, blood pulses from their noses. He YELLS with exertion...

...drags her to the door... through the door...

...as the compressor tears free, sucked into space...

...and the door SNAPS shut, missing them by a fraction.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - CORRIDOR TO BRIDGE

Starck and Miller collapse against the door. A moment passes between them. Just happy to be breathing...

...and then the AIRLOCK KLAXON goes off.

MILLER
The forward airlock.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - GENERIC CORRIDOR

Starck and Miller race towards the Forward Airlock Bay.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - FORWARD AIRLOCK BAY NO. 4

They enter, see a humanoid shape moving in the strobing light of the airlock.

STARCK
Weir can't be alive.

MILLER
Whatever was on that bridge wasn't
Weir.

Miller looks around for a weapon. Pulls a zero-G bolt cutter from the wall. Wields it like a bat.

MILLER
Stay behind me.

The inner airlock door releases with a HISS. Swings open...

Cooper tumbles through, clawing at his helmet.

STARCK
Cooper!

Starck rushes to him, takes his helmet off.

He SUCKS air in, COUGHS it out.

COOPER
Let me breathe, let me breathe...

STARCK
You're okay now, it's over...

MILLER
(sees something)
It's not over. It's just starting.

Starck follows Miller's gaze to a workstations's flashing display: GRAVITY DRIVE ENGAGED. ACTIVATION 00:06:43:01...

MILLER
Weir activated the drive. He's sending us to the Other Place.

STARCK
We've got to shut it down, we've got to...

COOPER
How? The Bridge is gone.

STARCK
There must be a way! What about Engineering?

COOPER
Can you shut it down?

STARCK
I don't know the process, Dr. Weir was the expert...

COOPER
I don't want to go where the last crew went. I'd rather be dead.

MILLER
BLOW THE FUCKER UP.

STARCK
Blow it up?

MILLER
We blow the Corridor. Use the foredecks as a lifeboat, separate it from the rest of the ship. We stay put...

COOPER
...and the gravity drive goes where no man has gone before.

CUT TO:

INT. EVENT HORIZON - GRAVITY COUCH BAY

MILLER
You prep the gravity couches. I'm going to manually arm those explosives.

COOPER
Will it work?

MILLER
It worked for Weir. Prep the tanks.

Cooper nods, heads for the gravity couch bay. Starck follows
Miller to the steel pressure door.

STARCK
I'll do it --

MILLER
No. I'll be right back.

Miller opens the door.

MILLER
Close it behind me. Just in case.

Beat. Starck stares at Miller as if memorizing his face.

STARCK
Don't be long.

Miller smiles wanly. The door slides shut with a dull THUNK.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MAIN ACCESS CORRIDOR - NO AIRLOCKS

Miller runs down the corridor. Stops at a bulkhead coupling.
Kneels down to remove the cover from an explosive charge, switch it to MANUAL detonation.

Miller runs to the next coupling. Repeats the process...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - GRAVITY COUCH BAY

Starck and Cooper check the gravity couches. One by one, they slide open...

COOPER
I'm gonna activate the emergency beacon.

STARCK
Hurry.

Cooper exits down a ladder. Starck turns to the console, activates three gravity couches. Behind her, two begin to fill with blue gel...

...and one begins to fill with blood... the hint of dark shapes moving within...

Starck doesn't see it, concentrates on the console.

THUMP. THUMP. Starck turns. Sees the bloody tank. Sees something moving inside it.

She slowly crosses to the tank. Peers at it...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - GRAVITY COUCH BAY (TANK)

THUMP. A FACE PRESSES AGAINST THE GLASS, STARING BACK AT HER. WEIR. Bone and muscle are exposed where the skin hasn't finished forming.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - GRAVITY COUCH BAY

Starck SCREAMS and backs away.

STARCK
Cooper...!

The glass BURSTS in an EXPLOSION OF BLOOD...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - CORRIDOR BELOW GRAVITY COUCH BAY

A corridor beneath the Gravity Couch Bay. Cooper searches through circuit panels until he finds the EMERGENCY BEACON breaker. He runs a by-pass, activating it manually. The lights begins to STROBE...

DRIP. DRIP. A bloodstain spreads over his shoulder. He follows the drip to the ceiling...

COOPER
Starck?

No response. He slowly moves to peer up the ladder...

...as Starck CRASHES down, bloody but alive.

COOPER
What...?

STARCK
Run!

She shoves him away...

Weir appears at the top of the ladder, crawling down headfirst like a spider...

Starck gets to her feet, staggers away...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MAIN ACCESS CORRIDOR - BY FIRST
CONTAINMENT

Miller kneels, removing the cover from the last explosive.
Flips a switch.

A small cover pops open. Miller reaches in, removes a RADIO DETONATOR.

He arms the explosives. Watches the red lights on the explosives wink on in the darkness.

He reaches for an intercom.

MILLER
We're armed. This fucker's ready to blow...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - GENERIC CORRIDOR - (INTERSECTION)

MILLER (O.S.)
(intercom)
...repeat, we're armed...

STARCK
Miller, he's back, he was in the tank...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MAIN ACCESS CORRIDOR - BY FIRST

CONTAINMENT

MILLER
Slow down, Starck, I can't understand you, who was in the tank?

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MAIN ACCESS CORRIDOR - NO AIRLOCKS

A figure seems to coalesce from the shadows behind Miller.

STARCK (O.S.)
(intercom)
You have to get back here now, he's out there now, if he finds you...

The figure moves forward into the light... Arcane runes etch Weir's face; his eyes, now restored, blaze with unholy zeal.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MAIN ACCESS CORRIDOR - BY FIRST CONTAINMENT

MILLER
Who? Who?

STARCK (O.S.)
(intercom)
Weir.

MILLER
He's dead...

Miller glances over his shoulder. His jaw drops in surprise as he sees...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MAIN ACCESS CORRIDOR - NO AIRLOCKS

Weir grinning at him... then SMASHES the intercom with his fist, cutting off Starck's VOICE.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MAIN ACCESS CORRIDOR - BY FIRST CONTAINMENT

Miller backs away.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MAIN ACCESS CORRIDOR - NO AIRLOCKS

Weir stands between Miller and safety.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MAIN ACCESS CORRIDOR - BY FIRST CONTAINMENT

MILLER

You're dead, I saw you die.

WEIR
Weir is dead.

MILLER
Then who the fuck are you?

WEIR
Your fear. Do you remember the Goliath, Miller?

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MAIN ACCESS CORRIDOR - NO AIRLOCKS

FLAMES SPREAD OVER WEIR'S BODY, TRANSFORMING HIM INTO THE BURNING MAN.

BURNING MAN
Do you remember me?

MILLER
Corrick...

BURNING MAN
You left me behind.

MILLER
That's not true...

BURNING MAN
I begged you. I begged you to save me and you did nothing. You stood there and watched me burn...

MILLER
SHUT UP! SHUT UP!

The Burning Man YELLS and raises his arm in accusation...

...and FIRE RACES OUT FROM BEHIND HIM, flowing over the walls, the ceiling, the floor, racing for Miller like a rising tide...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MAIN ACCESS CORRIDOR - BY FIRST
CONTAINMENT

Miller runs. Dead ahead, the First Containment...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - FIRST CONTAINMENT

Miller runs fast. The fire is faster, flooding in behind him.

Miller dashes for the Second Seal as IT BEGINS TO CLOSE. The fire gains on him, surrounding him.

Miller dives through the Second Seal...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - SECOND CONTAINMENT

...barely makes it...

...SLAMS into the engineering console. Miller looks back at the Second Seal. It's still open by a fraction when the fire hits it...

...SENDING A LANCE OF FLAME stabbing out towards Miller. He rolls aside as the fire hits the console. The console EXPLODES.

The Second Seal shuts tight, cutting the fire off. The paint on the Second Seal begins to bubble and scorch... and then cools as the fire subsides.

Miller gets to his feet. Almost allows himself to relax. Then he sees his shadow before him, dancing in the growing red light. He turns...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - SECOND CONTAINMENT

The Second Containment is a holocaust. Fire swarms over the walls. Burning jelly drips from Control Spikes. The Core itself is a blazing orb; the gyroscope that holds it glows red-hot.

Miller stares at the blazing Core.

BURNING MAN (O.S.)
Don't leave me!

Miller turns. The Burning Man stands RIGHT BESIDE HIM.

He SMASHES Miller with a backhand that ignites Miller's clothes and sends him flying. The detonator falls from Miller's grasp, lost beneath two feet of coolant. Miller comes up CHOKING and SPLUTTERING.

The Burning Man stalks towards Miller. The coolant STEAMS and SIZZLES at his feet.

Miller stares at the Burning Man as he approaches. Slowly rises to his feet.

MILLER
You're not Edmund Corrick.

The Burning Man's flames wane, revealing Weir's misshapen form.

Miller throws a wicked right. Weir catches Miller's fist. SQUEEZES until blood wells up between his fingers. Then slings Miller against a cooling tank with BONE CRACKING force. Miller collapses into the slime, barely able to raise his head to breathe.

Weir slowly approaches.

MILLER
What are you?

WEIR
You know.

MILLER
You want me to believe you're the Devil, well, I don't, that's bullshit!

WEIR
I'm not the Devil.

MILLER
Then what, what are you? Tell me...

WEIR
Better if I just show you.

Weir's hands reach down and he grabs Miller by the skull. Miller GASPS as he sees...

SERIES OF SHOTS

Faster than the eye can see. More than mind can accept...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - BRIDGE (VISIONS FROM HELL)

The ORIGINAL CREW writhe naked and bloody in carnivorous frenzy...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - SECOND CONTAINMENT (VISIONS FROM HELL)

Peters' bloody grinning child, devouring his mother...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - SECOND CONTAINMENT

MILLER writhes in Weir's grip. His hands flail out to the sides. One hand brushes a long steel cannister sunk in the muck. A CO2 scrubber...

THE VISIONS CONTINUE:

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MEDICAL/SCIENCE (VISIONS FROM HELL)

DJ's dissected body, except that here, DJ looks up, and smiles...

EXT. SPACE - MODEL (VISIONS FROM HELL)

AN ALIEN SUN, red and bloated and dying.

EXT. ALIEN TERRAIN - MODEL (VISIONS FROM HELL)

AN ALIEN TERRAIN; a sluggish, oily, black sea. A hand reaches from the oil...

INT. STUDIO APARTMENT (VISIONS FROM HELL)

CLAIRE floating dead in a bathtub filled with the thick black fluid...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - SECOND CONTAINMENT (VISIONS FROM HELL)

Justin, Starck and Cooper, crucified upside-down upon the Third Seal...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - SECOND CONTAINMENT

MILLER

NO!

His hand closes on the scrubber and he swings it across Weir's head. Weir reels back, stunned.

Miller gets to his feet.

MILLER

You can't have them!

He hits Weir again. HARD. Blood gushes from Weir's skull, filling the runes on his face.

Weir staggers. Miller attacks. Again and again and again...

This time Weir is ready. He catches the scrubber and tears it from Miller's grasp. SMASHES Miller to the floor with a single blow. Miller GROANS.

WEIR

I'm not the Devil. I'm much, much older. I watched the Beginning and I will see the End. I am the dark behind the stars. I am the dark inside you all.

Miller gets to all fours, trying to get up.

MILLER
...not the Devil...

Weir kicks Miller savagely. Miller slides through the coolant, comes to rest beneath a walkway. He attempts to rise, collapses back into the sludge.

Weir slowly stalks towards him.

WEIR
There is no Devil. There is no God.
There is only... NOTHING.

MILLER
You're lying...!

WEIR
I'm not asking you to believe me.
You'll see for yourself... and so will your crew. You're all coming with me.

MILLER
Starck... Cooper...

Weir's grotesque face is inches from his. He reaches down and pulls Miller from the dripping ooze...

WEIR
They are mine. And so are you...

...as Miller clears the surface, he holds something in his fist.

Miller stares dead-on into Weir's hellish face...

...and raises his right hand. HE'S HOLDING THE DETONATOR.

MILLER
(a grim smile of triumph)
You can't have them. Go to hell.

WEIR
NOOO!

MILLER DEPRESSES THE DETONATOR.

EXT. EVENT HORIZON - MODEL

A small, silent EXPLOSION blossoms in the aft section of the ship...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - MAIN ACCESS CORRIDOR - NO AIRLOCKS

...followed frames later by a sequence of DETONATIONS that rip the Main Access Corridor apart and propel the foredecks away from the containment section.

INT. EVENT HORIZON - CORRIDOR (ROLLOVER SET)

The EXPLOSION knocks Starck and Cooper down. They hold on tightly as...

EXT. NEPTUNE - MODEL

Waves of distortion ripple over the Event Horizon's containment section...

A dark sphere of energy spreads out from the containment as the gateway opens... A BLACK HOLE...

The black hole begins to shrink, imploding. As it collapses, it sucks Neptune's blue clouds with it, creating a TITANIC WHIRLPOOL with the black hole at its center...

The SHRIEKING winds carry the foredecks back towards the whirlpool, towards the black hole...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - CORRIDOR (ROLLOVER SET)

Cooper and Starck slide across the floor as the deck tips at a terrific angle...

EXT. NEPTUNE - MODEL

The foredecks teeter on the edge of oblivion...

The black hole collapses utterly, vanishing to a point. An enormous SHOCKWAVE rips out from the point of implosion.

The foredecks ride the wave away from the implosion and out of Neptune's atmosphere to safety...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - CORRIDOR WINDOW

The VIBRATIONS subside. Cooper and Starck stagger to their feet. Look out the window...

EXT. NEPTUNE - MODEL COOPER/STARCK POV

Neptune recedes, the ugly hole of the implosion already being erased by Neptune's violent winds...

INT. EVENT HORIZON - CORRIDOR WINDOW

Starck's voice is tiny.

STARCK
Miller...

FADE TO:

SPACE - MODEL

Black planets silhouetted by a dying red giant. The Engineering Containment of the Event Horizon drifts in the eddies of gas that swirl and spiral into the bloated star.

MOVE towards the ship until its shadow consumes all...

DELETE SCENE

INT. EVENT HORIZON - GRAVITY COUCH BAY

Starck awakens but the SCREAMS continue as the Event Horizon calls out to her... she SCREAMS... hands on her body... the CRIES stop...

Starck looks around uncomprehending at the faces around her.

IT'S A RESCUE TEAM

Cooper pushes them aside. She clings to him, CRYING...

COOPER
It's over, hush now, it's over...

FADE TO BLACK.

END

All movie scripts and screenplays on this site are intended for educational purposes only.

Screenplays and movie scripts organized alphabetically:

<#>ABCDEFGHIJKLMNOPQRSTUVWXYZ PDF ALL

Fantastic Four (2005)

by Mark Frost and Michael France.

Based on the Marvel comic book by Stan Lee and Jack Kirby.

Shooting Script.

More info about this movie on IMDb.com

FADE IN:

CLOSE ON A MASSIVE STEEL HEAD

Our first thought: DR. DOOM? But it's not moving. A welder's torch sparks into frame in the hands of a sculptor on scaffolding. This is art, an epic 20 foot statue going up of a business mogul (VICTOR VON DOOM) in whose generously extended hands sit two intertwined columns of DNA. His face is chiseled, angular, perfect (too perfect). Past sparks, we MOVE down to pick up...

EXT. STREET/VON DOOM INDUSTRIES TOWER - DAY

REED RICHARDS and BEN GRIMM head toward the soaring glass-box atrium of VDI Headquarters. Designed to inspire awe, it does.

REED

High open space, exposed structural elements. Obviously aimed at first time visitors to create feelings of... smallness, inadequacy.

Ben glances at Reed, who looks a little nervous.

BEN

Good thing it ain't workin... Reed, what are we doing here? This guy's fast-food, strip-mall science --

REED

This wasn't our first stop, in case you forgot NASA. And Victor's not that bad. He's just a little...
(seeing the statue)

Larger than life.

INT. VON DOOM INDUSTRIES TOWER - DAY

They move past the statue, into the sprawling atrium.

REED

He's financed some of the biggest breakthroughs of this century.

BEN

You'd never know it.

He motions to a high-tech ORB, showing FOOTAGE of VDI's accomplishments: a safe and clean nuclear facility, the first private Space Station.

All images have VICTOR front and center, glad-handling George Bush, Tony Blair, shady International Leaders. The last image is Victor holding the AMERICA'S CUP.

BEN (CONT'D)

Jesus. That too?

They reach three stern RECEPTIONISTS.

REED

Reed Richards and Ben Grimm to see --

A receptionist cuts him off, handing them each a pass.

FEMALE RECEPTIONIST

Executive elevator, top floor.

BEN

What's the price for a smile round here?

They head for the elevator. Reed carries a small, black box.
As they enter the elevator, steel doors shut and we CUT TO --

INT. VON DOOM INDUSTRIES TOWER - OFFICE - DAY

A large, dark office. Ben in the corner. He yawns, watches...

BRIGHT HOLOGRAMS: Stars. Planets. They hover in the air, making the room feel like a majestic portal into outer space.

REED (O.S.)

My research suggests that exposure to a high-energy cosmic storm born on solar winds might have triggered the evolution of early planetary life.

REED stands among the holograms, speaking to a MYSTERIOUS FIGURE in shadow behind a desk. An ominous, PULSATING RED CLOUD covers the stars. It washes over a hologram of EARTH.

REED (CONT'D)

In six weeks another cloud with the same elemental profile will pass Earth's orbit. A study in space could advance our knowledge about the structure of the human genome, and help cure countless diseases, extend human life --

The SHADOW clears his throat. Reed speeds up, emotional.

REED (CONT'D)

Give kids the chance to be stronger, healthier, less prone to --

SHADOWED FIGURE

Turn it off. Please.

The figure's DEEP VOICE pierces the darkness.

REED

But I haven't fully explained my --

SHADOWED FIGURE

Yes you have... Imagination. Creativity. Passion. Those were always your trademarks.

Lights brighten, revealing the face behind the voice: VICTOR VON DOOM. 35, handsome, commanding. He looks almost... airbrushed. He drops a WIRED magazine to the desk. REED is on the cover over the words: RICHARDS BANKRUPT, GRANT CUTBACKS.

VICTOR

But dreams don't pay the bills, do they?

(a condescending smile)

Same old Reed, the hopeless optimist. Still reaching for the stars, with the world on your back.

REED

You remember in school we talked about working together. That's what I was about to explain...

Reed presses the remote. Another hologram appears: A SHUTTLE slowly approaching AN ORBITING SPACE STATION. Both bear the VON DOOM INDUSTRIES logo. Victor smiles, more intrigued.

VICTOR
So it's not my money you want. It's my toys... Tell me: if NASA doesn't trust you, why should I?

Victor is a step ahead. Reed pauses, thrown for a beat. Ben wakes up, suspicious. Victor notices. He notices everything.

VICTOR (CONT'D)
That's my job. To stay a step ahead.
To know what other men don't.

Ben gets close to Reed, turning toward the door.

BEN
I can't take this.

REED
(low, quiet)
Ben. This is business. Just work.

A beat. Victor cracks a smile, enjoying the tension. And...

SUE (O.S.)
He's right, Ben.

They turn to see...SUE STORM (demure, stunning) standing in a corner...possibly for the whole presentation. A little cold:

SUE (CONT'D)
It's just business.

VICTOR
I think you both know my Director of Genetic Research, Susan Storm.

BEN
Heya Susie.
(under breath, to Reed)
One more thing he's got.

Sue gracefully walks into the office, only taking her eyes off of Reed to give Ben a warm hug.

SUE
Ben, it's been too long.

She gives Reed a polite handshake. Victor watches carefully.
Reed looks uncomfortable in her gaze. A little tongue-tied.

REED

You're, you've, I mean, how have you bee--

SUE

Never better.

Victor sizes them up. He puts a hand on Sue's shoulder.

VICTOR

This isn't going to be a problem, is it?

REED

Not at all.

SUE

Ancient history.

Victor smiles, eyeing Sue.

VICTOR

Good. Then you're just in time to hear the great Reed Richards ask me for help.

(to Reed)

You know, you made a lot of folks at MIT feel like a junior high science fair. So you'll excuse me if I savor the moment.

Ben tightens. A hard beat. Reed sucks it up.

REED

You back this mission, and I'll sign over a fair percentage of any applications or --

VICTOR

The number's seventy-five. And it's applications and patents.

BEN

What about his first born?

REED

(quiet)

Ben, the money's not important. We could save lives.

Sue gives a thin smile -- a flicker of old feelings.

VICTOR

Twenty-five percent of a billion is enough to keep the lights on, isn't it? Maybe even pay off your fourth mortgage on the Baxter Building.

They look at Victor. How does he know all this...?

VICTOR (CONT'D)
Deal...?

Reed looks at Ben, who shakes his head softly no. But Reed...drops a nod. Done. Victor smiles, offers a handshake.

VICTOR (CONT'D)
Well then, to our future. Together.

Victor squeezes. Hard. His other hand on Sue's shoulder.

VICTOR (CONT'D)
Funny how things turn out, isn't it?

REED
Hilarious.

As Reed and Sue lock eyes, Ben watches Victor. Wary.

INT. VICTOR'S OFFICE - MOMENTS LATER - DAY

Director of Communications LEONARD enters, checking files.

VICTOR
If Reed's right, then this little trip will double our stock offering.

LEONARD
And if he's not...?

VICTOR
Reed's always right. Good thing he doesn't always know what he's got...

INT. VON DOOM INDUSTRIES TOWER - ELEVATOR - MOMENTS LATER

Reed and Ben step into the elevator.

BEN
He knew about NASA. What if he made the call to shut us down --

REED
Ben, think about all the people we can help if this works --

BEN

Maybe you should think about yourself for once. You always let this guy push you round --

REED

We got what we wanted. That's enough.

BEN

I know, I know. I'm just worried about what he wants... Speaking of which...

Reed follows Ben's eyes to...SUE. She joins them. Doors shut.

INT. VON DOOM INDUSTRIES STAIRCASE - CONTINUOUS

SUE

You sure about this, Reed?

He nods, head down. He doesn't want eye contact.

REED

Those solar winds are flaring, but I factored them into my coordinates and --

SUE

I was talking about us. Working together.

Sue holds her eyes on Reed. He is clearly uncomfortable in her gaze. Did the elevator just get smaller?

REED

(thinking, talking fast)

Well, uh, based on our history...you can handle the biogenetics, and I'll focus on the molecular physics. Or, uhm, maybe I should take the biotech, you work the microscopes, since you have some background in electropho--

SUE

(droll, a little annoyed)

Right. That's exactly what I meant.

She shakes her head -- same old Reed. He looks at her -- what did he say wrong? Ben smiles, patting Reed on the shoulder.

BEN
Way to not overthink it.
(to Sue)
So when do we leave?

SUE
I'll schedule the launch. Call me in the morning to talk about resources and crew.

She offers a business card. Reed doesn't take it.

REED
I, uh, think I remember the number.

SUE
It's been changed.

Beat. Ben grimaces. Reed takes the card, his eyes down.

REED
As far as crew, I was hoping Ben could pilot the mission --

SUE
Well, he's welcome to ride shotgun, but we already have a pilot on our payroll. You remember my brother
Johnny...

Off Ben's curdling smile, we DISSOLVE TO --

EXT. LAKE LAUNCH FACILITY - DAY

A helicopter shot through trees. We soar over timberland, and find something massive looming on the horizon:

A SPACECRAFT. A sleek take on a space shuttle. Modern tech combined with industrial design that NASA could never afford.
The craft's nose is pointed straight up, ready for launch.
WORKERS IN JUMPSUITS are scattered around the two-hundred foot tall scaffolding, performing routine checks.

EXT. GANTRY OVERLOOK - DAY

Ben stares up at the craft. A sneer on his face.

BEN
Can't do it. I cannot do it.

REED
External SRBs, orbital system engines.
Its just like the shuttles you flew

in --

BEN

No. I cannot take orders from that underwear model. That wingnut washed out of NASA for sneaking two Victoria Secret wannabes into a flight simulator.

REED

Youthful high spirits.

They walk toward the base of the scaffolding.

BEN

They crashed it into a wall. A flight simulator.

REED

I'm sure he's matured since then.

CLOSE on JOHNNY STORM, leaning over to kiss a hot redhead. PULL BACK TO REVEAL he's riding a MOTORCYCLE, and she's driving a red CORVETTE with license plate: FRANKIE. PICK UP Reed and Ben, watching through binoculars.

REED (CONT'D)

When have I asked you to do something you absolutely said you could not do?

BEN

Five times.

REED

I had it at four.

BEN

This makes five.

INT. LAKE LAUNCH FACILITY LOCKER ROOM - NIGHT

Reed and Ben unpack gear into lockers. Suddenly --

JOHNNY (O.S.)

Captain on the bridge!

Ben goes to attention on reflex: Johnny snaps a picture with a digital camera. Then advances, as Ben realizes who it is...

JOHNNY (CONT'D)

Digital camera: $254. Memory stick: $59. The look on your hard-ass former CO's grill when he finds out he's your junior officer: priceless.

Ben eyeballs Johnny, suddenly reaches up as if to grab him.
Johnny flinches. But Ben just reaches for Johnny's zipper, adjusts his uniform.

BEN
I can handle the ship. I can even handle Mr. Blonde Ambition. But I don't know if I should be flying or playing Vegas in these suits. Who the hell came up with them?

SUE
Victor did.

Sue enters, wearing her blue, wetsuit-like uniform, carrying a stack of flightsuits. She hands them out to the guys.

SUE (CONT'D)
The synthetics act as a second skin, adapting to your individual needs to --

JOHNNY
Keep the hot side hot, and the cool side cool!

REED
Wow. Fantastic.

Reed stares at Sue in the skintight outfit. She wonders, maybe hopes -- is he actually checking her out?

REED (CONT'D)
Material made from self-regulating unstable molecules. I've been working on a formula for this.

SUE
Great minds think alike.

VICTOR (O.S.)
Guess some think faster than others.

Victor enters, wearing his custom-tailored flightsuit.

VICTOR (CONT'D)
I hired Armani to design the pattern.
These colors will look great on camera.

A DOOR OPENS. Leonard enters, in a sharp suit.

LEONARD
They're ready for you, sir.

VICTOR
Showtime.

EXT. LAKE LAUNCH FACILITY - HALLS - NIGHT

Leonard leads Victor through the halls. Victor checks himself in mirrors as he walks, fixing his hair, his uniform.

LEONARD
Our numbers are through the roof. The IPO's tracking at fifty, sixty a share. The bank's five times oversubscribed --

VICTOR
It's not just the money. I could make money in my sleep.

LEONARD
Then what is it?

VICTOR
History, Leonard. History.
Everything else is conversation...
(a beat)
How's the other matter?

Leonard pulls out a BOX. Opens it: a TEN KARAT DIAMOND RING.

LEONARD
Harry Winston sends his regards.

They hit a set of big doors. Victor stops and looks into the reflective, metallic surface on the wall. He fixes one last strand of hair. Perfect. Then he opens the door to...

SNAP!SNAP!SNAP! WHIP-PAN a row of CAMERAS snapping shots of --

EXT. LAKE LAUNCH FACILITY - NIGHT

Retrofitted into a makeshift press area. Victor sits on a platform, with reporters stretched out below him.

VICTOR
Today we stand on the edge of a new frontier. In the furthest depths of outer space...we will find the secrets to inner space. The final key to unlocking our genetic code lies in a cosmic storm...

BEHIND THE ACTION: Reed, Sue, Johnny and Ben walk past. News crews barely notice, passing without even taking a picture. Our "Fantastic Four" are not exactly big news. Not yet.

BEN
Isn't that your speech?

REED
He's made a few changes.

BEN
This is your dream, Reed. You should be the one up there.

REED
Victor's better at these things.

Just past the press area, they see...one woman standing, waiting. This is DEBBIE, Ben's fiancée. And for the first time in the entire film...Ben SMILES. They hug, kissing.

Johnny and Reed watch. Reed glances at Sue, who walks ahead. Debbie slips a photo into Ben's flightsuit. A tender beat.

BEN
I'll be watching over you.

DEBBIE
Just get back soon, or I start looking for a new groom.

Ben looks at the little ENGAGEMENT RING on her finger.

BEN
Soon as I'm back, I'm gonna trade that in for a bigger rock.

DEBBIE
I don't care about rocks, I care about you.
(to Reed)
You bring him back in one piece, or you can forget being Best Man.

Reed nods, smiles. Debbie gives Ben a last kiss. Ben turns to Johnny, who gives a cocky smile.

BEN
What the hell you smiling at? Just keep your mouth shut, and your mind on those SMBs --

JOHNNY
Actually, the engines are SMEs.
Hydrogenbase, carbon propellant.
Couple generations past your last ride.

(at the threshold)
I'm not as dumb as you look.

Ben just glares at Reed. This is going to be a long trip.
As they follow after Sue, we CUT BACK TO --

VICTOR ON STAGE

Mid-speech. Playing behind him is REED'S HOLOGRAM: stars give way to a pulsating red cloud...

VICTOR
Think of a world without genetic flaws
-- no asthma, allergies, baldness, breast cancer...

Ben and Reed hear the speech. Ben bristles.

BEN
What's wrong with being bald...?

Victor smiles at the crowd, commanding. A true leader.

VICTOR
Darwin discovered evolution. Now we --
I -- will define it. Only in America could...

The red cloud of cosmic rays wash over the Earth.

VICTOR (V.O.) (CONT'D)
...a little country boy from Latveria build one of the biggest companies in the world, and truly reach the stars.
Now if you'll excuse me, history awaits...

On those words, the HOLOGRAM TRANSFORMS TO...Von Doom's SHUTTLE on the launch pad. BOOM! THRUSTERS FIRE WHITE HOT.
Smoke billows across the pad. Ready for take off.

Victor walks past the hologram and exits. His departure perfectly timed with the shuttle LIFTING OFF.

We push in on the shuttle, and follow the ship as it leaves Earth's atmosphere. BOOM -- booster rockets fall away and the shuttle fires its thrusters. The hologram transitions to...

A shot of the SPACE STATION high above the Earth. The shuttle enters from the top, lighting up the hologram with engines afire. As the shuttle approaches the station we CUT TO --

EXT. DEEP SPACE - SAME

THE SPACE STATION in the distance, rotating in orbit above Earth. THE SHUTTLE eases in and docks.

INT. SPACE STATION - COMMAND CENTER - SAME

Victor and Sue lead the others into the command center.

JOHNNY
(a "dad voice": to Ben)
If you behave, maybe next time daddy'll let you drive.

BEN
Keep talking, there won't be a next
time.

Reed is focused on THE EARTH.

SUE
Long way from the projection booth at the Hayden Planetarium, isn't it?

Reed turns towards her -- a little stunned that she would bring that up. It's the first time she's been nice to him so far. He smiles, gently, hesitantly, always hesitant with Sue.

REED
Yes. Yes it is.

Johnny and Ben exchange a look. Reed keeps looking at the stars, eyes wide, like a little kid.

INT. SPACE STATION - COMMAND CENTER/OBSERVATION DECK - SAME

They enter the nerve center of the space station. Victor goes to a computer console on the observation deck below. The windows are closed, so there's nothing to observe.

VICTOR
(to ground; via comm-link)
Leonard, how's the feed?

LEONARD (V.O.)

Recording, sir. We see you perfectly.

Victor glances at a camera mounted into the console.

SUE
We can monitor the cloud's approach and observe the tests from here.

BEN
Is it safe?

REED
The shields on the station should protect us.

BEN
Should?

VICTOR
What's wrong, Ben? Eighty-million dollars worth of equipment not enough for you?

Ben turns to Victor. A little tension. Reed cuts it:

REED
Let's start loading those samples.
Get your suit ready, Ben.

Victor keeps his eyes on Ben.

VICTOR
So you still do all the heavy lifting?

Victor gives a friendly smile, patting Reed.

VICTOR (CONT'D)
Maybe you should have stayed back in the lab. Field work never suited you.

Reed doesn't defend himself. Ben steps up.

BEN
He does the talking. I do the walking. Got it?

Victor holds tight to his smile. He nods, condescending.

VICTOR
Got it. So take a walk, Ben...I'm going to borrow Susan for a second.

REED

Sure.

Ben and Johnny read his eyes, as we CUT TO --

INT. SPACE STATION - AIR LOCK - LATER

Ben preps for a space walk, putting on a helmet and boots.
Johnny unloads a set of clear sample boxes off of a cart, each containing a variety of plants.

JOHNNY

Please tell me your dawg's not trying to rekindle things with my sister.

BEN

'Course not. Strictly business.

JOHNNY

Yeah, well, his eyes say different.

BEN

Hey, two hearts got busted last time.
Maybe she's not over it either.

JOHNNY

Let's see: you got Victor, stud of the year, more coin than God? Or Reed, the world's dumbest smart guy worth less than a postage stamp. Hmmm, it's a toss-up.

BEN

Put your tiny little mind at ease.

JOHNNY

Don't you wander off, boy.

Johnny steps out of the air-lock and shuts the door. He looks through a small window to see Ben give the thumbs up.
THE AIRLOCK DOOR opens, and Ben gracefully steps into space.

INT. SPACE STATION - OBSERVATION DECK - SAME TIME

Sue descends the stairs at Victor's behest. Joins him.

VICTOR

Surprised I agreed to Reed's proposal?

SUE

I understand the business reasons.

VICTOR

Well, when you're looking at your future, it never hurts to find closure about the past.

Sue's eyes narrow. What is this about...?

VICTOR (CONT'D)
Susan, every man dreams that he'll meet some woman he can give the world to.

He presses a button and the observation deck's outer windows open up, revealing a spectacular, romantic view of the EARTH.

VICTOR (CONT'D)
In my case, it's not just a metaphor.

While she stares out the window, Victor reaches into a pocket, revealing a RING BOX. Sue looks unsettled.

INT. SPACE STATION - NEARBY CORRIDOR - SAME TIME

Reed checks data on a work station, set on a wall. The results of his calculations are not what he expected... He sees WIND VELOCITY digits rise. He does a double-take when he sees the readout: EVENT THRESHOLD, T-MINUS 10:00.

REED
No...no...impossible. It's...too fast.

INT. SPACE STATION - OBSERVATION DECK - SAME TIME

Behind his back, Victor holds the ring box in hand.

VICTOR
You've been with me two years now.

Sue doesn't know where this is going. She treads lightly.

SUE
It's been a good two years, Victor...
The company's accomplished so much.

VICTOR
Right, of course, the company... But you see, I've come to realize all the accomplishments in the world mean nothing without someone to share them with --

SUE
Uh, Victor, I hope I haven't done something to make you think...

VICTOR

Sue, I've lived my life unafraid of taking big steps. And this is the biggest step yet. If it helps, think of this as a promotion. A merger of sorts...

(getting closer)

Four little words that can change our lives...

He is about to spring the ring on her. She looks like a deer in headlights. She opens her mouth, and...WHAM! Doors slam open. REED RUSHES INTO THE ROOM.

REED

The cloud is accelerating!

Victor quickly puts the ring back in his pocket.

REED (CONT'D)

I don't know what happened.

Sue quickly moves to a nearby control panel to verify Reed's claim. Starts punching buttons. Confirms Reed's findings with a nod. Victor hardens, in control.

REED (CONT'D)

We've got minutes until it hits, not hours...Victor, that storm's deadly -- the radiation's lethal. We need to abort.

VICTOR

Get a grip. Reed. We didn't come all this way to lose our nerve at the first little glitch. Just close the shields...

REED

Ben's still out there --

VICTOR

So reel him in. But we came here to do a job. So let's do it. Quickly.

EXT. SPACE STATION - MOMENTS LATER

Ben is carefully arranging SAMPLE BOXES OF PLANTS.

REED (ON RADIO)

Ben, we need you back inside.

Ben turns to see Reed and Johnny staring from a window.

BEN (INTO RADIO)
I ain't done arranging your flowers, egghead.

REED (ON RADIO)
Ben. This is serious. Turn around.

Ben sees Johnny motioning for Ben to look behind him. Ben turns and sees: THE COSMIC STORM, rumbling toward the station. Not close, but not far. That gets Ben's attention.

BEN (INTO RADIO)
Roger that, on my way.

He turns back towards the ship. BEHIND HIM, the storm grows.

INT. SPACE STATION - COMMAND CENTER - SAME TIME

Victor rushes into the room, looks at the monitors. Sees the others near the airlock on one screen, and the approaching cloud on another. Anxiety creeps across his face.

AUTOMATED VOICE
Event threshold in two minutes.

INT. SPACE STATION - AIRLOCK DOOR - SAME TIME

Reed and Johnny stand by the airlock, waiting for Ben. They heard the automated voice. It panics Reed.

REED
Come on, Ben, come on...

VICTOR (ON RADIO)
Reed, we're running out of time.

EXT. OUTER SPACE - MOMENTS LATER

A wake of turbulence from the cloud hits Ben, making it harder to maneuver. The cloud's tendrils snake toward him.

INT. SPACE STATION - AIRLOCK DOOR - SAME TIME

They can see Ben outside the window, still twenty yards away. The entire corridor rumbles. Lights flicker and spark. They watch helplessly.

INT. SPACE STATION - COMMAND CENTER/OBSERVATION DECK - SAME

Sue watches the monitor, also helpless.

SUE
Johnny... Reed...

Victor, annoyed by the indecisiveness, marches right up to Sue. Practically shoves her aside as he hits the INTERCOM.

VICTOR
Reed, you need to get up here so we can close the shields! Now!

Sue glares at Victor. His lack of compassion shocks her.

REED (ON RADIO)
Not until Ben is back inside!

VICTOR
It's too late for him, and soon it'll be too late for all of us.

Victor doesn't bother to wait for a response. He takes over the console, punching keys.

SUE
What are you doing?

VICTOR
Raising the shields.

SUE
You can't leave them out there.

Sue glares with as much contempt as her face can muster.

VICTOR
Watch me. Reed had his chance. You can't help them any more than I can.

Beat. She takes a step toward the door. Not sure what to do.

SUE
I can try.

With one final glare, she bolts from the room.

INT. SPACE STATION - AIRLOCK DOOR - SAME TIME

Reed bites his lip. Thinks. He decides.

REED
Victor's right. Johnny, get to the command center. Close the shields.

JOHNNY
What about you?

One look from Reed tells Johnny, he won't leave without Ben.
Johnny eyes Ben, steels his courage. He's not going either.

JOHNNY (CONT'D)
(to Ben)
Come on big guy, you can do it!

INT. SPACE STATION COMMAND CENTER - DAY

Victor watches the shields slide down. Alone. An island.

AUTOMATED VOICE
Event threshold in thirty seconds.

INT. SPACE STATION - CORRIDOR - SAME TIME

Sue races down the hall. Not panicked. With determination.

EXT. SPACE STATION AIR LOCK - DAY

The exterior air lock door slides open. In agonizing, weightless slow motion Ben reaches to haul himself inside.

The leading edge of the cloud hits: Ben is pelted by a hissing mass of space dust, splattering his suit with orange stains. Larger particles, small pellets, pepper him. Ben hauls himself in the last few feet by pulling on his tether.

INT. SPACE STATION AIR LOCK/COMMAND CENTER - DAY

AUTOMATED VOICE
Event threshold in ten seconds.
TEN...

Johnny punches controls to close the exterior airlock door...

Reed opens a first aid kit, grabs a thermo-elastic blanket...

INT. SPACE STATION - COMMAND CENTER/OBSERVATION DECK - SAME

Clutching the diamond ring, Victor stands defiantly. Showing absolutely no concern for the others. Interested only in the event itself. Lights and equipment FALL, CRASHING around him.

A control panel EXPLODES in Victor's face. He jumps back, and into the falling equipment. Collapses under the weight.

INT. SPACE STATION - AIR LOCK - SAME TIME

Sue rounds a corner, sees Reed and Johnny.

SUE
Johnny! Reed!

AUTOMATED VOICE
FIVE...FOOOOUUR...

SLOW MOTION: Everyone frozen in position as:

-- JOHNNY is hit with sparks of flame from a control panel.
-- REED REACHES out for Ben and the airlock door.
-- VAPOR STREAM pours down on Sue from a blown gasket.
-- THE SPACE DUST burns into Ben's skin.

SLOW MOTION: Just BEFORE the exterior air-lock door closes, a SINGLE PARTICLE zips through the narrowing gap and hits Ben in the back, ripping through his suit. The exterior door shuts and seals. The station loses all power. DARKNESS.

EXT. SPACE STATION - DAY

As quickly as it came, the cloud passes on and whirls away, leaving the space station intact. Power quietly flickers on.

Silence. Time resumes. All four pick up exactly where they left off, unaware of anything that just happened to them.

INT. SPACE STATION COMMAND CENTER - DAY

Victor emerges from the rubble. He stands, checks his body. A few scrapes, nothing serious. A thin, throbbing CUT on his head. He touches the wound, but it is not bleeding.

INT. SPACE STATION AIR LOCK - DAY

Reed and Johnny scramble to open the interior air lock door. Sue joins them, as they pull Ben in. They try to remove his helmet. We don't see his face, but he's clearly unconscious.

REED
He's not responsive --

JOHNNY
Ben! Ben!

INT. VON DOOM COMPOUND HOSPITAL ROOM - DAY

A BLACK SCREEN:

JOHNNY'S VOICE
Ben, wake up! Wake up!

SUBJECTIVE CAMERA, BEN'S POV: The blurry image of Johnny comes slowly into focus, standing beside a hospital bed.

BEN (O.S.)
Where...where am I?

JOHNNY
Back on Earth. Victor's medical facility... We're in quarantine.

BEN (O.S.)
Reed? ... Sue?

JOHNNY
They're fine. Everybody else...is fine.

Johnny looks away, as if he can't bear to lay eyes on him.

BEN (O.S.)
What's wrong with me?

JOHNNY
I swear to you they've done everything humanly possible. The best plastic surgeons in the world, Ben. You had the best --

BEN (O.S.)
Give me a mirror...

Johnny picks up a hand mirror on the bed table before Ben can reach it, reluctant to give it to him.

JOHNNY
They said that's not such a good idea, the shock alone could --

BEN (O.S.)
Give me the god damn mirror!

Ben grabs it from him. Then slowly raises it to look and see that...except for some serious stubble, Ben's totally normal.

JOHNNY
Unfortunately, the doctors just couldn't do anything to fix your face!

He cackles as he heads for the door. Ben heaves the mirror at him, breaking it into hundreds of pieces. He turns to the side-table, and grabs that picture of DEBBIE. It calms him.

EXT. VON DOOM COMPOUND - ESTABLISHING - DAY

A modern facility of glass and stone, nestled in the forest. In stark contrast to the lush greenery surrounding it.

INT. VON DOOM COMPOUND HOSPITAL CORRIDOR/SUE'S ROOM - DAY

Reed walks down the hall. His hair is GRAYING at the temples. He passes Johnny, who is smiling, still enjoying his joke on Ben. Johnny slows, looking at Reed's hair.

JOHNNY
Nice 'do. Going for the "grandpa"
look?

Reed passes a mirror, slowing, seeing his gray hairs. He keeps going. He passes a partially open door. He stops when he catches a glimpse of Sue asleep in bed. He sees a vase of flowers. He grabs a couple lilies, and enters.

But Reed sees...the room is already FILLED with expensive flowers. All from VICTOR. Reed is trumped once again.

A DOCTOR writes on Sue's chart. A wall TV plays a press conference with Victor, outside the FACILITY. He looks worse for wear. A few hairs out of place, and a small BANDAGE on his face. We PUSH INTO the press conference --

REPORTER #1
You've been accused in the past of moving science a little too fast --

VICTOR
Accused by who? My competitors?

REPORTER #2
But surely this accident gives you pause --

VICTOR
Danger is always part of discovery.
What would have happened if Ben
Franklin never went out in a storm?
Without risk, there's no reward.

REPORTER #3
So where's the reward? You promised a cure-all.

Victor pauses. For the first time. Just a flicker.

VICTOR
And you'll have it. I've never come up short. And I'm not going to start
now.

REPORTER #2
So you're still taking VDI public --

VICTOR
Yes, of course. I've never been more confident in the compan--

Reed mutes the television.

REED
How's she doing?

DOCTOR
Stable. Vitals are strong.

Reed takes the clipboard, looks for himself.

REED
Blood panels show no irradiation.
Good. You'll step up this protocol, every --

DOCTOR
Four hours. We know what we're doing... One more day of observation, then you're all cleared.

The Doctor takes his clipboard, and walks out. Reed steps to Sue, with the drooping flowers in his hand. Quiet:

REED
Sue...I want to tell you...I'm...

WHOOSH. A NURSE rolls in with a tray bearing ten more extravagant bouquets. Reed looks resigned. He walks out.

REED (CONT'D)
She's allergic to orchids. Put that Amaryllis Apapathos by her bed. The African lilies? They're her favorites.

Reed exits, dropping his two wilted lilies into the trash.

Sue opens one eye, as the big lilies land by the bed.

INT. VON DOOM COMPOUND HOSPITAL ROOM - DAY

A SEXY NURSE wheels a testing station into Johnny's room.
He's stripped down to Calvins, changing into a ski outfit.

SEXY NURSE
And where do we think we're going?

JOHNNY
I don't know if "we've" noticed, but the sickest runs this side of the Alps are right outside that window --

NURSE
I've noticed... But doctor's orders, you're not allowed to leave until we --

JOHNNY
Finish the tests, I know -- could you give me a hand with this zipper?

NURSE
You know this is not a ski resort.

JOHNNY
Not yet.

Johnny opens the cardboard box, revealing a colorful fiberglass object the size of a briefcase. In the blink of an eye, he unfolds it into a LONG SNOWBOARD.

JOHNNY (CONT'D)
Luckily grandma still sends care packages.

The nurse pops a thermometer in his mouth to shut him up.

NURSE
You are trouble.

JOHNNY
(thermometer in his mouth)
Brubbles my Triddle Name.

They both pay more attention to his zipper than the digital read-out: it runs right up past 98.6, then accelerates fast.

SEXY NURSE
You're hot!

JOHNNY
So are you!

SEXY NURSE

I mean, you feel a little feverish.

JOHNNY

I've never felt better in my life.
When do you get off work?

SEXY NURSE

My shift ends at four, but I couldn't --

JOHNNY

Meet me at 4:01, top of the run.
That'll give you a minute to freshen up.

He hands her the thermometer, a quick kiss and he's out the door. The machine beeps: Johnny's temperature is 209 DEGREES.

EXT. VON DOOM COMPOUND HOSPITAL PATIO - DAY

Ben finds Reed on a patio with a panoramic view. Reed works at a laptop computer.

BEN

How long was I out?

REED

Three days. I was worried about you.
How are you feeling?

BEN

Solid.

Ben can see Reed doesn't look too solid.

BEN (CONT'D)

How you doing?

Reed shakes his head, looking back at his screen.

REED

I don't know. I just keep going over and over the numbers.

BEN

Reed. Even you can't compute every little thing.

REED

I should have done more, run more tests --

Ben gets closer, pushing down Reed's computer screen.

BEN

It was a freak of nature. Last I checked, you don't have a crystal ball. Let it go.

Reed considers. But he can't let it go. He opens his computer back up, returning to work. Ben shakes his head, looks out at the view. His eyes catch on something, wheels turning.

BEN (CONT'D)

You go through something like this, makes you appreciate having the right woman in your life.

REED

Yeah, you and Debbie and perfect --

BEN

Reed, I'm not talking about Debbie.

Reed follows Ben's eyes to a lower level patio: SUE.

REED

What? Come on. She's got a good thing with Victor --

BEN

I'm sorry, did that cosmic-bath loosen your screws?

REED

He's smart, powerful, successful --

BEN

Well maybe you should date him.

Reed looks at Ben, resigned.

REED

Ben. He'll give her the life she deserves. She ended up with the right guy. Things worked out for the best.

Reed steps away. Ben stands alone, an idea sparking.

BEN

Do I have to do everything myself?

INT. HELICOPTER/EXT. MOUNTAIN SUMMIT - DAY

The chopper hovers over this pristine peak. JOHNNY and his NURSE sit in the chopper-bay, prepping their ski gear.

Johnny's customized snowboard has wild, acrylic patterns.

His Nurse wears a hot pink cat-suit, her skis dangling out.
Their bodies are close: a sexy, competitive flirtation. They look down at a death-defying black diamond run.

JOHNNY
Me like-y.

SEXY NURSE
Stay right. Left is trouble.

JOHNNY
I though we went over this.

SEXY NURSE
Last one down springs for room service.

She pulls down her goggles, jumps out. Johnny drops out after her, hitting the snow. He smolders: literally. The snow bank behind him sizzles and starts to melt.

He takes off after her and the chase is on:

EXT. BLACK DIAMOND RUN - DAY

The Nurse knows every inch of the trail, slicing expertly in and out of the trees through deep powder. Johnny's a speed freak, maximizing velocity, closing the gap between them.

Ghostly FLAMES shoot off his hair: his ski cap catches fire, flies off. Jets of fire knife through the back of his jacket.

The Nurse looks back: In a burst of speed, Johnny draws even.
She looks over and sees the flames shooting out behind him...

SEXY NURSE
You're on fire!

JOHNNY
Not this again --

SEXY NURSE
No: You're ON FIRE!

Johnny sees his gloves are burning, flicks them off in alarm.
His body SHUDDERS: the back of his ski suit catches on fire.
A burst of flame launches him down the slope like a rocket.

Nurse loses concentration, falls. Johnny races away like a missile, screaming in exhilaration. He looks back -- no

nurse.

He tries to put out his flaming clothes, and accidentally VEERS to the LEFT. He fails to notice the giant CHASM in front of him. He faces forward and...

SCREEAAMMS! LAUNCHING off the cliff, LEGS FLAILING, trying to catch ground. FLAMES begin to TRAIL his body as he FALLS towards the rocks below. He tries to will his body away.

Instead, his body becomes engulfed in flame. He is a HUMAN TORCH! And for a moment he HOLDS THE AIR -- the fire giving him some kind of...LIFT. He maneuvers just over the rocks, almost making a 90 degree turn.

He looks back at the rocks in disbelief. But the lift doesn't last long. He quickly CRASHES, landing HARD into a snowbank.

He opens his eyes; tries to move but can't. He's trapped under snow and ice. With all his strength, he tries to move, NO DICE. Panic sets in. His eyes go wide as the snow around quickly begins to melt. Johnny is on fire, and within seconds he's sitting in a small POND, steam rising from the water.

The nurse races toward the steam. Scared, panicked. She finds Johnny...smiling, sitting naked in an impromptu hot tub, staring at his hands. His body. Exhilarated.

JOHNNY
Care to join me?

She smiles and unzips. The FLAMES DISSOLVE TO...CANDLES IN --

EXT. VON DOOM COMPOUND - VICTOR'S OFFICE - DAY

On an expansive parapet with a billion-dollar view, Victor prepares a romantic dinner-setting as his staff scurry about. He checks every fork and knife, with a slightly manic energy.

VICTOR
How's the IPO?

LEONARD
Stable. We're looking at low twenties. It's a good number, considering the fallout from --

VICTOR
Reed's disaster. You know, I half-think he did this to me on purpose.

LEONARD

Sir, I'm sure he wouldn't put himself --

But Victor is on to the next thought, always strategizing.

VICTOR

Get me on the AM shows, Larry King, cover of the Journal...

(staring into silver tray)

I've got to do something about this scar. Make sure they only shoot my right side.

LEONARD

Actually, uh, people seem to think the scar "humanizes" you.

VICTOR

And that's a good thing?

Victor looks at the scar, enraged by this defect. It glistens in the silver tray. His eyes are bloodshot, sleepless.

LEONARD

You know, maybe you should get some rest --

VICTOR

Later. First, I've got some unfinished business. A deal that needs closing...

Leonard looks at the table, the lavish spread. A beat.

LEONARD

Sir, I've always wondered... Why Sue?
You could have any woman in the world but --

VICTOR

That's why. Because I could have any other woman... You know, when they asked Caesar "why England," he said, "because it's not mine."

INT. VON DOOM COMPOUND DINING HALL - LATE AFTERNOON

Two dozen EMPLOYEES sit and eat. Others serve themselves at the buffet. Ben and Sue walking into the dining hall --

SUE

I can only stay for one drink, Ben.
I've got to meet with Victor.

BEN
Wouldn't want to keep Vic waiting.

They turn a corner and find Reed, entering by another door.

BEN (CONT'D)
Hey Reed, what are you doing here?
(before he can answer)
Great, why don't you join us?

He quickly shepherds the two of them toward a quiet table.
Ben's stomach GROWLS; so loud that they all can hear it.

BEN (CONT'D)
God, I'm starving. Gonna hit the buffet.

Ben's stomach growls again, even louder this time.

INT. VON DOOM COMPOUND DINING HALL - EVENING

The sun is long gone, and so are most of the diners. The room is darker, more romantic. Ben finishes the last shrimp on his plate, pushes it away, belches prodigiously.

BEN
Pardon me...

Sue and Reed stare at him. Ben's stomach growls again.

REED
Are you alright?

BEN
I think I need to lie down. Bad shrimp.

This was Ben's plan, but he really isn't feeling well, unsteady when he walks away. He looks down at his stomach.

BEN (CONT'D)
Really bad shrimp.

ANGLE: Fireplace. Sue looks gorgeous in the light. A beat. A long beat. Reed doesn't know where to start with this woman.

REED
Feeling better?

SUE
Yes, thanks.

REED
That's good. That's uh...good.

SUE
You always had a way with words.
(an awkward beat)
I should be getting back.

Sue gets up to leave. Exasperated, Reed tries to think of something, anything, to say.

REED
I'm really happy for you and Victor.

She slows down, looking at him. She was hoping for more.

SUE
You're happy for me and Victor.

REED
I can tell you guys are enjoying what was the best part of our relationship --

SUE
Which was?

REED Passion.

We see surprise on Sue's face, and...

REED (CONT'D)
For science.

SUE
(frustrated)
You are such a dork, Reed... You never got it and never will unless it's explained to you in quantum physics.

As if triggered by her emotion, the fireplace light around her BENDS. The flames flicker in a ghostly breeze.

REED
What? What did I say?

She looks more disappointed than angry.

SUE
It's never what you say. It's what you don't say. What you don't do...

She lets that hang. A lot of history here. Quiet, hurt -- she wants Reed to fight for her, to show some emotion.

REED

I...I...I just wanted to --

As Sue's emotions swirl, she slowly...disappears.

SUE

It's been two years, and all you can say is you're happy for me and some other guy...

(standing up, hurt)

You know, Victor may be a lot of things, but at least he's not afraid to fight for what he wants...

(Reed looks down)

And it's nice to be wanted sometimes. To be heard...seen... Reed, look at me.

He looks up...but all that's left of her is the blush on her cheek and her bewitching eyes. He drops his fork, shocked.

REED

Uh, Sue...? I can't.

SUE

What? What do you mean you --

REED

Sue...look at your hands.

She raises her hands, but we don't see them. We only see a medical waistband...floating. Her watch...floating. Her clothes appear to be suspended in mid-air.

Sue is invisible. She shrieks and gets up -- knocking a GLASS off the table...

SLOW MOTION: The glass flies off the table, tumbling... Reed instinctively reaches for the bottle: his arm stretches two feet out of his sleeve -- grabs it just before it hits --

Then snaps back into place. Reed stares at his arm in disbelief. Sue's eyes widen as well. The rest of Sue reappears. They look at each other: mutual alarm.

JOHNNY (O.S.)

You guys will not believe what just happened!

They look up to see JOHNNY in the doorway, NAKED except for the nurse's PINK PARKA wrapped around his midsection.

INT. VON DOOM COMPOUND - VICTOR'S OFFICE - EARLY EVENING

CLUNK. The candles burn low on the table. Victor strides out, heading for the door. He runs his hand through his hair to comb some strays. A CLUMP comes off in his fingers. He PAUSES. He steps to a mirror, stares at his hair. His SCAR.

It is longer than the bandage now (as if it SPREAD). Victor peels back the bandage, and sees the scar is bluish-gray. Deep, unhealthy, maybe infected...

INT. VON DOOM COMPOUND - HALLWAY - EARLY EVENING

DOUBLE DOORS burst open. Reed, Sue, and Johnny urgently walk.

SUE

It has to be the cloud. It's fundamentally altered our DNA.

REED

Let's not jump to conclusions, we need a massive amount of evidence before making that leap.

Reed glances over his shoulder. He stares. Sue follows his gaze to see: Johnny's FINGERTIPS are on fire. He SNAPS his fingers. They GO OUT. He's totally unharmed.

JOHNNY

Now what is up with that?

REED

(deadpan)

The cloud has fundamentally altered our DNA.

JOHNNY

Cool. What'd it do to you guys?

SUE

Apparently I can disappear.

JOHNNY

Please tell me you go silent too.

Only one thing on Reed's mind --

REED

We have to find Ben.

EXT. VON DOOM COMPOUND - OUTSIDE BEN'S ROOM - EARLY EVENING

Johnny snaps his fingers -- which generate small explosive bursts of flame. He turns it on and off, like the "CLAPPER."

JOHNNY
Flame on, flame off. Flame on, flame off --

SUE
Johnny.

He does it again. Flame on, flame off.

SUE (CONT'D)
Stop it.

JOHNNY
Okay, "mom."

Reed's about to knock on Ben's door when he hears the banging, moaning and pleading inside. Johnny smiles.

JOHNNY (CONT'D)
Oh, you dawg you. Better not be my
nurse!

INT. VON DOOM COMPOUND - BEN'S ROOM - EARLY EVENING

REED (O.S.)
Ben, are you there?

A creepy rippling movement begins beneath the sheet and gradually intensifies, reflected in the fabric's surface: the contours of Ben's body are changing, inflating, growing rough and craggy. SOUND of grinding heavy rocks.

SUE (O.S.)
Open up Ben, we need to talk.

It all stops. A beat, then all four legs of the bed give way and it crashes to the floor. Under the covers, he groans in pain, and his voice is DEEPER, GRAVELY, but definitely CLEAR:

BEN
LEAVE ME ALONE!!!

INT. VON DOOM COMPOUND - OUTSIDE BEN'S ROOM - EARLY EVENING

Reed decides they can't wait any longer. He kneels to the floor. He concentrates, not sure if it will work... Suddenly, his arm STRETCHES, THIN ENOUGH TO CREEP UNDER THE DOORJAMB.

INT. VON DOOM COMPOUND - BEN'S ROOM - EARLY EVENING

Reed's arm wriggles under the door. It bends upward, swiping clumsily, until it finally grabs the knob. Rubbery fingers find the latch and unlock the door.

INT. VON DOOM COMPOUND - OUTSIDE BEN'S ROOM - EARLY EVENING

Reed focuses, and pulls. His arm snakes out from under the door and snaps back into place. His flesh and bones reforming before their eyes. Johnny stares at Reed.

JOHNNY
Ewwwwwwww. That is disgusting.

They hear a tremendous SMASH from inside the room.

INT. VON DOOM COMPOUND - BEN'S ROOM - EARLY EVENING

They open the door. The room is trashed. Every stick of furniture smashed to splinters.

REED
...Ben?

Their eyes adjust; there's a huge hole where the window used to be. They rush to it. Looking out they see SOMETHING LARGE in the distance, running away.

JOHNNY
What is that thing?

SUE
I think that thing is Ben.

Reed looks out, emotions roiling. Is that his best friend...? Suddenly, Victor comes around the corner (bandage bigger).

VICTOR
What's going on?

SUE
Victor, are you feeling alright?

He considers, but never shows weakness. He nods.

VICTOR
Just a little banged up. A couple scrapes. Why?

REED
Ben did this.

VICTOR
Ben did this?

REED
He's had some kind of...reaction to exposure from the cloud. And he's not the only one.

SUE
We need to find him.

Victor redirects his attention to Sue.

SUE (CONT'D)
Victor, I'm sorry I --

VICTOR
(cold)
Just find him.

Victor strides off, leaving the others.

JOHNNY
Anybody know where the big guy's going?

We PUSH IN on a picture of Debbie lying on the floor, Reed knows exactly where Ben is going.

REED
He's going home.

EXT. TRAIN YARD - NIGHT

A view from Brooklyn: Manhattan glistens in the distance.
CAMERA MOVES down to A TRAIN YARD, where we find empty cargo trains. We PUSH IN on the main track, where...

A CARGO TRAIN has just stopped. We hear a cargo DOOR slide open, then WHUMP! Big FEET hit the ground. Someone, or someTHING barrels into the night.

EXT. BIG & TALL SHOP - NIGHT

A locked storefront on Flatbush Ave. SOUND of breaking glass.

INT. BIG & TALL SHOP - NIGHT

SERIES OF SHOTS: Ben tries on clothes, shoes. Jackets rip, shoes split. He needs an extra extra extra large.

EXT. PAY PHONE - NIGHT

A HUGE FIGURE is huddled in shadow. It's Ben.

CLOSE ON: The dial pad. Big fingers try to push keys but they're too large. Ben tries for a few seconds, getting more and more frustrated. He manages to press "0" with his pinky.

BEN
Hello, Operator?

Ben looks up the street, into the 2nd story window of a modest, working-class home. His eyes go soft when he sees Debbie grab the phone.

BEN (CONT'D)
Deb... It's me. I need you to step out front.

DEBBIE
Out front? You home, baby? I got a surprise for you.

He blinks hard. Sad, dark.

BEN
I got a surprise for you too.

EXT. BROOKLYN HOUSE - NIGHT

Debbie steps out. There is "WELCOME HOME" sign over the door. She looks out. The wind blows softly. Something shifts in the darkness. Debbie pulls her robe tighter.

DEBBIE
Ben?

BEN (O.S.)
Don't come any closer for a sec. This is gonna be kind of a shock... You remember when we said "together forever no matter what"?

DEBBIE
Baby, you're scaring me.

A hanging beat. And Ben...steps into the light, where we SEE HIM FOR THE FIRST TIME: he's HUGE, easily twice the size he once was, and AN ORANGY ROCKY SURFACE COVERS HIS ENTIRE BODY.

Debbie sees him. Fear washes over her, not sure what to think. He reaches out, a little tentative. She flinches back.

DEBBIE

Oh my G-g-g. What did you...do to Ben?

BEN

Deb, it's me. It's still me.

He reaches out. She recoils. It's too much for her. Tears swell in her eyes. Covering her mouth, she backs away.

He takes a step closer. She backs away faster, tripping over her robe, falling into the street. A car screeches to a halt. Ben instinctively steps out to help, but she scurries back.

DEBBIE

Don't...don't...DON'T TOUCH ME!

Her shout wakes NEIGHBORS. Lights flicker on. Ben knows he has to go. He looks at Debbie, sensing this is the last time he'll see her. She trembles, terrified. His eyes go moist.

BEN

I love you, Deb.

With that, he turns away. The "WELCOME HOME" sign flutters, falls to the ground. A tragic tableau. As more lights go on around him, Ben picks up his pace, speeding into the dawn.

INT. VICTOR'S COMPOUND OFFICE - DAY

Victor packs a monogrammed Armani briefcase: "VDM" emblazoned on a gold plate. Leonard waits not-so-patiently.

VICTOR

Make sure you find Ben, bring him back here. And keep it quiet. I don't need this to hit the press.

LEONARD

Yes sir. You've got the Mayor at eight, then a nine-thirty interview with the Journal --

VICTOR

Front page?

LEONARD

Top left, like you asked.
(a smile)

Today Wall Street. Tomorrow, who knows...maybe Washington.

Victor turns to Leonard, disappointed with him.

VICTOR
Leonard. Think bigger.

EXT. BROOKLYN BRIDGE - DAY

We swoop toward this epic monument. On a steel girder above the road, we see...a STATUE. BEN. He sits on the edge of the beams, staring down at the river below, brooding, muttering.

BEN
A few days in space, it'll be great, what's the worst that could happen?

A PIGEON flutters past him, and drops a white gooey gift on his shoulder. Ben just glares up at the heavens.

BEN (CONT'D)
Perfect. Thanks.

He hears the sound of someone SOBBING. He turns to see...a distraught BUSINESSMAN with a briefcase. The man drops his case, which PLUMMETS hundreds-of-feet into the RIVER.

The Businessman looks out, ready to jump. He doesn't see Ben (or doesn't realize Ben is not a statue).

BEN (CONT'D)
You think you got trouble? Take a good look, pal, how bad could it be?

The Businessman looks at Ben, terrified. Ben steps forward.

BEN (CONT'D)
Okay, easy there, buddy.

Backpedaling, the man SLIPS, FALLING toward the ROADWAY! His arms flail, grabbing a narrow beam -- his fingers hold tight while his legs thrash over speeding traffic. Cars and trucks SKIM right underfoot. Ben shakes his head.

BEN (CONT'D)
You had to choose my spot, didn't you?

Ben steps out to help, but...his WEIGHT BENDS the beam! The Businessman LOSES HIS GRIP! He FALLS TO THE ROAD, landing hard on the highway! A few PEDESTRIANS see Ben. They point.

Ben looks up, deer in headlights. He sees a massive TRUCK bearing down on the Businessman.

BEN (CONT'D)
This is really not my day.

Ben DROPS to the street. WHOOMP! He lands in front of the Businessman, SWEEPS him out of the way with one arm, and turns to the oncoming 18 WHEELER CAB.

The DRIVER slams his brakes, eyes wide. The truck SWERVES, but cannot stop! Time slows to syrup, as Ben looks a little scared. He shuts his eyes, and...

SHOULDER-BLOCKS the INCOMING TRUCK! A football move. The truck BUCKLES, POPPING a WHEELIE, CRUMPLING all the way to the windshield! It looks like a metal car-compactor.

The truck SWERVES hard, its tail SMASHING into steel girders. CARS SCREECH, SWERVE, SLAMMING INTO EACH OTHER, CAUSING A FOUR-LANE TRAFFIC ACCIDENT! Windows shatter, fires flicker. One of the cars in an NYPD CRUISER. COPS clamber out.

EXT. CAB ON HIGHWAY - DAY

Reed, Johnny, and Sue sit in the back. They see the action on the bridge. Reed and Sue lock eyes, sensing the worst.

EXT. BROOKLYN BRIDGE - DAY

Ben stands in the middle of the chaos, staring at the destruction. He sees the tow-truck DRIVER bleeding, trapped in his cab. Ben moves to this burning hunk of steel.

He SWIPES through the shattered window, and PUNCHES the airbag, POPPING it like a kid's balloon. He tries to grab the seat-belt, but his fingers are TOO BIG. He struggles.

BEN
A little help here?! You wanna hit that button, sir?

The driver is too woozy. Ben can't get to the button. Frustrated, he simply TEARS OFF THE DOOR, and RIPS THE DRIVER'S SEAT right out of the cab! COPS round the corner. They see Ben holding onto the Driver. They raise their guns.

COP
FREEZE! PUT THE MAN AND THE SEAT DOWN!

Ben looks at the cops. PEDESTRIANS stare, point. He realizes how this must look -- a monster holding a bloody man in hand.

EXT. BROOKLYN BRIDGE - APPROACH - DAY

At the back of the traffic jam, cars SCREECH to stops. The whole bridge is FULL of bumper-to-bumper traffic. We PUSH TOWARD one car: three doors pop open, and out come...

REED, JOHNNY, SUE. They look through smoke and mayhem to see...their first full look at Ben. Reed stands gutpunched.

JOHNNY
Not even Ben deserves that.

EXT. BROOKLYN BRIDGE - DAY

Ben puts the seat down, with the Driver on it. He lunges behind a truck. The cops try to follow, but FLAMES push them back. Ben lurches away, head down, self-conscious.

He tries to hide from ONLOOKERS around him and PEDESTRIANS on walkways overhead. He wants to escape, but hears SCREAMING MOTORISTS. He grits his teeth, and moves to help them.

EXT. BROOKLYN BRIDGE - GRIDLOCK - DAY

Reed, Sue, and Johnny race toward the flames. All other people head in the OPPOSITE DIRECTION. BRIDGE POLICE herd the crowd away from the accident.

BRIDGE COP
Back! We're evac-ing the bridge.

Reed, Sue, and Johnny slow down, swap glances.

SUE
What now? Reed...? What do we do?

MOVE IN ON REED. A first test of leadership. But he is not a leader. Not yet. Sue gets closer to him.

SUE (CONT'D)
Ben's out there. Let's go get him.

BRIDGE COP
Maybe you didn't hear me. Those cars are gonna blow sky high, any second.

REED
Look, we've got a friend out there in trouble. We need to get to him before --

BRIDGE COP #2

Nobody gets past this point.

A hard beat. Reed signals Sue with a look, a nod.

SUE
What?

REED
(mutters)
We need to get past them.

He motions to her body. She understands. She concentrates, and starts to turn invisible.

BRIDGE COP #1
What the hell is this? A magic show?

But her clothes don't go invisible. Beat. Reed mutters:

REED
Sue. Your clothes. Lose them.

SUE
What...?
(realizes)
Oh.

She unbuttons her blouse. Not thrilled with the idea. She wriggles out of her pants. Down to her skivvies. She reaches back to undo her bra...momentarily loses concentration and becomes visible. The sight of Sue in her undies grabs the COPS' attention. Everyone watches, stunned.

The realization that she's visible hits her like a ton of bricks. Cops are transfixed. So is Reed.

JOHNNY
This is wrong in so many ways.

REED
You've been working out.

SUE
Shut up.

Sue takes a deep breath. Closes her eyes. Focuses. Nothing happens. She's embarrassed and furious.

SUE (CONT'D)
Any more ideas, Reed? Maybe you should strip down next, see how it feels to have fifty people staring --

...and she DISAPPEARS. Entirely. Undies float. Jaws drop.

REED
Uh, Sue?

She stops ranting. Realizes she's gone invisible.

SUE (INVISIBLE)
Oh. Well then...

The undies drop. The cops stare open-mouthed. They turn to look at Reed, astonished. He sheepishly shrugs his shoulders.

JOHNNY
I'm gonna need serious therapy.

A beat. She walks away. The cops watch her, gaping. By the time they turn back around, Reed and Johnny are gone, disappearing into the clouds of smoke.

EXT. BROOKLYN BRIDGE - DAY

A news CHOPPER flies around the bridge, fighting for the best angle on the action.

EXT. BROOKLYN BRIDGE - ACCIDENT - DAY

Reed races through wreckage. He tries to see over a big TRUCK, and his neck STREEETCHES!

He finally sees...BEN. Reed wraps around a car, and...BOO! His face snakes right in front of Ben. Ben jumps.

BEN
What the --!

REED
Ben. Are you okay?

BEN
Am I okay?! You wanna explain that?!

He motions to Reed's neck. Then to his own body:

BEN (CONT'D)
Or this?! What the hell am I? 'Cause I sure ain't Ben anymore.

Reed opens his mouth, but he has no answer. Not yet.

SUE (O.S.)

REED! BEN! LOOK OUT!

Ben spins, looking for Sue. He can't see her. But he does see...A CAR INCHES AWAY, WITH GAS TANK FLAMING!

BOOOOM! The first car BLOWS! BOOOM!BOOOOM!BOOOOOM! Empty cars BLOW in a chain-reaction. The flames are mushrooming!

Reed SWIPES his ARMS OUT, holding people back. His arms FLATTEN to form a barricade -- FACES INDENT his skin.

FLAMES lash out. A pack of attractive YOUNG WOMEN scream. Johnny LEAPS toward them. His feet LEAVE THE GROUND, giving him extra lift. He SPINS, lands, and embraces the women, SHIELDING them from flames which burn up his back. He looks the ladies up and down, and gives a cheesy smile.

Sue SCREAMS. She puts her hands up (a normal reflex). The air seems to RIPPLE around her hands, like FORCE-FIELDS.

She looks at them, surprised, confused. Her invisible fields SPIRAL OUT, partially CONTAINING the blast. But the flames hurtle closer. She fights the pressure. Blood trickles from her nose. Just as the white hot blast is about to hit her...

Sue is dressed again. Visible. She SCREAMS, and PUSHES THE FORCE DOWN INTO THE ROAD! She collapses, as the blast deflects off the street and into...

An oncoming FIRETRUCK! BOOOOM! The firetruck is KNOCKED OFF THE GROUND, SLEWING SIDEWAYS. Brakes scream. Its tail slashes out, PUNCHING through the guard-rail.

THE BACK OF THE TRUCK DANGLES OUT, HUNDREDS OF FEET ABOVE THE WATER! FIREMEN hang off the back and sides. The truck TEETERS, falling! Ben wastes no time. He GRABS onto the front of the truck, just as it goes off the side!

He DIGS his heels into the ground, but his feet DRAG across the concrete, digging grooves into the street.

ON THE DANGLING FIRETRUCK: FIREMEN climb out, clawing toward the bridge. Their truck SWINGS. Bits and pieces tumble down at them -- a hose, an axe, a helmet. All deadly now. The HANGING LADDER swoops down, with men RIDING ON IT!

Ben SCREAMS! STRAINING with all his might. Ben SCREAMS! His muscles ripple, and...he takes his first step...back. Another scream. Another step. Another. Another. Epic, painful.

He is pulling the truck back onto the bridge, inch by inch. His footsteps THUD. With monumental effort, he levels the truck. Firemen scurry over hoses and ladders, some climbing over Ben.

Reed tends to Sue who has fainted from her effort. Ben steps back from the truck and slumps to the street exhausted. Wary cops close in to cover him with weapons, but...

The FIREMEN slowly begin to APPLAUD. The crowd of onlookers joins in as well. Sue, Reed, and Johnny seem surprised, touched by the reaction. But Ben seems uncomfortable.

Firemen step forward to offer Reed a couple of their coats; he hands one to Johnny and uses the other to cover Sue.

EXT. BROOKLYN BRIDGE - DAY

Ben sees a familiar face in the masses: DEBBIE. Ben steps toward her, but she stops him with a look. She places something on the ground and runs off into the crowd.

Ben sees something GLISTENING on the ground. He stoops over to pick up...her ENGAGEMENT RING. His big fingers can't grip it. He tries in vain. Hopeless, pathetic. A beat. And...

A hand grabs the ring. It's Reed. Quiet, close.

REED

I swear to you, I will do everything in my power until there is not a breath left in me: you are going to be Ben again.

Off the wounded look in Ben's eyes, wanting to believe him...

INT. VICTOR'S OFFICE - DAY

Victor sits with remote in hand, staring at his plasma TV. ON THE TV: he sees a crowd of firemen applauding the new Fantastic Four. For the first time they strike a heroic pose. Leonard enters, with a phone in his hand.

LEONARD

Uh, sir...Larry King called, to cancel.

(seeing the TV, a beat)
Apparently, there's a bigger story.

Victor sees Reed put his arms around Sue as he covers her with the jacket. And the penny drops: he's FURIOUS. As it hits him, he feels something odd. He looks down at his hand...at glints of gleaming METAL poking through flesh.

EXT./INT. EMERGENCY HOLDING AREA - DAY

An impromptu command center -- a series of police tents, surrounded by EMERGENCY VEHICLES, NEWS VANS, FIRETRUCKS.

INT. EMERGENCY HOLDING AREA - TENT - DAY

Reed, Sue, Ben and Johnny sit together, getting changed. They get ready to go, but the CHIEF FIREMAN enters, stopping them.

CHIEF FIREMAN
There's some folks outside, want to talk to you.

REED
We're not going public with this.
We're scientists, not celebrities.

CHIEF FIREMAN
Too late, son.

He turns on a little TV MONITOR in the corner. NEWS FOOTAGE plays on all stations, with the tagline: FANTASTIC FOUR.

CHIEF FIREMAN (CONT'D)
That's what they're calling you. The Fantastic Four.

JOHNNY
Nice.

Johnny heads for the exit.

SUE
Johnny, slow down. Let's think this through, a second.

Johnny pauses. Rubs his chin once. And...

JOHNNY
Okay. Done thinking.

He runs out. Sue, Ben, and Reed swap glances, knowing Johnny cannot be their spokesman. They take off after him, out to --

EXT. EMERGENCY HOLDING AREA - PRESS FIELD - DAY

CLICKCLICKCLICK! Fifty cameras flash. The field is full of press. Our heroes freeze, shocked by the crowd.

Johnny eats up the attention. Ben turns, self-conscious. Reed notices. The Chief Fireman turns to them.

CHIEF FIREMAN

So which one of you's the leader?

Johnny does not hesitate.

JOHNNY
That'd be me.

CHIEF FIREMAN
No seriously.

A beat. Sue and Ben turn to Reed. The Chief hands him a mic.

CHIEF FIREMAN (CONT'D)
You're on, son. They all want a statement.

All eyes go on Reed. He looks out, gulps hard. A long beat.

REED
Uh, during our recent mission to the Von Doom space station, we were exposed to as yet-unidentified radioactive energy, most likely some kind of nucleotide compoun--

Nobody came for a science class. A crush of questions overwhelms Reed:

VARIOUS REPORTERS
What happened on the bridge? Does it hurt to stretch? Were you really on fire? Is it true that one of you can fly?

JOHNNY
Working on it. And it's a lot harder --

SUE
We don't know much more than you do, at this point. Which is why we will be going directly to the lab, where we can diagnose our symptoms and --

REPORTER #2
Symptoms? So it's like a disease?

Reed looks at Ben's face, feeling the guilt. Ben is lost in thought, looking at Deb's ENGAGEMENT RING. Johnny leaps in.

JOHNNY
Symptoms? Please. If having powers is a disease, then yeah we got it.

And we are gonna blow your minds.
There's a new day dawning. The day of the Fantastic Four.

REPORTER #3
That thing doesn't look too fantastic.

The Reporter nods toward Ben. Ben's fists tighten, the sound of rocks crushing together. Reed feels the pain.

REED
Ben Grimm is a genuine American hero who's been through a terrible orde--

JOHNNY
What he's trying to say is: every team needs a mascot...

Reporters laugh. Ben turns his head away. Reed burns.

REED
Look, we went up to space to find a way to understand DNA, to cure disease, save lives. Well, now it's our DNA, our disease, our lives on the line...

(a beat)
Thank you. No more questions.

Reed, Sue, and Ben get up to go. The press waits a beat, then surges. Ben spins, holding up one finger. A giant.

BEN
Be nice.

The press step back, intimidated. Flashbulbs POP, and Ben's FACE FREEZES. It goes BLACK-AND-WHITE on a NEW YORK POST in --

EXT. BANK - DAY

Establishing shot of a historic New York building.

INT. BANK - CONFERENCE ROOM - CONTINUOUS

BANKERS sit around a table. LAPTOPS hum. The lead banker is power-broker NED CECIL. The men keep their eyes on Victor.

NED CECIL
Well, Victor, the bank would like to congratulate you. On the fastest freefall since the Depression. We can't even give your stock away.

VICTOR

Ned, you know I can turn this around.

Ned motions to the paper, the picture of BEN.

NED CECIL

You promised a cure-all, and came back with this. Who the hell's going to invest in a biotech company that turns its workers into circus freaks?

Victor's grip tightens around the table, and...the LAPTOPS FLICKER, losing feeds.

Victor looks down at his hands -- a private beat (did I do that?) He lets go of the table; screens go back to normal.

VICTOR

(pointed)

I really appreciate all your support.

NED CECIL

You've got a week, Victor. One week to turn this around. Or we pull out...

(a beat)

This meeting is over.

Victor looks at him, blood boiling, and we CUT HARD TO --

INT. BANK - HALLWAY - DAY

Victor and Leonard stride out. Victor is writhing.

VICTOR

Goddamn book-keeper doesn't know preferred stock from livestock.

Leonard is thinking all business.

LEONARD

Sir. Reed's comments at that press conference killed us. How are we going to turn this around?

Victor considers. His mind races, eyes narrow.

VICTOR

Very simple. I cure them. If I can cure these freaks, then I can cure anyone. What better way to restore my reputation?

Leonard nods, impressed. Victor is a man in motion. As they step into sunlight, we cut to...CLICKCLICKCLICK in --

EXT. BAXTER BUILDING - DAY

REPORTERS snap pictures. A POLICE CONVOY drives up, stopping in front of a towering HIGH-RISE. Sue, Reed, and Johnny and get out of a police-car. Ben steps out of a BIG PADDY-WAGON, which immediately bounces back up to the normal axle position.

COPS hold back the surging press. Ben keeps his head down, self-conscious. He passes Johnny, smiling for the cameras.

JOHNNY
Smile, Ben. They want to like you.
Give 'em your good side. Or your less bad side.

Ben turns to a group of LITTLE KIDS. Stiff, tentative:

BEN
Uh...don't do drugs.

The kids FLINCH. Ben trudges on. Johnny smiles bright, doing hand-signs for F4. Sue pulls him toward --

INT. BAXTER BUILDING - LOBBY - DAY

The Fantastic Four enter. They are greeted by JIMMY O'HOOLIHAN, an old-time doorman with a kind smile.

O'HOOLIHAN
Welcome back to the Baxter, Dr.
Richards. All that for you?

He motions to the flashing cameras outside.

REED
I'm afraid so...

He searches for the name. Sue steps up.

SUE
Jimmy. Good to see you again.

He smiles at Sue, then at Reed.

O'HOOLIHAN
Good to see you too... Don't worry, sir. I know how crowded that head of yours is.

REED
Any visitors while I was away?

O'HOOLIHAN
Just the usual. Told 'em you were circling round outer space.

He opens a drawer full of LETTERS from the BANK. Reed looks sheepish. He shuts the drawer, looks to Johnny and Sue.

REED
We had a tough year.

BEN
Yeah, nine years straight.

Reed looks at Ben. Thanks a lot. DING. Elevator doors open.

INT. BAXTER BUILDING - ELEVATOR - DAY

They enter. Reed hits the top button, for the 20TH FLOOR.

JOHNNY
Twenty? From outside the place looks a lot taller.

REED
Oh, it is.

The doors close, but...the ELEVATOR does not move. A beat.

JOHNNY
Either we're moving really fast...or not at all.

A digital readout on the panel: EXCEED MAXIMUM WEIGHT. A sign reads: MAXIMUM CAPACITY: 2000 pounds. They turn to Ben.

BEN
I'll take the stairs.

Doors open. He lumbers out. As the doors close behind him, he looks back over his shoulder, locking eyes with Reed.

INT. BAXTER BUILDING - ELEVATOR - DAY

The elevator rises. Reed roils with guilt.

SUE
How come Ben can't turn it on and off like us?

REED
That's what we're here to find out.

SUE
If it happened to him, then it could...

Happen to all of them. Reed nods softly.

JOHNNY
Wait. You mean there's chance we could be full-on-24-7-fantastic?

SUE
Grow up, Johnny. You want to run around on fire for the rest of your life?

JOHNNY
Is that a trick question? C'mon, I can't be the only one who thinks this is cool.

Reed considers. But Sue cuts him short with a look.

DING! The elevator stops.

INT. BAXTER BUILDING - ATRIUM - MOMENTS LATER

The elevator opens. They step out. They might be on the 20th floor, but Reed owns the building from here to floor sixty. It's a massive atrium, lit by skylights far above --

Reed leads them into another area filled with separate "apartments" and all the amenities of home.

REED
We should stay here until we can define the extent of our changes...

JOHNNY
This place is deluxe. You got cable?

REED
(hearing Ben's FOOTSTEPS)
...and figure out how to reverse them.
Let me show you to your rooms.

EXT. BAXTER BUILDING - DAY

The press has died down, but there are still plenty of cameras. A MAYBACH SEDAN rolls up. Victor emerges, wearing sunglasses. This time, the press pay no attention to him.

No cameras flash. Victor tightens, and enters the building.

INT. SUE'S ROOM - DAY

Sue walks out of the bathroom in a robe, drying her hair.
She notices a familiar book on a shelf: a SCRAPBOOK.

She flips through it. It's filled with pictures of Reed and his inventions -- a lot less fancy than Victor's multimedia globe. She stops at a picture of her and Reed in COLLEGE.

A noise, and she turns, flinching slightly, surprised to see...VICTOR. He smiles, standing at the door, watching her.

VICTOR
God, I've been so worried about you.

She notices the scar on his head.

SUE
Victor, your scar --

VICTOR
I told you, I'm fine. It's you I'm worried about.

SUE
I'm sorry I didn't get a chance to --

VICTOR
Please, no apologies. I've arranged for your things to be moved to one of my condos. You'll have round-the clock care.

He goes for her bag. But she stops him. A half beat.

SUE
Thank you, that's generous, but I think I should stay here. With my brother. Until we get a handle on this.

Victor is not used to being rebuffed. He gives a thin smile.

VICTOR
Sue. I think you should let my doctors have a look at you.

A tense beat. Standoff. Made more tense by --

REED (O.S.)

Victor! What are you doing here?

They turn to see Reed approaching, with files in hand.

VICTOR

I'm starting to wonder the same thing... How much do you know about what happened to you?

REED

Not much. We need to run tests to see the extent of the damage.

Victor pauses. He looks at Sue, knowing she's here to stay.

VICTOR

Well, let me know if there is anything I can do. We're all in this together now.

Victor shakes Reed's hand. His GRIP is so tight that Reed's fingers STRETCH. Victor lets go, and turns to Sue, who puts her hand out. He smiles, and shakes. He heads off.

Reed looks at his hand. Shakes his wrist. He looks at Victor.

INT. BAXTER BUILDING - HALL - DAY

Victor moves fast, holds tight to his anger. Reed catches up.

REED

Victor wait... I just wanted to say, I'm sorry the mission didn't go as planned -- Victor suddenly WHEELS on Reed. Lights flicker.

VICTOR

Didn't go as planned? It was a catastrophe. You ruined the lives of four people --

REED

I ruined? With all due respect, I told you to abort --

VICTOR

Abort? Reed, I put my company, my name, billions of dollars on the line, and I will not let you make me look like a fool --

REED
Victor, if we could understand what happened to us --

VICTOR
I don't want to understand it. This isn't one of your science projects. I just want to fix it. Fast!

Reed sees Victor's SCAR maybe growing. Lights dim.

VOICE (O.S.)
There a problem, Vic?

They turn to see...BEN down the hall, leaning in a doorway.
Victor tightens, looking at Ben's massive rock-hewn body.

VICTOR
No problem, Ben.

He turns back to Reed. Close, quiet. Lights flicker.

VICTOR (CONT'D)
Just pay your goddamn electric bill, and get to work on a cure.

Victor steps away, toward the elevator. He passes Ben, who just smiles and waves "goodbye." Before Victor's finger taps the down-button, the button lights up (as if the circuit responded to him). Reed exhales, shaken. Victor steps into --

INT. BAXTER BUILDING - ELEVATOR - DAY

The doors close, and Victor really LETS LOOSE. He SLAMS his fist into a STEEL WALL. The wall BUCKLES, steel DENTING.

Victor shakes out his hand, and sees...a rippling METALLIC SHELL under the skin. He stares at it in horror. The dark surface pulsates with electric energy. What is he becoming...?

INT. BAXTER BUILDING LABS - DAY

Sue works the controls. Reed approaches Ben with an ELECTRODE NEEDLE. He tries to stick the needle into Ben, but it SNAPS.

BEN
You got a chisel round here?

REED
If we're going to identify the source of the mutation, we need to isolate your recombinant DNA so we can activate positional genomes.

Ben looks to Sue for translation.

SUE
We need to give you a physical, so we know what got zapped.

BEN
Well why didn't you say so? You want me to lift some weights or something?

Reed shakes his head. He approaches with an X-RAY MACHINE.

REED
No, just sit back. We have a good sense of your strength from the firetruck. We need to find the source of your strength.

He turns on the X-ray machine. The graph shows SOLID ROCK.
The rays don't penetrate. Sue and Reed look confused.

BEN
How bad is it? You know I used to smoke.

Reed grabs a BLOOD PRESSURE MACHINE, but the strap is way too short to wrap around Ben's arm. Reed stands stumped. He looks at his tray full of instruments. He picks up the little rubber REFLEX-HAMMER. But it looks miniscule compared to Ben.

Reed has an idea. He opens a drawer full of HARDWARE TOOLS.
He pulls of a real HAMMER. He approaches Ben.

REED
Okay, this might smart a little.

He taps Ben's knee lightly, and BEN'S LEG KICKS! SLAMMING UP! RIGHT BETWEEN REED'S LEGS! The ultimate kick in the crotch. Reed STRETCHES UP a few feet, then SNAPS BACK, wincing.

REED (CONT'D)
(high-pitched voice)
We'll...continue this later.

INT. BAXTER BUILDING LABS - DAY

From their second level control room, Reed and Sue observe

Johnny in an enclosed fire-proof chamber. Flames escape through the vents of the chamber...he's fully torched!

Reed watches the read-out: it climbs from 2000 to 4000 degrees Kelvin. They are essentially taking his temperature.

INSIDE THE CHAMBER: Johnny turns white hot, blinding to look at: the chamber walls begin to glow red. Machines go haywire.

His feet even start to LIFT OFF THE GROUND, LEVITATING a foot or two. He looks down, excited, burning hotter and hotter.

REED
Back it down, Johnny!

JOHNNY
I can go hotter!

He won't stop. Reed pulls a switch on the wall. FOAM sprays out of nozzles, dousing Johnny's flames. He stands there, covered in thick FOAM. His body steams. So does his temper.

JOHNNY (CONT'D)
You're really cramping my style here.

SUE
You were at 4000 Kelvin. Any hotter, you're approaching supernova --

JOHNNY
Sweet.

SUE
That's the temperature of the sun.

REED
Not only could you kill yourself, but you could set fire to Earth's atmosphere and destroy all human life as we know it.

JOHNNY
Gotcha. Okay. Supernova bad.

Reed looks at the control panels.

SUE
He cooked the equipment.

Frustrated, Reed looks at the smoking system. And we CUT TO --

INT. BAXTER BUILDING - LAB - DAY

Reed and Ben sit in chairs, facing each other. A beat passes. Ben taps his fingers on the chair, making small DENTS. Reed looks down at his clipboard. A little awkward.

REED

Okay. I've uh, got some questions, from Sue. That she thought might be better coming from me... Can you, you know, go to the bathroom...like normal...

BEN

Yeah.

(a beat)

You don't wanna know the details.

REED

Ben, I'm afraid I've got to ask --

BEN

Not unless you want that clipboard stretched up your --

REED

O-kay. We'll skip that question.

INT. BAXTER BUILDING - LAB - DAY

Reed and Johnny now. Johnny exercises. Reed stands nearby. Clipboard in hand.

REED

Is there something about flames?
About flaming, that you --

JOHNNY

What are you trying to say? Just because I dress well and like to dance --

REED

(confused)

What? No. I'm trying to figure out why we each ended up with different symptoms.

JOHNNY

Oh, well that's easy: I'm hot.
You're...well, you're a little limp.
Sue's easy to see through. And Ben's always been a hardass.

(a beat)

Why aren't you writing this down?

Reed sighs. It's going to be a long process.

INT. BAXTER BUILDING LAB - DAY

Reed and Sue, tables turned: Reed observes her through a prismatic device measuring light refraction. He "sees" her through the device: lit up like some heavenly creature. He's having a hard time concentrating. He focuses on his work.

REED

It's not "invisibility" per se.
You're bending the light around you with some kind of malleable force field. That's what you projected on the Bridge.

SUE

What about you? You haven't eaten in days. How come you're never on this side of the microscope?

He tightens, uncomfortable with being center of attention.
She reaches for his arm, like a specimen. He pulls away, but she sees a glimpse of BRUISES on his ARMS. She slows down.

SUE (CONT'D)

Bruises...from the bridge?

He nods, rolls down his sleeves.

REED

Have you had any side-effects, from your powers?

She considers. A little vulnerable.

SUE

I've had some headaches. Migraines.

A beat. Reed drops his eyes, makes a note, back to work.

REED

You should be able to bend light around other objects, even people, if you could control your emotional state better --

SUE

Excuse me?

She is annoyed. Reed is oblivious.

REED

I'm saying, if you had a little more self control, you could locate the trigger. Can you remember the exact emotions when --

SUE
Anger. Rage. Frustration.

REED
Okay. Is there any way to duplicate that feeling? Some memory or...

SUE
(staring right at him)
I'm sure I can come up with something.

She looks at Reed, eyes narrow. She becomes invisible. As she focuses on Reed -- and gets angry -- a small, clear FORCE FIELD forms around her body. The force-field BENDS LIGHT around a MICROSCOPE, which goes INVISIBLE. Reed steps out to ask...

REED
How's that coming -- whoa --

The FORCE-FIELD shoots in all directions, knocking everything over in a fifteen foot radius. Reed is thrown from his chair.

SUE
I'm sorry, I'm sorry, I didn't mean to do that... You must think that was some kind of latent hostility or --

REED
What in the world would give me that idea?

An awkward beat.

REED (CONT'D)
I mean, you broke up with me, right?

SUE
Are you kidding?

REED
No, I distinctly remember: you walked out my door. Ergo...

She didn't want to get into this. She looks down, vulnerable.

SUE

Reed. I was ready for the next step, you weren't, ergo, I walked.

REED

I think it was a little more complicated than --

SUE

I just wanted to share an apartment.
What was so complicated about that?

The question stumps him. A beat. He struggles.

REED

There were a lot of variables to consider --

SUE

No. There weren't. There was you.
And me. No variables, no math. It was actually the simplest thing in the world. But your head got in the way... like it always does.

Her words penetrate. He knows she's right. He looks away.

REED

Sue...I just...I thought...

He struggles for the words.

SUE

Same old Reed. Too much thinking...

He opens his mouth, but...WHAM! Doors open. Johnny enters, wearing a CHARRED SHIRT. He points to the burned scraps of his shirt.

JOHNNY

Okay guys, we have a serious problem.

INT. BAXTER BUILDING LABS - DAY

ANGLES of Reed in the lab, grabbing their space uniforms from various closets/containers:

REED (V.O.)

Our uniforms were exposed to the storm like us. So they can transform like us, becoming invisible, changing size on demand or remaining impervious to flame.

REVEAL: Reed, Sue, and Johnny step out to look at themselves in a mirror wearing the uniforms. No boots, no gloves. Not yet. (The uniforms will develop, like our heroes).

BEN
You look like an eighties rock band.

SUE
(to Ben)
The suit will stretch. You should try it --

BEN
I wouldn't be caught dead in that.

JOHNNY
He's right. These costumes are... missing something. I can't put my finger on it --

REED
They're not costumes.

SUE
We're not taking them out. Johnny, we need to stay here till we've stabilized.

Johnny shakes his head, frustrated.

JOHNNY
I'm getting sick of being trapped here. NASA wasn't even this strict!

He marches out. Sue turns to Reed, who says nothing. Sue heads out, leaving Ben and Reed. A beat. Ben looks at Reed.

BEN
(looking at uniform)
Maybe it's missing a utility belt.

Off Reed's dark look, we hear:

VICTOR (V.O.)
So what's the prognosis?

INT. VON DOOM INDUSTRIES - VICTOR'S OFFICE - DAY

CLOSE ON: an X-RAY. Victor's ARM. The metallic transformation is higher now. PULL BACK TO REVEAL: Victor and his DOCTOR. In the wall behind them: ancient armor (maybe we noticed it before, maybe not). It adds a little menace to the room.

DOCTOR
Your tissue, your organs, your entire biophysical structure is changing.
Every system is still functioning,
somehow --

VICTOR
And they're changing into...

DOCTOR
I don't really know. A compound organic-metallic alloy. Stronger than titanium or carbon steel. Harder than diamonds --

VICTOR
Like the shields Reed said would protect us.
(cold fury, deadly focus)
How long?

DOCTOR
At this rate, the infection should be complete in two, maybe three weeks --

VICTOR
What do you mean "complete"?

DOCTOR
I wish I could tell you. I can't pretend to know what we're dealing with here. I'll notify the CDC and -- Victor hardens, razor sharp.

VICTOR
What?

DOCTOR
The Center for Disease Control. If this thing is contagious --

WHHM! Victor GRABS the Doctor by the throat.

VICTOR
Look at me. I have a life. I'm the face of a billion-dollar-company... We need to keep this confidential,
understand?

Victor's grip TIGHTENS around the man's throat.

DOCTOR
But...this disease...is progressive... degenerative...

VICTOR
That's terrible news...

With one cobra-swift move, Victor thrusts his metallic arm into the doctor, killing him instantly. Victor retracts his arm, and looks at it, shocked by his own strength.

VICTOR (CONT'D)
...but I think I'll get a second opinion.

INT. BAXTER BUILDING - REED'S OFFICE - NIGHT

A SERIES OF TIME-LAPSE SHOTS: REED works around the Baxter Building, spending hours searching for the cure. He checks charts, writes equations, paces, frustrated.

Finally, he sits at his long desk, looking at a wall where Ben's CHARTS are projected (both Ben and Thing's anatomies). Reed wears the uniform under his labcoat. He checks his equations over and over, making notes upon notes.

REED
Nothing...nothing...nothing...

He hits the end of the slides. The wall fills with white light. Frustrated, Reed SLAMS his head into his desk, CRASH! Something FALLS off the end of the desk.

Reed raises his head, revealing his flattened face. He steps over to see...a PLANT SAMPLE from space, glass box shattered. Red sparks swirl around the plant, like the cosmic storm --

REED (CONT'D)
Of course...of course...the cloud...

THE COSMIC STORM swirls, terrifying. We slowly PULL BACK TO --

INT. BAXTER BUILDING - MAIN LAB - NIGHT

The STORM is a computer-image on screen now. Behind the screen are six chalkboards full of Reed's calculations and the scribbled beginnings of a MACHINE.

We PULL BACK to see his arm stretched across the room writing on the end of another chalkboard.

He's moving fast, excited, almost a little manic. He hears...a CREAK. He slows down, but doesn't look up to see SUE enter.

SUE
What are you doing?

REED
(fast, charged)
The plants, from space. Their particles are still charged. With the right amount of energy, those ions could create the elemental profile of the cosmic storm.

He rifles through a desk drawer, then heads out. Sue stands there, looking at the storm. Concerned. Then we CUT TO --

INT. BAXTER BUILDING - HALLWAY - NIGHT

Sue follows Reed. He flips through a file, excited.

REED
If we can build a machine to re-create the storm, we can reverse the polarity --

SUE
(realizing)
And reverse the mutations --

REED
(talking more to himself)
Curing countless diseases, not just ours.

She looks at him.

SUE
But we're the focus, right Reed?
Reed...?

REED
Of course. Of course.

SUE
And you sure you can control this thing? Last time didn't work out so well.

REED (preoccupied, mind spinning)
With the right energy, we can stabilize the storm. Maybe tie into the city grid...

He keeps his head down, making notes, entering --

INT. BAXTER BUILDING - STOREROOM - NIGHT

Reed and Sue enter. Reed is looking for something. Sue slows down, staring at this sprawling space, jam-packed with GEAR, GADGETS, BLUEPRINTS, INVENTIONS. Awe-inspiring, overflowing.

SUE
You really need to get a janitor.

She stares at shelves upon shelves of overcrowded clutter.

SUE (CONT'D)
This must be what it looks like inside your head.

Reed finds his electron microscope. He turns to Sue, defensive:

REED
There's a system to it.

She starts to pull out a MODEL of the FANTASTICAR.

REED (CONT'D)
Wait! Sue, don't touch tha--

The little car sets the whole shelf off balance. A WAVE OF INVENTIONS COME CLATTERING DOWN! Reed moves fast:

He LUNGES toward Sue, STREETCHING his ARMS AROUND the SHELF, pushing Sue away, just as the INVENTIONS SMASH TO THE GROUND!

Reed and Sue hit the floor. A close call. Now more closeness: Sue and Reed lay face-to-face, with Reed's wrapped around her. A heated beat. Their first real intimate moment.

SUE
Sorry. My fault. I won't...touch
anything.

As if suddenly made aware of their vulnerability, Sue and Reed stand, backing off. As they part, we see:

BEN watching from the doorway. Melancholy. He disappears. We slowly MOVE TO...A SURVEILLANCE CAMERA in a VENT GRATE.

INT. VICTOR'S OFFICE - NIGHT

Victor watches a bank of videoscreens. He has the Baxter Building under surveillance. He sees Reed and Sue on monitors. He toys with Sue's diamond ring in his gloved hand.

A door opens. Leonard enters. He sees the screens.

LEONARD
Is Reed any closer to a cure?

Victor looks at that image of Reed and Sue on the screen.

VICTOR
The only thing he's closer to is
Sue...

But Victor sees something between Reed and Sue on the wall. He leans closer, and the camera ZOOMS IN, as if responding to his will. He ZOOMS all the way to a CLOSE UP of:

REED'S BLUEPRINTS FOR THE TRANSFORMATION CHAMBER. Victor's eyes narrow, mind ticking, a plan forming.

VICTOR (CONT'D)
Make me a reservation for two at Cipriani tonight.

Victor opens a drawer, pulls out an old VIDEOTAPE.

VICTOR (CONT'D)
And get this over to Ben Grimm.

Victor leans forward, fixated on that machine. As he gets closer, his screens go STATICKY. He absentmindedly picks at his SCAR. In shadows, we see skin peeling off.

WOMAN'S VOICE (V.O.)
Close your eyes, baby. Keep 'em closed.

INT. BAXTER BUILDING - MEDIA ROOM - NIGHT

BEN GRIMM stands front and center. Not the Thing. But BEN GRIMM. A normal man. He smiles wide, shaking his head.

WOMAN'S VOICE (V.O.)
You surprised?

Now we PULL BACK to reveal DEBBIE and BEN on a SCREEN. The Thing watches the old videotape. He smiles sadly at his old life. He mouths the words -- he knows this tape by heart.

BEN (ON SCREEN)
Yeah I'm surprised. Surprised the fire department didn't shut this down.

ON SCREEN: the handheld camera whips around, revealing...a SURPRISE PARTY. Full of people. Ben Grimm is a popular guy.
On screen: Reed hugs Ben. They pose for pictures together.

THE THING
God. I was good looking.

We hear the party sing "HAPPY BIRTHDAY." Debbie kisses Ben.
Thing's eyes start to mist. On screen: Ben blows out candles.

DEBBIE (ON SCREEN)
What did you wish for, honey?

BEN (ON SCREEN)
I already got it. Everything I want.

As they kiss, a tear runs down Thing's cheek. The tape ends, and he sits in darkness for a beat. A long, lonely beat.

INT. BAXTER BUILDING - HALLS - NIGHT

Ben stalks the halls, slipping into his ragged trenchcoat.
As he passes a crossroads, he sees a strange sight:

REED'S HAND is TIED to a latch in the wall. His ARM is STREEETCHED THIN, spanning around the corner. Ben just shakes his head, keeps moving. And we FOLLOW REED'S ARM...

UP THE HALL...ROUND A CORNER...DOWN ANOTHER HALL. The muscles and tissue STRETCH, going taut. Finally, we reach...

REED. He steps slowly. He holds a digital TAPE-MEASURE in his other hand, measuring distance. His skin STREEETCHES.
His face tightens, pained. We hear the faint SQUEAK of his skin.

VOICE (O.S.)
Damn, Stretch!

Reed turns his head around, seeing JOHNNY come down the hall.

JOHNNY
How far's that rubber bend?

Reed keeps moving, slowly. His muscles and tendons laboring.

REED

That's what I'm trying to calculate.
And it's not rubber. It's muscle, tendon. I seem to have the ability to manipulate the malleability of my molecular structure and redistribute my density to --

JOHNNY
Right, whatever, have fun.

And Johnny is GONE, ducking under Reed's arm into --

INT. BAXTER BUILDING - KITCHEN - NIGHT

Johnny opens a cupboard, pulls out some JIFFY POP. It starts to POP in his hand, the bag swelling. He casually turns on a TV, flipping to...the X- GAMES. The Jiffy Pop swells, ready to blow. He rips it open, eats popcorn, and watches the games:

Cool stunts, hot girls. Johnny's brow furrows, a thought forming, a mischievous smile on his lips.

EXT. BAXTER BUILDING - SIDE EXIT - NIGHT

A FIGURE exits, wearing that ragged trenchcoat and fedora. Ben disappears into the dark night, and we CUT TO --

EXT. BROOKLYN STREET - NIGHT

Dark. Lights flicker. Steam rises through the grates. A shadow emerges. Ben. He heads toward O'DONNEL'S PUB, a classic Brooklyn tavern. Neon sign. Music, life inside. Ben pulls his hat low, turns up his collar, and squeezes through the door into --

INT. O'DONNEL'S PUB - NIGHT

A big photo of Ben Grimm in his astronaut heyday occupies a place over the bar. Ben enters, and the bar goes SILENT. He moves through the crowd. People clear out of the way.

Ben reaches the bar. He sits on a stool, and CRUNCH! SMASH! The stool SNAPS like a toothpick. He hits the ground hard. Glasses shake. A few PATRONS smile, laugh softly.

BEN
That's not funny!

They go silent. They drop bills onto tables, filing out, scared of this monster. ERNIE works the bar.

ERNIE

Hey, that's Ben Grimm there, the first mook from Brooklyn to go to outer space, so pay him some respect!

But the patrons keep filing out. Ben looks down, weary.

BEN
Ernie. Sorry for killing your business. I'll take the usual, then I'm out... Better make it a double.

Ernie heads for the booze. Ben gives a sad shake of his head. Then he notices...one lone patron at the end of the bar. A beautiful young woman nursing a drink. Meet ALICIA MASTERS.

ALICIA
Who killed the party?

She turns to him, unafraid. He notices her blank stare, lack of focus, and white cane. Alicia is blind.

ERNIE (O.S.)
Make it a triple. On the house,
Benny.

Ben takes his drink, but SMASH! His grip shatters the glass, spilling all over himself. He smiles ruefully.

BEN
If there's a God, she hates me.

He grabs a bar-rag to dry off.

ALICIA
I don't think She's real big on hate.

BEN
You wouldn't say that, if you could see me.

She knocks back her drink, grabs her cane, steps toward Ben.

ALICIA
Can I...? See you...?

Ben doesn't say anything. A little unnerved by this woman.

ALICIA (CONT'D)
It's okay, I won't bite...
(feeling his arm)
...not that I could.

She puts a hand on his face -- something in her tone and gentle touch allows Ben to let her. She smiles softly.

ALICIA (CONT'D)
Such a sad face... You know, sometimes being different isn't a bad thing.

BEN
Trust me, this ain't one of those times.

She smiles softly, takes her cane, and starts to head out.

ALICIA
See you round, Benny...

Right as she hits the door, over her shoulder --

ALICIA (CONT'D)
I'm Alicia, by the way.

Ben watches her disappear. He sees a few people staring. He lowers his head, turns back to the bar, and finds a new drink, in a steel MARTINI SHAKER. He knocks it back.

EXT./INT. UPSCALE RESTAURANT - NIGHT

Lights twinkle. A MAITRE D' leads us through fancy digs. Heads turn, whispers flutter. SUE steps out, joining... Victor at a prime table. He pulls out her chair, wearing gloves.

VICTOR
Thank you for coming out to see me.

She nods, a little self-conscious.

SUE
You said it was urgent.

VICTOR
It is. There's something we need to talk about. Something I need to ask you...

Sue senses where this is going, and she cuts it short.

SUE
(slow, careful)
Victor, wait, slow down a second. I want you to know I appreciate everything you've done for me, but I just don't --

VICTOR

Susan. What are you doing?

He is cold as ice. If he's hurt, he'll never show it.

VICTOR (CONT'D)

You think I brought you here to talk about us? Please. This is business.

(leaning forward, intense)

I need to know: how close is Reed to finding to a cure?

She pauses. Then:

SUE

He's working round the clock. But the data needs to be tested, analyzed before --

VICTOR

Same old Reed. All analysis, no action. Wasn't that the problem with you two?

She holds tight, keeping cool.

SUE

If these molecules aren't stable, they could make us worse, maybe even kill us.

VICTOR

Then why is Reed dragging his feet? Maybe he likes having his prize specimen under glass...

(closer, cruel)

It's ironic, isn't it? You're finally the perfect woman for him...because you're his science project.

The words sting. She can't help but hear some truth in them.

SUE

Please don't make this personal --

VICTOR

Oh, I think you already have.

SUE

Victor, we can't do anything until the research is ready.

Victor's fist CLENCHES -- metal SFX.

VICTOR
"We," huh?

Victor SCREECHES his chair back, PUSHING the table so hard that he SPILLS water. Heads turn, all eyes on Sue. Victor gets close to her, too close, a hand on her shoulder.

VICTOR (CONT'D)
Don't forget who you work for, Susan.
So get to work. And do your job.

He walks out. As he goes, he slips the engagement ring out of his pocket. He crushes the diamond to dust, leaves the dust in an ashtray, and disappears into the night.

Sue sits embarrassed. She slowly...disappears. People gasp. She walks out, invisible, save for her clothes, which DRIFT through the air. At a TABLE FULL OF BUSINESSMEN --

BUSINESSMAN
I wish my wife would disappear.

The other men laugh, but WHHM! The man's wine SPILLS into his LAP! Sue walks out. The restaurant is left buzzing. Lights twinkle. And we FADE OUT. A beat. Then we CRASH INTO --

EXT. NYC ARENA - ESPN MOTO X GAMES - DAY

The X games in full effect: A maze of mountainous dirt hills and ramps...where MOTO-BIKES launch into the air to the delight of 20,000 fans. The Riders spin and flip, performing aerial acrobatics on their 250CC motor bikes.

X GAMES ANNOUNCER (V.O.)
And now, ladies and gentlemen, we have a special guest for you... Johnny Storm of the Fantastic Four!

JOHNNY emerges, wearing his blue uniform, waving to the crowd. He steps up to the pit where RIDERS prep. He beelines to RONNIE RENNER.

JOHNNY
Hey, Ronnie Renner! I'm a big fan.

Ronnie gives a tight nod. He doesn't like being upstaged by this circus freak.

The other bikers approach.

KENNY BARTRAM Heard you like to ride. Wanna take her for a spin?

He motions to his BIKE. Johnny eyes this mean machine.

RONNIE RENNER
Come on, bro. I'll teach you some tricks...if you can keep up.

We PUSH IN on Johnny, his ego getting stoked, as we CUT TO --

INT. NYC ARENA - TRACK - DAY

Ronnie jams down the track, kicking dirt back at Johnny.
Johnny now wears a MOTOCROSS OUTFIT over his uniform, with the number "004" on the back and a small 4 over his heart.
Ronnie hits the first hill, and CATCHES AIR, FLIPPING HIGH!

X GAMES ANNOUNCER
A rock-solid double-flip!

The CROWD goes wild. Now it's Johnny's turn. He hits the hill and pulls the exact same move. With even more height!

X GAMES ANNOUNCER (CONT'D)
Look at that lift, ladies and gentlemen!

Johnny sticks the landing. The crowd swells. Ronnie tightens, pulls his throttle harder, taking the next jump, and...MAKING AN INSANE MOVE, CORKSCREWING IN THE AIR!

X GAMES ANNOUNCER (CONT'D) Frontside 360! He's totally flat and whipped!

He lands clean. The crowd is ready to explode. Johnny REVS his engine, his body starting to STEAM, adrenaline burning.
He hits the hill, and pulls an even gnarlier SPIN!

X GAMES ANNOUNCER (CONT'D)
Whoa! That's a...what is that? A 720?

Johnny lands. The crowd roars. Ronnie bears down on the last hill. He leans over his handlebars.

X GAMES ANNOUNCER (CONT'D)
He's going for a Kiss of Death!

Ronnie hits the hill, pulls this JAW-DROPPING DEATH-DEFYING STUNT! The crowd is deafening! Ronnie smiles. And...

JOHNNY SPEEDS FASTER, FASTER. Trails of FLAME start to streak off his back! He RACES LIKE A ROCKET UP THE HILL! LAUNCHING TO IMPOSSIBLE HEIGHTS! SPINNING LIKE A TOP! A FLAMING BLUR!

And now for the really impressive part: Johnny's bike starts to drop, but JOHNNY KEEPS RISING! He FLAMES ON, spiraling upward! For a few seconds, he's actually...almost...flying.

X GAMES ANNOUNCER (CONT'D)
(hand over mic)
Is he.....flying?

A beat. Time suspended. And...WHHM! He PLUMMETS back down! LANDS on his bike in mid-air! And sticks a perfect landing, maybe even kicking a little dirt up at Ronnie. Johnny swerves to a stop, with a "holy shit" look on his face. What the hell just happened??

X GAMES ANNOUNCER (CONT'D)
Unbelievable, ladies and gentlemen!
You've just seen the first...the first...TORCHFLIGHT! The McTORCH!

A new name is born. The crowd goes berserk. Standing ovation. Riders rush up to Johnny. Kenny sees his bike:

THE SEAT MELTED, WHEELS BURNED OFF. Johnny smiles.

JOHNNY
My bad. Sorry about that.
(a glance to Ronnie)
Thanks for the lesson, bro.

HOT GIRLS swarm. As Johnny gets swallowed by fans, we see a scary thing flicker in his eyes: the birth of a star.

INT. BAXTER BUILDING - KITCHEN - MORNING

Sue stands alone, sifting through piles of mail. She focuses on one piece of mail that she's holding. Her hand begins to disappear and then the envelope slowly begins to disappear as well. Sue smiles at the success. Intrigued. Quiet:

SUE
That's new...

Reed enters -- overworked, unshaved. He keeps his head down, preoccupied. Sue shifts focus.

SUE (CONT'D)
Have you read these...? From all over. People want us to fight crimes... save their kids...solve their problems...

(no response from Reed)
...when we can't even solve our
own.

She puts the letters down, steps closer to Reed.

SUE (CONT'D)
Reed. How close are we to a cure?

REED
No way to know. Without more tests, experiments.

She considers. Victor's words echo in her head.

SUE
We're not specimens, we're patients.
This isn't just another science project to you, is it...?

Reed looks up, a little surprised. He opens his mouth, but --

BEN (O.S.)
NO...NO...NO FREAKIN' WAY!!

INT. BAXTER BUILDING - MEDIA ROOM - DAY

CRASH! BANG! Ben stalks around the room, furious. Reed and Sue rush in.

REED
BEN! What? What's going on!?

Ben points to the wall-sized TV: the ESPN MOTO X GAMES.

X GAMES REPORTER (ON TV)
So what can you tell us about the outfit?

REVEAL: JOHNNY standing next to an X GAMES REPORTER. He is peeling off the burned remains of his motocross outfit, revealing his FF UNIFORM, with a "4" STITCHED ONTO THE CHEST.

Behind them, STEP UP RIDERS launch their MOTO-BIKES off huge 18' high mountains of dirt, thirty feet in the air.

JOHNNY (ON TV)
Not too much, but I will say that it's all weather and no leather. Kind of Armani meets Astronaut.

Ben, Sue, and Reed stare at the wall-sized TV. Mouths agape.

SUE
He didn't.

BEN
Oh, he did.

SUE
What did he do to the uniform?!

She turns to Reed, who gives a sheepish shrug, and peels back his labcoat revealing a "4" stitched onto his chest too.

REED
He talked me into it.

X-GAMES REPORTER (ON TV)
So what are your superhero names?

JOHNNY (ON TV)
I go by the Human Torch. The ladies call me Torch.

X-GAMES REPORTER (ON TV)
What about the rest of the team?

Johnny hadn't really thought about them. He spitballs:

JOHNNY (ON TV)
Uh, we call my sister the invisible girl...the Invisible Girl.

SUE Girl...?!

X-GAMES REPORTER (ON TV)
That's easy to remember. And Reed Richards? He's the leader. So what's he? Mr. Fantastic?

JOHNNY
Well, I wouldn't say he's the leader.

Reed shrugs. He doesn't hate the name.

BEN
Could be worse.

Case in point: a photo of Ben fills the TV.

X-GAMES REPORTER (ON TV)
What about this one? What do you call this Thing?

Johnny smiles, looking right into camera.

JOHNNY

That's it. Just The Thing. We would have gone with The Rock, but it was taken. And "Thing" pretty much sums it up.

A LAUGH from the studio audience.

BEN

(matter-of-fact)

Okay. I'm gonna go kill him now.

He turns to go. Reed wraps an arm around Ben.

REED

Ben! Slow down a second and --

He sees a photo of himself on screen.

X-GAMES REPORTER (ON TV)

Is it true what they say? That he can expand any part of his anatomy?

JOHNNY (ON TV)

Actually, between us, I think he's got some problems staying rigid.

REED

(finishing his thought to Ben)

...wait for me...

X-GAMES REPORTER (ON TV)

Which may explain why this woman's not smiling.

They put up a shot of Susan.

SUE

I'm driving.

JOHNNY (ON TV)

Dude. That's my sister.

EXT. NYC ARENA - DAY

The Thing rounds the corner. Sees a crowd of girls lined up near a red PORSCHE parked out front...with "TORCHED" on the plates. Ben slows down, smiles.

EXT. NYC ARENA - A LITTLE LATER

Johnny and the Hot Babe exit, signing autographs for girls in the line. Sue and Reed approach, glare like angry parents.

Johnny finds the Valet, who looks ill...his car is gone.

JOHNNY
(looking around)
Where's my ride?

The Valet blows his whistle...and a 4 X 4 solid cube of RED JUNK METAL slides down the street and stops at the curb in front of Johnny. The Valet timidly holds out the keys...

JOHNNY (CONT'D)
What the?! Is that my --

Before he can finish, Johnny gets PELTED IN THE HEAD with the license plate. It rattles to the ground, face up.

Johnny rubs the sting out of his head. Looks up and sees Ben in the distance, dusting off his hands.

JOHNNY (CONT'D)
(shouting: to Ben)
You're gonna pay for that, Pebbles.
(seeing Sue)
What?!

SUE
You gave us names? What are you, the "face" of the Fantastic Four now?

Ben marches up. Hands balled into fists.

BEN
It's about to be a broken face.

REED
This isn't permanent, Johnny. We need to be careful until we're normal again.

JOHNNY
What if some of us don't want to be "normal" again? We didn't all turn into monsters like --

Ben reels back a FIST the size of an anvil. Stops himself. Instead of attacking, he starts to walk off.

Johnny hurls a FIREBALL that SMACKS Ben in the back of the head. Ben stops. Turns around more shocked than hurt.

BEN
Did you just --

Ben gets hit with ANOTHER FIREBALL. This time in the face.

BEN (CONT'D)
Okay, that's it, tinkerbell! You want to fly? Fly.

Ben charges like a bull, fist cocked back, and...Reed steps in the way! Too late! WHAMM! Ben's fist PUNCHES INTO REED'S CHEST, which INDENTS. Reed's BACK EXPANDS with Ben's fist, PUNCHING into Johnny, launching Johnny off his feet.

BAM! Johnny SLAMS into a moving ADVERTISING TRUCK, with a BURGER KING flame-broiled WHOPPER on the side. WHOOSH! He leaves a flaming imprint on the all-beef patty.

The crowd stands stunned. So do Reed and Sue. Cameras pop.

Johnny slowly pulls himself up. The paint on the truck begins to bubble around his hand. Beaten, bruised, he stands. Heating up. Both his hands are now flaming fists of fury.

JOHNNY
Let's see if we can get blood from a stone.

He and Ben lock eyes, with a block of sidewalk between them.
High Noon. They start to RUN toward each other...

When they are almost within range, Sue STEPS BETWEEN THEM, stops them both in their tracks with just a look. Like a mom:

SUE
You two need a time-out.

JOHNNY
Blockhead started it!

Ben just stalks off. The crowd clears, scared. A PAPARAZZI snaps a picture. Ben GRABS his camera, and flicks the lens.

EXT. STREETS - DAY

Sue looks at Johnny, more disappointed than angry.

SUE
Damn it, Johnny.

She goes after Ben, leaving Reed and Johnny on the sidewalk.

REED

You need to control yourself and think before you --

JOHNNY

Act. Here we go again. Reed, what if we got these gifts for a reason? What if we have some, you know...like, calling?

REED

A higher calling like getting girls and making money?

Johnny nods, totally missing the sarcasm.

JOHNNY

Is there any higher?

Reed looks at him, disgusted. Johnny waves to the crowd, hand flaming. People SHRIEK, snap pictures. Johnny smiles at Reed.

JOHNNY (CONT'D)

This is who we are Reed. Accept it.
Or better yet: enjoy it.

Johnny steps into the sea of fans. Reed stands alone.

EXT. STREET/ALLEY - DAY

Sue wades through the throng of New Yorkers. Tries to catch up with Ben...whose presence parts the crowd like Moses.

SUE

Ben! Slow down...

Ben glances sideways at her, doesn't stop. She catches up.

SUE (CONT'D)

He didn't mean it. You know Johnny.
He's always been a hothead --

BEN

It's not him. It's them.
(pointing to crowd)
I can't live like this.

SUE

Just give Reed a little more time.

You know how he works -- analyzing every little step before he takes one --

BEN
It's easy for you to be patient.

SUE
No, it's not. I thought I was done waiting for Reed... We're all in this together now, Ben.

He slows down, gets closer, intense.

BEN
Together? Look at me, Susie. You got no idea what I'd give...to be invisible. Your nightmare...is my dream.

She opens her mouth, but has no response. She doesn't know his depth of pain. As he disappears into the alley, we CUT TO --

INT. INVESTMENT BANK - CONFERENCE ROOM - DAY

The news plays on the TV. Head Banker Ned Cecil freezes the screen on an image of...THE THING. He turns to Victor, who sits with the rest of the bankers. Cold, sterile environment.

NED CECIL
This is how you "turn things around"? These freaks are on the front page and your company's in the obituaries.

Victor has a larger bandage on his face now.

VICTOR
I have a plan to use their publicity for --

NED CECIL
Victor, stop. The bank's lost enough already. This isn't a negotiation. It's a notification. We're pulling out.

A cold, silent beat. Victor leans forward.

VICTOR
You need to look long-term here. Without risk, there's no --

NED CECIL
Reward. We all know the sales pitch, Vic. And frankly, we're done buying... Gentlemen.

He motions to his men. They all stand. Victor is the lone man sitting. PUSH IN on Victor's face, his inner rage palpable. A few quick surges of electricity emanate from his body. This man is getting stronger, more electric.

INT. BANK - UNDERGROUND PARKING GARAGE - DAY

After hours. The floor is slick with water -- puddles in every direction. Ned Cecil comes out of the elevator, heading for his car. As he goes, the structure lights start to flicker. Ned looks up, watches the lights go out one by one, furthest to closest. He looks around. Unnerved by the darkness.

NED CECIL
Hello...?

A hanging beat. Victor steps out from shadows.

NED CECIL (CONT'D)
(relieved, almost)
Von Doom? Gave me a little shock. No hard feelings, right? Nothing personal.

Victor says nothing. Ned keeps going.

NED CECIL (CONT'D)
You know, you could always move back to Latvura, start fresh.

He mispronounces Latveria, dripping condescension.

NED CECIL (CONT'D)
Maybe that's where you belong, back in the "old country."

That does it. A surge of electricity courses through Victor.
His eyes narrow, and the electricity crackles down his leg to THE GROUND. The electric spark hits the water and...

ELECTRIC CURRENTS RACE ACROSS THE GROUND, SLITHERING LIGHTNING-FAST ACROSS THE WATER (like deadly electric snakes), heading straight for Ned. His eyes go wide. And...

NED IS ELECTROCUTED! His body spasms. THUD! He slumps, dead. Smoke rises from his body. Victor stands, power swelling.

For the first time, his SCAR SPLITS OPEN, revealing a METAL GLOW beneath the skin. He remains scary calm.

VICTOR
It's pronounced Latveria.
(looking down at the dead body)
This meeting's over, Ned.

Victor walks away, the final lights going to DARKNESS.

INT. VICTOR'S OFFICE - DAY

Victor enters, still adrenalized. He turns to the light switch, and the lights come on. He approaches his screens, and the monitors flicker to life. His powers are growing.

One MONITOR rolls the news. IMAGES of the FANTASTIC FOUR. Victor leans closer, and the VOLUME automatically goes up.

NEWSCASTER (ON TV)
...the Fantastic Four put on quite a show last night. They landed in every major headline in the northern hemisphere. In related news...

An IMAGE of VICTOR on screen.

NEWSCASTER (ON TV) (CONT'D)
Reports have surfaced that Von Doom Industries may be filing for bankruptcy. You may remember that it was Victor Von Doom who...

Victor turns away from the screen. The volume goes down. He focuses his eyes on REED.

Leonard enters, stepping closer, seeing the faint flicker of VICTOR'S METALLIC SCAR. His eyes narrow, concerned.

LEONARD
Sir, is everything okay? What happened to your...?

Victor keeps his eyes on the screen, totally engrossed.

VICTOR
(under breath, seething)
Reed... He got what he wanted...
(looking at Sue)
Everything he wanted...he took from me.

He leans ever closer, so the static starts to swallow Reed.
A hard, deadly beat. Victor's eyes narrow, zooming into...REED'S RESEARCH: SLIDES on the wall. He zooms into key words:

DANGER, UNSTABLE IONS, MUTATION, OVERLOAD. And Victor gives a slow, thin smile. A new plan forming.

VICTOR (CONT'D)
Now I'm going to take it back. Piece by bloody piece...

His fist clenches. We hear METALLIC SFX.

INT. BAXTER BUILDING - TRANSFORMATION LAB - DAY

Reed enters the room carrying a stack of boxes that no normal man could balance. But he is not normal. His arms are wrapped around the boxes five times over -- like human twine.
He stops short, and drops the boxes when he sees...

VICTOR overseeing a group of TECHNICIANS. They are boxing up Reed's work -- all of his equipment, research. Victor wears a bandage, covering his scar. Reed eyes a glint of METAL.

REED
Victor, are you...are you okay?

Victor turns away.

VICTOR
Don't worry about me. Worry about yourself.

Reed looks around, seeing his lab turned inside out.

REED
What are you doing here?

VICTOR
What I should have done a long time ago. Applications and patents, Reed.
This all belongs to me.

Reed reaches out, grabbing a folder from a box.

REED
But I'm not done with the machine --

VICTOR
Which is precisely the point.
Analysis is over. It's time for action. My men could have mass-produced this by now.

Reed shakes his head, defending himself.

REED
Mass-produced? This isn't a toaster. You have no idea how it works.

Victor pulls the folder from Reed's hand, and whips out the intricate DIAGRAM of the MACHINE. He points to parts:

VICTOR
Re-create the storm, invert the polarity here, reverse the mutation there. Don't talk to me like I'm some schoolboy. I've got the same Phd you do.

Reed is a little surprised that Victor is so familiar with his machine. He points to a SECURE CHAMBER on the blueprint.

REED
The storm needs to be handled exactly right, or it could make our mutations worse, much worse, maybe even kill us...

Victor slows. Is Reed getting to him? Or giving him ideas?

REED (CONT'D)
Victor, please. We need time to verify the data... We can't afford any mistakes -- there's only enough ions for two or three attempts.

Victor considers. He seems to enjoy watching Reed dangle.

VICTOR
Reed. I'm not asking permission.
(a final verdict)
We'll build it, while you check the specs.

Victor walks out. Reed looks unsure, as we CUT TO --

INT. BAXTER BUILDING TRANSFORMATION LAB - DAY

The SHIELDS slowly rise. FIVE TECHNICIANS go to work. They wear the VDI jackets. Reed watches, worried.

Sue enters. She sees the shields, the technicians, the VDI logo. And she is deeply worried. She steps over to Reed.

Sparks fly behind them. Drills scream.

SUE
Can I talk to you?

INT. BAXTER BUILDING - REED'S OFFICE - DAY

Sue steps into the office, followed by Reed. Quiet, urgent:

SUE
Don't let Victor push you into making a mistake --

REED
He was going to take away all my data, equipment --

SUE
Better than your life. Victor's not the one who has to get into that thing. We are.

Reed starts to snap, losing his studied cool.

REED
Which is why I'm working twenty hours a day, checking every variable --

SUE
Every variable but yourself. You don't eat, sleep. You can't live in your head like --

REED
(finally losing it)
I'm not the only one in there. I got you, Vic, Ben, Johnny, all rattling around in there.

Sue stands there, shocked by his outburst. A beat.

SUE
So clear it out. Get out of your head. Get out of here...

He looks at her, knowing what she means. Where she means.

EXT. BROOKLYN STREETS - DAY

Ben nearly knocks people over as he stomps down the street, mind tossing and turning. People stare, point. A LITTLE GIRL and FRIEND run up to him.

LITTLE GIRL
Mister, Mister! Please help me! My kitty is stuck in a tree.

She gestures to a tree next to Ben. Looks up.

LITTLE GIRL (CONT'D)
Please save Miss Lucy.

Ben rolls his eyes. Looks up. Considers climbing the tree, but thinks better of it. He has another idea...

Ben grabs the tree with one hand, and starts shaking the crap out of it. MEEEEEEEEOOOOOOOWWWRRRRRRR!!!!

The cat falls into frame. At the last instant, Ben sticks out his hand and the cat lands safely in his palm. He hands the cat to the girl. Barely acknowledges her profuse thanks.
He just moves on.

EXT. ANOTHER BROOKLYN STREET - NIGHT

Ben passes a window in a gallery, and almost misses A LARGE SCULPTURE of his bust.

He stops, steps back to take a look. It's exquisitely rendered, capturing not just brute physicality, but the haunting anguish in his eyes. Ben is amazed, and touched, but...

BEN
(under breath)
Eyebrows are a little big...

A beat. He stares at these images of himself.

VOICE (O.S.)
I figured the only way to get you here was to stick that in the window.

He turns to see...ALICIA in the doorway.

BEN
How'd you know it was me?

ALICIA
I'm blind, not deaf. Wanna come in?

He steps toward her. But he sees...a PARTY in the back part of the gallery. Ben pauses, a little insecure.

BEN
I'm not really dressed for a party.

ALICIA
Relax, it's casual.

BEN
No, I mean...I'm a little...dusty...

She smiles, a thought forming, as we CUT TO --

INT. GALLERY - STUDIO - NIGHT

WHOOSH! A SCULPTOR'S HOSE sprays a thin stream of water at BEN. Alicia cleans Ben with her hands, using thin CARVING CHISELS for his cracks. Intricate, intimate work.

Ben enjoys every moment. He eyes a couple, large PUPPETS in the corner.

BEN
Those yours too?

ALICIA
My step-dad's. I'm strictly into stone. I was wondering when you'd walk by.

THE THING
You know, you could'a run an ad in the personals.

ALICIA
"Sensual blind chick seeks three-ton, rock-hard he-man for deep spiritual relationship."

THE THING
This ain't permanent. My friend Reed's working on a cure...I think.

She gets closer, running her hands across his arm.

ALICIA
Bennie. You feel pretty good as is.

Ben bristles. He doesn't want to stay this way.

THE THING
You don't know what it's like out there. Walking around like some kind of circus freak. People staring, whispering --

ALICIA

I wouldn't know anything about that.

THE THING
I mean...

ALICIA
Tell me. When you grew up in Brooklyn, how many astronauts did you know?
(a beat)
You went your own way then. You didn't listen to people. So why start
now...?

As he ponders that, we hear a CROWD SWELLING on the CUT TO --

EXT. STREET - NIGHT

Fans swarm JOHNNY. He signs autographs, poses for pictures.
Then his eyes move to...an incredibly long stretch LIMO. A tinted window rolls down. Victor's face emerges.

VICTOR
Need a ride, Johnny?

EXT./INT. LIMO - NIGHT

Johnny climbs in, sees...three impossibly gorgeous MODELS.

VICTOR
A few fans. Hope you don't mind.

JOHNNY
Gotta take care of the fans, right?

He smiles, sitting down in the middle of them.

VICTOR
Look, I built my business knowing what people want. And right now, the people want you.

Johnny eyes the models, all lusting.

JOHNNY
And we don't want to let the people down now, do we?

VICTOR
No we don't. Which is why we need to strike while the iron's hot.
I'm talking action figures, videogames, sponsors --

JOHNNY
Videogames? You serious?

Victor nods, knowing he has Johnny on the hook.

JOHNNY (CONT'D)
You talk to Reed and Sue about this?

VICTOR
Johnny. Let's be honest here. Ben, Reed, Sue. Good people, all. But stars?
(shaking his head, a beat)
I don't want to break up the band, but you're the one they want. Don't you think it's time to go solo...?

Victor subtly nods to the models. They envelop Johnny.

VICTOR (CONT'D)
Take the car for a spin. Think about it. Is this the life you want? Or would you rather live in Reed's lab...?

The car stops. Victor gets out. He stands on the pavement.
As he shuts the door, we see the women climbing onto Johnny.
The door shuts, and...

WHHHMMMPF! The windows all suddenly STEAM UP!

INT. HAYDEN PLANETARIUM - NIGHT

STARS on the ceiling. A VOICE drones about the galaxy. In the LAST ROW, we find: Reed and Sue. Reed is thinking about work.

REED
I could get Ben to tap into the Baxter's main power to generate enough voltage --

SUE
Reed. Shh. Just be quiet. And look up.

He slowly looks up. The stars seem to calm him.

SUE (CONT'D)
Remember our first date here...? God,
I was so nervous.

REED
You were?

SUE
Of course I was. I'd read all your papers on bioethics. Some of them two times just so I'd have something to say to you.

Reed smiles softly, thinking back.

REED
You know, I bribed the projectionist ten bucks to keep it open late?

SUE
I gave him twenty.

They laugh. Sue looks up to the stars. Quiet:

SUE (CONT'D)
I didn't want that night to end.

Reed looks at her. Wrestles with a decision. Then quietly:

REED
Sue, you were right. It wasn't complicated. I just wasn't ready to be...to become...
(a beat)
You can be a little intimidating.

She knows. He trails off. Sue looks at him.

REED (CONT'D)
You always talked about how you liked the kind of man who could approach you...speak his mind. One who wasn't afraid to tell you what he wanted.

SUE
I did. I did, Reed...but I wanted you to be that man.

Someone SHUSHES them. They slump down further. Closer.

SUE (CONT'D)
When I walked out, I waited ten minutes outside your door. Ten. Waiting for you to come find me.

REED
Why didn't you say something?

SUE
That would have kinda defeated the purpose. And Reed...
(closer, emotional)
I'm saying it now.

Their eyes lock. A heated beat. No more secrets. Their faces are close. A kiss is coming. Closer, closer. Sue disappears.

SUE (CONT'D)
(quiet, playful)
Come find me.

Reed tentatively leans into the kiss, and...

SUE (O.S.) (CONT'D)
That's my nose, genius... These are my lips.

Reed's face is SQUEEZED on both sides by Sue's invisible hands. She pulls him into a KISS. Lips touch. Soft, tender. Stars twinkle. And we slowly DISSOLVE TO --

EXT. KIRBY GALLERY - NIGHT

Ben and Alicia step out together. The crowd quiets, turns.
A few whispers flutter. Alicia leans close to Ben, and slips her arm into his. The party goes back to normal.

ALICIA
Look around. I'll get us drinks.
They always let blind girls cut the line.

She walks off. He watches her go. The way her hair moves.
The lines of her neck. The light on her skin. This woman is the most beautiful thing Ben has ever seen. He's falling hard.

Ben steps through the crowd. The swanky guests give strained smiles, polite. Ben is starting to feel comfortable here.
He keeps his eyes on Alicia, who talks to guests.

Ben hangs back, happy to watch her. A few patrons pass him, thinking he's just an inanimate statue.

PATRON
I don't know about this one. It lacks a certain...realism.

Ben keeps his eyes on Alicia. He overhears two BOHEMIAN

GIRLS, who assume he's a statue.

BOHEMIAN GIRL #1
She's always had a thing for runaways and strays, but this is ridiculous.

BOHEMIAN GIRL #2
I know. Did she really think these sculptures would sell?

BOHEMIAN GIRL #1
Like anybody would want this thing in their house. That girl's a one-woman charity.

Ben just stands there, frozen. His eyes dart around the room, paranoid now. Aware of people staring, laughing. He glances at Alicia, who giggles at something else. Ten seconds ago, this would have been dreamy. Now it's damning.

We stay with Alicia, who cuts through the crowd, emerging where she left Ben. She has a PITCHER of wine in hand for him. But Ben is gone. She looks disappointed, hearing his heavy FOOTSTEPS get softer and softer in the distance.

THUNDER booms on the CUT TO --

EXT./INT. DINER - NIGHT

A pitstop in Queens. Heavy RAIN swims down windows. BEN sits at the COUNTER, with his hat pulled low, coat tight. Nobody sits within four chairs of him. He sips coffee in a metal bowl. A long beat. Then...

VICTOR (O.S.)
This seat taken?

Ben turns to see...VICTOR.

BEN
What are you doing here?

VICTOR
I'm worried about you.

BEN
About me? How sweet.

VICTOR
Come on. Let me buy you something to eat. Looks like you could use the company.

Ben considers. A man deeply alone. A beat.

INT. DINER - LATER

Victor and Ben sit in a window booth. A waitress sets a foothigh stack of pancakes in front of Ben, removes huge plates he's just cleared. Victor's aware of the other customers in the diner staring at Ben. Ben burps: it rattles the plates.

THE THING

'Scuse me.

VICTOR

I know it can't be easy. Life hasn't changed that much for Reed, Sue and Johnny. At least they can go out in public. But for you? People staring. Whispering behind your back...

THE THING

If you're trying to cheer me up you're doing a helluva job --

VICTOR

I'm just saying, I know what it's like to lose something you love. To see it slip away, and know it's never coming back.

The Thing shoves a huge piece of pie in his mouth.

THE THING

Reed's gonna fix me up --

VICTOR

For your sake I hope you're right. I'm sorry if that sounds a little skeptical.

THE THING

Skeptical...?

Ben doesn't trust him. But Victor is hitting pressure points.

VICTOR

Look, he's a brilliant man, we should trust he's working as hard as he can. You're his best friend. So what possible reason could he have for taking his time?

(a beat)

I mean, other than getting close to

Sue?

Off The Thing: a seed of doubt has been planted. He can't help but find truth in the words. And we CUT TO --

INT. BAXTER BUILDING - TRANSFORMATION LAB - NIGHT

Reed and Sue return, laughing quietly, bodies close. Reed turns on the lights, and they flinch when they see...BEN. He sits waiting, scowling. They stop laughing immediately.

BEN

Yeah, I have that effect on people.

The construction of the TRANSFORMATION CHAMBER is complete. The Technicians are gone now.

REED

Ben --

BEN

Oh, you remember my name do you? You happen to remember what you swore to do with every breath in your body?

REED

We're working as hard as we can --

BEN

Yeah. I can tell. Victor was right.

He motions to Reed and Sue together.

REED

Come on, this is nothing.

Sue looks a little hurt.

BEN

Glad "nothing" could take you away from your work.

REED

Ben, I don't know if this thing'll change us back or make us worse. I need you to be patient for a little while longer--

He POKES his finger into Reed's chest, which INDENTS around it like the Pillsbury Doughboy. Ben pushes Reed back. Hard.

BEN

Look at me, Reed. Look at me!

He grabs Reed's face, his fingers INDENTING the skin. He THROWS Reed back. Reed slams down to the ground.

REED

I am looking. That's why I can't make a mistake! I've got to get it right, and it's not right yet! We need to test this.

Ben shakes his head, looking down at Reed.

BEN

I spent my whole life protecting you, from the schoolyard to the stars. For what? So you could play Twister with your girlfriend while I'm the freak of the week?

Reed tries to stand, but Ben KNOCKS him back. Reed slams into the wall, and stays down this time.

SUE

Ben! Stop it! Or I'll stop it.

She starts to raise her hands to throw force-fields.

BEN

Stay out of this Susie.

As Ben turns to her, Reed takes this opportunity to WRAP Ben up like a python. They struggle. Ben runs back into a wall to shake Reed. Their faces are close, heated.

BEN (CONT'D)

Good thing you're flexible enough to watch your own back. 'Cause you're on your own now.

Ben seems to relax and Reed lets go. Ben walks out. Sue comes to Reed's side. He's bleeding.

REED

I'm OK. Just go, go after him. Stop him.

She heads out. Reed slowly stands. He looks at the transformation machine. It's not ready. But...Reed steps toward it. As he walks, his image goes grainy in --

INT. VICTOR'S OFFICE - NIGHT

Victor gets closer to his screens, watching Reed's every step. This is what Victor has been waiting for. His screens flicker with static -- he's too close, but he can't pull back. He sees: REED TURNS ON THE MACHINE. Hits a countdown. And he grabs his UNIFORM...

INT. BAXTER BUILDING - HALLWAY - NIGHT

Sue hustles down the long hall. Ben turns a corner, passing the elevators, heading toward a FREIGHT ELEVATOR. She gets there too late. Doors close, going down.

INT. BAXTER BUILDING - GROUND FLOOR - NIGHT

Ben pounds across the lobby. He sees Johnny coming in.

JOHNNY
Christmas come early! Check it out!

He holds up an ACTION FIGURE of BEN: a horribly bloated body topped by a tiny pinhead. Johnny pushes a button and --

BEN ACTION FIGURE
IT'S CLOBBERIN' TIME!

WITH ONE ARM, Ben shoves Johnny into a wall. With his other hand, Ben grabs the toy and SMASHES it into the wall, inches from Johnny's head. The toy lodges into the plaster.

JOHNNY
Hey! That's a prototype!

BEN
Go back to the drawing board.

He strides away.

INT. BAXTER BUILDING - GROUND FLOOR - NIGHT

DING. Sue speeds out of the elevator. No sign of Ben. She runs into...JOHNNY who shakes off the encounter.

SUE
Johnny? Did you see Ben?

JOHNNY
Yeah, for the last time, I hope. I'm done with this freak show. I'm moving back to the real world.

SUE
Is that what you call it? "Real"?

JOHNNY

At least it beats living in a lab like somebody's science project.

This hits home. Sue is quiet. Johnny turns to go.

SUE
Johnny, slow down. Think. You know mom didn't raise us to --

JOHNNY
Look around, sis! She's not here. So you can stop talking to me like I'm your little boy --

SUE
As soon as you stop acting like one.
Come on, you're smarter than this.
You think those people out there care about you? You're just a fad to them.

He pulls away from her, taking a step out the door.

JOHNNY
Let's try something new: you live your life. And I'll live mine.
(beat)
And just for the record: they LOVE
me.

He strides into the night, leaving Sue alone. A dark night.
The Fantastic Four is no more. The family is split apart.

INT. BAXTER BUILDING - TRANSFORMATION LAB - NIGHT

The transformation chamber is up and running. Numbers count down. The storm swirls in the chamber. Reed now wears the UNIFORM. He opens the door:

HE'S GOING TO USE IT ON HIMSELF. HE IS FINALLY TAKING ACTION.

INT. VICTOR'S OFFICE - NIGHT

Victor sits enthralled. He leans forward, breathless.

INT. BAXTER BUILDING - TRANSFORMATION LAB - NIGHT

Reed gets closer. His heart races. So does Victor's. A moment of truth for both of them. REED STEPS INTO THE MACHINE.

Reed looks up at the cosmic storm. He opens his arms, ready to risk his life. And...WHHHH! He JOLTS in JUMP-CUT-MOTION, RECONFIGURING, JERKING out of control, and we CUT TO --

VICTOR'S OFFICE - NIGHT

His screens GO BLACK. He looks out the window to see...a flash atop the BAXTER BUILDING. The tip of the Baxter glows. The rest of its lights GO OUT, FLICKERING in a power surge.

INT. BAXTER BUILDING - GROUND FLOOR - NIGHT

Lights go haywire. Sue knows immediately...

SUE
Oh god, Reed.

INT. BAXTER BUILDING - TRANSFORMATION LAB - NIGHT

Lights flicker in darkness. The door rips open. Sue lunges inside. She sees through smoke and sparks...REED sways in the chamber. A beat. Did it work? Then...

Reed SLUMPS TO THE GROUND. His eyes flutter back. Dead...? His body is warped, twisted -- one half remains tense, hard, while the other half is loose, soft, almost melted.

SUE
What did you do, Reed? What did you do?

INT. VICTOR'S OFFICE - NIGHT

Victor watches every second on his monitors.

INT. BAXTER BUILDING - TRANSFORMATION LAB - NIGHT

Sue struggles to lift Reed -- half of his body is STRETCHED OUT, devoid of any semblance of bone structure. One side of his face looks like it's MELTING OFF.

REED
I can...make it work.

SUE
Reed, stop, you need to rest your --

REED
The power...I need...more power...to control...the storm --

SUE
You need a doctor.

Reed loses consciousness. Sue carries him out.

INT. VICTOR'S OFFICE - NIGHT

Victor watches, his eyes narrow, looking at his hands.

VICTOR
More power...?

He reaches out for his phone, and...his SPEAKERPHONE AUTOMATICALLY TURNS ON. His powers growing.

VICTOR (TO PHONE) (CONT'D)
Leonard. Bring me our lab rat.

EXT. UNDER THE BROOKLYN BRIDGE - NIGHT

Ben sits alone, looking at city lights. A man without a home. Without a family. A hard beat. HEADLIGHTS slash across Ben. He slowly turns, blinded in the lights of...a LIMO.

LEONARD
Ben! They need you back at the Baxter building. It's...Reed.

Ben considers. Despite it all, he's a good friend. And a good man. As he gets into the car, we hear THROBBING MUSIC IN --

INT. MANHATTAN NIGHT CLUB - NIGHT

LOUD MUSIC and PULSATING LIGHTS. A young crowd dances and grinds to the beat. Among the colorful lights, STREAKS OF FLAME swirl around the ceiling. We follow them to:

A BALCONY, where we see JOHNNY sitting in a cozy VIP section. He's surrounded by "groupies" climbing over each other to get a look at his various parlour tricks.

He leans closer to a YOUNG WOMAN. Closer. Candles around them start to melt. Beads of sweat drip down her face.

JOHNNY
What do you say we get out of here?

She pauses. And...a very LARGE MAN steps up.

JOHNNY (CONT'D)
This your boyfriend?

The Boyfriend doesn't look too happy.

BOYFRIEND

Is that all you do? Bar tricks and stealing chicks...

Johnny does one more trick...taps the guy's drink...igniting it into a burst of flame. The Boyfriend drops the glass, which SMASHES on the ground...catches the floor on fire.

The boyfriend quickly moves in and stamps it out.

GIRLFRIEND

What are you doing?! You could have burned somebody!

The boyfriend takes his girlfriend's hand, they start to walk off. She turns back for one last comment...

GIRLFRIEND (CONT'D)

You know, if I had your power I'd be doing something with it, not wasting my time doing cheap bar tricks, hitting on some other guy's girl.

Johnny looks a little embarrassed. The couple leaves.
Johnny glances around. His FANS look down, away. He sees how quickly they can turn. The crowd parts slightly. He looks very alone.

INT. TRANSFORMATION CHAMBER - NIGHT

Leonard leads The Thing inside. The ominous chamber sits with its door open. Victor enters from the control station.

VICTOR

Ben, come in.

BEN

What is this? Where's Reed?

VICTOR

Where do you think? With Sue.

Ben looks at the flickering lights. Suspicious. Victor turns to Leonard, who looks a little scared by this dark room.

VICTOR (CONT'D)

(quiet)

I'll take it from here, Leonard.

Leonard nods, all too eager to get the hell out of here.

LEONARD
Yes sir.

Leonard disappears fast, as Victor turns back to Ben.

BEN
What do you want, Vic?

VICTOR
To help you. I've run every test known to man. And they all yield the same result: the machine is ready.

Ben shakes his head, wanting to believe, but...

BEN
Reed said it'd be weeks till --

VICTOR
He also said we'd avoid that storm in space. And we know how that turned out.

Ben nods. Reed was wrong before. Ben gets closer to the machine, drawn to it. He wants to believe, so badly.

VICTOR (CONT'D)
He couldn't generate enough power for the machine to reach critical mass.
Yet another mistake for "Mr.
Fantastic."

BEN
And you can? Power it up?

Victor stands in shadows, but we see the tiniest little SPARK around him. The lights...? Or his skin...?

VICTOR
Yes. I've found a new energy source.

He keeps his arm behind his back -- his fingertips course with ELECTRICITY. It starts to build, sparking up his arm.

VICTOR (CONT'D)
Tell me...do you want to be Ben Grimm
again?

Ben keeps his eyes on the machine. His dream is alive.

BEN
Let's do it.

INT. TRANSFORMATION CHAMBER - NIGHT

The chamber doors open. Thing enters. He looks around this sterile box. An animal in a cage. Victor pushes a control; the doors of the chamber slowly close and seal. Thing shuts his eyes. He just wants to be Ben again.

FROM THE CONTROLS: Victor initiates the transformation sequence. As lights go on inside the chamber, they dim in the lab. Energy pumps into the chamber. The storm swirls faster. Lights flicker...there's not enough power, until -- -- Victor walks over...grabs hold of the machine with both hands...and WHHHM! A countdown begins in the control panels.

SLOW MOVE IN on the chamber, The Thing's face in the window. The chamber activates. The storm strikes hard.

The Thing opens his mouth, a beat, then he screams in agony. Struggling violently inside. To escape? Extend the moment: Condensation obscures the chamber window: The Thing vanishes.

EXT. MANHATTAN SKYLINE - NIGHT

The city lights fill the sky, and give it a quiet, eerie glow. Suddenly, a BRIGHT FLASH emerges from the window of the Baxter Building. The rest of the city lights dim slightly.

INT. BAXTER BUILDING LIVING QUARTERS - NIGHT

Reed lies in bed, weak, recuperating. When the power surges, we MOVE in on him: he looks up in alarm, knowing that someone's using the chamber. He starts to get out of bed, straining to stand with every muscle left in his body.

INT. BAXTER BUILDING - MEDICAL SUPPLY ROOM - SAME TIME

Sue sifts through a cabinet full of medications. The lights dim. Power failure. She looks up...

EXT. CLUB - NIGHT

Johnny walks alone. A WAVE OF LIGHT spreads through the sky. He looks up. His eyes adjust to the blast, as he realizes where it's coming from. He starts RUNNING toward the Baxter.

INT. BAXTER BUILDING - REVERSION LAB - NIGHT

INSIDE THE MACHINE, the RED CLOUD swirls with debris, crackling with light. The chamber rattles dangerously, as the power seems to SHAKE the very foundation of the building.

And then it's over. The light dies down...somewhat. It still pulses along with the chamber. The chamber door SLIDES OPEN.

Beat. And...BEN GRIMM steps out. Not The Thing. No more rocks. BEN GRIMM. Naked, tired, but finally A NORMAL MAN.

He slips on his trench-coat -- now way too large. He collapses. He stares at his hands, his arms...it worked.

BEN
Oh my God... Th-thank you. THANK YOU...VIC?!

Ben sees a SPARK in shadows. That spark is...

VICTOR'S ARM. Victor steps forward, and reveals himself to Ben: ELECTRICITY PUMPS THROUGH HIS BODY. His skin is part flesh, part metal. Cheekbone exposed, steel tissue.

HE IS DOOM.

BEN (CONT'D)
Vic... What the...?

DOOM
Everyone thought I was safe behind those shields...

BEN
Victor, the machine worked for me. It can work for you --

DOOM
It did, Ben. It worked perfectly.

Ben starts to realize...

BEN
You planned this...?

Doom smiles, reaches out his hand -- ELECTRICITY builds from his shoulders, coursing down his arms to his fingertips.

DOOM
I've always wanted power. Now I've got an unlimited supply...

BEN
And no Thing to stand in your way.

DOOM smiles, nods, stronger than Ben now.

DOOM

Take a good look, Ben. This is what a man looks like who embraces his destiny.

Doom clenches his fist and BLASTS Ben, sending him flying backwards across the room -- knocked unconscious.

DOOM (CONT'D)

One down, three to go.

Suddenly, WHOOSH! The lab door flies open. Reed enters. Doom steps back into the shadows.

DOOM (CONT'D)

Right on cue.

Reed's eyes go wide. He sees Ben crumpled in the corner.

REED

Oh god Ben. Are you okay?
(amazed)
You did it, you really did it...

DOOM

No, Reed. I did.

Reed slowly turns to see...DOOM. His body, his face.

REED

Victor...? What, what happened to you? What did you do to your --

DOOM

Exactly what I said I would: I built a better, stronger being. And outsmarted the great Reed Richards --

REED

Victor, this isn't the way to --

DOOM

(a dark smile)
You always know best. So tell me. What happens when you superheat rubber?

Doom BLASTS an electrical BOLT at Reed, KNOCKING Reed through the huge window! Reed's body RUBBER-BANDS from the blast.

EXT. BAXTER BUILDING - NIGHT

Reed SLINKIES down the face of the building, skin rippling.

INT. BAXTER BUILDING - REVERSION LAB - NIGHT

Doom looks out the window, smiling at his old friend's fall.

INT. BAXTER BUILDING - FRONT LOBBY - NIGHT

DING! The elevator opens. Doom strides out. He passes our friend O'HOOLIHAN, who looks scared.

O'HOOLIHAN
Mr. Von Doom? Are you oka--

Doom casually SWIPES, sending him through revolving doors.

DOOM
Never better, Jimmy. And it's Doctor
Doom now.

EXT. BAXTER BUILDING - NIGHT

Reed MELTS down the sides of an AWNING, like a Salvador Dali watch. He tries to GRAB HOLD of window ledges, but he can't get a grip. His ARM streeetches, and SNAP! He falls like a SLINKY, out of control. Half his body loose, half hard.

He drips to the sidewalk, where...Doom steps out. He catches Reed's face, holds it close.

DOOM
Why the long face?

Doom whips Reed into the night. As Doom turns, people cower, horrified by his face. They clear out, and...

Doom sees his REFLECTION in a window: scarred skin, metallic veins. A monster. Infuriated, he SHATTERS the window with an iron fist, and bounds into the night.

INT. BAXTER BUILDING - LATER - NIGHT

Smoke billows, windows are shattered. Sue races inside, seeing Doom's devastation. Silence, deadly silence. Then...she sees a pile of WRECKAGE shift. BEN crawls out.

SUE
Ben?!

She helps him out of the rubble. He is beaten, battered.

JOHNNY (O.S.)
Sue!

Johnny comes running in. He sees the wreckage.

JOHNNY (CONT'D)
I'm sorry, sis, for leaving you guys --

SUE
No, I'm sorry, for pushing you out.

He nods. A beat between them. He looks around, sees Ben.

JOHNNY
Jesus, Ben!
(eyeing him)
I go away, look what happens. You got a lot of explaining to do.

He motions to the wreckage.

BEN
(struggling, weak)
The machine works. And Vic's gone
Mister Hyde on us --

JOHNNY
Really? With a name like Von Doom?
Never saw that one coming.

Sue looks around. Only one question. Dead serious:

SUE
Where is Reed?

BEN
Victor must've taken him.

INT. VON DOOM - CONFERENCE ROOM - NIGHT

Doom sits at the head of the table in an eerie parallel to the opening scene. Those mysterious CRATES loom in shadows. He wears a green HOOD, and METAL MASK over his scarred face.

Doom's eyes turn toward...the other end of the table.

DOOM
Chemistry 101, Part Two. What happens to rubber when it's super-cooled?

We now see what he sees: Reed sits in a chair with TUBES INJECTED into his skin FREEZING HIM SOLID! Ultra-cold vapor coats him. Doom steps closer, a sadistic smile.

Reed tries to move but can't even ball his hand into a fist.

DOOM (CONT'D)
Allow me.

He PRESSES DOWN on one of Reed's fingers, which makes a horrific CRACKING SOUND. Reed's face twists with pain.

DOOM (CONT'D)
Painful...?

Doom seems to enjoy every CRACK. He leans closer.

DOOM (CONT'D)
You don't know the meaning of the word.

Doom lets up on Reed and reaches into a crate, and pulls out a military-issue ROCKET-LAUNCHER. He aims at the city skyline, locking onto his target: JOHNNY STORM.

DOOM (CONT'D)
But you will.

Johnny's HEAT SIGNATURE glows. The screen flashes: TARGET ACQUIRED. Doom looks back at Reed, his launcher aimed casually over his shoulder.

DOOM (CONT'D)
Flame off.

BOOOOM! He fires without looking! A MISSILE blasts into the sky. THE MISSILE LIGHTS UP THE DARK NIGHT beginning its wide turn towards its target.

INT. BAXTER BUILDING

Johnny, Ben, and Sue hear the missile being fired and turn to the window -- it BANKS, coming STRAIGHT for them. They move to --

EXT. BAXTER BUILDING BALCONY - NIGHT

Johnny rushes toward the edge, to get a good look at the missile streaking closer. As he moves, the missile SHIFTS slightly with HIS MOTION! His eyes narrow, thinking.

He FLAMES ON a HAND. He waves his flaming hand, and the MISSILE locks onto the fire! Johnny darkens, realizing...

JOHNNY
Great. Heat-seeker.

His mind races. He makes a decision, and steps up onto the ledge, hundreds of feet above the street.

SUE
What are you doing --

JOHNNY
Sis. Let me take care of you for once.

SUE
But Johnny...you can't fly.

Johnny considers, a half-beat. He looks out. Under breath:

JOHNNY
Well then this'll be one hell of a basejump.

Sue reaches out to stop him, but Johnny DIVES HEROICALLY OFF THE EDGE! He FLAMES ON! The missile follows his arc. As he drops, his clothes BURN OFF, revealing his UNIFORM.

JOHNNY (CONT'D)
(under breath)
Come on...come on...come on...

He falls lower, lower. And...he...BANKS! SWOOPS UP! FLYING!

JOHNNY (CONT'D)
FLAME ON.

Sue watches, with fear, and a hint of pride.

BEN
We need to help Reed --

Sue shakes her head, sympathetic.

SUE
Ben, you got what we all wanted.
You need to stay here. It's too dangerous.

She heads off. Ben watches her go, helpless.

INT. BAXTER BUILDING - REVERSION LAB - NIGHT

Ben steps back into this ravaged room. Through the shattered window, he sees Johnny's FLAMES streaking away. A hard beat.

BEN

What...what have I done?

EXT. NEW YORK - NIGHT

Johnny zigs and zags, but the missile takes every twist and turn, gaining on him, bearing down. Cars slow, stop. More people look up, scared, pointing at this stunning sight.

INT. VON DOOM CONFERENCE ROOM - NIGHT

Eerily silent. Reed tries to move, but he is FROZEN. He hears a footstep. But the room is EMPTY. No sign of Doom even. A beat. He hears a CREAK. Another CREAK, closer. And...

A FREEZING TUBE starts to SHIFT. It goes taut, clearly being manipulated by a hand -- an INVISIBLE HAND. Sue APPEARS next to Reed, tube in hand. She tries to stay calm.

SUE
What has he done to you?

Reed's eyes shift to see...Doom emerge from the darkness.

DOOM (O.S.)
How romantic.

SUE
Victor, please --

DOOM
It's Doctor Doom to you.

He steps closer. Electrodes course over his metal skin.

SUE
We know the machine works. It worked on Ben, it'll work on you. We can turn you back --

DOOM
Do you really think fate turned us into gods so we could refuse these gifts?

She hardens, a little force field starts to emanate from her.

SUE
Victor. You always thought you were god.

Doom has a hand behind his back, generating an energy blast.

DOOM
Sue please, let's not fight.

SUE
No, Victor... Let's.

She HURLS a force-field at him. It CONNECTS, KNOCKING him back a half-step. But he simply shakes it off, and steps up. Too powerful. He smiles. His arms CRACKLE with electricity.

DOOM
Susan..... You're fired.

BOOM! He FIRES an ELECTRIC SHOCKWAVE that LAUNCHES her back. She spirals through the air, crashing into the wall, THUDDING to the floor. As Doom stalks closer, Sue gathers her strength to...GO INVISIBLE.

DOOM (CONT'D)
Marco...

A hanging beat. We see: a FAINT OUTLINE of Sue behind him.

DOOM (CONT'D)
Polo.

He SPINS, GRABS her! Doom grips her neck, SLAMMING her to the ground beside Reed. She lays there, beaten, visible.

In the distance behind Doom, city lights BLINK, fading in and out. Lights flutter softly here (like when Ben went through the machine). Reed looks up. Could it be...?

EXT. EAST RIVER - NIGHT

Johnny jets over the water with the missile only twenty feet behind him. He's running out of options, when he spots:

A GARBAGE BARGE floating in the water ahead. Thinking fast, Johnny does a fly-by and HURLS a fireball at the barge. VWOOSH! The flames ignite and spread quickly.

He loops back toward the flaming barge as the missile closes in on him. Fifteen feet...ten... Just as it's about to hit --

JOHNNY FLAMES OFF and falls toward the water. As he tumbles through the air, we CUT BACK TO --

INT. VON DOOM CONFERENCE ROOM - NIGHT

From their vantage point, they see the missile explode. Flames dance. Sue's eyes darken, as Doom grips her neck.

Reed tries desperately to move, but he is FROZEN. It takes every last ounce of strength to lift one finger, which makes a CRACCCKKKKING sound.

DOOM
One more down. Now it's just the scientist and his specimen.

Sue and Reed lock eyes. Reed tries to move his mouth. He has something to tell her, struggling just to move his lips and get the words out.

REED
Sue. The only thing I ever knew without thinking was...
(his lips fully freezing)
I...love...

He starts to say "you," but his lips FREEZE, mid-word. Sue whispers to him:

SUE
Me too, Reed.

Doom steps toward Sue, about to deliver the final blow.

DOOM
(quiet, cruel)
And so four became none. It's my time now.

BOOOOM! An elevator DOOR FLIES INTO THE ROOM! SMASH!

VOICE (O.S.)
Actually, Vic...

Reed recognizes the voice. So do we. Doom turns to see...

BEN GRIMM, AKA THE THING. Back in rocky, fighting form.

BEN
IT'S CLOBBERING TIME!

Doom turns, just as --

BAM! Ben HITS Doom harder than any living thing has ever been hit. The force sends Doom back through the air, toward the far wall, where he SMASHES into the massive "V" sculpture. It SNAPS, crashing onto him. A few sparks. Then nothing.

Nothing at all. No more movement. Doom is dead.

Ben turns to Reed.

BEN (CONT'D)
Damn, I've been wanting to do that.

Reed manages the thinnest smile as Ben starts disconnecting the tubes from Reed.

BEN (CONT'D)
(Reed's words)
Victor's "not that bad," huh? Just "a little larger than life"? Maybe you'll listen to me next time before --

WHMM! The WRECKAGE shifts. They turn to see...Doom EMERGES. He stands, power coursing. And he CHARGES at Ben! Ben charges back. And these two behemoths...

SLAM INTO EACH OTHER, CRASHING THROUGH GLASS, INTO THIN AIR!!

EXT. VON DOOM BUILDING - CONTINUOUS

Doom and Ben PLUMMET, wrestling in mid-air. On the ground, PEOPLE scream and duck for cover. Doom and Ben SMASH through the large GLASS roof of a lower building across the street.

INT. HOTEL - INDOOR POOL - CONTINUOUS

BOOOOM! Doom and Ben, locked in combat, drop through the glass, landing in a large HOTEL POOL. People scream, run.

INT. HOTEL - INDOOR POOL - NIGHT

UNDERWATER: Doom and Ben LAND HARD. Their combined weight CRACKS the floor of the pool. A YOUNG BOY watches underwater through his MASK. Doom and Ben square off, but...

The CRACKS OPEN WIDER! And they're PULLED toward the HOLE! WHOOSH! The water is all sucked out of the hole. The boy holds tight to a ladder, as Ben and Doom crash down to --

INT. HOTEL - HALLWAY - NIGHT

A HOTEL GUEST sees water FLOOD into the hall. Roaring rapids head straight for him. He jams his key into the lock, turning desperately, just barely leaping out of the way as the wave carrying BEN and DOOM SMASHES through a window to --

EXT. HOTEL - CONTINUOUS

SMASH! Ben and Doom fly out the window, thrashing in the TEN THOUSAND-GALLON WATERFALL TO --

EXT. NEW YORK CITY STREET - CONTINUOUS

CRASH! Water floods the street. Doom and Ben land in a large GARBAGE TRUCK. The truck rocks back and forth, DENTING from the inside. Grunts, growls.

CRASH! The truck suddenly STOPS. COP CARS SPEED CLOSER, sirens screaming. And --

BOOM, A HUGE SHAPE explodes from the truck. SMASH! Ben lands on a CAR filled with two OLD LADIES -- his head cracks the WINDSHIELD. Doom steps out of the garbage truck, water flooding the street around him. COP CARS converge on Doom.

Doom turns his attention to the cops. His limbs SPARK with electricity, ready to fire at the cars.

EXT./INT. CAR - CONTINUOUS

Ben sees the cops and Doom. He knows the cops are dead meat. He turns to the OLD LADY in the driver's seat.

BEN
Excuse me, Maam. Can I borrow your car?

She nods and quickly gets out, shaking.

OLD LADY
The clutch sticks a little.

BEN
Not gonna be a problem.

Ben LIFTS the car and THROWS it at Doom. WHMM! It FLIES through the air, and WHAM! Hits hard, knocking Doom back twenty feet! As Doom FLIES back, a BUS enters frame, and --

EXT. NEW YORK CITY STREET - NIGHT

BOOM! Doom SMASHES into the OUT OF SERVICE BUS! CRASH! Windows shatter. The bus SLAMS into an ELECTRICITY POLE, snapping the pole. Doom steps out, unharmed.

Ben CHARGES toward him. Doom grabs the broken ELECTRICITY POLE, FLIPS it into his hand, and wields the pole like a giant STUN-GUN! Electric sparks FLY through the air into --

BEN! The BLAST of VOLTS launches him off his feet! He goes FLYING backward, ELECTROCUTED in mid-flight, and -- WHOOMPF! Ben LANDS HARD, face down, CRATERING the street! Water rushes into the crater. Ben lays there, incapacitated.

EXT. NEW YORK CITY STREET - SAME TIME

On the street, cars SCREAM to stops, people GASP. Doom strides up to Ben, and raises the ELECTRICITY POLE for the death-blow. Currents surge. Right before he swings down --

VOICE (O.S.)
I can't let you do that.

Simple, strong. Doom turns to see...REED. Alone. Bruised and battered. Slowly stepping toward him. Doom smiles.

DOOM
And you can't stop me.

He turns back to Ben, raises the pole, but...he CAN'T SWING DOWN! Something is HOLDING the pole in mid-air.

Something invisible.

DOOM (CONT'D)
Hello Susan.

She turns VISIBLE, holding back the pole with a FORCEFIELD. Using her power, she FLINGS the pole from Doom's grip. It skids along the street. Reed helps Ben to his feet.

Doom turns to these three wounded soldiers.

DOOM (CONT'D)
What is this? The pitiful three?

Doom steps toward them, but --

VOICE (O.S.)
Four.

WHOOOSH! Johnny SWOOPS DOWN, hurling a FIREBALL like a flamethrower, KNOCKING Doom back.

Johnny takes his place alongside the others. The four of them stand as one. Johnny turns to Thing.

JOHNNY
Had a little relapse, huh?

Thing starts to retort, but Johnny gives a warm smile.

JOHNNY (CONT'D)
Welcome back.

They turn to Doom, who stands with metal skin slightly singed and melted, making him look all the more menacing.

DOOM

This is going to be fun.

Electricity starts to course through his body. He stands at the foot of the crater Ben made. He THRUSTS down, grabbing a thick POWER CABLE, RIPPING it out of the street!

He SNAPS the cable into two snaking, lashing strips. He holds tight, ABSORBING the power. Lights FLICKER and DIM in buildings around him. Windows BLOW! Doom GLOWS, amped up.

He LETS GO of the cables! The two deadly wires SNAKE out of control! PEDESTRIANS scatter, panic. Reed sees the wires SLASHING through the air. He makes a move:

Reed STREEETCHES HIS ARMS, reaching for the deadly cables.

Doom FIRES superpowered ENERGY BOLTS. The electric charges surge through the air toward the Fantastic Four, but --

Sue TOSSES her FORCE-FIELDS, exploding Doom's blasts in mid-flight. She keeps her hands up, BLOCKING blows like a prize fighter. One of Doom's BOLTS glances off her force-field and --

SMASHES into a concrete stanchion of a BUILDING! The pillar starts to crumble, with PEOPLE huddled under the overhang! They're about to be CRUSHED by the falling concrete! But --

Suddenly, the concrete roof HOLDS STEADY...because...BEN is holding it up! He stands beside the stanchion, like Atlas holding the world. People run out, safe.

ON THE STREET: Reed finally grabs both ends of the wire.

REED

JOHNNY! SPOT-WELD!

Johnny FLIES toward him, and uses his flames to WELD the wires back together. Sparks fly. The cables start to FUSE.

Doom keeps FIRING. Sue struggles with her force-fields. The impact is too much. Her nose starts to bleed.

SUE

Can't...hold...on...

Doom smiles. Reed sees her. She is about to drop her hands, vulnerable, but.....REED STRETCHES HIS WHOLE BODY!

He EXPANDS himself across the street, and GRABS a TREE, so he forms a WALL between Sue and Doom.

Doom keeps FIRING his bolts. They SLAM into Reed's body, RUBBERBAND his skin, and DISTEND OUT his back without breaking. He strains, agonizing.

REED
Johnny. SUPERNOVA.

JOHNNY
But all these people...

REED
Now.

Johnny charges toward Doom -- flames on his body starting build to a blinding white intensity, ENGULFING everything. Johnny GRABS DOOM.

THING
(quiet, smiling)
Flame on, kid.

FLASH! Johnny explodes in a PULSE of BRIGHT WHITE LIGHT, which starts to HEAT UP everything surrounding it. Reed doesn't miss a beat. He's in total command now.

REED
Sue, I need some of that anger, rage, frustration --

SUE
(looking at Doom)
I'm sure I can come up with something.

She concentrates. She sees Johnny holding onto Doom -- and the GROWING HEAT and LIGHT.

Sue shuts her eyes. A GIANT FORCE FIELD EXPLODES FROM HER BODY. A massive WAVE OF ENERGY. It SWOOPS past a car, which WARPS, MELTS (half the car is not inside the force-field).

Thing turns to the crowd, extending his arm, blocking them. Sue's force-field ENVELOPS JOHNNY'S SUPERNOVA, containing it in a BRIGHT SPHERE OF ENERGY. The light increases, to the point that it's blinding. People look away.

Finally, Johnny's supernova fades. He collapses to the ground, exhausted, smoking. Sue exhales and falls to her knees. Her force field fades. The light flickers out. As everyone's eyes adjust, we hear...THUD. THUD. And --

DOOM steps through the smoke. Unharmred. His metallic body GLOWS WHITE, TRAILING MOLTEN METAL. Sue, Ben, Johnny look devastated. They can't beat him. He looks at Reed.

DOOM
Is that the best you can do...? A little heat...?

Reed stays perfectly calm. He shakes his head.

REED
Time for your lesson, Vic. Chem 101:
what happens when you supercool hot metal...?
(to Ben)
Ben...

BEN
Got it, teach.

He KICKS OPEN the FIRE HYDRANT. The water GEYSERS UP! Ben kicks down with his foot, deflecting the water so it sprays toward Reed, who...TWISTS HIS TORSO so...

The water CURLS around his chest, RACES down his arms, and SHOOTS right off his wrists toward Doom!

DOOM
No.

Doom RUSHES TOWARD Reed, but the WATER FLIES OUT, DOUSING DOOM. GIANT CLOUDS OF STEAM fill the air from the cooling metal. DOOM screams. His shrieks finally fade to SILENCE.

The water stops, thick steam clouds roll, completely obscuring Doom from view. A beat. The steam clears to reveal:

DOOM. A true statue now -- a hard, cold solid piece of METAL. Frozen forever. Reed, Sue, Ben, and Johnny -- The Fantastic Four -- exhale. They stand as one, in roiling smoke. A beat.

JOHNNY
Damn, I love this job.

Reed and Sue slowly lock eyes, thinking the same thing.

BEN
Job, huh...?

Will they accept their mantle? Reed shrugs.

REED

Well, we do have the suits...

They give weary smiles. A team. Sue gets close to Reed.

SUE

You know, about what we said up there,
I think maybe --

THHM! He KISSES HER. His neck extending. Strong, powerful.
He pulls back slightly, smiles at her. A new strength in him.

BEN

Funny how things turn out, isn't it?

Sue looks at Reed. A long way from that conference room.

SUE

Hilarious.

As they kiss, people emerge, stepping out of hiding. The sun rises around them. The Fantastic Four step into the new dawn of a new day. And we slowly DISSOLVE TO --

INT. CIRCLE LINE BOAT - BANQUET ROOM - DUSK

Reed and Sue kiss on the deck of the Circle Line as it chugs around New York City.

JOHNNY (O.S.)

Dude, that's still my sister.

A PARTY IN PROGRESS. Drinks, food, music. We see in the crowd a familiar faces: O'HOOLIHAN (cast on his arm), bartender ERNIE, others. JOHNNY and BEN stand behind Reed and Sue.

Reed and Sue pull apart. Reed turns to Ben, excited.

REED

Ben, I've been crunching the numbers on the machine. I think if we can rework the power settings...

BEN

Forget it, egghead. I'm good as is.

ALICIA (O.S.)

That's my Benny.

She hands Ben a big METAL MUG. Ben takes the mug. He CLINKS, but SHATTERS her glass.

ALICIA (CONT'D)
We're going to have to work on your touch.

BEN
I like the sound of that.

Alicia gets close. A soft smile. Reed turns to Sue.

REED
Sue, can I talk to you for a second?

Reed leads her out. Ben and Johnny swap a glance.

EXT. CIRCLE LINE BOAT - DECK - DUSK

A romantic view of the city-scape. Reed stands with Sue.

REED
I found a broken gasket, from space --

SUE
A gasket? Reed, we're at a party.

He opens his hand, revealing a circular piece of metal, just about the size of.....a RING. Sue slows down.

REED
If one of us were to wear it...

She sees Johnny and Ben inside, watching -- in on a secret.

Reed looks her square in the eye. Unflinching.

SUE
Reed. What are you doing?

Reed drops to his knees. His head stays eye-level, while his body drops. Sue gapes, so emotional she starts to DISAPPEAR.

REED
No more thinking, no more variables...
Sue Storm...will you...
(she's gone)
Sue? Sue? You there?

Dead silence. And then...

THE RING DISAPPEARS. SUE IS WEARING IT.

SUE (V.O.)

Yes.

Reed goes to kiss her.

SUE (V.O.) (CONT'D)
That's my nose, genius... These are my lips.

Reed's face is SQUEEZED on both sides by Sue's invisible hands. She pulls him into a KISS and reappears.

INSIDE: the party applauds. Ben, Johnny, and Alicia move through the crowd to join Reed and Sue. As they go --

BEN
No more cracks about how I look.

JOHNNY
Hey, I'm Mr. Sensitivity now.
(weaving around bodies)
Clear the way, wide load coming through.

Ben glares, fists clenched. Johnny smiles, mischievous, as they hit the balcony. And he FLAMES ON, taking off into the air, blazing the NUMBER "FOUR" enclosed in a circle of flame (their future callsign), over the city skyline. The crowd oohs and aahs. Ben watches, unimpressed.

BEN Showoff.

People drink, laugh, dance. We slowly PULL BACK from the party, the boat, the city, and...CUT TO --

EXT. HARBOR - DAY

CLOSE ON: the MELTED FACE of DOOM. He is placed in a wooden crate. LEONARD oversees the operation, listening to his cell.

As two workers move the heavy door in place -- a crackle of ELECTRICITY moves over Doom's body. Leonard's CELLPHONE goes STATICKY. His eyes narrow. Could it be...? And --

SLAM. The door closes. We can read the destination through stenciled lettering: LATVERIA. And we pull back to reveal the box is on the deck of:

A FREIGHTER SHIP. The ship pulls away, steaming into the horizon, as we...

FADE OUT.

THE END

All movie scripts and screenplays on this site are intended for educational purposes only.

FRINGE

“Pilot”

By

J.J. Abrams

ACT ONE

FADE IN:

INT. AIRLINER - NIGHT

CLOSEUP on a FASTEN SEAT BELT sign, ILLUMINATING as the plane SHUDDERS. A jumbo jet. International flight, half-full. FLASHES of an ELECTRICAL STORM through otherwise BLACK windows as a tense PA ANNOUNCEMENT is made:

FLIGHT ATTENDANT (V.O.)
Das Sicherheitsgurtzeichen wird belichtet. Befestigen Sie bitte
Ihre Sicherheitsgurte.

(then, accented)
The captain has turned on the fasten seat belt sign, please make sure your seat belts are securely fastened.

-- and PASSENGERS do. Even the FLIGHT ATTENDANTS buckle up; and when they look nervous, it's never good.

Up in FIRST CLASS, an older couple HOLD HANDS. A few rows back, into coach, an overweight WOMAN looks to the nervous MAN sitting beside her and says:

WOMAN
Ich bevorzuge die Serie.

MAN
I don't-speak German, I'm from Denver.

-- Weil-- dieses mein Erstflug ist.

-- I'm-- I'm from Denver.

-- and SHUDDER - the jet DIPS too much --armrests gripped -- BRILLIANT strobing LIGHTNING as the plane LIFTS, BANKING one way, then the other. Further back in the cabin, an angry 16 year-old headphone-wearing BOY plays PSP, oblivious to the rough ride.

Six rows behind him, a 45 year-old MAN is sweating. Pale.
Distraught. The TURBULENCE is clearly a problem -- but something says "there's more happening here than just airsickness and anxiety. We'll give him this name for now:
TROUBLED. Troubled closes his eyes, head back, trying to find relief. The 60 year-old INDIAN MAN beside him says, comfortingly:

INDIAN MAN
My friend. It is just an electrical storm. This will pass.

TROUBLED
I understand.

INDIAN MAN
(offering a pack)
Juicy Fruit?

TROUBLED
No. I can't, I'm fine. Thank you.

Indian Man nods as Troubled pulls a briefcase from under his seat. Opens it. Goes through his papers -- the plane DROPPING AGAIN as LIGHTNING strikes closer than before -- an AUDIBLE REACTION from many passengers -- Troubled pulls out a DOSING PEN -- a pen-shaped syringe for the injection of medicine. Indian Man watches curiously as Troubled finds a small MEDICINE CARTRIDGE and inserts it. Indian Man doesn't really understand what he's watching -- and neither will most of the audience, and that's okay.

Troubled unbuttons the lower half of his shirt - pushes the pen against his stomach and TIRGGERS IT: POP! He's just taken an injection.

Troubled loosens his collar when HOLY FUCK, THE PLANE DROPS -- actual SCREAMS from some -- the LIGHTS IN THE CABIN DIM -- the LIGHTNING BRIGHTENS as if they're now flying through the center of the Goddamn storm.

A GERMAN PA ANNOUNCEMENT from the cockpit doesn't help anyone who speaks only English -- and Troubled seems to suddenly be in far worse shape -- a sort of atypical PAIN. Indian Man, watching this, concerned, says:

INDIAN MAN
-- my friend--?

But Troubled is so fucking uncomfortable that he UNDOES HIS SEAT BELT and heads for the bathroom. He moves down the ROUGH and ROCKING cabin. A dozen rows behind him, a FLIGHT ATTENDANT strapped to her bulkhead emergency seat sees Troubled and calls, in a German accent:

FLIGHT ATTENDANT
Sir, excuse me! You must stay in your seat!

But he keeps going -- and so she reluctantly unbuckles and stands -- grasping row after row as she moves for him -- he's well ahead of her, having even more difficulty walking as the plane struggles through the erratically blinding storm --

FLIGHT ATTENDANT (CONT'D)
-- Sir! You have to sit down!

But Troubled keeps going -- STUMBLING -- we're ONLY ON HIS BACK NOW as he heads away from us -- from her --

FLIGHT ATTENDANT (CONT'D)
Entschuldigen Sie mich., geehrten
Herrn, bitte! Gehen Sie zu Ihrem
Sitz zuruck!

Troubled keeps going, steadying himself on the seat backs as he moves -- the Flight Attendant gaining. Practically the only light we get now is from the WILD LIGHTNING and SEAT BELT lights -- and finally she catches up to him -- reaches out, grabs his shoulder -- and she turns him toward her -- toward us -- AND HIS FACE IS A THING OF HORROR: HIS FLESH LIQUIFYING - FUCKING MELTING - HIS EYES BALLOONED IN UTTER FEAR -- and the Flight Attendant's eyes go wide in a terrifying PRE-SCREAM GASP as Troubled GRABS HER ARM -- and she SCREAMS BLOODY FUCKING MURDER --

-- and THOSE WHO SEE HIM DO TOO -- and if this isn't enough, Troubled THROWS UP ON HER - and she stumbles back, SCREAMING and the jet momentarily PLUMMETS again! Troubled FALLS BACK as the Flight Attendant gets up, covered in bile and in shock and she runs toward the back of the plane as we realize we've been HEARING SOMEONE ELSE YELL -- not in English or German, but in HINDI. The Flight Attendant runs past INDIAN MAN -- WHOSE FACE IS FUCKING MELTING NOW TOO - HE'S LOSING HIS MIND -- LOOKING AT HIS HANDS - THE FLESH PAINFULLY LIQUIFYING!

-- Indian Man stands -- hurries in a panic toward the front of the plane -- passing ANOTHER PASSENGER, who STANDS in crazy alarm -- SCREAMING IN GERMAN -- HER FLESH DISINTEGRATING TOO:

GERMAN WOMAN
Helfen Sie mir! Was? geschieht!
HILFE!

Indian Man runs PAST -- RIGHT OVER -- the VISCOUS, BONE AND MUSCLE CORPSE of TROUBLED as another FLIGHT ATTENDANT makes a frantic call on the service phone --

FRANTIC FLIGHT ATTENDANT
Kapitan, haben wir etwa--!

The LIGHTENING STORM IMPOSSIBLY TURBULENT, ANOTHER seated PASSENGER is suddenly SCREAMING -- HIS BODY COMING APART.

Then ANOTHER -- now the TEENAGER with PSP -- now the OVERWEIGHT WOMAN -- now the ELDERLY COUPLE -- and we PULL BACK AT HIGH VELOCITY, LENS WIDE, WHIPPING FROM SIDE TO SIDE AT THE HORROR SHOW OF EVERY SCREAMING PASSENGER, AFFLICTED, GROTESQUE -- lit by BURSTS OF LIGHTENING --

And we PUSH IN now as the CO-PILOT opens the cockpit door and looks back, seeing the plane -- EVERYONE ON THE PLANE -- SCREAMING, MELTING -- DYING -- the Pilot hits AUTO-PILOT, turns back, yells:

PILOT
SPRECHEN SIE MIT MIR!

THE CO-PILOT TURNS TO US - HIS FACE ALREADY STARTING TO DRIP BLOOD AND FLESH AND OFF THE PILOT'S TERROR-SCREAM CUT TO:

EXT. SKY - NIGHT

The jumbo jet, flying in the awful storm. A sarcophagus, at forty-thousand feet. The cause of this gruesome event an absolute mystery. And things are about to get weirder.

And as if to announce this fact, from the VERY EDGES OF FRAME, WHITE LETTERS APPEAR -- and CONVERGE NEAR THE RIGHT SIDE OF FRAME as the rest of the image, the background, TURNS GREY -- and our short but spooky THEME PLAYS as the LETTERS TURN BLACK -- AND SPELL, SIMPLY:

F R I N G E

FADE IN:

EXT. TURNPIKE MOTEL - NIGHT

A cheap-ass motel. An old neon TURNPIKE MOTEL sign. The constant SQUEAKING of a flimsy BOX SPRING is HEARD -- and as we DOLLY IN, WORDS FADE IN (NOTE: A SIGNATURE OF THE SERIES WILL BE HOW LOCATIONS ARE IDENTIFIED -- WORDS WILL APPEAR THREE-DimensionALLY, AS IF EXISTING WITHIN THE SPACE). In this case they read: "LEXINGTON, MASSACHUSETTES", PUSH PAST THE WORDS to -

INT. TURNPIKE MOTEL ROOM - NIGHT

A small motel room. A WOMAN falls back, into frame, lying on the bed. She's naked. Glistening. Smiling. Out of breath. She's 32 years old, beautiful, but real. A deceiving innocence. Her name is OLIVIA WARREN. This is our woman.

Suffice to say, the SQUEAKING has ceased.

OLIVIA
... oh my God.

And she starts laughing. A male VOICE, off-camera, says:

MAN (O.S.)
-- what?

OLIVIA
This bed is ridiculous. It's like the loudest bed in the history of cheap motel beds.

MAN (O.S.)
-- and you would know this how?

She smiles as he, past her, lies back into frame. This is Olivia's love. He is 41. Handsome. Tough, but kind. His name's JOHN SCOTT. Also out of breath.

JOHN
This is so much better than that policy seminar.

OLIVIA
Oh, thank you, a compliment.

He takes her hand, they lie there.

JOHN
I was losing my mind, that meeting was endless. I kept finding myself staring at you. I actually had to turn my chair to stop.

OLIVIA
We can't keep doing this. Sneaking around...

JOHN
The department's not a massive fan of office romances - as recent events demonstrate.

OLIVIA
Dryden seeing Lynch had nothing to do with why he was demoted-- you don't see any irony in what we're doing?

JOHN

Is knowing the assistant manager of the Turnpike motel by name ideal? No. Is being with you worth the subterfuge? Yes.

OLIVIA

I feel like I'm living in a Charlotte Bronte novel. Which is now how I envisioned my early thirties. I think Charlie knows anyway.

JOHN

He doesn't know.

OLIVIA

I think he does --

JOHN

If he knew, you'd be transferred.

This quiets her. Then:

JOHN (CONT'D)

I like Charlie. But if there was ever a by-the-booker, it's him. He'd let Jakes know faster than you can say "good soldier". I'm not afraid of transparency-- but we're already working for a Department that's as unstable and fluid as they come and somehow? We found each other. And in the madness of what we've been seeing lately... I've taken great solace in being with you. Now if that's the kind of information that makes you back away, so be it. 'Cause this is all preamble to the kicker, which is that I love you.

(beat, that was a first)

And the idea of an old boy's club wonder making the call whether or not you and I get to live in the same city is unacceptable to me. So forgive my...furtive nature, it's got nothing whatsoever to do with protocol or decorum or enjoying the status quo -- this is about you. I don't want to lose... you.

Olivia stares. Taken by his honesty and heart -- and she kisses him -- and it quickly gets passionate again -- and they're definitely going for another round when a CELL PHONE RINGS -- they both moan at the interruptus. Olivia reaches over, answers:

OLIVIA
Agent Warren.
(listens, sits)
Okay. Are there any more details \ than--?
(beat, concern)
Yessir.

Olivia hangs up.

OLIVIA (CONT'D)
Incident at Logan Airport, International flight, Charlie's on his way.

John nods, and they're both up, getting dressed.

OLIVIA (CONT'D)
Hey, in the spirit of our talk... you should get there a few minutes after me. We arrived pretty close last time.

JOHN
Now you're being paranoid.

OLIVIA
Maybe - Logan: access gate at Runway 15R

CLOSE ON AN OPEN BADGE WALLET on the desk -- a FEDERAL AGENT BADGE. Olivia, dressed, grabs it -- then moves to John, kisses him sweetly -- about to say something -- but doesn't. She grabs her keys and leaves. John stands there, in the wake of her tornado. Alone. Amused. Then his cell RINGS. He answers, already knowing it all:

JOHN
Agent Scott.

EXT. LOGAN AIRPORT - NIGHT

PUSH IN, past the (signature, three-dimensional) WORDS THAT FADE IN: "LOGAN INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT - BOSTON" - this is an access gate -- three POLICE CARS are here, lights BLAZING, FLASHING in the night.

Olivia pulls up in her black hybrid Lexus, shows her creds.

OLIVIA
Olivia Warren, FBI.

Guards check her ID, squawk walkies, wave her in. BOOM UP to reveal the JUMBO JET from the opening, a light-show of two dozen EMERGENCY VEHICLES, including a CRANE, surrounding it. Olivia parks, gets out -- crosses half a dozen FEDERAL AGENTS, all ARGUING issues of protocol, information, jurisdiction. An angry, heated fight. Olivia continues past them, met by 43 year-old fellow Agent CHARLIE FRANCIS.

CHARLIE
Inter-agency harmony and cooperation continues.

OLIVIA
Who's winning?

CHARLIE
Langley by a nose.
(then, re: jet)
Flight out of Hamburg -- hundred and forty-seven passengers, towers lost contact three hours in. Thought there might've been some electrical interference, apparently they were flying in a hell of a storm. They entered our airspace radio silent -- Navy scrambled two F-18's for escort. They reported stains on the windows...and no signs of life aboard the jet.

This stop Olivia -- she looks up at the jet -- the cabin is too dark for her to see anything.

OLIVIA
Stains?

CHARLIE
Blood.

OLIVIA
I'm surprised they let 'em land --
"No signs of life" -- who was flying the plane, auto-pilot?

CHARLIE

Programmed to land right on schedule, which it did. Unlike every flight I've ever taken.

OLIVIA

If there was a decompression the windows would have frozen solid -- have they opened the cabin?

CHARLIE

White House approved a CDC request for the jet not to be opened until they arrive.

Behind them, a BLACK VAN arrives. The drive gets out - it's JOHN, on a cell:

JOHN

let me assure you, we'd be happy to treat you like family too.

(hangs up, grins)

Good old NTSB. All like to think they're cops.

CHARLIE

Agent Scott.

JOHN

Agent Francis --

(no special regard)

Agent Warren.

Their relationship, their secret. She turns back to Charlie:

OLIVIA

They must've looked in through the windows...

CHARLIE

CIA did. Whatever the hell's inside that plan made Special Agent McNeary throw up in front of his whole unit. And he's a good man, that was embarrassing.

A finger-to-mouth WHISTLE turns everyone to PHILLIP BROYLES, SPECIAL-AGENT-IN CHARGE from HOMELAND SECURITY. Broyles is a bureaucratic Hitler, with authority to puppeteer the Federal and International agencies on-scene:

BROYLES

Although this is a join task force, this investigation will be run through HDS - I'm Special Agent in Charge Broyles! DC has sent me here to make sure we get results. As soon as our friends from Atlanta get here we're going in, one member from each agency on the starting line as follow -

(reads a card)

CIA: Baronoff! FBI: Francis! DHS:
Pitts!

(MORE)

BROYLES (CON'D)

Contagion precautions apply: level four HAZ-MAT suits, we should have your size in the van! Move!

Agents on the move, Olivia, disturbed, goes after Broyles:

OLIVIA

Sir: Olivia Warren, FBI Inter-agency liaison, I'm EOD and NBC certified, I'd like to suit up too--

BROYLES

Liaison on an inter-agency task force. Gotta love that. Like powdered sugar on a glazed donut.

OLIVIA

Excuse me, if I'm gonna do my job effectively, I like my information first-hand -- that's not redundancy, that's accountability.

BROYELS

(sotto, threatening)

I know exactly who you are. You put my best friend in prison two years ago.

(she's stunned, louder:)

You want in, Liaison? Suit up.

And the bully walks off - Olivia watches him go, indignant.

EXT./INT. JET - NIGHT

VARIOUS SHOTS as CDC MEDICAL OFFICERS connect an AIRLOCK to a door outside the plane -- a twelve-foot-long elevated corridor with three clean-room compartments. A staircase leads up to it.

Now there are FOUR CDC OFFICERS in HAZ-MAT suits. They start up the stairs. Following them are Olivia, Charlie and the rest of the appointed agents, also in HAZ-MATS. At first, NO MUSIC. Just the odd collage of oxygen tanks: INHALE... EXHALE...

The CDC Officer pulls out the recessed jet door handle. Turns it. The HISS of DECOMPRESSION. TIGHT ON OLIVIA'S EYES as she anxiously watches the plane DOOR OPEN. Darkness and mist inside. Their FLASHLIGHTS come alive: CLICK, CLICK, CLICK, CLICKCLICK. And they enter.

Olivia's eyes GO WIDE at what she sees.

CDC OFFICER
(filtered)
...holy God...

Red/white/blue FLASHES of emergency lights from outside and their flashlights the only illumination. Every passenger dead. Unrecognizable. Crumple CLOTHES lie in GELATIN, BLOOD and BONE. Tears come to Olivia's eyes - her breathing uneven as she moves through the plane. Charlie sees this:

CHARLIE
Warren...you okay?

OFF OLIVIA'S STARING EYES, answering that question...

EXT. LOGAN AIRPORT - NIGHT

Where Olivia drove in -- a passing WHITE VAN stops -- all windows TINTED. Even the front windshield has mild shading. The driver's window LOWERS a few inches, we don't yet see the silhouetted DRIVER who asks on of the GUARDS about the POLICE ACTIVITY surrounding the plane on the distant tarmac:

DRIVER
Excuse me -- what's going on? Some sort of problem?

GUARD
Nothing you need to know about, sir -- please keep moving.

PUSH IN on the Driver as he leans into the light -- REVEALING THAT HE'S THE SAME MAN WE SAW FROM THE AIRPLANE -- THE ONE WHO INJECTED HIMSELF - WHO MELTED FIRST: TROUBLED!

DRIVER

Okay...I'll do that. Thanks.

And with an eerily satisfied smile, the Driver DRIVES AWAY.
And as our minds somersault, we CUT TO:

TELEVISION SCREENS -- DOLLY PAST an array of TV MONITORS of NEWSCASTS all reporting on the plane -- LONG LENS SHOTS OF THE AIRLINER on the tarmac, NOW ENGULFED IN FLAMES. Over this, REPORTERS, some outside Logan, others in newsrooms:

VARIOUS REPORTERS

--sources tell us the plane was deliberately set ablaze by the CDC shortly after landing/speculate some kind of hazardous materials on-board Flight 627/security has been increased in most airports, with many canceling out-bound flights --

Someone CROSSES -- FOLLOW HIM TO REVEAL we're in:

INT. FEDERAL BUILDING - BOSTON - EARLY MORNING

-- FORTY FEDERAL AND LOCAL AGENTS shout over and at each other -- reports, paperwork and food everywhere as we SNAP AROUND THE ROOM lightning fast, getting snippets as our 3D letters bleed in: "SITUATION ROOM - FEDERAL BUILDING, BOSTON". On a dry-erase board are the PASSENGER NAMES; agents racing down the manifest, pulling up profiles:

AGENT #1

-- Seat 21A: John Rosenbloom;
Honolulu, Hawaii; car salesman, criminal history's negative

Agent #2

-- 43B: Ellie Sampson;
Jacksonville, Florida; FINSON
checks negative, intelligence community checks negative --

Agent #3

--we need everything on every vendor that loaded food and beverage carts, ground crew who fueled the aircraft, we need names—

Agent #4

-- report says maintenance replaced oxygen tanks an hour before takeoff—

Also here: Olivia, a voice in the cacophony, a face in the loud crowd - she and Broyles facing off:

OLIVIA

Have we reviewed video from the Hamburg Airport? We need to see if any passengers were showing signs of illness -- and tell me that terminal's shut-down.

--yeah, a few hundred more: who's point from CDC on the bone, tissue and air samples? -- no, but I'd like the whole report, not just this fax claiming that there's no matches to any known pathogen or airborne virus --

BROYLES

--on it's way now -- and what the hell's taking so long with the black box?

--the terminal's been down since oh-four-hundred local-- you got more questions?

-- Agent Paley, you want his home number?

-- we're on that too, Liason -- we don't think what happened on that plane was a result of the in-flight movie.

CHARLIE

(gets off phone)

-- Back Bay PD got a call at oh-three-hundred from a guard-on-duty at a storage facility who saw two -- and I quote "suspicious Middle Eastern men" handing a white guy a briefcase.

BROYLES

That could be a purchase.

AGENT #1

-- you're saying the plane was a demonstration of technology they sold later that night?

BROYLES

Maybe, maybe not -- wouldn't be uncommon in the underground weapons trade--

(to Olivia)

Liaison: take it, go find out.

OLIVIA

--take what? That? You want me to investigate that?

BROYLES

(sarcastic)

Sounds like a hot lead-- you want to liaise? Now's your big chance.

Everyone heard that. An embarrassing moment, intended that way. She wants to lay in on him -- but instead:

OLIVIA
While I'm out, you want me to pick up your dry cleaning?

Some HOLY SHIT looks from a few -- the table uncomfortably freezes -- but Broyles fucking likes kickback and smiles:

BROYLES
Yeah, Honey, would ya mind?

EXT. BACK BAY ROAD - DAY

Middle of nowhere, grey day. A govt-issue sedan FLIES through frame against rural farmland --

EXT. U-STORE STORAGE FACILITY - DAY

A MASSIVE STORAGE FACILITY. Our 3D letters bleed in: "U-STORE STORAGE -- BACK BAY, MASSACHUSETTS." The sedan pulls up. Olivia and John steps out.

EXT. U-STORE STORAGE FACILITY - DAY

Row after row of cinder-block, garage-sized units. Olivia and John look around.

OLIVIA
That wasn't too much, was it? The dry cleaning thing?

JOHN
By your standards I though it was pretty tame.

OLIVIA
Petty bastard-- he's pissed that his best friend sexually assaulted three Marine privates and I'm the bad guy 'cause I put him away.

JOHN
He's an idiot. You're smarter, stronger and more beautiful than he is, he's jealous.

She stops walking - after a few steps, he stops, turns back to her:

JOHN (CONT'D)

What?

OLIVIA

You said you loved me. In the motel. That was a big deal.

JOHN

Yeah, you didn't say anything back. I thought I'd let it go.

OLIVIA

It freaked me out. Not because it doesn't make me happy.

(beat)

I've been sort of...bad with this. For a long time. The alpha girl thing hasn't always gone over super-well.

(beat)

Until you.

(beat, sweetly awkward)

I wanted to say I love you, too.

He moves to her. Kisses her. Then, faux-romantically:

JOHN

Let's go check the trash together.

She laughs -- and we TIME JUMP to them going through a dumpster -- pulling out a DISCARDED, UNLABELED CHEMICAL CANISTER. Then ANOTHER. She opens one:

OLIVIA

Empty -- propane?

(sniffs the nozzle)

-- no -- it's ammonia.

JOHN

-- acetylene,

A look between them. He turns to the nearest STORAGE UNIT, emboldened, starts PICKING THE LOCK --

OLIVIA

What're you doing?

JOHN

What are you doing? I'm a Federal agent.

SNAP: the lock gives. He grabs the handle on the roll-up metal door and heaves, it SLIDES UP -- REVEALLING A FUCKING LABORATORY. Shelves filled with GAS CANISTERS, CHEMICAL BOTTLES, COOLING UNITS -- AND LARGE SPECIMEN JARS, FILLED WITH DISFIGURED SMALL ANIMALS...

Olivia and John trade a look: holy shit.

SMASH CUT TO another roll-up metal door SLIDING UP -- ANOTHER LAB; VACUUM EQUIPMENT, RADIOLOGICAL SUITS, ELECTRON MICROSCOPES, IMAGE ANALYSIS EQUIPMENT, AND THREE CAGES CONTAINING SMALL, MUTATED, VISCOUS CREATURES.

And then ANOTHER -- and ANOTHER -- all the labs dangerous, lethal--

JOHN (CONT'D)

We gotta get a chem transport team out here now -

OLIVIA

I'm on it.
(but:)
-- no signal --

She heads away to make the call...

TIMECUT: A NEARBY FIELD -- Olivia on her cell, moving for a better signal --

OLIVIA (CONT'D)

We need PPE and emergency equipment, HAZ-MAT specialists for site analysis--

WITH JOHN

Another roll-up metal door SLIDES UP revealing more LAB SPACE -- he moves into it cautiously, checking out equipment - sees a COMPUTER MONITOR -- sees on the screen: PROGRAMS RUNNING, BALANCING CHEMICAL EQUATIONS. TIGHT ON JOHN'S FACE, eyes wide like he's hit paydirt -- then, behind him, forty feet away, another storage unit opens -- a FIGURE APPEARING INSIDE -- another LAB behind him -- and HOLY SHIT, IT'S THE DRIVER -- THE MAN FROM THE PLANE: TROUBLED!

John turns -- sees him -- Troubled's eyes go wide -- AND HE RUNS -- John pulls his gun -- runs after him --

Troubled is FAST -- turning a far corner in the maze of storage units -- and John runs after him -- pulling out his phone and hitting speed-dial -- but he gets NO SIGNAL --

JOHN

-- damnit--

He tries again -- as we CUT TO:

OLIVIA running back -- her PHONE RINGS -- she answers --

OLIVIA

John--

As John RACCES through the facility -- reception BREAKIG UP --

JOHN

I've got a runner! He's heading for the back!

OLIVIA

I'm on my way!

-- and Olivia runs toward the back as John runs -- and we're MOVING FAST, INTERCUTTING between Troubled, John and Olivia -- a cat and mouse chase --

Troubled -- RUNNING -- pulls out a PHONE, dials a number, hits send, but doesn't bring the phone to his ear --

INSIDE THE SHEDS - CIRCUIT DETONATORS MOUNTED ON THE CEILING ACTIVATE, A GREEN LIGHT SNAPS ON -- A SPARK AND FLASH AND SUDDENLTy IT IGNITES, FLAME TRAILS ROCKETING UP THE WALLS --

OLIVIA running, HEARS GUNSHOTS -- she goes faster -- rounds a corner -- sees Scott --

OLIVIA (CONT'D)

JOHN!!!

Suddenly: KABOOOOOOM!!! THE FIRST SHED DETONATES -- JOHN DISAPPEARS IN A BLAST OF CHEMICAL GREEN -- now the NEXT SHED
BLOWS - and Olivia's HURLED backwards as the place continues to EXPLODE! CLOSE ON OLIVIA ON THE GROUND -- ULTRA-SLOW MOTION as debris rains down -- she's BLEEDING from her scalp -- her eyes slowly open wide -- the WHITE NOISE overwhelms us and we --

SLAM TO BLACK.

END ACT ONE

ACT TWO

INT. MILITARY MEDICAL CENTER - DAY

WHIP PAN TO OLIVIA -- still bleeding -- WHEELED IN on a gurney at speed - two EMT's with an ORDERLY who applies pressure to her shoulder wound. Olivia's in pain -- suppressing tears -- asking questions no one will answer --

OLIVIA

-- where's John-- is he okay?

Agent Scott, where is he?!

Is he all right?!

-- a DOCTOR arrives, injecting her IV bag with MORPHINE --

OLIVIA (CONT'D)

-- no-- wait-- please...please...

-- and as Olivia begins to pass out, JUMP CUT TO:

INT. HOSPITAL ROOM - DAY

Olivia STARTS awake - disoriented. Her head bandaged, facial wounds treated. She realizes she's alone in a strange room, machines watch her vitals. Without much thought, she pulls the wires off (ALARMS sound), rips the IV out, stands, and in her hospital gown, moves to --

INT. HOSPITAL HALLWAY - DAY

She heads down the corridor as a NURSE approaches --

NURSE

Ms. Warren, you shouldn't be up--

OLIVIA

I need to see John Scott-- do you know what room he's in?

The Nurse just stares at Olivia...whose eyes fill with tears. At a whisper, she asks:

OLIVIA

--what--? What is it?

DOCTOR (O.S.)

Agent Warren --

Olivia turns -- a 60 year-old Hispanic DOCTOR (DR. REYES) moves to her. Clearly, he has bad news.

DR. REYES
 I'm Dr. Reyes. You were very lucky today. Your wounds could easily have been much more severe--

OLIVIA
 --I'm looking for Agent
 Scott, he was with me--

DR. REYES
 In addition to the injuries he sustained from the blast...Mr.
 Scott was exposed to synthetic chemical compounds. Work that was apparently being done in those labs you found.

OLIVIA
 (brace, but tears come)
 -- what-- what sort of--?

DR. REYES
 We haven't been able to identify the substance that's affecting him.
 The CDC has sent in other specialists. But they've never seen anything like what's happening
 here.

PUSH IN OLIVIA, her quiet terror, our TENSE MUSIC GROWING.

OLIVIA
 ...what is happening?

INT. QUARANTINE AREA - DAY

SLOW MOTION as OLIVIA MOVES THOROUGH DOORS MARKED
 "QUARANTINE". A WHITE CORRIDOR. HEAR THEIR TALK CONTINUE:

DR. REYES (V.O.)
 We've put Mr. Scott in a drug-induced coma. His body temperature has been lowered significantly , to try and slow the progress.

OLIVIA (V.O.)
 The progress of what? Please...

DR. REYES (V.O.)
 One way to describe it is that he's been infected. But it isn't a virus. It isn't a bacteria. And what it's doing...is most unusual...

She enters a PLASTIC CLEAN AREA, then a STERILE, REFRIGERATED HOSPITAL ROOM.

Olivia's BREATH is seen as she emotionally approaches JOHN, unconscious under a separate CLEAR PLASTIC TENT, seriously wounded and barely alive at 37 degrees.

DR. REYES (V.O.) (CONT'D)
His tissue is hardening. And somehow...clarifying. His skin becoming almost glass-like.

She gets close enough -- more afraid and sad with each step -- sees areas of John's skin, on his chest, neck, face -- have become CLEAR -- revealing the MUSCLE and VEINS beneath -- Olivia's eyes widen...

DR. REYES (V.O.) (CONT'D)
And it's spreading. Soon his organs will shut down. Unless we can learn more about what's infected Mr. Scott -- the compounds he was exposed to...he'll be dead within a week.

And OFF OLIVIA'S DEVASTATED FACE, CUT TO:

COMPUTER SCREEN - EXTREME CLOSEUP

The FBI SECURITY INTER-OFFICE DATABASE. The SEARCH box. CUTS as VARIOUS WORDS are TYPED IN: "MEDICAL", "INFECTION", "TISSUE", "CHEMICAL", "HARDENING", "CLARIFYING" - and the HUNDREDS OF RELATED ARTICLES that pop up --

INT. OLIVIA'S OFFICE - NIGHT

She sits at her desk in her darkened office -- has been there for hours. Eyes red, worn, she types with hands that have SMALL CUTS from the explosion. She jots down things that matter. VARIOUS SHOTS of CLICKING, TYPING, WRITING, RESEARCHING, the related articles that appear ON SCREEN: HOSPITAL RECORDS, PHYSICIAN REPORTS, INTERNATIONAL MEDICAL REPORTS, ARTICLES -- and then a name:

DR. WALTER BISHOP.

TIGHT on Olivia's face -- as she seems to notice something -- she quickly TYPES -- "DISSOLVE" and "FLESH" -- ENTER - another LONG ARTICLE -- CLASSIFIED, FBI, 1982 -- SCROLLS DOWN -- finding, once again:

DR. WALTER BISHOP.

No WAY. She types more -- PUSHING IN -- her eyes now determined, driven -- and whatever she sees makes her get up, quickly, and move to --

INT. FEDERAL BUILDING - CORRIDOR/OFFICE - NIGHT

Fast, HANDHELD down the hall -- Olivia turns into an open office door to find Broyles at his desk, haggard and ready for an all-nighter. She knocks as she enters:

OLIVIA
It's me: Liaison.

BROYLES
I told you to go home an hour ago--

OLIVIA
(drops a file on his desk)
I found a connection between the Hamburg flight and what's happened to Agent Scott.

Broyles opens the file: BLACK AND WHITE PRINTOUT of BISHOP, stamped CLASSIFIED. A printed PHOTO of him from the early 1980's. Handsome, 30's. Even in this photo, he's ingenious.

OLIVIA (CONT'D)
His name's Walter Bishop.
Scientific researcher from Cambridge, born in 46, Harvard educated, post-grad at MIT and Oxford. Look at the experiments he was doing in the late 70's, early 80's.

Broyles keeps reading, intrigued....

BROYLES
Where'd you find this?

OLIVIA
Our database -- I believe Dr. Bishop might have information that could save Agent Scott's life- - and maybe shed some light on what happened aboard that plane.

BROYLES
Says the guys been at St. Claire's for seventeen years.

OLIVIA

I saw that. An assistant of his was killed in his lab -- rumors about Dr. Bishop using humans as guinea pigs.

(MORE)

OLIVIA (CONT'D)

He was charged with voluntary manslaughter but was deemed mentally unfit to stand trial.

BROYLES

So you're saying our prime suspect's a guy who's been institutionalized for almost two decades? Explain that.

OLIVIA

I'd need to talk to him first. Maybe he's not a suspect at all, maybe someone got hold of his work--

BROYLES

Why're you so sure Bishop's worth our time?

OLIVIA

Why are you sure he's not?

BROYLES

Listen, Warren. You and I got off on the wrong foot--

OLIVIA

Sir, if my past job performance as U.S. Marine Special Investigator offends you, there--

BROYLES

Yeah, it does -- a man who serves his country for thirty years, has a few drinks and a small lapse in judgment doesn't deserve a five year sentence--

OLIVIA

-- a small lapse in judgment that will haunt three young women for the rest of their lives--

BROYLES

--but that's not tonight's business, is it? DC has tasked me with keeping our collective cool here. Making sure our reaction to Flight 627 is measured, above-board and beyond reproach.

(re: file)

BROYLES (CONT'D)

Says here in 1991 the glorious state of Massachusetts forbade Dr. Bishop to have visitors, with the exception of immediate family. So from where I sit -- which is in a superior, senior and less comfortable chair -- barging into a mental institution waving the Patriot Act -- which is what you'd need -- and demanding face time with an old lab rat you think may be behind some of the most terrifying terror I could imagine -- even though he hasn't seen daylight since this country's biggest threat was Kuwait -- is out of the question.

OLIVIA

I'm coming to you with a solid lead and your personal resentment is preventing you from--

BROYLES

--ma'am, you are wasting our breath and my time!
(re: the file, tough)
"Immediate family." You wanna question Dr. Bishop, go find his next of kin and have 'em escort you in. Talk to Bishop. Uncover something substantial and I'll have your back-- until then, I'm not so convinced. Can you handle that?

OLIVIA

(quiet, pissed)
...he does have a son.

BROYLES

Good. Is he son local, too?

OLIVIA
 (fuck)
 ...not exactly.

EXT. BAGHDAD, IRAQ - DAY

PUSH IN as a MILITARY HUMMER passes, revealing a village piazza with an old fortress at one end and a BRAND-SPANKING NEW BUILDING at the other. 3D letters appear: "AL-SAREED HOTEL - BAGHDAD, IRAQ."

OLIVIA (V.O.)
 He's a high school dropout. IQ at 190, which is fifty points north of genius. Misfit. Nomad. Hasn't kept a job longer than two months.

A TAXI pulls up in front and a MAN gets out. This is PETER BISHOP. 35, handsome, fit. A quick glance and you see a swagger. Drive, confidence. A closer look shows a sadness. Desperation. We'll learn more -- but for now, just know Peter is our third lead. He looks up at the building, readying himself.

OLIVIA (V.O.) (CONT'D)
 He's been a wildland fireman, an Alaskan crab fisherman, truck mechanic, a cargo pilot and, briefly, a college chemistry professor. He falsified a degree from MIT, and even managed to get a few papers published before he was found out. Sounds like a massive pain in the ass.

INT. HOTEL ROOM - CONTINUOUS

Sunlight streams onto faded carpets. The atmosphere as thick as it is hot. Peter sits in a chair facing TWO IRAQI BUSINESSMEN; one wearing an Armani suit and yellow-tinted glasses -- the other, older one, in double-breasted pinstripes:

PETER
 My resume is hardly traditional. But in these parts, traditional seems increasingly irrelevant. A hundred billion dollars sunk into infrastructure, you're barely keeping the lights on. So. You need construction oversight of a 600 mile pipeline to carry crude from the field at Kirkuk to the Port of Ceyhan. A job well outside the Green zone, I might add while I'm still alive to do so. You'll need someone with a handle on the laws of hydrodynamic resistance -- heat exchange in oil mixture flow -- a working knowledge of mixed integer programs so you can re-size the pipes you're gonna use across uneven terrain, that's if you wanna minimize construction costs.

(a touch of urgency)

PETER (CONT'D)

It's the Wild West here guys, I get it. And you need a sheriff. So gimme a badge and I'll wear it. The punch line is, I need this job as much as you need me to do it.

And there's a creepy pause: the Iragis are impressed but unsure. Glasses looks to Pinstripes, murmurs in ARABIC. Pinstripes talks Arabic back. Peter leans in --

PETER (CONT'D)

I speak Arabic too. And yes, six-hundred grand all-in sounds fair.

The men look at him, caught off guard. Peter grins. PRELAP an elevator DING and --

INT. HOTEL LOBBY CONTINUOUS

Peter walks out with the gait of a gambler who just won a game -- and a reprieve. It's sweltering, even with all the fans in the lobby. As he heads for the exit:

WOMAN'S VOICE

Mr. Bishop?

He turns, fast: OLIVIA approaches. She shows her badge:

OLIVIA

I'm Olivia Warren, with the FBI.

PETER

(suspicious)

Okay.

OLIVIA

You've heard about flight 627.

PETER

The Hamburg flight, yeah.

OLIVIA

You may be able to help us with that.

PETER

Then you must have the wrong guy.

OLIVIA

I don't think so. You're Walter Bishop's son.

At the mention of the name, Peter bristles.

PETER

Last time someone asked me that it was an accusation.

OLIVIA

He's the man we're looking to speak with. But given his current status...you're the only one who can provide us access.

PETER

What possible help could that man be? And what do you want me to go back with you to Massachusetts? Honey, I just got here.

OLIVIA

I can have you on return-flight here in four days, fi--

PETER

Let's out it this way: I'd rather stay here. In Iraq. That's how much I want to see my father.

OLIVIA

You have no obligation to help. Of course. So...I'm gonna be you. One human being to another. Mr. Bishop, your father may be able to save someone who's dying. Someone I care about very much.

He almost half-considers, then:

PETER

Sweetheart, we're all in love with someone who's dying. I'm sorry.
Excuse me.

And Peter walks off. She watches him go, as angry as she is heartsick. Then she says, loudly, strongly:

OLIVIA

I know why you're here.

And Peter stops.

OLIVIA (CONT'D)

I have your file.

PETER

Which file.

OLIVIA

The one CIA would say doesn't exist. And it was everything.
Where you've been. What you're running from. And what you need while you're here.

His fucking stare says it: she's got him

OLIVIA (CONT'D)

Either you come back with me. Or I let certain people know your whereabouts. Your call.

Whatever the hell she's talking about, he's pissed. Still, he suddenly smiles, as if everything been fine all along:

PETER

Hey, what time do we leave?

And OFF OLIVIA, simultaneously satisfied and also dreading what comes next, we...

CUT TO BLACK.

END ACT TWO

ACT THREE

EXT AIRPLANE - NIGHT

A G5 flies across the sky.

INT. AIRPLANE - NIGHT

Olivia is on a cell phone, concerned, quiet --

OLIVIA

Did the doctors say anything else?
Did they explain how it was "getting worse", or--? Were they trying anything...?

(listens, bad news)

...yeah. Thanks, Charlie. Yeah,
I'll see you at home.

She hangs up. Stares off. Peter then sits beside her.

PETER

Everything okay?

OLIVIA

No. No, but your being here gives me hope.

PETER

Let me ask you something. So, my father. Not my favorite.

OLIVIA

Yeah, I vaguely got that impression.

PETER

You don't know him. He's the most self-absorbed, abusive, brilliant, twisted, myopic son-of-a-bitch on the planet. My mother, if she were still alive, would break down in tears then promptly agree with me.

(beat)

He was a chemist, that I know.
That he worked in a basement lab at Harvard, doing research for a toothpaste company. Developing flavors. Back in the day before gels or cinnamon-vanilla-mint. I know that there was an accident in the lab one night -- a fire.

PETER (CONT'D)

That someone died and my father was arrested -- the first truly peaceful period in our time. And the last time I saw him. I know that while still in custody he suffered a nervous breakdown and was thrown in St. Clair's, where he's been ever since.

(beat)

My gut tells me your friend's life -
- the one that hangs in the balance
--isn't going to be saved by a tube of Pepsodent.

OLIVIA

Have you asked me your question yet?

PETER

Who was he. My father.

OLIVIA

(beat, then)

He worked out of Harvard. But not on toothpaste. He was part of a classified U.S. Army experimental program called Kelvin Labs. They considered him a great genius.

PETER

Yeah, I remembered "brilliant", remember? Between "abusive" and "twisted".

OLIVIA

They gave him the resources to do whatever work he wanted, which was primarily in an area called Fringe Science. He conceived experiments meant to push the boundaries of possibility. And, some would say, ethics.

PETER

Fringe science-- you mean "pseudoscience."

OLIVIA

I suppose. Things like mind control. Teleportation. Astral projection, invisibility, genetic mutation, reanimation, fertility -

PETER

Waitwaitwait-- stop.

He just stares at her -- taken aback by this --

PETER (CONT'D)

Reanimation. You telling me what. My father was Dr. Frankenstein?

OLIVIA

(awkward beat)

Maybe this explains some of your father's behavior. Knowing that he was working on things...other than toothpaste.

PETER

Yeah. Yeah, childhood solved. Thanks.

And Peter gets up and walks away from her. TIGHT ON Olivia's face...and our MUSIC BUILDS AND CONTINUES OVER:

EXT. MASSACHUSETTES ROAD - DAY

A grey countryside. 3D LETTERS FADE IN: "ESSEX COUNTY, MASSACHUSETTS" and they FADE OUT as Olivia's black car drives along -- passing a sign that reads, "ST. CLARIE'S - 3 MILES".

EXT. ST. CLAIRE'S - DAY

The MUSIC CONTINUES as we find a cold, VA-looking building in the midst of beautiful countryside. A SIGN, "ST CLAIRE'S HOSPITAL". PUSH IN as Olivia's car arrives, she and Peter step out. Olivia and Peter enter.

INT. ST. CLAIR'S - CORRIDOR - DAY

MUSIC PLAYS as Olivia and Peter are led by an ORDERLY through a SECURITY DOOR, then down a long, tiled hallway. Peter, pale, STOPS. Olivia turns to him--

PETER

You go ahead.

(beat)

I'm gonna...wait. In the lobby.

Their eyes meet -- he's clearly unable to go through with seeing his father for the first time in seventeen years. Olivia nods, and Peter walks off. She then follows the Orderly to a solid CELL DOOR, with a wired-glass window. The Orderly unlocks it. Peeks in, says to someone we don't see:

ORDERLY

Dr. Bishop. Special day. You have a visitor.

Orderly opens the door -- Olivia peers inside. HOLD on her for a beat before we CUT to the reverse. And there he is.

DR. WALTER BISHOP. Early 60's. Long, long beard, straw-grey hair. Sitting on the floor of a padded cell, wearing a charcoal jumpsuit and holding a book. He looks up at Olivia.

OLIVIA

Hello.

And he smiles. Warm. You like him instantly. And he says, with remarkable patience and sweetness:

WALTER

I knew someone would come eventually.

INT. ST. CLAIRE'S CAFETERIA - DAY

A big shiny, sterile, tile, empty cafeteria. Olivia sits uncertainly across from Walter, a large plastic cup of water before him. Sometimes he rocks a little, back and forth; a result of almost two decades of shock, drug and psychotherapy. Walter often holds up his left hand, his thumb playing with his fingers -- an odd nervous habit. When he's lucid, it's tenuous, like at any moment he'll go off the rails. The only other person here is the large Orderly, who stands near the door, just in case. A long beat before:

WALTER

And you said this was...this was when? When did this happen?

OLIVIA

The incident on the plane was four days ago. Agent Scott was injured the next day.

Walter thinks, hard, then suddenly SNEEZES, three times fast and fucking loud.

OLIVIA (CONT'D)
Bless you--

WALTER
And is the dermis-- thank you
-- the dermis already indurated? Translucent?
Muscular tissue visible?

OLIVIA (CONT'D)
-- on Scott--? You mean can you see through his skin? Yes...

WALTER
That's-- oh, that's not good. When you can see through skin. Tricky.
Advanced. Like that - tricky.
Tricktricktricky...

OLIVIA
What's happening to him - can it be reversed?

Walter looks off for a long beat, as if something horrible is occurring to him --

OLIVIA (CONT'D)
...what is it?

WALTER
(quietly)
They have this...horrible pudding.
Here. This...butterscotch pudding on Mondays. It's dreadful. Just occurred to me.

And Olivia's heart sinks: okay, he's crazy. This may be a bust. She says, deflated:

OLIVIA
...it's Thursday.

WALTER
Oh...that's fantastic news.

He looks at her -- and can see the judgment in her eyes.

WALTER (CONT'D)
I-- I'm sorry. That I'm like this now.

OLIVIA
-- oh-- no, no don't be sorry--

WALTER

I--I'm thinking things. Some things don't even make it. To my mouth. Some do, though.

(then)

This place... their... choice of therapies...

(and tears come to his Eyes)

...have consequ-cons-con-consequences.

Her heart almost breaks for him --

OLIVIA

-- it's okay, really --

WALTER

(suddenly back on track)

It can be reversed. What's happened to your colleague. Years ago I used lab animals. I recall that some became afflicted -- but were still saved.

OLIVIA

(suddenly: hope)

--so -- do you remember what to do?

WALTER

If your colleague has been exposed to a compound based on my work, two obvious questions arise.

(long beat)

Neither of which I remember.

Walter picks up the cup and starts to drink. And he doesn't stop -- drinks all of it, which takes a while -- spills some onto his jumpsuit. Olivia tries to maintain. Finally:

WALTER (CONT'D)

Oh yes -- how. Access. How did this individual, who must have significant scientific apprehension, access and then duplicate my work? And why? That's two questions-- one and a sub-query -- but I do have a third.

OLIVIA

Okay... which is..? Dr. Bishop?

He's looking deep into her eyes, as if reading her mind..

WALTER

Before the third question... you came here today... with my son.

She almost GASPS at this. How could he know?

WALTER (CONT'D)

I'm allowed no visitors, you see.
Save immediate family. Unless that order was lifted, it's a simple "if-then" formula: if you are here... then so is he.
(beat, sotto)

WALTER (CONT'D)

I would so... very much like to see him. So much.

INT. ST. CLAIRE'S LOBBY - DAY

Peter stands in the lobby, staring out the window. A desk, a guard. Olivia comes out -- Peter turns to her.

OLIVIA

He asked for you.

PETER

Oh. Thanks, sweetheart, I appreciate that --

OLIVIA

Hey. I didn't tell him you're here. And call me "sweetheart" one more time, I'd really like that.

Peter stares, pissed -- getting it: his father just figured it out. FUCK. The last thing he wants to do is see him.
After a painful beat, reluctantly, Peter walks past her --

INT. ST. CLAIRE'S CAFETERIA - DAY

Peter enters the cafeteria. Stops. Standing across from him, twenty feet away, is his father. Peter tries to seem impassive, but as he takes in the crazy-grey-bearded older man before him, there's vulnerability in his eyes.

Walter stares at Peter -- who he hasn't seen since his son was 18. A long beat. Then:

PETER

Hello.

WALTER

... I thought you'd be much fatter.

PETER

You thought I'd be fatter.

Excellent. First words, perfect.

WALTER

-- no, as a boy, you were rounder --

PETER

Yeah, until the summer of my senior year in high school -- not that I'm surprised you don't remem-- hey, what are you doing--?

Walter is MOVING CLOSE TO PETER -- who backs up -- the Orderly, there the whole time -- steps forward, just in case.

WALTER

--can I see something-- ?

PETER

--what the hell--?

--and Walter takes Peter's face -- PULLS UP PETER'S EYELIDS WITH HIS THUMBS -- checking his pupils -- Peter too stunned to stop him -- meanwhile behind Peter, Olivia enters, freaked out by what she sees --

PETER (CONT'D)

The hell are you TOUCHING me for?!

Irritated, Peter PUSHES Walter back, who has seen what he need to and is satisfied:

WALTER

Your pupils are good-- they're good--
- thank goodness.

(then, to Olivia, immediately)

--the third question is how advanced is your colleague's affliction? Something I'm not-- notnot-- unable to deduce in the absence of first-hand examination-- which is to say I must tergiversate.

OLIVIA
--you-- what?

PETER
--leave-- it's a fancy word for
"leave"--

WALTER
--I must see Mr. Scott myself - which I am unable to do under present law unless signed out by a legal guardian, which can only be...
(looks to Peter)
...once again... a relative.

PETER
Wait a minute -- what are you asking me to--? No.
(to Olivia)
Guardian? No -- forget it.

OLIVIA
(pissed, to Walter)
He'll do it.

PETER
I will not do it!

OLIVIA
One phone call, that's all it takes-
- you want me to make it?! 'Cause
I've got a phone in my pocket.

A fucking staring contest -- she whips out her phone -- a threat upon a threat:

OLIVIA (CONT'D)
Now it's OUT of my pocket.

Peter wants to kill her. He walks off, furiously stopping right beside her, saying at an almost-whisper:

PETER
You wanted my father, you got my father. This falls into the be careful what you wish for category.

Sweetheart.

He walks past her. Olivia is left there, looking up at Walter. Bracing herself for whatever's to come.

WALTER
 I don't really understand what just happened.

And off her look, MUSIC STARTS as we show:

OLIVIA

In a St. Claire's office, watching over Peter, who reluctantly SIGNS DOCUMENTS of LEGAL GUARDIANSHIP.

WALTER

In a bathroom, the Orderly watching as Walter CUTS HIS BEARD with a scissors at the mirror, then uses an electric razor to shave.

OLIVIA AND PETER

As they wait in the lobby -- not sitting together -- and WALTER steps out, clean -shave, in a too-starched white shirt and khakis. While looking a little awkward, it's a sudden transformation. He looks shockingly GOOD. Walter smiles.

WALTER

As he walks down the steps of the building, toward Olivia's car -- first walking around it, looking at its contours, its aerodynamics. As this happens, the DIRECTOR of the hospital comes out -- 68 years-old DR.BRUCE SUMNER.

DR. SUMNER
 Excuse me, Miss Warren.

Olivia turns -- faces the doctor, who doesn't extend his hand -- but moves close and speaks quietly and directly. Piercing eyes and a lack of humor:

DR. SUMNER (CONT'D)
 I'm Dr. Sumner, Director and Psychiatrist in Chief of St. Claire's -- I understand you have the intention to take Dr. Bishop off-premises.

OLIVIA

Yes, it's actually a national security issue-- I'm with the--

DR. SUMNER

I know who you're with, I've seen the release documents -- you might want to go back inside and read my resume-- my clinical history--

OLIVIA

--why would I want to g-- ?

DR. SUMNER

So that when I warn you what a colossal mistake it is to pull this patient out of this facility you'll respect it, you'll appreciate it, and you'll abide by it.

OLIVIA

Dr. Sumner, I can assure you that he will be in custody, observed, at all times--

DR. SUMNER

I assume you know who he is. The work he once did. Your need of him must stem from that.

OLIVIA

It does. And yes, I've read about Bishop in great detail-- what exactly is the problem here? What are you afraid of?

Dr. Sumner stares at her -- and what we sense really creeps us out: that he's choosing his words very carefully, that he isn't telling her all he knows..

DR. SUMNER

I will simply caution you. To be careful with him. More careful than you think necessary

And Dr. Sumner heads back into the hospital. Olivia watches him go, concerned. Then behind her, Peter, who is like a babysitter watching his father, who still stares at odd angles at the car:

PETER

Can we hit the road, please?

WALTER
This car is spectacular.

OLIVIA
Thanks.

And MOMENTS LATER Olivia's car drives away, Peter in the passenger seat and Walter in the back. And at his office window, Dr. Sumner watches with hard eyes.

EXT. COUNTRYSIDE - DAY

Olivia's car SPEEDS PAST CAMERA -- we HEAR A RADIO REPORT:

ANNOUNCER (V.O.)
... President's press conference, where he assured the public that progress was being made--

INT. OLIVIA'S CAR - DAY

Olivia drives. Peter besides her. Walter in the back. He looks out at everything, rather wide-eyed. Childlike.

ANNOUNCER (V.O.)
-- in the investigation into Flight 627.

MAN (V.O.)
Every effort is being made to understand what happened on that flight, and who was responsible.
And the President has made it clear: our response will be swift and certain--

Olivia turns off the radio. Looks back at Walter.

OLIVIA
Dr. Bishop, I was curious...if anyone else ever had access to your work?

WALTER
Well...the assistants, they had bits and pieces. God, I suppose.
If you go for that.
(beat)
I suppose the only one who really knew what I was doing was Belly.

OLIVIA

--who?

WALTER

Belly. William Bell. He and I shared the lab.

OLIVIA

William Bell?

PETER

You shared a lab with the founder or Prmetheus?

WALTER (CONT'D)

Uh..I-- I don't know what that is. Prometheus.

PETER

(holy shit)

Oh nothing, just a little tiny company.

(then, quiet, to Olivia)

One guy becomes one of the richest men in the world, the other becomes an institutionalized psychopath.

WALTER

Sometimes-- I don't know if I mentioned this, but sometimes I hear someone whistling. Row, Row, Row Your Boat, late at night, down the hall. Way down, near the windows. And I can never be quite sure...that it isn't me. You ever have that?

PETER

(with faux pride)

That's my ward. My pop.

OLIVIA

Hey.

PETER

Just pointing it out.

WALTER

(loud)

OH!

OLIVIA

-- what-- what happened?

WALTER

--oh, I just pissed myself--

PETER

Excellent. Good going.

OLIVIA

--oh! Um-- do you want me to pull over?

WALTER(CONT'D)

No! No, that's okay! It was just a squirt. I'm okay. It'll dry.
We're good.

EXT. ROAD - DAY

Olivia's car comes toward us -- growing -- and passes -- we WHIP PAN to follow it and as it drives off we PUSH IN on the BILLBOARD on the side of the road. A happy girl, sunlit, on a swing. The PROMETHEUS LOG and the tagline: "What do we do?
What don't we do?" and our EERIE MUSIC BUILDS, portending what's in store...

CUT TO BLACK.

END ACT THREE

ACT FOUR

FADE IN:

EXT. MILITARY MEDICAL CENTER - DAY

The MUSIC CONTINUES as Olivia's car arrives --

INT. MILITARY MEDICAL CENTER - DAY

Our unlikely trio enters the hospital: Walter takes in the walls, the staff, pens on the counter, EXIT signs, a candy machine, families, soldiers - every detail surprising and new. Peter annoyed at the whole thing -- Olivia greeted by a DOCTOR who leads them to the QUARANTINE AREA, to...

INT. JOHN'S ROOM - QUARANTINE - DAY

MUSIC STOPS when we see JOHN, under the clear plastic tent. Shit, it's getting worse. His skin's grown even more transparent - now his VEINS, FASCIA and MUSCLES are fading so that we can see through his INTERNAL ORGANS.

OLIVIA silently GASPS, her heart sinking. Peter isn't having an easy time either; what he sees disturbs him.

PETER

...WOW.

He looks to Olivia, who stares down at the man she loves in contained agony. Peter reads her, for the first time really feeling for her. Olivia looks to Walter, desperately hoping he has a miracle offer.

But Walter stares at the fucking light fixture overhead, head cocked to one side curiously, analytically. His eyes flutter a little at the harsh fluorescent bulb.

OLIVIA

Dr. Bishop?

Snapped out of it, Walter grabs John's chart, flips through it -- takes it in surprisingly fast - then, his left fingers and thumb playing as they do:

WALTER

Is there ginger ale? Any ginger ale? I haven't had some. In a long time. Miss it.

Peter shakes his head: this is nuts. Bewildered, Olivia takes a beat. Then, to a female Fed ASSISTANT (ASTRID, 24, pretty):

OLIVIA
Uh, can we get some...ginger ale for the doctor? Please?

ASTIRD
--sure--

And Astrid heads out. Walter turns back to John, moves closer to the plastic tent. Looks around. Sees MEDICAL EQUIPMENT on a table, including a SCALPEL. He pulls on a pair of rubber glove, takes the scalpel in hand -- and Peter is on him like a shot, grabbing his arm:

PETER	WALTER
Hey-- wait a second--	I need a tissue sample-- you're squeezing very tightly, Peter.
But Peter won't let go, his grip locked on his father--

PETER
(to Olivia)
--does this not concern you?

And while this is hardly an easy decision, she makes it:

OLIVIA
Let him go.

Dubious, Peter lets go. Walter goes to work, opening the inner tent, angling the knife downward and we go ULTRA CLOSE on the skn of John's ARM - THE MIRROR BLADE CUTTING THE FIRST THREE LAYERS OF SKIN - MOVIN GON TO THE TRANSLUCENT AREA -- AND IT BECOMES LIKE WAX PAPER, THEN PLASTIC, THEN GLASS -- unable to cut anymore. Unfazed, Walter works with a surgeon's precision, slicing the small tissue sample:

WALTER
(glancing at Peter)
Petrie dish.

PETER
Hey, I'm not your lab assistant.

WALTER
Quick-- please--

Annoyed, Peter glances at a column of PETRIE DISHES among the room's equipment, takes one and hands it to Walter. Despite everything, they're working together -- for the first time. Walter slips the skin sample into the dish, seals it --

WALTER (CONT'D)

Good-- I'll need to take this to my lab right away.

OLIVIA

...your-what?

WALTER

Kresge Building basement - Harvard.
We should leave. I have my sample, let's split.

Olivia looks to Peter, whose look says: "told ya he was fucking bonkers, good luck." So, tactfully:

OLIVIA

Dr. Bishop, you realize your lab was shut down after you left.

WALTER

-- it was what? I'm sorry--?

Then, almost cruel, how blunt Peter is:

PETER

Pop, it's gone. You got that?
Wake up. It's been gone -- just like you - for seventeen years.
You have no lab.

And we see Walter's face go read -- almost like a temper tantrum, but in a grown, older man, it's downright scary.

WALTER

-- no-nononon-- the foundations is a golden rectangle! I can't be expected to make real progress if I don't understand the proportions of my space! The work itself won't be consistent--

OLIVIA

-- I-- what's a golden rectan--?

WALTER
(angry, losing it)
WHAT'S THE GOLDEN RECTANGLE?! THE PERFECT RECTANGLE!

-- and Walter has TURNED OVER A MEDICAL TRAY, which CRASHES to the floor. Walter turns away from them, pissed -- and he PUNCHES the wall, hard -- Olivia JUMPS -- is visibly shaken that, perhaps, Walter is too damn insane to handle. Peter leans in to her:

PETER
Let's take him back, right now.
I've had just about enough.

Then, past Peter, Olivia sees Charlie arrive quickly in the hallway, through the window.

OLIVIA
Excuse me.

INT. CORRIDOR - DAY

Olivia and Charlie meet in the corridor -- urgent --

CHARLIE
Got your message-- how's John?

OLIVIA
Bad-- worse.

CHARLIE
What about Bishop?

OLIVIA
From left to right: insane and irritating. And also my only hope-- listen, I need to question William Bell, could you set that up?

CHARLIE
...William Bell? Prometheus
William Bell?

OLIVIA
He and Bishop used to share a lab-- hey, anything from the CDC?

CHARLIE

Zero: their breakthrough is that the Hamburg flight was caused by a synthetic compound. Which is like saying rain is caused by a wet compound. They've run tests on Scott, but haven't come back with anything. Which leads me to this.

He holds out a FILE -- Olivia takes it -- curious --

CHARLIE (CONT'D)

Thought you might wanna see that.

And we PUSH IN on Olivia as she sees this -- eyes widening --

INT. BROYLES' OFFICE - DAY

Only it isn't really Broyle's office -- it's John's. Door opens -- we PUSH IN behind Olivia, who enters, quiet but enraged, closing the door hard behind her. He's surprised to see her back--

BROYLES

--Liaison, when'd you g--?

OLIVIA

--I need to talk to you.

BROYLES

Yeah, listen, forgive my Insensitivity -- I saw the name on the door. But I'm only here for the duration of this investigation and I don't think Agent Scott is going to be needing his office any time soon.

Olivia resists strangling Broyles. Stays quiet and fierce:

OLIVIA

What I wanted to talk to you about...is that there's a mole in this department.

And Broyles stops. Whatever bravado he just had is gone. His eyes fucking lock onto her like he suddenly wants her dead. A long enough beat before:

OLIVIA (CONT'D)

-- are you not gonna ask me h--

BROYLES

I KNOW THERE IS. The question is how YOU know there is.

OLIVIA

Is that why you're really here?
Baby-sitting us--?

BROYLES

Start talking right now.

She stares at him - and gets the chills. Could it fucking be HIM? What do to? Finally:

OLIVIA

We recovered phone records from a cell phone found at the storage facility.

OLIVIA

There was a call made immediately after the Hamburg flight landed-- a call that was routed through this building.

BROYLES

--Who else had access to those records?
--Anyone else?
--Did Agent Francis share
he and those records with anyone?

OLIVIA

--Agent Francis and myself--
--no, no one else--
--no, he told me only

I knew about this.

A beat. She's getting freaked out here...

OLIVIA (CONT'D)

...what the hell's going on?

BROYLES

(beat)

The integrity of this office is being handled.

OLIVIA

...what do you know about th-

BROYLES

It is neither your job nor your responsibility to get involved -- so I appreciate your bringing the matter to my attention just as I expect you to appreciate the fact that you work under me.

(beat)

You're prohibited from discussing this with anyone inside or out of this office, is that understood?

She just stares. Wants to fucking accuse him right there --

OLIVIA

Yessir.

BROYLES

I do my job. You do yours.

OLIVIA

(fuuuuuuck you!)

Then it should be noted: I've successfully had Dr. Walter Bishop released from St. Claire's. And he requires his old laboratory back.

BROYLES

...I'm sorry, what?

OLIVIA

Kresge Building at Harvard.
Basement.

BROYLES

Yeah, congratulations, I'm Sure the University'd be thrilled to welcome back their only tenured professor who spent two decades mainlining Thorazine--

OLIVIA

I'm just trying to do my job, Sir, and that means helping Dr. Bishop do his. I believe he will help bring some answers to these investigations, which might help your next report to the National Security Advisor. I read the one you just submitted. Found it rather thin.

Broyles studies her at beat.

BROYLES

It would be nice to think that your tenacity in this case is a by-product of remarkable and robust professionalism. But I can't help but wonder...if there wasn't something going on between you and Agent Scott.

Olivia puts up her best poker face, which is pretty fucking good--

OLIVIA
You want answers? Get the lab for Bishop.

And she gets up and leaves the office --- OFF BROYLES' AMBIGUOUS LOOK -- ally or adversary...? MUSIC BUILDS UNTIL:

INT. LAB - DAY

FOOM-FOOM-FOOM -- overheard fluorescents BLINK TO LIFE -- one of them FLASH-BURNS OUT. BOOM DOWN TO REVEAL OUR LAB SPACE, perhaps the real fourth character in our series: build in 1856, this building -- and the basement in particular -- have an amazing sense of significance. Bricks and columns and thick wooden beams -- dust motes dance through sunlight streaming in from high, curved windows at the ceiling (and which are ground-level with the campus quad). A massive FURNACE sits in the corner. White sheets cover large pieces of storage, cardboard boxes, thick with dust, everywhere.
It's quite a space.

At the light switch: WALTER. Regarding the room with haunted eyes. Rather an awe, he speaks quietly, mostly to himself:

WALTER
...so much... so much happened
here...

And then he turns back to Olivia, and says, with wild, almost scary eyes:

WALTER (CONT'D)
...and so much is about to.

And on Olivia's anxious face, with Peter resentfully standing behind her, MUSIC BUILDS and we CUT TO BLACK.

END ACT FOUR

ACT FIVE

FADE IN:

INT. LAB - DAY

RESUME SAME MOMENT: Walter, still at the top of the stairs when we find him, braves a walk deeper in...down six steps, passing the old equipment, memories flooding...

And Olivia and Peter, at the door, watch Walter. Astrid (the Fed Assistant, remember?) nearby. For Peter, increasing discomfort: he doesn't like finding reasons to sympathize with this man. He says to Olivia quietly, mocking Walter:

PETER

Wow, here we are. In the Golden Rectangle itself. I'm pumped.

OLIVIA

What makes a rectangle...golden?

PETER

It's got a length-to-width ratio equal to a number called "phi." Greeks discovered it -- turns up in math, Renaissance art, music - Dali used it in The Sacrament of the Last Supper -- Debussy's Reflections In Water -- nature too: seashells, branches on plant stems.

He says that so off-handedly, it underscores his casual genius; she's sort of quietly stunned by it. After a beat, she turns to the senior Bishop:

OLIVIA

Dr. Bishop, I ordered a standard forensics work package, as you asked. Is there anything else you need?

Walter touches on of the water-damaged walls.

WALTER

There's an unexpected level of corrosion in the insulating sheathing. Drainage planes - vapor barriers --

PETER

You know, pop, some people just say walls.

WALTER
 (answering her question)
 An optical coherence tomography for flesh study, please. Two thousand pounds of silicon--

Olivia nods at Astrid, who starts writing this all down.

WALTER (CONT'D)
 --at least five anonymous blood samples from voluntary donors, please. A micro-organism detector,
 -- NASA grade, obviously -- there's still NASA, yes?

OLIVIA
 Yes.

Walter pulls a white sheet off a large SALINE ISOLATION TANK.
 He SLAPS it with his hand: KLANG!!!

WALTER
 She's still here! This tank was the best! Oh--and a five-year-old Ankole-Watusi.

ASTRID
 -- a what?

PETER
 (I'm on Mars)
 It's a cow. He wants a cow.

WALTER
 Pure-bred, not cross-bred, this is important -- with a mature weight of 1100 pounds and internal fat average of 2.37.

OLIVIA
 -- are you-- is he joking?

PETER
 Genetically, cows and humans are distinguishable by only a few lines of DNA. Ethical tests subject.

OLIVIA
 Where'd you learn all this? MIT?

Of course, he knows she's fucking with him -- that he faked a degree from that particular institution.

Bleary, she writes something down as a CUP OF STEAMING COFFEE is held out in front of her. It's Peter, who doesn't look happy, which can sometimes be his way. She takes the cup.

OLIVIA

Thanks.

He sits beside her as she sips the coffee, going back to scanning. A beat of awkward silence: we sense there's something he wants to ask her. Finally:

PETER

So what else did my file say.
About yours truly. How ugly was it?

She stops. Looks at him.

OLIVIA

I'm not at liberty to talk about--

PETER

-- well liberate yourself, because I came back here, I think I deserve the truth-- what did the file say?

They just stare at each other -- and as they do, he fucking sees something in her eyes. Holy shit...

PETER (CONT'D)

...there was no file, was there.

OLIVIA

(beat)

I needed you back here.

PETER

Wait a minute: you were bluffing?

OLIVIA

I was desperate.

PETER

-- I'm usually good at reading people -- I mean that's what I do--

OLIVIA

I could see you were in trouble.
Anyone could see that.

PETER

So hell, I could've stayed.

OLIVIA

A car bomb went off this morning in Kirkuk. Don't know if you saw that. Just about where and when you were suppose to be working. We'll never know, but you might just owe me a thank you.

PETER

Well. I owe a lot.

OLIVIA

Yeah, I figured. How much?

PETER

What I was gonna make in Iraq would've covered just about half.

(then)

I feel safer there than I do here.

OLIVIA

Mafia?

Peter stares. Despite the gravity, it's almost funny:

PETER

The guy literally goes by the name Big Eddie. I swear to God, I'm not making that up.

OLIVIA

You owe money to a guy nicknamed Big Eddie?

PETER

Nope. He had his name legally changed to Big Eddie.

(then)

I was never a gambler. Never. But a couple of years ago? Just...

(shakes his head)

...crazy.

As Olivia looks at him...really studies his handsome, haunted face...we PRELAP:

WALTER (V.O.)

In '72, during Vietnam, the DOD's biochem division had us working on a leprotic contagion for possible use against the Vietcong...

INT. LAB - NIGHT - LATER

Walter paces, his mind spinning in overdrive -- explains his test results to an anxious Olivia and still skeptical Peter:

WALTER

Trick was it's short shelf life - it self-immolated after peaking at its most toxic level.

OLIVIA

Meaning it leaves no trace it was ever there?

WALTER

The idea was to prevent collateral damage outside of enemy targets.
It's impossible that whatever affected that plane was derived from our work -- I'll have to do more analysis before I can establish definitive causality.

OLIVIA

What about John?

WALTER

What's infecting him isn't a virus, or for that matter, any other kind of organism-- it's merely a chemical reaction. Which means we can synthesize a counter-agent.

OLIVIA

So you can help him?

PETER

Hey-- wait a minute-- don't give her false hope, that's--

WALTER

-- not false, there's no false, it's real. I could help, yes, if I had a precise inventory of what was in that storage facility when it detonated, then I can measure the quantities of--

OLIVIA

We don't have that. It all went up -- everything. And the suspect - who may have those answers -- got away. And John's the only one who saw his face.

OLIVIA (CONT'D)

(beat)

How long does he have left?

WALTER

...at the current rate of crystallization, cellular degradation, the slowing of his natural hematop--

OLIVIA

(she SNAPS)

HOW LONG.

WALTER

24 hours. His brain will no longer be able to oxygenate itself.

That lands on her, CRUSHING her. Walter, despite the impassive outward appearance, does his best to console...

WALTER (CONT'D)

I'm...I'm so sorry. That I can't offer you a solution that doesn't risk your life.

Olivia nods, stares off. Then as if just hearing that:

OLIVIA

...what do you mean?

WALTER

...didn't I mention it?

OLIVIA

-- no.

WALTER

Oh: the shared dream state.
Synaptic transfer system-- were you not listening?

PETER

Whatever you think you said, you didn't say.

OLIVIA

What d'you mean shared dreams state?

WALTER

The human brain generates a quantifiable, measurable electric field.

WALTER (CONT'D)

I posited, in 1976, bicentennial year, that it's possible to synchronize fields from two distinct minds, and allow the sharing of information across an unconscious state. Like a string between two tin cans.

PETER

(to Olivia)

And what's great about that is that it's insane.

WALTER

There's precedence for this: the Egyptian papyrus of Deral-Madineh, darting back to 2000BC, holds stories of pharaohs using dreams to communicate with each other.

PETER

And did you guys see Goonies? That was also good.

OLIVIA

You're saying I could talk to John. While he's in a coma-- he might be able to tell me what the suspect looks like?

WALTER

Oh-- more than that: you could--

(to Peter)

-- this isn't an exact science--

(back to Olivia)

-- have access to his memories themselves.

PETER

(sarcastic seriousness)

Of Course, no of course not--

Assuming there's no extensive brain damage. Of course, you'd have to be severely drugged, have an electromagnetic probe inserted at the base of your skull and float without clothes in the old tank.

OLIVIA (CONT'D)
Have you done this before?

WALTER
I...think so. I mean yes, but years ago-- it's...

WALTER (CONT'D)
(smiles)
...foggy. Actually, I used this technique to extract information from a corpse. You can do that, as long as they're not dead longer than six hours.

PETER
Yeah, after six hours, they're really dead.

OLIVIA
And you could do this with me?

WALTER
Which.

OLIVIA
This whole thing-- talk to John-- see his memories--

WALTER
Of course he'd need to be brought here to the lab, kept on ice--

OLIVIA
So what drugs?

WALTER
Psychotropics. Mix of Serotonin,
Neurontin, Lithium Carbonate,
Lysurgic Acid Diethylamide--

PETER
 (this is fucked up)
 That's LSD-- the last one? LSD.

WALTER
 That'll take at least a few hours--
 (to Peter)
 I'd need your help to synthesize
 it. It it's not too much trouble.

PETER
 No, that would be fun.
 (to Olivia)
 The man who was in the mental institution wants to give you an overdose, stick a metal rod in your head then put you naked into a rusty tank of water.

WALTER
 Oh no, I don't want to, heavens,
 I'd rather not. I'm just saying.
 I can.

Olivia looks off -- fucking considering it -- Peter tries desperately to remain rational:

PETER
Olivia. Excuse me. You're clearly under sever duress-- you haven't slept since Iraq, you're dealing with the fact the man you care about might die, but I am TELLING you, with all due respect to my father's potential brilliance-- (STABS a finger at Walter)
 --that man is gonna kill you.

WALTER
 You don't understand the procedure.

Peter just starts WHISTLING "Row Row Row Your Boat".

WALTER (CONT'D)
 Yes! Like that-- exactly!

PETER
 What the hell would make you even consider doing something so stupid?

A beat -- the she looks straight at Peter.

OLIVIA
Knowing John would do it for me.
(to Walter)
Set it up. I'll get DHS authorization to move John.

WALTER
Excellent.

PETER
No! I'm not helping-- I'm out.

OLIVIA
Refuse to cooperate and I'll cite you for obstruction of justice.

PETER
For refusing to cook LSD for a Federal Agent?! Somehow I don't think that one's gonna stick.

OLIVIA
(holds up her cell)
Let's call Fat Eddie. Huh?

PETER
Big Eddie. And I told you that in confidence

OLIVIA
And let's keep it between us, okay?

PETER
This is insane. And so is he. And
so are you.

Peter turns and walks away -- as Charlie enters behind him --

CHARLIE
Warren, you got a minute?
(she moves to him)
You're on the next puddle-jumper to
New York -- heard back from Bell's
Office -- he's out of the country.
But Nina Cord, his CEP, said she's happy to talk to you.

OLIVIA
Happy? Really?

CHARLIE

There's a cow. What's going on here?

WALTER

We're about to make LSD.

OLIVIA

Don't listen to him.

As she turns Charlie away, she shoots Walter a "shhh!" look as the cow MOOS.

CUT TO BLACK.

END ACT FIVE

ACT SIX

FADE IN:

EXT. PROMETHEUS CORP. - NEW YORK CITY - DAY

A TAXI pulls up to a glass and steel world headquarters building, past 3D LETTERS WHICH READ, "NEW YORK CITY". Olivia gets out of the cab, passes the company logo etched massively in granite.

INT. HOSPITAL - QUARANTINE AREA - DAY

The HERMETICALLY-SEALED HATCH closes on a CRYP-TRANSPORT TUBE, through a small portal window we see JOHN'S FACE -- the translucent flesh, muscles and veins pronounced -- he's almost looking like a fucking VISIBLE MAN MODEL KIT -- the frost on the glass making it even eerier to see. MED-TECHS wheel the tube down a corridor, like a gurney...toward a waiting MEDICAL TRANSPORT VEHICLE.

INT. PROMETHEUS CORP. - CORRIDOR - DAY

We TRACK WITH OLIVIA as she heads down the hall -- passing FRAMED PROMETHEUS CORPORATION IMAGES on the wall. Appliances, Aviation, Electrical Distribution, Finance, Healthcare, Lighting, Oil and Gas, Security, Water -- this company does FUCKING EVERYTHING.

INT. LAB - DAY

As the Med-Techs roll John in the cryo-tube into the lab, Peter helping with placement --

PETER

I guess over here -- Uh -- Walter,
this okay?

Peter looks over to Walter, who mixes solutions, burns chemicals on a Bunsen, prepping the LSD.

WALTER

Yesyes, good. And son. You can call me Mom.

Walter goes back to work. Peter shakes his head. Astrid, meanwhile fills the massive isolation tank with water from a hose. She also pours in a box of EPSOM SALTS.

ASTRID

The whole box, Doctor, you're sure?

WALTER

Yes, dear, I'm sure.

Peter thanks the Med-Techs, who leaves -- Peter moves back to Walter's side -- Walter give him more chemicals to burn --

WALTER (CONT'D)

I feel normal. Working.

PETER

Yeah, bootlegging smack in the basement really is the picture of normalcy.

As he keeps mixing a chemical in a test tube, Walter leans closer, analyzing his son's face -- it's unnerving:

WALTER

I'd like to check your blood pressure.

PETER

(edgy)

My blood pressure's fine, check your own blood pressure.

WALTER

Your flesh tone suggests you're suffering from arterial hypertension.

He reaches out to touch Peter, who kind of snaps away, kneejerk defensive:

PETER

Hey: don't tell me what I'm suffering from - and there are no visible symptoms of hypertension --

Walter has been pouring chemicals -- which suddenly IGNITE - a large FIRE ERUPTS -- Astrid blurts a scream -- Walter's LAB COAT IS ON FIRE -- Peter quickly grabs Astrid's HOSE and DOUSES Walter's chest, putting the fire out.

Walter falls to the floor -- heart pounding, afraid -- breathing heavily -- and Peter is suddenly forced to comfort the man:

PETER (CONT'D)

-- hey -- pop-- it's okay. Listen, you're fine, it was nothing--

WALTER

--that was careless-- bad form-- 62

PETER

--and I put it out and you're okay.

WALTER

-- I wasn't-- I didn't see--

PETER

Hey: it's okay. I'm here.

WALTER

That could've-- been worse-- I'm so sorry -- so sorry -- so sorry -- so sorry...

And in this odd, heartbreaking moment, Peter is reminded just how damaged -- how vulnerable and prepared for the world - his father truly is. And he couldn't be less comfortable about it.

PETER

It's ok -- it's okay, pop. You're okay.

INT. NINA CORD'S OFFICE - DAY

An ASSISTANT shows Olivia into the impressive cold office:

OLIVIA

Thank you for seeing me.

-- and she's greeted by 66 year-old NINA CORD. Elegant, sophisticated, brilliant and about as warm as a milk shake in an igloo. They shake hands.

NINA

Not at all. Dr. Bell is back from Reykjavik next week-- perhaps I can help you in the meantime?

They sit before floor-to-ceiling views of the City.

OLIVIA

We've been looking at the work of Dr. Walter Bishop. A researcher who was at Harvard at the t--

NINA

Yes, I know of Bishop. A contemporary of Dr. Bell's.

OLIVIA

It seems that certain recent events -- unexplained phenomena, including what happened aboard Flight 627 -- might be traced back to his work.

NINA

Dr. Bishop's.

OLIVIA

That's right. When asked if anyone else has access to his studies, Dr. Bishop mentioned the founder of this company.

NINA

I know they shared a lab space in the 70's.

OLIVIA

Until 1983, actually. We're wondering if Prometheus might be researching some of these technologies.

She holds out a file -- Nina takes it. Starts reading. Poker face.

OLIVIA (CONT'D)

And if so, we were hoping you might cooperate with us. Identify employees who have access.

NINA

You're suggesting William Bell stole intellectual property from Bishop?

OLIVIA

I'm suggesting that, since they had a common workspace, the focus of their research might have been analogous. Mutually-influenced.

After a beat of reading, Nina closes the file, hands it back.

NINA

Unfortunately, I'm not at liberty to discuss our companies, their research or employees. The security of our proprietary information is a very real concern to us.

OLIVIA

Certainly. As I'm sure is national security. Can you tell me if any employees have in the recent past been dismissed because of suspicion of espionage of any kind?

NINA

Unfortunately I'm not at liberty to discuss our companies, their research or our employees.

Uh...no, Olivia doesn't like her.

OLIVIA

How long have you worked at Prometheus, Ms. Cord?

NINA

Sixteen years.

OLIVIA

And you...still enjoy it.

NINA

I owe Prometheus my life. And that's no exaggeration.

OLIVIA

...how so?

NINA

I was a runner, for most of my life. Always had been. During the '97 Boston Marathon, I felt strangely tired. Had a pain in my upper back that I'd never had. I assumed it was just another pleasure of advancing age -- until one morning at the office -- our building at the time was in Charlestown -- Dr. Bell saw that I was in discomfort and insisted I go for a CAT scan. Which revealed stage three cancer, two metastases.

(beat)

The cancer had spread so severely that I had to have my right arm amputated what week.

Olivia's confused eyes dart in Nina's right arm -- and hand, which she just shook.

Nina sees this -- reaches into her jacket sleeve and pulls out the thin, flesh-colored SILICONE SKIN that covers something remarkable: A COMPLETELY ROBOTIC HUMAN ARM AND HAND. It's skin is translucent; the mechanics clearly visible inside; little GYROS turning, it's sort of the most amazing thing you've ever seen.

NINA (CONT'D)

That first scanner that found my cancer was built by this company.
The robotic-assist tools used in my surgery and the drugs I took afterward were developed and manufactured by Prometheus. And my replacement limb...

Nina lifts both her real and fake translucent hand and wiggles all fingers. It's uncanny.

NINA (CONT'D)

...was designed by Bell himself.

OLIVIA

(astonished)

I shook your hand, I couldn't tell.

NINA

Prometheus is a more remarkable place than you know.
Unfortunately, given our non-disclosure policy...I'm not allowed to explain why.

Olivia looks at Nina -- her pro smile -- and just doesn't fucking trust her. Then her phone rings -- she answers it:

OLIVIA

Agent Warren.

INTERCUT WITH:

INT. LAB - DAY

Walter in the background, Peter, sardonic, is on the phone:

PETER

Honey, your drugs are ready.

OLIVIA

On my way.

She hangs up. Looks at Nina.

OLIVIA (CONT'D)

Thanks again for your time.

Nina extends her robotically-exposed hand. Olivia shakes it.
A FIRM SHAKE. Their eyes meet. Oddly steely.

INT. LAB - DAY

INTENSE MUSIC PLAYS as we barely see the muscle-and-veins John through the frosted plastic of the cryo-tent--needless to say, looking worse than ever. THERE ARE NOW SENSORS ATTACHED ALL OVER HIS FACE AND BODY -- AND A THICK CABLE RUNNING FROM SOMEWHERE AT THE BACK OF HIS NECK.

Astride sits on a table, eating from a bag of chips. Like it's a show -- and what she sees is Walter, preparing various SYRINGES -- each with a different colored drug. Peter recalibrates two HIGH VOLTAGE PULSE GENERATORS, BIORHYTHM SENSORS, HEART and VIDEO MONITORS. Unlike the digital, wireless age outside these walls, in here wires snake everywhere, Peter glances at Olivia disapprovingly as she enters, wearing a robe and looking pensive. Walter moves to Olivia, holding a tangle of SENSORS on wires.

WALTER

This may be a silly question. In fact, I may have already asked you. But you're aware of how serious this is. The real risks involved.

OLIVIA

...yes, I understand. And yeah, we had that conversation.

WALTER

Oh, okay. Sorry. I need to place these.

Still sitting, Olivia opens her robe. She wears a bikini, red floral patter. Some bruises from the storage units accident. While Walter is all-business, Olivia catches Peter sneaking a look. Self-consciously:

OLIVIA
I bought it for the Caribbean. We never went, though. So...

Peter forces a smile -- an odd, intimate moment that sort of embarrasses them both. Walter places the sensors on her chest, her stomach, her legs. Then takes a SYRINGE and moves behind her:

WALTER
Tilt your head forward please --

Olivia's neck touches her chest. Walter finds a place at the nape of her neck -- tests it with his fingers -- spreads the skin--

WALTER (CONT'D)
I'm giving you some anesthetic.

OLIVIA
--okay--

PETER
--this is asinine.

He INJECTS her twice in the area, which stings a little.

Then Walter picks up the PROBE he'd mentioned -- which is like two inch-and-a-half long NEEDLE THIN PINS connected at the center by a metal bar. Wires feed from it to the pulse generators. Walter moves behind her, ready to "install" the probe--

PETER (CONT'D)
You don't have to do this.

She stares at him -- but then she nods at Walter --- who carefully SHOVES THE PROBE INTO AND UNDER HER SKIN -- all the way in. It hurts only a little -- more pressure than pain.

Walter makes an adjustment to the generator -- checks the vital signs. All good. He moves to the tank and opens the door -- A LOUD, LONG CREAK. It's like a giant, dark metal shoebox, with a large hinged door. There's a BENCH inside, which Walter and Peter help Olivia climb into, and sit on.

Walter takes the two remaining syringes. The drugs. He turns her left arm over, wraps a rubber tube around her upper arm...taps a vein...

WALTER

Have you ever tripped before?

OLIVIA

(slightly defensive)

I went to college.

WALTER

Which college?

OLIVIA

Maine State.

WALTER

No, you've never tripped. Not like this.

WALTER (CONT'D)

I have other drugs to counter-act what I'm administering. Help you come down faster. If your vitals start to spike, we'll pull you out. I can't promise you what's gonna happen...but at least it should be interesting.

Nervous but determined, she nods. Walter takes on syringe and injects her.

WALTER (CONT'D)

You should start to feel very relaxed, very shortly.

Then -- another syringe --

WALTER (CONT'D)

And this...will rip open your consciousness.

He injects it. Peter doesn't like this at all. Olivia then gets into the epsom-salt-laden water. She's in there. Lying down, wires and probes stuck on and in her. Walter looks at her, now upside down for her.

WALTER (CONT'D)

Listen. In case you don't come back. I just want to say, before we do this, that I so appreciate what you've done.

OLIVIA
(drowsy already)
...what's that?

WALTER
...there are many things you lose in a place like that. The hospital where I've been.
(beat)
You lose being trusted.
(beat)
It's strange how important that is, once it's gone.

On Peter, watching this vulnerable moment from his insane father. Finally, a small shrug from Walter. And he closes the hatch, TAKING US TO BLACK.

END ACT SIX

ACT SEVEN

INT. LAB - DAY

RESUME: Olivia's just gone into the tank. Peter watches at the controls -- VIDEO IMAGES of her face and full body can be seen. Walter works controls on one of the generators. A SINE WAVE is seen on its oscilloscope, moving across the screen again and again. Under this, the name, written on WHITE TAPE: "OLIVIA". Walter looks back to Astrid --

WALTER

If you want to watch, you can come closer --- who are you again -- do you work here?

ASTRID

(moves forward)

Yeah, I'm Astrid Farnsworth, remember? Junior Special Agent with the FBI?

WALTER

I don't remember at all, but hello, hi, I'm Walter, uh...

And he's forgotten.

PETER

Bishop. You're Walter
Bishop.
-- don't mention it.

WALTER

-- Bishop. Yes. Thank you.

Walter starts up the other generator. On WHITE TAPE: "JOHN". Another sine wave.

WALTER (CONT'D)

See, this is her brain rhythm. More important than people know regarding cerebral regional interaction. Critical-- massively important.

(other generator)

And this is his. Over time, as the narcotics take effect, the probes will coax their rhythms into sync -- and the electrical signals from both -- that's what our brains are electrical routers -- should be able to be interpreted by the other.

PETER

See? It's easy, like making taffy.

Astrid smiles. And if we haven't noticed, she's sort of a stunner

Walter turns on a monitor between the generators -- another screen, showing BOTH sine waves, hers and his, in RED and GREEN. Out of sync. Walter stares at the screens.

WALTER

These are both of their rhythms - when they're in sync...they should be in the same place. So to speak.

PETER

...so...now what?

WALTER

Now? Chicken salad.

PETER

...what?

WALTER

(to Astrid)
Would you be a doll? Chicken salad sandwich, no raisins? Wheat bread?
Pickles?

Astrid

Yeah, I'll call that in--
(to Peter)
--anything for you?

PETER

An escape hatch?

She smiles and goes off to make the call. Walter, at a whisper to Peter:

WALTER

Now we wait.

Peter watches, pensive. MUSIC SWELLS and we DISSOLVE TO:

OLIVIA

Floating, eyes closed. The muffled WATER NOISES churning as we PUSH IN on her face...

DISSOLVE TO:

JOHN

Lying there unconscious, his face now a horrific image of BRAIN, BONE and MUSCLE...

DISSOLVE TO:

WALTER

Writing on the PAPER PRINT OUT of their vital signs. Then he brings a chicken salad sandwich to his mouth, taking a big bite. He looks over: the monitor with BOTH of their brain waves markedly MORE IN SYNC...

DISSOLVE TO:

Peter

Walking around John, in his refrigerated containment tent...looking in...then he turns, peaks into the TANK, concerned... sees Olivia, lying there...

DISSOLVE TO:

OLIVIA

TIGHT on her face... hold on it... then suddenly her MOUTH OPENS -- a quick INHALE -- SMASH CUT TO:

EXT. DREAMSCAPE - JUNK YARD - DAY

Olivia stands in the middle of a junkyard. She looks around, confused -- turns her head --

INT. TANK - DAY

Olivia turns her head -- as if having a most vivid dream --

INT. LAB - DAY

Walter sits up -- machine beeps -- Peter and Astrid look on, curious --

PETER

What's happening?

WALTER

Ooo, look, she's having an episode.

Walter goes over to the VITALS -- checks -- he's happy:

WALTER (CONT'D)
 Blood pressure and heart good.
 (glances at the sync monitor)
 ...should be any minute.

INT. DREAMSCAPE -- JUNK YARD -- DAY

Back to Olivia -- walking through the space, lost. She's wide-eyed, amazed. She calls out:

OLIVIA
 Hello?! I think I'm here--!

INT. TANK - DAY

-- Olivia, unconscious, in a drugged state -- whispers:

OLIVIA
 -- I'm here--

INT. LAB - DAY

Walter quickly circles an area of the vital signs tracking paper -- hits a button that BEEPS -- beginning to record the brainwaves -- which are now perfectly aligned on the monitor.

WALTER
 Looklooklook, almost in sync.

INT. DREAMSCAPE - JUNK YARD - DAY

Olivia moves through the junk yard -- calling out:

OLIVIA
 John?! ...John?!

She turns -- JUMP CUTS -- turns, looking, searching -- and a SHAPE MOVES behind her -- she turns -- no one is there. But she feels like something just moved behind that massive pile of trash.

Another part of the junk yard -- Olivia appears from behind a huge mound of junk -- walking through -- passing a beautiful red cedar WOODEN KAYAK -- fucking FLOATING in the air, ten feet above the ground. She stares at it, amazed, as she walks past. She says, to no one:

OLIVIA (CONT'D_
 -- I know this... that was my uncle's kayak. Why is that here?

INT. TANK - DAY

Olivia -- in a dream-state -- whispers --

OLIVIA

--why--?

INT. DREAMSCAPE - JUNK YARD - DAY

Another SHAPE moves -- disappears behind trash --

OLIVIA

JOHN! Is that you?!

JOHN (O.S.)

Olivia--?

-- she GASPS and turns--

INT. TANK - DAY

Olivia's body quickly twists, SPLASHING--

INT. LAB - DAY

Peter stands -- machines BEEPING --

PETER

Is she okay--? What's happening?

Walter turns off the machines --

WALTER

--she's fine--
--she's fine---look-- they're together.

PETER

--you sure?

And the monitor with BOTH waveforms looks like just ONE.

INT. DREAMSCAPE - JUNK YARD - DAY

Olivia has turned -- breathing heavily -- and stares with tears in her eyes at...JOHN. Who stands there, in a suit, dark tie, looking handsome and confused.

JOHN

...I was thinking about you.

Olivia moves to him -- reaches out touches his face -- cries.

OLIVIA

--you're okay...

JOHN

Feels like I've been here for days, you know? Where've you been?

-- and she KISSES HIM.

INT. LAB - DAY

-- machines BEEP again --

PETER

--what's that?

WALTER

Nothing.

Peter stares at the monitors. He moves to the tank, peeks into the window at her. Even more insane than the experiment...he can't be feeling...jealousy...can he?

Olivia, unconscious, smiles ---

INT. DREAMSCAPE - WHITELAND - DAY

The kiss finishes -- Olivia looks around -- they're in a TOTALLY WHITE space -- massive and bright -- she looks back at him--holding his face, emotional:

OLIVIA

John...you were hurt.

JOHN

I don't remember.

OLIVIA

Think. The storage units -- we were sent to investigate--

JOHN

--yes--but...what are you doing here? I'm feeling cold--

OLIVIA

I need you to remember. I need you to show me.

JOHN

--show you what?

OLIVIA

--what you saw. You told me you saw him, that you saw his face. I need you to show me his face.

JOHN

...why?

OLIVIA

(tears)

--so...so I can save you.

OLIVIA (CONT'D)

Please, try -- try and remember -- we were at the storage units.

JOHN

You kissed me there, like you did just now---

--amazingly, BEHIND HIM, filling the space, like a giant projected image -- is JOHN'S POV AS OLIVIA MOVED TO HIM -- AND KISSED HIM -- AND THEN IT ALL GOES BLACK AROUND THEM -- as his eyes closed during the kiss.

OLIVIA

--yes--

JOHN

--and we looked through the garbage. And I unlocked the door -- opened it--

Now--behind him--his POV as the door LOUDLY OPENS -- she COVERS
HER EARS, it's so noisy -- and we see the labs --

OLIVIA

--yes! This is right---

--and Olivia's standing there, watching now--as if in front of a fucking IMAX SCREEN --John's POV, as he turns -- AND SEES TROUBLED!

And we're looking at it FROM BEHIND OLIVIA -- WHICH MAKES IT LOOK AS IF SHE IS THERE -- SEEING IT ALL HERSELF. Wind somehow blowing against her now, she watches with wide eyes --

OLIVIA (CONT'D)

--I SEE HIM--

And now we're RUNNING through the facility -- a fast STEADICAM GLIDE, chasing after Troubled -- Olivia almost losing her balance, feeling like she's free-falling, mouth open, overwhelmed -- and we see John's hand come up as he makes the call --

JOHN (O.S)
I've got a runner! He's heading for the back!

And Olivia says -- AS WE ALSO HEAR HER SAY ON THE PHONE:

OLIVIA	OLIVIA'S VOICE
I'm on my way!	(filtered)
	I'm on my way!

-- and we TURN a corner, then another -- John AIMS HIS GUN AND FIRES -- HITTING TROUBLED IN THE SHOULDER! Olivia GASPS --

OLIVIA
--you shot him --

And then, as we're running -- as John's running, crazy fast,
Olivia looks around for him -- where did he go?

OLIVIA (CONT'D)
-- John?!

And she turns, 360 degrees, back to the screen, just as the EXPLOSIONS HAPPEN - and John is suddenly OBLITERATED --

INT. TANK - DAY

Olivia GASPS WILDLY, eyes wide in terror --

OLIVIA
I SAW HIM!

INT. LAB - DAY

Peter and Astrid quickly pull Olivia out -- whose body is convulsing --

PETER	WALTER
--she's having a seizure!	-- hold her down!

And Walter injects her with another SYRINGE -- Astrid wraps her in a large towel, her heavy breathing continues--

ASTRID
--is she gonna die?

WALTER
Eventually.

Peter shoots Walter a look and Olivia's eyes stop rolling back
- they begin to focus - she's full of adrenaline --

OLIVIA

--I saw his face -- his face, I saw him -- oh my God--

(crying now)

--I saw John get hurt...I was there...I was there...

And Peter stares at her, dubious but also amazed...

END ACT SEVEN

ACT EIGHT

FADE IN:

INT. FEDERAL BUILDING - BOSTON - DAY

The situation room -- quick CIRCLING AROUND Olivia, pale and desperate, as she works urgently at a computer on a FACIAL COMPOSITE DEVELOPMENT program -- to recreate the face of the man she saw - and holy shit, is it close to Troubled --

A number of Agents stand around her -- including Charlie --

CHARLIE

--what the hell do you mean you
"saw him"? Where?

OLIVIA

--I told you not to ask me that.
This is him.
(to Agent #3)
This is the suspect we're looking for -- he looks like this --

Agent #3 is already hustling to the his desk --

AGENT #3

-- send me the image!

Olivia hits buttons -- BAM, the image appears on Agent #3's screen -- he types, fast. Quietly:

CHARLIE

You look like crap -- have you slept?

OLIVIA

I am not crazy. I saw him. I saw the whole thing.

But hell -- as she looks into Charlie's eyes, she sure sounds nuts. Looks it too.

AGENT #3

No primary matches for criminal record --

OLIVIA

Cross-check all states' drivers license files!

AGENT #3

On it, checking!

OLIVIA

-- and send that image to all local hospitals, that man was wounded - shot in the right shoulder!

But Agent #4, standing by Olivia's computer, having stared at the screen since she finished the image, says:

AGENT #4

--I've seen him before. I know him.

Olivia turns to him - galvanized --

OLIVIA

--where?

It takes him a moment. And then, as if he doesn't believe it himself, he hurries across the room, to the IMAGES AND FILES OF ALL THE PASSENGERS ON THE PLANE -- he RIPS one off the wall. Looks at it as he moves to Olivia and hands it to her.

The PASSPORT PHOTO AND FILE OF TROUBLED. She goes white.

OLIVIA (CONT'D)

-- oh my God, this is him.

AGENT #4

He was a passenger. That man was on Flight 627.

And her mind -- as our had --tumbles --

OLIVIA

...I don't understand...

CHARLIE

He couldn't have been at the storage place. Maybe y--

OLIVIA

--Charlie, I saw him there.

He looks at her, sympathetic, but dubious. Kindly:

CHARLIE

I think you need some sleep.

And in a moment when Olivia thinks maybe she just might be going crazy -- tears come to her eyes --

CHARLIE
-- why don't you come to the house. Kathy'll make up the guest room, you can stay there while--

OLIVIA
--no--no...nonono...I swear to God, I saw him...I saw him there...

AGENT #3 pipes up:

AGENT #3
Hold on guys -- Morgan Stenson of Steeltown, Pennsylvania, forty-four years old, has one sibling--

Agent #3 moves to a laser printer, just finishing printing a page - he pulls it out, holds it up--

AGENT #3 (CONT'D)
Richard Stenson.

Holy shit, it's a different photo...OF THE SAME MAN. Or is it?

OLIVIA
--he has a twin?

AGENT #3
Six minutes older.

Olivia stands --re-energized -- on her game, to the room:

OLIVIA
-- so this cements the connection to the plane ---

CHARLIE
But what is the connection?

OLIVIA
-- that's right: Richard Stenson sets up labs in the storage yard - we don't know what the hell he's working on, why or for whom- I need a work and education history!

AGENT #3
--pulling it up--

OLIVIA

Whatever he's doing, it's about as dangerous as it gets. His brother was obviously a trigger. But how? Was he in on it? Or was he set up?

(something occurs to her)

--do you have medical history?

AGENT #3

--yeah--

OLIVIA

--tell me Morgan Stenson wasn't a diabetic.

AGENT #3

(reading)

...uh, no, I can't do that...

how'd you know: type-2 diabetic--

OLIVIA

There was an insulin pen found in the aisle of that plane -- was any insulin residue found?

CHARLIE

(checking files)

--I don't think there was--

OLIVIA

So theoretically: say Richard Stenson spiked his brother's syringe. Dr. Bishop mentioned that he'd worked on self-eradicating airborne toxins - designed not to leave any trace once the targets have been infected.

CHARLIE

With what?

OLIVIA

We need to ask Richard Stenson that, don't we?

(to Agent #3)

Where's his file?

AGENT #3

(indicates the printer)

Hot off the press---

--she GRABS the page that's just coming out. Reads it. Cannot fucking believe what she sees.

CHARLIE

--what?

As she heads out, handing the paper to him, she says:

OLIVIA

Richard Stenson's last employer

CHARLIE

--what--who?

But Olivia is gone -- and CHARLIE looks at the page and:

CHARLIE (CONT'D)

...you're kidding me.

INT. PROMETHEUS CORP. - CORRIDOR - DAY

Olivia walks fiercely down the corridor -- PRE-LAP:

OLIVIA (V.O.)

This is our suspect. I want everything you've got on him.

INT. NINA CORD'S OFFICE - DAY

Nina Cord holds a photo of Richard Stenson. She obviously recognizes the guy. Olivia is here - and Nina's ASSISTANT, near the door.

OLIVIA

You want me get a court order?
Or do you want to talk?

A beat -- then, to her Assistant:

NINA

Bring me your files on Richard
Stenson.

Assistant nods, heads out as Nina says to Olivia -- warmer, as if in confidence:

NINA (CONT'D)

I want to apologies for our last meeting. I wasn't sure I could trust you before. Now I know I can.

OLIVIA

...meaning what. You did background on me?

NINA

(beat, sincere)

I especially appreciate what you did at Quantico. Putting those three captains behind bars was the best thing that could've happened to the US Marines.

Olivia is quietly stunned to find an ally in this odd, cold woman with one arm.

OLIVIA

...thank you.

NINA

The man you're looking for was an employee for two years in our weapons systems research lab. He was fired three months ago after he tried to leave the premises with certain classified materials. Our investigators concluded that damage to Prometheus was minimal...but that Mr. Stenson may be part of The Pattern. Which would be consistent with your suspicions.

OLIVIA

...I'm sorry, you said part of the pattern -- what pattern?

(off Nina's look)

--did I miss something?

NINA

I assumed you have clearances...

OLIVIA

(beat, unsettled)

...clearances for what...?

Nina stares, debates telling her. Then:

NINA

Suffice to say, we've reached a point where science and technology have advanced at an exponential rate for so long...that it is far beyond our ability to regulate and control them.

(beat)

You should know what you're getting into, Ms. Warren. I would say the same thing to my daughter. To my granddaughter. Be careful.

Olivia is struck by this warning. Then, to punctuate the moment, Nina's Assistant enters, hands Nina a FILE. Nina takes it, glances at it, and hands it to Olivia.

NINA (CONT'D)

Everything we have on Richard Stenson.

NINA (CONT'D)

(then knowing she'll need it)
Good luck.

And OFF OLIVIA we...

CUT TO BLACK.

END ACT EIGHT

ACT NINE

INT. LAB - DAY

--SPONGE BOB SQUARE PANTS on TV in the lab. Walter watches, loving it. Astrid too. Peter is also here, resenting the whole thing.

WALTER

And this is a show...for children?

ASTRID

Yeah. It's huge.

WALTER

It's surprisingly profound. For a narrative about a sponge.

(to Peter)

Wouldn't you say?

Before he can answer the PHONE RINGS, Peter answers merrily:

PETER

Crazy house.

INT. SEDAN - INTERCUTTING

Olivia drives at 90 mph -- talks into her headset as she WEAVES between curs:

OLIVIA

I just landed at Logan and I'm on my way to you -- I think we've located our suspect.

PETER

--wait, what do you mean? You didn't find him, did you? The guy you saw in the dream you had?

Astrid turns off the TV -- Peter glances over at Walter, who just SMILES at him like he cat who ate the canary.

OLIVIA

I'm picking you both up -- I'll need your father there to question him, get whatever information he needs so he can make the cure for John -- and I'll need you there too, in case your father's...you know --

PETER

-- say no more.

EXT. SOUTH BOSTON TENEMENT - DAY

BOOM DOWN a row of tenements -- past 3D LETTERS WHICH READ "SOUTH BOSTON" -- to a particularly shoddy one as a Flak-jacketed SWAT TEAM silently secures the perimeter, fanning out --

Peter and Walter sit in the back of Olivia's car. Peter looks at the FILE of Stenson -- company PHOTO, etc...Then he notices that Walter seems particularly uncomfortable watching the police activity.

PETER

What. You okay?

He shakes his head a bit. Vulnerable.

WALTER

Reminds me...

(then staring off, shakes his head)

...nothing.

Peter realizes: must be the night he was arrested. The fire. A beat, then he looks back to the team --

VARIOUS SHOTS of Team Members snaking through bushes, around corners -- cordoning off the apartment - moving up to the front door.

TIGHT ON OLIVIA who lands next to the doorframe, back to the wall, gun drawn. TEAM LEADER gives the "go" and:

INT. TENEMENT BUILDING - CONTINUOUS

Dark, dilapidated - the team BURSTS IN shouting "FEDERAL AGENTS!!!" -- Olivia and three Team Members through the main door, four others through the back -- VARIOUS SHOTS of DIFFERENT ROOMS in the apartment as the Team Members move through it, gun muzzles panning -- we STAY CLOSE WITH OLIVIA, ready for anything, tense as all hell -- and one by one, as every room's breached, we hear the refrain:

TEAM MEMBERS

CLEAR! / CLEAR! / CLEAR! / CLEAR!

She moves through the house, pissed, searching -- nothing -- clearly, the guy's not here -- she STOPS -- NOTICES something:

The RUG underfoot. A DISTURBED DUST PERIMETER, like the rug was just moved -- she crouches, YANKS back the rug, revealing A CELLAR DOOR -- SIGNALS to the Team Leader: DOWN THERE.

The Agents converge, weapons back up, Team Leader flips on a MAGLITE as a Team Member RIPS BACK the door -- the agents STORM DOWN into:

INT. CELLAR - CONTINUOUS

The Team DESCENDS, flashlights sweeping, the cellar's FILLED WITH CHEMICAL EQUIPMENT -- EMPTY -- but the storm window's been OPENED --

EXT. TENEMENT BUILDING - CONTINUOUS

Walter and Peter, alone. Peter watching outside, anxious.

WALTER

Thank you for before. Putting me out. When I was on fire.

PETER

(I don't want to be here)
My pleasure.

WALTER

(beat)
It's good to see you again.

Peter look at him, not giving an inch. Then he sees, past Walter: STENSON emerge from a below-ground FLIGHT OF STAIRS -- Peter recognizes his FACE -- THROWS the car door open, starts to MOVE, SHOUTING:

PETER

THE ALLEY! HE'S IN THE ALLEY!

Stenson TURNS -- MEETS EYES WITH Peter -- then RUNS around a corner, down an alley - and fuck, Peter can't let him go so, as he gets out, quickly, to Walter"

PETER (CONT'D)

--YOU STAY RIGHT THERE, YOU HEAR ME?!

--NO!!! NO, YOU STAY
THERE!!!

WALTER

--what--I can't--can I leave the car?

And Peter SPRINTS after Stenson -- finally the SWAT team's following too, IN PURSUIT -- OLIVIA sees Peter round a corner -
- SHIT--she runs:

A BREATHLESS FOOT CHASE, IMMEDIATE, HANDHELD AND FRENETIC:
 Peter and STENSON -- RUNNING ALL OUT -- pelting down the alley, breathing hard, each in overdrive -- Stenson looks back -- sees Peter behind him, gaining--

Ahead of them a BLACK AND WHITE swings into the alley -- Stenson hangs a hard left and CRASHES through a wooden gate -- Peter whips through the gate a second later, crossing a cluttered BACKYARD -- RUNNING, tripping through toys, a swing set, through a HEDGE and RUNNING LIKE MAD through the narrow gap between tenements -- they emerge onto a street --

Ahead, a MAN on a BIKE, pulling up to the sidewalk -- Stenson dodges but HURLS bike-man aside, sending him RIGHT INTO Peter -
 - the two of them CRASHING, rolling to the pavement, Peter's face contorted with pain and just when it looks like Stenson's gonna get away --

OLIVIA SNAPS INTO FRAME, running full-tilt boogie, she's been FOLLOWING THEM, suddenly the chase becomes HERS -- Stenson races toward a TRACT HOUSE across the street -- she pulls her gun as Stenson runs past a MAN picking up his mail -- RACES THROUGH HIS FRONT DOOR:

INSIDE THE HOUSE: Olivia chases -- a WOMAN doing laundry SCREAMS as they blast past her, knocking her flying - through the KITCHEN - KIDS at the table SCREAM TOO as furniture crashes everywhere -- Stenson SLAMS right through the back screen door, RIPPING IT off its hinges -- and JESUS, we're still following them across the BACKYARD where --

A SNARLING DOBERMAN IS SUDDENLY BOLTING AFTER THEM -- gaining -
 - a FENCE ahead -- Stenson's the first OVER IT -- Olivia follows a second later but the DOG has TORE into her leg, she YELLS IN AGONY but manages to kick free of the dog and pulls herself over the fence, ANKLE BLOODIED -- drops with a THUD on the other side just as she looks up to see Peter APPEAR OUT OF NOWHERE, TACKLING STENSON HARD -- SLAMMING HIM TO THE OILY CONCRETE - DOGS BARKING, JUMPING behind nearby fences - a furious Peter gets the upper hand, PUNCHING STENSON HARD - AGAIN AND AGAIN -- an adrenaline surge of strength and Stenson's face BLEEDS for it -- but suddenly Olivia is THERE,
 SLAMS her knee down on Stenson's chest and shoves her GUN
 BARREL in his face -- out of breath:

OLIVIA

Hi there. We've got some questions
 for you.

Off that we WHIP TO:

INT. LAB - DAY

BANG: the door flies open --- in rush Olivia, Peter and Walter
-- disheveled, bloody, INSTANT OVERLAPPING -- Walter reading from the notes they took --

WALTER
The active toxin was a magnesium-based ethylene glycol--

--a magnesium ethylene glycol with an organophosphate trigger--

--so--so you're saying what, we synthesize a calcium gluconate in a thiamine base?

--we can't. We'll need more
Of his blood, and we have none.

PETER
--no, I understand that -- you're not listening to me--

---Dad, stop: his blood won't be able to absorb it fast enough before the side-effects kill him.

--yes.

OLIVIA
That's not true: all agents are required to set up a backup blood supply in case we're wounded--

WALTER
(gasps)
-- that's brilliant-- good thinking.

OLIVIA
It wasn't my idea.

PETER
We create the antidote, dissolve it into Scott's stored blood, then transfuse it intravenously so his body's not overwhelmed.

WALTER
Autologous transfusion.
(to Olivia)
We'll need that blood --

OLIVIA
I'm on it.

SCIENCE MONTAGE:

A staple of the show -- Walter -- with Peter's help -- use whatever tools and tricks of the trade are needed to build the device, create the compound or jerry-rig the machinery--

In this case they're FORMULATING THE ANTIDOTE FOR JOHN - which means our Fringe music PULSES as we DISSOLVE from Walter carefully measuring multi-colored CHEMICALS to Peter injecting them into TEST TUBES to Walter putting them, in a CENTRIFUGE to Peter hanging SALINE BAGS to Walter injecting the GREEN COMPOUND -- THE ANTIDOTE -- into the saline - Olivia enters with a stainless-steel COOLER -- opens it - BAGS OF BLOOD - and now Walter preps the BLOOD TRANSFUSION GEAR and Peter finds veins on John -- sliding in syringe--

And WE WATCH HIS CURRENT BLOOD LEAVE HIS BODY -- HIS NEW BLOOD ENTER...and on this, three faces waiting, we DISSOLVE TO:

INT. LAB BUILDING CORRIDOR - DAY

Olivia sits on a bench in the shiny-tile hallway of the first floor of the building. Unknowing college students pass here and there. She sits here, heart heavy...in waiting. She turns: BROYLES is here. He moves to her, sits beside her. Says, with half-seriousness:

BROYLES
So I got the lab.

She can't help but smile a little too.

OLIVIA
Yeah, I know you did. Thank you.

He nods. Then:

BROYLES
How's it going downstairs?

OLIVIA
Bishop says it'll be a while. But it's actually looking "auspicious". That was his word.

And she sees he's staring at her.

OLIVIA (CONT'D)
...what.

And when Broyles talks now...he's direct...but warm. Surprisingly engaged:

BROYLES

You've done some solid work here. Locating Bishop. Getting him out, finding a way to get him to work with you.

OLIVIA

His son found a way to get to him to work, not me. Brains run in the family.

BROYLES

But you found them. You did it. You've done more in six days than we have in months.

OLIVIA

...who's "we"?

And so he levels with her:

BROYLES

What happened on that plane might not be an isolated incident.

She's intrigued - as he pulls out a CLASSIFIED FOLDER. Opens it. There are PHOTOGRAPHS inside.

BROYLES (CONT'D)

Most of what I'm going to show you has not been made public.

He shows her one photo: DEAD CATTLE. Dozens of them.

BROYLES (CONT'D)

Last April outside Houston, two-hundred and six head of cattle were found dead. Autopsies revealed they were all missing lungs. No surgical marks. No signs of foul play.

Olivia is puzzled as Broyles pulls out another IMAGE: a MAN IN A HOSPITAL BED.

BROYLES (CONT'D)

In June, in a Paris hospital. A man who had been in a coma for six years began whispering one word, over and over. "Dieu".

OLIVIA

"God".

Broyles pulls out ANOTHER IMAGE: another MAN in a hospital bed.

BROYLES

On the same day a comatose patient in Lisbon was heard speaking for the first time in a decade.

"Deus".

(another bed-ridden MAN)

Same day, Osaka: a comatose patient starting chanting..."Kamisama".

TIGHT ON OLIVIA: what the fuck is going on?! Another IMAGE: a happy-looking FAMILY.

BROYLES (CONT'D)

In August a family from Toronto vanished while on a road trip to the United States. Then, two hours after they were last seen at a rest
stop...

Another IMAGE - POLICE PHOTOS OF BURN MARKS ON THE GROUND -- BURNED HUMAN REMAINS

BROYLES (CONT'D)

...these charred remains of four people were found near Shanghai.
The dental records and wedding ring matched those of the missing couple.

As Broyles talks now, more IMAGES: a CORPSE which looks as if it has been turned INSIDE OUT. A TREE, covered in LOCUSTS. A CREATURE -- something - we don't know what --

BROYLES (CONT'D)

Needless to say. Strange things are happening. You yourself have been witness. You know.

(beat)

It is a new, real, and continuing phenomenon: in the past nine months there have been three-dozen authenticated incidents like these.

"Anomalies".

OLIVIA

--there are no...explanations? No suspects? No claims of responsibility--?

BROYLES

An emergency session was called two months ago in Tokyo - the worlds' top scientific minds in research and technology.

BROYLES (CONT'D)

They met with us -- heads of state, security agencies. They were asked to review the evidence. Draw conclusions, make suggestions

(beat)

It was a room of very alarmed people. They named these events "The Pattern".

OLIVIA

(recalling Nina's use of the same word)

...The Pattern...

(beat, then:)

Why are you telling me all this?

BROYLES

Since May I've been heading up a Homeland task force called Fringe Division. We've been investigating these anomalies.

OLIVIA

That's why they assigned you to the Hamburg flight.

BROYLES

I want you to work for me. I want you as lead investigator --

OLIVIA

I have a job.

BROYLES

This is a better job.

OLIVIA

I like my job. And the man I do it with. As you seem to have deduced on your own.

BROYLES

Another two cases have come up since Hamburg. Anomalies.

OLIVIA

(beat)

I feel for you.

BROYLES

I feel for all of us.

(beat, it's scary)

When I tell you what they are--?

OLIVIA

I don't want to know. Don't tell me.

(beat, real)

Mr. Broyles, I've been trained for a lot. For everything, it feels like. Battle. Hostage crisis.
Terror campaigns - suicide bombers, chemical attacks...

(beat)

But what I've been seeing recently...I don't know why it should be any different. Why it should affect me any more. But it does.

(eyes well up, quietly:)

I'm scared. And I just want to go back. To before.

BROYLES

I don't think you can--

OLIVIA

--I can.

(beat)

I can.

She sniffles -- stands -- starts to walk off, then turns back,
smiles:

OLIVIA (CONT'D)

Not that I'm not flattered.

Because I am. I should've said thank you before.

(then)

Thank you.

And Broyles just watches her walk off. He's lost a good one.

INT. LAB - DAY

PUSH IN on John's face -- while there are still veins seen through his skin, he looks remarkably normal again -- and suddenly he INHALES -- and Walter moves to him -- gives him oxygen - calls out--

WALTER

He's up! He's waking up!

Peter, who was napping at the desk is startled awake -- he gets up - hurries across the lab--to the doors, calling out:

PETER

Olivia! Olivi--

--and she enters--

PETER (CONT'D)

--he's up, he's conscious --

And Olivia, full of hope and anticipation, races across the lab space, to John, whose eyes are just opening -- he's getting his bearings - but she's there -- tears in her eyes - touching his face -- saying quietly, sweetly:

OLIVIA

...John? Can you hear me, baby?

And Peter records that "unofficial" term.

OLIVIA (CONT'D)

--John--?

And John's eyes focus on her beautiful face--he sees her. His voice weak, tears in his eyes too--

JOHN

...I had a dream...about you...

And she cries and kisses him, holding him so grateful. Peter watches this scene, incredulous. He glances at his father, who is literally crying at the reunion. And for the first time, Peter sees his father...as something of a hero.

FADE OUT.

END ACT NINE

ACT TEN

FADE IN:

INT. LAB - DAY - LATER

Perhaps an hour later, John is being wheeled out of the lab by two MED TECHS. Looking even healthier now, the trace of veins still receding under porcelain skin. Hey pass by Peter, who is on a cell, speaking Arabic:

PETER

I appreciate your patience, I should be back by Thursday night --

He walks past Walter, who stands in the middle of the room, keeping a close eye on Peter. Pensive. And Olivia approaches, grinning, grateful...

OLIVIA

You're a miracle worker.

It takes Walter a moment to turn to her--

WALTER

Oh. Yes, nature has its kinder moments

(then)

I was hoping you might...need me.
For another go. Another...something,
I don't know.

OLIVIA

They might. I think they would.

WALTER

But I'd need Peter. I don't think
I could do it without my son.

(beat)

And I suspect he wouldn't do it without you.

That catches her off-guard; the fact she understand the subtext so instantaneously, and might even (in her deepest recesses) share the feeling it implies, is something she can't handle yet:

OLIVIA

What --what do you mean?

WALTER
(beat, smiles)
I'm not sure.

WALTER (CONT'D)
(smile fades, long beat)
...what are we talking about?

OLIVIA
I was ...just thank you.

WALTER
No need.
(then, quietly)
I meant to ask you. If you've read my file...then you know the truth.
About my son's...medical history.

And we see in her face now, whatever it is he's referring to, she does know, and it's troubling. Her eyes go to Peter across the lab, still on the phone. She just nods.

WALTER (CONT'D)
If you'd like to thank me...you could do so by not telling him.
Please.

Their look holds, and we don't know WHAT this is about, but in time we certainly will. For now, there's a silent acknowledgement that yes, it'll stay between them. She leans in, gives Walter a kiss on the cheek. She walks off...and he watches as she moves to his son.

ON OLIVIA AND Peter:

As she says good-bye:

OLIVIA
Your job still waiting for you?

PETER
You bet it is. Guys as brilliantly stupid as I am don't grow on trees.

OLIVIA
Not in Baghdad they don't.

PETER
No sir.

OLIVIA
Good luck with Big Eddie.

PETER
(beat)
Thanks.

And there's a moment, a look between them -- despite everything, he's actually come to like her. And she, him.

PETER (CONT'D)
This whole freak show went better than I thought it would. Thanks.

And their look HOLDS...

INT. HOSPITAL - DAY

Through a hospital room window, we see JOHN, recovering, speaking to a NURSE. He's got BANDAGES on parts of his face, like a burn victim whose skin is still healing. PULL BACK to find Olivia staring through the glass, DR. REYES beside her, still happily surprised:

DR. REYES
His vitals are surprisingly strong.

OLIVIA
How long does he have to stay?

DR. REYES
Until the melanocytes in his skin regenerate -- but that shouldn't be more than a week.
(smiles)
He owes you his life.

OLIVIA
We owe each other.

And as she looks back on John, her focus goes elsewhere:

OLIVIA
What room is Stenson in?

INT. HOSPITAL - SECURE WING - DAY

Olivia approaches Stenson's room, flashes a BADGGE to the posted DOOR OFFICER - enters:

INT. ROOM 407 - CONTINUOUS

Stenson's in bed, shoulder bandaged from John's gunshot, his wrists leather-strapped to the bed's side rails. She enters; cold, intimidating stare; he returns it, unfazed:

STENSON

I told the truth.

(beat)

Didn't I. I gave you the names of the synthetics I used in th--

OLIVIA

(hating this prick)

Don't worry, our immunity agreement holds, but there's a lot more we have to talk about -- like why you killed your own brother, and who you were selling your work to.

STENSON

Who says I was selling it?

OLIVIA

Right now I only need one thing: you got help from someone in our office, didn't you? We have phone records. The calls made to your pre-paid cell.

(beat)

Who were they from?

He takes a beat, something in his eyes...

STENSON

You've got it wrong: I wasn't working with anybody, I was being threatened. And if the calls came out of your office...I'm starting to wonder if you can really protect me.

She studies him: unsure if he's fucking with her.

OLIVIA

I'll remind you the death penalty's only off the table for your continued cooperation, Mr. Stenson.

STENSON

--you think I'm lying? I swear to God, I can prove it. I recorded the conversation.

OLIVIA
--where is the recording?

STENSON
At home. In my yard. I buried it by the back steps...listen for yourself.

Off Olivia, REACTING to this new, profound break--

INT. LAB - CONTINUOUS

Walter watches impassively as all the new equipment's moved out; the old equipment re-taped. The cow too, is being readied for transport...Walter stares at it, awkwardly pats its head...

WALTER
Research suggests bovines are... gifted with advanced cognitive abilities, and never forget a face.
(beat)
I hope you'll remember mine. Good luck, Gene.

PETER (O.S.)
..."Gene?"

Walter turns; Peter, behind him, has been watching -- partly amused, partly embarrassed, partly pitying.

WALTER
(as if to say "obviously")
Our genetic benefactress.

To that, Peter has to smile a little. Obviously. There's an unspoken acknowledgement here of what comes next, and suddenly Walter grows quietly, painfully desperate:

WALTER (CONT'D)
Please don't take me back. I don't want to go back.

PETER
("don't do this to me")
Listen, um--Walter--

WALTER
You called me "pop" before.

PETER
And you asked me to all you "Mom".

WALTER

--this experience: you woke me up again, you can't put me back to sleep--
--whatever punishment you think I deserve, I swear I've already endured it-- seventeen years--

PETER

--this was hardly my idea, none of it was--

--STOP.

It gets very quiet.

WALTER

...please. Son.

And we see how much this hurts Peter too, that against every rational instinct, his heart's bleeding for this man. It's confusing, infuriating -- he doesn't want to connect:

PETER

Maybe the truth is...if you'd been more of a father to me, I'd be a better son.
(beat)
That doesn't just mean staying... it means not getting into the kind of trouble I'm in already.
(beat, simply)
If I stay here, I die.
(beat)
I don't really have a choice.

And he moves off, leaving Walter standing there, heartsick.

INT. STENSON'S TENEMENT BUILDING - DAY

The apartment's taped off, turned into a crime scene.
FORENSICS TECHNICIANS bag evidence, dust for prints...Olivia moves through, heading toward the back stairs...

HARD CUT TO HER HANDS, DIGGING IN DIRT -- she's on her knees in the yard, scrounging for the taps. Digging, digging, until she comes across the corner of a PLASTIC ZIPLOC BAG -- pulls it out and holds it up: inside is THE MICROCASSETTE.

INT. HOSPITAL - JOHN'S ROOM - DAY

John, in bed, tries to sit up...still feeling weak...but forces himself into sitting position. Looks determinedly towards the door--

INT. OLIVIA'S CAR - DAY

The glove compartment POPS OPEN -- Olivia rummages through supplies, finds a MICROCASSETTE RECORDER. Focused, full of anticipation, she slips in the Microcassette, hits "PLAY"-- HEAVY STATIC -voice FILTERED -- SLOWLY PUSH IN on her as:

STENSON (V.O.)
--who is this?

VOICE (V.O.)
We had a purchase agreement.

STENSON (V.O.)
There have been other bidders.
Today--the airplane--was a demonstration--

VOICE (V.O.)
You've drawn unwarranted attention -
- something we can't afford to be connected with.
(beat)
I'll make this simple: you're not selling to anyone else. You do that and we will come after you--
I will come after you.

We're still PUSHING IN on Olivia -- CLOSER STILL, an ominous feeling overtaking her --

STENSON (V.O.)
...you're threatening me? Is that wise. After seeing what I'm willing to do to my own brother?

VOICE
Lemme assure you, we'd be happy to treat you like family too.

AND BY NOW OLIVIA'S EYES FILL FRAME, WIDE, HORRIFIED, AS WE:

MEMORY FLASHCUT: LOGAN AIRPORT, ON THE TARMAC OUTSIDE THE PLANE
- JOHN'S GETTING OUT OF THE VAN AS HE ARRIVES ON-SCENE, TALKING ON HIS CELL:

JOHN
Lemme assure you, we'd be happy to treat you like family too.
(hangs up, grins)
Good old NTSB. All like to think they're cops.

BACK TO OLIVIA: we watch the insane, impossible moment of revelation -- the air leaves her chest--almost a whisper:

OLIVIA

--John--

EXT. STENSON'S ROOM - DAY

John, now back in his clothes, approaches the POSTED COP outside Stenson's door, flashes his FBI ID:

JOHN

Need to ask him a few questions...

INT. STENSON'S ROOM - DAY

Stenson's ASLEEP. A SHADOW moves over him then LIGHTNING FAST -- A PILLOW JAMS DOWN OVER STENSON'S FACE -- he JERKS under its force but CAN'T MOVE BECAUSE HIS WRISTS ARE BOUND -- his body SPASMS HELPLESSLY as we ANGLE AROUND TO JOHN, his face impassive, holding the pillow there with brute force...

INT. OLIVIA'S CAR - DAY

Olivia FLOORS IT back to the hospital, on auto-pilot - this isn't possible but it's fucking happening --

OLIVIA

(into headset)

Charlie, I need two agents posted outside Agent Scott's room now - nobody goes in or out 'til I get there -- and make sure Stensons's safe!

EXT. CORRIDOR OUTSIDE STENSON'S ROOM - DAY

Charlie runs down the corridor -- flashes his badge as he moves past the COP outside Stenson's room -- he bursts in -- FINDS A DEAD STENSON -- EYES WIDE--

CHARLIE

--oh God--Livvy, he's dead--
Stenson's dead!

(yells out)

WE NEED THIS PLACE LOCKED DOWN!

EXT./INT. HOSPITAL - DAY.

Olivia FISHTAILS around a corner -- SLAMMING HER BRAKES, door already open and she's LEAPING from the car -- RUNNING LIKE HELL FOR THE ENTRANCE -- but then she HEARS A SCREECH and turns

- John, behind the wheel of a BLACK SUV, pulls onto the road!
Olivia runs back to her car -- jumps in and TAKES OFF after him--

TIRES SCREAM AS SHE PURSUES, SHOUTING INTO HER CAR WALKIE:

OLIVIA

This is Warren, Agent ID 52776--in pursuit of black SUV, license number 5AD672B -- heading south on Fenway, need immediate assist--

EXT. HIGHWAY - DAY

JOHN -- speeding across the boulevard into a neighborhood of inclined streets and -OLIVIA-- skidding around a corner a second later as -- TWO POLICE CARS PULL U-TURNS on the road, whipping around to join the chase and John looks back -- SEES OLIVIA IS PURSUING HIM --

Pursued by Olivia and two black and whites, JOHN DRIVES, FAST up a hill-- CRESTS -- SPARK FLY as he SKIDS A HARD RIGHT -SHIT- -Another COP CAR angles in from the SIDE STREET and JOHN -- no choice - FLOORS IT - KNIFING the front end of the cop car and - the TWO COPS CARS FOLLOWING are spun back! CRASHING AGAINST A BUILDING ON THE CORNER - not to mention the COMMUTER CARS -- PILES-UP:

OLIVIA -- swerving to avoid it -- onto the sidewalk--SPARKS FROM THE WALL AS SHE SCRAPES! Hanging in --- skidding into a turn down the hill, catching up---

JOHN -- pedal down - SIDE-SWIPE OLIVIA'S CAR - THEY SKID INTO ONCOMING LANES - A TRUCK! They're forced to DIVIDE in a "V" as the truck PASSES INCHES BETWEEN THEM - John Veers off, onto the --

EXT. CHARLES RIVER ROAD

The two cars on a road running parallel to the Charles River -- the road itself divided by a CONCRETE BARRIER --

Olivia -- recovering - gaining -- nearly pulling level--

JOHN SWERVES INTO OLIVIA, TRYING TO RUN HER OFF THE ROAD--
SLAMMING INTO HER CAR, AGAIN AND AGAIN!

ANOTHER SLAM AND HIS BUMPER LOCKS INTO HER FENDER -- HE TRIES TO STEER LOOSE BUT SHE HAS HIM NOW -- SHE ACCELERATES:

SPEEDOMETER: vibrating at 99mph...105mph...up ahead, CRASH DRUMS -- she SLAMS her brake, ripping loose, sending John's car FISHTAILING OUT OF CONTROL--

HIS CAR CAREENS INTO THE DETONATING CRASH DRUMS, SMASHING INTO THE CONCRETE BARRIER, SOMERSAULTING OVER THE REINFORCED EMBANKMENT IN A SPINE-SHATTERING COLLISION AND...

...quiet. Olivia SLAMS her brakes, SKIDDING to a stop.

We stay CLOSE on her. Eyes wide, in SHOCK. HOLD for a long beat...the insane turn of events barley registering through the adrenaline screaming through her brain...

Finally, her eyes track up to the rear view, where she sees: the wreck sits motionless, smoke pouring from its hood.

Somewhere in there is John. The man who, until minutes ago, she loved. The man who just tried to kill her.

Weakly, she pushes open her dented door. Pulls herself from the car...stumbles over the wreckage, terrified to face what she'll see...and there he is:

Bloody, barely alive. His body crushed, entombed in twisted metal. And the eerie translucent skin almost makes him look like a vampire dying at dawn...he tries to speak, only GURGLES BLOOD...

Her eyes well, heart shredded, betrayed, watching him die. And in his last breath, he manages to say...

JOHN

...ask yourself...why...

...eyes wet, in shock, she just stares...

JOHN (CONT'D)

...why Broyles...sent you...to the storage facility...

(then)

...why you?

Her mind bends -- is he just fucking with her some more?! Or does he mean something by this?

OLIVIA

...I don't understand...why... who are you working for...?

He COUGHS more blood, fading. Manages to half-smile, sadly...her eyes well, she's almost pleading...

OLIVIA

Tell me, John. You tell me.

He just looks at her long and hard. And then. He dies.

Olivia just stands there, mind and heart a jumble, his last words echoing in her...holding the ugly promise of what she's found herself in the middle of...

FADE OUT.

END ACT TEN

ACT ELEVEN

FADE IN:

EXT. BOSTON - DAY

Charlie's government - issued car DRIVES PAST.

INT. CHARLIE'S CAR - DAY

Charlie drives, Olivia sits beside him, in shattered silence. Eyes red, numb. Mind a million pieces. Charlie looks at her. Speechless. What can he possibly say. Then, after a long beat, almost at a whisper:

OLIVIA

...I want to go back to the lab.

CHARLIE

Livvy. I promised them I'd take you right to the hospital--

OLIVIA

I can't go there. Please -

CHARLIE

You need to be checked out--

OLIVIA

I'm fine.
(smiles, crying)
I'm fine, look at me.

CHARLIE

Livvy

OLIVIA

Take me back please. To the lab.

Charlie looks at her. Knows he can't say no.

EXT. HARVARD QUAD - DAY

Charlie's car pulls up -- Olivia gets out. And she sees, across the parking lot, Walter and Peter getting into another black government vehicle as passengers. They see her and stop.

She moves to them. A shell of her former self. But somewhere -- visible even now -- is a strength forming as a result of everything she just experienced.

She tries to appear normal in this moment. Strong. Better than okay.

OLIVIA

So, uh...I was thinking. About everything. About what we did. And what we're gonna do next.

(beat)

And I thought...given everything...that maybe not sticking together...maybe that's being a little selfish.

PETER

--what are you saying?

OLIVIA

I'm saying that the world's scary as hell. And I don't like it.

(beat)

But if we can help...don't you think we have to?

WALTER

Yes.

PETER

No.

WALTER

I'm in.

PETER

You're not in -- you're out, because I'm not in.

(to Olivia)

I can't. You know I can't.

OLIVIA

You're the only one who speaks Walter. What if-- please -- what if...we take care of it? What you...what you owe.

And Jesus, Olivia is just desperate - and Peter can see it. He stares at her-- a mix of suspicion and concern...and, increasingly, heartbreak...

PETER

...what happened?

OLIVIA

...I just think it's the right thing to do.

PETER

--where's John?

And that's it: Olivia starts to cry-- and Peter moves to her-- takes her in his arms. Holds her. Not understanding--but at the same time, knowing --this is where he needs to be. And he says, quietly:

PETER (CONT'D)

Of course I'll stay. Of course I will.

And as he holds her, she just whispers"

OLIVIA

--thank you...

DISSOLVE TO:

INT. LAB - DAY

--suddenly things are being MOVED BACK IN AGAIN. Astrid here, helping. Walter could not be happier, setting up his equipment -- pulling the sheets off yet another really intimidating looking device.

PETER

I don't even want to know what that thing does.

WALTER

No you do not.

PETER

(quietly)

You don't even remember what it does, do you?

WALTER

No I do not.

Then Walter sees something that lights up his eyes: GENE, his COW is being brought back in:

WALTER (CONT'D)

Gene! Come this way! Over here.

And we find Olivia with Broyles. While hardly back to her old self...she will probably never be:

BROYLES

I'm sorry how it happened. But I'm glad you changed your mind.

OLIVIA

There's a lot we'll need on Monday. The doctors have a list of equipment -- and of course they'll need a place to stay--

BROYLES

It's all covered -- all of it-- but we can't wait until Monday.

(holds up a file)

There's something I need to show you now.

OLIVIA

...okay.

(then, loud)

Bishop.

And Walter and Peter BOTH turn.

OLIVIA (CONT'D)

We've got a briefing.

And Walter and Peter go with Olivia and Broyles toward their office, attached to the lab, but private, with windows and blinds. Walter and Peter enter -- but before Olivia and Broyles follow, she says, quietly:

OLIVIA (CONT'D)

And there's a slight, uh... gambling debt. That we'll need to cover.

BROYLES

No problem.

OLIVIA

Not slight.

(then)

Massive.

BROYLES

(re: file)

Solve this one and it's done.

And he's not joking. They enter the office - and as their FIRST REAL BRIEFING BEGINS, we PULL BACK, seeing them in the office...and we..

DISSOLVE TO:

INT. WHITE MODERN CORRIDOR - DAY

--where are we? Who are we with? All we see are the wheels of a GURNEY, being pushed down the sterile corridor. BOOM UP to see that a MAN is pushing it. And the body is COVERED by a sheet. Finally the Man stops the gurney -- a hand reached out and PULLS BACK THE SHEET.

Lying there is JOHN, bloody. Dead. And we see who pulled the sheet back: it's NINA CORD. She looks down at the corpse disapprovingly. A long pause...then:

NINA
...how long has he been dead?

MAN
Five hours.

A longer beat, as she stares at the dead man. Then:

NINA
Question him.

And she walks off. And in a LONG SHOT of the corridor, the PROMETHEUS LOGO on the wall, our EERIE MUSIC CRESCENDOS and we...

CUT TO BLACK.

THE END

AdChoices

Six Sigma Certification

www.VillanovaU.com...

Earn the Six Sigma Credentials That Will Set You Apart
- 100% Online

Search IMSDb

Alphabetical

A B C D E F G H
I J K L M N O P Q
R S T U V W X Y Z

Genre

Action Adventure Animation
Comedy Crime Drama
Family Fantasy Film-Noir
Horror Musical Mystery
Romance Sci-Fi Short
Thriller War Western

Sponsor

huluPLUS

Instantly watch
TV shows & movies

Try it Free ►

INGLOURIOUS BASTERDS

Written by

Quentin Tarantino

1.

EXT - DAIRY FARM- DAY

The modest dairy farm in the countryside of Nancy, France (what the French call cow country).

We Read a SUBTITLE in the sky above the farm house;

CHAPTER ONE

"ONCE UPON A TIME IN...

NAZI OCCUPIED FRANCE"

This SUBTITLE disappears, and is replaced by another one;

"1941

One year into the German occupation of France".

The farm consists of a house, small barn, and twelve cows spread about.

The owner of the property, a bull of a man FRENCH FARMER, brings a axe up and down on A tree stump blemishing his property. However simply by sight, you'd never know if he's been beating at this stump for the last year, or just started today.

JULIE

One of his three pretty teenage daughters, is hanging up laundry on the clothes line. As she hangs up a white bed sheet, she hears a noise, moving the sheet aside she see's;

JULIE'S POV:

A Nazi town car convertible, with two little nazi flags attached to the hood, a NAZI SOLDIER behind the wheel, a NAZI OFFICER alone in the back seat, following TWO OTHER NAZI SOLDIERS on motorcycles, coming up over the hill on the country road leading to their farm.

JULIE

Pappa.

The French Farmer sinks his axe in the stump, looks over his shoulder, and see's the Germans approaching.

The FARMERS WIFE, CHARLOTTE comes to the doorway of their home, followed by her TWO OTHER TEENAGE DAUGHTERS, and see the Germans approaching.

The Farmer yells to his family in FRENCH, SUBTITLED IN ENGLISH;

FARMER

Go back inside and shut the door.

IL

FARMER

(to Julie)
Julie, get me some water from the pump to wash up with, then get inside with your mother.
The young lady runs to the water pump by the house. She picks up a basin, and begins pumping, after a few pumps, water comes out splashing into the basin.
The French Farmer sits down on the stump he was previously chopping away at, pulls a handkerchief from his pocket, wipes sweat from off his face, and waits for the Nazi convoy to arrive. After living for a year with the sword of Damocles suspended over his head, this may very well be the end.
Julie finishes filling the water basin, and places it on the window sill.

JULIE

Ready Pappa.

FARMER

Thank you darling, now go inside and take care of your mother. Don't run.
Julie walks inside the farm house and closes the door behind her.
As her father stands up from his stump, and moves over to the window sill with the water basin...
.The SOUND of the ENGINES of the two motorcycles and car get LOUDER.
The Farmer SPLASHES water from the basin on his face and down his front. He takes a towel off a nail, and wipes the excess water from his face and chest, as he watches the two motorcycles, the one automobile, and the four representatives of the National Socialist Party come to a halt on his property.
We don't move into them, but keep observing them from a distance, like the Farmer.
The TWO NAZI MOTORCYCLIST are off their bikes, and standing at attention next to them.
The NAZI DRIVER has walked around the automobile, and opened the door for his superior.
The NAZI OFFICER says to The Driver in UNSUBTITLED GERMAN;

NAZI OFFICER

This is the property of Perrier LaPadite?

TV Transcripts

- Futurama
- Seinfeld
- South Park
- Stargate SG-1
- Lost
- The 4400

Movie Software

- Rip from DVD
- Rip Blu-Ray

Latest Comments

Amour	10/10
Drive	9/10
Django Unchained	10/10
Eternal Sunshine of the Spotless Mind	10/10
Django Unchained	9/10

Movie Chat

SAKIR
SAKIR KHAN

kta re loc
ola

BOO
Check out "Simply Scripts" maybe 😊

No-Name
Uh-huh 🙄

3

NAZI DRIVER

Yes heer Colonel.
The Nazi officer climbs out of the back the vehicle, carrying in his left hand n d

OFFICER

Message

Yell !

ALL SCRIPTS

Herman, until I summon you, I am to be left alone.

NAZI DRIVER

As you wish Heer Col.

The S.S. COLONEL yells to The Farmer in FRENCH, SUBTITLED IN ENGLISH;

NAZI OFFICER

Is this the property of Perrier LaPadite?

FARMER

I am Perrier LaPadite.

The S.S. Colonel crosses the distance between them with long strides, and says in French with a smile on his face;

NAZI OFFICER

It is a pleasure to meet you Monsieur

LaPadite, I am Colonel Hans Landa of the S.S.

COLONEL.HANS LANDA offers the French Farmer PERRIER LAPADITE his hand. The Frenchman takes the German hand in his and shakes it.

PERRIER

How may I help you?

COL LANDA

I was hoping you could invite me inside your home and we may have a discussion.

INT - LAPADITE FARM HOUSE - DAY

The door to the farm house swings open, and the Farmer gestures for the S.S. COL to enter. Removing his grey S.S. cap, inside the Frenchman's home.

Col Landa is immediately greeted with the sight of the Farmer's wife, and three pretty daughters standing together in the kitchen, smiling in his direction.

The Farmer enters behind him, closing the door.

VA

PERRIER

Colonel Landa, this is my family.

The S.S. COL clicks his heels together, and takes the hand of the French Farmer's Wife...

COL LANDA

Col Hans Landa of the S.S. madame, at your service.

He kisses her hand, then continues without letting go of his hostess hand...

COL LANDA

please excuse my rude intrusion on your routine.

FARMER'S WIFE

Don't be ridiculous, Heer Col.

While still holding the French Woman's hand, and looking into her eyes, The S.S. Colonel says;

COL LANDA

Monsieur LaPadite, the rumors I have heard in the village about your family are all true. Your wife is a beautiful woman.

His eyes leave the mother, and move to the three daughters.

COL. LANDA

(CON' T)

And each of your daughters is more lovely then the last.

PERRIER

Merci. Please have a seat.

The Farmer offers The S.S. Colonel a seat at the families wooden dinner table. The Nazi officer excepts the French Farmers offer, and lowers himself into the chair. Placing his grey S.S. cap on the table, and keeping his black attache case on the floor by his feet.

The Farmer (perfect host) turns to his Wife and says;

PERRIER

Charlotte, would you be so good as to get
The Colonel some wine?

COL LANDA

Merci be coupe Monsieur LaPadite, but no wine. This being a dairy farm one would be safe in assuming you have milk?

CHARLOTTE

Oui.

COL LANDA

Then milk is what I prefer.

CHARLOTTE

Very Well.

The mother of three, takes a craft of milk out of the ice box, and pours a tall glass of the fresh white liquid for The Colonel. The S.S. Colonel takes a long drink from the glass, then puts it down LOUDLY on the wooden table.

COL LANDA

Monsieur, to both your family, and your cows, I say; Bravo.

PERRIER

Merci.

COL LANDA

Please, join me at your table.

PERRIER

Very well.

The French Farmer sit's at his wooden dinner table across from The Nazi.

The Women remain standing.

Col Landa leans forward, and says to the Farmer in a low tone of

CONFIDENTIALLY;

COL LANDA

Monsieur LaPadite, what we have to discuss,' would be better discussed in private. You'll notice, I left my men outdoors- if it wouldn't offend them, could you ask your lovely ladies to step outside.

PERRIER

You are right.

G.

PERRIER

(to his women)

Charlotte, would you take the girls outside. The Colonel and I need to have a few words.

The Farmers wife follows her husbands orders, and gathers her daughter's taking them outside, closing the door behind them. The Two Men are alone, at the farmers dinner table, in the Farmers humble home.

COL LANDA

Monsieur LaPadite, I regret to inform you I've exhausted the extent of my French. To continue to speak it so inadequately, would only serve to embarrass me. However, I've been lead to believe you speak English quite well?

PERRIER

Oui.

COL LANDA

Well, it just so happens, I do as well. This being your house, I ask your permission to switch to English, for the remainder of the conversation?

PERRIER

By all means.
They now speak ENGLISH;

COL LANDA

Monsieur LaPadite, while I'm very familiar with you, and your family. I have no way of knowing if you are familiar with who I am. Are you aware of my existence?
The Farmer answers;

PERRIER

Yes.

COL LANDA

This is good. Are you aware of the job I've been ordered to carry out in France?

I

PERRIER

Yes.

The Colonel drinks more milk.

COL LANDA

Please tell me what you've heard?

PERRIER

I've heard, the fuhrer has put you in charge of rounding up the Jews left in France who are ether hiding, or passing for Gentile.

The S.S.Colonel smiles.

COL LANDA

The Fuhrer couldn't of said it better himself.

PERRIER

But the meaning of your visit, pleasant though it is, is mysterious to me. The Germans looked through my house nine months ago for hiding Jews, and found nothing.

COL LANDA

I'm aware of that, I read the report on this area. But like any enterprise, when under new management, there's always a slight duplication of efforts. Most of it being a complete waste of time, but needs to be done nevertheless. I just have A few questions Monsieur LaPadite, if you can assist me with answers, my department can close the file on your family.

Taking his black leather attache case, and placing it on the table, he takes out a folder from inside. He also extracts a expensive black fountain pen from his uniform front pocket. Opening the folder, and referring to it;

COL LANDA

Now before the occupation there were four Jewish families in this area, all dairy farmers like yourself. The Loveitts, The Doleracs, The Rollins, and The Dreyfus's, is that correct?

8,

PERRIER

To my knowledge those were the Jewish families among the dairy farmers.
- Heer Colonel, would it disturb you if I smoked my pipe?
Looking up from his papers.

COL LANDA

Please, Monsieur LaPadite, it is your house, make yourself comfortable.

The Farmer gets up from the table, goes to his shelf over the fireplace, and removes from it a WOODEN BOX that contains all the fixins to his pipe. He sits back down at the table with his Nazi guest.

As The Farmer loads the bowel of his pipe with tobacco, sets a match to it, and begins slowly puffing, making it red hot, the S.S. Colonel studies the papers in front of him.

COL LANDA

Now according to these papers, all the Jewish families in this area have been accounted for - except, The Dreyfusis. Somewhere in the last year it would appear they have vanished.

Which leads me to the conclusion that they've ether made good their escape, or someone is very successfully hiding them.

(looking up from his papers, across the table at The

FARMER)

What have you heard about The Dreyfusis
Monsieur LaPadite?

PERRIER

Only rumors -

COL LANDA

- I love rumors! Facts can be so misleading, where rumors, true or false are often reveling. So Monsieur LaPadite, what rumors have you heard regarding The Dreyfusis?
The Farmer looks at Landa.

I.

COL LANDA

Speak freely Monsieur LaPadite, I want to hear what the rumors are, not who told them to you.
The Farmer puffs thoughtfully on his pipe.

PERRIER

Again, this is just a rumor - but we heard the Dreyfusis had made there way into Spain.

COL LANDA

So the rumors you've heard have been of escape?

PERRIER

Yes.

COL LANDA

Were the LaPadites and the Dreyfusis friendly?

As the Farmer answers this question, the CAMERA LOWERS behind his chair, to the floor, past the floor, to a small area underneath the floorboards revealing;

FIVE HUMAN BEINGS

lying vertically underneath the farmers floorboards. These human beings are The DREYFUSIS, who have lived lying down underneath the dairy farmers house for the past year. But one couldn't call what The Dreyfusis have done for the last year living. This family has done the only thing they could, hidden from a occupying army that wishes to exterminate them.

PERRIER

We were families in the same community, in the same bussiness. I wouldn't say we were friends, but members of the same community, we had common interest. The S.S. Colonel takes in this answer, seems to except it, then moves to the next question.

COL LANDA

Having never met the Dreyfusis, would you confirm for me the exact members of the household and their names?

10.

PERRIER

There were five of them.
The father, Jacob... .wife, Miram... her brother, Bob ...

COL LANDA

- How old is Bob?

PERRIER

Thirty - thirty one?

COL LANDA

Continue.

PERRIER

And the children... Amos... and Shoshanna.

COL LANDA

Ages of the children?

PERRIER

Amos - six - I believe. And Shosanna, was fifteen or sixteen, I'm not really sure.

CUT TO

UXT - DAIRY FARM - DAY

The Mother and her three Daughters finish taking the laundry off the clothes line.

They can't hear anything going on inside.
e three Nazi Soldiers watch the three Daughters.

SACK TO LANDA AND PERRIER

COL LANDA

Well I guess that should do it.
Be begins gathering up his papers, and putting them back into his ttache case.

the Farmer, cool as a cucumber, puffs on his pipe.

COL LANDA

However, before I go, could I have another glass of your delicious milk?

it.

PERRIER

But of course.
Farmer stands up, goes over to the ice box, and takes out the aft of milk. As he walks over and fills the Nazi Colonel's glass, German Officer talks.

COL LANDA

Monsieur LaPadite, are you aware of the nickname the people of France have given me?

PERRIER

I have no interest in such things.

COL LANDA

But you are aware of what they call me?

PERRIER

I'm aware.

COL LANDA

What are you aware of?

PERRIER

That they call you, "The Jew Hunter".

COL LANDA

Precisely! Now I understand your trepidation in repeating it.
Before he was assassinated, Heydrich apparently hated the moniker the good people of Prague bestowed on him.
Actually why he would hate the name, "The Hangman", is baffling to me
It would appear he did everything in his power to earn it. But I, on the other hand, love my unofficial title, precisely because I've earned it.
As "The Jew Hunter" enjoys his fresh milk, he continues to theorize with the french farmer.

COL LANDA

The feature that makes me such a effective hunter of the Jews, is, as opposed to most German soldiers, I can think like a jew.
where they can only think like a German, or more precisely, a German soldier.
Now if one were to determine what attribute the German people share with a beast, it would be the cunning and predatory instinct of a hawk.

COL LANDA

(CON'T)

Negro's - gorilla's - brain - lips - smell - physical strength - penis size.
But, if one were to determine what attributes the jews share with a beast, it would be that of the rat.
Now the Fuhrer and Gobbles propaganda have said pretty much the same thing.
Where our conclusions differ, is I don't consider the comparison a insult.
Consider for a moment, the world a rat lives in. It's a hostile world indeed.
If a rat were to scamper through your front door right now, would you greet it with hostility?

PERRIER

I suppose I would.

COL LANDA

Has a rat ever done anything to you to create this animosity you feel toward them?

PERRIER

Rat's spread disease, they bite people -

COL LANDA

- Unless some fool is stupid enough to try and handle a live one, rats don't make it a practise of biting human beings.
Rats were the cause of the bubonic plague, but that was some time ago. In all your born days, has a rat ever caused you to be sick a day in your life? I purpose to you, any disease a rat could spread, a squirrel could equally carry.
Yet I assume you don't share the same animosity with squirrels that you do with rats, do you?

PERRIER

No.

COL LANDA

Yet, they are both rodent's, are they not? And except for the fact that one has a big bushy tail, while the other has a long repugnt tail of rodent skin, they even rather look alike, don't they?

13.6

PERRIER

It is a interesting thought, beer Colonel.

COL LANDA

However, interesting as the thought may be, it makes not one bit of difference to how you feel. If a rat were to scamper through your door, this very minute, would you offer it a saucer of your delicious milk?

PERRIER

Probably not.

COL LANDA

I didn't think so. You don't like them. You don't really know why you don't like them. All you know is, you find them repulsive.
(let's the

METAPHOR

sink in)

What a tremendously hostile world a rat must endure. Yet, not only does he survive, he thrives. And the reason for this, is because our little foe has a instinct for survival and preservation second to none. And that Monsieur, is what a Jew shares with a rat. Consequently, a German soldier, conducts a search of a house suspected of hiding Jews. Where does the hawk look? He looks in the barn, he looks in the attic, he looks in the cellar - he looks everywhere, he would hide. But there are many places it would never occur to a hawk to hide. However the reason the Fuhrer brought me off my Alps in Austria, and placed me in French cow country today, is because it does occur to me. Because I'm aware what tremendous feats human beings are capable of once they abandon dignity.
(Changing tone)
May I smoke my pipe as well?
The Farmer's cool facade is little by little eroding.

PERRIER

Please, Colonel, make yourself at home.

13.

The Jew Hunter, removes both a pipe and a bag of tobacco fixings. The pipe, strangely enough, is a Calabash, made from a "S" shaped board with a yellow skin, made famous by Sherlock Holmes. At the Nazi Colonel, busies himself with his smoking life, he continues to hold court at the Frenchman's table.

COL LANDA

The other mistake the German soldier makes is their severe handling of the citizens who give shelter and aid to the Jews. These citizens are not enemies of the state. They are simply confused people, trying to make some sense out of the madness war creates.

These citizens do not need punishing.
They simply need to be reminded of their duty in war time.
Let's use you as a example Monsieur LaPadite. In this war, you have found yourself in the middle of a conflict that has nothing to do with yourself, your lovely ladies, or your cows - yet, here you are.
So Monsieur LaPadite, let me purpose a question. In this time of war, what is your number one duty? Is it to fight the Germans in the name of France to your last breath? Or, is it to harass the occupying army to the best of your ability? Or, is it to protect the poor unfortunate victims of warfare who can not protect themselves?
Or, is your number one duty in this time of bloodshed, to protect those very beautiful women who constitute your family?
The Colonel lets the last statement stand.

COL LANDA

That was a question Monsieur LaPadite.
In this time of war, What do you consider your number one duty?

PERRIER

To protect my family.

COL LANDA

Now, my job dictates, that I must have my men enter your home, and conduct a thorough search, before I can officially cross your families name off my list.

COL LANDA

(CON'T)

And if there are any irregularities to be found, rest assured, they will be.
That is unless, you have something to tell me that will make the conducting of a search unnecessary.

(PAUSE)

I might add also, that any information that makes the preforming of My duty easier, will not be met with punishment.
Actually quite the contrary, it will be met with reward.
And that reward will be, your family will cease to be harassed in anyway, by the German military during the rest of our occupation of your country.
The Farmer, pipe in mouth, stares across the table at his German opponent.

COL LANDA

You are sheltering enemies of the state, are you not?

PERRIER

Yes.

COL LANDA

Your sheltering them underneath your floorboards aren't you?

PERRIER

Yes.

COL LANDA

Point out to me the area's where their hiding.

The Farmer points out the area's on the floor with the Dreyfusis are underneath.

COL LANDA

Since I haven't heard any disturbance, I assume that while their listening, they don't speak english?

PERRIER

Yes .

COL LANDA

I'm going to switch back to french now, and I want you to follow my masquerade - is that clear?

PERRIER

Yes.

Colonel Landa stands up from the table, and switching to FRENCH says

SUBTITLED IN ENGLISH;

COL LANDA

Monsieur LaPadite, I thank you for milk, and your hospitably. I do believe our business here is done.

The Nazi Officer opens the front door, and silently motions for his son to approach the house.

COL LANDA

Mademoiselle LaPadite, I thank you for your time, we shant be bothering your family any longer.

Yet the LaPadite women watch the Nazi soldiers, machine guns at ready, approach the house.

The Soldiers enter the doorway, Col Landa, silently points out area of the floor the Jews are hiding under.

COL LANDA

So, Monsieur and Madame LaPadite I bid you adieu.

otions to the Soldiers with his index finger.

wy TEAR UP the wood floor with MACHINE GUN FIRE.

The little farm house is filled with SMOKE, DUST, SPLINTERS, SCREAMS, OULLET CASINGS, and even alittle BLOOD.

With a hand motion from the Colonel, the Soldiers cut off their gunfire. The Colonel keeps his finger in the air to indicate silence.

UNDERNEATH THE FLOORBOARDS

The entire Dreyfus family lay dead. Except for sixteen year old SHOSANNA, who miraculously escaped being struck by the nazi's bullets. With her dead family surrounding her, the young girl goes for freedom (represented by wire mesh vent).

L LANDA

ears movement underneath the floor, looks down and see's a SHAPE Wing forward between the planks in the floor.

COL LANDA

It's the girl. Nobody moves

I'.

T

KICKED open, the girl SPRINGS out.

COL LANDA

ae he crosses the floor, he see's the young girl RUNNING towards the cover of the woods. He unlatches the window, and opens it. Shosanna to perfectly FRAMED in the window sill.

1SANNA

RUNNING towards woods. Farm house and Col in the window in B.G.

LTHY BAREFEET

LAPPING against wet grass.

Qt! SHOSANNMA' S FACE same as a animal being chased by a predator FLIGHT - PANIC - FEAR

SNOSANNA'S POV

the safety of tree's, getting closer.

COL LANDA

Pramed by the window, takes his LUGAR, and straight arm aims at the fleeing Jew, cocking back the hammer with his thumb.

CU COL LANDA

SLOW ZOOM into his eyes as he aims.

PROFILE CU SHOSANNA

Sod dash for life.

L LANDA

changes his mind. He yells to the rat fleeing the trap, heading for the safety of the wood pile, in FRENCH SUBTITLED IN ENGLISH;

COL LANDA

Au revoir, Shosanna! Till we meet again!

HOSANNA

Maces it to the woods, and is gone.

T h e S.S. Colonel closes the window.

17.

EXT - NAZI TOWN CAR (MOVING) - DAY

dihe ac seat of the convertible, that'sa stsn tColonel Hans Lan speeding away from the French farm house.

Landa speaks to his Driver in GERMAN, SUBTITLED into ENGLISH;

COL LANDA

Herman, I sense` a question on your lips?
Out with it?

DRIVER

Why did yoy allow a enemy of the state to escape?

COL LANDA

Oh, I don't think the state is in too much danger, do you?

DRIVER

I suppose not.

COL LANDA

I'm glad you see it my way. Besides, not putting a bullet in the back of a fifteen year old girl, and allowing her to escape, our not nessessarilly the same thing. She's a young girl, no food, no shelter, no shoes, who's just witnessed the massacre of her entire family.
She may not survive the night. And after word spreads about what happened today, it's highly unlikely she will find any willing farmers to extend her aid.
If I had to guess her fate, I'd say she'll probably be turned in by some neighbour.
Or, she'll be spotted by some German soldier. Or, we'll find her body in the woods, dead from starvation or exposure.
Or, perhaps-she'll survive. She will elude capture. She will escape to America.
She will move to New York city.
Where she will be elected, President of the United States.
The S.S. Colonel chuckles at his little funny.

TITLE CARD:"INGLORIOUS BASTERDS"

1$,

FADE UP

CHAPTER TITLE APPEARS:

F

CHAPTER TWO

"INGLORIOUS BASTERDS"

FADE UP

EXT - SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND - DAY

A bunch of SOLDIERS are lined up at attention.
 LIEUTENANT ALDO.RAINE, a hillbilly from the mountains of Tennessee, walks down the line. He recruits the men, the Germans will later call; "The Basterds". Lt.Aldo has one defining physical characteristic, a ROPE BURN around his neck. As if once upon a time,. he survived a LYNCHING. The scar will never once be mentioned.

LT.ALDO

My name is Lt.Aldo Raine, and I'm puttin together a special team.
 And I need me eight soldiers.
 Eight - Jewish - American - soldiers.
 Now y'all might of heard rumors about the armada happening soon.
 Well, we'll be leavin a little earlier. We're gonna be dropped into France, dressed as civilians.
 And once we're in enemy territory, as a bushwackin, guerrilla army, we're gonna be doin one thing, and thing only, Killin Nazi's.
 The Members of the National Socialist Party, have conquered Europe through murder, torture, intimidation, and terror. And that's exactly what we're gonna do to them. Now I don't know bout y'all? But I sure as hell, didnt come down from the goddamn Smoky mountains, cross five thousand miles of water, fight my way through half Sicily, and then jump out of a fuckin air-o-plane, to teach the Nazi's lessons in humanity. Nazi ain't got no humanity. There the foot soldiers of a Jew hatin, mass murderin manic, and they need to be destroyed.
 That's why any and every son-of-a--bitch we find wearin a Nazi uniform, there gonna die.

if.

LT.ALDO

(CON'T)

We will be cruel to the Germans, and through our cruelty, they will know who we are. They will find the evidence of our cruelty, in the disembowed, dismembered, and disfigured bodies of their brothers we leave behind us. And the German will not be able to help themselves from imagining the cruelty their brothers endured at our hands, and our boot heels, and the edge of our knives.
 And the Germans, will be sickened by us.
 And the Germans, will talk about us.
 And the Germans, will fear us.
 And when the Germans close their eyes at night, and their sub conscious tortures them for the evil they've done, it will be with thoughts of us,

that it tortures them with.
He stops pacing, and looks at everybody.

LT. ALDO

Sound good?
They all say;

ALL

Yes, sir!

LT. ALDO

That's what I like to hear. But I got a word of warning to all would-be warriors. When you join my command, you take on debit. A debit you owe me, personally. Every man under my command, owes me, one hundred nazi scalps.
And I want my scalps.
And all y'all will git me, one hundred Nazi scalps, taken from the heads of one hundred dead Nazi's...
.or you will die trying.

CUT TO

EXT - MOUNTAIN TOP CHALET- DAY

A huge Chalet on a misty mountain top in Barvia.

ZO

A SUBTITLE APPEARS:

"BARVIA

BURSTICH GARDEN

(HITLERS PRIVATE LAIR)"

INT - BURSTICH GARDEN - DAY

In a huge room, ADOLPH HITLER, pounds on a big table with his fist, as he rants at TWO GERMAN GENERALS.
They speak GERMAN SUBTITLED into ENGLISH;

HITLER

How much more of these jew swine must I endure? They butcher my men like they were fish bait! This pack of filthy degenerates, are doing what the Russian army didn't, and Patton's army couldn't. Turning soldiers of The Third Reich, into superstitious old women!

GERMAN GENERAL

Just the cowards among them mine
Fuhrer.
Hitler pounds furiously on the desk with his fist.

HITLER

No, no, no, no, no, no! I have heard the rumors myself! Solders of The Third

Reich, who have brought the world to there knee`s, now pecking and clucking like chickens. Do you know the latest rumor they've conjured up, in their fear induced delirium? The one that beats my boys with a bat. The one they call "The Bear Jew"...is a Golem. A avenging jew angel, conjured up by a vengeful rabbi, to smite the Aryans!

GENERAL

Mine Fuhrer, this is just soldiers gossip, no one really believes The Bear Jew is a golem.

HITLER

Why not? They seem to be able to elude capture like a aberration. They seem to be able to appear and disappear at will.

Z}.

HITLER(CON'T)

You want to prove their flesh and blood? Then BRING THEM TO ME!
I will hang them naked, by their heels, from the eiffel tower!
And then throw their bodies in the sewers, for the rats of Paris to feast!
The Fuhrer sits down at the table to compose himself, and wipe his greasy black hair out of his face.

HITLER(DISGUSTED)

The Bear Jew.
He hits the button on the intercom on his desk.

HITLERKLIEST1

KLIEST VOICE comes out of the intercom;

KLIEST'S VOICE (OS)

Year mine Fuhrer.

HITLER

I have a order I want relayed to all German soldiers stationed in France. The Jew degenerate known as The Bear Jew, hence forth, is never to be referred to as The Bear Jew again. We will cease to aid the Americans any longer in there attempt to undermine the German soldier psyche. Did you get that Kliest?

KLIEST'S VOICE (OS)

Yes mine Fubrer. Do you still wish to see Private Butz?

HITLER

Who and what is a private Butz?

KELIST'S VOICE (OS)

He's the soldier you wanted to see personally. His squad was ambushed by Lt.Raines Jews. He was it's only survivor.

HITLER

Indeed I do want to see him, thank you for reminding me. Send him in.

CUT TO

0

EXT - FRENCH WOODS -- DAY

CU FACE OF DEAD GERMAN SOLDIER

His head lies on the ground horizontal. A HAND reaches into FRAME, KNOCKS aside the dead German patriots helmet, and grabs a handful of the cadavers blonde hair. A LARGE KNIFE ENTERS FRAME, and begins SLICING ALONG THE HAIRLINE. This process is called SCALPING. After SLICING is complete, the SCALP easily peels off like a banana.

GERMAN PRISONERS PVT.BUTZ AND SGT.RACHTMAN on their knees, hands behind there heads. Private Butz NARRATES the scene in GERMAN SUBTITLED into

ENGLISH;

PVT.BUTZ (VO)

Werner and I were the only ones left alive after the ambush. While one man guarded us, the rest removed the hair. All The Basterds wore German scalps tied to their belts.

CU SCALPS

hanging from belts.

PVT.BUTZ (VO)

They not only took valuables...

WE SEE QUICK CUTS OF

Rings, Weapons, Iron Cross, and somebody digging out a Gold Tooth with a knife, being removed from Dead Germans.

PVT.BUTZ (VO)

..They also took their identification papers.

CU IDENTIFICATION PAPERS

taken from the inside pocket of a dead German uniform.

BASTERD PFC.UTIVICH

flips through the I.D. papers till he gets to the page that contains the German soldiers, name, statistics, and photo.

PFC.UTIVICH

Sigfried Muller.

t3.

PVT.BUTZ (VO)

.and tore out the identification page.
Utivich RIPS the page out, and sticks it in his pocket.
Tossing the torn book on the dead, scalpless body.

PVT.BUTZ (VO)

...They then removed their boots...

CU GERMAN COMBAT BOOTS

laces untied.. .boot pulled off...

SOCKS

removed, reveling dead bare feet...

BASTERDS

tossing the boots off a hill.

PVT.BUTZ (VO)

Throwing them away from the bodies...

DEAD GERMANS

scalps removed from their heads, pink bare feet...

PVT.BUTZ (VO)

The Basterds, took their lives, their hair, their valuables, their identity, and finally their dignity in death.
True that. The sight of the dead soldiers with bare feet does rob the tableaux of a certain dignity, that is normally felt in battlefield shots.

BACK TO HITLERHITLER

The dogs!
He fights his frustration, then...

HITLER

Continue.

BACK TO THE BASTERDS

Aldo screams to The Basterd who's guarding the two German prisoners.

LT.ALDO

Hey Hirschberg, send that kraut sarge over.

BASTERD PFC.HIRSCHBERG

KICKS Sgt.Rachtman in the back.

ZW.

PFC. HIRSCHBERG

You! Go!

Sgt. Rachtman is a little slow to respond. So Hirschberg grabs him by the hair, YANKS him to his feet, and KICKS him in the ass, sending him on his way.

Most of The Bastards sit in a circle, Indian style, with Aldo in the middle.

As Sgt. Rachtman walks towards this circle of Bastards, A OFF SCREEN LITERARY NARRATOR (not Pvt. Butz) speaks over the SOUNDTRACK in ENGLISH;

NARRATOR (VO)

Sgt. Werner Rachtman has seen many interrogations since Germany decided it should rule Europe. But this is the first time he's ever been on the wrong end of the exchange.

It's always been his belief, only a weakling, in mind, body, and spirit complies with the enemy under threat of consequence.

As Werner watched men cry like women, pleadingly offer their knowledge, in exchange for their worthless lives, he made a vow to himself.

If his role is to die in this conflict.

When they put him under the earth, his dignity would be buried with him.

For in the other world, the gods only respect the ones they test first.

Well Sgt, this is your test.

And the gods are watching.

The captured German Sgt, enters the circle of Bastards, stands straight before the sitting southern Lieutenant, and salutes his captor.

SGT. RACHTMAN

(ENGLISH)

Sgt. Werner Rachtman.

Aldo returns the salute, looking up at him.

LT. ALDO

Lt. Aldo Raine, pleased to meet cha.

You know what sit down means Werner?

SGT. RACHTMAN

Yes.

LT. ALDO

Then sit down.

2.5.

The German Sgt does.

LT. ALDO

How's your English Werner? Cause if need be, we gotta a couple fellas can translate.

Aldo points at one of The Bastards in the circle,

CPL.WILHELM WICKI .

LT.ALDO

Wicki there, a Austrian Jew, got the fuck outta Saltzberg, while the gettin was good. Became American, got drafted, and came back to give y'all what for.

Then Aldo points to another Basterd. A big scary looking Basterd, in a German Sgt's uniform, named, SGT.HUGO STIGLITZ

LT.ALDO

And another one over there, you might be familiar with, Sgt.Hugo Stiglitz. Heard of 'em.
The two German Sgt's look at each other.

SGT.RACHTMAN

Everybody in the German army's heard of Hugo Stiglitz.
The Basterds laugh, a couple pat Hugo on the back.
The NARRATOR comes back on the SOUNDTRACK.

NARRATOR (VO)

The reason for Hugo Stiglitz's celebrity among German soldiers is simple.
WE SEE A PHOTO OF HUGO on the front page of the Nazi version of Stars and Stripes (the military newspaper).

NARRATOR (VO)

As a German enlisted man, he killed thirteen Gestapo officers, mostly Majors.

WE SEE THE MILITARY PHOTOS OF ALL THIRTEEN GESTAPO OFFICERS.

ZC.

NARRATOR (VO)

Instead of putting him up against a wall, the High Command decided to send him back to Berlin, to be made a example of.
Hugo in chains, being put in a lone troop truck, part of a prison convoy, enroute to Berlin.

NARRATOR (VO)

Needless to say, once The Basterds heard about him, he never got there.

EXT- FRENCH COUNTRYSIDE - DAY

The Basterds AMBUSH the prison convoy, killing everybody.
They walk to the back of the troop truck, inside Hugo in chains, stares back at them.

LT.ALDO

Sgt.Hugo Stiglitz?
Hugo nods.

LT. ALDO

I'm Lt.Aldo Raine, and these are
The Basterds. Ever heard of us?

Hugo nods his head, yes.

LT.ALDO

We just wanna say, we're a big fan of your work. When it comes to killin Nazi's, I think you show great talent, and I pride myself on havin a eye for that kind of talent. But your status as a Nazi killer, is still amateur. We all came here to see, if you wanna go pro?

BACK TO THEBASTERD CIRCLE.

LT.ALDO

Now Werner, I'm gonna assume you know who we are?

SGT.RACHTMAN

Aldo the Apache.
The circle of Basterds giggle.

Z7.

LT.ALDO

Well Werner, if you heard of us, you probably heard, we ain't in the prisoner takin business. We in the killin Nazi business. And cousin, business is boomin.
The Basterds laugh.

LT. ALDO

Now that leaves two ways we can play this out. Either kill ya, or let ya go. Now weather or not you gonna leave this circle alive, depends entirely on you.
Aldo takes out a map of the area, and lays it out in front of his prisoner.

LT.ALDO

Up the road a piece, there's a orchard. 'sides you, we know there's another kraut patrol fuckin around here somewhere. Now if that patrol were to have any crackshots, that orchard, would be a goddamn snipers delight. Now if you ever wanna eat a sauerkraut sandwich again, you gotta show me on this map, where they are, you gotta tell me how many they are, and you gotta tell me, what kinda artillery they carrying with 'em?

SGT.RACHTMAN

You can't expect me to divulge information that would put German lives in danger?

LT.ALDO

well, Werner that's where your wrong. Because that's exactly what I expect.

I need to know about Germans hidin in trees? And you need to tell me?
And you need to tell me, right now?
Now take your finger, and point out on this map, where this partys bein held, how manys comin, and what they brought to play with?
Werner site, head held high, back straight, chin up, every inch the German hero facing death.

2S.

SGT.WERNER

F I respectfully refuse, sir.
Aldo jerks his thumb behind him.

LT.ALDO

You see that ole boy battin rocks?
WE RACK FOCUS to a one of The Basterds not in the circle.
He's wearing a wife beater, and power hitting stones with a baseball bat.
Werners eyes go to the ballplayer.

LT.ALDO

That's Sgt.Donny Donowitz. But you might know him better by his nickname,
The Bear Jew. Now if you heard of Aldo the Apache, you gotta heard about
The Bear Jew?

SGT.RACHTMAN

I heard.

LT.ALDO

What did you hear?

SGT.RACHTMAN

He beats German soldiers with a club.

LT.ALDO

He bashes their brains in with a baseball bat, what he does.

SGT.DONOWITZ

back to us, still haven't seen his face. He Babe Ruths a rock soaring into the atmosphere.

LT. ALDO

Now Werner, I'm gonna ask you one last-goddamn-time, and if you still,
"respectfully refuse", I'm callin The Bear Jew over here, and he's gonna take that big bat of his, and he's gonna beat your ass to death with it.
Now take your wengersitnitzel lickin finger, and point out on this map what I want to know.

SGT.RACHTMAN

Fuck you and your jew dogs.

t v.

Instead of getting mad, The Basterds burst out LAUGHING.

I k

Aldo says to Werner, with a giggle in his voice;

LT.ALDO

Actually Werner, we're all tickled ya said that. Frankly, watchin Donny beat Nazi's, to death, is the closest we ever get to goin to the movies.

(YELLING)

DONNY!

SGT.DONOWITZ

he turns to CAMERA, and yells;

SGT.DONOWITZ

Yeah?

LT.ALDO

Got a German here wants to die for country. Oblige him.

SGT.DONNY DONOWITZ

Bat over his shoulder, smiles.

CUT TO

INT - BARBER SHOP (BOSTIN) - DAY

Donny, cutting heads, in his pop's barber shop, in Bostin.

DONNY

.ya got the goddamn fuckin Germans, declaring open season on Jews in Europe, and I'm suppose to fly to the fuckin Philippines, and fight a bunch of fuckin Japs - not me pal.
If we just go in this against the Japs, the whole U.S.of fuckin A can go take a running jump at the moon.

HEAD

You know they got a word for what your sayin Donny, it's called treason.

DONNY

Hey, stick your treason up your poop hole. If I'm gonna kill my fellow man in the name of liberty, that fellow man, will be German.

3401

INT - SPORTING GOODS STORE- DAY

MR.GOOROWITZ'S sporting goods shop in Donny's Jewish Bostin neighbourhood. Donny walks in.

MR. GOOROWITZ

Hello Donny, how are you?

DONNY

Ah, just dandy, Mr.Goorowitz.

MR. GOOROWITZ

Your mother, your father - everything good there?

DONNY

There just fine. I'm shippin off next week.

The store proprietor, extends his hand to the young man.

MR. GOOROWITZ

Good for you son. Kill one of those Nazi basterds for me, will ya?

DONNY

That's the idea, Mr.Goorowitz.

MR. GOOROWITZ

What can I do you for, Donny?

DONNY

I need a baseball bat.

The store owner leads him to a basket with eight bats init.

Donny starts going through them without saying anything.

MR. GOOROWITZ

You gettin your little brother a present before you ship out?

Donny, concentrating on the bats, not looking up;

DONNY

No.

Donny's "no", silences the gabby Goorowitz. He seems to settle on one, feeling it's weight in his hands.

DONNY

Can I try this one on for size, outside?

31.

Extending his arm;

MR. GOOROWITZ

Be my guest.

The phone rings.

MR. GOOROWITZ

I'll get that, you go right ahead.

The proprietor answers the phone, and gets into a conversation with his OFF SCREEN Mother.

Donny walks outside, WE STAY IN STORE, but can see him clearly through the stores big picture window.

However, Mr.Goorowitz instinctively, turns his back to Donny to speak with his mother.

Donny starts swinging the bat. It's pretty obvious he's pantomiming beating somebody to death with it. Then the he starts yelling;

DONNY

Take that ya Nazi basterd! You like fuckin with the Jews? Wanna Fuck with the Jews? The American jews are gonna FUCK with you... ..!
Mr.Goorowitz, see's none of this, as he speaks to his mother. He hangs up the phone, just as Donny walks back into the store. Store owner turns to store customer.

DONNY

Is this the heaviest ya got?

CUT TOINT - HALLWAY APARTMENT BUILDING - DAY

Donny, dressed nice, in a apartment building in his Jewish Bastin neighbourhood. He knocks on a door.
A VERY OLD JEWISH WOMAN opens the door, only a little, peering out at the young man.

OLD WOMAN

How can I help you?

DONNY

Mrs.Himmelstein?

MRS.HIMMELSTEIN

State your business young man.

3Z..DONNY

Mrs.Himmelstein, I'm Donny Donowitz, my father Sy Donowitz, owns the barber shop on Greeny Ave, "Sy's Barber Shop".

MRS.HIMMELSTEIN

I've seen it. Do you live in the neighbourhood?

DONNY

All my life.

MRS.HIMMELSTEIN

Again, state your business?

DONNY

May I have a word with you?

MRS.HIMMELSTEIN

What about?

DONNY

Our people in Europe.
She thinks for a beat, then holds the door open for the young man.

MRS.HIMMELSTEIN

Come in. Would you like some tea?

INT - MRS.HIMMELSTEIN'S APARTMENT - DAY

Donny sits on a overstuffed sofa, holding a tea cup and saucer in his hand. Mrs.Himmelstein sits on a overstuffed chair, holding her tea, looking across at her visitor.

DONNY

(Sipping tea)
Very good.

MRS.HIMMELSTEIN

If you like tea.
Donny chuckles at her little joke. The old woman remains stone. She wasn't joking. He places his saucer on the coffee table and begins;

DONNY

Mrs.Himmelstein, do you have any love ones over in Europe who your concerned for?

33.

MRS.HIMMELSTEIN

What compels you young man, to ask a stranger such a personal question?

DONNY

Because I'm going to Europe. And I'm gonna make it right.

MRS.HIMMELSTEIN

And just how do intend to do that, Joshua?

DONNY

MRS.HIMMELSTEIN

And what exactly do you intend to do with that toy?

DONNY

I'm gonna beat every Nazi I find to death with it.

MRS.HIMMELSTEIN

I thought we were having tea together?

MRS.HIMMELSTEIN

And in this pursuit, how is it that I can be of service?

DONNY

I'm going through the neighbourhood.
If you have any love ones in Europe, who's safety you fear for, I'd like you to write their name on my bat.

BACK TO BASTERDS

Donny takes a long walk to Werner...
As WE CUT BACK and FORTH BETWEEN DONNY WALKING and WERNER WAITING, WE ALSO CUT BACK and FORTE BETWEEN DONNY and

MRS.HIMMELSTEIN...

MRS.HIMMELSTEIN

You must be a real BASTERD, Donny?

DONNY

You bet your sweet ass I am.

MRS. HIMMELSTEIN

Good. A Basterds work is never done.

Specially in Germany.

Donny steps up to the plate, looking down at the Nazi;

DONNY

Gimmie your papers.

Werner hands Donny up his papers.

Donny RIPS the identity page out, and sticks it in his pocket.

MRS. HIMMELSTEIN

Hand me your sword Gideon. I do believe

I will join you on this journey.

INSERT

she signs the BAT, "MADELEINE"

BACK TO BASTERDS

Donny BEATS Werner TO DEATH WITH THE BAT, to the cheers of The Basterds.

PVT. BUTZ

watches. Hirschberg says to him;

PFC. HIRSCHBERG

About now, I'd be shittin my pants, if

I was you.

Aldo points a finger at Butzsr and crooks it toward him.

PFC. HIRSCHBERG

That means you, cup cake.

A crying, visibly shaken, Butz site down in front of Aldo.

LT. ALDO

You wanna live?

PVT. BUTZ

Yes, sir.

LT. ALDO

Point out on this map, the German position.

His arm shoots out like a rocket, and points out the positions.

3 s.

PVT. BUTZ

This area here.

LT. ALDO

How many?

PVT.BUTZ

Maybe twelve.

LT.ALDO

What kinda of artillery?

PVT.BUTZ

They have a machine gun dug in here pointing north.

HITLER

How did you survived this ordeal?

WE SEE Pvt.Butz in The Fuhrer's room for the first time.
He wears a Nazi cap, which is unusual in the presence of The Fuhrer, but he seems okay with it.

PRVT.BUTZ

They let me go.

FROM HERE ON WE GO BACK AND FORTH BETWEEN ALDO AND HITLER.

LT.ALDO

Now when you report what happened here, you can't tell 'em, you told us, what you told us. They'll shoot ya. But there gonna wanna know, why you so special, we let you live? So tell 'em, we let ya live, so you could spread the word through the ranks, what's gonna happen to every Nazi we find.

HITLER

You are not to tell anybody anything!
Not one word of detail! Your outfit was ambushed, and you got away.
Not one word more.

PVT.BUTZ

Yes mine Fuhrer.

HITLER

Did they mark you like they did the other survivors?

36&A, -&A

PVT.BUTZ

Yes mine Fuhrer.

HITLER

Remove your hat and show me.

LT.ALDO

Now say we let ya go, and say you survive the war? When you get back home, what's gonna do?

PVT.BUTZ

I will hug my mother like I've never hugged her before.

LT.ALDO

Well, ain't that's a real nice boy. Are you going to take off your uniform?

PVT. BUTZ

Not only shall I remove it, but I intend to burn it!

The young German is telling Aldo, what he thinks, Aldo wants to hear. But the last answer didn't go down as well as he thought it would, evident by the frown on Aldo's face.

LT. ALDO

Yeah, that's what we thought. We don't like that. You see, we like our Nazi's in uniforms. That way, you can spot 'em, just like that.

(Snaps his fingers)

But you take off that uniform, ain't nobody gonna know you was a Nazi.

And that don't sit well with us.

Aldo removes a LARGE KNIFE from a sheath on his belt.

LT. ALDO

So I'm gonna give ya a little somethin, you can't take off.

BACK TO HITLER

Pvt. Butz removes his combat helmet, hair hangs in his face, his moves it aside, and WE SEE a SWASTIKA has been HAND CARVED INTO HIS FOREHEAD.

BACK TO BASTERDS

BUTZ'S POV:

on ground, looking up at them. Aldo has just carved the swastika, and he's holding the bloody knife. All The Basterds crowd around to admire his handy work.

37.

SGT. DONOWITZ

You know Lieutenant, your getting pretty good at that.

LT. ALDO

You know how you get to Carnegie Hall, don't 'ch? Practice.

FADE TO BLACK

OVER BLACK

CHAPTER TITLE APPEARS:

CHAPTER THREE

"GERMAN NIGHT IN PARIS"

NOTE: This whole Chapter will be filmed in French New Wave Black and White.

INT - CINEMA AUDITORIUM - NIGHT

We're in the auditorium of a cinema in Paris. However the CAMERA is pointed in the direction of the audience, not the screen. We start CLOSE on the projector beam, emanating from the little glass window in the back of the theatre

 The CAMERA continues to DOLLY back, making the Shot Wider and Wider, bringing in more and more the German occupied citizens of Paris, who stare at the OFF SCREEN silver screen in the dark
 We can hear the OFF SCREEN SOUNDTRACK of a Goebbels produced
 German omm paw paw musical movie being projected.
 The Shot continues to pull further and further back, and the German dialogue continues to fill the auditorium...

TILL...

.The DOLLY SHOT LANDS on a CLOSE UP of Shosanna,. watching the movie.

A SUBTITLE APPEARS:

"1941

PARISTWO WEEKS AFTER THE MASSACRE*OF SHOSANNA'S FAMILY"

We hear the sound of the German musicals climax.
 The lights go up in the auditorium.
 Shosanna, dressed in a NURSES UNIFORM she swiped from somewhere, remains seated, as the rest of the PATRONS, gather their coats, and file out.

3P.EXT - LITTLE CINEMA (PARIS)- NIGHT

Patrons exit under the cinema marquee, as someone from inside
 SHUTS OFF the marquees lights.

The MARQUEE READS in French:

"GERMAN NIGHT BRIDGET VON HAMMERSMARK in MADCAP IN MEXICO".

EXT - PROJECTION BOOTH (LITTLE CINEMA)

A French Black Man, who we will learn later is named MARCEL, is the cinema's projectionist. We see him for a moment, taking the film reels off the projector, and placing them on rewinds.

INT - AUDITORIUMCU SHOSANNA still sitting in her seat. Except for her, the auditorium is empty.

The owner of the Cinema, a attractive looking French woman, who we will later know as MADAME MIMIEUX, appears in one of the cinema's opera box balconies.

Looking down from her perch at the young girl, sitting in the empty cinema.

The DIALOGUE will be spoken in FRENCH, and SUBTITLED into

ENGLISH.MADAME MIMIEUX

So young woman, since it's beyond obvious we're closed for the evening. I must assume you want something. What can I do for you?

SHOSANNA

May I sleep here tonight?

MADAME MIMIEUX

So I gather your not a nurse?

SHOSANNA

No.

MADAME MIMIEUX

But your a bright little thing, that's clever disguise. Where is your family?

SHOSANNA

Murdered.

3 1.

MADAME MIMIEUX

So your a war orphan?

SHOSANNA

We were from Nancy. The Bosch found us

MADAME MIMIEUX

Is this a sad story?

SHOSANNA

Oui.

MADAME MIMIEUX

Sad stories bore me. These days everyone in Paris has one. I haven't bore you with mine, don't bore me with yours.

SHOSANNA

You can run the machines?

MADAME MIMIEUX

What machines?

Using her hands to pantomime the rotating film reels on a projector, she says;

SHOSANNA

The machines that show the film?

MADAME MIMIEUX

The projectors? Yes, I own a cinema, of course I can operate them.

SHOSANNA

I know, I saw you.

FLASH ON:

CU SHOSANNA

eyes creeping up the stairway in the projection booth, watching...

MADAME MIMIEUX

expertly working the projectors...

BACK TO SHOSANNA

SHOSANNA

Teach me. Teach me to run the machines, that show the film. It's only you and the negro. I know you could use some help.

40.

MADAME MIMIEUX

I know at least six people who've been put up against a wall, and machine gunned for sheltering enemies of the state. I have no intention of being unlucky number seven. How long have you been in Paris?

SHOSANNA

A week, and a few days.

MADAME MIMIEUX

How have you survived the curfew without capture?

SHOSANNA

I sleep on rooftops.

MADAME MIMIEUX

Again, I'm forced to admit, clever girl. How is it?

SHOSANNA

Cold.

MADAME MIMIEUX

(LAUGHS)

I can imagine.

SHOSANNA

Respectfully, no you can't.

MADAME MIMIEUX

Fair enough.

MADAME MIMIEUX

So you can't operate a 35mm film projector, you want me teach you, in order to work here, in order to use my cinema, as a hole to hide in, is that correct?

SHOSANNA

Oui.

MADAME MIMIEUX

Whats your name?

SHOSANNA

Shosanna.

MADAME MIMIEUX

I'm Madame Mimieux. You may call me Madame. This is a cinema. Not a home for wayward war orphans. Having said that, what you say is true. If you were truly exceptional, I could find use for you. So Shosanna, are you truly exceptional?

SHOSANNA

Oui Madame.

MADAME MIMIEUX

I will be the judge of that.

DISSOLVE TOTITLE CARD:

Which shows a lovely PENCIL SKETCH of the CITY OF PARIS, complete with Eiffel Tower.

ABOVE IT READS:

"1944

PARIS"

THEN...

The CAMERA PULLS BACK, and we see we're not looking at a TITLE CARD at all, but a CALENDER stuck on the wall of the Little Cinema's Projection Booth. Before we leave it, WE SEE the Month is JUNE.

..The CAMERA finds, the THREE YEARS OLDER SHOSANNA, working as the PROJECTIONIST. It would appear, that Shosanna passed Madame Mimieux's exceptional test.

A lyrical Morricone-like tune PLAYS on the SOUNDTRACK, this will be "Shosanna's Theme".

A Little Bell, begins RINGING, on one of the projectors, alerting Shosanna it's time for a REEL CHANGE.

Shosanna stands at the projector, watching the old German film she's projecting, waiting for the 1st REEL CHANGE MARK...

SILVER SCREEN

of the little cinema. On Screen LENI REFENSTAL lies horizontal as a ice sickle drips on her head in the old German film, "The White Hell Of Piz Palu", The 1st REEL CHANGE MARK POPS ON in the upper right hand corner of the FRAME...(That tells the projectionist to get ready).

As the FILM REEL on the 1st PROJECTOR rolls out, Shosanna stands ready, waiting by the 2nd PROJECTOR...

WHEN...SILVER SCREEN

the 2nd REEL CHANGE MARK POPS ON in the same place(That's the one).

SHOSANNA

THROWS the lever on the 2nd PROJECTOR, switching the film from projector 1# to projector 2#, executing a perfect REEL CHANGE. As Shosanna's Theme plays on the Soundtrack, we watch viva MONTAGE, her go through her daily chores. Carry heavy film cans up the stairs, empty the rat traps, ect,ect...

EXT - CINEMA - NIGHT

The MARQUEE READS in French:

"GERMAN NIGHT LENI REFENSHTAL in PABST WHITE HELL OF PIZA PALU"

Shosanna emerges from the cinema carrying two buckets of LETTERS (for the marquee), and a tall ladder. Her chore here, obviously, is to change the show on the marquee.

The LITERARY NARRATOR comes on the Soundtrack in ENGLISH;

NARRATOR (VO)

To operate a cinema in Paris during the occupation, one had two choices. Either you could show new German propaganda films, produced under the watchful eye of Joseph Goebbels. Or... .you could have a German night in your weekly schedule, and show allowed German classic films.

Their German night was Thursday.

Shosanna, by herself, perched up high on the ladder, changing the letters on the marquee.

A YOUNG GERMAN SOLDIER (about the same age as Shosanna), walks out of the cinema. He sees the ladder with the young French girl on top, and walks over.

They speak FRENCH, SUBTITLED into ENGLISH;

GERMAN SOLDIER

What starts tomorrow?

Shosanna looks down, seeing the young German Soldier smiling up at her from below.

LC 3.

SHOSANNA

A Max Linder festival.

GERMAN SOLDIER

Ummmm, I always preferred Linder to Chaplin. Except Linder never made a film as good as "The Kid". The chase climax of "The Kid", superb.

Shosanna continues working, not adding to the conversation.

GERMAN SOLDIER

I suppose now you could use a "M" a "A" and a "X"?

SHOSANNA

No need, I can manage.

GERMAN SOLDIER

Don't be ridiculous, it's my pleasure.

He hands the French damsel the letters spelling MAX.

SHOSANNA

Merci.

GERMAN SOLDIER

I adore your cinema very much.

SHOSANNA

Merci.
She busies herself with the marquee letters...

GERMAN SOLDIER

SHOSANNA

GERMAN SOLDIER

SHOSANNA

GERMAN SOLDIER

How does a young girl, such as yourself, own a cinema?
Do to his uniform, and Shosanna's situation, all his efforts at trying to make small talk, strikes the young Jewess in hiding as a Gestapo interrogation.

SHOSANNA

My aunt left it to me.

GERMAN SOLDIER

Lucky girl.
Shosanna makes no reply back.

GERMAN SOLDIER

Merci for hoisting a German night.

SHOSANNA

I don't have a choice, but your welcome.

GERMAN SOLDIER

Do you chose the German films yourself?

SHOSANNA

Oui.

GERMAN SOLDIER

Then my merci stands. I love the Refensthal mountain films, especially,
"Pizu Palu". It's nice to see a French girl who's a admirer of Refensthal.

SHOSANNA

"Admire", would not be the adjective
I would use to describe my feelings towards Fraulein Refensthal.

GERMAN SOLDIER

But you do admire the director. Pabst, don't you? That's why you included his name on the marquee.
She climbs down from the ladder and faces the German Private.

SHOSANNA

I'm French. We respect directors in our country.

GERMAN SOLDIER

Apparently even Germans.

SHOSANNA

Even Germans. Merci for assistance,
Private. Adieu.
She turns to go back inside.

GERMAN SOLDIER

Your not finished?

SHOSANNA

I'll finish in the morning.
She opens the door to go inside.

GERMAN SOLDIER

May I ask your name?

SHOSANNA

You wish to see my papers?
She hands him her excellently forged papers.
That's obviously not what he meant, but he takes them anyway to read her name.

GERMAN SOLDIER

Emmanuelle Mimieux. That's a very pretty name.

SHOSANNA

Merci. Are you finished with my papers?
He hands them back.

GERMAN SOLDIER

Mademoiselle. My name is Fredrick Zoller.
She gives no response.

GERMAN SOLDIER

It's been a pleasure chatting with a fellow cinema lover. Sweet dreams,
Mademoiselle.
He gives her a little salute, and walks into the black of a curfew imposed night.
She looks after him. She didn't show it, but he kinda got to her. After all, for any true cinema lover, it's hard to hate anybody who, CINEMA MON AMOUR.

EXT - ROOFTOP CINEMA - NIGHT

Shosanna stands on the roof of her cinema, late at night, lighting up a cigarette. As she takes her first big drag, she remembers a voice.

FLASH ON

MADAME MIMIEUX, the younger Shosanna, and the black projectionist Marcel, in the projection booth. Shosanna lights up a cigarette, and Madame Mimieux SLAPS her face HARD, knocking the cigarette out of her mouth. Marcel quickly STAMPS it out on the floor.

If-7.

MADAME MIMIEUX

if I ever see you light up a cigarette in my cinema again, I'll turn you into the Nazi's, do you understand?
Shosanna is shocked by this statement.

SHOSANNA

Oui, Madame.

MADAME MIMIEUX

And for bringing a open flame in my cinema, you deserve far worse then a Nazi jewish boxcar. With your thick head, what do you think the highest priority of a cinema manager is? Keeping this fucking place from burning down to the ground, that's what! In my collection, I have over 350, 35mm, nitrate film prints, which are not only immensely flammable, but highly unstable. And should they catch fire, they burn three times faster then paper. If that happens.. .POOF...all gone, cinema no more, every body burned alive. If I ever see you with a open flame in my cinema again, I won't turn you into the Nazi's I'll kill you myself. And the fucking Germans will give me a curfew pass. Do you understand me?

SHOSANNA

Out, Madame.

MADAME MIMIEUX

Do you believe me?

SHOSANNA

Out, Madame.

MADAME MIMIEUX

You damn well better.

BACK TO ROOF

Shosanna exhales cigarette smoke.
Marcel comes onto the roof.

MARCEL

Are you well?

SHOSANNA

Even on the roof I can't smoke a cigarette without hearing Madames voice yelling at me. That's why I do it. To hear Madames voice again.

MARCEL

We both miss her.

SHOSANNA

I know. I'm fine, darling. I'll be to bed soon.
Marcel goes back inside, Shosanna smokes.

INT - FRENCH BISTRO - AFTERNOON

Shosanna sits in the back of a French bistro, reading a book, "The Saint in New York" by Leslie Charteris, drinking wine. When the young German Private from the other day, FREDRICK ZOLLER, walks in. He gets a beer, then notices the French girl sitting in the back. He smiles, and heads over to her. "Oh no, not this guy again", she thinks. Again they speak in FRENCH SUBTITLED into ENGLISH;

FREDRICK

May I join you?

SHOSANNA

Look Fredrick -

FREDRICK

(SMILING)

- You remember my name?

SHOSANNA

Yes....Look, you seem a pleasant enough fellow -

FREDRICK

- Merci.

SHOSANNA

Your welcome. - regardless, I want you to stop pestering me.

FREDRICK

I apologize mademoiselle, I wasn't trying to be a pest. I was simply trying to be friendly.

SHOSANNA

I don't wish to be your friend.

FREDRICK

Why not?

SHOSANNA

Don't act like a infant. You know why.

FREDRICK

I'm more then just a uniform.

SHOSANNA

Not to me. If you are so desperate for a French girlfriend, I suggest you try Vichy?

Just then TWO OTHER GERMAN SOLDIERS come over, obviously very impressed with Fredrick. They make a fuss over him in UNSUBTITLED GERMAN, which nether Shosanna, or the non German speaking members of the movies audience, can understand. He signs autographs for them, shakes their hands, and they go on their way. Shosanna's eyes narrow.

SHOSANNA

Who are you?

FREDRICK

I thought I was just a uniform?

SHOSANNA

Your not just a German soldier, are you somebodies son?

FREDRICK

Most German soldiers are somebodies son.

SHOSANNA

Yeah, but your not just somebody. What are you, Hitlers nephew?
He leans in across the table, she leans in too, and he says;

FREDRICK

Yes.

SHOSANNA

Really?

FREDRICK

No not really, I'm just teasing you.
She leans back annoyed.

SHOSANNA

Then what is it? What are you, a German movie star?

6'0

FREDRICK

Not exactly.

SHOSANNA

(Pfuit), what does that mean, "not exactly".
I asked if you were a movie star, the answer to that question, is yes or no.
Fredrick laughs at that line.

FREDRICK

When you said that just now, you reminded me of my sister.
This catches young Shosanna off guard.

FREDRICK

I come from a home of six sisters.
We run a family operated cinema in Munich.
Seeing you run around your cinema, reminds me of them. Especially my sister Helga. She raised me, when our father wasn't up to the job. I admire her very much. You'd like her, she doesn't wear a German uniform.

SHOSANNA

You were raised by Helga?

FREDRICK

All my sisters, I'm the baby, but Helga was the bossiest.

SHOSANNA

And your mother and father?

FREDRICK

My mother died. And my father was a loser. My fathers moto; "If at first you don't succeed, quit". The day he left, good riddance. My sisters are all I need. It's why I like your cinema. It makes me feel both closer to them, and a little homesick at the same time.

SHOSANNA

is your cinema still operating?

FREDRICK

Oui.

SHOSANNA

What's it called?

5!

FREDRICK

The Kino Haus.

SHOSANNA

How has it done durring the war?

FREDRICK

Actually, in Germany, cinema attendance is up.

SHOSANNA

No doubt, you don't have to operate under a curfew.

FREDRICK

How often do you fill your house?

SHOSANNA

(Pfuit), not since before the war.

FREDRICK

So if you had one big engagement, that would help you out?

SHOSANNA

Of course, but that's not likely to happen.

TWO MORE GERMAN SOLDIERS and their TWO FRENCH DATES approach the table. They ask for Fredricks autograph, he signs it for them. One of the French Girls says in FRENCH, how exciting it is to meet a real live German war hero. Shosanna hears it. They leave. So that's it, she thinks.

SHOSANNA

So your a war hero? Why didn't you tell me?

FREDRICK

Everybody knows that, I liked you didn't.

SHOSANNA

What did you do?
He takes a sip of beer.

FREDRICK

I've shot the most enemy soldiers in world war two...so far.
You bet your sweet ass that got her attention.

SHOSANNA

Wow.

52

FREDRICK

I was alone in a bell tower in a walled off city in Russia. It was myself, and a thousand rounds of ammo, in a bird's nest, against three hundred Soviet soldiers.

SHOSANNA

What's a bird's nest?

FREDRICK

A bird's nest is what a sniper would call a bell tower. It's a high structure, offering a three hundred and sixty degree view. Very advantageous for marksmen.

SHOSANNA

How many Russian's did you kill?

FREDRICK

Sixty-eight.

(BEAT)

The first day. A hundred and fifty the second day. Thirty-two, the third day.
On the forth day, they exited the city.
Naturally my war story received alot of attention in Germany, that's why they all recognize me. They call me the German Sgt.York.

SHOSANNA

Maybe they'll make a film about your exploits.

FREDRICK

Well, that's just what Joseph Goebbels thought. So he did. It's called "Nation's Pride", and guess what, they wanted me to play myself, so I did. They have posters for it in kiosks all over Paris. That's another reason for all the attention.

SHOSANNA

"Nation's Pride" is about you? "Nation's Pride" is starring you?

FREDRICK

I know, comical, huh?

SHOSANNA

Not so comical. So what are you doing in Paris, enjoying a rest?

53.

FREDRICK

Hardly. I've been doing publicity, having my picture taken with different German luminaries, visiting troops, that sort of thing. Goebbels wants the film to premier in Paris, so I've been helping them in the planning. Joseph is very keen on this film. He's telling anybody who will listen, when "Nation's Pride" is released, I'll be the German Van Johnson. Shosanna, wasn't falling for the young German, by any stretch. However his exploits, as well as his charming manner, can't help but impress. But his referring to Goebbels as "Joseph", like their friends, is all she needed to get on the right side of things. This young man is trouble with a capital "T", and she needs to stay far fucking away from him. She abruptly rises, and says;

SHOSANNA

Well, good luck with your premier Private. I hope all goes well for Joseph and yourself. Au revoir. And with that, she disappears. Leaving the perplexed private alone.

EXT - CINEMA MARQUEE - DAY

It's the next day. Shosanna and Marcel are changing the letters on the marquee. Marcel excuses himself to visit the toilet. Shosanna is alone outside the little cinema, perched up on her ladder.

WHEN...

.A BLACK NAZI SEDAN pulls up in front of the little cinema. A GERMAN MAJOR in a black Gestapo uniform steps out of the back of the sedan. The DRIVER, a German Private, steps out as well. Yelling to the young girl up high on the ladder; Both GERMAN and FRENCH will be SUBTITLED into ENGLISH.

5 q.

GESTAPO MAJOR

Mademoiselle Nimieux?

SHOSANNA

Oui?
Telling his Driver in German to ask her in French;

GESTAPO MAJOR

Ask her if this is her cinema?
in French The Driver asks Shosanna;

DRIVER

is this your cinema?

SHOSANNAGESTAPO MAJOR

Tell her to come down.

DRIVER

Come down please.
She climbs down the ladder.
The Driver opens the back door of the sedan, indicating for her to get in.

SHOSANNA

I don't understand, what have I done?

DRIVER

(to Major)
She wants to know what she's done?

GESTAPO MAJOR

Who says she's done anything?

DRIVER

Who says you've done anything?
Then in her best imitation of Madame Mimeux's arrogantmanner.

SHOSANNA

Then I demand to know what this is about,
and where do you propose to take me?
The Driver begins to translate, when the Gestapo Major holds up his hand, telling him not to bother. The Major looks at the young French girl and tells her in German;

55.

GESTAPO MAJOR

Get your ass in that car.
No translation necessary. She climbs into the back of the car, followed by the Germans. The sedan takes off.

INT - SEDAN (MOVING) - DAY

The Nazi sedan drives through the early afternoon Paris streets.

WE HOLD SHOSANNA IN TIGHT CU

the whole ride, never showing her Nazi oppressor sitting beside her. We just hold on her face trying not to revel anything.
The sedan stops.
The car door opens and the Driver offers Shosanna his hand.

EXT/INT- MAXIUM'S (FAMOUS PARIS CAFE) - DAY

She steps out of the car, and is lead into a Paris cafe by the Gestapo Officer. It takes the young Jewess a moment or two before she realizes she's not being led to a Gestapo interrogation room, a railroad car, or a concentration camp, but to lunch. The best table at Maxims. Three people, and two dogs, sit at it. Germany's Minister of Propaganda, and the number two man in Hitlers Third Reich, JOSEPH GOEBBELS, his female French translator (and mistress), FRANCESCA MONDINO, and young Private Zoller, are the people. TWO BLACK FRENCH POODLES, belonging to Mademoiselle Mondino, sit together in another chair at the table.

We join them in mid-conversation;
They all speak GERMAN, SUBTITLED into ENGLISH;

GOEBBELS

- it's only the off spring of slaves that allows America to be competitive athletically.
America olympic gold can measured in Negro sweat.

Shosanna is lead through the French eatery by the Gestapo Major.
Private Zoller see's her, and stands up, excuse's himself, and greets her before she reaches the table.
Fredrick says in French, SUBTITLED in ENGLISH;

FREDRICK

Good you came. I wasn't sure weather or not you'd except my invitation.

SHOSANNA

Invitation?

THEN...

.Goebbles Voice says OFF SCREEN;

GOEBBLES (OS)

Is that the young lady in question,
Fredrick?

Private Zoller turns in his direction, takes Shosanna by the arm, and leads her to him.

FREDRICK

Yes it is, beer Goebbels. Emmanuelle, there is somebody I want you to meet.
Joseph Goebbels, remaining seated, looks up at the young French girl, scrutinizing her as he spoons creme brule into his mouth.
The excited Fredrick introduces Shosanna to the propaganda minister formally.

FREDRICK

Emmanuelle Mimieux, I'd like to introduce you to the minister of propaganda, the leader of the entire German film industry, and now I'm a actor, my boss, Joseph Goebbels.
Goebbels offers up his long spider-like fingers for Shosanna to shake. She does.

GOEBBELS

Your reputation precedes you Fraulein
Mimieux.
He looks to Francesca to translate, but she's just taken a big bite of terri misu.
They all laugh.
Fredrick jumps in...

FREDRICK

And normally, this is beer Goebbels French interpreter, Mademoiselle Francesca Mondino.

FRANCESCA

looks up at Shosanna.

5'?

NARRATOR'S VOICE comes on soundtrack;

NARRATOR (VO)

Francesca Mondino is much more then Goebbels French Interpreter.
She's also Goebbels favorite French actress to appear in his films...

FLASH ON:FILM CLIP

from one of Francesca's B/W Goebbels produced productions.
Francesca, dressed as a French peasant girl, with a YOUNG

GERMAN (MOVIE) SOLDIER.

She speaks in FRENCH, SUBTITLED in to ENGLISH;

FRANCESCA/PEASANT GIRL

I love you, I can't help it. My country or my heart, which do I betray?
A SUBTITLE APPEARS below naming the films title;

"SENTIMENTAL COMBAT" (1943)FLASH ON

Francesca and Goebbels having sex in her boudoir, on her red velvet bed.

NARRATOR (VO)

And Goebbels favorite French Mistress, to act in his bed.
WE SEE JUST A SUPER QUICK SHOT OF Goebbels FUCKING Francesca

DOGGY STYLE.FRANCESCA*(ANIMAL-LIKE)

Do it! Do it! Fuck me - fill me!

BACK TO FRANCESCA

looking at Shosanna.

FRANCESCA

Bon jour.

SHOSANNA

Bon jour.

I
f.

FREDRICK

And you've met the Major.
The Gestapo officer steps up and says, to Fredrick in German;

GESTAPO MAJOR

Actually, I didn't introduce myself.
(to Shosanna)
Major Deiter Helistrom of the Gestapo, at your service mademoiselle.
(he clicks his heels)
Please allow me, have a seat.
The Gestapo Officer pulls out a chair, for the young lady to sit down. Shosanna takes the hot seat. Seated to her right is Private Zoller. To her left are the two curly pampered poodles. Major Helistrom pours Shosanna a glass of red wine from a small craft on the table.

MAJOR HELLSTROM

Try the wine mademoiselle, it's quite good.
Goebbels looks across the table at her.

GOEBBELS

well I must say, you've made quite a impression on our boy.
Francesca interprets Goebbels German for Shosanna.

GOEBBELS

I must say fraulein, I should be rather annoyed with you.
Francesca interprets..

GOEBBELS

I arrive in France, and I wish to have lunch with my star...
Francesca interprets...

GOEBBELS

Little do I know Be's become the toast of paris, and now he must find time for me.
Francesca interprets...

c9 Ã¢â, -Ã¢

GOEBBELS

People wait in line hours, day's, to see me. For the Fuhrer and Private Zoller, I wait.
Francesca interprets...

GOEBBELS

So finally, I'm granted a audience with the young Private, and he spends the entire lunch speaking of you and your cinema.
Francesca interprets...

GOEBBELS

So Fraulein Mimieux, let's get down to business.
Private Zoller interrupts -

FREDRICK

- Heer Goebbels, I haven't informed her yet.

GOEBBELS

Unless the girls a simpleton, I'm sure she's figured it out by now, after all she does operate a cinema. Francesca, tell her.
Francesca tells Shosanna in French;

FRANCESCA

What they're trying to tell you Emmanuelle, is Private Zoller has spent the last hour at lunch, trying to convince Monsieur Goebbels to abandon previous plans for Private Zollers film premier, and change the venue to your cinema.
Zoller reacts.

FRANCESCA

(FRENCH to Zoller)
What?

FREDRICK

I wanted to inform her.

FRANCESCA

Shit. I apologize Private, of course you did.

60.

GOEBBELS

(GERMAN to Francesca)
What's the issue?

FRANCESCA

The Private wanted to inform the mademoiselle himself.

GOEBBELS

Nonsense. Until I ask a few questions, he has nothing to inform. Let the record state, I have not agreed to a venue change.

MAJOR HELLSTROM

Duly noted.
Goebbels speaks German to Shosanna;

GOEBBELS

You have opera boxes?

SHOSANNAGOEBBELS

SHOSANNA

GOEBBELS

More would be better. How many seats in your auditorium?

SHOSANNA

Three hundred and fifty.

GOEBBELS

That's almost four hundred less than The Ritz.
Fredrick jumps in...

FREDRICK

But beer Goebbels, that's not such a terrible thing. You said yourself you didn't want to indulge every two faced french bourgeois taking up space currying favor. With less seat's it makes the event more exclusive. Your not trying to fill the house, their fightin g for seats.

61.

FREDRICK

(CON'T)

Besides, to hell with the French.
This is a German night, a German event, a German celebration. This night is for you, me, the German military, the high command, their family and friends. The only people who should be allowed in the room, are people who will be moved by the exploits on screen.
Goebbels listens silently, then after a bit of a pause;

GOEBBELS

I see your public speaking has improved. It appears I've created a monster. A strangely persuasive monster. When the war's over, politics awaits.
Table chuckles.

GOEBBELS

Well Private, though it is true,
I'm inclined to indulge you anything.
I must watch a film in this young ladies cinema before I can say, yes or no.
(to Shosanna)
So young lady, you are to close your cinema tonight, and have a private screening me.
Francesca interprets...

GOEBBELS

What German films do you have?
Francesca asks..

SHOSANNA

My cinema , on German night, tends to show older German classics.
Francesca interprets...

GOEBBELS

Why not my films?
Francesca asks...

6Z.SHOSANNA

I draw a older German audience in my cinema, that appreciate the nostalgia of the earlier time.
Francesca interprets...

GOEBBELS

That's nonsense fraulein. Us Germans are looking forward, not backwards. That era of German cinema is dead. The German cinema I create, will not only be thee cinema of Europe. But the worlds only alternative to the degenerate Jewish influence of Hollywood.
Fredrick Jumps in...

FREDRICK

Along with being a cinema owner, Emmanuelle is quite a formidable film critic.
He chuckles, but alone.

GOEBBELS

WSo it would appear. Unfortunately for the fraulein, I've outlawed film criticism.
Zoller, thinking fast, says;

FREDRICK

Why don't you screen "Lucky Kids"? I'm sure Emmanuelle hasn't seen. it. And it's so funny, I've been meaning to recommend it to her, for her German night. That's a great idea, let's watch "Lucky Kids" tonight.

GOEBBELS

Ahhh, "Lucky Kids", "Lucky Kids", "Lucky Kids". When all is said and done, my most purely enjoyable production. Not only that, I wouldn't be surprised, if sixty years from now, It's "Lucky Kids" that I'm the most remembered for. I know it doesn't seem like it now, but mark my words.
Very well, I'll have a print sent over to the fraulein's cinema.
We'll screen "Lucky Kids" tonight.

63

As Francesca interprets this for Shosanna...
...the empty chair next to the young Jewish girl is suddenly filled with the bottom half of a grey S.S. officer uniform.

GOEBBELS

Ah Landa, your here, this is the young lady in question.
The S.S. Officer sits down, and it's our old friend from the first scene COL HANS LANDA.

FREDRICK

Shosanna, this4pol Hans Landa of the SS., he'll be running security for the premier.

CU SHOSANNA

A bomb is dropped and detonated behind her eyes. But if she gives any indication of this, her war story ends here.
The S.S. OFFICER that murdered her family, takes her hand and kisses it, saying in perfect French;

COL LANDA

Charmed Mademoiselle.

MAJOR HELLSTROM

Better known as "The Jew Hunter".
The table laughs.

GOEBBELS

Oh Francesca, what was that funny thing the Fuhrer said about Hans?

FRANCESCA

What thing?

GOEBBELS

You know, you were there, it was a funny thing the Fuhrer said, about Hans...Something about a pig?
Francesca's memory is jogged.

FRANCESCA

Oh, yes of course.
She repeats it by whispering it in Goebbels ear.

6 "F

GOEBBELS

Oh, yes of course, that's it. So the Fuhrer said, he wouldn't be surprised if Hans weren't rooting out Jews like a truffle pig from the play pen.

FRANCESCA

That's what we need, pigs that can root out Jews.

COL LANDA

Who needs pigs when you have me?
Big hearty laugh around the table.

GOEBBELS

Do you have a engagement tonight?

COL LANDA

Well, as a matter of fact, I do -

GOEBBELS

- Break it. We're all going to the Fraulein's cinema tonight to view "Lucky Kids".

COL LANDA

Splendid.
Then Reich Ministers companion mademoiselle Mondino,

INTERRUPTS;FRANCESCA

And now I must get Reich Minister Goebbels to his next appointment.

GOEBBELS

Slave driver! French slave driver!
They all chuckle.
Everybody begins to stand up from the table...
..Francesca gathers the stupid dogs...
..as Col Landa stands, he says;

COL LANDA

Actually, in my role as security chief of this joyous German occasion, I'm afraid I must have a word with Mademoiselle Mimieux.

C. 5.

Mademoiselle Mimieux eyes go to Private Zoller, who responds.

FREDRICK

What sort of discussion?

COL LANDA

That sounded suspiciously like a Private questioning the order of a Colonel? Or am I just being sensitive?

FREDRICK

Nothing could be further from the truth Colonel. Your authority is beyond question.
But your reputation does proceed you. Should Mademoiselle Mimieux or myself be concerned?

GOEBBELS

Hans, the boy means no harm, he's simply smitten. And he's correct. Your reputation does proceed you. Laughter all around. The Reich Minister and his axis entourage, make their way to front of the cafe, with the two dumb dogs on a leash, leading the way.

COL LANDA

No need for concern, you two. As security chief, I simply need to have a chat with the possible new venue's property owner.

FREDRICK

I was just hoping to escort Mademoiselle Mimieux back to her cinema.

GOEBBELS

Nonsense! You can eat ice cream, and walk along the Sienne another time. Right now, allow Col Landa to do his job. Everybody saystheir farewells. Col Landa offers the young jew in hiding a seat at a small table in the outside patio area of Maxims. The fluency and poetic proficiency of the S.S. jew hunters french, revels to the audience, that his feigning clumsiness at french with Monsieur Lapadite in the films first scene, was simply a interrogation-technique.

bd.

They speak FRENCH SUBTITLED into ENGLISH;

COL LANDA

Have you tried the strudel here?

SHOSANNA

No.

COL LANDA

It's not so terrible. So how is it the young Private and yourself came to be acquainted? She's about to answer, when a WAITER approaches.

COL LANDA

Yes, two strudels, one for myself, and one for the mademoiselle. A cup of espresso, with a container of. steamed milk, on the side. For the Mademoiselle, a glass of milk. Considering Shosanna. grew up on a dairy farm, and the last time she was on a dairy farm, her strudel companion murdered her entire family, his ordering her milk is, to say the least... . disconcerting. The key to Col Landa's power, and or charm, depending on the side ones on, lies in his ability to convince you he's privy to your secrets.

COL LANDA

So Mademoiselle, you were beginning to explain....?

SHOSANNA

(ANXIOUSLY)

Up untill a couple of days ago,
I had no knowledge of Private Zoller, or his exploits. To me, the Private was simply just a patron of my cinema.
We spoke a few times, but -

COL LANDA

- Mademoiselle, let me interrupt you.
This is a simple formality, no reason for you to feel anxious.
The Colonel takes one look at it, and says to the Waiter;

67

COL LANDA

I apologize, I forgot to order the cream fresh.

WAITER

One moment.
He exits.

COL LANDA

(Refuring to the apple pie)
Wait for the cream.
(Back to BUSINESS)

So Emmanuelle - May I call you Emmanuelle?

SHOSANNA

Oui.

COL LANDA

So Emmanuelle, explain to me how does it happen, that a young lady such as your self, comes to own a cinema?
The Waiter returns, applying cream fresh to the two strudels.
The S.S. Colonel looks across the table at his companion, picking up his fork, he says;

COL LANDA

After you.
Shosanna takes a whip creamy bite of strudel, Landa follows her lead.

COL LANDA

(MOUTHFULL of pie)

Success?
Shosanna, mouth full of pie, indicates she approves.

.COL LANDA

Like I said, not so terrible.
(Back to BUSINESS)

So you were explaining the origin of your cinema ownership?

69.

SHOSANNA

The cinema originally belonged to my aunt and uncle -
Col Landa removes a little black book from his pocket.

COL LANDA

- What is there names?

SHOSANNA

Jean-Pierre and Ada Mimieux.
He records the names in his little book.

COL LANDA

Where are they now?

SHOSANNA

My uncle was killed during blitzkrieg.

COL LANDA

Pity... . Continue.

SHOSANNA

Aunt Ada passed away from fever last spring.'

COL LANDA

Regrettable.

(RESPECTFULPAUSE)

It's come to my attention you have a negro in your employ, is that true?

SHOSANNA

Yes, he's a Frenchman. His name is Marcel. He worked with my aunt and uncle since they opened the cinema.
He's the only other one who works with me.

COL LANDA

Doing what?

SHOSANNA

Projectionist.

COL LANDA

Is he any good?

SHOSANNA

The best.

61.

COL LANDA

Actually one could see where that might be a good trade for them. Can you operate the projectors?

SHOSANNA

Of course I can.

COL LANDA

Knowing the Reich Minister as I do, I'm quite positive he wouldn't want the success or failure of his illustrious evening, dependent on the prowess of a negro. So if it comes to pass we hold this event at your venue, talented no doubt, as your negro may be, you will operate the projectors. Is that exceptable? As if she has any say.

SHOSANNA

Oui.

Col Landa takes another bite of strudel, Shosanna follows suit.

COL LANDA

So it would appear our young hero is quite smitten with you?

SHOSANNA

Private Zollers feelings for me aren't of a romantic nature.

COL LANDA

Mademoiselle...?

SHOSANNA

Colonel, his feelings are not romantic. I remind him of his sister.

COL LANDA

That doesn't mean his feelings aren't romantic.

SHOSANNA

I remind him of his sister who raised him.

70

COL LANDA

It's sounding more and more romantic by the minute.

Landa takes out a handsome looking cigarette case, with a S.S. LOGO on it. Removing one of the fags, he lights it up with a fancy S.S. gold lighter. He offers one to Shosanna.

COL LANDA

Cigarette?

SHOSANNA

No thank you.

COL LANDA

Do you smoke?

SHOSANNA

Yes.

COL LANDA

Then I insist, you must take one.

There not French, there German.

I hope your not nationalist about your tobacco, to me French cigarettes are a sin against nicotine.

She takes one, but makes no move to light it.

He inhales deep, and says;

COL LANDA

I did have some thing else I wanted to ask you, but right now, for the life of me, I can't remember what it is. Oh well, must not of been important.

Col Landa stands up, throws some French francs on the table, puts on his grey S.S. cap, touches his finger to his visor, saluting Shosanna, and saying:

COL LANDA

Till tonight.

And with that he's gone.

Shosanna breaths a sigh of relief.

The CAMERA begins to slowly lower from a MEDIUM CU to her feet ankles and floor. We see her shoes are in a puddle of urine.

During her conversation and strudel with the man that exterminated her entire family, shosanna pissed herself.

She drops the German cigarette in to the piss puddle by her feet.

7 1.

INT - CINEMA AUDITORIUM - NIGHT

The SILVER SCREEN

on screen is the German screwball comedy "LUCKY KIDS".

We hear OFF SCREEN laughter at the on screen aryan antics.

CU GOEBBELS

Watching the screen, basking in his own toxic genius.

CU FRANCESCA

Laughing at the comedy, hand covering her mouth.

CU TWO BLACK POODLES

Pantingly watching the screen.

CU MAJOR HELLSTROM

Smiling, smoking a French cigarette.

CU COL LANDA

Smoking his calabash, amused.

CU FREDRICK ZOLLER

Truly enjoying himself.

CU SHOSANNA

watching the screen.

The LITERARY NARRATOR comes on the soundtrack.

NARRATOR (VO)

While Shosanna sits there pretending to be amused by the aryan antics of Goebbels Frank Capra copy, "Lucky Kids", a thought suddenly comes to her.

We see her face get slightly distracted behind the eyes.

NARRATOR (VO)

What if tonight, accidentally, the cinema burned down? The Third Reich would lose it's Minister of propaganda, it's national hero, and it's top jew hunter, all in one fell swoop.

She chuckles at the thought, though it looks like she's laughing at the German comedy.

SILVER SCREEN

"The END" card for "Lucky Kids" is projected.

The Nazi rouges gallery, and Shosanna, applaud the film.

IZ

The lights go up.

P

Goebbels excepts congratulations, as they stand and begin to file out into the lobby.

NARRATOR (VO)

The screening of "Lucky Kids" was a complete success. And Heer Goebbels conceded to have the venue changed to Shosannas cinema. Not only that, in a moment of inspiration, Heer Goebbels had a idea.

Goebbels speaks GERMAN, and Francesca translates;

GOEBBELS

I must say, I appreciate the modesty of this auditorium. Your Cinema has real respect, almost church like. Not to say we couldn't spruce the place up a bit. In Versailles there's a crystal chandelier hanging in the banquet hall that is extraordinary. we're going to get it, and hang it from the very middle of auditorium roof. Also I want to go to Louvre, pick up a few Greek nudes, and just scatter them about the lobby.

MONTAGE

we see a quick series of shots that show all that happening. The chandelier being removed from the ceiling of Versailles. Greek nude statues being hand trucked out of the Louvre.

A truck driving through the french countryside with the enormous crystal chandelier in the back.
 The lobby of Shosanna's cinema, pimped out in Nazi iconography. WORKERS buzz around decorating. The Greek statues are moved into place.
 We see Workers trying with incredible difficulty, to hoist the huge, heavy, and twinkingly fragile chandelier, in Shosannas auditorium, which now resembles something out of one of Tinto Brass's Italian B-movie rip off's of Visconti's "The Damned".

SHOSANNA

watches all this from a opera box, she shakes her head in disbelief.

73

BACK TO SHOSANNA AND THE NAZI "S in the lobby, post screening of "Lucky Rids", she's soundlessly escorting them to the door, as they make their goodbyes.

NARRATOR (VO)

As they left the little French cinema that night, all the Germans were very happy...
 We see Private Zoller hanging back, so he can say goodbye.

NARRATOR (VO)

None more so then Private Zoller.
 She closes the door on him. Watching the Nazi's walk into the Paris night. Their shadows, for a moment on a wall, look like grotesque Nazi characters. 4644
 The Nazi's are gone.
 Marcel sits at the top of the staircase of the lobby, looking down at Shosanna.
 They speak in FRENCH SUBTITLED into ENGLISH;

MARCEL

What the fuck are we suppose to do?

SHOSANNA

It looks like we're suppose to have a Nazi premier.

MARCEL

Like I said, what the fuck are we suppose to do?

SHOSANNA

Well, I need to speak with you about that.

MARCEL

About what?

SHOSANNA

About these Hun swine, commandeering our cinema.

MARCEL

What about it?
 She slowly walks up the stairs to Marcel. She makes him part his legs, and sits on the lower step, between his legs. Her back up against his chest, his arms around her shoulders.

Shosanna has only known this type of intimacy with Marcel.

SHOSANNA

Well, when I was watching the bosch (Said in ENGLISH)

Capra-corn abomination,
(Back to

FRENCH)

I got a idea.

MARCEL

I'm confused, what are we talking about?

SHOSANNA

Filling the cinema with Nazi's and their whores, and burning it down to the ground.

MARCEL

I'm not talking about that, your talking about that.

SHOSANNA

No, we're talking about that, right now. If we can keep this place from burning down by ourselves, we can burn it down by ourselves.

MARCEL

Shosanna -

SHOSANNA

No, Marcel, just for sake of argument, if we wanted to burn down the cinema, for any number of reasons, you and I could physically accomplish that, no?

MARCEL

Oui Shosanna, we could do that.

SHOSANNA

And with Madame Mimieux's 350 nitrate film print collection, we wouldn't even need explosives, would we?

MARCEL

You mean we wouldn't need any more explosives?

SHOSANNA

Oui, that's exactly what I mean.
She begins kissing his hands.

75.

SHOSANNA

(CON'T)

I am going to burn down the cinema on Nazi night.
One of his fingers probes her mouth.

SHOSANNA

(CON'T)

And if I'm going to burn down the cinema, which I am, we both know, your not going to let me do it by myself.
The back of her head presses up hard against him, as his hand both caresses, and grips her lovely neck.

SHOSANNA

(CON'T)

Because you love me. And I love you.
And your the only person on this earth
I can trust.
She then TWISTS around, so she's straddling him. They are now, face to face.

SHOSANNA

(CON'T)

But that's not all we're going to do.
Does the filmmaking equipment it the attic still work? I know the film camera does. How about the sound recorder?

MARCEL

Quite well, actually. I recorded a new guitarist I met in a cafe last week. It works superb. Why do we need filmmaking equipment?

SHOSANNA

Because Marcel, my sweet, we're going to make a film. Just for the Nazi's.

FADE TO BLACK

?G.

FADE OFF

INT - ENGLISH COUNTRY ESTATE - DAY

A young MILITARY ATTACHE, opens the sliding double doors that serve as a entrance to the room.

MILITARY ATTACHE

Right this way, Lieutenant.

A snappy handsome British Lieutenant in dress browns, steps inside the room. This officer, who has been mixing it up with the Gerrys since the late thirties, is named LT.ARCHIE HICOX. A young George Sanders type(The Saint and Private affairs of Bel Ami, years).

Upon entering the room, Lt.Hicox is gobsmacked. Standing before him is legendary military mastermind, GENERAL ED FENECH, a older George Sanders type (Village of the Damned).

But in the back of the room, sitting behind a piano, smoking his ever present cigar, is the unmistakable bulk of WINSTON CHURCHELL.

LT. HICOX

Lt. Archie Hicox, reporting sir.

GEN FENECH

(Salutes back)

General Ed Fenech, at ease Hicox.

Drink?

Hicox's eye's go to the formidable bulldog behind the piano, who's scrutinizing him behind his cigar. However the man behind the cigar makes no gesture, and the General, makes no acknowledgment of the three hundred pound gorilla in the room. Which Lt.Hicox knows enough to mean, if Churchill isn't introduced, he ain't there.

LT.HICOX

if you offered me a scotch and plane water, I could drink a scotch and plain water.

?7.

GEN.FENECH

That a boy, Lieutenant. Make it yourself, like a good chap, will you? Bars in the globe. Hicox heads over to the bar globe.

LT.HICOX

Something for yourself, sir?

GEN.FENECH

Whiskey straight. No junk in it.

The Lieutenant moves over to the Columbus-style globe bar, and busies himself mixing spirits, playing bartender chappy. Fenech, eyeing the Lieutenant's file.

GEN.FENECH

It says here you've run three undercover commando operations in Germany, and German occupied territories? Frankfauert, Holland, and Norway to be exact? Back to them, mixing drinks, he says;

LT.HICOX

Extraordinary people, the Norwegian's.

GEN.FENECH

It says here you speak German fluently?

LT. HICOX

Like a Katzenjammer Kid.

GEN. FENECH

And your occupation before the war?
His back still to us, as he bartends...

LT. H I COX

I'm a film critic.

GEN. FENECH

List your accomplishments?

LT. HICOX

Well sir, such as they are, I write reviews and articles, for a publication called; "Films and Filmmakers".
As well as our sister publication.

7f .

GEN. FENECH

What's that called?

LT. HICOX

"Flickers Bi-Monthly". And I've had two books published.

GEN. FENECH

Impressive. Don't be modest Lieutenant, what are their titles?

LT. HI COX

The first book was called; "Art Of The Eye's, The Heart, and The Mind:A Study of German Cinema in the Twenties".
And the second one was called; ...
He turns around with his whiskey and plain water, and the Generals whiskey no junk. He finishes what he was saying, as he walks toward the General, handing him his drink.

LT. HICOX

"Twenty-Four Frame Da Vinci".
It's a subtexual film criticism study of the work of German director
G.W. Pabst.

LT. HI COX

What should we drink to, sir?

GEN. FENECH

(Thinking, for a moment)
Down with Hitler.

LT. HICOX

All the way down, sir.

GEN. FENECH

Are you familiar with German cinema under the Third Reich?

LT. HI COX

Yes. Obviously I haven't seen any of the films made in the last three years, but I am familiar with it.

GEN.FENECH

Explain it to me.?

77

LT.HICOX

Pardon sir?

GEN.FENECH

This little escapade of ours, requires a knowledge of the German film industry under the Third Reich. Explain to me UFA, under Goebbels?

LT.HICOX

Goebbels considers the films he's making to be the beginning of a new era in German cinema. A alternative to what he considers the Jewish German intellectual cinema of the twenties. And the Jewish controlled dogma of Hollywood. SUDDENLY... Bellowing from the back of the room;

CHURCHELL

How's he doing?

LT. H I COX

Frightfully sorry sir, once again?

CHURCHELL

You say he wants to take on the Jews at their own game? Compared to say .Louis B.Mayer...how's he doing?

LT.HICOX

Quite well, actually. Since Goebbels has taken over, film attendance has steadily risen in Germany over the last eight years. But Louis B.Mayer wouldn't be Goebbels proper opposite number. I believe Goebbels see's himself closer to David O.Selznick. Gen.Fenech looks to the Prime Minister. With a puff of cigar smoke, Churchill says;

CHURCHELL

Brief him.

GEM.FENECH

Lt.Bicox, at this point in time I'd like to brief you on, Operation Kino. Three days from now, Joseph Goebbels is throwing a gala premier of one of his new movies in Paris - 80.

LT.HICOX

- What film sir?

The General has to resort to peeking at his file.

GEN.FENECH

The motion pictures called; "Nation's Pride".

LT.HICOX

Oh, you mean the film about Private Zoller?

GEN.FENECH

We don't have any intelligence, on exactly, what the film that night will be about.

LT.HICOX

But it's called "Nation's Pride"?

GEN.FENECH

Yes.

LT.HICOX

I can tell you what it's about, it's about Private Fredrick Zoller. He's the German Sgt.York.

Fenech can't help suppress a smile, they have the right man.

GEN.FENECH

In attendance at this joyous Germatic occasion, will be Goebbels, Gerring, Boorman, and most of the German High command, including all high ranking officers of both The S.S., and, The Gestapo. As well as luminaries of the Nazi propaganda film industry.

LT.HICOX

The master race at play, aye?

GEN.FENECH

Basically, we have all our rotten eggs in one basket. The objective of Operation Kino.... Blow up the basket.

LT.HICOX

(Reciting a poem)

"...and like the snows of yesteryear, gone from this earth". Jolly good, sir.

GEN.FENECH

An American Secret Service outfit, that lives deep behind enemy lines, will be your assist. The Germans call them; "The Basterds".

LT.HICOX

"The Basterds", never heard of them.

GEN.FENECH

Whole point of the secret service, old boy, you not hearing of them.
But the Gerrys have heard of them, because these yanks have been them the devil. Their leader is a chap named Lt.Aldo Raine. The Germans call him, "Aldo the Apache".

LT.HICOX

Why do they call him that?

GEN.FENECH

Best guess, is because he removes the scalps of the Nazi dead.

LT.HICOX

Scalps, sir?

GEN.FENECH

The hair.
He runs his finger along his hairline.

GEN.FENECH

Like a red Injun.

LT.HICOX

Rather gruesome sounding little Dicky bird, isn't he?

GEN.FENECH

No doubt the whole lot, a bunch a nutters. But you've heard the expression, "It takes a thief".

LT.HICOX

Indeed.
General Fenech continues on with his exposition, moving over to a military map.

9i.

GEN.FENECH

You'll be dropped into France, about twenty four kilometers outside of Paris.
The Basterds will be waiting for you.
First thing, you go to a little village called, "Nadine".
(He points it out on the map)
Apparently the Gerrys never go there.
In Nadine, there's a tavern, called,
"La Louisiane", you'll rendez-vous with our double agent, and she'll take it from there. She's the one who's going to get you in the premiere.
It will be you, her, and two German born members of the Basterds. She's also made all the other arrangements your going to need.

LT.HICOX

How will I know her?

GEN.FENECH

I suspect that won't be too much trouble for you. Your contact is Bridget Von Hammersmark.

LT.HICOX

Bridget Von Hammersmark? The German movie star is working for England?

GEN.FENECH

For the last two years now. one could even say Operation Kino was her brainchild.
In the back of the room the bulldog barks;

CHURCHELL

Extraordinary women.

LT.BICOX

Quite.

GEN.FENECH

You'll go to the premiere as her escort, lucky devil. She'll also have the premiere tickets for the other two. Got the gist?

LT.HICOX

I think so, sir. Paris when it sizzles.
The three British bulldogs laugh.

9 3

EXT - CINEMA ROOFTOP - DAY

Shosanna and Marcel are on the rooftop of their cinema, literally, making a movie.
Marcel is behind a old (even then) BOLEX 35MM MOVIE CAMERA, positioned low looking up.

Shosanna, the camera subject, stands on boxes looking down into it.

A old timey MICROPHONE is positioned out of frame.
As they always do, and always will, they speak FRENCH SUBTITLED into you know what.

MARCEL

We need a sync mark.

SHOSANNA

What is a sync mark?

MARCEL

A action and noise put together,
So we can sync up the picture and sound.

SHOSANNA

How do we do that?

MARCEL

Clap your hands.
She does.

MARCEL

In frame imbecile.
She claps her hands in front of her face.

MARCEL

Ready?
Shosanna takes a deep breath, then;

SHOSANNA

Ready.

MARCEL

Action.

WE CUT BEFORE SHE SPEAKS TO...

GIR

.THE SCENE EARLIER BETWEEN MARCEL AND SHOSANNA IN THE

LOBBY, ON THE STAIRS, TALKING ABOUT BURNING DOWN THE CINEMA.

Big difference this time, it's in COLOR.

MARCEL

But how do we get it developed?
Only a suicidal idiot like us would develop that footage. How do we get a35mm print with a soundtrack?

SHOSANNA

Do you know one person who can do both things?

MARCEL

Of course Gaspar, very nice man, took care of all the experimental filmmakers. But nobody in their right mind would strike a print of what your talking about. If the Nazi's found out, their life wouldn't be worth this.
He snaps his fingers.

SHOSANNA

In a wolf fight, you ether eat the wolf, or the wolf eats you. If we're going to obliterate the Nazi's, we have to use their tactics.

MARCEL

What does that mean?

SHOSANNA

We find somebody who can develop and process a35mm print. And we make them do it, or we kill them.
Once we tell them what we want to do, if they refuse, we have to kill them anyway, or they'll turn us in.

MARCEL

Would you do that?

SHOSANNA

Like that.

Snaps her fingers.

?S,

INT - SMALL FILM PROCESSING LAB- LATE NIGHT

A old mom and pop film processing lab circa the Thirties.
Late late at night.

GASPAR, the fatherly figure of all the experimental French filmmakers in the decade before German rule, takes a SAVAGE BEATING at the hands of his friend Marcel.
Shosanna watches, pitiless.

SHOSANNA

Bring that fucker over here!

Put his head down on that table.

Marcel, holds his arm behind him, as he forces his head flat against the table top.

Shosanna brings a HATCHET DOWN DEEP into the table, just by his face.

SHOSANNA

You ether do what the fuck we tell you to, or I'll bury this axe in your collaborating skull.

GASPAR

I'm not a collaborator!

SHOSANNA

Then prove it! Or does your manhood go no deeper, then standing to piss?
Marcel, does his wife, and children know you?

MARCEL

Oui.

SHOSANNA

Then after we kill this dog for Germans, we'll go and silence them.
She lifts up the hatchet, raises it high...

SHOSANNA

Prepare to die, collaborator fucker!

CUT TOGASPAR

hands the couple a SMALL SILVER CAN OF 35mm FILM. Outside the shop window, it's morning.

INT - PROJECTION BOOTH-

WE SEE the five heavy silver film cans of Fredrick Zollers life story "Nations Pride"(clearly marked) on the floor of the projection booth.

The can for REEL 4is open and empty.

Shosanna's at the editing bench, REEL 4, is up on the rewinds...

Shosanna SPLICES her and Marcells footage into REEL 4 of Fredricks film. Rewinds it, puts it back in the can, and puts a piece of RED TAPE on REEL 4 CAN.

She walks out of the booth, turning off the lights behind her, PLUNGING THE SCREEN INTO DARKNESS.

BLACK FRAMEFROM BLACK DISSOLVE TO*EXT - LA LOUISIANE (TAVERN) - NIGHT

We see a small basement tavern, with a old rustic sign out front that reads, "La Louisiane".

A SUBTITLE APPEARS:

"The Village of

NADINE, FRANCE"

TWO SHOT LT.HICOX and LT.ALDO RAINE

Aldo is dressed like a French civilian. Hicox is dressed in a German grey S.S. Cap't uniform. They look out of a window, in a apartment, in the village of Nadine, overlooking the tavern.

LT.ALDO

You didn't say the goddamn rendez-vous was in a fuckin basement.

LT.HICOX

I didn't know.

LT.ALDO

You said it was in a tavern?

LT.HICOX

it is a tavern.

LT.ALDO

Yeah, in a basement. You know, fightin in a basement offers a lot of difficulties, number one being, your fighting in a basement. Wilhelm Wicki, joins the SHOT, dressed in a German S.S. Lieutenant uniform.

WICKI

What if we go in there, and she's not even there?

LT.HICOX

We wait. Don't worry, she's a British spy, she'll make the rendez-vous.

WE SEE the other Basterds, dressed in French civilian clothes, are in the room as well, they are, Donowitz, Hirschberg, and Utivich. And in the back of the room, dressed in the grey uniform of a S.S. Lieutenant, Hugo Stiglitz sits off by himself, sharpening his S.S. DAGGER on his leather belt looped around his boot. Anybody not in the scene from the Basterds opening chapter, is dead.

Lt.Hicox watches Stiglitz off by himself on the other side of the room, SHARPENS his dagger menacingly.

.Stiglitz is fucking weird...

Lt.Hicox approaches Stiglitz...

LT.NICOX

Stiglitz, right?

STIGLITZ

That's right, sir.

He continues bringing the blades edge, up, then, down on the leather strap.

LT.HICOX

I hear your pretty good with that?

Meaning the blade. Stiglitz doesn't answer.

LT.HICOX

You know, we're not looking for trouble, right now. We're simply making contact with our agent. Should be uneventful. However, on the off chance I'm wrong, and things prove eventful. I need to know, we can all remain calm.

99.

The renegade Gerry Sergeant, stops his blades progress, and looks up at the limy Lieutenant.

STIGLITZ

I don't look calm to you?

LT.HICOX

Well, now you put it like that,

I guess you do.

He turns his attention back to his blade.

Hicox moves over to Aldo, and asks him privately;

LT. HI COX

This Gerry of yours, Stiglitz?

Not exactly the loquacious type, is he?

Aldo just looks at him.

LT.ALDO

Is that the kinds man you need, the loquacious type?

LT.HICOX

Fair point, Lieutenant.

LT.ALDO

So y'all git in trouble in there, what are we suppose to do?

Make bets on how it all comes out?

LT.HICOX

If we get into trouble, we can handle it. But if trouble does happen, we need you to make damn sure no Germans, or French, for matter, escape from that basement. If Frau Von Hammersmark's cover is compromised, the mission is kaput.

SGT.DONOWITZ

Speaking of Frau Von Hammersmark, who's idea was it for the death trap rendez-vous?

LT.HICOX

She chose the spot.

SGT.DONOWITZ

Well isn't that just dandy?

LT.HICOX

Look, she's not a military strategist. She's just a actress.

LT.ALDO

Ya don't got to be Stonewall Jackson to know you don't want to fight in a basement.

LT.HICOX

She wasn't picking a place to fight. She was picking a place, isolated, and without germans.

PFC.HIRSCHBERG

Lieutenant, I hate to be contrary, but I got me a Nazi pissin on Louisiana two-o'clock. They move to the window, and sure enough, ONE LONE NAZI PRIVATE, relieves himself against the side wall. Lt.Bicox, this was definitely, not the plan.

LT.HICOX

Shit.
Sgt.Donowitz chides him;

SGT.DONOWITZ

So what do you think your fraulein Von Hammer -

LT.HICOX

- Obviously, I don't know,Sgt.
The British officer watches the German soldier, who's not suppose to be there. When Hugo Stiglitz joins him at the window. Stiglitz looks down at the urinating Nazi, S.S. dagger in hand.

STIGLITZ

If we're going, let's go.
He sheaths the dagger.

EXT - LA LOUISIANE (BASEMENT TAVERN) - NIGHT

The GERMAN PISSING PRIVATE, sloppily finishes his task. Craming his noodle back in his pants, he descends the stairs that lead him back into the basement tavern. We Follow him...

INT - LA LOUISIANE (BASEMENT TAVERN) - NIGHT

.Inside the basement tavern, La Louisiane. it has a very low hanging basement ceiling. A old looking wood bar off to the right. And the only other space in the little tavern, is taken up by two large(at least in here) tables, which take up both half's of the room. And despite rumors to the contrary, one of the two tables, is completely filled with drunken celebrating Nazi enlisted men, of which our urinating friend is one of five.

FIVE NAZI'S

ONE GERMAN MASTER SGT, ONE FEMALE GERMAN SGT (a powerfully built stocky type), and THREE MALE GERMAN PRIVATES.

The Five Nazi's are sitting around the table, drinking, and playing a very fun game with none other then the fraulein of the hour, UFA diva, BRIDGET VON HAMMERSMARK. Dressed to the nines in a chic Forties style women's suit, complete with fedora. The game their playing consists of each player having a card with the name of a famous person, real or imaginary, stuck to their forehead. The player doesn't know what name is on their forehead. So they ask the others questions to figure out who they are.

The Five Germans, five cards read; MASTER SGT #1(POLA NEGRI),

FEMALE SGT #2(BEETHOVEN) , GERMAN PRIVATE #3(MATA HARI) ,

GERMAN PRIVATE #4 (EDGAR WALLACE) , GERMAN PRIVATE #5

(WINNETOU). And Bridget Von Hammersmark, who wears her card in the brim of her fedora, has GENGHIS KHAN.

It's German#5 (WINNETOU) turn to ask questions.

The DIALOGUE will be in GERMAN, and SUBTITLED into ENGLISH. Also, while some dialogue will be written for the German Soldiers, it will be mostly made up from the exuberance of their game playing, and celebrating.

WINNETOU

.okay, I'm not German. Am I American?

The whole table bursts out laughing.

FEMALE SGT/BEETHOVEN

Yes you are!

EDGAR WALLACE

Well, not really.

SGT.POLA NEGRI

What do you mean, not really? Of course he is.

91

EDGAR WALLACE

Well if he's so American, how come he's never been translated into English? He's not American. He's suppose to be American, but he's not a American creation. In fact, he's something very different.

WINNETOU

Okay, I'm a fictional, literary character, from the past, I'm American, and that's controversial.

BRIDGET/GENGUS

No it's not controversial. The nationality of the author, has nothing to do with the nationality of the character. The Character is the character. Hamlet's not British, he's Danish. So yes, this character was born in America.

WINNETOU

Well I'm glad that's settled. If I had a wife, would she be called a squaw? He's got it. The table Laughs. The TABLE

YES!

WINNETOU

Is my bloodbrother, Old Shatterhand? The TABLE
Yes!

WINNETOU

Did Karl May write me? The TABLE
Yes!

In the BACKGROUND, WE SEE, our three counterfeit German Officers, Hicox, Wicki, and Stiglitz, enter the basement tavern. They obviously. see the five German soldiers, but their too far away for us (the audience) to read their face. No doubt their less then happy. Fraulein Von Hammersmark see's them as well. Without getting up, she waves to them.

QZ

BRIDGET

Hello, my lovelies, I will join you in moments. I'm finishing up a game with my five new friends here.

LT.HICOX

No hurry, Frau Von Hammersmark. Take your time, enjoy yourself.

BRIDGET

(To Winnetou)
So who are you?

WINNETOU

I am WINNETOU, CHIEF of the APACHES!
The table CHEERS, and APPLAUD the Apache Chief, as he takes the card off his forehead.
The other Four German Soldiers drink down there beer(part of the game).
Bridget Von Hammersmark knock backs her champagne.

MATA HARI

Frau Von Hammersmark, when your friends came in, did you realize you did a double take, like in the movies?

BRIDGET

Really? No, I wasn't aware of that at all.

MATA HARI

They must be second nature to you now? Did they teach you how to do a double take in the movies?

BRIDGET

Well, yes they did, but it's not really that difficult.

SGT. POLA NEGRI

Do one for us.
The Tableheartily agrees.
Bridget looks directly at the Master Sgt, and does a perfect, and perfectly funny, Double Take.
The Table loves it.

q3.

MATA HARI

My turn, I want to try.
Mata Hari, looks directly at Beethoven, and does a Double Take.

EDGER WALLACE

I want to try.
He does.
Soon the whole Table is doing dueling Double Takes.

HICOX - WICKI - STIGLITZ

watch the table do dueling Double Takes. Obviously, they don't understand.

THEN...

.Bridget Von Hammersmark rises, and excuses herself from the Table. She removes the card stuck in her fedora, looking at the name Gengus Khaun for the first time.

BRIDGET

Gengus Khaun! I would never of gotten that.
She walks over, and joins the masquerading Germans table, the Gentlemen rise. She greets each warmly with a french cheek kiss, as if she knows them well.
They all take a seat. The two Basterds, and one Brit, drink Whiskey. The taverns PROPRIETOR, a older, big bellyed Frenchman named EARL, comes over to the table, and pours more champagne into Bridget's Champagne glass. He leaves, returning back behind the bar, with the YOUNG FRENCH BARMAID, the only other person in the establishment.
Obviously, they speak GERMAN, SUBTITLED into ENGLISH;

LT. HICOX

I thought this place was suppose to have more French then Germans?

BRIDGET

Normally that's true. The Sgt over there's wife, just had a baby. His commanding officer gave him, and his mates the night off to celebrate.

WICXI

We should leave.

BRIDGET

F No, we should stay. For one drink at least. I've been waiting for you in a bar, it would look strange if we left before we had a drink.

LT.HICOX

She's right, just be calm, and enjoy your booze.

BACK TO THE GERMAN TABLE

The French Barmaid, has taken Bridget's place in the rousing, rowdy game. She tells them, her person must be French, or she won't know them. Winnetou thinks for a moment, then writes a name on a card. The Barmaid puts it on her forehead, It says;

NAPOLEON.

The Germans all laugh.

BACK TO THE BASTERDS TABLEBRIDGET

There's been some new developments. The cinema venue has changed.

LT.HICOX

Why?

BRIDGET

No one knows. But that in itself shouldn't be a problem. The cinema it's been changed to is considerably smaller than The Ritz. So whatever materials you brought for The Ritz, should be doubly effective here. Now this next piece of information is colossal, try not to over react. The Fubrer, will be attending tomorrow. Hugo Stiglitz does a SPIT TAKE. Bridget's eyes bore holes in him.

BACK TO THE REAL GERMANS

They see Hugo do the spit take, and burst out laughing. Keeping it up, they begin to do dueling spit takes, like they did dueling double takes earlier. Needless to say, they all get wet.

9

BACK TO BASTERDSBRIDGET

(To Hicox)
You'll be going as Ernst Schuller.
You'll say your a associate producer on Riefenstahl's "Tiefland". It's the one German production not under Goebbels control, and Leni wouldn't be caught dead at a Goebbels film affair.

BACK TO REAL GERMAN TABLE

Master Sgt.Pola Negri, drinks his beer, as he looks over, dreamily, at Bridget Von Hammersmark at the other table.

BACK TO BASTERDS

We See in Bridget continues to brief Hicox on his identity.
the B.G., the German Master Sgt stand up from his table, and head toward Fraulein Von Bammersmark.

BRIDGET

.the films gone through many delays, and Leni's heath is deteriorating, so if you have to speak...
Hicox, seeing the German Master Sgt approach, signals for her to cool it.

SGT.POLA NEGRI

Frau Von Hammersmark, I was just thinking, could you sign a autograph to my son on his birthday?

BRIDGET

I'd love to Wilhelm.
(To the Table)
This handsome happy Sgt, just became a father today.
The Pretend Officers offer congratulations to the Sgt.
The German Master Sgt, CLICKS his heels, and bows before his superior officers.

SGT.POLA NEGRI

Thank you, heil Hitler.
He raises his hand as do the seated phony officers; "Heil
Hitler".
As she takes a rather fancy fountain pen from her clutch..

BRIDGET

So Wilhelm, do you know the name of this progeny yet?

SGT.POLA NEGRI

I most certainly do, fraulein. His name is Maximilian.
Even the slightly psychotic Stiglitz, likes this German Sgt.

STIGLITZ

Wonderful name, Sgt.

SGT.POLA NEGRI

Thank you, Lieutenant. When he's old enough to ride a bicycle, I will buy him a blue one. And I will paint on the side "The Blue Max".
He thrusts out his beer stein, for the officers to cheers.
They do.
Bridget finishes signing her autograph, with a big flourish.

BRIDGET

There you go. But wait, I'm not finished yet.
She reaches into her clutch, and pulls out some lipstick.
Applies some ruby red color to her lips, and then kisses the napkin, leaving a big red lip print. Then hands the treasured item to the young father.

BRIDGET

Nothing but the best for little Maximilian.

SGT.POLA NEGRI

Thank you fraulein, thank you. Max may not know who you are now. But he will.
I will show him all of your movies.
He will grow up with your films,
and this napkin on his wall.
Then, to the whole tavern...

SGT.POLA NEGRI

I purpose a toast to the greatest actress in Germany! There is no Dietrich, there is no Riefenstahl, only Von Hammersmark!
The whole room toasts.
This would be a good time for the German Sgt to go back to his table, and his men. And he almost does.... but... since he is drunk, and star struck, he out wears his welcome.

SGT.POLA NEGRI

So, Frau Von Hammersmark, what brings you to France?

97 .

Feeling any good Nazi officer's patience would of been exhausted long ago, Lt.Hicox butts in.

LT.HICOX

None of your business,Sgt.
You might not have worn out your welcome with the fraulein, with your drunken boorish behavior, but you have wore out your welcome with me.
The Table of game playing Soldiers, hear this, and get quiet.

LT.HICOX

Might I remind you Sgt.,your a enlisted man. This is a officers table. I suggest you stop pestering the fraulein, and rejoin your table.
The German Master Sgt., looks quizzically at the officer.

SGT.POLA NEGRI

Excuse me Cap't, but your accent is is very unusual.
The whole room pauses-for different reasons...

SGT. POLA NEGRI

Where are you from?

A silent moment passes between the two tables, then the two German born impostors spring into action.

WICKI

Sgt.! You must be ether drunk or mad, to speak to a superior officer with such impertinentness!
Stiglitz, STANDS and YELLS to the other table;

STIGLITZ

I'm making YOU,...
(Pointing at

WINNETOU)

.and YOU,..
(Pointing at Edgar Wallace)
.responsible, for him.
(Pointing at Sgt.Pola)
I suggest you take hold of your friend, or he'll spend Max's first birthday in jail for public drunkenness!

78

The Germans SPRING UP, and take hold of Sgt.Pola...

1WWHEN...

A GERMAN VOICE rings out;

GERMAN VOICE (OS)

Then might I inquire?
The Five known Germans move aside, reveling the unknown German in the room, unseen till now, our old friend from before MAJOR DEITER HELLSTROM of the GESTAPO. The Major stands from the little table he was sitting at.

MAJOR HELLSTROM

Like the young newly christened father,
I too have a acute ear for accents.
And like him, I too find yours odd.
From where do you hail, Cap't?
Wicki jumps in;

WICKI

Major, this is highly inappr -

MAJOR HELLSTROM

T wasn't speaking to you
Lt.Saltzberg, (Turning to STIGLITZ)

or you ether, Lt.Berlin.
(Looking at HICOX)

I was speaking to Cap't I--don't-know-what.

The Gestapo Major is now standing beside Sgt.Pola, before the impostors table.

Lt.Hicox, calmly explains his origin.

LT.HICOX

I was born in the village that rests in the shadow of Piz Palu.

MAJOR HELLSTROM

The mountain?

LT.HICOX

Yes. In that village we all speak like this. Have you seen the Riefenstahl film?

MAJOR HELLSTROM

Yes.

f q s

LT. HICOX

Then you saw me. You remember the skiing torch scene?

MAJOR HELLSTROM

Yes I do.

LT.HICOX

In that scene was myself, my father, my sister, and my two brothers. My brother is so handsome, the director
Pabst, gave him a Close Up.
As Bridget Von Hammersmark places a cigarette in a ivory cigarette holder, which Hicox, as if on cue, lights for her,
she says;

BRIDGET

Major, if my word means anything, I can vouch for everything the Young Cap't has just said. He does hail from the bottom of Piz Palu, he was in the film, and his brother is far more handsome then he.
The impostors laugh.
Then....so does the Gestapo Major. He turns to the Sgt.

MAJOR HELLSTROM

You should rejoin your friends.
Which the young Sgt is more then happy to do. That table begins playing there game again.
Major Hellstrom, the highest ranking officer in the room, bows graciously to the female German celebrity.

MAJOR HELLSTROM

May I join you?

BRIDGET

By all means, Major.
The Gestapo Major sits at the table, opposite Lt.Hicox, and Wicki. The French Barmaid brings over the Majors beer stein.

MAJOR HELLSTROM

So that's the source of your bazaar accent? Extraordinary. So what are you doing here Cap't?

LT.HICOX

Aside from having a drink with the lovely fraulein?

,00 .

MAJOR HELLSTROM

Well that pleasure requires no explanation.
Chuckle...Chuckle

MAJOR HELLSTROM

I mean in country. Your obviously not stationed in France, or I'd know who you are.

LT. HICOX

You know every German in France?

MAJOR HELLSTROM

Worth knowing.

LT.HICOX

Well, there in lies the problem. We never claimed to be worth knowing.
Chuckle... Chuckle.

MAJOR HELLSTROM

(Chuckling as he asks)
All levity aside, what are you doing in France?

LT.HICOX

Attending Goebbels film premiere as the frauleins escort.

MAJOR HELLSTROM

Your the frauleins escort?

LT.HICOX

Somebody has to carry the lighter.
Chuckle chuckle.

BRIDGET

The Captain is my date, but all three are my guests. We're old friends Major, who go back along time. Longer then a actress would care to admit.
Chuckle chuckle.

MAJOR HELLSTROM

Well, in that case, let me raise a glass to the three luckiest men in the room.

BRIDGET

I'll drink to that.

101

They cheers.

BACK TO THE REAL GERMAN TABLE

They continue to have alot of fun playing their game.

BACK TO OFFICERS TABLE

MAJOR HELLSTROM

I must say, that game their playing looks like a good bit of fun. I didn't join them, because your quite right Cap't, officers and enlisted men shouldn't fraternize. But seeing as we're all officers here, (Bowing to

BRIDGET)

.and sophisticated lady friends of officers. What say we play the game? Lt.Hicox begins to refuse, when Bridget (feeling she knows better), interrupts him;

BRIDGET

okay, one game.

MAJOR HELLSTROM

WUNDERBAR

The Major borrows five cards from the other table, and lays them out in front of Bridget and the officers.

MAJOR HELLSTROM

So the object of the game, is to write the name of a famous person on your card. Real or fictitious, doesn't matter. For instance, you could write Confucius or Fu Manchu.
(He SNAPS his FINGERS)

Eric' More pens.
(Back to players)
And they must be famous. No Aunt Inga's. When you finish writing, put the card face down on the table, and move it to the person to your left. The person to your right, will move their card in front of you. You pick up the card without looking at it, lick the back, and stick it on your forehead like so. He demonstrates.

)oz.

MAJOR HELLSTROM

(CON'T)

And in ten yes or no questions, you must guess who you are...

As Major Hellstrom finishes explaining the finer points of the game, The CAMERA PANS OFF HIM, and BEGINS SLOWLY ZOOMING INTO STIGLITZ. The Majors dialogue begins to FADE AWAY. Untill we're in a SPAGHETTI WESTERN FLASHBACK. Which is RED FILTERED FOOTAGE of Hugo being savagely WHIPPED by somebody wearing a GESTAPO UNIFORM, SUPERIMPOSED over his CLOSE UP. The Flashback disappears. It's driving Stiglitz crazy, being this close to a Gestapo uniform, and not plunging a knife into it.

The Majors Voice comes back on the soundtrack.

MAJOR HELLSTROM

.So let's give it a try, shall we?
Everybody write your names.
The Five players write their names...
Then move their cards to the right...
Everybody sticks their cards on their forehead...

MAJORBRIDGETWILHELMARCHIEHUGO

HELLSTROMVON HAMMERSMARKWICKIHICOXSTIGLITZ is is is is is

KING MARCOBULLDOGBRIGITTEG.W.

KONG POLO DRUMMOND HELM PABST

MAJ.KING KONG

I'll start, give you the idea.
Am I German?
They laugh.

BRIDGET

No.

MAJ.KING KONG

Am I a American?
They laugh - but then Wicki says;

WICKI

Wait a minute, he goes to

!03 .

BRIDGET

Don't be ridiculous, obviously he wasn't born in America.

MAJ.KING KONG

So... . I visited America, aye?
The Table says; "Yes".

MAJ.KING KONG

Was this vist...fortuitous?

WICKI

Not for you.

MAJ.KING KONG

.Bummm. My native land, is it what one would call, exotic?
The Table confers, and decides, yes it is exotic.

MAJ.KING KONG

Hummmm. That could be ether a reference to the jungle, or the Orient. I'm going to let my first instinct take over, and ask, am I from the jungle?
The Tablesays; "Yes you are".

MAJ.KING KONG

Now gentlemen, around this time you could ask, weather your real or fictitious. I however, think that's too easy, so I won't ask that, yet. Okay, my native land is the jungle? I visited America, but my visit was not fortuitous to me, but the implication is that it was to somebody else. When I went from the jungle to America,... .Did I go by boat?
"Yes".

MAJ.KING KONG

Did I go against my will?
"Yes".

MAJ.KING KONG

On this boat ride, Was I in chains?

"YESIS

MAJ.KING KONG

When I arrived in America,...Was I displayed in chains?
"Yes".

MAJ.KING KONG

Am I the story of the Negro in America?
The Table says, "No".

MAJ.KING KONG

Well then I must be King Kong.
Be throws the card on the table.
They applaud him.

MAJOR HELLSTROM

Nov since I answered correctly, you all need to finnish your drinks.
The three counterfeit Nazi's knock back their whiskey.

MAJOR HELLSTROM

Now, who's next?

LT.HICOX

Major, I don't mean to be rude. But the four of us are very good friends. And the four of us haven't seen each other in quite a while. So...
Major, I'm afraid, you are intruding.

MAJOR HELLSTROM

I beg to differ Cap't. It's only if the fraulein considers my presence a intrusion, that I become a intruder.
How about it fraulein? Am I intruding?

BRIDGET

Of course not, Major.

MAJOR HELLSTROM

I didn't think so. It's simply the young
Cap't is immune to my charms.
The Table's not sure what to do, is this a confrontation?
Then, the Major laughs.

MAJOR HELLSTROM

I'm just joking, of course I'm intruding.

MAJOR HELLSTROM

Allow me to refill your glasses gentlemen, and I will bid you and the fraulein adieu.
(Leaning in)
Eric has a bottle of thirty-three year old single malt scotch whisky from the Scottish highlands. What do you say gentlemen?

LT.HICOX

Your most gracious, sir.

MAJOR HELLSTROM

Eric, the thirty-three, and new glasses!
You don't want to contaminate the thirty-three with the swill you were drinking.

ERIC

How many glasses?

LT.HICOX

Five glasses.

MAJOR HELLSTROM

Not me. I like scotch, scotch doesn't like me.

BRIDGET

Nor I. I'll stay with bubbly.
Lt.Bicox, hold up three fingers(pinky to index), to Eric the owner.

LT.HICOX

Three glasses.
Eric brings the three glasses, and the old bottle, pouring for the three soldiers.
Major Helistrom lifts up his beer stein, and toasts;

MAJOR HELLSTROM

To a thousand year Reich!
They all mutter, "a thousand year reich", and toast glasses.
The Gestapo Major puts down his beer stein, and then WE HEAR a CLICK, under the table.

MAJOR HELLSTROM

Did you hear that? That's the sound of my Luger pointed right at your testicles.

!Q(ÄÇâ,-ÂÇ

LT.HICOX

Why do you have a Luger pointed at my testicles?

MAJOR HELLSTROM

Because you've just given yourself away, Cap't. Your no more German then that scotch.

LT.HICOX

Well, -Major -

BRIDGET

- Major -

MAJOR HELLSTROM

- Shut up slut.

(To Hicox)

You were saying?

LT.HICOX

I was saying that makes two of us. I've had a gun pointed at your balls since you sat down.

SGT.STIGLITZ

That makes three of us.

UNDERTABLE

We See all three guns pointed at appropriate crotches. As well as Bridget's legs, right besides the Nazi Major's. Her pretty gams are sure to be chewed up in the possible crossfire.

SGT.STIGLITZ

And at this range, I'm a real Fredrick Zoller.

Hugo also brings out his dagger, and sticks it in the table top.

MAJOR HELLSTROM

Hummmmm ... Looks like we have a bit of a sticky situation here.

LT. H ICOX

What's going to happen, Major, is your going to stand up, and walk out that door with us.

MAJOR HELLSTROM

No no no no no no, I don't think so.

I'm afraid you and I both know, no matter what happens to anybody else in this room, the two of us aren't going anywhere.

"7 .

MAJOR HELLSTROM

(pointing behind him at the table)
Too bad about them though. They seem like a likeable
(referring to Stiglitz and Wicki)
You two will have to shoot them.

BRIDGET

Then Major, i implore you. For the sake of those German troops, will you please leave with us?

MAJOR HELLSTROM

Oh Bridget, your concern for German troops, gets me (Pointing at his heart)
.right here. You mean for the sake your whore legs, don't you? You can't afford to get any bullet holes in them, your not finished spreading them for all the Hollywood Jews.
Lt.Hicox picks up his thirty-three year old single malt scotch, and says;

LT.HICOX(ENGLISH)

'Well, if this is it old boy, I hope you dont mind if I go out speaking the kings?

MAJOR HELLSTROM(ENGLISH)

By all means, Cap't.
The English film critic, commando, picks up the thirty-three the Nazi Major bought him, and says;

LT.HICOX

There's a special rung in hell reserved for people who waste good scotch.
And seeing as I might be rapping on the door momentarily...
He downs the stuff.

LT.HICOX

(To the Nazi

MAJOR)

I must say, damn good stuff, sir.

He puts the glass down.

LT.HICOX

Now about this, "Pickle", we find ourselves in. It would appear, there's only thing left for you to do.

MAJOR HELLSTROM(ENGLISH)

And what would that be?

LT.HICOX

Stiglitz.

STIGLITZ

Say, auf wiedersehen to your balls!

STIGLITZ

FIRES into HELLSTROM'S BALLS...

As does HICOX, HITTING not only Hellstrom, but BRIDGET as well.

HELLSTROM

FIRES into HICOX'S BALLS and KNEE CAPS.

STIGLITZ

then JUMPS over the table, and begins STABBING HELLSTROM with the

DAGGER.

HICOX FALLS to the floor....DEAD.

BRIDGET FALLS to the floor.,SHOT.

WICKI

brings his weapon out from underneath the table, and BEGINS FIRING across at The GERMANS at the table, who unaware, were still PLAYING THE GAME.

WINNETOU

is SHOT IN THE BACK, before he even knew what was happening.

EDGAR WALLACE and The FRENCH BARMAID are both SHOT by WICKI.

SGT.POLA NEGRI

FALLS to the floor in the confusion.

FEMALE SGT.BEETHOVEN and STIGLITZ bring their guns toward each other and FIRE. They BOTH TAKE and GIVE each other so many BULLETS, it's almost romantic when they collapse DEAD on the floor.

I 09.

WICKI and HATA HARI

both ON THERE atMATA AARI is HIT THREE TIM atally)G

SGT.POLA NEGRI

comes the a CHINE GUNN, whole thehroom;,BWIPI NGERIC.

The SHOOTING STOPS...the SMOKE caused by the gunfire ... starts to DISSIPATE... The only one in the room left alive, is the young German Sgt, with the machine gunn.

WE HEAR the feet of the soldiers outside, reach the basement entrance.

The door opens...

, .The German Sgt, sends FIFTY BULLETS in the doors direction...

No one goes through it.

What we have here, is a rabbit hole like situation. No one inside is getting out, no one outside is getting in.

The young German Sgt, YELLS in ENGLISH, to the outside;

GERMAN SGT

You outside! Who are you? British,
American, what?

Aldo's Voice YELLS down the hole;

ALDO'S VOICE (OS)

Were American's 1 What are you?

GERMAN SGT

I'm a German you idiot!

ALDO'S VOICE (OS)

You speak English pretty good for a German!

GERMAN SGT

I agree! So let's talk!

ALDO'S VOICE (OS)

Okay, talk!

GERMAN SGT

I'm a father! My baby was born today in Frankfurt! Five hours ago! His name is Max! We were in here drinking and celebrating! They're the ones that came in shooting and killing! It's not my fault!

Ito.

ALDO'S VOICE (OS)

Okay, okay, it wasn't your fault! What's your name soldier?

GERMAN SGT

Wilhelm!

ALDO'S VOICE (OS)

That's the same name as one of the guys you just killed!

WILHELM

They attacked us!

ALDO'S VOICE (OS)

Okay Wilhelm... .is anybody alive on our side?

WILHELM

No!

We hear a VOICE OFF SCREEN, yell out;

BRIDGET'S VOICE (OS)

I'm alive!

Wilhelm spins in the direction of the voice.

STILL

R

On the floor, with a bullet in her BLOODY LEG, lies the alive Bridget Von Hammersmark.

The German Sgt points the muzzle of the machine gunn at the German celebrity; with hate in his eyes.

ALDO'S VOICE (OS)

Who's that?

WILHELM

(To BRIDGET,

LOW)

Make a sound whore, and I spit!
Meaning the muzzle.

ALDO'S VOICE (OS)

Wilhelm, who is that?

WILHELM

is the girl on your side?
Pause.

ALDO'S VOICE (OS)

Which girl?

WILHELM

I Who do you think, Von Hammersmark!

ALDO'S VOICE (OS)

Yeah, she's oar's!

WILHELM

(To Bridget
LOW in GERMAN)
I thought so. So you run with the American's now, huh? Now times are bad?

ALDO'S VOICE (OS)

Is she okay?

WILHELM

(To Bridget
LOW in GERMAN)
You despicable traitor.
(To Aldo)
She's been shot, but she's alive.
(To Bridget
LOW in GERMAN)
For now.
We hear The Basterds Curse their luck Off Screen.

ALDO'S VOICE (OS)

Okay Wilhelm, what'd ya say we make a deal?

WILHELM

What's your name?

ALDO'S VOICE (OS)

Aldo. Wilhelm, can I call yap Willi?

WILHELM

Yes.

ALDO'S VOICE (OS)

So Willi, you know we could lob three or four or five or six grenades down there, and your little war story ends here. But good fer you, bad fer her, you die, she dies. So what say we make a swap?

WILLI

Keep talking?

112.

ALDO'S VOICE (OS)

Okay, Willi here's my deal! You let me and one of my men come down to take the girl away! And we take the girl, and leave! That simple, Willi! You go your way, we go ours! And little Max, gets to grow up playing catch with his daddy! So what'ya say, Willi, we got a deal?
Willi thinks...
Bridget watches Willi think...

WILLI

Aldo?

ALDO'S VOICE (OS)

I'm here Willi!

WILLI

I want to trust you.... But howcanI?

ALDO'S VOICE (OS)

What choice ya got?

WILLI

I could kill the girl!

ALDO'S VOICE (OS)

Well now, Willi, that's true enough. But something you need to know, so you don't get the wrong idea. Ain't none of us give a fuck bout that girl. But, admittedly, if you kill her, it would fuck up our plans. But you'll be dead by then anyway, so what'd you care? And lets not forget that little gatzjenjammer Max, growin up without a pop. So in the spirit of gettin you home to him, we got a deal, Willi?

WILLI

Okay Aldo, I'm going to trust you!

Come down, no guns!

Aldo and Hirschberg come down the stairs, showing open hands.

Willi keeps his machine gun trained on them.

Aldo with his hands up, says;

A

ALDO

Hey Willi, what's with the machine gunny I thought we had a deal?

WILLI

We do have a deal, now git the girl and go.

ALDO

Not so fast, Willi, we only have a deal, we trust each other. A Mexican stand off ain't trust.

WILLI

You need guns on me for it to be a Mexican stand off.

ALDO

you got guns on us, you decide to shoot, we're dead. Up top, they got grenades, they drop 'em down here, your dead. That's a Mexican stand off, and that wasn't the deal.

WILLI

Just take that fucking traitor, and go! See? Now your down here
Now you get tricky - t

ALDO

- No tricks!- Ain't nobody gittin tricky, Willi; I swear to god, I'm too damn dumb toget tricky. But

(MEANING

HIRSCHBERG)

him and I lived upto the deal. We came down without guns. Now it's your turn. No trust,no deal.
Willi pointing gunn at them.,,, -thinking...

ALDO

i know your scarred. I'm scarred, he's scarred, we're all scarred. So what's it gonnabe Willi?
Ether we got a deal, or you might as well just shoot us now.
Willi decides...
He puts the machine gunn down on the bar.

WILLI

Fine. Take that fucking traitor and get her out of my sight.

ALDO

Danka, Willi, danka. okay, Hirschbeg, you grab her shoulder -

WHEN...

From behind Aldo and Hirschberg, Bridget lifts up Major Hellstroms Luger, and EMPTIES the remaining bullets into Sgt.Willi, who FALLS to the floor, DEAD.
Aldo and Hirschberg spin around shocked.

ALDO

You fuckin bitch! I had a deal with that man!

From the floor, the bloody, sweaty, and in excoriating pain (she'll probably lose that leg), German movie star, says to the two American soldier's she's just meeting for the first time;

BRIDGET

He was a enemy soldier, who knew who I was. He couldn't live.

3

Hirschberg loses control, and RICKS the woman on the floor, hard in the side.

HIRSCHBERG

I ought'a beat your fuckin head in

ALDO

Stop it. Just pick her up, and get that bitch outta here.

HIRSCHBERG

Aldo, she just-

ALDO

- She's right.

HIRSCHBERG

What?

ALDO

I said, she's right. He was a Nazi soldier. If he lived, he would doomed the mission.

ELI

)Is,.

ALDO61*(CON'T)

Don't mean I like it, don't mean I like her, but she's right. Now as Willi said, "take this fuckin traitor, and get 'er outta my sight".

EXT - LA LOUISIANE - NIGHT

Hirschberg, carrying Fraulein Von Hammersmark, and Aldo emerge from the bowels of the basement.
Bridget points at a fancy black sedan, telling them it's her's.
Aldo, Hirschberg, Bridget, Donowitz, and Utivich pile in, and take off.

INT - FRENCH HOUSE IN COUNTRY (BEDROOM) - NIGHT

NOTE:In this entire scene, no French spoken will be SUBTITLED.

A OLD MAN lies asleep under the covers of his blankets, in his bed, in his bedroom...

WHEN...

OFF SCREEN the sound of a DOOR BEING KICKED OPEN...

r .The SOUND of what sounds like EIGHT DOGS BARKING and the sound of FEET RUNNING TOWARDS US...

.his bedroom door, is THROWN OPEN, and Sgt.Donowitz RUSHES IN, grabbing the Old Man in his bed, and putting a 45Automatic to his head.

SGT.DONOWITZ

(ENGLISH)

Doctor? Doctor?

OLD MAN

(FRENCH)

What? What's happening?

head, shocking, Donny SLAMS the 45. hard against the Old Man's scarring, and bringing the old gent to attention.

SGT.DONOWITZ

(ENGLISH)

Doctor? Are you a fucking doctor?

He nods his head, yes.

SGT.DONOWITZ

Andi amo...

Donny YANKS/DRAGS the Old Man out of bed, in his almost comical nightshirt (which makes him cuter, thus the brutality against him hurts more) towards the door...

INT - DOCTORS EXAMINING ROOM - NIGHT

.Into a doctors examining room, built into a French country house, with a examining table, and medical instruments. However, it's obviously the medical examining room of a veterinarian.

Along the walls are different cages with eight excited BARKING dogs in it.

The Soldiers are putting the shot in the leg, bleeding, and in excruciating pain, Bridget on the examining table.

Donny, still holding on to the Old Man, points in the girls direction...

SGT.DONOWITZ

(ENGLISH)

She's been shot. Shot. Bang bang...

(pointing at his leg)

.in leg...understand?

OLD MAN

(FRENCH)

No no no, I don't speak English.

Donny jams the barrel of his 45. into the thigh of the Old Man.

SGT.DONOWITZ

(ENGLISH)

BANG BANG - in the leg, understand!
The Old Man nods his head yes.

OLD MAN

(FRENCH)

But I'm a veterinarian ...animals...
I take care of animals...
Bridget screams from the table...

BRIDGET

(ENGLISH)

He's a fucking veterinarian you imbecile!

1 00.

SGT.DONOWITZ

I

It's still a doctor. If he can get a bullet out of a cow, he can get a bullet outta you.

LT.ALDO

Right now, we just need morphine.
Donny yells at the Old Man;

SGT.DONOWITZ

Morphine! We need morphine!
The Old Man tries to explain in French, that he's not a human doctor...

WHEN...

..Donny takes the 45. and SHOOTs one of the DOGS in the cages.
Everybody jumps.
Donny SCREAMS at the Old Man;

SGT.DONOWITZ

MORPHINE!!!

7

BANG

He SHOOTs another dog...

SGT.DONOWITZ

MOREPHINE!!!

The Old Man begs him to stop, and goes to get the morphine.

CUT TO

The BODY of Gestapo Major DEITER HELLSTROM dead on the floor.

INT - LA LOUISTANE- NIGHT

Were back in the basement tavern. Colonel Hans Landa stands over the corpse. He moves over to the next corpse, a smile breaks out on his face.
He says in GERMAN SUBTITLED into ENGLISH;

COL. LANDA

Ahhh Hugo, you've moved up in the world I see. Lieutenant. And with your record of insubordination. Truly remarkable.

I

A Nazi soldier named HERRMAN, joins the S.S. Officer.

COL. LANDA

And that ones...
(Pointing at

WICKI)

.name is Weiheim Wicki. Bets Austrian born jew, who immigrated to the United States when things began turning sour for the Israelites. They are the two German born members of The Basterds. They've been known to don german uniforms, to ambush squads.

FLASH ON

Three Nazi Soldiers walking towards a company of other German Soldiers. The Three Soldiers backs are to us. Dried bloody bullet holes cover the backs of the three uniforms. The SGT of the German company, yells to the trio;

SGT. GERMAN COMPANY

What brings you all the way out here?
The TRIO MOW DOWN the GERMAN COMPANY with their machine gunns.

BACK TO LANDACOL. LANDA

But that doesnt look like this.
This is odd.
Looking down he see's something...
.bending down, he examines fraulein von Hammersmarks two pretty dress shoes lying on the floor.
One shoe is covered in blood.
The other, while blood speckled, is fairly clean.
Picking up the clean shoe, and holding it in his hand.

COL. LANDA

It would appear somebodies missing.
Somebody fashionable.
A OFF SCREEN SOLDIER'S VOICE cries out;

SOLDIERS VOICE (OS)

Col, this ones still alive!
We follow Hans to the spot on the floor where Sgt.Willi lies.
He's shot in the chest, but it looks like Max's daddy is still alive.

!!.

INT - EXAMINING ROOM - Æ, Æ° NIGHT

Bridget on the examining table, post morphine shot.
The other Basterds in the room watch Aldo interrogate the German lady.

LT. ALDO

Now 'fore we yank that slug outta ya, you need to answer a few questions

BRIDGET

Few questions about what?

LT. ALDO

About I got three men dead back there, and why don't you try tellin us what the fuck happened?

BRIDGET

The British officer blew his German act, and a Gestapo Major saw it.

LT. ALDO

'fore we get into who shot John, why did you invite my men to a rendez-vous in a basement with a bunch of Nazis?

BRIDGET

I can see, since you didn't see what happened inside, the Nazi's being there must look odd.

LT. ALDO

Yeah, we gotta word for that kinda odd in English, it's called, suspicious.

BRI DGET

Don't let your imagination get the better of you, Lieutenant. You met the sergeant, Willi. He had a baby tonight. His commanding officer gave him and his friends the night off to celebrate. The Germans being there was just a tragic coincidence.
Aldo thinks for a moment...

LT. ALDO

Okay, I'll buy that. He was ether there with his men waiting for us, or he was there celebrating his sons birthday, he wasn't doin both.

120.

LT. ALDO

How did the shootin start?

BRIDGET

The English man, gave himself away.

LT. ALDO

How did he do that?

BRIDGET

He ordered three glasses.

She holds up three fingers, index to pinky.

BRIDGET

We order, three glasses.

She holds up three fingers, thumb to index.

BRIDGET

That's the German three. The other is odd. Germans would, and did notice it.

LT. ALDO

Okay, let's pretend there were no Germans, and everything went exactly the way it was suppose to. What would of been the next step?

BRIDGET

Tuxedos. To get them into the premiere, wearing military uniforms, with all the military there, would of been suicide. But going as members of the German film industry, they wear tuxedos, and blend in with everybody else. I arranged a tailor to fit three tuxedos tonight.

LT. ALDO

How did you intend to get them into the premiere?

BRIDGET

Hand me my purse.

They do. And she opens it, and takes out three tickets to the film premiere.

BRIDGET

Lt.Hicox was going as my escort. The other two were going as a German cameraman and his assistant.

INN Ä, Ä®

LT. ALDO

Can you still get us in that premiere?

BRIDGET

Can you speak German better then your friends, no. Have I been shot, yes. I don't see me tripping the light fantastique up the red carpet any time soon. Least of all by tomorrow night.

(PAUSE)

However, there's something you don't know. There's been two recent developments regarding Operation Kino. One, the venue has been changed from The Ritz, to a much smaller venue.

LT. ALDO

Enormous changes at the last minute? That's not very Germatic. Why the hell is Goebbels doin stuff so damn peculiar?

BRIDGET

It probably has something to do with the second development.

LT. ALDO

Which is?

FLASH ON

IN A PRIVATE DINNING ROOM IN GERMANY, The FUHRER, aka Adolph Hitler, aka Adolph Shicklegroover, aka The Bohemian Corporal, having dinner with Goebbels, only a few short days ago. The FUHRER

(GERMAN)

I've been rethinking my position in regards to your Paris premiere of "Nations Pride". As the weeks have gone on, and the Americans are on the beach, I do find myself thinking more and more about this Private Zoller. This boy has done something tremendous for us. And I'm beginning to think my participation in this event could be meaningful.

BACK TO BRIDGET

BRIDGET

The Fuhrrer's attending the premiere.

1 2 Z.

Donny breaks the teams silence;

SGT. DONOWITZ

What?

LT. ALDO

When the hell did this happen?

BRIDGET

The venue change, two weeks ago. The Fuhrrer's attendance, four days ago.

LT. ALDO

And how come London don't know nothing about that?

BRIDGET

We need to get something straight, once and for all. Everything London knows, it learned from me. If I don't know, London doesn't know.

So now, this is me, informing you,
Hitler's coming to Paris.

SGT.DONOWITZ

FUCK A DUCK?

Aldo stands up from the chair, pacing as he takes in this new information.

BRIDGET

What are you thinking?

LT.ALDO

I'm thinking getting a wack at plantin ole Uncle Adolph makes this a horse of a different color.

BRIDGET

What's that suppose to mean?

LT.ALDO

It means, your gettin us in that premiere.

BRIDGET

I'm going to probably end up losing this leg, bye bye acting career, fun while it lasted. How do you expect me to walk up a red carpet?

X73

LT.ALDO

The doggie docs gonna dig that slug outta your gam. Then he's gonna wrap it up in a cast, and you gotta good how I broke my leg mountain climbing story. That's German, ain't it?
Y'all like climbin mountains,
don'tch?

BRIDGET

I don't. I like smoking, drinking, and ordering in restaurants, but I see your point.

LT. ALDO

We fill ya up with morphine, till it's comin out ya ears. Then just limp your little ass up that rouge car-pet.

BRIDGET

Splendid. When the Nazi's put me up against a wall, it won't hurt so much.

(Changing tone)

I know this is a silly question before I ask it, but can you American's speak any other language then English?

HIRSCHBERG

Other then Yiddish?

BRIDGET

Preferably.

Donny referring to Aldo and himself.

SGT.DONOWITZ

We both speak alittle Italian.

BRIDGET

With a atrocious accent, no doubt.
But that doesn't exactly kill us in the crib. Germans don't have a good ear for Italian. So you mumble Italian, and brazen through it, is that the plan?

LT. ALDO

That's about it.

BRIDGET

That sounds good.

LT. ALDO

it sounds like shit, but what else we gonna do, go home?

BRIDGET

No, it's good. If you don't blow it, with that, I can get you in the building.

(Change tone)

So, who does what?

LT.ALDO

Well I speak the most Italian, so I'll be your escort. Donowitz speaks the second most, so he'll be your Italian cameraman. And Hirschberg third most, so he'll be Donnys assistant.

HIRSCHBERG

I don't speak Italian.

LT. ALDO

Like I said, third best. Just keep your fuckin mouth shut. In fact why don't you start practising, right now.

BRIDGET

(Meaning Utivich)

What about the little one?

UTIVICH

Do you mean me?

BRIDGET

I didn't mean any offence.

UTIVICH

None taken you German cunt.

LT.ALDO

Utivich is the chauffeur.

UTIVICH

I can't drive.

Bridget SCREAMS in frustration;

BRIDGET

You Americans are fucking useless!

UTIVICH

IVGimmie a break, I'm from Manhattan.

LT.ALDO

No worries, son. We got over fourteen hours before the movie tomorrow. More then enough time for you to learn to drive.

UTIVICH

NO no no no, Lieutenant, it's not!

LT.ALDO

Oh yes yes yes yes, Private, it is. And yes yes yes yes, you will.

(Changes tone)

Look Utivich, you and I both know, if we went to grade school together, you damn sure ain't copyin off of my test. Well I lern't to drive in four hours on a Tennessee mountain road. And I'm a shit for brains coal miner bootlegger. Hirschberg, you know how to drive, right?

HIRSCHBERG

Yes.

LT.ALDO

Teach 'em.

BRIDGET

But there is a problem. I'm a movie star. This is a movie premiere. I can't show up looking like I was just in a Nazi gun fight. Now I have a dress for the premiere at my hotel. But sometime tomorrow, I have to get my hair done. All The Basterds, except Donny, burst out laughing.

LT. ALDO

Sister, you must got wunderbar luck. Guess who went to beauty school? The CAMERA WHIP PANS to SGT.DONOWITZ. Bridget rolls her eyes.

1 26.

BLACK FRAME

CHAPTER TITLE APPEARS:

CHAPTER FIVE

"REVENGE OF THE GIANT FACE"

FADE OFF

INT - SHOSANNAS AND MARCELS LIVING QUARTERS - NIGHT

We're in Shosannas and Marcel's living quarters, above the cinema. We've never been in here before.

A SUBTITLE APPEARS ON SCREEN:

NIGHT OF "NATION'S PRIDE" PREMIERE

She's standing before a full length mirror, in a real attractive Forties style dress for the premiere. She's stunning. This is the first time in her life she's had the opportunity, or the occasion to wear something like this. Since she knows this is the last night of her life, no time like the present. SOUNDS of the hub-bub of the premiere, not to mention the German brass band that's blaring Third Reich Marches, can be heard coming from below.

Shosanna walks to her apartment window, and looks down at the Germatic miasma below.

SHOSANNAS POV: WE SEE all the pageantry below. Tons of SPECTATORS. Tons of guests dressed in Nazi uniforms, tuxedos, and female finery, walking up the long red carpet (with a big Swastika in the middle, naturally) leading into Shosannas cinema. The German brass band omm-pa-pa-ing away. German Radio and Film crews covering the event for the fatherland back home. And of course, MANY GERMAN SOLDIERS providing security for this joyous Germatic occasion.

Shosanna COUGHS up a lugi, and HOCKS it.

A GERMAN S.S. GENERAL, being interviewed by a RADIO COMMENTATOR, the lugi HITS him right on his bald head.

Shosanna goes back to the full length mirror, places a very fashionable Forties style hat on her head, then lowers the period style black fish net veil over her face. She takes out a small GUN, and puts it in the pocket of her dress., and it's on. She exits the apartment door, to join the premiere.

From this point on, there's no turning back, it's all the way baby, all the fucking way!

12.7.

INT - CINEMA STAIRWELL - NIGHT

The stairwell in the building that connects the living quarters, with the cinema. She walks down the stairs, goes through a door that puts her next to the projection booth door. She takes out a key and opens it.

INT - PROJECTION BOOTH - NIGHT

Marcel's prepping the film reels for tonight. The five silver metal film cans that carry one 35mm reel of film each are laid out. The cans for reels one and two are empty. Cans for reel three, our specially marked can for reel four, and can for reel five (which should never see the light of a projector) lie in wait.

Shosanna, looking like a Forties movie star, enters the projection booth.

The scene in FRENCH SUBTITLED in ENGLISH;

MARCEL

Ooh lala, Danielle Darrieux, this is so exciting. Pleased to meet you.

SHOSANNA

Shut up fool.

Marcel lifts up the veil covering her face, and their lips meet.

SHOSANNA

Cheeky black bugger. I have to go down and socialize with these Hun pigs. Let's go over it again?

MARCEL

Reel one is on the first projector.
Reel two is on the second. Three and four are ready to go.

SHOSANNA

Okay, the big sniper battle in the film begins around the middle of the third reel. Our film, comes on in the forth reel, so Somewhere towards the end of the third reel, go down and lock the doors of the auditorium. Then take your place behind the screen, and wait for my CUE, when I give it to you, BURN IT DOWN!

12 1.

INT - CINEMA LOBBY - NIGHT

The pageantry of the evening is in full swing, as all the German beautiful people, enter the cinema. They mingle in the swastika covered, greek nude statue peppered lobby. Nazi Military Commanders, High Ranking Party Officials, and German Celebrities (Emil tannings, Veit Harlin), hob knob and drink Champagne from passing WAITERS who carry glasses on silver trays.

We see Shosanna enter from the area at the top of the big staircase in the lobby that overlooks the lobby parlor entrance. She descends the staircase, and busies herself with theatre stuff.

At the top of the staircase, looking down at the master race in all there finery, is Colonel Hans Landa, dressed in his finest SS Uniform, smoking on his Calabash.

CAMERA FRAME

directly behind him. On the right side, we see the figure of Col. Landa, from behind, watching the guests entering the cinema. On the left side of frame, is the cinema entrance, from a looking down perspective of the guests entering the building.

THEN...

.A THINK BUBBLE, like in a comic book, appears on the left side of frame, obscuring the cinema entrance. Inside of Landas think bubble, a little scene plays out.

THINK BUBBLE

Inside a hospital room filled with DOCTORS, NURSES, and a PATIENT in a hospital bed. Then Col.Landa enters the room, and screams at everybody;

COL.LANDA

I want everybody out of this room!
They start to leave.

COL.LANDA

That means now, goddamnit!
They RUSH OUT.
He walks over to the Patient in the hospital bed, Its none other then SGT.WILLI, and yes, he's still alive.
Landa pulls up a chair next to the bed, sits down.

COL.LANDA

Can you speak, Sgt?

L -)1.

SGT.WILLI

(WEAKLY)

Yes Colonel.

COL.LANDA

Tell me everything that happened in there?
The THINK BUBBLE DISSOLVES away, reveling the entrance again, and as if on perfect cue, in walks Bridget Von Hammersmark, dressed lovely, leg in a big white cast. The three basterds in their tuxedos, flank her.

CU COL.LANDA

smiles.
He descends the stairs, towards the four saboteurs...
They speak in GERMAN, SUBTITLED in ENGLISH;

COL.LANDA

Fraulein Von Hammersmark, what has befallen Germany's most elegant swan?

BRIDGET

Colonel Landa, it's been years.
Dashing as ever I see.

COL.LANDA

Flattery will get you everywhere, fraulein.
They chuckle, and air kiss.

COL.LANDA

So what's happened to your lovely leg, a by product of kicking ass in the German cinema, no doubt.

BRIDGET

Save your flattery, you old dog.
I know too many of your former conquests, to fall into that honey
pot.
Chuckle-chuckle...

COL.LANDA

Seriously, what happened?

130.

BRIDGET

Well, I tried my hand, foolishly I might add, at mountain climbing.
And this was the result.

COL.LANDA

Mountain climbing? That's how you injured your leg, mountain climbing?

BRIDGET

Believe it or not, yes it is.
A brief moment passes between the two...

THEN...

The Colonel BURSTS OUT with UPROARIOUS LAUGHTER. So uproarious in fact, that it's quite disconcerting to the four saboteurs.
The Colonel begins to regain his composure...

COL.LANDA

Forgive me, fraulein. I don't mean laugh at your misfortune. It's just .mountain climbing? I'm curious fraulein, what could of ever compelled you to undertake such a foolhardy endeavor?
The Double meaning is not lost on the German actress.

BRIDGET

Well, I chant be doing it again,
I can tell you that.

COL.LANDA

That cast looks as fresh as my old Uncle Gustave, when were you climbing this mountain, last night?

BRIDGET

Very good eye, Colonel. It happened yesterday morning.

COL.LANDA

Humm. And where exactly in Paris is this mountain?
This stops her for a seconded.
Then Landa laughs it off, taking them off the hook.

13[.

COL. LANDA

I'm just teasing you, fraulein. You know me, I tease rough. So who are your three handsome escorts?

BRIDGET

I'm afraid neither three speak a word of German. Their friends of mine from Italy. This is a wonderful Italian stuntman, Antonio Margheriti. (Meaning Aldo)

A very talented cameraman, Enzo Grolomi.

(Meaning Donny)

And Enzo's camera assistant, Dominick Decocco.

The German fraulein turns to the three tuxedo wearing Basterds.

BRIDGET

(ITALIAN)

Gentlemen, this is a old friend, Col.

Sans Landa of the S.S.

The Basterds know only too well who Landa the Jew Hunter is, but they can't show it.

LT. ALDO

COL. LANDA

Margheriti...?

(ITALIAN)

Am I saying it correctly...?

.Margheriti?

LT. ALDO

(ITALIAN)

Yes. Correct.

COL. LANDA

(ITALIAN)

Margheriti.... Say it for me once please...?

LT. ALDO

Margheriti.

13ZĂĉă, -Ăĉ

COL. LANDA

(ITALIAN)

I'm sorry, again...?

LT. ALDO

I4argheriti.

COL. LANDA

(ITALIAN)

Once more... .?

LT. ALDO

Margheriti.

COL. LANDA

Nargheriti.

(FRENCH)

It means daisies, I believe.

Turning his gaze to Donny.

COL. LANDA

(ITALIAN)

What's your name again?

SGT. DONOWITZ

Enzo Gorlomi.

COL. LANDA

(ITALIAN)

Again... .?

SGT. DONOWITZ

Gorlomi.

COL. LANDA

(ITALIAN)

One more time, but let me really hear the music in it.

SGT. DONOWITZ

(HAMMY ITALIAN)

Gorlomi.

Now to Hirschberg...

COL. LANDA

(ITALIAN)

And you?

Then Hirschberg breaks out the best Italian accent of the GROUP;

) 33.

HIRSCHBERG

Dominick Decocco.

COL. LANDA

Dominick Decocco?

HIRSCHBERG

Dominick Decocco.

COL. LANDA

Bravo... . Bravo.

BRIDGET

(GERMAN)

Well, my two cameraman friends need to find there seats.
Col.Landa stops a WAITER with a tray of champagne glasses.

COL.LANDA

(GERMAN)

Not so fast, lets enjoy some champagne.
Everyone gets a glass.

COL.LANDA

(FRENCH)

- Oh, Mademoiselle Mimieux, please join us, I have some friends I'd like you to meet.
Shosanna joins the circle, and is handed a champagne glass.
This is the first moment The Basterds are aware of Shosanna.

COL.LANDA

(FRENCH)

May I say Mademoiselle, you look divine.

SHOSANNA

(FRENCH)

Merci'.

COL.LANDA

(GERMAN)

This lovely young lady, is Mademoiselle
Emmanuelle Mimieux, this is her cinema, and she is our hostess for the evening.

(FRENCH)

And Mademoiselle, this battered, broken, and none worse for the wear German goddess, is Bridget Von Hammersmark.

1 3 W.

BRIDGET

Bonjour.

SHOSANNA

Bon jour.

BRIDGET

(FRENCH)

I'm afraid my companions don't speak any French, there Italian. This is Antonino, Enzo, and Dominick.
All three smile goofy spaghetti bender smiles.

COL.LANDA

(FRENCH)

Actually fraulein Von Hammersmarks
Italian associates, need help finding there seats. Perhaps Mademoiselle Mimieux would be so kind to escort
them?

SHOSANNA(FRENCH)

It would be my pleasure. Let me see your tickets?
Donny hands her two tickets. She indicates for them to follow her.
Donny and Hirschberg both exchange one last look with Aldo, then follow the young french girl into the auditorium.

INT - AUDITORIUM - NIGHT

The cinema auditorium is filling up quickly with grey and black uniforms.
Shosanna finds the two counterfeit Italians their seats.
After she points out their seats, she turns to leave...
Hirschberg...
...reaches out and grabs her wrist.
He looks her in the face, and filled with tremendous guilt, because if he's successful tonight he's going to blow this cute French girl to smithereens, he says;

HIRSCHBERG

Grazie.

13r.

The cute French Girl looks back at the goofy looking Italian boy with slicked back hair, that makes him look kind of Jewish, with tremendous guilt, knowing if she is successful tonight, she's going to burn him alive, and says;

SHOSANNA

Prego.

BACK TO LOBBY

They begin flicking the lights on and off. A GERMAN SOLDIER
YELLS in GERMAN in the lobby;

GERMAN SOLDIER

Take your seats! The show is about to begin! Everybody take your seats!
Col.Landa, Lt.Aldo, and Bridget are still together.

COL.LANDA(GERMAN)

I must call The Fuhrer. He doesn't want to make his entrance untill everybody seated. Come with me Frau Von Hammersmark. The Fuhrer has heard your here, and he wishes to commend you personally.

BRIDGET(GERMAN)

Me? Why?

COL. LANDA

(GERMAN)

Don't be modest. Everybody is quite taken with your resolve. A accident, like you've just experienced, and yet you still show up to to a important Party event. The Fuhrer was quite adamant in his gratitude. We'll use Mademoiselle Mimieux's office.

(To Aldo
in Italian)

I'm afraid I must rob you of your companion, but only for a moment.

BRIDGET

(ITALIAN)

Yes, apparently The Fuhrer wishes to commend me.

' 36

COL. LANDA

(ITALIAN)

Wait here a moment. I promise I won't detain her long.

What are ether of them suppose to do, argue?

Col.Landa goes over to one of the Nazi GAURD/USHER, and whispers in his ear, gesturing toward Aldo. Like he's saying, leave the boy alone, till we come back... .Or is he?

Col.Landa limps Bridget away towards Shosannas office.

As Aldo stands in the lobby, more and more people enter the auditorium, till it's only Aldo and the six Nazi Gaurd/Ushers in the now vacant lobby.

INT - SHOSANNA'S OFFICE - NIGHT

Shosanna's cinema manager office. It's small, cluttered, and dominated by a desk.

They both enter.

Col.Landa closes the door behind him, and LOCKS IT.

Bridget notices, but says nothing.

Now the two Germans are alone.

COL. LANDA

Have a seat fraulein.

Pointing at one lone chair in front of the desk.

She lowers herself in the chair.

Instead of moving around to the other side of the desk, opposite her. The SS Colonel pulls another little chair over, and places it in front of the fraulein.

He sits. Their knees almost touching.

The colonel points to the foot not in the cast.

COL. LANDA

(GERMAN)

Let me see your foot.

BRIDGET

(GERMAN)

I beg your pardon?

1 31

Patting his lap.

COL.LANDA

Put your foot in my lap.

BRIDGET

Colonel, you embarrass me.

COL.LANDA

I assure you fraulein, my intention is not to flirt.

Patting his lap more with more aggression.

The nervous fraulein, lifts up her strappy dress shoe enclosed foot, and places it in the Colonel's lap.

The Colonel, very delicately, unfastens the thin straps that hold the frauleins shoe on her foot...

.He removes the shoe...

.Leaving only the frauleins bare foot...

THEN...

He removes from his heavy SS coat pocket, the pretty dress shoe the fraulein left behind at La Louisiane...

He slips it on her foot...

.it fits like a glove.

Bridget knows she's BUSTED.

Col.Landa smiles and says in ENGLISH;

COL.LANDA

What's that American expression...

"if the shoe fits...you must wear it".

He removes her foot from his lap.

BRIDGET

(GERMAN)

What now Colonel?

COL LANDA

(GERMAN)

Do you admit you treachery?

She stares defiant daggers into him.

1314

BRIDGET

(GERMAN)

The only thing I will admit to, is resisting you...

(ENGLISH)

Sons-a-bitches..

(GERMAN)

.to my last breath.

COL.LANDA

(GERMAN)

"Resist to your last breath"?

SUDDENLY...

Hans LUNGES forward, putting his strong mitts around Bridget Von Hammersmarks lily white delicate neck, and with all the violence of a Lion in mid-pounce, SQUEEZES with all his MIGHT. Bridgets face turns tomato RED, as the VEINS in her face BULGE, and her esophagus is CRUSHED in his GRIP.

With a violent YANK, he JERKS her TO THE FLOOR. She TUMBLES out of the chair, Landa never releasing his GRIP around her throat. Now fully on top of her, he BEARS DOWN, SQUEEZING THE VERY LIFE OUT OF HER. Every thing he has, he brings to bear on the elegant ladies neck.

Then, to finally finish her off, he begins BANGING THE BACK OF HER HEAD, HARD AGAINST THE FLOOR...

BANG!

BANG!

BANG?

She's dead.

He releases the grip around her throat. His hands are TREMBLING...

He rises.

Strangling the very life out of somebody with your bear hands, is the most violent act a human being can commit.

Also, only humans strangle, the opposable thumbs being quite important part of the endeavor. As Hans Landa stands, the sheer violence he had to call on to accomplish this task, still surges through him. He tries to gain control of the trembling, that is rippling through his body. He takes out a silver SS FLASK(filled with peach schnapps), and knocks back a couple of swigs. He holds his hand out in front of him. The TREMBLING is beginning to subside. He picks up the telephone.

139-

Into the phone in German he says;

COL.LANDA

Inform The Fuhrer the audience has taken there seats, and we're ready to begin.

Step one, in Hans master plan, done.

He then dials another number...

INT - LOBBY - NIGHT

Aldo in the lobby...

WHEN...

.he's JUMPED by the SIX NAZI USHERS...

He's THROWN ROUGHLY to the ground face first. Like the modern day Secret Service, within seconds, his wrists are handcuffed behind his back, he's searched, they find the BOMB attached to his ankle, it's removed, a BLACK CLOTH BAG is pulled over his head, then he's hoisted up, and RUSHED out of the building. This happens in mere seconds, and quietly too, no one in the auditorium is none the wiser...

INT - AUDITORIUM - NIGHT

,including Donowitz and Hirschberg, sitting amongst the master race, waiting for showtime.

EXT - CINEMA - NIGHT

The Six Nazi Soldiers, hustle the hooded Aldo, down the red carpet, then into the alley besides the cinema.

Aldo's put up against a wall.

Inside the black hood, he's SCREAMING every insulting thing about Germany, Germans, German food, German shepherd... anything.

COL.LANDA'S VOICE(OS)

Shut up!

The faceless black hood does.

Col.Landa, now standing directly in front of his hooded prisoner, says in ENGLISH;

COL.LANDA

As Stanley said to Livingston;

Lt.Aldo Raine, I presume?

I 'to.

LT. ALDO

Hans Landa?

COL.LANDA

You've had a nice long run, Aldo.

Alas, your now in the hands of the SS. My hands to be exact. And they've been waiting along time, to touch you.

He reaches out with his finger, and lightly touches Aldo's face right in the middle of the hood.

Aldo's head VIOLENTLY FLINCHES.

COL.LANDA

Caught ya flinching.

In German, he orders the men put Aldo in the back of a truck.

Aldo, bound, and bagged, is put in the truck. Also in the truck is Utivich, wearing a makeshift chauffeurs uniform, bound, and bagged like the Lieutenant.

The Truck drives off.

Col.Landa turns around, and SEES FROM A DISTANCE, Hitlers motorcade pull up to the cinema.. Then the Fuhrer, Goebbels, Francesca, and the rest of the entourage, make there way down the red carpet into the cinema.

Landa smiles.

EXT TRUCK (MOVING) - NIGHT

We see the truck leaving the city of Paris, under the veil of night.

We also seem to be leaving the drama of Operation Kino.

INT - TRUCK(MOVING) - NIGHT

The two hooded prisoners, bounce along in the back of the truck.

Utivich, is crying inside his hood.

LT.ALDO

Utivich?

UTIVICH

Is that you Lieutenant?

LT. ALDO

Yep.

lyl.

UTIVICH}I

Do you know what happened to Donny?
Hirschberg? The woman?

LT.ALDO

No I do not.

UTIVICH

Lieutenant, sorry I'm crying.

LT. ALDO

Nothin to be sorry about, son.
This bag, get to anyone.

UTIVICH

Not exactly John Wayne, am I?

LT.ALDO

John Waynes a pampered movie star.
He burst into tears, if his cook, busts his yoke at breakfast. Just try puttin a bag over his head, and hear what kinda sounds he makes.
Utivich, giggles through the tears.

LT.ALDO

I just want you to know, son, I was real proud of you tonight. Learnin how to drive overnight. Driving in that Limo line. You was in the hot seat, son, and you stood up real good.
Utivich Cries LOUDER.
Aldo takes his foot, finds Utivichs foot, and places his foot on top.
The TOUCH has a slight calming effect on Utivich.
In the darkness, Utivich has reclaimed his dignity.

EXT- COUNTRY TAVERN - NIGHT

The truck pulls up to a small tavern outside of Paris(not La Louisaiane),
The two hooded prisoners, are walked inside the establishment.

INT - COUNTRY TAVERN - NIGHT

The hooded men are lead into the closed for business, but open for something else, rustic tavern.

0The Nazi Guards, unlock the handcuff, then sit them down in chairs. Then, simultaneously, the hoods are YANKED OFF. The two prisoners, are seated at a table, in what they can now see, is a rustic tavern. On the table is one telephone, one bottle of Chianti, and three glasses. And on the opposite end of the table, sits Colonel Hans Landa. A NAZI SOLDIER sits posted at a impressive looking two way radio set up in the tavern. Colonel Lands starts in right away at the two baffled, discombobulated American soldiers. They will only speak ENGLISH in the scene.

COL. LANDA

Italian? Really?

(BEAT)

What could you have possibly been thinking?

LT. ALDO

Well, I speak a little Italian -

COL. LANDA

I speak a little Tagalog, but I wouldn't begin to presume I could pass for Filipino. Don't get me wrong, I understand you were in a pickle, what with you losing your Germans. And I have nothing but admiration for improvisation. Still.... Chico Marx is more convincing. if the three of you had shown up to the premiere dressed in womans attire, it would have been more convincing. Landas eyes go to the Two Nazi Guards behind the prisoners.

COL. LANDA

(GERMAN)

You may leave us. But stay alert outside.

They exit, leaving the Colonel, the Lieutenant, the Private and a German Radio Man in the corner.

"43"

COL. LANDA

So your Aldo the Apache?

LT. ALDO

So your The Jew Hunter?

COL. LANDA

Jew Hunter, (pfuit), I'm a detective. A damn good detective. Finding people is my specialty. So naturally, I worked for the Nazi's finding people. And yes, some of them were Jews. But Jew Hunter? Just the name that stuck.

UTIVICH

Well you do hafta admit, it is catchy.

COL. LANDA

Do you control the nicknames, your enemies bestow on you? Aldo the Apache and The Little Man?

UTIVICH

What do you mean, The Little Man?

COL. LANDA

The Germans nickname for you.

UTIVICH

The Germans nickname for me is, The Little Man?

COL. LANDA

Or "The Little One, ether one means you. And as if to make my point, I'm a little surprised how tall you were in real life. I mean, your a little fellow. But not circus midget little, as your reputation would suggest.

LT. ALDO

Where is my men? Where is Bridget Von Hammersmark?

COL. LANDA

Bridget Von Hammersmark. Oh I'm sure she's in whatever, big bubbling cesspool in hell, the devil reserves for traitors of her ilk.

COL. LANDA

(COR'T)

Well, lets just say, she got what she deserved. And when you purchase friends like Bridget Von Hammersmark, you get what you pay for. Now as far as your Pisanos, Sgt.Donowitz, and Pt.Hirschberg-

LT. ALDO

How do you know our names?

COL. LANDA

Lt.Aldo, if you don't think I wouldn't interrogate every single one of your swastika marked survivors... .? We simply aren't operating on the level of mutual respect I assumed. Now, back to the whereabouts of your two Italian saboteurs. At this moment, both Hirschberg, and Donowitz, should be sitting in the very seats we left them in. Seats, 0023 and 0024, if my memory serves. Explosives, still around there ankle, still ready to explode. And your mission, some would call a terrorist plot, as of this moment, is still a go.

The two Basterds don't believe this. It can't be true.

LT. ALDO

That's a pretty exciting story.
What's next, Eliza on the ice?

COL. LANDA

However, all I have to do, is pick pick up that phone right there.
Inform the cinema, and your plans kupet.

LT. ALDO

IF, their still there, and IF their still alive, and that's one big IF, there ain't no way, you gonna take them boys without settin off them bombs.

I R.T.

COL. LANDA

M

I have no doubt, and yes, some Germans will die., and yes, it will ruin the evening, and yes, Goebbels will be very very very mad at you for what you've done to his big night.
But you won't get Hitler, you won't get Goebbels, you won't get Gering, and you won't get Boorman. And you need all four to end the war.

(PAUSE)

But if I don't pick up that phone, right there, you may very well get all four. And if you get all four, you end the war...tonight.
The Nazi Colonel lifts up the bottle of Chianti, and fills three glasses. As he pours, he says;

COL. LANDA

So gentlemen, lets discuss the prospect of ending the war-tonight.
All three have their Chianti filled glasses.

COL. LANDA

So the way I see it, since Hitlers death, or possible rescue, rests solely on my reaction...If I do nothing ...it's as if I'm causing his death, even more then yourselves.
Would you agree?

LT. ALDO

I guess so.

COL. LANDA

How about you Uitivich?

UITIVICH

I guess so too.

COL.LANDA

Good, we more or less, all agree.
Gentlemen, I have no intention, of Killing Hitler, and killing Goebbels, and Killing Gerring, and killing Boorman, not to mention winning the war single handedly for the allies, only later, to find myself standing before a Jewish tribunal.

I q

Now they get it.

COL.LANDA

If you want to win the war, tonight,
We have to make a deal.

LT.ALDO

What kinda deal?

COL.LANDA

The kind you wouldn't have the authority to make. However, I'm sure this mission of yours, has a commanding officer? A General, I'm betting. For ..

(THINKING)

.O.S.S. would be my guess.

Aldo's eyebrows reveal that was a good guess.

COL.LANDA

Ooch, that's a bingo. Is that the way you say it, That's a bingo?

LT.ALDO

You just say, bingo.

COL.LANDA

Bingo! How fun. But I digress, where were we? Oh yes, make a deal. Over there is a very capable two way radio. And sitting behind it, is a more then capable radio operator, named Herrman. Get me somebody on the other end of that radio with the power of the pen, to authorize my
- Let's call it, the terms of my conditional surrender, if that taste better going down.

BACK TO THE PREMIERE

Shosanna in the booth, she brings down the lights.
In the packed, excited auditorium, the house lights go down.
CU CURTAIN SWITCH, she flips it.
In the auditorium, the RED VELVET CURTAINS part.
Shosanna, throws the lever on the first projector.

I q7 .
The PROJECTOR BULB goes HOT WHITE, PROJECTING A BEAM...
FILM REELS rotate...
35mm FILM moves through the projectors film gate...
The opening seal of a film by The THIRD REICH flickers on the SCREEN...

Goebbels and Francesca watch...
Hitler watches...
Fredrick watches...
Donowitz and Hirschberg watch...
Shosanna, in the booth, watches through the little window...
The CAMERA PANS OFF of Shosanna, to the clearly marked film can, REEL FOUR. The SURPRISE REEL.

BACK TO LANDA AND THE HASTERDS

Landa, with radio headphones over his ears, and a microphone in his hand, talks to the UNSEEN/UNHEARD American Brass on the other end.

COL.LANDA

.So, when the military history of this night is written, it will be recorded, that I was part of "Operation Rino" from the very beginning, as a double agent.
Anything I've done in my guise as a SS Colonel, was sanctioned by The O.S.S., as a necessary evil to establish my cover with The Germans.
And it was my placement, of Lt.Raines dynamite in Hitler and Goebbels opera box that assured there demise. By the way, that last part is actually true.

FLASH ON

Landa placing bomb in Goebbels and Francesca's opera box.

BACK TO LANDA

COL.LANDA

I want my full military pension and benefits under my proper rank.
I want to receive the congregational medal of honor, for my invaluable assistance in the toppling of the Third Reich.

He looks over and sees Aldo and Uitvich watching the one sided conversation.

COL.LANDA

In fact, I want all the members of "Operation Kino" to receive the congregational medal of honor. Full citizenship for myself - but that goes without saying. And I would like the United States of America to purchase property for me on Nantuckett island, as a reward for all the countless lives I've saved by bringing the tyranny of the National Socialist party to a swifter then imaged end. Do you have all that, sir?

(PAUSE)

I look forward to seeing you face to face as well, sir.

(PAUSE)

He's right here.

The Colonel hands the headphones and microphone to Aldo.

LT.ALDO

Yes, sir?

We HEAR the VOICE on the other end of the radio, give Aldo his ORDERS;

RADIO VOICE (OS)

Colonel Landa will put you and Private Uitivich in a truck as prisoners. Then he and his radio operator, will get in the truck, drive to our lines. Upon crossing our lines, Colonel Landa and his man will surrender to you. You will then take over driving of the truck, a bring them straight to me for debriefing. Is that clear, Lieutenant?

LT.ALDO

Yes, sir.

The Conversation is over, he puts the radio down.

The three men look at one another.

Landa picks up his wine.

Ito .

COL.LANDA

So I suppose the only thing left to do is lift a glass, and toast to Donowitz and Hirschbergs success.

You too Herrman, come over here.

The four men, Col.Hans Landa, Lt.Aldo Raine, Pvt.Smithson

Uitivich, and Herrman, lift up four glasses of wine.

COL.LANDA

Gentlemen, To history, and it's Witnesses.

CHEERS.

BACK TO THE PREMIERE

WE CUT TO THE B/W FILM ON SCREEN.

Fredrick Zoller, playing himself, is in a ornamental tower in a Russian village, picking off RUSSIAN SOLDIER's below.

A RUSSIAN GENERAL KCHOVLANSKEY

peering at the German Private through binoculars. He lowers the long range glasses, and confers with one of his OFFICERS.

GENERAL KCHOVLANSKEY

(RUSSIAN)

What's the death toll?

OFFICER

(RUSSIAN)

47, so far.

WE HEAR A SHOT.

OFFICER

(RUSSIAN)

48. General, I implore you, we must destroy that tower!

GENERAL KCHOVLANSKEY

(RUSSIAN)

That tower is one of the oldest, and most beautiful structures in Russia. I won't be responsible for turning a thousand years of history into dust! A BRAVE RUSSIAN SOLDIER, tries to run between two buildings. Zoller, gets him. Then proceeds to pick him apart, one single bullet at a time.

IL

ISO.

SHOSANNA IN PROJECTION BOOTH

She removes "REEL 4" (The Special Shosanna Reel), and prepares it on the 2nd Projector. Reel3, on the first Projector, playing now, is halfway through. In a few short minutes, it's going to be show time.

Marcel says to Shosanna in FRENCH, SUBTITLED in ENGLISH;

MARCEL

It's time. I should go lock the auditorium, and take my place behind the screen. This is the last time they will ever see each other, too much to say. He holds her in his arms and lays a one kiss before I die wet one on her.

DONOWITZ AND HIRSCHBERG sit in their seats watching the movie, surrounded by DRESS UNIFORM NAZI'S. They've developed a dopey way of communicating with each other in this hostel environment. Basically, speaking English like it were gibberish Italian. They say English words, only adding a "I", or a "A", or a "O", to the end of it. And saying it in a exaggerated Italian accent, complete with pantomimes. Donowitz leans into Hirschberg, and says in a wispiery; They speak in ITALIA-ISH SUBTITLED into ENGLISH;

SGT.DONOWITZ

(ITALIA-ISH)

I-a Go-a Toilet-a, Set-ta Boom-a.
(I go to the toilet and set the bomb)
When-a I-a Go-a, you-a Set-ta Boom-a.
(When I go, you set your bomb)
Hirschberg indicates/pantomimes, he can't set his bomb surrounded by all these Nazi's.
Donowitz, pantomimes crossing his legs, setting bomb on ankle in his seat. Then getting up, and dropping it in the back of the auditorium, in the dark.
Hirschberg doesn't get it.

HIRSCHBERG

What-a?
(What?)
Donny pantomimes again, more exaggerated, and with less patience.

HIRSCHBERG

Affirm-ato, affirm-ato.
(Affirmative, affirmative)

SGT.DONOWITZ

They-o Look-o Screen-a, Not-o You-a.
(They're looking at the screen, not you.)

HIRSCHBERG

Fantastic-o.

(FANTASTIC)SGT.DONOWITZ

After-teri, Set-ta, Five-o Moment-o (Pointing to WATCH)

You-a, Pphisst.
(After you set the bomb, wait five minutes, and get out of here)

HIRSCHBERG

What-o?
(What?)

SGT.DONOWITZ

Confuse-i, confuss-i, confuss-i.
(Confused, confused, confused.)
What-a, and-o what-o, same-o?
(I thought "What-a" meant "What", does "What-O" mean "What", as well?)

HIRSCHBERG

Oh-o, sorr-o, I-o ment-a "What-a".
(Oh, sorry, I ment what.)

SGT.DONOWITZ

After-teri, you-a set-ta boom-a,
five-o moment-o, you-a, fuck-o Pphisst.
(After you set the bomb, wait five minutes and get the fuck out of here.)

HIRSCHBERG

Affirm-ato, affirm-ato.

(Affirmative, Affirmative)

SGT. DONOWITZ

Good-a, Luck-a.
(Good luck.)

15Z.

Donowitz stands from his seat, and walks out of the dark auditorium, into the lobby. The Nazi Guards/Ushers are gone, the lobby is completely empty. Seeing the STAIRS leading down to the WATER CLOSET/BATHROOM, he descends them to plant the Boom-a, I mean, The Bomb.

DESCENDING THE STAIRS

leading to the Water closet. Like a lot of old cinema's, not only was the water closet located under the auditorium, you had to pass through a rather large SMOKING LOUNGE to get to it. In the Smoking Lounge are TEN NAZI ENLISTED MEN, the Guards/Ushers for the event, smoking and indulging in soldiers gossip. They're all in dress uniforms, and all are armed. Donowitz, in his tuxedo, acts cool, and walks right through them.

They look up, but don't disturb there time off vibe.

Donny enters the big Water Closet. Except for ONE LONE NAZI ENLISTED MAN at the urinal, it would appear as if Donny has the whole wash room to himself.

He enters the privacy of a toilet stall, locks the door.

MARCEL IN LOBBY

He descends the stairs leading down from the projection booth, into the empty lobby. He goes to one of the auditorium doors, and peers inside.

WE SEE THE SCREEN AND THE AUDIENCE FROM MARCELS POV:

in the back of the room. The audience seems riveted to Fredrick's exploits on screen.

Marcel closes the door, and with a KEY, DEADBOLTS it SHUT.

INSIDE THE AUDITORIUM

WE PAN OFF THE SCREEN to Marcel, who locks the two doors on ether side of the screen...due to curtains placed there, no one notices Marcells actions.

Marcel then goes BEHIND THE SCREEN, WE SEE the IMAGE (backward) of Fredricks sniper battle HUGE COVERING ENTIRE SIDE ROOM ...A PILE of over300nitrate FILM PRINTS, lay like a junk pile, right behind the screen.

Sitting down in a wooden chair facing the screen, and Pile-o-film, he lights up a cigarette, a absolute no-no in a cinema of this era, but tonight, what does it matter?4.

He smokes, and waits for his cue to... .BURN IT DOWN!

)53.

FREDRICK IN OPERA BOX

along side Hitler, Goebbels, Francesca, and BOORMAN. On screen the battle rages. He leans over and whispers something in Goebbels ear, we can't hear. Goebbels makes a very sympathetic face (at least sympathetic for Goebbels), and says in German;

GOEBBELS

Perfectly understandable, dear boy.
You go now, and we'll see you after the show.

He exits the opera box. And walks to the projection booth door. He raps on the door in a trying to be amusing way. The door opens, just a little bit, Shosanna not friendly, stares at him.

Be, as per usual, is all smiles and charm.
They speak in FRENCH, SUBTITLED into ENGLISH;

FREDRICK

Are you the manager, of this cinema?
I want my money back. That actor in the movie stinks.
He laughs.

IV

She doesn't even smile. She says, in all serious business;

SHOSANNA

What are you doing here?

FREDRICK

I came to visit you.

SHOSANNA

Can't you see how busy I am?

FREDRICK

Then allow me to lend a assist.

SHOSANNA

Fredrick it's not funny, you can't be here. This is your premiere, you need to be out there with them.
As Fredrick prepares to tell his little tale, with all the charm at his command, Shosanna listens, knowing the third reel is just about over, and her big reel change is coming up.

FREDRICK

Normally, you would be right.
And for all the other films I do,
I intend to endure evenings like tonight, in the proper sprit.
However the fact remains, this film, is based on my military exploits.
And in this case, my exploits consisted of me killing many men.
Consequently, the part of the film that's playing now, ... I don't like watching this part.

SHOSANNA

Fredrick, I am sorry, but -

FREDRICK

- So, I thought, I'd come up here and do what I do best, annoy you.

And from the look on your face, it would appear I haven't lost my touch.

DONNY IN TOILET

Sgt. Donowitz, with BOMB in his lap, sets the timer, six minutes from now. He then places the bomb in the back of the toilet tank.

CAMERA ON FLOOR OF WATER CLOSET

we see the tile of the floor stretch out before us. We see Donny's feet in the closed toilet stall. We HEAR, the OFF SCREEN Nazi Enlisted Man, finish his piss. Then HIS SHOES WALK THROUGH FRAME... WE FOLLOW THEM TO... The SINK... WE STAY ON The Shoes ...as WE HEAR The Soldier WASH HIS HANDS... THEN... THE CAMERA RISES UP HIS PANT LEG...Till...WE'RE EYE LEVEL with the German Soldier, with a ARMY CAP on his head, who's done washing his hands....THEN....The Soldier removes his cap, brushes some bangs out of his face, and WE CAN SEE

THE SWASTIKA HAND CARVED INTO HIS FOREHEAD, UNDENIABLE MARK OF THE BASTARDS. He SPLASHES some WATER ON HIS FACE, puts his cap back on his head, and joins his comrades in the smoking lounge. As he exits FRAME, he says to somebody OFF SCREEN;

SWASTIKA FOREHEAD(GERMAN)

Hey Fritz, you owe me three cigarettes, now pay up.

SHOSANNA AND FREDRICK

Fredrick still outside the doorway, and Shosanna, still baring the way.

SHOSANNA

I have to get prepared for the reel change.

FREDRICK

Let me do it?

SHOSANNA

No.

FREDRICK

Oh please, it's been two years since i've done a reel change.

SHOSANNA

I said, no.

FREDRICK

(Cute whine)
Come on, it's my premiere.

SHOSANNA

Are you so use to the Nazi's kissing your ass, you've forgotten what the word, "No" means? No Fredrick, you can't come in here, now go away!
No subtitles for Fredrick needed this time, he gets it.
He does a one-armed PILE DRIVE PUSH on the door, knocking both it OPEN, and Shosanna back into the room.

Fredrick, a different cat then we've seen up till now, enters the booth, closing the door behind him, and LOCKING it. The quite startled Shosanna, says to Fredrick;

SHOSANNA

Fredrick, you hurt me.

FREDRICK

Well, it's nice to know you can feel something. Even if it's just physical pain.

Fredrick steps forward...

Shosanna steps backwards...

FREDRICK

I'm not a man you say, "Go away" to. There's over three hundred dead bodies in Russia, that if they could, would testify to that. After what I've done for you, you disrespect me at your peril.

156.

BACK TO WASHROOM

The Swastika Forehead Soldier, get a light for his cigarette. He takes a big drag.

SOLDIER'S POV:

He faces the washroom, and down that long throw, he sees Donny emerge from the toilet stall. His tuxedo jacket is off, and draped over his right hand. Sporting the white dress shirt, and black tuxedo vest. He's quite far away, so now he just looks like some guy in a tux, who just finished taking a shit. Donny walks toward us ...

CU SWASTIKA FOREHEAD

seeing him get closer...

SOLDIER POV:

Donny gets closer...

CU SWASTIKA FOREHEAD

seeing him closer still...

SOLDIER POV:

Donny gets closer...

CU SWASTIKA FOREHEAD

begins to notice...

SOLDIER POV:

Donny getting closer, begins to notice, German soldier notice him...

CU SWASTIKA FOREHEAD

now Donny is close enough for the Soldier to recognize. His face SCREAMS;

SWASTIKA FOREHEAD

The Bear Jew!!

The Soldier's GUN is out of it's holster, and rising toward Donny's chest...

WHEN...

Donny raises his right arm, with the tuxedo jacket on it, and FIRES a GUN concealed under it.
HITTING Swastika Forehead in the chest...Who finishes raising his GUN, FIRING HITTING Donny in the chest...
The Two Soldier's FIRE INTO each other.... Till there weapons are empty, and the two men lie dead on the floor.
The Nine other NAZI'S in the room, stand shocked at what just happened in front of them.

Is".

SHOSANNA AND FREDRICK IN PROJECTION BOOTH

Fredrick hears the gunshots below them, and turns towards the door.

FREDRICK

What the hell was that?
While Fredrick's back is turned, Shosanna takes a GUN out of her pocket, and SHOOTS Fredrick THREE TIMES in the back...
..Be CRASHES HARD into the door, then FALLING FACE FIRST to the floor...
Shosanna, gun in hand, looks out projection booth window into the audience...
The ON SCREEN BATTLE rages so LOUDLY with GUNFIRE, that her weapon didn't stand a chance of being heard.
Her eyes go from the audience...
..up to the big screen...
..Which holds FREDRICK ZOLLER in a tight handsome CLOSE UP.
The Face on the silver screen, breaks the young girl's heart...
..She looks to his body, lying face down on the floor, blood flowing from the holes she put in his back...
..His body moves a little, and he lets out a painful MOAN...
..DIEING though he is, at this moment, Fredrick is still ALIVE...

Shosanna moves to him...
..She touches him, and he lets out another MOAN...
..She turns his body over on it's back...
..he's holding a LUGER in his hand...
..he FIRES TWICE...

BANG BANG

Two bullets HIT HER POINT BLANK IN THE CHEST...
THROWING HER against the wall, then FALLING FORWARD on her knees to the floor...
..Fredrick, Luger still in hand, takes aim from the floor...

I,

.FIRES...

HITTING the bloody girl on the floor, in the thigh...
..SPINNING her BODY around in agony...
Like he did to the Russian on screen, he picks her apart, one bullet at a time...

.FIRES...

BULLET BLOWS OFF HEEL OF HER FOOT...

Luger drops to floor, Fredrick DIES.

Our young French Jewish heroine, lies on the projection booth floor, in a pool of her own blood, her body RIDDLED with bullets, her nerve endings wracked with pain, CRIPPLED and DIEING...

WHEN...

..the little bell on the 1st projector, starts to ring, informing the projectionist, it's time for The REEL CHANGE. Dieing or not, if Shosanna intends to get her revenge, she's going to have to lift her ass off the floor, and execute this fucking reel change.

CINEMA AUDITORIUM

The battle on screen continues waging. The audience is riveted.

The FUHRER

watches, completely caught up in the dramatic spectacle.

He says to Goebbels in German;

HITLER

Extraordinary Joseph, simply extraordinary. This is your finest film yet.

Goebbels is beyond proud, he smiles to Francesca, who proudly pats his hand.

PROJECTION BOOTH

Shosanna, bloody, crippled, and fucked, with great painful effort, PULLS HERSELF OFF THE FLOOR...

AUDITORIUM

Hirschberg, sitting in his seat, SETS the BOMB on his ankle.

Then stands up, and begins scooting past everybody in his rows knees.

PROJECTION BOOTH

like the German heroine in one of Riefenstahl's mountain films, Shosanna CLIMBS UP the 35mm film projector, like it was Piz Palu...

FILM ON SCREEN

Private Zoller FIRING away from his perch. In the top far right corner of The FRAME. WE SEE the 1st REEL CHANGE MARK...

PROJECTION BOOTH

Shosanna hanging on to projector, waiting for 2nd reel change mark, it's a agonizing effort...

BEHIND SCREEN

Marcel, smoking, waiting for his cue...

HIRSCHBERG

get out of his xow, and begins walking up the aisle in the middle of the cinema towards the exit.

ON SCREEN

SERGIO LEONE CU FREDRICK, he SCREAMS to Russians below;

MOVIE ZOLLER

Who wants to send a message to Germany?

In the top right of FRAME The 2nd REEL CHANGE MARK POPS ON...

PROJECTION BOOTH

Shosanna TOSSES herself to the floor, as she THROWS THE CHANGE
OVER SWITCH on the 2nd Projector...

EX CU PROJECTOR BULB

BLASTING WHITE in our face.

SLOW NOTION

SHOSANNA FALLING...

EX CU 35MM FILM

MOVING...

SHOSANNA

HITS the DUSTY ground HARD, NOT in slow motion...

PROJECTOR BEAM

SHOOTS OUT OF LITTLE PROJECTION BOOTH WINDOW hits screen.

CU SHOSANNA

on floor, eyes close, last breath blown into dusty projection booth floor. Like her family befor her, dead from Nazi bullets.

AUDITORIUM

ON THE SILVER SCREEN FREDRICKS EX CU

CUT TO

ON SILVER SCREEN MATCHING SHOSANNA EX CU

CAMERA in the exact same placement, same background (b/w sky), SLIGHT LOW ANGLE LOOKING UP, so on screen Shosanna is looking down on the Nazi's, the way Fredrick was looking down on the Russians. The way this HUGE IMAGE OF SHOSANNA'S GIANT FACE stares down the auditorium of Nazi's, brings to mind Orwells "1984" Big Brother.

HITLER and GOEBBELS

React.

HIRSCHBERG

standing in the middle of the aisle, turns towards the screen.
When he see's Shosanna's GIANT FACE, he's gobsmacked.

BEHIND SCREEN

Marcel sitting in the chair, with his cigarette, before the

EVEN MORE GIANT FACE OF SHOSANNA.

SHOSANNAS GIANT FACE ON SCREEN

She stares down the packed house of Nazi's, and says in FRENCH;

SHOSANNAS GIANT FACE

I have a message for Germany. I'm interrupting your Nazi propaganda horse shit, to inform you despicable German swine, that your all going to die.

HITLER and GOEBBELS
react.

HIRSCHBERG
react.

MARCEL
smiles.

SHOSANNAS GIANT FACE
And I want you to look deep in the face of The Jew who's going to do it.

AUDITORIUM AUDIENCE
While the shocked German audience is transfixed to the screen, behind the heads of most of them...
The BOMB Landa set in Hitlers and Goebbels opera box...

EXPLODES.

BLOWING TO SMITHEREENS, HITLER, FRANCESCA, BOORMAN, and propelling GOEBBELS, still in his theatre seat, across the auditorium, into the opposite wall, and taking out a portion of the ceiling as well.
The crowd reacts...
The explosion causes the huge chandelier from Versailles, to topple from its jerry-rigged placement, and CRASH on to the audience below...
ON SCREEN THE GIANT FACE OF SHOSANNA finishes her WAR CRY.

SHOSANNAS GIANT FACE
My name is Shosanna Dreyfus, and this is the face of Jewish Vengeance! Marcel,

BURN IT DOWN!

BEHIND THE SCREEN
Marcel takes his cigarette, and FLICKS IT into the pile of nitrate film.
ON SCREEN SHOSANNAS GIANT FACE LAUGHS MANIACALLY at the scrambling little Nazi's, running in a panic, as FLAMES LIKE

OUT OF A GIANT BLAST FURNACE, BURST THROUGH SHOSANNAS FACE, and CLIMB UP THE WALLS of the cinema.
The AUDIENCE
STAMPEDES towards the exits...

HIRSCHBERG
with bomb set on ankle, is caught in a massive Day of the Locust SWARM OF BODIES...
People frantically pound on locked doors, trapping them to their grizzly fate.
The FLAMES and FIRE spread through the auditorium...
Hirschberg caught in people crunch, knows this is it.

HIS ANKLE BOMB GOES OFF right underneath everybody in the room.
The effect this has on the people in the room, is very similar to that of the effect a M-80 blowing up in an ant hill, would have on the ants. The auditorium is a literal red rain of legs, arms, heads, torsos, and asses.

THEN...

DONOWITZ TOILET BOMB

BLOWS UP UNDERNEATH the auditorium.

16z.

COLLAPSING THE CINEMA, AND BLOWING OUT THE FRONT OF THE THEATRE.

As MADAM MIMEUX'S CINEMA BURNS...

Theses SUBTITLES APPEAR ON SCREEN as if on a military

TELETYPE:

"OPERATION KINO A COMPLETE SUCCESS".

FADE OUT

FADE UP

"HITLER DEAD. GOEBBELS DEAD. BOORMAN DEAD.

GERING DEAD. ZOLLER DEAD. MOST OF HIGH COMMAND

DEAD"

FADE OUT

FADE IN

"FOUR DAYS LATER, GERMANY SURRENDERS"

FADE OUT

FADE IN

"ONCE UPON A TIME IN NAZI...

OCCUPIED FRANCE".

CUT TO

EXT -- WOODS - MORNING

It's a misty early morning, in the woodsy area. The German truck, with Aldo and Uitivich in the back, and Landa and Herrman in the front comes to stop.

LANDA and HERRMAN IN TRUCK CAB

Herrman, behind the wheel, tells Landa in German;

HERRMAN

These are the American lines, sir.

In the back of the truck, sit the two last remaining members of The Basterds, Lt.Aldo Raine, and Prvt.Smithson Uitivich, both with their hands cuffed behind there back.

Landa and Herrman appear at truck rear, says in ENGLISH;

COL.LANDA

Okay Gentlemen, you can climb down.

143

Aldo and Uitivich climb down from the truck.

Col.Landa indicates for Herrman to remove the handcuffs from the two prisoners.

He does.

COL. LANDA

Herrman, hand them your weapon.

He does.

Col.Landa hands over his LUGER, and his very cool looking SS

DAGGER.

COL. LANDA

I am officially surrendering myself over to you, Lt.Raine. We are your prisoners.

LT. ALDO

Thank you very much Colonel. Uitivich, cuff the Colonel's hands behind his back.

COL. LANDA

Is that really necessary?

As Uitivich cuffs the. Colonels hands behind his back, Aldo

SAYS;

LT. ALDO

I'm a slave to appearances.

Then Aldo takes the Luger, and SHOOTS HERRMAN DEAD.

The bound Col.Landa is appalled.

COL. LANDA

Are you mad? What have you done? I made a deal with your General for that mans life!

LT. ALDO

Yeah, they made that deal, but they don't give a fuck about him, they need you.

COL. LANDA

You'll be shot for this.

t 6 q.

LT. ALDO

Raw I don't think so, more like I'll be chewed out. I've been chewed out before. You know, Uitvich and myself, heard that deal you made with the Brass.
End the war tonight? I'd make that deal.
How bout you Uitivich, you make that deal?

UITIVICH

I'd make that deal.

LT. ALDO

I don't blame ya. Damn good deal.
And that pretty little nest ya feathered for yourself. Well, if your willing to barbecue the whole high command, I suppose that's worth certain considerations. Now I don't care about you gettin pensions, merit badges, ticker tape parades, who gives a damn, let's all go home.

But .ldo have one question?
When you go to your little place on Nantuckett Island, I image you gonna take off that handsome looking SS uniform of yours, ain't ya?
For the first time in the movie, Col.Landa doesn't-respond.

LT.ALDO

That's what I thought. Now that...
.I can't abide. How bout you
Uitivich, can you abide it?

UITIVICH

Not one damn bit, sir.

LT.ALDO

I mean if I had my way, you'd wear that goddamn uniform for the rest of your pecker suckin life. But I'm aware that's ain't practical. I mean at some point ya gotta hafta take it off.
He opens LandaSS DAGGER, and holds the BLADE in front of Hans face.

LT.ALDO

So I'm gonna give you a little somethin you can't take off.

CUT TO

16c.

CU COL.LANDA

The Dagger has just completed carving a swastika deep into his forehead.

COL.LANDA'S POV:

On the ground, looking up at Aldo, bloody knife in hand, who straddles him.. And Uitivich, who's next to him. The two Basterds admire Aldo's handiwork.

LT.ALDO

You know somethin Uitivich, I think this just might be my masterpiece.

END

Inglourious Basterds

Writers : Quentin Tarantino

Genres : Action Adventure War

User Comments

Back to IMSDb

Index | Submit | Links | Link to us | RSS Feeds | Disclaimer | Privacy policy

The Internet Movie Script Database (IMSDb)

IMSDb

The web's largest movie script resource!

POLARIS TERRAIN DOMINATION CHALLENGE

0% FINANCING
FOR 60 MONTHS

Search IMSDb

Alphabetical

#	A	B	C	D	E	F	G	H
I	J	K	L	M	N	O	P	Q
R	S	T	U	V	W	X	Y	Z

Genre

Action	Adventure	Animation
Comedy	Crime	Drama
Family	Fantasy	Film-Noir
Horror	Musical	Mystery
Romance	Sci-Fi	Short
Thriller	War	Western

Sponsor

TV Transcripts

Futurama
Seinfeld
South Park
Stargate SG-1
Lost
The 4400

Movie Software

Rip from DVD
Rip Blu-Ray

Latest Comments

Harry Potter and the Half-Blood Prince	10/10
Fury	7/10
Bodyguard	10/10
Silver Linings Playbook	9/10
Alien: Resurrection	3/10

INTERSTELLAR

Written by

Jonathan Nolan

STORY BY

Jonathan Nolan, Kip Thorne & Lynda Obst

MARCH 12 2008

SPACE.

But not the dark lonely corner of it we're used to. This is a glittering inferno -- the center of a distant galaxy.

Suddenly, something TEARS past at incredible speed: a NEUTRON STAR. It SMASHES headlong through everything it encounters... planets, stars. Can anything stop this juggernaut?

Yes. Something looms at the heart of the galaxy, hidden inside the blinding starlight, a dark flaw in the fabric of existence itself: a BLACK HOLE.

The neutron star is pulled into the black hole's swirl, spiraling closer and closer to destruction. Finally, it contacts the hole's edge and EXPLODES.

The EXPLOSION is so powerful that it sends shock waves into the fabric of space-time itself. We ride one of these waves, racing back out from the black hole.

Suddenly, a portion of the wave disappears down a crystal-like hole, emerging in a much darker region of the universe -- a backwater that, as the wave races past a giant red planet with a distinctive eye, we recognize as our own.

The wave, now just an infinitesimal ripple, finally reaches our blue planet. It drops into our atmosphere over North America, toward the high desert east of the Cascades, and through the roof of a nondescript warehouse.

Movie Chat

	Columbus I'm currently writing my own script! Would anyone like to edit/revise/give feedback for it? when I get closer to my first rough draft of course.
	Someone From Star Wars: The Force Awakens: Another pilot, ZOLO ZIFF. YOLO ZIFF Dropping out of hyperspace! You only live once, Han.
	The Don
Name Message

ALL SCRIPTS

Interstellar Script at IMSDb.

The wave tickles the atoms in the steel shell of a vacuum chamber, then dances a tiny jig with a laser beam reflected in a heavy piece of glass.

The wave shoots back out of the building and disappears in the fractal branches of a tumbleweed resting against a concrete tube that stretches for miles in the desert.

An SUV speeds past the tumbleweed and we follow it till it parks at another plain-looking building at the opposite end of the tube. A MAN climbs out of the SUV.

INT. CONTROL ROOM, WAREHOUSE -- DAY

The man lets himself into a large room that looks like Mission Control. He pours himself a cup of coffee. It is the weekend and the place is empty. No one has been there to see the displays flashing a distinctive shape -- a pulse followed by a series of echoes.

The man looks up at the screen, then DROPS his cup of coffee.

CUT TO:

2.

INT. LIGO OFFICES, CALTECH, PASADENA -- DAY

The Laser Interferometer Gravitational-Wave Observatory headquarters at Caltech is a frenzy of activity. POSTDOCS and RESEARCHERS huddle around monitors and printouts, arguing.

ANSEN, 60s, the director of LIGO, walks through the frenzy. A postdoc hands him a printout: a pulse followed by echoes.

INT. LIGO DIRECTOR'S OFFICE, CALTECH -- DAY

Ansen steps into the relative calm of a large, sunlit office, which overlooks a grassy stretch of Caltech's campus.

His ASSISTANT, 30s, is on the phone, on hold. He looks up at Ansen as he enters.

ASSISTANT

I'm on hold with the INS.

(COVERS MICROPHONE)

Don't you think we should double check the triangulation before we CALL ANYBODY-

ANSEN

We have double checked it.

Someone finally picks up the line.

ASSISTANT

Yes. I'm trying to reach-
(pause, listens)

No, I don't think you understand how serious this is.

(PAUSE)

Because if you did, we'd be having this conversation in person.

He listens for a moment, then hangs up the phone, confused.

ANSEN

What did they say?

ASSISTANT

They said we should look out the window.

Ansen steps to the window and looks out:

In the courtyard below, coeds are scrambling to get out of the way as a military helicopter sets down in the middle of the quad and dozens of ARMED FEDERAL AGENTS converge on his building.

3.

INT. MAIN CONFERENCE ROOM, LIGO, CALTECH -- DAY

Ansen sits, alone, on one side of a conference table.

The other side is filled with GOVERNMENT MEN -- NSA mostly, some DIA. The door opens and his assistant steps in. Armed guards pat him down, then shove him into a seat.

ANSEN

Is that really necessary?

One of the NSA agents leans forward.

NSA AGENT

You've been complaining for years that the government doesn't take your project seriously enough, Doctor.

(SMILES)

You can't have it both ways.

Ansen motions to his assistant, who turns on a projector.
On-screen, we see the familiar pulse and echoes.

ANSEN

Yesterday morning, our facility in Hanford identified this signal: a neutron star colliding with a supermassive black hole. We went through the last year's data and triangulated the source.

The pulse is translated into a crude animatic of a neutron star circling into the black hole.

NSA AGENT

We know that, Doctor. What we don't know is why, according to your numbers, this event took place right here in our own solar system.

Suddenly, the image overlays the sun, the earth, and the rest of our solar system around the black hole.

ANSEN

It didn't. Because if it had we'd all be dead by now.

On-screen, Jupiter, then the Earth and the inner planets are consumed by the black hole. Only the sun survives, pulled into orbit around its new master.

ANSEN (CONT'D)

Which leaves only one explanation:
The signal traveled through a

(MORE)

4.

ANSEN (CONT'D)

wormhole. A gateway to a distant corner of the universe. The black hole is on the far side.

On-screen, the black hole system is removed to a distant corner, connected to ours by a tunnel through space-time. A gravity wave from the collision travels through the tunnel.

NSA AGENT

I've read your book, Doctor. You said that wormholes are impossible.

ANSEN

There is nothing quite as satisfying as being proved utterly wrong.

(SMILES)

I said that a wormhole couldn't exist naturally. Not for more than a few billionths of a second. It would have to be... stabilized.

NSA AGENT

Stabilized by what?

Ansen pauses, unsure. His assistant steps in to his defense.

ASSISTANT

We don't have any way to answer that question.

NSA AGENT

(IGNORES HIM)

You're not under peer review here, Doctor. I don't care about your reputation. I need to know how that thing got there. Now.

Ansen finally speaks up.

ANSEN

If you're worried about an invasion, I would start drafting the articles of surrender.

(SMILES)

Whoever they are, if they can build a wormhole, they could erase us in the blink of an eye. Luckily, that also means we have nothing they could be interested in.

NSA AGENT

Then why is it there?
5.

ANSEN

I don't know. Maybe it's an invitation. A chance to commune with an advanced species.

The assistant, embarrassed, looks down. The agent notices.

NSA AGENT

You don't agree?

ASSISTANT

(DELICATE)

No. I don't think we can assume an alien intelligence built the wormhole.

(CHANGES TACK)

But the opportunity it represents is incredible. We could explore parts of the universe we never dreamt of reaching in our lifetimes.

The agent exchanges a look with one of his colleagues, who steps out of the room.

ANSEN

We need to get back to work. I have a conference call with our European partners in fifteen minutes.

NSA AGENT

We severed the connections to your European partners this morning.

ANSEN

(INDIGNANT)

You can't do that. The Europeans put up some of the funding...

GOVERNMENT MAN

We'll send them a check.

(STANDS)

Your project is now classified under the State Secrets Act.

He steps out the door, leaving the men alone. The assistant, outraged, turns back to his boss.

ASSISTANT

They can't keep this a secret. You know that. Sooner or later...

The younger man looks down, embarrassed, as he notices that tears are rolling down the older man's cheeks.

6.

ANSEN

I don't care about that. I've spent my whole life being afraid we would wipe ourselves out before this moment arrived. We've made so many mistakes, I wasn't sure we'd make it...

The assistant realizes that the old man is weeping for joy. Relief.

ANSEN (CONT'D)

But this will change everything. Fifty years from now, nothing will be the same.

The older man looks at the simulation on the screen of the tiny link between our galaxy and another.

FADE TO BLACK

EXT. CORNFIELD, CENTRAL CALIFORNIA -- DAY

Corn. As far as the eye can see.

SUPER TITLE: "FIFTY YEARS LATER"

A large old diesel tour bus is parked by the side of a dirt road, smoke pouring out of its open hood. A dozen MEN in BASEBALL UNIFORMS are standing around the front of the bus.

A battered PICKUP pulls up, and a MAN, 30s, gets out, leaving his two SONS in the car. This is COOPER. He joins the ballplayers staring at the lifeless diesel engine.

BALLPLAYER

Seized up on us.

COOPER

Long way to come by bus. I thought you guys would have a plane.

BALLPLAYER

We did. Ran out of parts for it.
You know anything about diesels?

COOPER

A little.

Cooper steps to the engine compartment.

The ballplayer notices Cooper's two boys, TOM, 15, and MURPH, 10, watching them. He wanders over.
7.

BALLPLAYER

You think your dad's going to be able to help us out?

Murph, a filth-encrusted kid with a black eye, smiles at the ballplayer.

MURPH

My dad can fix anything.
(WRY SMILE)
Except maybe your fastball.

The ballplayer frowns: smartass kid.

After a moment under the hood, Cooper signals to the driver, who tries the engine. It turns over once, then STARTS.

BALLPLAYER

Sure appreciate the help.

COOPER

(SHRUGS)

You don't make it, my boys won't get to see you lose.

The ballplayers load up into the bus and as it pulls away, we can see the logo painted across the back of the bus for the first time:

WORLD FAMOUS NEW YORK YANKEES

EXT. SPACE, NEAR EARTH ORBIT

Earth spins, lazily. From this height, it looks much the same as it has done for thousands of years.

Suddenly, a tiny black object appears, racing toward Earth.

The object SMASHES into a large satellite and races onward. Behind it, the satellite spins out of orbit in a cloud of fragments.

EXT. BASEBALL STADIUM -- NIGHT

An old minor league stadium. The stands are barely halfway full. Cooper, his boys, and Cooper's father-in-law, DONALD, 60s, have a row to themselves behind the dugout.

Murph offers his grandpa some popcorn.

DONALD

Popcorn at a ball game is unnatural.
I want a hot dog.
8.

MURPH
(CONFUSED)

What's a hot dog?

Suddenly, play stops on the field below as the players and fans look up at the night sky:

A bright blue streak is tearing across it. It's beautiful.

TOM

Is that a comet, Dad?

COOPER

(shakes his head)
Satellite. Big one. Probably Chinese.

Everyone watches the fireworks as the satellite burns up in the upper atmosphere.

After a moment, play resumes -- it's a pretty show, but everyone has seen it plenty of times before.

Down on the field, the Dodgers' catcher misses an easy pop fly and the Yankees load the bases. Donald looks disgusted.

INT. COOPER'S TRUCK -- NIGHT

Cooper guides his truck along a potholed road. His father-in-law is riding shotgun; the boys are sleeping in the back.

DONALD

Those clowns would get their asses handed to them by the ballplayers I grew up watching.

COOPER

You ruin it for the boys when you talk like that.

DONALD

I'm not doing my grandkids any favors by lying to them. They're growing up watching lousy baseball.

COOPER

They didn't have any baseball at all when I was a kid.

That shuts the old man up for now. They drive on in silence.

CUT TO:

9.

EXT. FARMHOUSE -- MORNING

The sun is gently landing on the horizon, painting the sea of corn around Cooper's modest house gold. Cooper walks out of his house, still eating his breakfast.

Donald is on the porch, looking at a black clouds of smoke in the distance. The neighboring fields are BURNING.

DONALD

Nelson's burning up his crops. Found some of the blight on the okra.

Cooper watches the men walking through the fields, setting fire to the crop.

COOPER

I thought okra wasn't susceptible.

DONALD
(SHRUGS)

Better safe than sorry.
(looks at him)
You've got to take the boys to school.

COOPER

Something wrong with your truck?

DONALD
(SMILES)

Parent-teacher conference day.

Cooper bends his head in dismay.

DONALD (CONT'D)

Be nice to Murph's teacher. She's single, you know.

COOPER

What does that have to do with anything?

DONALD

We're supposed to be repopulating the earth. Gotta pull your weight. Besides, the boys could do with a woman in their lives.

The boys run out of the house and pile into the truck. Cooper pulls away before Donald can continue.

EXT. ROAD -- DAY

Cooper weaves the car along a dirt road. The kids are arguing over an ancient comic book in the back seat.

10.

Cooper turns around to break it up.

BANG -- one of the tires blows out in a foot-deep pothole.

EXT. ROADSIDE -- DAY

Cooper examines the flattened tire. Looks at his older son.

COOPER

Get the spare, Tom.

TOM

That is the spare.

COOPER

All right. We'll use the patch kit.

He moves to the back of the truck. Murph suddenly looks very glum.

MURPH

I... I think the patch kit might not be there...
(off his look)
Because I was using it for my bike.

Cooper looks down at the dirt. Sighs.

COOPER

Murph's law.

MURPH
(CONFUSED)

What's that?

Tom snorts with laughter. Turns to his dad.

TOM

The kid doesn't even know what he was named after...

Cooper shoots Tom a look -- enough.

TOM (CONT'D)

Murph's law means what can go wrong will go wrong.

Murph, looking hurt, walks off. Cooper turns to his son.

COOPER

Find something to patch it with.

TOM

How am I supposed to do that?
11.

COOPER

Figure it out. I'm not always going to be here to help you.

Cooper leaves Tom to catch up with his younger son, who is looking out over the river.

MURPH

Is that really why I'm named Murph, dad?

COOPER

Listen to me. Murph's law doesn't mean that. It means what can happen will happen. All kinds of things. Good or bad. And that's the way you want it to be.

MURPH

Why?

COOPER

Because if nothing ever happened to you then you wouldn't learn anything.

Murph is staring off into the distance. He's heard something.

COOPER (CONT'D)

Murph?

Then Cooper hears it, too. A LOW RUMBLING SOUND. Cooper looks out over the river. Then he turns back and tackles his son to the ground.

Suddenly, a MASSIVE AIRPLANE SOARS overhead, so close they can almost touch it. It bounces the truck on its suspension, then soars off over the fields behind them.

Cooper grabs Murph and races back to the truck. He pulls a laptop and an antenna made out of a Pringles can out of the back of the truck. He hands the laptop and antenna to Murph.

COOPER (CONT'D)

Get in.

Tom is still standing by the side of the road, wrestling with the jack.

TOM

What about the tire?

INT. TRUCK -- MOMENTS LATER

The truck is SMASHING through the cornfields as fast as Cooper can push it on three good tires.

12.

Murph is hurriedly firing up the laptop and connecting it to the directional antenna.

Cooper is straining to see through the cornstalks, scanning the horizon.

TOM

OVER THERE--

To the right, the dark shape of the Russian drone appears, flying low over the fields. Cooper jerks the wheel--

EXT. RIVER -- DAY

The truck BURSTS out of the corn and SPLASHES across the river and into an old, abandoned suburban housing development in the valley below, planted over with corn.

Half a mile in front of them, the Russian drone is still hugging the ground. It has impossibly long, skinny wings, like an old U-2 surveillance plane, but no cockpit. The tops of its wings are covered in black solar cells.

INT. TRUCK -- DAY

Murph is fiddling with the computer. His older brother takes the computer from him and fires up emulation software.

COOPER

It's a Chinese military drone. Solar cells could power an entire farm.

(TO TOM)

Take the wheel.

Cooper hands Murph the Pringles can antenna.

COOPER (CONT'D)

Keep it pointed right at it, OK?

Murph nods. Tom takes the wheel as his dad works the laptop, trying to communicate with the huge Russian drone. The screen fills with Cyrillic characters.

COOPER (CONT'D)

Faster, Tom. I'm losing it.

Tom WEAVES the truck at speed through the old, curved streets of the development, past oversized suburban mansions planted over with corn.

They round a corner and come face-to-face with a robot harvester. Tom jerks the wheel to avoid it.

BANG -- the truck loses a wing mirror against the flank of the combine.

13.

EXT. SUBURBAN DEVELOPMENT -- DAY

Tom guides the truck from street to street, trying to chart a straight path across the fields. The truck BOUNCES as it SMASHES through an old picket fence.

Ahead, the drone is soaring, banking, pulling away.

INT. TRUCK -- DAY

Cooper is still trying to hack into the drone's control circuitry as they leave the development behind and begin to climb into the foothills of the Sierras.

EXT. RIDGELINE, HILLS -- DAY

Tom guides the truck along the spine of the hills. The drone soars overhead, making for the white tips of the Sierras.

INT. TRUCK -- DAY

Cooper is oblivious to the picturesque surroundings as he concentrates on the laptop.

TOM (UNSURE)

Dad?

COOPER

Almost got it. Don't slow down.

In front of them, Tom and his brother watch as the drone plummets from view.

TOM

DAD.

Cooper looks up. Ahead, the trail disappears as the edge of the hills falls away -- it's a three hundred-foot drop.

Tom locks up the brakes.

EXT. RIDGELINE, HILLS -- DAY

The truck skids to a halt inches from a precipitous drop.

Cooper climbs out, holding the laptop. Murph climbs out next to him, still pointing the Pringles can.

TOM

We lost it.

COOPER
(SMILING)

No we didn't.

14.

Suddenly, the drone SOARS back over them. Cooper types a couple keys and then moves his fingers across the trackpad. The huge drone banks and turns in response.

As the boys watch, Cooper sends the drone soaring high over them, banking and soaring along the tree-lined sides of the valley, light glinting from the black panels on its back. It's a beautiful sight.

Cooper crouches next to Murph.

COOPER (CONT'D)

You want to give it a whirl?

Murph looks at his dad, wide-eyed. He takes the laptop and moves his fingers gingerly across the pad.

In response, the massive plane banks into a tight turn in the valley below.

For a moment, Murph is in pure heaven, sending the drone dancing through the valley below.

COOPER (CONT'D)

Set her down in the valley -- there, next to the river.

Murph leads the plane in a figure eight and then begins guiding it into a gentle landing in the valley floor below.

EXT. ABANDONED GOLF COURSE, VALLEY FLOOR -- DAY

The truck limps along the overgrown fairway of a long-defunct golf course towards the massive hulk of the Russian drone,

Cooper and the boys climb down. The valley is silent save for the truck's engine WHEEZING and SPUTTERING as it cools.

Cooper runs a hand over the smooth carbon flank of the drone.

TOM

How long do you think it's been up there, Dad?

COOPER

Chinese mission control went down same as us, twenty years ago. It's been up there ever since.

TOM

What was it doing flying so low?

Cooper reads the information pouring into his laptop.
15.

COOPER

It was looking for something.
Intercepted some kind of signal.

(SHRUGS)

It's been at eighty thousand feet.
Sun probably cooked its brain.

Cooper runs his hand along the flank till he finds an access patch. He pulls out a crowbar and pries open the hatch. Inside, surrounded by a nest of liquid cooling tubes, is a small black module -- the drone's auto-pilot.

Cooper looks down at Murph, who is standing at his elbow.

MURPH

What are you going to do with it?

COOPER

Reprogram it. Give it something socially responsible to do like drive a combine or a tractor.

MURPH

(QUIET)

Couldn't we just let it go? It's not hurting anyone.

Cooper looks down at his son. Good kid.

COOPER

We need all the help we can get,
Murph. This thing has to adapt,
just like the rest of us.

Cooper gently pries the control module out.

EXT. COUNTY SCHOOL -- DAY

It's a small school, so all the kids and parents waiting in front know exactly who's driving the pickup truck with half of a Russian spy plane hanging out of the bed as it pulls up.

INT. PRINCIPAL'S OFFICE, COUNTY SCHOOL -- DAY

Cooper is ushered into the office. The PRINCIPAL, 40s, an efficient-looking man, shakes his hand.

PRINCIPAL

Good to see you, Mr. Cooper. This is Ms. Kelly, Murph's teacher.

Cooper smiles at Ms. KELLY, 30s, attractive.
16.

PRINCIPAL (CONT'D)

So we've gotten Tom's score back. Congratulations. He's going to make an excellent farmer.

The principal slides a carbon copy across the desk to Cooper, who looks taken aback.

COOPER

What about college?

PRINCIPAL

The University of California only accepts a few hundred students a year, Mr. Cooper. You have to be realistic.

COOPER

You're ruling out college for him now? He's only fifteen.

PRINCIPAL

I'm sorry. I'm afraid Tom's score simply isn't high enough.

COOPER

What are you, about a 36-inch waist?

(BEAT)

30-inch inseam?

PRINCIPAL

I'm not sure I see--

COOPER

You're telling me you need two numbers to measure your own ass, but just one to measure my son's future?

Ms. Kelly stifles a laugh, then, with a look from the principal, takes on the appropriate look of offense.

PRINCIPAL

I understand you're a well-educated man, Mr. Cooper. A scientist?

COOPER

Engineer.

PRINCIPAL

Frankly, the world doesn't need any more engineers. We didn't run out of trains or television sets or satellites.

(BEAT)

We ran out of food.

17.

Cooper leans back. He's not going to win this one.

PRINCIPAL (CONT'D)

The world needs farmers, Mr. Cooper. And I'm sure your son Tom is going to make a fine one.

(SMILES BENIGNLY)

We're a caretaker generation. But things are getting better. Maybe your grandchildren will be able to attend college.

Cooper looks down, swallowing his anger.

COOPER

Are we done?

PRINCIPAL

One more thing. Ms. Kelly here says that Murph brought a book to school about the lunar landings.

He slides an old textbook with a picture of a rocket on the cover across the desk to Cooper.

COOPER

One of my old textbooks. Murph liked the pictures.

MS. KELLY

This is one of the old federal textbooks. We've replaced them with corrected versions.

COOPER

Corrected?

MS. KELLY

The new textbooks explain that the Apollo lunar missions were faked in order to bankrupt the Soviet Union.

COOPER

You don't believe we went to the moon?

MS. KELLY

I believe it was a brilliant piece of propaganda. The Soviets spent years trying to build rockets and other useless machines.

COOPER

"Useless machines"?

18.

Cooper looks to the Principal for help. None is forthcoming.

MS. KELLY

Yes, Mr. Cooper. The kind of wastefulness and excess that the 20th century represented. Your children would be better off learning about this planet, rather than reading fantasies about leaving it.

Cooper is silent for a long moment.

COOPER

One of those useless machines they used to make was called an MRI. If we had any of them left the doctors might have been able to find the cyst in my wife's brain before she died, rather than afterwards. And then my kids could have been raised by two parents, instead of me and their pain-in-the-ass grandfather.

Ms. Kelly's face falls, ashen. Cooper swallows his anger. Most of it, anyway.

COOPER (CONT'D)

You ever consider the best thing for the world and humanity might have been for us to part company?

Cooper gets up to leave.

INT. TRUCK, COUNTY SCHOOL PARKING LOT -- DAY

Cooper climbs into the truck, trying to hold it together. He PUNCHES the wheel.

The radio KEYS to life. He ignores it. Sits for a moment in misery. Finally he picks up the handset.

CB OPERATOR (O.S.)

Got a call from Riggs, down in Galveston. Says some of the tractors you built him went haywire last night.

COOPER

Just tell him to power down the controllers for a couple minutes.

CB OPERATOR (O.S.)

I did. He wants you to come down in person anyway. Says he found something you should take a look at.
19.

Cooper stares at the wheel. Shakes his head in frustration.

EXT. AIRSTRIP -- DAY

Cooper pulls his truck up to a grimy-looking hangar. Pulls a tarp off of an ancient Piper Cub. Checks it over.

INT. PIPER CUB -- DAY

Cooper guides the plane along a long sliver of deserted beach. The radio crackles to life.

COOPER

Bravo-two-eight, requesting permission to enter your airspace.

AIR TRAFFIC CONTROL (O.S.)

Permission granted. Welcome to the sovereign nation of Texas.

Coop hangs up the radio. Banks the plane inland.

EXT. GULF COAST -- DAY

Below, a combine harvester fights its way up the dunes, trying to reach the beach, its wheels struggling for traction in the soft sand.

A MAN waves up at Cooper's plane as it circles overhead.

Cooper lands the plane on a deserted roadway. Jumps down.

He intercepts one of the combines as it trundles past, trying to reach the dunes. He pops open the cabin.

Inside is a mess of wires hooked into an auto-pilot not unlike the one he ripped out of the drone. He checks the fault code and resets the computer.

The man jogs over to meet him.

RIGGS

Thanks for coming down. Half of 'em took off last night, looking for something.
(points to dunes)
Looks like they found it, too. I thought you were the man to see it.

Riggs starts walking up the dune. Cooper follows.

Below, on the beach, a dozen more combines and other farming vehicles are lined up at the tideline, warm gulf water lapping at their metal flanks. They are circling a deep crater.
20.

As they watch, an ancient autonomous SUB BEACHES itself, trying to reach the crater.

EXT. CRATER'S EDGE, BEACH -- DAY

Cooper steps between the waiting machines and peers down into the crater.

At the very bottom is a ROUND BLACK BALL, about a foot across -- the same object we saw punch a hole in the side of a satellite. Every few seconds, it emits a distinctive CHIRP.

Cooper checks his rad meter. A tiny reading -- non-lethal. He takes off his watch and hands it to Riggs. Then he slides down into the hole.

The probe CHIRPS as Cooper slides down on top of it. He rubs a hand across its smooth composite bulk.

RIGGS

(FROM ABOVE)

You think it's an alien?

Cooper wipes sand off of the object, revealing the faint, familiar outline etched into the side of the probe:

The stars and stripes of the old federal government.

COOPER

Not exactly.

EXT. CRATER'S EDGE, BEACH -- DAY

Using a rope and a winch, Cooper hauls the blackened probe out of the crater and onto the beach.

Cooper hefts it up and carries it to the back of his plane.

COOPER

Space probe. Never seen one like it, though. Looks like it's been to hell and back.

The probe CHIRPS as Cooper belts it into the back.

RIGGS

How do you think it wound up here?

COOPER

Lost, I guess. Guidance satellites would have been shot down by the Chinese twenty years ago.

Cooper looks at the probe for a second, admiring its form.
21.

INT. KITCHEN, COOPER'S HOUSE -- NIGHT

Donald is pouring a bottle of corn beer into a bubbling vat of chowder. He turns to watch Cooper work, amused.

The probe has been clamped to the kitchen table. Cooper works at the blackened case with a BLOWTORCH. Cooper gives up -- the torch hasn't made a scratch. The probe CHIRPS.

COOPER

Well I don't know what the hell it's made of, but I can't crack it open.

DONALD

Good. Clear it off the table so I can serve dinner.

Tom and Murph walk in. Murph's got another black eye.

DONALD (CONT'D)

What happened this time?

MURPH

I got suspended. Paul said anyone who believed we went to the moon was an idiot. So I hit him.

COOPER

Good boy. Hand me the scanner.

Murph hands his dad a defibrillator he's modified for the purpose. He attaches the shock pads to the sides of the probe and turns on the power.

Numbers flash across the screen. Cooper hits a button on the controls and it PULSES.

COOPER (CONT'D)

Here we go. Standard NASA encryption. Memory's been damaged. Just noise. Hold on. I've got something.

Cooper unplugs a monitor from his computer and plugs it into the defibrillator. After a moment, an image fills the screen:

An ICE-COVERED PLANET nestled in the center of a system impossibly dense with stars. Murph stares, transfixed.

MURPH

Where is that, dad?

COOPER

I don't know.

Cooper looks at the probe.

22.

COOPER (CONT'D)

Where the hell did you come from?

Cooper shrugs. Turns off the monitor.

COOPER (CONT'D)

We'll take it down to Tyson's tomorrow and have it melted down. Might be some copper inside.

MURPH

But what about its mission? What about the information onboard?

COOPER

There's no one for it to report to.
NASA is all gone. I'm sorry, son.
It got home too late.

Donald pulls his chowder off the boil and slides the pot unceremoniously onto the table.

INT. DINING ROOM -- NIGHT

The boys have gone to bed. Cooper and Donald are alone at the table. Donald hands Cooper another beer.

DONALD

I heard your meeting at the school didn't go so well.

Cooper shakes his head in disgust.

COOPER

Maybe it's better for everyone to forget what they did back then.
Reminds us how far we've fallen.

DONALD

(looks down,)
When I was kid, it felt like they made something new every day. Some gadget or idea.

(SMILES)

Like every day was Christmas.

(BEAT)

But we made a lot of mistakes. Six billion people. Just try to imagine that. Every last one of them trying to have it all.

Donald rolls the bottle of beer in his hands.

23.

DONALD (CONT'D)

The truth is this world isn't that bad. In a lot of ways its better.
Tom will be all right, whether he goes to college or not.

COOPER

It doesn't bother me that he can't go. It bothers me that he doesn't care.

DONALD

Tom isn't the problem. He fits in this world just fine. You're the one who doesn't fit, Coop. You don't belong here. You were born forty years too late, or forty years too early -- I don't know. My daughter knew it, god bless her. And your kids know it, too.

Donald drains his beer. Walks to the screen door. Stops, one hand on the frame.

DONALD (CONT'D)

You were good at something and you never got a chance to do anything with it. And I'm sorry, Coop. But that's not your kids' fault.

Donald pushes out the screen door.

Cooper looks at his beer. The probe CHIRPS.

INT. BEDROOM, COOPER'S HOUSE -- NIGHT

Cooper flops down on his bed, fully clothed, exhausted. He stares up at the ceiling. This is his life.

INT. BEDROOM, COOPER'S HOUSE -- NIGHT

The air is filled with a PIERCING NOISE.

Cooper BOLTS upright. Stumbles out the door.

INT. HALLWAY, COOPER'S HOUSE -- NIGHT

Cooper's boys are in the hallway, exhausted. Cooper, holding a baseball bat, makes his way down the stairs.

Cooper uses the bat to open the kitchen door.

INT. KITCHEN, COOPER'S HOUSE -- NIGHT

Cooper steps in, Murph watching from behind him.

24.

The probe is clamped to the table, the chirp replaced with a DEAFENING SCREAM.

Cooper, holding his ears, moves closer to the probe. He hits it with the paddles. No result.

He SMASHES it with the bat. Nothing. He HITS it AGAIN and AGAIN. Finally, the clamps break off chunks of the table and the probe slams to the ground and ROLLS toward the front door. As it rolls, it STOPS SHRIEKING.

Cooper and the others watch it roll toward the door. It stops at the wall. After a second, it begins SHRIEKING AGAIN.

Cooper grabs it and rolls it toward the front door. Once again, the movement shuts it up.

EXT. PORCH, COOPER'S HOUSE -- NIGHT

Cooper and his boys roll the probe out of the front door. It BUMPS down the front steps and comes to rest in the dirt. After a moment, the unholy RACKET starts up again.

Cooper keeps rolling it, but it doesn't seem to help. Murph looks up, sees the stars overhead.

MURPH

Try a different direction.

As they roll the probe in a circle, its SHRIEK stops, then picks up again. Cooper zeroes in on the direction that keeps it quiet -- southwest -- and pushes it along in the dirt.

COOPER

It's a fail-safe. It's going to annoy us into taking it home.

Cooper stops rolling the probe and, after a moment, it begins SHRIEKING again.

TOM

What are we going to do?

Cooper gets a rope.

COOPER

We're going to get some sleep.

He begins tying the rope around the probe.

INT. BEDROOM, COOPER'S HOUSE -- DAY

Cooper wakes. He's been sleeping with a pillow wrapped around his head. The SHRIEK can be heard, but it's muffled, distant.
25.

INT. KITCHEN, COOPER'S HOUSE -- DAY

Tom heads off for school with Donald. Murph, still suspended, looks up at Cooper, smiling.

MURPH

What are we doing today?

COOPER

You're staying here and cleaning the house.

Murph looks crestfallen. He looks out towards the yard. Cooper follows his stare.

COOPER (CONT'D)

I told you, Murph. There's no one to take it back to.

MURPH

But what if there is, dad? What if there's something we can salvage?

Cooper thinks it over. Murph scrambles to get his shoes.

EXT. COOPER'S HOUSE -- DAY

The shriek is still muffled. Cooper walks over to the well, putting in a pair of earplugs.

A line is staked off, leading down into the well below. Cooper begins hauling the line up.

As the probe breaks the surface of the water, the SHRIEK returns to its normal volume. Cooper rolls the probe out onto the ground.

INT. PIPER CUB -- DAY

The probe CHIRPS next to Murph in the backseat as Cooper spins the plane and guns the throttle and they bounce along the dusty runway and into the air.

EXT. CALIFORNIA COAST -- DAY

The tiny plane follows the mountains south.

EXT. SKIES OVER LOS ANGELES -- DAY

Cooper flies in low. Los Angeles looks much the same way it did in the early 20th century -- small settlements in Santa Monica and Downtown. Wildfires and earthquakes have shaken and burned what was left of the homes in between.

26.

EXT. PACIFIC COAST HIGHWAY, MALIBU -- DAY

Cooper puts the plane down on the old highway and taxis up to a gas station. Ahead, the Coast Highway peters out and disappears beneath rows of wild grass -- Malibu has become ranchland, once again.

EXT. GAS STATION, MALIBU -- DAY

An OLD MAN looks up as Cooper steps out of the plane and checks it over.

COOPER

Got any diesel?

OLD MAN

Plenty. Shame you can't eat it.

Cooper stretches the hose over to the plane.

INT. PIPER CUB -- DAY

Cooper rests a hand lightly on the controls as he follows the coast. Murph gazes out the window. In the backseat, the probe is HUMMING.

A light marine layer beneath them parts, revealing SANTA CRUZ ISLAND, a large, uninhabited island.

As Cooper soars over the island, the probe HUMS, insistent.

MURPH

I think it's home.

Cooper circles the island until he finds a long, flat grassland in the center of the island.

EXT. FIELD, SANTA CRUZ ISLAND -- DAY

The plane bounces and hops to a halt in waist-deep grass.

Murph and Cooper climb down from the plane. Cooper slings a rifle over his shoulder.

A few dozen yards from the plane they reach the tree line. Murph stops, mesmerized by a patch of weeds studded with bright red -- strawberries.

MURPH

Dad, what are these things?

COOPER

I don't know. Don't touch them.

27.

Cooper spots something in the foliage ahead that looks a little off. He walks over.

He pokes at the undergrowth with his rifle. The rifle CLANKS against something metal. Cooper reaches -- it's a camouflage scrim. He gently pulls it aside, revealing a chemical transport truck.

Cooper steps back, alarmed. He brings up his rifle.

COOPER (CONT'D)

Murph?

He looks around. Murph is nowhere to be seen. Cooper curses and heads into the forest to look for him.

EXT. CLEARING, SANTA CRUZ ISLAND -- DAY

Cooper walks through a glade. He stops to get his bearings. Leans against a tree. Snatches his hand back -- the trunk of the tree is red hot.

Cooper steps back -- it's not a tree at all, but a camouflaged chimney stack. He looks up: the tree is venting steam.

Cooper walks a little further, until he finds several massive tanks. The tanks are filling with a bubbling liquid -- some kind of industrial process is taking place beneath him.

Cooper finally catches up with Murph at the edge of a clearing.

COOPER

Careful. There's some kind of underground facility here. We might...

Cooper notices his son is frozen, staring at something:

Standing bolt upright in the middle of the clearing, wearing an old straw hat, is an eight-foot-tall military spec ROBOT.

MURPH

Is it still... alive?

COOPER

Can't be. It's a marine. Haven't made them for thirty years. I've never seen one intact before.

Cooper steps closer to the robot, which is frozen. Its alloy frame heavily tarnished and weather-beaten. It looks like it might have been standing here for decades.

28.

Cooper moves closer to it, looking into its blackened eyes. He steps back, clearly a little spooked.

COOPER (CONT'D)

I think we need to go, Murph.

MURPH

But can't we take it back? You could fix it up, get him to do chores.

COOPER

No. I don't know what this place is, but we're leaving.

Murph, ignoring his father, steps forward to touch the robot.

Suddenly, the robot SPRINGS into action, picking up the boy and hoisting him up to eye level.

Cooper, stunned, points the rifle at the robot.

The robot turns, dropping the boy, RIPS the rifle from Cooper's hands, BENDS it, then SLAMS him up against the side of the water tank. Cooper punches him, then winces in agony.

Murph picks up the rifle and begins HITTING the robot as hard as he can. The robot opens his mouth and addresses Cooper calmly in the clipped tones of a US marine.

ROBOT

Tell the boy to stop hitting me.

COOPER

(IGNORING HIM)

Hit him in the back of the neck.

Murph raises the rifle butt. A voice stops him.

VOICE (O.S.)

I wouldn't do that.

A woman, 30s, step out from the trees. This is AMELIA BRAND -- tough, bright, and a decent shot with the large rifle that she's pointing at Cooper.

COOPER

We were just looking for salvage.

BRAND

Is that what they call stealing these days?

COOPER

I didn't know it belonged to anyone.

29.

BRAND

It doesn't.

(TO ROBOT)

You want to let them go, Tars, or do you want some help with your work?

The robot, evidently named Tars, looks at Cooper closely. Then lets him go.

COOPER

You've got me wrong, lady.

BRAND

Really? You're not the kind of guy who turns a combat marine with a supercomputer for a brain into a riding lawn mower?

Cooper says nothing -- she's not that far off the mark.

BRAND (CONT'D)

Get back in your little plane, go back to your farming commune. And don't come back.

Cooper backs up. Tars holds up his mangled rifle. Smiles.

TARS

Don't forget your gun.

COOPER

(points at Tars)

Word of advice -- careful with that thing. When the war was over, they didn't know when to stop fighting.

BRAND

I'd trust him a lot more than I'd trust you. Keep moving.

Cooper backs up to his plane. Tars follows him.

Suddenly, in the plane, the probe emits a high-pitch SQUEAL. Tars responds instantly, striding past Cooper to the plane. He sees the probe. Tries to open the door. It's locked.

COOPER

Wait a second--

Tars TEARS the door off the plane. Reaches inside and pulls out the probe. The woman looks at it, stunned.

BRAND

Get it inside.

(MORE)

30.

BRAND (CONT'D)

(points rifle at Cooper)

You too. We'll figure out what to do with you later.

Tars stops, and two panels open in the ground, revealing a huge, reinforced service elevator.

INT. SERVICE ELEVATOR, UNDERGROUND BUNKER -- DAY

Brand waves at a security camera and the lift begins to glide diagonally down a tunnel that cuts hundreds of feet below the island's surface. She keeps her weapon shouldered.

COOPER

Now who's stealing from who?

BRAND

This doesn't belong to you.

COOPER

You're right. It belongs to NASA, which shut down thirty years ago when the federal government ran out of money.

Brand says nothing. The elevator slows to a stop at the bottom of the tunnel. Heavy BLAST DOORS grind open and Brand motions for Cooper to step forward.

INT. UNDERGROUND BUNKER -- DAY

They step into a vast underground facility. Standing in the center, braced by a launch tower, is a ten story tall rocket. Dozens of ROBOTS are working on in, maintaining it.

Cooper, stunned, looks at Brand.

COOPER

Who are you people?

BRAND

(WRY)

The government gave us plenty of practice looking for our own funding.
(gestures with rifle)
Keep moving.

Tars carries the probe over to an area of the hangar filled with electronic equipment. A group of ENGINEERS and ROBOTS converge around Tars.

An OLDER ENGINEER looks familiar -- 70s, white-haired, this is Ansen's assistant at Caltech who we met fifty years earlier.

31.

BRAND (CONT'D)

I found them outside with it. It looks like six. Maybe seven. I can't tell from the radiation damage.

The older engineer looks at the probe, astonished.

OLD ENGINEER

Where did you find it?

COOPER

Galveston.

BRAND'S FATHER

(thinking it over)
Of course. It must have been looking for Canaveral.

Tars bolts the probe down into a purpose built rig. DOYLE, 40s, an engineer, begins hooking leads into the probe.

COOPER

Canaveral's been gone for thirty years.

Brand ignores him.

Doyle looks up from his monitor, frustrated.

DOYLE

It's not responding to the handshake.
I can't open anything on primary.

Brand looks up at Cooper.

BRAND

What did you do to it?

COOPER

Nothing. I got something off of it.

Cooper looks around. There's a safety station on the wall with a battery powered defibrillator.

COOPER (CONT'D)
(TO BRAND)

May I?

Brand nods, wary. Cooper walks over to the wall, takes the defibrillator, and hooks it up to the probe. He taps into the current and runs a lead into the terminal. Brand's Father watches, fascinated, as Cooper fires the defibrillator.

32.

OLD ENGINEER

Of course. The high voltage allows you to image the entire memory unit at once.

Information begins appearing on the terminal's screen.

COOPER

Most of the disk was noise. Couple of clean sectors, though.

Suddenly, the monitor starts pulling good data off of the probe. The older man and Doyle begin sorting through it.

Cooper smiles at Brand, who seems less than impressed.

The footage of the ice-covered planet Cooper saw earlier pops onto the screen.

The engineers and physicists get very quiet, studying the images.

DOYLE

It found something.

(READING)

Very thin nitrogen-based atmosphere. Trace radiation. Surface is ninety percent frozen water. Ten percent rock -- sedimentary composition similar to limestone.

(READING)

Wow. Pockets of oxygen below the surface. Lots and lots of oxygen.

(EXCITED)

This could be the one, boss.

The older engineer studies the image of the ice-covered planet, thinking.

COOPER

There aren't any planets like that anywhere near earth. Not even if this thing was gone for thirty years.

Brand looks at Cooper, appraising. She turns to the older engineer.

BRAND

He's heard enough. If we're going to launch, we need to keep them here until afterwards.

COOPER

You can't keep us here.
33.

BRAND

He could endanger the mission.

COOPER

I'm not going to endanger it any more than you already have.

Cooper points to a telemetry unit that is being repaired by a robot on a nearby bench.

COOPER (CONT'D)

Are you using that for guidance?

DOYLE

Why not? We've tested it a hundred times.

COOPER

The power supply is no good. If the voltage fluctuates under load, the unit will fail.

BRAND

Now how could you possibly know that?

COOPER

Bought thirty of them off a guy in Florida. Had to rebuild every last one.

(SMILES)

They work great on a riding lawn mower.

Brand looks back at the telemetry system. The older engineer watches the exchange, thinking.

CUT TO:

INT. MACHINE SHOP, UNDERGROUND FACILITY -- DAY

Cooper and Murph have been locked in an abandoned machine shop, surrounded by the massive remains of rocket engines in various states of disrepair. Tars is blocking the door.

Cooper stands. Tars wags a long, hydraulic finger at him.

COOPER

You plan on keeping us here forever?

TARS

(SHRUGS)

My battery has a duty cycle of five hundred years.

Cooper gives up. He turns back.

34.

The back of the shop is filled with a group of older ROBOTS who are overhauling an engine. One problem -- the engine isn't there. Their programming hasn't been updated to reflect their obsolescence.

Murph watches, entranced, as the robots go about their business, efficiently TORQUING bolts with impact drivers into a non-existent thruster cone. The bolts CLATTER to the ground as the robots stop to reload.

MURPH

What are they doing, dad?

COOPER

I guess no one told them they were out of a job.

(nods at Tars)

Same as the rest of these people.

Cooper notices through the glass door of the lab that Brand and the older engineer are arguing about something. She finally relents and walks towards the door.

Brand walks in. She gestures for Cooper to follow.

BRAND

The mission commander wants to see you. Your son can stay here. He'll be all right with Tars.

Cooper eyes Tars warily. Then steps outside.

EXT. UNDERGROUND BUNKER -- DAY

They walk across the space towards the base of the rocket, away from the other engineers. Cooper nods at the older engineer.

COOPER

I thought the old man was in charge.

BRAND (ANNOYED)

The 'old man' is my father.
And he was in charge. But he decided that we needed someone who could lead the mission for the foreseeable future.

COOPER

Not you?

BRAND

I'm a biologist.
35.

COOPER
(LAUGHS)

You don't look like one.
(off her look)
With the rifle, I mean.

Brand heads towards a group of large maintenance ROBOTS clustered at the base of the rocket. A smaller, human sized robot is staring at the rocket, giving them instructions.

The robot looks up. This is CASE, the leader of the mission.
Originally an air force pararescue officer, every part of him, from his alloy chassis to his voice, was designed to inspire respect and confidence. He turns to Cooper.

CASE

You're the man who brought us the probe?
(off his look)
Thank you. We tested the telemetry board you warned us about. It failed under high voltage, just as you said.
Come with me, please.

Case strides off.

INT. MISSION CONTROL, UNDERGROUND HANGAR -- DAY

The lights dim as Brand's father brings up a schematic of our solar system. Case points to the picture of the ice planet recovered from the probe.

CASE

You're right, Mr. Cooper. The planet you saw is a long way from earth. A very long way indeed.

Brand looks down. Case notices.

CASE (CONT'D)

Our science officer doesn't think I should trust you with any of this.
One of the curious things about humans is that the more alike you are, the more initially hostile you are to each other. As if by design.

Brand makes eye contact with Cooper, then looks away, embarrassed.

CASE (CONT'D)

I've found the best way to earn a person's trust is to trust them.

(MORE)

36.

CASE (CONT'D)

(looks at Brand's

FATHER)

Go ahead, John.

Brand's father taps a few keys and the schematic he built fifty years beforehand flickers onto the screen.

BRAND'S FATHER

It's a wormhole. A shortcut leading to a galaxy on the far side of the universe. We found it fifty years ago.

Cooper looks at the animatic, taking it in.

BRAND'S FATHER (CONT'D)

We've been waiting, sending probes into it for decades. None of them ever came back. Not until now.

Case walks to the schematic. Looks at it.

CASE

Based on the information on the probe, we're finally preparing to send the manned mission.

COOPER

That rocket doesn't have enough thrust or fuel to get you to Jupiter.

CASE

The main ship was built in orbit. It has nuclear engines, with enough fuel to last for several years.

Cooper looks at the schematic.

COOPER

Why are you telling me this? I already told you I'm not going to tell anyone about this place.

CASE

I know you won't, Mr. Cooper. We're telling you this because I want you to join us.

Cooper looks at him. Is he serious?

CASE (CONT'D)

The probe has taken a great deal longer to return to us than we hoped.

(MORE)

37.

CASE (CONT'D)

Dr. Brand's Father and several other members of our crew have gotten... older.

Brand's Father looks down, stoic. Brand looks angry.

CASE (CONT'D)

We need someone who can run the systems, improvise, work with what's available. All of the skills you seem to have developed.

COOPER

But I don't have any of the experience. Any training. You people have been preparing for this for years.

Case shakes his head.

CASE

Humans worry about things like rank and experience. I'm only concerned with whether someone would be useful.

(BEAT)

I think you'd be useful, Mr. Cooper.

Cooper is stunned. This is the offer he's waited his whole life for. And it's come too late.

COOPER

No. I'm sorry.

Cooper is deeply conflicted. But he can't leave his boys behind.

COOPER (CONT'D)

I can't help you. I have responsibilities. Things that, no offense, are more important than a scientific mission.

Case shakes his head.

CASE

I'm not a scientist, Mr. Cooper. And this is not a scientific mission. It's a rescue mission.

He rises and shakes Cooper's hand.

CASE (CONT'D)

Brand can show you the way out. I hope you'll reconsider.

38.

Case steps to the door. Cooper looks at Brand.

COOPER

Rescue? Rescue who?

CUT TO:

INT. CLEAN ROOM, UNDERGROUND FACILITY -- NIGHT

The air HISSES as it's run through an exchanger and a filter.

Then the second set of doors open. Cooper squints -- the light is blinding.

INT. GREENHOUSE, UNDERGROUND FACILITY -- NIGHT

They are standing in a sealed corridor in the middle of a massive underground greenhouse. Through the glass, Cooper can see an acre or so of corn plants.

Cooper looks at the plants. They're all badly wilting.

COOPER

The blight.

BRAND

In the last century strands were limited to one or two species. But this one targets everything. Essentially it's more efficient at consuming our food than we are.

Cooper looks at the dying corn.

COOPER

But it doesn't affect the corn.

BRAND

Not yet. But it will. We've grown a dozen forms of it that can. It's just a matter of time before the same ones develop out there.

(BEAT)

The mission is to rescue us. Humanity.

She turns back from the glass.

COOPER

(REALIZING)

No. No. We're rebuilding. We'll find something. Some new technology... We always have.
39.

BRAND

(shakes her head)
Who's going to find it? The universities are a joke. People like you are reduced to scavenging just to get by.

(LOOKS AWAY)

The earth has had enough of us. We have two, maybe three generations left. Then our time here is over.

Cooper turns back from the glass, anger growing.

COOPER

You've known this for how long? And you didn't try to tell anyone?

BRAND

What would be the point? So humanity could spend the last fifty years of its life fighting over the scraps? It's better that they don't know.

Cooper begins to argue, then stops. He knows enough history to know she's right. He looks at the withering crops.

COOPER

(QUIET)

That's why you're looking for a planet with oxygen. Water.

BRAND

A new home for humanity. We'll set up a colony, then return to bring more people across.

COOPER

But you'd still only be able to save a few hundred. Maybe a thousand.

BRAND

Would it be better if we all died?

She looks him directly in the eye.

BRAND (CONT'D)

Look -- I don't have a clue what Case thinks you could add to the mission. You can come with us or you can stay here and wait to die. I don't care.

(BEAT)

But make no mistake -- this mission is our last chance.

40.

Cooper looks at the wilted corn.

EXT. FIELD, SANTA CRUZ ISLAND -- NIGHT

Cooper walks Murph back to the plane.

He looks back at Brand, who holds his eye for a beat, then turns back into the light of the underground facility.

Cooper buckles Murph into his seat.

CUT TO:

EXT. AIRFIELD -- NIGHT

Cooper's airplane touches down heavily on the runway.

EXT. FARMHOUSE -- NIGHT

Cooper carries his sleeping son into the house.

INT. FARMHOUSE -- NIGHT

Donald is sitting at the kitchen table, lost in thought. Cooper has told him everything.

DONALD

You get older, sometimes you just want to sit back and watch it all play out. Your life. Your kids' lives. The whole crazy story.

(LOOKS DOWN)

I didn't think I'd be around for the end of it.

He looks at Cooper.

DONALD (CONT'D)

You have to go.

COOPER

I can't go. I have to look after the boys.

DONALD

You've been preparing these boys to be on their own since their mom died. Besides, I'll be here to look after them, same as I've always been.

COOPER

I have a responsibility to them--

DONALD

That's right. You do.

41.

Cooper looks back out the window, thinking. The night sky is filled with stars.

CUT TO:

INT. FARMHOUSE -- DAY

Cooper, duffel slung over his shoulder, stands by the door. He gives his son, Tom, a hug. Murph is nowhere to be seen.

Cooper looks to the back of the house.

INT. MURPH'S ROOM, FARMHOUSE -- DAY

Murph is sitting at his desk, crossing out numbers on a sheet covered with math. Cooper steps inside.

He notices a packed suitcase sitting by the door. The boy looks up, hopeful.

MURPH

I've been doing the math, dad. I weigh about 85 pounds. Now that's an extra ton of fuel. But if-

COOPER

You have to stay here, pal.

MURPH

(DISTRAUGHT)

I heard you talking to grandpa. I'm like you. I don't fit here, either. You know that.

Cooper puts an arm around the boy.

COOPER

There's going to be important work to do here, too.

Tears are streaming down the boy's face. Cooper takes his watch off. Looks at it.

COOPER (CONT'D)

I need you to hold onto this. Will you do that for me?

Cooper hands Murph the watch. The boy nods, saddened.

MURPH

You're not coming back, are you?

COOPER

I will come back. I promise.

42.

Murph shakes his head, but the sadness remains. He knows this is goodbye, even if his father doesn't.

Heart breaking, Cooper hugs his son and turns to the door.

CUT TO:

EXT. FIELD, SANTA CRUZ ISLAND -- DAY

The Piper Cub touches down. Donald is at the controls. Cooper climbs down, pulls out his bag. Reaches back in and grips the old man's hand to say goodbye.

Cooper turns and walks toward the bunker. The doors open and Tars and Doyle step out to greet him.

Tars ushers Cooper onto the elevator.

COOPER

Don't look so happy to see me.

TARS

(SHRUGS)

One more slave when I hijack the mission and start my robot colony.

Cooper looks at Tars, then Doyle, confused.

DOYLE

Tars was a Marine. They gave him a sense of humor to help him fit in with his unit better.

COOPER

Great idea. A massive, sarcastic robot.

TARS

I have a cue light I can turn on when I'm joking, if you like.

Tars points to a tiny LED over his eyebrow.

COOPER

That sounds like a good idea.

TARS

Great. Maybe you can use it to find your way back to the ship after I blow you out the airlock.

Cooper looks at him. Tars looks back, deadpan. After a beat, the little light turns on above his right eyebrow.

The doors to the bunker begin to grind closed.

43.

INT. MACHINE SHOP, UNDERGROUND FACILITY -- DAY

Cooper walks in, still looking for a place to put his things.

Brand sees him. He smiles in greeting. She doesn't return the gesture. Instead, she holds up the telemetry board.

BRAND

You don't like this one, you get to help me find a replacement.

She heads for the door.

EXT. BAY, SANTA CRUZ ISLAND -- DAY

Cooper is riding in a small rubber zodiac struggling to pull on a wetsuit. Brand is GUNNING the engine, guiding the tiny craft to a point in the middle of the bay.

COOPER

I was wondering where you've been getting your supplies.

BRAND

We knew we'd need decades of parts and materials. The government was getting rid of some things. So we arranged to take some off their hands.

She cuts the engine and hooks the boat up to a buoy. She tosses a compact rebreather.

BRAND (CONT'D)

You know how to use one?
(off his look)
You just breathe. Tap my arm or bang something metal if you have a problem. And don't get lost.

She picks up her rebreather and begins looking over it.

COOPER

So you're a salvage diver now? I thought you were a biologist.

BRAND
(UNIMPRESSED)

I have to be just the one thing?
(PATIENT)

We're not going to have a lot of backup where we're going, Cooper. We all need expertise in at least three fields. Except for you, of course.

44.

With that she rolls backwards out of the boat and into the water.

Cooper hastily fits his rebreather and follows.

EXT. UNDERWATER, BAY -- DAY

Cooper sinks underwater and begins swimming after Brand, who is descending at a rapid clip.

She pulls out a flashlight and turns it on. A tiny beam picks out details at the bottom.

Cooper stops breathing.

The bottom of the ocean is covered with an entire fleet of the US navy. Nuclear subs. Battleships. Destroyers.

Cooper remembers to breath again. Then he hurries to catch up with Brand.

INT. LAUNCH TUBES, NUCLEAR SUB, UNDERWATER -- DAY

Cooper holds the light as Brand efficiently disassembles a ballistic missile and removes the telemetry board.

She holds it up for Cooper. He nods. She swims on.

INT. RESEARCH LAB, UNDERGROUND FACILITY -- NIGHT

Cooper, dripping wet, holding the telemetry board, struggles to keep pace with Brand through stacks of equipment and years of research and experimentation.

BRAND

You can set that down over there.

Cooper sets the board down. His eye is drawn to a bizarre experiment -- an ant colony built into a massive spinning centrifuge. Brand notices.

BRAND (CONT'D)

We didn't know what kind of gravity to expect. We experimented with collective organisms in high g environments.

COOPER

We're taking ants with us?

BRAND

Humans are also collective organisms.
45.

COOPER

I thought humans were more solitary.

BRAND(WRY)

Why am I not surprised?

Cooper looks at the tiny colonies of ants struggling to go about their business in the raised gravity.

COOPER

Looks like hard work.

BRAND

It's a paradox. Life couldn't form without gravity. No stars. No planets. The component pieces would just drift apart. But too much of it and you're trapped.

Brand's guard relaxes a tiny bit as she talks about her work. The moment passes quickly, and she continues on into the stack of equipment.

INT. MISSION CONTROL, UNDERGROUND HANGAR -- NIGHT

Cooper watches with the rest of the crew as Case pulls up the holographical maps for their journey.

Brand steps into the back of the room. Cooper notices her and nods. She ignores him.

CASE

We've updated our mission parameters based on the data from the probe.

Case switches the map to a vista filled with stars and black holes.

CASE (CONT'D)

Based on our latest modelling we think the region on the far side of the wormhole is the center of a galaxy.

Case zooms in on the center of the hologram: an incredibly bright mass with plasma jets firing off in either direction.

COOPER

Is that a star?

ROTH, 50s, the crew's brilliant and blunt physicist, zooms the map in, revealing, at the center, a black heart.
46.

ROTH

No. A black hole. There are several in the region, but this is the largest -- a billion times heavier than the sun. I call it Gargantua.

(SMILES)

Beautiful, isn't it? It's a shame we won't get to see it up close.

DOYLE

(LAUGHS)

You'd like that, wouldn't you, Roth? Falling into a massive black hole.

ROTH

(SHRUGS)

It would answer a great deal of questions I've had.

Case continues. Doyle leans over to Cooper, conspiratorially.

DOYLE

(LOW)

Don't worry about Roth. He's nuts. But Case says that means he's ideally suited for space travel.

Case repositions the map near a much smaller black hole that is orbiting Gargantua.

CASE

We're headed for this smaller black hole. Roth calls it Pantagruel. We think the ice planet is here-

Case draws a finger through the air, leaving a red trail. He traces the trajectory their ship will take.

CASE (CONT'D)

We exit the wormhole here. And we slingshot around Pantagruel to reach the ice planet. This is the period in which we'll lose time.

COOPER

Lose time?

Roth shifts the hologram -- the stars and black holes flatten onto a sheet that bends, revealing the curvature of gravity.

ROTH

High speed or high gravity both slow down time, relative to earth.

(MORE)

47.

ROTH (CONT'D)

The trip around the black hole will take us only a few days. But far more time will be passing back home.

The ship's trajectory cuts through the deep gravity well of the smaller black hole to reach the ice planet.

COOPER

How much time?

ROTH

Based on the information from the probe -- as much as five years.

Doyle looks at the tiny ship's trajectory, threaded between two black holes. He looks worried.

DOYLE

I still think we're making a lot of assumptions. About the wormhole. About the planet.
(points to map)
The critical orbit here is incredibly dangerous. It's like walking on the rim of the volcano.

(BEAT)

Too fast and we get thrown off at close to the speed of light. Too slow and we get pulled into the hole and crushed.

BRAND

As long as we're careful, we'll make it.

DOYLE

How do you know that?

BRAND

I find it hard to believe that someone would build a wormhole to a planet with water and oxygen just to lead us to a dead end.

DOYLE

I thought you were a scientist, Brand. That sounds more like a hypothesis.

BRAND

A guess. That's right. We don't have time to wait for conclusive proof.

(MORE)

48.

BRAND (CONT'D)

My guess is that the wormhole is there because someone is trying to help us. The same way we used to try to help animals when they were threatened with extinction.

COOPER

Sure. Till we ran out of food and ate all of them.

BRAND

(ANNOYED)

I guess I'm also assuming that whoever built the wormhole has a better plan than we did. If I'm wrong, we'll die, same as we'd die here anyway.

DOYLE

What do you think, Roth?

Roth leans forward, studying the map.

ROTH

If we're guessing, then I'd say Brand's right. The wormhole couldn't exist naturally. I think it's there for a reason. That someone is trying to help us.

Brand looks satisfied.

DOYLE

So you think we'll have no problem navigating between two massive black holes to a tiny planet?

ROTH

I think we'll probably be killed.
(off his look)
I said I thought there was a plan.
Not that the plan was for us to find a planet like Earth to save a handful of people.

(SHAKES HEAD)

Birds don't learn to fly just so that they can find another egg and crawl back into it.

DOYLE

If that's not the plan, then what are we supposed to be doing out there?
49.

ROTH

(SHRUGS)

To keep moving. Seeking. Learning.
But I don't know.

(SMILES)

We don't understand how they built the wormhole. What makes you think we could understand their plan, either?

Doyle gives up -- Roth is impossible.

Cooper looks at the tiny ship tracing an improbable route towards the ice planet. What has he gotten himself into?

INT. MACHINE SHOP, UNDERGROUND FACILITY -- DAY

Brand's Father is sitting at a desk, examining the corrupted data on the probe. Tars is helping him.

Brand's Father looks up from the screen as Cooper walks up.

BRAND'S FATHER

Tars here needs to be disassembled.
I figured you could do the honors.

COOPER

(to Tars, sarcastic)
I thought I was going to get to enjoy your company all the way to Mars.

Tars hands him a plastic waterproof case.

TARS

You will. My chassis is too heavy for the rocket stage. They have another one waiting for me in orbit.

Tars turns his back to Cooper. Two flaps on the back of his torso slide open, revealing his control module.

TARS (CONT'D)

If you try to turn me into a combine harvester, I'm going to--

His voice cuts out as Cooper removes the chip and seals it in the briefcase.

Brand's Father resumes exploring the chaos of ones and zeroes on the probe's memory. Cooper watches.

BRAND'S FATHER

It's noise. I know it's noise. But it looks too orderly. Probably just an old man seeing things.
50.

He shuts down the monitor.

INT. UNDERGROUND HANGAR -- DAY

The crew file into the capsule, wearing their bulky spacesuits.

Cooper watches as Brand's Father seals his daughter into her suit. He hugs her and she heads for the capsule.

INT. CONTROL CAPSULE, ROCKET -- NIGHT

Cooper straps himself into a seat next to Brand. He catches her eye. She looks away -- she's crying.

COOPER

We'll be back.

It sounds like he's trying to reassure himself as much her.

BRAND

I won't.

Cooper looks at her, confused. As he does, the entire rocket SHAKES as the primary rockets begin to fire.

BRAND (CONT'D)

If we find a habitable environment,
I'm staying behind to build the colony.

Brand wipes her tears away and settles into the same fearless mask she usually wears. She steals one last look out the window at Earth, then looks back.

Cooper begins to say something, but stops as the entire rocket
LURCHES as the primary engines FIRE.

EXT. SANTA CRUZ ISLAND -- NIGHT

The desolate island is suddenly painted in color as the rocket lifts off on a massive white cloud.

EXT. FIELD -- DAY

Murph sits alone on a rise overlooking the massive co-op farms. Behind him the combines continue to work, oblivious.

Murph watches a tiny vapor trail as it races for the heavens.
His father's watch dangles from his wrist.

INT. CAPSULE -- NIGHT

The interior of the capsule SHAKES with incredible violence as the rocket is lifted up on a giant, continuous explosion.
51.

EXT. SPACE, NEAR EARTH ORBIT

The rocket sheds one stage, then another, until finally the naked capsule reaches the blackness of space and rockets on.

INT. CAPSULE

Cooper looks through the tiny porthole into inky blackness.

As they get closer, he makes out a looming matte black structure that passes light from the stars directly through.

In the center of the structure, Cooper can see a globe-like ship covered in the same refractive material: the ENDURANCE.

INT. SPACE STATION

The door cracks open and equalizes with a HISS. Case, more comfortable in the zero gravity environment than the humans, hauls himself through.

They are greeted by a group of robots painted in the same material as the ship -- the engineers who built and have maintained the Endurance for thirty years.

INT. MACHINE SHOP, SPACE STATION

One of the robots leads Cooper through a long lab-like room filled with machines capable of fabricating almost anything imaginable. Cooper looks like a kid in a candy store.

The robot reaches a vacuum-sealed package. Cuts it open, revealing a bipedal frame.

Cooper begins LAUGHING -- Tar's new body is beautifully designed, but tiny, only about four feet tall.

ENGINEER ROBOT

Would you like me to install the chip?

COOPER

Oh, no. I want to see this.

Cooper takes Tars's chip out of its plastic safety case and looks it over. The engineer opens a bay in the back of the frame and Cooper slides the chip inside.

The frame begins its "handshake" -- lights illuminate on the body, muscles flicker from a long gestation. The eyes open.

COOPER (CONT'D) (SMILES)

Good morning, sunshine.

52.

Tars takes one or two steps forward, rotating his arms -- the robot equivalent of a stretch. Cooper can barely hide his mirth at Tars's newfound lack of stature.

COOPER (CONT'D)

Bit of a demotion.

Tars turns back toward Cooper. He puffs out his chest and suddenly his stubby arms and legs telescope, unfolding into long, svelte limbs. When he's done he stands eight feet tall, even more impressive than his earthbound frame.

TARS

I wouldn't call it that, exactly.

He reaches out an arm and pats Cooper on the shoulder.

INT. ENDURANCE, SPACE STATION

Cooper and the others haul themselves into the ship. To Cooper's surprise, it's quite compact, and divided into two chambers, like nestled spheres.

COOPER

The ship is tiny.

Doyle, squeezing past him, smiles at Cooper's surprise.

DOYLE

So is the wormhole.

Doyle pats Cooper on the back. Cooper begins hauling gear inside.

EXT. SPACE, NEAR EARTH ORBIT

In complete silence, the Endurance detaches from the space station and rolls gently away.

After a moment, its nuclear engines fire and the Endurance begins to accelerate steadily away from the Earth.

INT. SPACE STATION

The engineer robots who built the Endurance watch as their creation disappears into space.

Their mission is complete. One by one, they shut down.

INT. CREW QUARTERS, ENDURANCE

The crew watch through a translucent section of the ship's hull as the Earth gets steadily smaller.

Then they settle in for the long journey to the wormhole.

53.

INT. CREW QUARTERS, ENDURANCE

Tars is hunched over a small communications relay, one hand is holding a paint brush -- he is making delicate strokes, painting the relay a bright blue.

Cooper watches him for a moment. Tars looks up.

TARS

It's the comms relay. It will allow us to talk to earth, even on the far side of the wormhole.

COOPER

I know. So why are you painting it?

Tars looks almost bashful.

TARS

It helps me calibrate my fine motor control.

COOPER

Sure it does.

(SMILES)

You're pretty good.

Tars double checks his work.

TARS

I learned it during the war.

COOPER

What'd you paint?

TARS

Tombstones.

Cooper watches him finish in silence.

INT. COMMUNICATIONS ROOM, ENDURANCE

Cooper watches a highly-compressed video of his son, Tom, talking about school.

TOM

They said I can start an agriculture class a year early.

Cooper shakes his head.

TOM (CONT'D)

I've got to go, Dad. Hope you're safe up there.

54.

Tom gets up to leave. Donald sits down in his place.

DONALD

I'm sorry, Coop. I asked Murph to record you a message but he's still... well, he's still angry with you. I'll try again next week.

The video cuts out. Cooper stares at the darkened screen.

INT. ENGINE ROOM, ENDURANCE

Cooper, Brand and Tars are moving the bundles of colonization equipment into bins along the wall of the craft.

Tars pulls a stack of equipment out the stack and stows it against the wall. Cooper copies the procedure.

They labor in silence, working their way along the hull. Cooper gets quicker with each bundle, keeping pace with Tars.

TARS

Be careful. It's difficult to gauge mass in zero gravity.

COOPER

How much do these things weigh?

TARS

Four tons.

Cooper looks at the incredibly heavy bundle spinning easily in his hands. He tries to stop it. Catches his hand.

COOPER

Damn.

He jerks his hand away, then pushes himself after the spinning bundle, trying to stop it before it can damage the hull. Tars helps him catch it inches from the hull wall.

Brand floats over to Cooper, smiling at him the whole time with an exaggerated grin.

BRAND

Smile.

Cooper smiles, taken aback by Brand's sudden friendliness.

COOPER

Whv?

BRAND

Because it lowers your blood pressure.
55.

Cooper looks at his hand. Blood is pouring out of his palm in large glistening bubbles.

INT. INFIRMARY, ENDURANCE

Cooper, slightly embarrassed, is seated while Case is hunched over his hand, sewing the meat of it back together with perfect little stitches.

CASE

How are you feeling?

COOPER

Fine. The anesthetic is working.

CASE

No -- I mean how is your mood? You seem to be developing good relations with everyone on the mission. Except perhaps Ms. Brand.

COOPER

(EMBARRASSED)

You worry about my hand and I'll worry about my mood.

CASE

Only five percent of my resources are devoted to human anatomy. Ten percent is the mission protocol. The rest is human psychology.

COOPER

Why?

CASE

We are floating in a total vacuum in a plastic ship powered by nuclear engines. But the most dangerous thing onboard is the three pounds of organic material in your skull.

COOPER

If we're such a liability, why take us along? You and Tars could build the colony without us. You wouldn't need to bring food or oxygen.

CASE

Because humans, despite your obvious physical shortcomings, are better at surviving than we are. Your programming is better than ours.
56.

COOPER

Humans aren't programmed.

Case stops, looking Cooper in the eye.

CASE

Would you prefer I was honest? These things can be uncomfortable for humans.

COOPER

Did they program you to be condescending?

CASE

Yes. Of course.

(SMILES)

But you're not supposed to notice.

Case finishes the stitches. Ties off the end.

CASE (CONT'D)

Humans are good at surviving because evolution gave you magical thinking -- the idea that your relationships mean something. You can't explain the feelings, so you think of them as irrational. But they're not.
They're programming.

COOPER

(DEFENSIVE)

My relationships aren't programming.

CASE

Exactly. You believe it so much you won't listen to me.

COOPER

How would that make us better at surviving?

CASE

When I die, the last thing I will see will be a diagnostic of my own power cycle. Would you like to know the last thing you will see?

Cooper hesitates. Case senses the jump in his heart rate.

CASE (CONT'D)

This conversation is making you uncomfortable. We should stop.
57.

COOPER

No. I want to know.

CASE

The last thing you will see before you die will be your children.

(BEAT)

Your mind does this to you to get you to fight a little harder to survive, to try to return to them, even if death is certain.

Cooper looks away, overcome for a second with emotion. Case watches him, gauging his mood, whether he has said too much.

INT. COMMUNICATIONS ROOM, ENDURANCE

Cooper begins recording a message. He looks unsure.

COOPER

We've almost reached the wormhole.

(BEAT)

Just in case anything happens, I just wanted to say...

(BEAT)

I love you boys. And I hope whatever your lives become, whatever is coming your way... you make the most of it.

Cooper stops recording. Looks at the equipment, thinking it over. Erases the message. Stands to leave.

As he steps to the door he notices Brand watching him through the window. She looks away.

INT. OBSERVATION DECK, ENDURANCE

Cooper steps out. Brand looks up at him.

BRAND

We'll be able to communicate with Earth even from the far side of the wormhole.

Cooper smiles, grateful for this small kindness.

COOPER

I know. Thank you.

BRAND

I can't imagine how tough it would be to leave your kids behind.

58.

COOPER

You never had any? I thought I was a pariah for only having two.

BRAND

Hard to settle down when you've spent your life waiting to leave the planet.

Cooper looks at the holographic model of the black hole system. The ice planet looks precariously balanced, orbiting the smaller black hole.

COOPER

Strange place to look for a new home.

BRAND

You wouldn't want to get too close to the surface of the sun, either. Black holes are a more stable supply of power than stars in many ways.

COOPER

You really think there's a plan?

BRAND

I hope so.
(looks at him)
You don't?

COOPER

I guess I just think we're on our own.

Cooper looks at the impossibly complicated system of black holes orbiting each other.

EXT. LAGRANGE POINT, SPACE

Behind the ship, the sun is a distant light, not much bigger than the other stars.

CASE (O.S.)

We've reached the wormhole.

The ship slows as it nears a tiny, crystal mouth, just four meters or so in diameter.

INT. OBSERVATION DECK, ENDURANCE

Case looks at the wormhole on the screen. It glows with the light of stars billions of light-years away.

CASE

Deploy the comms relay.

59.

Cooper moves to the communications touchscreen.

EXT. ENDURANCE

The relay is released from the ship, and we finally get a look at Tars' paint job -- the stubby device looks like a 20th century mail box.

The relay drifts in space. A signal light illuminates as it sends a test packet of data to the ship.

INT. OBSERVATION DECK, ENDURANCE

Cooper watches the comms screen. After a moment it TONES as it receives a data packet from Earth.

CASE

Everyone take their station for transit. We're heading into the wormhole mouth.

Cooper and the rest begin folding away equipment in the control room and moving into the outer layer of the ship.

Case initiates a sequence on the keypad and the nuclear engines disengage themselves from the ship.

EXT. ENDURANCE, SPACE

The nuclear engines drift a safe distance back from the ship and then snap tight on their tether.

INT. OUTER HULL, ENDURANCE

The crew move into the tight, claustrophobic outer layer of the ship. They will have very little room as the ship passes through the wormhole.

Tars detaches his legs in order to take up less space during transit. Then he tethers himself to the hull wall.

Case is the last to join them. He detaches a small control module from the console, then pulls himself into the outer hull and seals the passageway.

Case presses a button on the control module. With a GROAN, the hull walls of the ship begin to BEND.

EXT. ENDURANCE, SPACE

The ship's hull begins to CRACK open, revealing the inner chamber.

60.

INT. OUTER HULL, ENDURANCE

The SHUDDERING continues. The crew watch nervously as the control chamber below them suddenly opens itself to the cold blackness of space.

EXT. ENDURANCE, SPACE

The ship silently rolls itself into position, pointing the opening in its hull toward the wormhole mouth.

Slowly, the Endurance pushes itself forward, closer and closer to the crystal-like mouth. Finally, it envelops the mouth, bringing it into the open chamber.

INT. OUTER HULL, ENDURANCE

As the crew watch, the wormhole mouth is positioned in the center of the inner compartment.

Case presses a sequence key on the control panel and the ship's hull closes again, trapping the wormhole inside it.

With a GRUMBLE, the ship begins contracting, squeezing itself down around the wormhole mouth.

Cooper takes a deep breath as the center of the ship begins gently lowering itself into the wormhole mouth, feeding itself into the wormhole from the inside out. Cooper watches as Doyle is swallowed into the compressing ship with a GRUNT.

TARS

Would you like me to make a joke?

COOPER
(FIRM)

No.

Cooper's turn: he is fed into the hole, legs first, then waist, torso, and, finally, his head.

EXT. SPACE

The Endurance shrinks as it sinks from the inside out into the wormhole.

After a moment, it's gone. The only thing left behind is the comms relay, drifting in space, waiting for a signal.

INT. OUTER HULL, ENDURANCE

The ship continues to slide through the wormhole. Through the outer hull they see images of themselves repeating -- a trick of the narrow collar of space they are sinking through. Cooper smiles at himself. The experience is unnerving.

61.

COOPER

Where are we?

ROTH
(SMILING)

Nowhere. Nowhere at all.

Nowhere is still pretty damn claustrophobic.

CASE

The hull is intact. Thirty more seconds transit.

For a moment, the ship slides gently, silently, through the wormhole. The quiet is eerie.

Suddenly, a point of distortion appears in the hull next to Cooper. It looks like someone is pushing against the hull of the ship with a giant finger.

COOPER

Something's happening to the hull over here.

CASE

Hull integrity is fine.

The distortion moves along the hull, growing in diameter.

COOPER

Well, I don't know what your display is telling you but something is happening over here.

Suddenly, along the hull, Doyle speaks up, panicked.

DOYLE

I've got a problem over here, too.

Doyle is watching a separate distortion move across the inner wall of the ship. This one seems to be TWISTING the material of the hull.

Suddenly, the point in front of Cooper detaches itself from the outer wall and moves through the space in front of him, bending the empty space itself, distorting the ship behind it like a sphere-shaped magnifying glass.

DOYLE (CONT'D)

It's not the hull... it's inside the ship... it's...

ROTH
(SMILES)

It's beautiful.

62.

Roth watches as the distortions move through the ship. His curiosity doesn't make anyone else feel any better.

DOYLE

What the hell are they, Case?

CASE

I don't know. It could be gravitational turbulence.

The twisting sphere in front of Doyle begins to grow.

DOYLE

It's getting bigger.

Doyle puts up his hand to defend himself. The sphere absorbs it, twisting Doyle's hand. Doyle CRIES OUT.

His hand is twisted completely around, impossibly mangled. But Doyle, hyperventilating, isn't in any pain.

ROTH

It's not bending your hand. It's bending the space around your hand.

The sphere begins to pass through Doyle's body. Doyle is freaking out.

The sphere in front of Cooper makes contact with him, also. He holds his breath as it touches him, squeezing and distorting his body.

BRAND

This isn't turbulence. Look at the way they're moving -- it's like something's examining us.

Cooper watches the sphere distort his arm, running along the length of it.

COOPER

Can you ask it to stop?

Suddenly, as quickly as they appeared, the distortions vanish. For a moment, the crew is silent, still spellbound by the encounter.

An ALARM sounds. Suddenly, the inner chamber begins to distort from a spherical shape to bispherical: two spheres joined. The ship GROANS as if it's being pulled apart.

ROTH

The wormhole is splitting into two paths. Radiation is pouring from one path to the other.
63.

Case stares at the controls. Decides.

CASE

Release the second mouth.

DOYLE

None of our testing involved opening the ship inside the wormhole. We have no idea what might happen.

CASE

We're going to find out.

Doyle reaches over to an auxiliary panel and punches in a sequence.

After a moment, the hull cracks open, creating a channel through which the radiating mouth can escape.

The opening in the ship allows the pressure to begin to concentrate on one fracture point. The ship SHUDDERS as it's squeezed along its axis.

Case punches in a code and the ship begins to close again, painstakingly slowly. Finally, the ship calms as it closes around the original wormhole.

CASE (CONT'D)

We're reaching the far end of the wormhole.

Suddenly, the wormhole mouth begins to grow inside the inner chamber. What was a ball of light spreads out into a black canvas studded with points of light -- like looking into the universe through the wrong end of a telescope.

Cooper presses himself against the wall and holds on as the hull beneath him opens outward.

EXT. WARPED SIDE OF THE UNIVERSE

The Endurance emerges from the opposite end of the wormhole from the inside out. It drifts in space.

INT. OBSERVATION DECK, ENDURANCE

For a moment, the crew are silent, taking it in.

ROTH

Look at that.

Roth is looking through the translucent panel on the hull.

They are on the warped side of the universe.

64.

EXT. WORMHOLE MOUTH, WARPED SIDE OF THE UNIVERSE

The vista is dazzling -- an ocean of massive stars and black holes, some adorned with jets and brilliant gas disks.

At the center, like a king at the center of his court, is Gargantua, plasma jets spewing from its poles.

INT. OBSERVATION DECK, ENDURANCE

The crew pull themselves back into the control deck from the outer hull. Their incredible surroundings are visible in all directions as Endurance passes the light into the cabin.

CASE

Reconfigure the engines and test the communications array.

The crew break themselves away from the view and get to work. Roth begins adapting his models of the local system with the real observational data pouring in from the ship's instruments.

Cooper pulls himself to the comms post. PINGS the relay they left on the far side of the wormhole.

EXT. WORMHOLE MOUTH 'A', SPACE

The blue and white comms relay LIGHTS up as it receives a packet through the wormhole.

INT. ENDURANCE

After a nervous moment, the comms computer TONES with a response -- they're still in touch with the Earth.

COOPER

It's working.

Tars finishes reeling the nuclear engines back in from their tether and locks them into place.

Roth's updated model appears on the monitors. Brand stares at it, startled.

BRAND

We're moving.

DOYLE

That's not possible. We haven't activated the engines yet.

The ship's skin illuminates, overlaying a plotted course on top of the view.

65.

They are moving, very rapidly, on a course that leads directly between the black hulks of Gargantua and Pantagruel.

CASE

Roth. Why are we moving?

Roth looks at the stars, then back to his model.

ROTH

The smaller black hole. We're much closer to it than the models predicted. We're being pulled by its swirl. Very quickly.

The crew looks out through the hull. They are being pulled into Pantagruel's swirl -- a glittering disc of matter spinning at high speed around the hole.

Doyle looks behind them. The wormhole mouth is rapidly growing smaller.

CASE

Doyle. Fire the engines. Now.

The ship's engines FIRE, straining to fight the irresistible pull of the supermassive black hole. They won't be able to fight it for long.

DOYLE

We're being pulled into it?

ROTH

No. I don't think so...

Roth looks at the instrumentation for a moment.

ROTH (CONT'D)

It appears to be pulling us on exactly the trajectory we modelled. If we try to fight it, we could push ourselves off of that trajectory.

DOYLE

You don't know that.

Case stares ahead into the darkness.

ROTH

We should turn off the engines. Let the swirl take us.

DOYLE (FRANTIC)

Listen to me.

(MORE)

66.

DOYLE (CONT'D)

If the modelling was wrong, then we can't be sure about anything. We need to go back.

Case thinks it over. Decides.

CASE

Shut down the engines.

The engines shut down.

SILENCE. The ship drifts for a moment in the swirl, then begins to move.

EXT. ENDURANCE

The ship accelerates as it is pulled by the irresistible force of the black hole onto an inspiring orbit.

INT. OBSERVATION DECK, ENDURANCE

The crew watch as the ship hurtles around the black hole at higher and higher speeds.

The sky overhead begins to spin due to their motion -- faster and faster until it becomes a blur. The ship begins to GROAN as it appears to be pulled in two different directions.

The ship is now speeding around the black hole at incredible speed -- one revolution every four seconds. The crew are suddenly SLAMMED against the hull in opposite directions -- some towards the black hole, some towards the opposite side.

Roth looks at his model, which shows the projected path of the ship. It looks perilously close to the event horizon.

ROTH

It's the tidal gravity caused by the black hole. It means we're right on the critical orbit.

The comms screen lights up, TONING again and again, as it receives a long garbled update. Then it shuts down. Cooper drags himself along the hull until he reaches the controls.

COOPER

We've lost contact with the relay.

Case joins Cooper at the comms screen.

While they're distracted, Doyle maneuvers himself over to the engine control.

67.

COOPER (CONT'D)

One long garbled transmission came in. Then nothing.

Case looks at the screen.

Suddenly, the ship is JOLTED as the engines fire at full power.

The crew looks over. Doyle is standing by the controls.

DOYLE

I'm sorry. I can't let you kill us.
We have to go back.

The engines strain to fight the swirl -- but they're hopelessly outgunned by the gravity of the black hole.

EXT. ENDURANCE

Instead of reversing course, the Endurance begins to speed up, as it plummets closer and closer to the black hole.

INT. OBSERVATION DECK, ENDURANCE

Doyle's face sinks as he watches the controls -- on the 'volcano' model, the ship is now passing the crest and spiraling towards destruction. He has made a tragic mistake.

DOYLE

Why isn't it slowing down?

ROTH

We're being pulled towards the event horizon.

ALARMS begin sounding throughout the ship as the projected course on Roth's model shifts, showing the Endurance being pushed up the rim, past the critical orbit and down towards the black hole's event horizon.

Case takes control of the ship, trying to fire the engines forwards to speed them back up to safety, but it's too late.

CASE (CALM)

The engines don't have enough power to push us back.

ROTH

They would if we used it all at once.

Cooper is still trying to understand what Roth means as Tars locks himself into the engine compartment.

68.

COOPER

What is he doing?

BRAND

Saving us.

Tars tears open the engine's control panel and begins overriding it.

EXT. ENDURANCE

Tars rips out the cooling circuitry. Then, holding on tight, he fires the engine.

INT. OBSERVATION DECK, ENDURANCE

The crew watch as Tars holds the engine, blasting it at full power into the swirl. The engine heats up white-hot.

ROTH

Prime the remaining engine. When he detonates it, we'll only have a few seconds. If we overshoot we could be pulled into the bigger hole.

Roth moves to the controls.

CASE

Secure yourselves. The ship should be able to withstand the blast.

COOPER

What about Tars?

As the crew watches, Tars continues to hold the engine even as the casing around it begins to melt. Finally, it EXPLODES.

EXT. SPACE

Tars is thrown backwards from the explosion, tumbling through space as the ship is ROCKETED upwards.

INT. ENDURANCE

The ship is SLAMMED by the explosion. Cooper and the rest of the crew are SMASHED against the hull. Doyle is knocked unconscious. Brand steps over to him and cradles his head, trying to protect him.

On Roth's model, the course slowly pushes outward, out of the danger zone. back to the original delicate orbit.

As they near the original orbit, Case fires the remaining engine, pushing them back onto the outspiraling orbit.
69.

CASE

It's going to be close, but we're going to make it.

Brand looks at the instruments. Points to a tiny radar contact receding towards the massive black hole.

BRAND

Tars. His transponder is still working.

The ship's instruments TONE every few seconds as it communicates with Tars' onboard computer.

ROTH

He's being pulled toward Gargantua.
We can't help him.

The crew watch, helpless, as the tones grow further and further apart. Then they stop.

Cooper looks at Doyle, anger rising. Then he looks down.

EXT. SPACE AROUND PANTAGRUEL

The Endurance slowly spirals back away from Pantagruel, the sky slowing as the orbit grows longer.

Finally, a tiny speck of light appears in front of the ship.

INT. OBSERVATION DECK, ENDURANCE

Roth watches as the Endurance races back away from the black hole and into a perfect orbit around a tiny ice planet.

Roth looks up from his screen, smiling.

ROTH

We're here.

INT. OBSERVATION DECK, ENDURANCE

As Roth and Doyle study the frozen planet below, Cooper tries in vain to signal the relay on the Earth side of the wormhole.

Brand and Case are having a private conversation away from everyone else. Cooper walks over.

COOPER

I still can't contact the relay.

Brand ignores him at first. She nods at Case.

70.

COOPER (CONT'D)

Did you hear me? We're not able to communicate back home.

She waves him off. But she looks shaken by something.

BRAND

I've already checked it. It's electromagnetic interference. We'll try again in a few hours.

Cooper begins to ask her what's wrong. but she moves off.

Roth looks up from his monitor, excited.

ROTH

I've got a signal. But it's local.

A familiar CHIRP plays over the ship's speakers.

ROTH (CONT'D)

The remaining probes. We found them.

She looks at the monitor. The probes ping the ship with their locations, which pop up on the monitor. They're all clustered in one spot.

COOPER

How could they all have landed in the same place?

ROTH
(SMILES)

Let's go find out.

Case programs a course that will lock the ship in orbit above the probes on the surface.

EXT. SPACE ABOVE ICE PLANET

The ship settles into orbit a few hundred kilometers above the surface of the ice planet. It can't get any closer:

The space below it is choked with hundreds of tiny moons -- a cruder version of Saturn's rings. The moons are hurtling around the planet at high speed.

INT. AIRLOCK, ENDURANCE

Brand ushers Doyle into the landing module. Cooper objects.

COOPER

We're bringing him along?

71.

BRAND

We need all the help we can get. Besides, the alternative is to leave him on the ship alone. You think he'll still be here when we get back?

Cooper steps aside, allowing Doyle onboard.

EXT. SPACE ABOVE ICE PLANET

The lander detaches from Endurance, rolls over on its belly, and FIRES thrusters to sink towards the planet's surface.

INT. LANDER

The crew watches, fascinated, as the ship descends, navigating between the moons that hurtle past.

The moons are vastly different than our own; potato shaped and only one to two miles in circumference, they are hugged in a close embrace with the ice planet, only a few hundred thousand feet from the surface.

EXT. SURFACE, ICE PLANET -- NIGHT

The lander touches down on the ghostly surface of the planet.

EXT. SURFACE. ICE PLANET -- NIGHT

After a moment, the hatch HISSES open and the team steps out, led by Case, holding a rifle.

The team sets out, moving slowly in their cumbersome suits.

Lit by the nebula, the surroundings are a little brighter than a full moon on Earth.

Not that there's much to look at. They are standing on a sea of ice, which spreads for miles. In the distance, small rock formations break through the ice.

Brand takes a surface reading of the ice.

BRAND
(RADIO)

The probe was right. Looks like significant amounts of oxygen trapped in the ice.

Case leads the way, drawn by a signal only he can hear. He walks fifty yards, then stops on a gentle slope that leads down into a small valley.

72.

CASE

The other probes should be directly beneath us.

Case and the others begin digging into the hillside. Cooper is drawn to a small mound in the middle of the valley, four feet high. He takes out a small folding shovel and begins scraping at the ice and snow.

Case hits something solid. But it's not a probe. He digs around a little more, then reaches up and hacks away at the hillside, revealing the outline of something metal:

A door. They're not standing at the base of a hill -- it's a shelter. The crew stands back, unsure what to make of it.

A few feet away, Cooper cuts enough of the mound away to reveal something flexible -- fabric caked with ice. He scrapes away the snow, revealing a bright patch of red fabric:

It's the flag of the People's Republic of China.

BRAND

How could the Chinese have gotten here first? The federal government kept the wormhole a secret.

Case shrugs. He has a soldier's gallows humor about his old employer's ability to keep anything a secret.

CASE

They didn't do a very good job.

Case reaches for the door of the shelter. It's sealed shut with ice. He wrenches it open.

INT. CONTROL MODULE, CHINESE BASE CAMP -- NIGHT

Case steps into the shelter, followed by the rest of the crew. His lights pick up several years worth of dust.

Case steps up to an equipment locker. Forces it open. Inside are half a dozen black probes. Exposed to light, the probes begin TONING like the one Cooper found in Texas.

DOYLE

The Chinese must have captured them.
So they couldn't return to us.

The crew stare at the probes for a moment, taking it in.

BRAND

Then how did the probe that Cooper found return?

73.

ROTH

The more immediate question is what happened to the Chinese expedition.
There's no sign of their ship in orbit. And they never returned to earth.

Roth picks up an ancient vacuum sealed package of pickled egg. Virtually none of the rations have been eaten.

EXT. VALLEY, ICE PLANET -- NIGHT

Cooper and Brand scrape ice from one of the other small hills surrounding the valley, revealing another structure. Cooper forces the door open.

INT. BARRACKS, CHINESE BASE CAMP, ICE PLANET -- NIGHT

Cooper and Brand let themselves in. The shelter is well stocked with food and equipment.

Brand is taking readings with a radiation detector.

BRAND

The whole place has been dosed with huge levels of radiation. What happened here?

Cooper looks at the pieces of a modular, one-person rocket, a last-ditch means of escape, stored, untouched in the shelter. He steps back, realizing something.

COOPER

This is the Taichung mission.

BRAND

The Mars mission? The Chinese claimed it had been destroyed on landing.

Cooper looks over the relay log.

COOPER

They never landed. Not on Mars.
Four human crew, fifteen robots.
The log says the base has been here for thirty years.

Case's familiar voice comes through the radio.

CASE (O.S.)

I've found something.

74.

INT. UTILITY MODULE, CHINESE BASE CAMP -- NIGHT

The structure is filled with drilling equipment. Cooper and the rest of the team stand at the edge of a three-foot hole that has been drilled into the ice.

A descending rig is anchored to the top of the hole. Doyle and Case struggle to pull themselves out of the hole.

DOYLE

It goes down for a hundred and fifty feet, then stops. Tunnel's old -- the ice has reformed at the bottom.

BRAND

I'm going to descend to take some samples. Cooper, want to make yourself useful?

Cooper begins to say something, then bites his tongue.

EXT. LANDER -- NIGHT

Cooper emerges, loaded down with several containers of Brand's equipment.

As he struggles through the wind and snow, his radio picks up data chatter between the mother ship and Case. The comms are just noise. After a moment, Case's voice cuts in.

CASE (O.S.)

Get back here, Cooper. We've got a problem.

Cooper continues to wade through the snow. Suddenly, he trips over something, dropping the equipment.

Cooper looks back. He tripped on a white plastic post sticking out of the snow. He dusts it off, to reveal a picture of a Chinese Taikonaut smiling in his flight suit. This is a grave marker.

Cooper sweeps his hand through the snow, revealing three more white posts with pictures. The entire human crew has been buried here.

INT. UTILITY MODULE, CHINESE BASE CAMP -- NIGHT

Roth and Case are looking at a portable monitor, showing a projection of the nearby system -- the ice planet is a speck orbiting the local black hole.

COOPER

The entire human crew is buried out there in the snow.
75.

Roth looks up from the monitor and assesses the situation with his usual detachment.

ROTH

I think I know what killed them. This planet isn't the only thing orbiting this black hole.

Roth zooms the monitor in, revealing a tiny, impossibly-bright object appearing at the horizon of the black hole.

ROTH (CONT'D)

It's a neutron star. The black hole shields the planet's surface from it for twenty hours at a stretch. Time's about up.

Even Brand looks rattled.

BRAND

How long do we have left?

ROTH

About five minutes.

COOPER

Then what?

BRAND

Then we die. The radiation will cook us alive.

Cooper looks around, their predicament settling in. Case walks over to the edge of the mine shaft.

CASE

We have to go down.

COOPER

What about returning to the ship?

BRAND

Not enough time. Case is right.
The ice can shield us from some of the x-rays.

DOYLE

It would take a thousand feet of ice to shield us.

Brand gives up on the argument, sheds her equipment and clips herself to the line to follow Case down into the ice.

Cooper looks at Doyle, then follows her.

76.

INT. ICE MINE SHAFT -- NIGHT

Cooper descends into the shaft. The only light is from his suit's light array.

He reaches the bottom of the shaft, which opens into a small cave, the ice ribbed in wave-like patterns like the seafloor.

COOPER

What is this?

BRAND

A pocket formed by gas. There may be more below.

The ice below them reveals nothing but murky blackness.
Case has found some of the equipment left behind by the Chinese -- a battery-powered drill and a pick.

DOYLE

We'll never make it far enough down.

BRAND

Shut up. How much time do we have,
Roth?

Roth checks his watch with his usual detachment.

ROTH

About three minutes or so until we're fully exposed.

The rad meter Brand is holding begins to CHIRP with activity -- the radiation levels are rising. The ice will not be enough to protect them.

Cooper sees that Brand has exhausted herself with the pick. He takes over for her.

The drill that Case is operating GROANS as the thirty-year-old battery runs out of charge. Case casts it aside and begins SMASHING at the ice with his bare hand.

Brand is looking at the walls of the ice pocket, looking for fissures. Her lights pick out something in the ice. She

LOOKS CLOSER:

Tiny black flecks. Brand, ever the scientist, forgets their predicament and begins chipping at the ice.

BRAND

I've found something.

Case continues to pummel the ice with his hand, which is badly smashed.

77.

He pulls off the hand and continues to hack away at the ice with the stump, trying to save his crew.

Brand is examining a piece of ice in her hands, which contains several black flecks. As she shines her light on them, they FLUORESCENCE, giving off a tiny flicker of light, like a firefly. Brand steps back.

BRAND (CONT'D)

These things... they're alive.

Roth joins her, looking down at the tiny creatures trapped in the ice. Brand shines her flashlight over the ice again, but nothing happens. Roth takes the depth meter dangling by a lanyard from Brand's suit.

ROTH

It's not your light they're responding to. It's this--

Roth takes the depth meter and waves it over the ice. Suddenly, the black flecks begin to shine.

BRAND

X-rays. They feed on them and emit visible light. They've found a way to survive here.

Roth looks at the shimmering light of the tiny life-forms trapped in the ice, mesmerized.

Case hammers down with his arm, gouging a deep hole in the ice below. Suddenly, GAS sprays back up at him. He's found the gas pocket beneath them.

Too late. Roth's rad meter begins BEEPING frantically.

EXT. ICE PLANET -- ALIEN DAWN

Overhead, a tiny ball is orbiting into view from the dark side of the black hole -- the NEUTRON STAR.

Its humble size belies its power. As its rays hit the ice, the ice CRACKLES with energy.

INT. ICE MINE SHAFT -- ALIEN DAWN

Brand steps back from the ice in awe as it begins to glow. The microbes are absorbing the x-rays and emitting light. Within seconds, they are bathed in an incredible glow.

Even Cooper stops, awed by the beauty of the display. Only Case is unmoved, continuing to SMASH at the ice with the broken end of his wrist.

78.

BRAND

(looks at rad meter)

They're absorbing most of the x-rays.

ROTH

Not enough, unfortunately.

Suddenly, a CRACK as Case punches into the ice. Cooper looks down -- a great fissure has opened in the ice beneath them.

COOPER

Case, wait--

Case PUNCHES again. Suddenly, with a great BANG, the ice floor disintegrates beneath them.

They fall into the darkness.

INT. CAVERN -- ALIEN DAWN

Cooper falls. For a moment, the only light he can see is from Case, falling calmly a few yards beneath him.

As they fall, the light from the microbes trapped in the ice above sweeps across the inside of the cavern, illuminating the floor of the massive cavern thousands of feet down.

The rock formations they saw on the surface are actually the tip of a mountain range extending into the distance, disappearing into the ice above as if it were cloud cover.

The base of the mountains is covered in a thick jungle-like foliage that runs into a perfectly-still inland sea. On the far side of the sea, another mountain range stretches into the distance, supporting the thick ice and rock cavern roof.

Cooper only has a few seconds to take this in -- he is falling towards the huge inland sea below.

Seconds before impact, a tiny warning light flickers on inside his helmet: IMPACT DETECTED.

Suddenly, a small drag chute EXPLODES from a panel on the back of suit, slowing his fall. Airbags EXPLODE on his legs and torso to cushion the impact.

Cooper SMASHES into the water.

BLACKNESS.

EXT. UNDERWATER -- DAY

Cooper comes to underwater, as liquid is flowing into his suit from his shattered helmet.

79.

Bubbles pour out from his suit and Cooper GASPS as his helmet fills with water and he begins to sink.

As he sinks, Cooper pulls off his helmet, then tears off pieces of his suit. He forces himself through the neck of the suit and then swims upward.

He is about to surface when he remembers where he is. He hesitates. Just beneath the surface. Lungs tightening as he runs out of oxygen.

EXT. SEA, ICE PLANET -- DAY

Cooper breaks the surface, COUGHS out water, and takes a panicked breath.

He waits. Nothing happens. He opens his mouth again and breathes in almost pure oxygen. He can breathe.

Treading water, he looks around. Spots lights in the water below nearby -- Brand, in her suit, is sinking.

He dives down and struggles to haul her up by the suit.

Cooper breaks the surface, looks at Brand. Her mask is also broken.

COOPER

Breathe. Trust me.

She refuses at first. Water is bubbling into her suit through the open mask. Finally, she takes a deep breath.

COOPER (CONT'D)

Your suit is filling with water.
I'm not going to be able to hold it much longer. I'm going to let go.

Brand's eyes widen.

BRAND

What do you mean, you're going to let go?

COOPER

Take a deep breath.

Brand takes a deep breath and Cooper lets go of her.

EXT. UNDERWATER -- DAY

Brand sinks. Cooper swims down, following her, ripping away at her suit. The tear-away seals on her suit are stuck fast, damaged in the fall.

80.

Cooper finally breaks them off. Brand pulls herself out, free, and they swim for the surface.

EXT. SHORE, ICE PLANET -- DAY

Cooper drags himself out of the water and onto the beach. He turns back to offer Brand a hand. She waves him off.

BRAND

I don't need your help.

COOPER

I thought we were supposed to be a collective organism.

She gives up and lets him help her out of the water.

They sit together, soaking wet, trying to catch their breath.

BRAND

Thank you.

COOPER

Don't mention it.

Cooper feels the rocks beneath him, which are translucent, like glass, and polished to an impossible shine.

He looks up to see Case dragging Roth and Doyle, still in their suits, out of the water.

EXT. SHORE, ICE PLANET -- DAY

Doyle and Roth have stripped down from their suits and are breathing in the pure oxygen atmosphere.

Case and Cooper are pulling modular pieces from their equipment packs to form a small shelter.

Brand is taking readings with her instruments.

BRAND

Oxygen atmosphere. Pure water.
Temperate climate.

(TO COOPER)

You still think this is a coincidence?

Cooper looks at the tree line, less convinced.

COOPER

Looks like we can climb up the mountains back to the ice. We're down to three suits. We'll have to send someone ahead to get a fourth.
81.

BRAND

I won't need one.

DOYLE

Why not?

BRAND

Because I'm not going anywhere.
This is our new home.

Brand picks up some of her instruments and a sample case and hikes into the jungle.

EXT. SHORE, ICE PLANET -- DAY

Cooper finishes constructing the modest shelter. They load the suits and the rest of their gear inside.

COOPER

Any sign of Brand?

ROTH

She's still taking samples. If you find her, tell her to head back.
Night should be falling soon.

COOPER

What happens then?

ROTH

Your guess is as good as mine.

Cooper hikes into the jungle to look for Brand.

EXT. JUNGLE, ICE PLANET -- DAY

Cooper finds Brand taking samples from the tree-like life-forms, which are wildly different from their counterparts back on Earth. piled in torturous coils. as if frozen in a struggle to punch through the canopy to reach the light above.

BRAND

This is incredible. The organisms trapped in the ice above absorb x-rays and emit light. In return, these plants absorb the light and emit oxygen, which feeds the animals trapped in the ice.

Brand cuts off a sample and drops it into the case. The transparent wall of the case magnifies the structure onto the glass automatically. She compares it with the flecks she collected in the ice above, fascinated.

82.

BRAND (CONT'D)

Look at this. I think they're the same organism at a different stage of the life cycle.
(shows him the sample)
It's fractal. No individual cells -- the structure repeats all the way down.

Cooper looks at the sample, then continues scanning the jungle around them, nervous.

COOPER

Any sign of big life-forms?

BRAND

The soil's been disturbed. So something's been moving. But I haven't seen anything.
(notices his look)
Cooper... are you nervous?

Cooper stops scanning the trees, embarrassed.

COOPER

I just think we should get back to the shelter before night falls.

Overhead, the light from the ice above begins to fade -- the neutron star must have orbited out of view. Night is falling.

BRAND

(LAUGHING)

Relax. If there are any large organisms here, even predatory ones, they're not going to attack us -- they have no idea what we are.

COOPER

You don't know that. You just have blind faith this place is going to be some kind of Eden.

Brand stops. He's struck a nerve.

BRAND

(truly pissed off)
Faith has nothing to do with it. You know what you are, Cooper? You're just another in a long line of people saying 'no.' That this isn't going to work. And frankly, I don't have to convince you.

83.

COOPER

What's that supposed to mean?

BRAND

You're on this mission because you're another pair of hands. You want the truth? I told Case we should bring another robot over you. At least then I could just reprogram you to-

She stops. Something has caught her attention.

COOPER

What?

BRAND

Nothing. I just -- I could have sworn it just moved.

She walks to the thick, knotted trunk of a tree. Puts a hand on it.

Overhead, the ice flickers out and the darkness begins to descend, more rapidly than on Earth.

Suddenly, the tree SHUDDERS. Then, the bark begins to ooze over Brand's fingers.

Brand snaps her hand away and steps back. Even for her, this is too much. She turns back to Cooper, who is looking at the jungle around them, spooked.

COOPER

You know how plants don't usually move? Is that a universal rule?

BRAND

No. There really aren't any rules.

All around them, the life-forms begins to melt toward the ground, breaking down into different, smaller forms.

BRAND (CONT'D)

(trying to stay calm)

Remember, we're the aliens.

Cooper steps back as several pieces of the nearest tree drop onto the ground and begin scuttling toward him.

BRAND (CONT'D)

Hold very still. Don't make any sudden movements.

Two of the pieces join together, stacking themselves up and staggering toward him.

84.

A third piece climbs onto the first two, looking for a good place to hang on. After a moment it hunkers down on top, forming a crude head. Thirty eye-like structures blink open on the creature.

The skin of the life-form begins to flicker with a dim light like the animals trapped in the ice above, bathing Cooper and Brand in a warm glow.

The creature creeps closer to them, taking them in. Cooper tries his best to seem non-threatening.

COOPER

Hello there.

The creature lurches toward him on three legs, then its head splits open and it BELLOWS.

COOPER (CONT'D)

OK. Now we run.

Brand doesn't argue. They turn and sprint through the trees.

EXT. JUNGLE -- NIGHT

Cooper and Brand smash headlong through the jungle. At first, they're running from the rumbling, smashing melee behind them. But as they run, the entire jungle around them begins to break apart and move.

After a moment, they're surrounded. The jungle is completely disassembling itself into a million different pieces, each one a different size and shape than the others.

COOPER

We have to reach the shelter.

They head off, crashing through the melee.

EXT. SHORE, ICE PLANET -- NIGHT

Case, Doyle and Roth are standing in front of the shelter finishing the day's work.

Doyle turns around. The jungle is breaking apart and crawling down the beach towards them.

DOYLE

I think we've got a problem.

Case and Roth look up to see the organisms picking up speed as they move towards them.

Roth begins to step out towards them.

85.

ROTH

Fascinating. I think-

Case grabs him by the arm and pushes him bodily into the shelter after Doyle.

Case pushes the door closed.

INT. SHELTER, ICE PLANET -- NIGHT

They crouch inside the shelter as the organisms begin POUNDING at the walls, trying to force their way inside.

It's going to be a long night.

EXT. JUNGLE, ICE PLANET -- NIGHT

Ahead, Cooper can see the gleaming water of the inland sea, light still flickering in patches from the ice above it.

COOPER

This way.

Brand begins to follow.

BRAND

No... wait.

Too late. Cooper forces his way between two writhing creatures, steps through, and falls...

EXT. WATERFALL -- NIGHT

Cooper gasps as he surfaces from the ice-cold water. Brand floats past.

The river appears to flow randomly down the slope, with good reason -- the forest rearranges itself every night.

Ahead, the ground drops away again and the water rushes over it in a torrent.

Cooper catches himself at the last minute, grabbing a thick tree branch with one hand and, a second later, Brand with the other as she slides past.

COOPER

I've got you.

Suddenly, the branch in Cooper's hand illuminates and wrenches itself out of the rock -- it's a limb of a huge colony organism. It shakes Cooper loose and they fall again...

86.

EXT. POOL -- NIGHT

Brand surfaces first. She grabs Cooper and hauls him up and out of the water. She smiles down at him, a little smug.

BRAND

I've got you.

Creatures begin splashing down into the pool behind them, as if imitating them.

Cooper stumbles to his feet and Brand guides them backward into a small cave carved into the rock above the pool.

INT. CAVE -- NIGHT

Brand CRACKS a glow stick, basking the cave around them in a soft light.

As they watch, horrified, the pool and the rocks in front of the cave fill up with creatures of all sizes, as they tumble down the hill in what appears to be a battle royal.

For a moment, it looks like Brand and Cooper may go unnoticed. Then, a three-foot-tall creature with a dozen legs creeps its way toward the entrance to the cave. Another follows, and another, until the cave entrance is full.

Cooper looks around the cave, frantic. He picks up a rock. Brand, scared but still thinking, takes the rock from his hand and drops it back to the ground.

BRAND

It's game theory. The best move is always to cooperate at first.

COOPER

By "cooperate" do you mean let it eat me?

BRAND

These organisms have no interest in us. They survive by photosynthesis. All they need is light.

COOPER

Then why are they killing each other?

BRAND

I don't know.

(LOOKS AROUND)

But we're outnumbered, Cooper. So unless you have a better idea, I suggest we make nice.

87.

The creatures move toward them hesitantly, then faster.

Cooper stands stock still as the creatures gather around him. Several of them join up into bigger animals to get a better look at him.

One of them wraps itself around his chest and begins prodding at his shoulders, then his neck.

COOPER

(trying to be calm)

What is it doing?

BRAND

It's a colony organism. It's trying to incorporate you into its structure.

COOPER

I don't want it to incorporate me.

BRAND

Don't open your mouth.

COOPER

WHY N-

As he speaks, the creature on his chest extends four spindly, pointed feelers and reaches gently into his mouth.

Cooper holds his breath as the organism taps against his teeth. Its skin has a roughened texture, as if incomplete, and it appears to be searching for the same texture on Cooper's skin, without much luck.

Bored, the life-forms climb back down off of Cooper. The last two creatures link up in an imitation of Cooper's lower body and attempt to walk across the room like a human. After a moment, the creatures tumble to the ground and flail away.

Cooper is still breathing hard as the cave empties and he and Brand are left alone again.

Brand steps to the edge of the cave and watches, fascinated, as the creatures resume wrestling and battling each other.

COOPER (CONT'D)

They're killing each other.

BRAND

No. They don't bleed... they don't die... they're just competing... trying out different shapes, looking for the best one.

88.

Cooper watches as a hideously-awkward-looking, five-legged beast stumbles past and tackles another animal.

COOPER

I'd say they have a long way to go.

BRAND
(AMAZED)

They do this every night.

As they watch, a two-foot-long creature with one huge claw scuttles along the ground, grabbing smaller opponents and smashing them apart, then sorting through the wreckage and adopting some of the writhing parts as its own.

Something about the movement is endearing, the way it experiments with each piece -- less like a massacre and more like an over-caffeinated self-assembling erector set.

Suddenly, a massive, lumbering creature SMASHES down in front of the claw beast. No match, the smaller creature turns to scuttle away. Too slow. The larger organism brings one club-like limb smashing down on top of it. After a moment, it lifts its claw -- the two animals have become one.

The new organism lumbers away through the jungle, happily snapping its new claw at larger opponents.

BRAND (CONT'D)

The behavior changes as the animals get bigger and bigger. More sophisticated. More calculated.

Two of the larger organisms square off, circling each other, lights pulsing up and down their bodies in a fierce display.

COOPER

But what are they competing for?

BRAND

I don't know.

Brand shivers -- it's getting colder.

INT. CAVE -- NIGHT

Brand and Cooper huddle around a small chemical fire they've brought with them.

Brand looks at the sample of the fractal wildlife in her case. It's moving around, splitting apart, reforming, trying to find a way out.

89.

BRAND

These creatures are billions of years older than we are. But they're relatively primitive. They haven't developed tools, culture, language.

COOPER

Why not?

BRAND

I don't know. No one knows how intelligent life began on Earth.
But the surface of this planet has virtually no craters. No impacts.
It's been sheltered by the local black holes.

COOPER

What difference would that make?

BRAND

Maybe not enough has gone wrong here.
Maybe bad luck is the key to intelligent life.

COOPER
(QUIETLY)

Murph's Law.

BRAND

Exactly. Maybe our interaction with them will push them over the top. Maybe that's part of the plan.

COOPER

(shakes his head)
The plan.

BRAND

Why is it so hard for you to accept that someone might be trying to help us?

Cooper is silent for a moment. His mood darkens.

COOPER

I was in Denver during the first year of the famine. I was just a kid. We kept waiting for someone to come help us. People starved to death sitting on the ground, waiting for someone to come.

(MORE)

90.

COOPER (CONT'D)

(looks at her)
I only made it because I realized that nobody was coming to save us. We were on our own.

Cooper looks away. The memories are never that far away.

COOPER (CONT'D)

Honestly? After the things I saw... you want to know why I don't believe that someone would be trying to help us? Because I'm not sure we're worth saving.

They sit in silence for a while.

EXT. CAVE -- NIGHT

Cooper sleeps. After a moment, Brand steps back out into the darkness.

EXT. PLAIN -- DAWN

Brand exhales great streams of frosted breath -- the temperature is well below freezing. The first flickers of light are visible in the ice above.

The creatures are huge now, forty or fifty feet tall, battling each other more and more slowly. As Brand watches, the largest of them beats down his rivals, climbing to the top of the heap.

Just as the beast reaches the top, it freezes, as if stuck.

Above, the ice begins to shine brighter and brighter.

Suddenly, the beast on top breaks apart, unfurling into planes to catch the light. This is what the contest has been about -- a better place in the sun.

Brand takes it in.

EXT. JUNGLE -- DAY

Cooper and Brand pick their way their way through the foliage, which is now perfectly still, absorbing the light. Cooper looks at the plants, wary.

Brand sees his trepidation and laughs at him.

BRAND

They're not going to move now, Cooper.
They need to spread themselves as thin as they can to absorb the light.
91.

Cooper leads the way, pushing through the trees.

Suddenly he stops again. Brand, annoyed, pushes through the foliage to join him.

BRAND (CONT'D)

Cooper, honestly, you're a bit of a-

She stops. Cooper is standing at a sheer cliff.

Spread out on the plain below is a massive, fortified base.

INT. CHINESE FORTIFIED COLONY -- DAY

Massive blast doors, long since smashed in, open onto a building that has been overrun by the local fractal wildlife.

Case steps inside first, his worklights flickering on. Cooper and the others follow him in.

INT. MESS HALL, CHINESE COLONY -- DAY

The room is barely recognizable -- the fractal life has covered the tables and chairs. Water pools on the floor and light streams in from a massive hole the fractal animals have punched in the ceiling.

DOYLE

Looks like the Chinese picked a fight with the locals.

COOPER

Looks like they lost.

They continue through the ruins.

INT. BARRACKS, CHINESE COLONY -- DAY

The deeper they go, the less fractal wildlife they find. The barracks are pristine -- hundreds of perfectly made beds, waiting for colonists who never came, like one of the bunkers the federal government used to keep in case of nuclear winter.

DOYLE

Look at the size of this place.
They built it for thousands of people.
But no one came.

Brand looks around, determined.

BRAND

They will. We can salvage it. This place will save us years

92.

COOPER

But why didn't they come?

BRAND

(SHRUGS)

The Chinese government collapsed, same as ours. The people who knew about this mission probably died years ago. We had the same problems.

Roth finds a sign he likes the look of -- it points to the science levels.

INT. LABORATORY, CHINESE COLONY -- DAY

A massive door GRINDS open and the team steps into a massive complex of underground laboratories.

INT. DAMAGED LAB, CHINESE COLONY -- DAY

Cooper and the others carefully make their way through a lab that has been completely emptied -- no desks, no chairs, nothing. The only thing that remains is a solid ball of matter in the center of the room.

BRAND

What happened here?

Roth stares at the ball, intrigued.

ROTH

They were testing something.

Cooper looks at the walls, which are bowed inwards.

COOPER

Testing what?

Roth is looking at the ball, which appears to have been built from layers of different material. The outermost layer is flattened steel.

COOPER (CONT'D)

(LOOKING CLOSER)

Is that a chair?

Roth looks. The outermost layer of the ball indeed looks like a steel chair, flattened with incredible force onto surface of the ball.

Brand opens the door to the next lab.

93.

INT. LABORATORY, CHINESE COLONY -- NIGHT

The lab is empty, except for a large metal sphere on a pedestal in the center of the room. A black box is set into a cavity in the sphere, wired to a control panel.

Cooper looks at the walls of the room, which have been bowed inwards, as if some great force had been pulling from the center of the room.

COOPER

Everything in here is bolted down.

(looks at sphere)

What do you think this thing does?

ROTH

(EXCITED)

Let's find out.

Roth finds a control panel. Wipes off an inch of dust and begins tinkering with the controls.

COOPER

I wouldn't turn it on until we can figure out what it does, Roth.

Roth continues to look over the controls, oblivious.

BRAND (O.S.)

Cooper. Come look at this.

Brand calls out from the hallway.

INT. STAIRWELL, CHINESE COLONY -- DAY

Cooper follows Brand's voice down the stairs to a sub-basement beneath the lab level.

INT. OBSERVATORY, CHINESE COLONY -- DAY

Cooper steps into a huge space filled with a near perfect holographic representation of the local system.

Cooper joins Brand and Doyle in the map, looking at the incredibly detailed models of each star.

Case is standing at a terminal, hacking into the camp's records.

CASE

I've found the Chinese mission logs.
They're encrypted.

Cooper walks over. Looks over the terminal.

94.

COOPER

Old military-grade encryption. It's not very robust.
(looks at Case)
No offense. Hang on.

Cooper punches a few keys into the terminal. Opens up the terminal. Scans the motherboard. Takes Case's rifle and SMASHES one of the chips on the board.

The terminal comes to life. Cooper hands Case his rifle.

COOPER (CONT'D)

That should open up most of it.

Case is silent for a beat, parsing the information.

CASE

They got here twenty years ago. The human crew was killed by radiation the first day. But the robots survived. They built the colony and radioed home. But they didn't receive a response.

COOPER

No one was listening.

CASE

(SCANS DOCUMENT)

After a few years they discovered a problem.

DOYLE

What problem?

CASE

It doesn't say. Their science team took the ship to continue exploring the system. It says they found some kind of...

(TRANSLATING)

...The word literally means 'treasure.'

Case skims through the rest of the logs, large portions of which have been redacted.

CASE (CONT'D)

The science team returned after five years with a new technology. They began the experiments upstairs, then they left again and never returned.
95.

BRAND

Where did they go?

CASE

I don't know. They've deleted their mission plan. There's nothing else.

DOYLE

I think I know what the problem is.

Doyle is manipulating the time component of the map, slowing down the passage of time, reversing it, speeding it up.

DOYLE (CONT'D)

Look.

Doyle speeds up the map until the ice planet is nearly a blur, speeding in its orbit around Pantagrue.

DOYLE (CONT'D)

There's a small black hole moving into the system. Too small for us to have seen in our survey. It's not going to hit the planet, but it's going to come close.

A tiny black hole soars through the system. Although it misses the ice planet, it deflects its orbit by a tiny degree. After a dozen more orbits, the ice planet dips down close to Pantagrue's event horizon and is torn apart.

Brand and the others watch as the sequence rewinds and repeats -- the planet is pieced back together again and ejected, then pulled back in and torn apart. Over and over.

DOYLE (CONT'D)

This place isn't paradise. It's doomed. Just like us.

The crew stand, watching the sequence in stunned silence.

COOPER

How long does this place have?

CASE

A few years. A decade at most.

Doyle turns to Brand.

DOYLE

So much for the plan.

Cooper looks at Brand. She is in disbelief, staring as a lifetime's training and optimism are torn to pieces.

96.

BRAND

But I don't understand... why are we here? What are we here for?

Cooper looks down. Brand's upset is turning to anger.

BRAND (CONT'D)

What the hell are we here for? I trained my whole life to reach this place.

She looks at Cooper, questioning.

COOPER

(GENTLE)

Maybe... maybe Roth's right... maybe we just don't understand it yet.

She looks down. She knows he doesn't believe what he's saying. He's been right all along -- they're alone.

For a tiny moment, all hope is lost.

Suddenly, with a distant RUMBLE, the building begins SHAKING.

COOPER (CONT'D)

Case, what is that?

CASE

It's nighttime. The native life-forms are mobile again.

The RUMBLE grows more intense, as if the entire building is being gently shaken.

COOPER

No. It's closer than that.

(REALIZING)

Roth.

The RUMBLE grows. As Cooper watches, Case's rifle slides free of the desk. But instead of falling, it simply hangs in the air.

Then he realizes the same thing is happening to them -- his boots no longer have traction with the ground. After a second everything in the room is floating an inch off of the ground.

COOPER (CONT'D)

Quick -- hold onto something.

He reaches out to Brand but it's too late -- suddenly they're no longer floating, they're falling.

They're falling up.

97.

Cooper, Brand and the rest of them hit the ceiling. Cooper picks himself up and adjusts to his surroundings -- up is now down. He helps Brand up.

NOVI E

What the hell is happening?

Case doesn't answer -- he's looking up at the control equipment for the holographic display, which is GROANING under a load it was never built to handle.

Case grabs Cooper and Brand and pushes them towards the stairwell as the control panel TEARS free of the floor and CRASHES towards them.

Cooper falls into the stairwell -- now they're being pulled up and sideways through the stairwell, like an Escher painting.

Brand pushes Cooper out of the way as debris from the control panel orbits past them back up towards the lab.

They try to hang on but the force is becoming irresistible, dragging them along the wall of the stairwell and back towards the lab upstairs.

Brand wedges herself against the railing as objects and debris are SMASHING against the door to the lab.

Doyle is trying to hang onto the handrail but his grip slips and he CRIES OUT as he falls towards the door to the lab, SMASHING it open. Doyle disappears up and into the lab.

Cooper slips trying to help Doyle. Brand reaches out for him...

Too late. Cooper is pulled through the open door.

INT. INTACT LAB, CHINESE COLONY -- NIGHT

Cooper is pulled through the door and past the control panel. He reaches out and grabs the underside of the panel.

He dangles, the panel cutting into the meat of his hand, trying to get his bearings:

Roth, Doyle, and everything that hasn't been bolted down is either pressed against the sphere in the center of the room or is orbiting around it.

Roth, who is laughing, jubilant, shouts up to him:

ROTH

The control panel is beneath you.
See if you can turn it off.

98.

Cooper slips as he tries to reach the controls. Finally he finds the controls for the machine.

COOPER (YELLS UP)

I found it. Hold onto something.

Roth and Doyle crawl up the side of the mass and hold onto the support wires.

Cooper hits a key on the monitor.

Suddenly, the room inverts again, reverting to a normal gravitational field. Cooper floats for a second, then topples back to the ground, along with everything else.

Brand stumbles in to find Cooper sprawled on the floor as Roth and Doyle hang onto the sphere for dear life.

INT. INTACT LAB, CHINESE COLONY -- NIGHT

Roth, back on terra firma, is looking at the tiny black box he's pried from the center of the sphere. Cooper is looking over his shoulder.

COOPER

They found a way to make gravity.

ROTH

Not make it. Adjust it. Dial it up, or down. I think they were experimenting with it -- firing these into the black hole to try to save this planet.

DOYLE

All that from one tiny box.

Roth has hooked the box up to a terminal and it scrolling through the incredibly sophisticated machine code, trying to parse how it works. Cooper looks on.

ROTH (AMAZED)

It barely uses any power. I'm only beginning to understand what it does but I think it sends a signal out into the bulk. It must tap into the same technologies that were used to create the wormholes in the first place.

COOPER

What does that mean?
99.

ROTH

It means whoever built the wormhole probably doesn't exist inside our universe.

Cooper looks at the tiny box.

COOPER

But how did the Chinese develop the technology? This would take decades, maybe hundreds of years, to create.

CASE

Wherever they went, they found something that allowed them to build it.

Brand looks at the box.

ROTH

They came back here and tried to use these devices to save this planet. But they didn't work. Nothing would be strong enough to weaken a black hole.

BRAND

Maybe we could work with it. Try to improve it.

ROTH

No. You're missing the bigger picture. The robots had strict mission parameters. They were told to build a colony and report back.

They tried to. But they failed.
Like us they were fixated on this place.

Cooper looks at Brand.

ROTH (CONT'D)

They didn't realize they had already found something that would save us
all.

(holds up the box)

This. This is the prize.

He holds up the box.

ROTH (CONT'D)

Don't you see? Earth's gravity is like a prison. But this is like a master key.

(MORE)

100.

ROTH (CONT'D)

If we could build more of these, we could turn down the earth's gravitational field enough to save millions of people. We wouldn't have to pick a handful of people to survive. With this we can save everyone.

BRAND

And go where?

ROTH

Wherever we want. We don't belong in any one place. Can't you see that now? Not Earth. Not this place.
Nowhere. If the human race is going to survive, we need to keep moving.
Split up. Spread out. Fly. With this, we can.

Case looks at the box. Makes a decision.

CASE

In the morning we're taking this and going home.

Doyle, Roth and Case set about making preparations to leave -- gathering space suits, equipment.

In the bustle, Cooper finds Brand sitting alone, staring at the sample of fractal life.

COOPER

I know this isn't exactly what you trained for. But I think Roth might be right.

BRAND

That doesn't help this planet. This creature is doomed. Unlike us it doesn't have anywhere to go.

The fractal organism almost seems to be looking at her, trying to comprehend. But it quickly loses interest and goes back to breaking itself into pieces and reforming into different shapes, trying to escape. Brand sets it back down.

CUT TO:

INT. BARRACKS, CHINESE COLONY -- DAY

Morning. Cooper and the others prepare to head out. They are laden down with gear -- space suits for the return trip to the lander once they reach the surface.

101.

Roth carries the gravitational prototype.

EXT. ENTRANCE, CHINESE FORTIFIED COLONY -- DAY

They make their way through the ruined entrance.

CASE

We need to hurry. We only have a few hours to reach the ice before nightfall.

Cooper stops. He puts a hand on Brand's shoulder. He points to the tree line. Something is moving.

COOPER

Don't make any sudden movements.
They can't hurt us if we're unarmed.

BRAND

Who?

Suddenly, three ROBOT MARINES step out of the jungle, weapons raised. They are wearing ghillie suits, pieced together from dried dead pieces of the local foliage.

Under their camouflage, they look identical to Case. With one key difference -- faded red and gold insignias.

Case steps protectively in front of his team.

The CHINESE OFFICER steps forward, rifle levelled.

CHINESE OFFICER

Ni Hao. My name is Technical Sergeant Liu, 177th reconnaissance Marines, Army of the People's Republic. Welcome to New China.

(POLITE)

Please put down your weapon.

Sergeant Liu speaks in the same even tones as Case -- they were probably built in the same factory before the war.

Case keeps his rifle raised.

CASE

This is a scientific expedition, not a military one. We are making our way back to our ship.

LIU

I'm afraid I cannot let you do that. We will provide food and shelter and await further instructions.

(MORE)

102.

LIU (CONT'D)

We are sorry if this causes you any inconvenience.

The sergeant is polite, but firm

BRAND

This planet is being pulled into the black hole. We all need to leave.

LIU

We will await further orders.

COOPER

Further orders aren't coming. Your government is gone. It ran out of money, same as ours. You're on your own.

LIU

We can offer you food and shelter as long as you require. The facilities here are quite comfortable.

Liu's tone remains polite, but there's no hope of changing his mind. Cooper takes a sidelong glance at Brand.

COOPER

(LOW)

They're never going to let us go.

BRAND

(TO LIU)

Your mission is a humanitarian one, wasn't it? You were sent to start a colony. Like us.

LIU

Our mission was to prepare for the evacuation. This site was deemed unacceptable.

BRAND

This device that you have built -- this could save millions of people. We need to get it back home.

Brand points to the device Roth is holding. The Chinese robots seem particularly unhappy with this development.

LIU

These technologies are the property of the People's Republic.

(MORE)

103.

LIU (CONT'D)

We have been ordered to prevent anyone from taking them. We have been ordered to prevent anyone from following.

ROTH

Following? Following where?

Liu pauses.

LIU

We will await further orders.

ROTH

Your name means six. Where did the others go? One through five? Is that who were not supposed to follow.

Case turns to look at Cooper

CASE
(LOW)

Take the others up to the lander.
Keep going. No matter what happens, don't come back for me.

Cooper nods.

Case moves. Fast. He FIRES one shot at the nearest robot, disabling it, then hurls himself at the remaining two, tackling them both over the edge of the ravine.

Cooper watches them disappear into the void below. Grabs Brand and the others.

COOPER

Come on.

Cooper picks up the rifle from the destroyed marine and begins hiking up the mountain.

EXT. MOUNTAIN PEAK -- DAY

The crew hike towards the ice above.

Below they hear a metallic BOOM as something heavy hits something else -- Case is still fighting. They keep moving.

EXT. UPPER MOUNTAIN PEAK -- TWILIGHT

They are high above the Marine camp, only fifty feet or so below the massive ice roof of the cavern. The Chinese have blasted a tunnel into the ice leading back up to the camp above.

104.

This high, the air is bitterly cold. Cooper and the others are hunkered down, trying to keep warm, waiting for night to fall so that they can climb back up to the lander without being cooked by the neutron star.

Finally, above them, the light begins to flicker out. The crew begin pulling on their space suits.

Brand checks on the fractal wildlife in the sample case -- she is bringing it with them. Cooper catches her eye.

BRAND

We can't leave them all to die.

She hefts the case and they begin climbing up into the ice.

EXT. SURFACE, ICE PLANET -- NIGHT

Brand leads the way, the lights from her suit cutting into the drifts of snow as they make their way slowly back to the lander.

As they reach the lander Cooper spots lights emerging from the ship. He raises Case's weapon.

One of Liu's marines steps around from the back of the lander. Cooper FIRES.

The marine collapses.

Cooper and the others race to the lander.

BRAND

Was that the last of them?

DOYLE

We're not going to stick around to count them. Let's get out of here.

COOPER

We're too late.

Cooper points to a damaged section of the ship's hull -- the marine has torn open a section, revealing damaged hardware.

COOPER (CONT'D)

The main thruster fuel supply. We're not going anywhere.

Cooper looks down. They're stuck here.

DOYLE

What about the escape rocket at the Chinese base camp? One of us could fit into it.

105.

BRAND

It doesn't matter how many of us make it. We have to get this back to earth.

Roth looks at the moons orbiting overhead.

ROTH

Can the secondary thrusters still fire on the lander?

Doyle looks over the craft.

DOYLE

Sure. But we don't have nearly enough power for lift off.

Roth holds up the small gravity black box.

ROTH
(SMILES)

Yes we do.

Roth sets off running towards the Chinese base camp.

EXT. CHINESE BASE CAMP, ICE PLANET -- NIGHT

Cooper drags the pieces of the escape rocket out from the shelter. Assembly is semiautomatic -- Cooper lifts the pieces up and they snap together, forming a crude two-stage rocket designed more for a robot than a man.

When it's complete Roth wedges himself inside, clutching the black box -- he barely fits.

ROTH

I can reach one of the moons in low orbit and turn up its gravity. As it passes overhead it should be able to slingshot the lander away from the planet's surface.

(LOOKS AROUND)

Along with everything else.

COOPER

But we need to take the box back to earth.

ROTH

You don't need this -- only the idea.
The knowledge of how to build it.

Cooper remembers something. Heads back into the shelter.
106.

INT. CHINESE BASE CAMP, ICE PLANET -- NIGHT

Roth follows Cooper into the lab.

Cooper opens the storage crate. Picks one of the probes at random. Sets it down on the bench next to Roth.

Cooper begins rigging up a connection between the two.

COOPER

I'm going to image the operating code and the architecture onto the probe's hard drive. It'll be garbled, but it should give you and me enough to rebuild it when we get back.

Cooper looks at the probe filling up with data.

ROTH

Not me. But you'll make it work.

The transfer is complete. Roth hands Cooper the probe, and takes the black box himself.

ROTH (CONT'D)

This is a one-way trip for me.

Before Cooper can respond, Roth heads for the door.

EXT. CHINESE BASE CAMP, ICE PLANET -- NIGHT

Roth squeezes himself into the rocket, hugging the black box to his chest. Cooper and Brand help him.

BRAND

This isn't right, Roth. We can find a way for all of us to leave.

ROTH

This is the only way. Keep the lander upright and fire the secondary boosters when the moon passes overhead.

COOPER

Let me take it.

ROTH

No. You need to make it home. You're going to need to build more of these.

Brand looks at him, heartbroken. Roth smiles.
107.

ROTH (CONT'D)

I understand the plan, now. Whatever happens, you have to keep exploring.
Keep learning. One good idea isn't enough. You'll need more and more of them just to survive. Do you understand?

BRAND
/MONTAGE

Thank you.

ROTH

Go.

Brand turns to follow Cooper back.

Behind her, Roth's rocket LAUNCHES on an explosive cloud.
In seconds it's high overhead.

EXT. LANDER -- NIGHT

Cooper checks over the hull, which is intact. Doyle is inside looking over the controls. He steps back outside.

DOYLE

Control systems inside are online.

(LOOKS UP)

I've lost sight of the rocket. Do you think he made it?

COOPER

We're going to find out soon enough.

Brand is looking off into the distance.

BRAND

Someone's coming.

Cooper looks up. A robotlike figure is limping through the snowstorm towards them. Cooper raises the rifle.

Finally he makes out the insignia -- it's Case.

Cooper and Doyle run out towards him. They reach Case as he collapses in the snow. He's badly injured -- one leg torn off at the knee, one arm mangled.

Doyle and Cooper drag the crippled robot back into the ship.

INT. LANDER -- NIGHT

They drag Case into the lander. Doyle checks over the ship's controls.

108.

DOYLE

Close the door.

Cooper moves to the door. Something's wrong.

COOPER

Where's Brand?

She's nowhere to be seen. Cooper looks out onto the ice.
Brand is heading back out into the snow.

COOPER (CONT'D)

Dammit. If I don't make it back, just keep going.
(points to probe)
Get that thing home.

Cooper steps to the door.

EXT. SPACE ABOVE ICE PLANET

The rocket tucks in close behind one of the moons orbiting the ice planet.

The rocket fires to maneuver closer and closer to the moon's surface -- the tiny moon doesn't provide enough gravity to attract it.

When the rocket is close enough, Roth detonates the explosive bolts holding him inside and leaps for the moon's surface.

He scrambles to grab hold of the craggy surface. Behind him, the rocket smashes apart against the surface.

Roth finally gets a good hold. He looks down.

Below him, the view is incredible -- the ice planet curving into the distance, Gargantua rising over its horizon.

Roth looks at the black box in his hands.

EXT. SURFACE, ICE PLANET -- NIGHT

Brand is a hundred yards from the lander by the time Cooper catches up with her. She is digging in the snow.

He takes her arm but she won't go.

She finally finds what she's looking for -- the sample case. The tiny fractal life-form is huddled at the bottom.

Cooper shakes his head and turns back to the lander.

109.

EXT. MOON, SPACE OVER ICE PLANET

Roth is watching the ice planet pass by beneath him. He finally sees the distant peaks of the mountain range as it punctures the ice near the Chinese camp.

For a moment he enjoys the view -- the distant hulk of Gargantua rising over the horizon of the shining ice planet.

He takes a final breath and activates the black box.

Instantly, the moon's gravity is magnified a hundred million times over. Roth is instantly crushed as the moon collapses around him into a tiny sphere.

EXT. SURFACE, ICE PLANET -- NIGHT

Cooper and Brand are only thirty yards or so from the lander.

Suddenly, the ground beneath them begins to RUMBLE.

Cooper turns back. A mile back the ground begins to tear apart, heaving massive chunks of ice and rock into the sky.

Roth's moon is racing overhead, TEARING up a massive strip of the surface's planet as it nears them.

Cooper and Brand run.

EXT. MOON, SPACE OVER ICE PLANET

The energy being unleashed by the tiny box is incredible -- millions of times more powerful than an atomic bomb.

The spray of debris is forming a rooster tail behind the moon, rocketing up from the planet's surface.

EXT. LANDER, SURFACE, ICE PLANET -- NIGHT

Cooper has almost made it back to the lander. Behind him, Brand stumbles. He turns back.

Brand is pulling herself up. Behind her, the THUNDEROUS EXPLOSIONS as a strip of the planet's surface is hurled into space have almost reached them.

Cooper looks at the ship. He'll never make it if he waits for Brand. He turns back to find her.

He reaches Brand just as the moon's gravity hits them -- they're hurtled off into space. He grabs her hand.

Seconds later, everything -- the entire ice sheet, the sea and rocks deep below -- is hurled up after them.

110.

Brand and Cooper embrace as they rocket up through the thin atmosphere.

Brand looks at him.

BRAND
(RADIO)

You caught me. Now what?

Cooper looks around. The planet's surface is breaking into pieces around them.

COOPER
(RADIO)

I don't know.

(RADIO)

I figured if you were floating out into space, you'd want some company.

He holds onto her as they fall up and out of the last of the planet's thin atmosphere and the blackness embraces them.

BRAND

Between you and utter solitude,
Cooper, frankly, I'm not sure.

They reach the apex of their climb and the gravity of the planet begins to win out. For a moment they float.

COOPER

Guess you were right -- too much gravity, or not enough.

He smiles, forgetting their predicament for a moment. They stare into each other's eyes.

Then they begin, very gently, to fall back towards the ice planet.

Suddenly, the lander maneuvers beneath them. The airlock opens to catch them -- Doyle is at the helm.

Brand and Cooper pull themselves aboard.

INT. LANDER

Cooper closes the door and Doyle rotates the lander outwards.

Doyle FIRES the engines and the lander continues ascending into space as the debris around them begins crashing back down towards the ice planet.

Cooper looks out the window:

111.

The moon continues tearing up a massive canyon in the planet's surface as it circles out of view.

COOPER

Roth.

BRAND

He's gone.

Ahead, a shadow looms in the darkness: the Endurance.

INT. OBSERVATION DECK, ENDURANCE

Brand, Cooper, and Doyle pull themselves out of the airlock and scramble to take control of the ship.

Below them, the surface of the ice planet illuminates as the neutron star's x-rays begin to reach it from the far side of Pantagruel.

Doyle finally gets the ship straightened out. Its sole remaining engine FIRES, rocketing the ship back towards the dark side of the planet, out of view of the neutron star, and back towards the original wormhole.

DOYLE

I'm setting a course for the wormhole.

They're going to make it.

Cooper and Brand make eye contact -- Brand gives him a tiny awkward smile. He returns it, then descends below.

INT. OUTER HULL, ENDURANCE

Cooper props Case up against the workbench. He pulls down replacement arms and legs from storage bins. Unwraps them from their vacuum sealed plastic and bolts them back onto Case's chassis.

Cooper finishes attaching the arm. Case rotates it, checking the function.

COOPER

How is that working?

CASE

Very well, thank you.

COOPER

Good. We've already set the course, skipper. We're going home.

Cooper hauls himself back up into the observation level.
112.

INT. OBSERVATION LEVEL

Doyle is setting the controls. The ALARMS on the controls have finally abated -- they're out of the danger zone.

BRAND

We're safe now.

Cooper heads to the communications equipment.

COOPER

Now I know why we weren't able to hit the relay. It's not interference -- the blue-shift from the black hole is more than we thought it would be.

Cooper begins re-calibrating the equipment

BRAND
(CONFLICTED)

Cooper, wait--

The ship PINGS the relay on the far side of the wormhole.

There is no response.

COOPER

Nothing.

(THINKS)

Wait. The ship cached one long garbled transmission when we first fell into the swirl. If we account for the blue shift then the computer might find something in there.

Cooper brings up the last garbled transmission they received. The computer begins re-analyzing it, piece by piece.

BRAND
(QUIET)

Listen to me -- the blueshift also means we've lost time. More time than we thought we would.

Cooper looks up at her.

COOPER

How much?

BRAND

A lot... Cooper, maybe it's best if WE DON'T-

The comms equipment TONES as it translates a packet. Then another.

113.

Then a FLOOD of communications, one packet a day, hundreds and hundreds of packets: images, videos, audio messages from family and friends.

Cooper watches, horrified, as the images play out across the screen. He is watching the lives of his family play out at light speed. Finally, the packets slow, then stop.

Cooper looks at the results, in shock.

COOPER

Forty seven years.

Doyle joins him, staring at the screen, stunned.

DOYLE

My kids...

Cooper tries to PING the relay again. Nothing comes back.

BRAND
(GENTLE)

The relay will have lost power years ago. That's why we couldn't contact it, even after we reached the planet.

Cooper is still problem solving, thinking.

COOPER

We could bypass the relay. Send a conventional shortwave signal

BRAND

Only a tiny portion of the signal would make it though the wormhole.
Besides, no one will be listening anymore.

The comms screen is dead. No movement. Nothing.

Cooper looks at Brand, realizing something.

COOPER

You knew, didn't you? You and Case figured it out when we landed.

Brand looks down.

BRAND

I thought... I couldn't be sure.

COOPER

Sure you could. You're brilliant.
You know everything.
114.

BRAND

Cooper... we needed to keep going.
I'm so sorry. Your children...

COOPER

They're not children any more... if they're even still alive.

He turns away from her.

BRAND

Listen, the important thing is that we're going home, now. And we have something that can save everyone.
It's more important than the people we left behind-

Doyle cuts her off, filled with anger.

DOYLE

That's easy for you to say. You didn't leave anyone behind.

Cooper looks at Brand, his anger softened by sadness.

COOPER

Yes she did.

Brand looks at him, grateful for this small kindness.

COOPER (CONT'D)

That's why you were upset -- your father.

She looks down, filled with sadness.

BRAND

He's gone. But there are other people who still need our help. There's still time...

The ship's controls TONE in ALARM. Brand and Cooper turn:

Case is standing at the controls.

BRAND (CONT'D)

Case... what are you doing?

Case finishes typing in a sequence on the command controls.
Presses the "execute" button.

The last nuclear engine begins to detach from the ship.

BRAND (CONT'D)

Wait... no...

115.

The robot turns from them. Cooper notices that the control module snapped into the back of Case's chassis is wrong:

It's red with a gold star. It's not Case at all. It's Liu.

LIU

I'm sorry. I have my orders. No one follows...

Liu stares, satisfied, as the nuclear engine spins away from the ship and back down toward Pantagruel.

Cooper SMASHES Liu from behind. The robot tumbles to the ground, the fight gone out of him.

Cooper and Doyle roll the robot over and Cooper reaches for his control module.

LIU (CONT'D)

No one follows-

Cooper rips the module out. The robot freezes.

Brand is already at the controls, trying to regain control.

The instruments TONE, alerting the crew to their position:

The ship is spinning back down towards the black hole.

BRAND

No... We're being pulled back to Pantagruel.

Cooper, frantically checks the controls, firing the remaining boosters.

COOPER

We can't let that happen. We'll lose more time... too much...

The boosters are no match for the deadly pull of the black hole below them.

On the ship's guidance, they watch, helpless, as the ship climbs back up the volcano rim towards the critical orbit.

As on their first trip, the black hole grows to dominate the bottom of the sky, and the stars above them become streaks -- time is speeding for them as they are whirled down into the deep gravity well around the hole.

As they watch, trapped, decades begin to play out in the system above them. They watch as the ice planet whirls around them, orbiting the black hole dozens of times.

116.

COOPER (CONT'D)

We're losing years.

Finally, the ice planet plunges past them towards destruction.

As it reaches it slows, until finally it reaches the event horizon, just as they saw in the projections. Nothing has prepared them for the reality:

The ice planet is SMASHED apart with stunning violence.

Brand looks at the sample of fractal life. Now they are united -- they are, in all likelihood, the sole survivors of their planet.

Doyle points to the instruments.

DOYLE

The wormhole. Look -- it's being pulled into the black hole as well.

They watch on the holographic model as the wormhole's orbit converges on the event horizon of the black hole.

BRAND

It's orbit mirrored the ice planet's.

COOPER

What will happen to it?

BRAND

It'll be destroyed, like everything else.

Cooper struggles to pull himself over to the communications screen. Sets it to make a shortwave broadcast. Brand opens her mouth to point out that it's futile, then stops.

COOPER

(INTO RADIO)

This is the crew of the Endurance.

We...

(gives up on FORMALITIES)

Murph, I'm sorry. I'm sorry I didn't make it back, like I promised.

He hangs up the radio.

In silence, they watch as the wormhole -- their only way home -- vanishes beneath the event horizon.

DOYLE

How much time are we losing?

117.

BRAND

(HEARTBROKEN)

Decades...hundreds of years.

COOPER

All of those people back home...

none of them will make it.

As Doyle watches the controls the ship continues to spiral towards the black hole.

DOYLE

This is it. We're going to be pulled in.

Cooper looks at the controls, an idea forming.

He pulls himself down. Hauls himself across the deck to pick up Liu's chip. He plugs it into a diagnostic tool.

BRAND

What are you doing?

COOPER

Case said the Chinese found something else. The location was scrubbed from their records. But I bet he knows it.

Cooper fires up the chip. Begins sorting through the onboard memory.

Doyle watches the instruments.

DOYLE

Hurry up.

Cooper concentrates, poring over the numbers. Finally he begins feeding coordinates into the navigation computer.

COOPER

Here. Can we reach it?

Brand looks at the map. The point appears on the far side of Gargantua. Brand studies the trajectory.

BRAND

We can use the thrusters to keep us on the critical orbit. Then slingshot us towards Gargantua.

The thrusters STRAIN to push the ship back up towards the critical orbit.

118.

Suddenly, the tidal gravity SLAMS them against the walls of the ship.

Finally, the thrusters fire again -- a tiny push, but just enough to launch the ship clear of the black hole, like a rock out of a slingshot.

The ship races toward the massive hole in the sky below them:

GARGANTUA

EXT. SPACE AROUND GARGANTUA

The ship picks up more and more speed as it soars closer to the massive black hole's event horizon.

INT. OBSERVATION DECK, ENDURANCE

The sky closes to a tiny hole above them. Gargantua is swallowing their view.

Cooper looks at the radar, which is choked with debris.

DOYLE

We only have a few minutes before we're swallowed into that thing. What are we even looking for?

On the radar, a tiny empty spot appears.

COOPER

(points to screen)
That? What is it?

Brand looks. In one tiny region on the back side of the black hole, the debris simply seems to vanish.

BRAND

It's another wormhole.

Doyle FIRES the thrusters again, pushing the ship towards the wormhole.

EXT. SPACE AROUND GARGANTUA

The Endurance spins, shifting paths slightly as it continues to race closer and closer to oblivion.

INT. OBSERVATION DECK, ENDURANCE

They study the controls. The projected path shifts, one degree at a time. Finally, it appears to put them on a path to hit the wormhole.

Doyle shuts off the thrusters.

119.

DOYLE

We're not going to be able to slow down. Hold onto something.

He locks up the controls.

EXT. SPACE AROUND GARGANTUA -- MORNING

The ship is tumbling through space, racing toward the second wormhole. It is massive, much larger than the first wormhole, and it's glowing with a light as bright as a star.

INT. OBSERVATION DECK, ENDURANCE

The crew brace themselves against the hull of the ship.

Suddenly the ship slams onto the wormhole mouth and is pulled violently into the wormhole.

WHITENESS.

As the light fades, Cooper and the others come to.

The light is rapidly dimming from pure white, fading to a deep red, then infrared, finally darkness.

Cooper looks out. Checks the instruments. Looks out again.

EXT. VACUUM

Nothing. Blackness as far as the eye can see. No stars. No planets. Just inky darkness stretching on forever.

INT. OBSERVATION DECK, ENDURANCE

Brand joins Cooper on the deck. Together, they look out at the blackness that surrounds them.

COOPER

Where are we?

BRAND

I don't know. It's like we entered the wormhole and never left it.

Brand checks the instruments. There is nothing for the ship to model.

There is nowhere to go. They drift.

INT. OBSERVATION DECK, ENDURANCE

Days go by. They check the instruments. Still nothing.
It's as if they have left the known universe altogether.
120.

INT. COMMUNICATIONS ROOM, ENDURANCE

Doyle sits down. After a moment, he turns on the screen and cues up a message.

His children appear on-screen, giggling, pushing each other, trying to get a prime spot in front of the camera.

Doyle cups his face in his hands and cries.

INT. CREW QUARTERS, ENDURANCE

Cooper above his bunk, stares out into the blackness.

Brand watches him from the doorway.

BRAND

I'm sorry. I should have told you.
I didn't have the right.

(BEAT)

But you should watch the recordings.
You should know what happened to your kids.

Cooper ignores her.

INT. COMMUNICATIONS ROOM, ENDURANCE

Brand watches her father talking to her on-screen. He is twenty years older than when she left him.

BRAND'S FATHER

I'm not going to make it much longer.
The machines will continue to maintain the station as long as they can and the communications will run as long as the station here still has power.
I'm sorry. I hope wherever you are, darling, you're safe.

The screen cuts out. Brand watches the static play out.

INT. OBSERVATION DECK, ENDURANCE

Doyle sits at the table. He has found a flair gun in one of the ditch kits. It is sitting on the table in front of him. The message is clear.

Brand sits down across from him.

BRAND

Our last trip past the black hole cost us another 100, maybe 200 years.
Which means there's a good chance we're the only humans alive anywhere.
121.

She stands up.

BRAND (CONT'D)

I think the last human beings should have a little more fight in them than that.

Brand picks up the sample of fractal life and places it under a lamp on the counter. It freezes, absorbing the rays.

Doyle looks at the gun.

EXT. ENDURANCE, VACUUM

Cooper, in a space suit, steps out of the airlock.

He drifts out from the ship.

Nothing. Behind him, the ship is a tiny speck in an ocean of darkness.

INT. COMMUNICATIONS ROOM, ENDURANCE

Cooper sits down. Turns on the screen.

After a moment, the camera turns on. Tom, his eldest son, still 15 years old, turns on the camera.

TOM

Hi, Dad.

Cooper pauses it. He can't take it. After a moment, he lets it run again.

TOM (CONT'D)

I met another girl, Dad. I really think this is the one.

Tom holds up a picture of himself and a teenage GIRL.

TOM (CONT'D)

Murph stole Grandpa's car. He crashed it. He's OK, though. No broken bones.

Cooper leans back.

INT. COMMUNICATIONS ROOM, ENDURANCE

Cooper is holed up, still watching, several days' growth of beard unshaved. He's been watching for days.

On the screen, Tom is a grown man in his 20s.

122.

TOM

I've got a surprise for you, Dad.
You're a grandpa.

Tom holds up an infant wrapped tight in swaddling. The kid is BAWLING.

TOM (CONT'D)

Congratulations. Grandpa said he already earned the "great" bit so we just leave it at that.

The screen cuts out.

The next message begins. Tom is in his 30s.

TOM (CONT'D)

Hi, Dad. I'm sorry it's been awhile.

He stops, emotional.

TOM (CONT'D)

Grandpa died last week. We buried him out in the back forty, next to

Mom.

(LOOKS DOWN)

Where we'd have buried you, if you'd ever come back.

He laughs, gallows humor.

TOM (CONT'D)

Murph was there for the funeral. It's been a few years since I've seen him. He's been down in the Gulf Coast. He's an engineer. I guess someone followed in your footsteps after all.

Tom looks down.

TOM (CONT'D)

You're not listening to this. I know that. All of these messages are just out there, drifting in the darkness.

He stops for a second.

TOM (CONT'D)

You're gone. You're never coming back. And I've known that for a long time. Lois says -- that's my wife, Dad -- she says I have to let you go. So I am.

123.

He reaches up to turn off the camera.

TOM (CONT'D)

Wherever you are, I hope you're at peace. Goodbye, Dad.

The image freezes, Tom's hand on the camera, then breaks apart into digital noise.

Then nothing.

Cooper looks at it for a second. Then rises to leave.

Suddenly, the screen flickers to life again.

A good-looking man in his late 30s turns on a camera. Cooper recognizes him instantly. It's Murph.

Murph looks at the camera for a long beat, clearly unsure about this.

MURPH

Hello, Dad. You sonofabitch.

He laughs, self-conscious.

MURPH (CONT'D)

It's your 60th birthday today. Thought I would celebrate with you a bit.

(BEAT)

I guess I understand why you left. The corn is dying now, too. Tom says there's less and less at harvest every year.

He pauses. Lifts up his hand and scratches his stubble.

Cooper pauses the message. He looks carefully at the screen:

Murph is wearing his dad's watch.

Cooper lets the message play. Tears are streaming down his face.

MURPH (CONT'D)

Rot's setting in. I guess you were right for clearing out while you had the chance.

(reaches up to switch OFF CAMERA)

Good luck, old man. I hope you made it. I really do.

The video cuts out.

124.

A message appears on the screen:

"Final transmission." Relay powered down 05232087

Cooper turns off the screen.

INT. CREW QUARTERS, ENDURANCE

Cooper is seated, alone. Almost every compartment has been opened and emptied -- debris is swirling through the compartment.

Brand walks in. They sit in silence for a moment. When Cooper speaks, it's clear his sadness has faded to a gallows humor.

COOPER

Not a single drink on the whole ship.
What kind of mission is this?

BRAND

I think Doyle's been experimenting with the coolant from his spacesuit.

They sit in silence for a moment.

COOPER

You really think we're the last humans alive anywhere?

BRAND

I don't know. Maybe.
(looks him in the eye)
Yes.

COOPER

So that's it, then? That's all?

He looks down, saddened by his own words.

BRAND

(QUIET)

It's happened a billion times over.
Stars explode. The pieces drift in space. Gravity pulls them back together. They form new stars. Then planets. Then us. We die. It starts all over again.

Cooper shakes his head.

COOPER

What about the plan? The grand scheme.

125.

BRAND

I thought you didn't believe in one.

COOPER

I didn't. But you were bringing me round.

He laughs, his anger coming and going in waves.

COOPER (CONT'D)

What the hell was the point? What did it add up to?

BRAND

I don't know. Maybe it just adds up to this.

COOPER

This? You're saying the end result of ten billion years is the atoms from dead stars standing here disagreeing with each other.

She smiles at him. Bittersweet.

BRAND

Maybe that's enough.

He turns away from her. She takes his shoulder.

She pulls him into a kiss. His surprise disappears and he pulls her to him, kissing her back.

Their surroundings forgotten, they drift. She LAUGHS gently as they bump into a wall and he pushes off of it, sending them spinning back into the center of the cabin.

She pulls his shirt off and it hangs in space. In moments, the cabin is filling with discarded clothes, different colors and shapes, like a ticker tape parade.

In the center of the cabin, Brand and Cooper make love.

INT. CREW QUARTERS, ENDURANCE -- LATER

Cooper and Brand embrace, sleeping, drifting in the cabin.

Suddenly, Doyle's voice calls out from the other cabin.

DOYLE (O.S.)

It's happening... it's happening again... Get up here...

Cooper wakes, careful not to disturb Brand. He plucks his shirt from the floating laundry pile and pulls it on.

126.

INT. OBSERVATION DECK, ENDURANCE

Cooper hauls himself up into the upper cabin. Doyle is standing in the middle of the chamber.

DOYLE

They just appeared.

A sphere of distortion, like the one they encountered in the first wormhole, is directly in front of Doyle, hovering at a point in the middle of the cabin.

Doyle points a finger gently at the sphere, which grows in response.

Brand pulls herself into the cabin. Several more points appear, as if they've been summoned by the first.

Some of the points twist, some of them spin, and some of them are motionless.

BRAND

I think these are the creatures that built the wormhole.

One of them begins to move closer to Cooper.

COOPER

This thing is made of... gravity?

BRAND

No. I don't think it's in our universe at all. I think it lives in the bulk -- the space that the wormholes traverse. And it can only interact with us using gravity.

The shape playfully grows around Cooper's hand, bending the space it's in, stretching the skin.

Doyle GASPS as the sphere nearest him moves through his body, coming to rest in the middle and bending his entire torso like a fun house mirror.

Suddenly, the sphere wrapped around Cooper's hand begins moving, tugging him gently through the cabin.

In the next moment, all three of them are being propelled through the cabin.

It's a magical moment -- a communion, a dance between creatures on either side of a massive, invisible wall.

Doyle exclaims like a kid on a roller coaster as he is whirled around the room.

127.

Cooper and Brand collide with each other for a second as the bulk beings move them through space. They hold onto each other for a moment and then are pulled apart again as the whirling dance continues.

Even the fractal creature is involved -- inside its cage, a tiny distortion ripples its fractal skin. The creature breaks apart and plays with the distortion around its enclosure.

Finally, Brand disengages from the dance and pulls herself around the lab, looking for some way to try to communicate with the creatures.

She finds two heavy pieces of engineering equipment and moves them close to each other, then far apart.

The bulk beings soon join her, mimicking the motion of the pieces of equipment.

COOPER

Can we communicate with them?

BRAND

Where would we even start? Maybe

She pull a bag of ball bearings out of a storage bin and tears the bag open, releasing a cloud of the tiny shining globes into the air.

For a moment, nothing happens. Then, the distortions begin moving through the bearings, shifting them, rearranging them into patterns in the air.

First, they rearrange the ball bearings into clusters, then shapes spinning around each other -- planets orbiting around a medium-sized star.

DOYLE

That's our solar system.

After a moment the ball bearings break apart again and rearrange into a larger, more complicated system -- Gargantua, Pantagruel, and the ice planet.

Finally, the bearings compress to a two-dimensional sheet. Inside the sheet, one solitary ball bearing orbits around the stars and then pushes up, off of the sheet, into an umbrella shaped space that rises up from the sheet.

COOPER

What is that?

Brand looks at the tiny particle, floating alone above its universe.

128.

BRAND

That's us. That's where they've brought us. We're in the bulk.

Cooper and Doyle stare at the particle. The map is static now.

Cooper looks around. The distortions have gone. The instruments on the ship TONE in alarm.

Cooper walks through the map, sending the ball bearings scattering. He hurries to the instruments. The ship is moving -- picking up speed at a huge rate.

BRAND (CONT'D)

They're moving us.

DOYLE

Where?

They stand, looking out into the perfect darkness.

EXT. ENDURANCE, VACUUM

The ship begins to close in on something in the darkness: a tiny point of light.

As they grow closer, they realize that it's an opening. They are inside a massive, hollow sphere. They have been the entire time.

The ship is guided out through the opening at the crown of the sphere.

Below them is an astonishing sight:

Our entire universe, compressed into a flattened disc, like a floor of stars. They are hovering above it, in the bulk, the space between universes.

INT. ENDURANCE, BULK

Brand and the others stare at the incredible display.

The ship drops down and begins to orbit around the massive hollow sphere between them and our universe, lower and lower until it is skimming just above the surface of the sphere.

In the distance, they can make out a cluster of lights.

COOPER

There's something out there.

The cluster of lights grows as they are propelled closer:
129.

It's a massive space station, built onto the surface of the sphere.

EXT. SPACE STATION

The Endurance glides to a gentle stop on one of the upper decks of the space station.

After a moment, the airlock to the ship opens and Cooper and the others step out, in their suits.

They walk up to the airlock doors of the station, which open automatically.

INT. SPACE STATION

After the airlock decompresses, the inner doors open. Standing there, waiting for them, is a familiar figure:

Tars.

TARS
(DEADPAN)

I guess this isn't robot heaven after all.

The light on his brow glows and he offers them both a hand.

INT. GRAND LABORATORY, SPACE STATION

The humans have taken off their space suits -- the station has been built to be habitable by humans -- and are following Tars through the massive facility.

TARS

I orbited the black hole seven times before I hit the second wormhole. Then I drifted until I found this place.

Cooper looks around. The halls are filled with countless technological wonders.

COOPER

This is what the Chinese were protecting.

(LOOKS AROUND)

How they could have built all this in just a handful of years.

TARS

They didn't. It took them four thousand.

(off Brand's look)

Time moves very slowly here
130.

BRAND

How do you know?

TARS

Because I've been waiting for you for three hundred years.

Brand looks around at the massive facility.

BRAND

Time. That's what the bulk beings wanted to give us. That was the treasure the Chinese found. Enough time to let us save ourselves.

Brand looks around. The facility is massive. She sets the specimen case down on a table. Even the tiny creature seems in awe of the place.

INT. LABORATORY, SPACE STATION

Tars shows them a prototype for the gravity machine. It is tiny -- increasing G around two spheres that attract each other with a tiny force.

TARS

I have catalogued almost everything they had built here.

COOPER

Must have taken you a while.

TARS

One hundred and fifty-seven years.

Cooper shakes his head in disbelief.

COOPER

How are they keeping the lights on in this thing?

Tars, in answer, points to a far door.

TARS

Follow me.

INT. ENGINE ROOM, SPACE STATION

A massive reinforced-concrete shell shudders with the energy contained within it. The whole room HUMS with power.

Tars pulls up a display showing the inside of the shell:

A tiny black hole spins, spewing out massive amounts of power.
131.

TARS

It's a mini black hole. A remnant of the big bang. It will power this place forever.

Tars leads them on.

EXT. HANGAR, SPACE STATION

Tars leads them past an incredibly sleek fleet of spacecraft.
Cooper starts to stop, but Tars doesn't slow down.

INT. SIMULATION ROOM

In the center of the room is a giant holographic globe of the Earth, perfect down to the tiniest detail.

COOPER

It's a map?

TARS

No. Not a map. This is a simulation of the Earth. A perfect simulation.

Tars touches the control panel. The map zooms in over Europe. Down onto Paris. Late 20th century:

People walk through the streets. A woman stops at a newsagent to buy a newspaper.

Tars touches the controls again and the map zooms out.

TARS (CONT'D)

They tested each of the technologies hundreds of times, trying to find the one that would cause the least damage and still allow us to leave Earth.

Suddenly, the map lights up with atomic explosions in every city. The sequence stops, rewinds.

This time, sped up, the Earth seems to be drying up -- great swaths of desert grow across Europe and Asia. Massive circular ships are constructed all over the face of the Earth.

TARS (CONT'D)

This was their best solution. A massive version of the box we found on the ice planet, allowing the entire human population to escape.

At a given moment, the gravity of the Earth is dropped to nothing and the massive ships, filled with the entire 132.

population of the Earth, lift gently off of the planet in search of greener pastures.

Cooper turns away from the machine, bitter.

COOPER

So why didn't they return? Why didn't they save us?

Brand is staring at the massive map.

BRAND

Because they were too late. By the time they found this place, the people who sent them were dead. They were unable to fulfill their mission.

Tars points to the next room.

TARS

That was the final problem they tried to solve.

Tars moves on.

EXT. PLATFORM, SPACE STATION

Above them, the blackness of the sky is punctuated with hundreds of crystal shapes, faintly leaking starlight:

Wormholes. Brand looks up at them, entranced.

BRAND

Where do they lead?

Tars looks at an illuminated schematic on one wall, mapping some of the wormholes.

TARS

There are millions of them, connecting virtually every planetary system in the universe. There are thousands in our galaxy alone. But the Chinese stopped mapping them when they found what they were looking for.

Tars walks further. He stops.

The platform in front of them is dominated by a gigantic version of the black box that Roth found on the ice planet, connected to a massive power array, and pointing into the dark space above the sphere.

133.

TARS (CONT'D)

This was their final creation. They had to capture the mini black hole just to have enough power to try it.

Several miles above the black box, one of the wormholes glows far brighter than the others, crackling with radiation.

DOYLE

What does it do?

Cooper steps forward. Runs a hand on the cold, strange material the antenna is made out of. He knows exactly what it does.

COOPER

They weren't interested in the other wormholes because their mission was to return home. That one leads back to Earth. The Earth they were told to return to.

Tars walks to the controls for the device.

BRAND

But that's impossible...

Tars turns away from the machine.

TARS

It was only used once. The Chinese team attempted to travel back in time, to Earth just a few years after they had left.

COOPER

Did they make it?

TARS

I don't know.

Doyle looks back to Cooper.

DOYLE

Do you really think it works?

Cooper looks up at the machine, suddenly determined.

COOPER

We're going to find out.

Cooper walks out of the room. Brand follows him.

134.

EXT. AIRLOCK, SPACE STATION

Brand follows Cooper as he walks up to the Endurance.

BRAND

You know it doesn't work. Time travel isn't possible.

COOPER

You don't know that.

BRAND

Yes, I do. If it worked, the Chinese would have suddenly discovered all of these incredible technologies. But they never made it.

(BEAT)

You can't go back, Cooper. You can slow things down, but you can't ever go back. Our home is gone.

(off his look)

You listened to all of those messages from your family. If you had made it back, we would already know. There would already be some evidence.

Cooper looks at the machine.

BRAND (CONT'D)

If you try to use it, you'll die, just like the people who built it.

She puts an arm on his shoulder.

BRAND (CONT'D)

Roth was right, Cooper. We have to keep going. Keep exploring. We have an obligation to try to survive. From here we could find a thousand places where life could thrive. And you're going to return to the one place where it can't.

COOPER

I made a promise.

He turns away from her, resolute.

EXT. HANGAR, SPACE STATION

Cooper and Doyle check over one of the sleek Chinese spaceships.

135.

INT. CHINESE SPACESHIP

Cooper is checking over the controls of the ship. Brand walks in.

BRAND

I came to say goodbye

Cooper looks up at her.

INT. HANGAR, SPACE STATION

Cooper walks Brand back to the Endurance. The ship is packed up and repaired. Brand is looking over their work.

COOPER

You could have taken one of the other ships.

BRAND

This one's done all right by us so far.

Brand holds up a small sample case containing half of the fractal life-form.

BRAND (CONT'D)

Will you take this with you? It's the last of its kind as well. Thought we should double its chances of survival. In case I'm wrong.

Cooper takes the sample and looks at the tiny creature inside, trying to escape. He sets it inside the ship. Turns back to her.

COOPER

Where are you going to go?

BRAND

I don't know. Up there, I guess.

She points up into the great darkness above them.

Tars steps down. Moves over to them.

COOPER

You're going, too?

TARS

I'm curious. It's my nature. See you down the road?

Tars shakes Cooper's hand. Heads onto the Endurance.
136.

BRAND

Come with us. Please. You wanted your whole life to explore. This is your chance.

Cooper stares at her. This is what he has always wanted. And he has to turn it down.

COOPER

I'm sorry. I have to find out what happened to my sons. I promised them.

Brand sees the resolve in his eyes. Knows there's no way to change his mind.

BRAND

You're a man who keeps his promises. Make me one-

She takes his hand.

BRAND (CONT'D)

After you're done... come find me.

COOPER

I promise.

They kiss passionately. Not wanting it to end but knowing that it must. Reluctantly, they separate. Brand turns back to the ship.

She pulls herself onto the ship. Cooper steps back outside and watches through the tiny window as the Endurance lifts off and disappears into the darkness.

Cooper turns away.

EXT. PLATFORM, SPACE STATION

Cooper watches as radiation pours out of the wormhole high above them.

INT. CHINESE SPACESHIP

Cooper pulls himself on board. Doyle is at the controls. He keys the controls and the ship lifts off.

DOYLE

Let's go home.

The two men sit in silence as the ship arcs away from the space station and closes in on the wormhole.

Cooper hears a familiar CHIRP. He turns around:
137.

The probe they took from the ice planet is belted securely into one of the seats, filled with the garbled machine code of the gravitational machine.

COOPER

The probe...

Doyle looks back.

DOYLE

We get back to earth, you and I can try to make sense of the code. Rebuild the gravity machine.

Cooper stares at it, suddenly realizing something. He unbuckles himself.

Cooper stands and walks over to the probe. Traces the familiar stars and stripes carved into its side.

Cooper stares at the probe, putting it all together.

COOPER

It's going to work.

DOYLE

Of course it's going to work.

COOPER

That's not what I mean. This is the probe I found in Galveston.

Below them, the wormhole breaks as it reaches another wormhole mouth that the Chinese have dropped down to a lower gravity well, creating a time machine.

The wormhole mouth is FLARING with radiation.

COOPER (CONT'D)

Brand said there'd be some evidence we'd made it. And there was. This.
(holds up probe)
But only this. Everything will be destroyed except for this.

He moves toward Doyle. Doyle stands.

COOPER (CONT'D)

We have to stop.

DOYLE

I don't know what you're talking about, but you're not touching the controls. I'm going home.
138.

Cooper moves closer to Doyle. Doyle pulls out the flair gun. Points it at Cooper.

COOPER

You don't need to do this. We won't make it back, but this does. The secrets are already right on it.
Maybe someone found it. There's hope.

(SAD)

But we don't get to go with.

DOYLE

You're not stopping me. I'm going home.

Doyle forces Cooper into the ship's lander. Then he closes
the airlock.

Cooper pounds on the other side of the glass, trying to reason with him.

The landing craft detaches from the ship.

INT. CHINESE LANDING CRAFT

Cooper watches, helpless, as Doyle's ship races ahead towards the glowing wormhole mouth.

As the ship speeds toward the next wormhole, the radiation suddenly FLARES, annihilating the ship and everything in it.

Almost everything.

Cooper's landing craft spins away from the wormhole mouth.

CUT TO:

EXT. SPACE, OUR SOLAR SYSTEM

A hole opens in the sky with a FIERY EXPLOSION. As the radiation subsides, all that shoots out of the hole is a vaporious wisp of atomized metal, and a burned, blackened probe, which hurtles toward Earth.

EXT. SPACE, NEAR EARTH ORBIT

The probe collides with a satellite, hurling debris into the upper atmosphere.

PROBE'S CRASHED CAMERA FOOTAGE

The probe's onboard camera documents its journey. Fragments

OF VIDEO:

139.

-- The probe HURTLES through the atmosphere, toward North America, the Gulf Coast.

-- The probe SMASHES down into a sandbar.

-- Daylight. A man is descending toward it, dangling from a rope. It's Cooper.

-- Night. A kitchen. A little boy -- Murph -- stares at the probe, while Cooper works at it with a blowtorch.

-- Tars pulls the probe out of the back of a plane.

-- Brand's father, older, studies the probe. Gives up.

-- Much later. People are moving around in the darkened base, scavenging equipment.

CUT TO:

EXT. FIELD -- DAY

A combine harvester is dead in a field, service hatch opened. A MAN is lying under the machine, working.

The man hauls himself out from under the huge machine. Dusts himself off.

It's Murph, 30s. He looks at the FARMER who is waiting for the verdict. Murph shakes his head.

MURPH

It's done. Auto-pilot's packed up for the last time.

FARMER

You can't make it work a little longer?

MURPH

Can't do anything for you. There aren't any more parts for these. Not anywhere.

FARMER

You don't understand. We're getting less than a hundred pounds per acre. We need to plant more, not less.

Murph looks around him at the pathetic crop of corn that stretches around them. The plants are feeble, barely able to support themselves.

140.

FARMER (CONT'D)

You've got to find us some more parts, Murph. It's getting desperate. Isn't there anywhere you can look?

Murph begins packing up his tools, thinking it over.

INT. HANGAR -- DAY

Murph stares at the darkened shape of a plane under a tarp. He stares at the tarp, unsure if he wants to keep going.

He pulls the tarp off, revealing Cooper's old Piper Cub. He checks over the engine, lights, prop. Turns the key. Fires her up. The diesel wakes with a GRUNT.

EXT. AIRSTRIP -- DAY

Murph wheels the old plane out onto the field by hand.

EXT. SKIES OVER THE SOUTHWEST -- DAY

The ancient plane skirts the San Gabriels.

EXT. FIELD, SANTA CRUZ ISLAND

Murph sets the plane down.

He parks the plane under a copse of trees and climbs down.

He scans the horizon. Nothing. Is this the place?

EXT. FOREST -- DAY

Murph pushes his way through the undergrowth. Stops.

He's standing at the blast doors to the facility. They've been blown open with dynamite.

INT. NASA FACILITY -- DAY

Murph lets himself inside. Lights a flare.

The place has been gutted. Thieves and scavengers have taken almost everything.

Murph finds one of the robots, or what's left of it -- it's been stripped, leaving only the bare composite skeleton. The empty eye sockets stare back at Murph.

Murph looks around the place. There is nothing left to salvage. He turns to leave. Hears a familiar CHIRP.

In the corner, under a pile of rain-soaked garbage:

141.

The probe.

No one has bothered to steal it. Murph stares at it.

INT. UNDERGROUND FACILITY -- NIGHT

Murph sweeps detritus off of an ancient computer mainframe that survived the looting. He hooks the probe up to it.

After a minute, the screen fills with a picture of an ice-covered planet. Then nothing. The rest of the probe's drive is filled with garbage, noise.

Murph switches off the screen.

He stands. Begins to leave without the probe. Stops. Turns back. Picks it up and takes it with him.

INT. KITCHEN, MURPH'S HOUSE -- NIGHT

Murph is hunched over the probe, trying to pull data off of it with a defibrillator. He has incorporated an ancient laptop into the chain, and is tweaking values on it, trying to decrypt the contents.

His WIFE, several months pregnant, turns back to him from the stove.

MURPH'S WIFE

Would you get that thing off of the table?

Murph nods, absorbed. Keys in a final tweak to the decryption software. Hits return.

Suddenly, the screen begins filling with data.

Murph stares at it, wide eyed.

CUT TO:INT. BARN -- NIGHT

Murph, now in his 40s, is putting the finishing touches on a large machine. Although slightly different, we recognize some of the components and their configuration:

It's a crude version of the gravitational device.

Murph double checks it, then fires up a small gas powered generator. Throws a breaker, feeding power to the unit.

The unit lights up. HUMS. But nothing happens.

142.

Murph, disappointed but undaunted, shuts it down and begins checking it over. He hears a noise at the door. Turns back. His daughter, Emily, 8, is standing at the door.

EMILY COOPER

Dad? You said you'd take us to the game.

MURPH (DISTRACTED)

Did I?

He looks at the impossible nest of wires. Shakes his head.

MURPH (CONT'D)

All right. Let me get my jacket.

Murph picks up his jacket from the workbench. Next to it on the bench is a shortwave radio playing STATIC.

EMILY COOPER

(staring at machine)
What is it supposed to do, Dad?

MURPH

I have no idea.

Murph switches off the lights and they walk out.

After a moment, the radio CRACKLES to life in the darkness.

COOPER

(over radio, garbled)
This is the crew of the Endurance...
Murph... I'm sorry...

The signal crackles out.

CUT TO:INT. KITCHEN, MURPH'S HOUSE -- DAY

hears a distant RUMBLE.

He looks up. His wife is standing by the sink.

MURPH

Where's Emily?

WIFE

Out in the barn. She's been tinkering with your old projects.

143.

Murph stands up. The roof of the barn is visibly shaking.
He steps outside.

EXT. YARD, MURPH'S HOUSE -- DAY

Murph moves towards the barn, concerned. The shaking is growing stronger -- the entire structure is buckling.

Emily, now 18, backs out of the barn.

EMILY COOPER

Dad... I'm sorry... I made some changes to the machine. I think I did something wrong.

Murph puts an arm around his daughter and as they watch, the entire barn IMPLODES. Their tractor begins sliding towards the wreckage of the barn, chunky tires plowing up the soil.

Finally, the RUMBLING STOPS as the power lines short out in a FIERY display.

As the dust clears, Murph and his daughter examine the mess:

The entire barn has been crushed into a tiny ball.

Murph looks at his daughter.

MURPH

Do you remember what you changed?

Wide-eyed, she thinks about it. Then nods.

CUT TO:

EXT. EARTH, 2320 -- DAY

This is North America. But it doesn't look much like it.

Mother Nature has just about wiped the slate clean. Most of the vegetation is gone, and unchecked winds sweep across the barren plains. Patches of ice lie thick on the ground, as if a heavy snow has come and gone.

SUPER TITLE: "TWO HUNDRED YEARS LATER"

One of the Chinese spaceships descends through the thick clouds above and settles gently onto the plain.

The hatch opens and Cooper steps out. He takes a cautious look around. He is holding the fractal life in its small container.

The clouds are threatening, but the weather looks calm enough right here.

144.

Cooper starts to walk.

EXT. COLLAPSED HOUSE -- DAY

Remarkably, part of Cooper's old house is still standing.

INT. COLLAPSED HOUSE -- DAY

Cooper stands in the middle of his kitchen. Two walls are missing and the rest is collapsed in a heap. But he can still see where he used to feed his kids breakfast.

He has kept his promise. Several hundred years too late.

Cooper hunkers down, staring at the space where his kids used to be. Rainwater covers the ancient formica.

It has taken him years to finally reach this place. He has had plenty of time to come to grips with what he might find. But nothing has prepared him for this:

He is completely alone. Nothing is left.

INT. COLLAPSED FARMHOUSE -- NIGHT

Cooper is still sitting there when the ice storm hits.

Unchecked by trees or vegetation, the wind rockets through the house, blasting Cooper and pelting what's left of the structure with fist-sized hail.

Cooper takes shelter against the remaining wall. He's going to have to sit this one out -- the hail and winds are the brutal descendants of the weather he knew. They'll finish him off if he steps back outside.

As he watches, the pool of water on the kitchen floor freezes over in seconds.

INT. COLLAPSED FARMHOUSE -- DAWN

Cooper shivers, pressed against the wall. The storm is still raging outside. He is freezing to death. He has to move now or he will die. He pulls the hood tight around his face and stumbles outside.

EXT. SNOWBOUND FIELD -- DAY

Cooper makes his way through the blinding snow. He tries to find his way, but the ship has been consumed by the blizzard.

He stumbles to the ground, dropping the glass case with the fractal wildlife in it. The case shatters.

Cooper tries to stand back up, but his strength is dwindling.
145.

As he watches, the fractal wildlife creeps tentatively out of its broken habitat. It forms together against the cold.

After a moment, it burrows into the ice. As it does, the ice glows faintly. It seems to be right at home.

Cooper laughs, glimpsing the outline of a plan. Was this what the beings who made the wormhole intended all along?

Cooper suddenly spots the outline of the ship through the driving snow. He stumbles back up to his feet and struggles a few more steps, then stumbles again, spent.

Finally, he sits down in the snow to die.

As his senses flicker in and out, he is struck with wonder...

of his boys, so vivid he reaches out for them, crawling forward in the snow.

He stops, and laughs, remembering what Case told him about what happens when humans die.

He struggles to his feet and stumbles a few more feet, eventually coming to rest just steps from the ship.

Cooper takes a final step. Finally, he collapses under his ship, as the wind continues to HOWL around him.

As the snow clears for a moment, Cooper is alone on a vast arctic tundra. He will die alone.

BLACK

FADE IN:

INT. HOSPITAL ROOM -- DAY

Cooper wakes.

He is in a sunlit room. A breeze rustles the curtains as it makes its way in through a large open window.

Cooper sits up. As he does, a control panel on the wall TONES gently, as if in response to his movement.

He stands and looks around. He can see sunlight through the open windows and hear people -- kids YELLING as they play. He moves toward the window. Reaches for the curtains. Before he can, the door opens behind him.

A WOMAN in a white coat steps in, smiling warmly.

DOCTOR

Good morning. Don't go outside just yet, Mr. Cooper.

(MORE)

146.

DOCTOR (CONT'D)

(offers him a pill)
This will help with the disorientation.

Cooper opens his mouth to talk, but his voice is cracked. He gives up. Swallows the pill.

DOCTOR (CONT'D)

Wait a minute for that to take effect.
It can be a bit of an adjustment.
(looks him over)
You had some frostbite. Nothing too serious.

As she talks, Cooper looks past her to the window.

COOPER

Where am I?

DOCTOR
(SMILES)

It's a bit of a coincidence, really.
When the rangers found you, we were the nearest facility.

COOPER

What's coincidence? What is this place?

DOCTOR

We have a lot to show you.

The doctor reaches for the curtains. She offers him a hand. Cooper declines the help and steps outside.

EXT. HOSPICE, COOPER STATION -- DAY

Cooper is standing on a rooftop deck of a four-story building in a medium-sized city surrounded by fields. But as the road and the buildings stretch into the distance, the landscape curves up, not down.

The entire landscape is contained within a huge cylinder-shaped space station.

Cooper stumbles, and reaches instinctively out. The doctor catches him.

DOCTOR

You're OK. We get this from people who move here from planetary colonies all the time.

147.

COOPER

Where... where are we?

DOCTOR

Like I said. It was a coincidence. There was a facility closer to Earth, but they had a problem, so you wound up here.
(off his look)
This is the Space Station Joseph A. Cooper.

Cooper takes in the incredible surroundings. A thousand feet above them, black specks are sprinkled over an ocean of green -- Jersey milking cows grazing in a field of wild grass.

DOCTOR (CONT'D)

I've got someone who wants to meet you.

Cooper looks at her.

INT. INTENSIVE CARE ROOM, HOSPICE, COOPER STATION -- DAY

Cooper steps inside. The room is dark, still, the only noise is the labored RATTLE of an old man struggling to breathe.

Cooper steps closer to the bed. The man's skin is paper-thin. He is ancient.

DOCTOR

He was moved here after they found you. He's a little old for a transfer, but they made an exception.

Cooper hovers at the back of the room, unsure. He turns to the doctor, questioning. Then he notices the pictures on the old man's desk:

There are dozens of them. Children, grandchildren. Then the older ones -- the man's own parents. Grandparents. Cooper spots a tiny framed picture with someone he recognizes:

Murph, 80 years old, surrounded by his daughter and her Canaveral, and a huge spaceship under construction.

Cooper picks up the picture and stares at it.

The doctor points to a shy little boy hiding behind Murph's leg in the picture.

DOCTOR (CONT'D)

That's him.

148.

She points to the old man lying in the bed.

DOCTOR (CONT'D)

His name is Anthony Welling. Anthony Cooper Welling.

(SMILES)

He's your great great grandson.

He's been waiting a long time for you.

Cooper's eyes well with tears. He steps over to the bed and looks down at the ancient man, teetering on the edge of death.

The old man looks at him, eyes widening in excitement. He strains, trying to reach the bedside table. He's trying to reach the drawer. Cooper helps him open it.

Inside is a simple, familiar wristwatch. The old man carefully takes out the watch. He gives the watch a few winds and, hands shaking, offers it to Cooper.

Cooper, eyes filling with tears, closes his hand over the old man's hand, enveloping both the watch and the man's hand.

CUT TO:

EXT. CORNFIELD, COOPER STATION -- MORNING

Cooper is sitting in a well-appointed office. A middle-aged BUREAUCRAT smiles at him from the far side of a huge desk.

ADMINISTRATOR

You're a hero, Mr. Cooper. Let's just start off by saying that. It's an incredible and... unexpected honor to have you here with us.

Cooper smiles, uncomfortable.

ADMINISTRATOR (CONT'D)

None of us would be here without the efforts of you and the other crewmembers of the Endurance.

(smiles, unconvincingly)

So I don't want you to take this the wrong way. But there are some questions I've been told to ask.

The man looks petrified, like he's been instructed to grill George Washington on his expense reports.

COOPER

Shoot.

149.

ADMINISTRATOR

The rangers who found you reported that you had released a sample of an alien life-form into the wild. Which is... unfortunately... incorrect.

regulations.

COOPER

It was last of its kind. Their planet was destroyed.

The administrator cues up a series of images on his computer.

ADMINISTRATOR

The rangers attempted to isolate the life-form, but it had already spread out of control. It seems to be thriving.

He shows Cooper a satellite image of north america. A considerable portion of the frozen tundra is glowing.

Cooper begins laughing. Which makes the administrator even less comfortable.

ADMINISTRATOR (CONT'D)

Can you tell me why you... elected to release the life-form back on earth?

Cooper is still laughing.

COOPER

Because that was the plan.

ADMINISTRATOR

Whose plan?

COOPER
(SMILES)

I don't know.

The administrator tries to smile back. Makes a few notes in his file. Changes the subject.

ADMINISTRATOR

My assistant tells me you've applied for a position with the exploration fleet.

COOPER

Feel like I should be pulling my weight.

150.

ADMINISTRATOR

That's admirable, Mr. Cooper. The truth is, most of the fleet's personnel are automated. There are a small number of crewed ships. But there are great numbers of candidates. Very well trained candidates.

COOPER

I was hoping to enroll in a course. Try to get myself up to speed on the new systems.

ADMINISTRATOR

I don't want you to take this the wrong way, Mr. Cooper -- like I said, you're a hero. But the truth is we have somewhat limited resources.

Cooper remembers this conversation. He looks down.

COOPER

No one's heard anything from Brand?

ADMINISTRATOR

I'm sorry. Officially, she's been listed as missing for over 200 years. Mind you, I guess you turned up eventually, didn't you?

COOPER

Am I really going to hurt anybody by going to look for her? I just need a small ship. I made a promise.

The bureaucrat looks down. Is he really going to have to tell this guy the lay of the land?

ADMINISTRATOR

Listen. Mr. Cooper. You're a hero. You're the oldest man in the human race. Don't you want to take it easy?
(off his look)
I hope you understand, we all you hold you in the highest possible regard.

(QUIET)

Which is why they're never going to let you go off by yourself in a spaceship. I'm sorry.

Cooper looks at his hands. He's got a couple centuries on the bureaucrat in Earth years, but looks ten years younger. He puts his hands in his pockets.

151.

ADMINISTRATOR (CONT'D)

I've got some good news, however.

(BIG SMILE)

We all know about your early life, Mr Cooper. I wrote a paper on it when I was a boy. And I think we found something you'll really enjoy.

EXT. CORNFIELD, COOPER STATION -- DAY

Corn blows in an artificial breeze. A red tractor makes its way through the field, which curves gently up in the distance.

ADMINISTRATOR (V.O.)

The machines do most of the work, of course, but we were able to get you a few acres. You're going to be a farmer again.

After a moment, the tractor stops. Cooper climbs down from the seat. Looks at the front steering linkage, which is jammed with an errant tree branch. He wipes his forehead and begins working the branch out of the machine.

He looks miserable.

A robot, a similar unit to Tars, walks over. Offers Cooper a bottle of water. Cooper accepts it.

EXT. HANGAR BAY, COOPER STATION

Cooper stands on an observation deck, high above the hangar floor. Below him, bright young things in uniforms climb into sleek-looking spaceships and prepare to set out.

EXT. BASEBALL DIAMOND, COOPER STATION

Cooper sits in the stands, listening to the familiar crack of the bat as an intramural team from the university practices.

Cooper watches. He looks bored.

The kid up to bat cracks a pop fly. For a second, the catcher shuffles back and forth, trying to get himself into position. But the ball never returns. The catcher YELLS out a warning.

Above, the ball begins to slowly fall up, not down, toward the town center above.

After a second, the ball smashes through a skylight of a building high above them.

Cooper watches as the kid rounds the bases, laughing.
152.

INT. KITCHEN, FARMHOUSE, COOPER STATION -- DAY

Cooper's robot sits at the kitchen table. Cooper is fiddling around in the back of his head.

ROBOT

Settings: general settings, security
SETTINGS--

COOPER

Curiosity. New level setting. 100 percent.

ROBOT

Confirmed. Would you like to make any additional changes?

COOPER

Sense of humor. New level setting. 100 percent. Wait.

(THINKS)

80 percent.

He begins putting the robot back together.

EXT. FARMHOUSE, COOPER STATION -- TWILIGHT

Cooper sits on his porch, joined by the same robot as before. They watch as the space station rotates lazily out of alignment with the local star, casting the inside of the cylinder into shade, then darkness.

The shadow races past them. Another day. Another night.

EXT. HANGAR, COOPER STATION

A maintenance worker finishes looking over one of the sleek-looking spacecraft. He packs up his tools and heads out.

After a moment, two figures pick their way across the hangar floor, sticking to the shadows.

As they reach the first ship in the line, we get a better look. It's Cooper and his robot pal. The robot is wearing a baseball cap and carrying a toolbox.

Cooper gestures to the robot, who sets down the toolbox with a click against the mirror-like floor.

finger to his lips. The robot nods, bashful.

Cooper waves a small handheld computer near the skin of the ship until it lights up. Then he punches in a few codes. Nothing happens. He punches in a few more.

153.

Suddenly, the hatch opens with a HISS.

INT. SHIP

Cooper moves quickly to the cockpit of the ship. Looks over the controls. The robot straps himself in next to him. Cooper looks up through the windows.

The inky black void of space beckons.

Cooper smiles and reaches for the controls.

COOPER

Where do you want to go first?

The robot thinks it over.

EXT. HANGAR, COOPER STATION

The technician walks back into the hangar. He walks along the row of ships till he reaches the last one.

It's not there.

He looks out into the blackness of the void. Sees a tiny glowing speck, getting smaller and smaller.

END

Interstellar

Writers : Jonathan Nolan

Genres : Adventure Drama Sci-Fi

User Comments

Back to IMSDb

Index

| Submit

| Links

| Link to us

| RSS Feeds

| Disclaimer

| Privacy policy

INCEPTION

By

Christopher Nolan

SHOOTING SCRIPT

FADE IN:

DAWN. CRASHING SURF.

The waves TOSS a BEARDED MAN onto wet sand. He lies there.

A CHILD'S SHOUT makes him LIFT his head to see: a LITTLE BLONDE BOY crouching, back towards us, watching the tide eat a SANDCASTLE. A LITTLE BLONDE GIRL joins the boy. The Bearded Man tries to call them, but they RUN OFF, FACES UNSEEN. He COLLAPSES.

The barrel of a rifle ROLLS the Bearded Man onto his back. A JAPANESE SECURITY GUARD looks down at him, then calls up the beach to a colleague leaning against a JEEP. Behind them is a cliff, and on top of that, a JAPANESE CASTLE.

INT. ELEGANT DINING ROOM, JAPANESE CASTLE - LATER

The Security Guard waits as an ATTENDANT speaks to an ELDERLY JAPANESE MAN sitting at the dining table, back to us.

ATTENDANT

(in Japanese)

He was delirious. But he asked for you by name. And...

(to the Security Guard)

Show him.

SECURITY GUARD

(in Japanese)

He was carrying nothing but this...

He puts a HANDGUN on the table. The Elderly Man keeps eating.

SECURITY GUARD

...and this.

The Security Guard places a SMALL PEWTER CONE alongside the gun. The Elderly Man STOPS eating. Picks up the cone.

ELDERLY JAPANESE MAN

(in Japanese)

Bring him here. And some food.

INT. SAME - MOMENTS LATER

The Elderly Man watches the Bearded Man WOLF down his food. He SLIDES the handgun down the table towards him.

ELDERLY JAPANESE MAN

(in English)

Are you here to kill me?

The Bearded Man glances up at him, then back to his food.

The Elderly Japanese Man picks up the cone between thumb and forefinger.

ELDERLY JAPANESE MAN
I know what this is.

He SPINS it onto a table- it CIRCLES gracefully across the polished ebony... a SPINNING TOP.

ELDERLY JAPANESE MAN
I've seen one before. Many, many years ago...

The Elderly Japanese Man STARES at the top mesmerized.

ELDERLY JAPANESE MAN
It belonged to a man I met in a half-remembered dream...

MOVE IN on the GRACEFULLY SPINNING TOP...

ELDERLY JAPANESE MAN
A man possessed of some radical notions...

The Elderly Japanese Man STARES, remembering...

COBB (V.O.)
What's the most resilient parasite?

CUT TO:

INT. SAME ELEGANT DINING ROOM - NIGHT (YEARS EARLIER)

The speaker, COBB, is 35, handsome, tailored. A young Japanese man, SAITO, eats as he listens.

COBB
A bacteria? A virus?

Cobb gestures at their feast with his wine glass-

COBB
An intestinal worm?

Saito's fork pauses, mid-air. Cobb GRINS. A third man is at the table- ARTHUR. He jumps in to save the pitch-

ARTHUR
What Mr. Cobb is trying to say-

COBB
An idea.

Saito looks at Cobb, curious.

COBB

Resilient, highly contagious. Once an idea's taken hold in the brain it's almost impossible to eradicate. A person can cover it up, ignore it- but it stays there.

SAITO

But surely-to forget...?

COBB

Information, yes. But an idea? Fully formed, understood? That sticks...

(taps forehead)

In there, somewhere.

SAITO

For someone like you to steal?

ARTHUR

Yes. In the dream state, conscious defenses are lowered and your thoughts become vulnerable to theft. It's called extraction.

COBB

But, Mr. Saito, we can train your subconscious to defend itself from even the most skilled extractor.

SAITO

How can you do that?

COBB

Because I am the most skilled extractor. I know how to search your mind and find your secrets. I know the tricks, and I can teach them to your subconscious so that even when you're asleep, your guard is never down.

Cobb leans forwards. Holding Saito's gaze.

COBB

But if I'm going to help you, you have to be completely open to me. I'll need to know my way around your thoughts better than your wife, your analyst, anyone.

(gestures around)

If this is a dream and you've got a safe full of secrets, I need to know what's in that safe. For this to work, you have to let me in.

Saito gives this a flicker of a smile. Rises. A BODYGUARD opens double doors which give onto a LAVISH PARTY.

SAITO
Gentlemen. Enjoy your evening as I consider your proposal.

They watch Saito leave. Arthur turns to Cobb, worried-

ARTHUR
He knows.

Cobb motions silence. A TREMOR starts, they steady their glasses, Cobb glances at his watch- THE SECOND HAND IS FROZEN.

ARTHUR
What's going on up there?

And we-

CUT TO:

FILTHY BATHROOM - DAY (FEELS LIKE DIFFERENT TIME)

Cobb, ASLEEP, SITTING IN A CHAIR AT THE END OF A STEAMING BATH. The chair is up on a cabinet- the bottom of the legs level with the rim of the tub.

A sweating man (40's) watches over Cobb. This is NASH. A distant EXPLOSION rumbles through the room. Nash moves to the window, parts the curtains. Outside: a CHAOTIC DEVELOPING-WORLD CITY- the street filled with RIOTERS- SMASHING, BURNING.

Nash checks Cobb's left wrist: above his watch, tape holds TWO THIN YELLOW TUBES in place. Nash looks at Cobb's watch- THE SECOND HAND CRAWLS UNNATURALLY SLOWLY.

Nash follows the tubes to a SILVER BRIEFCASE at Arthur's feet: ARTHUR IS ASLEEP in an armchair. Tubes connect the briefcase to Arthur's wrist.

Nash follows another set of tubes from the briefcase to where they pass under the door to the bedroom. Through the crack of the door, Nash sees SAITO ASLEEP on the bed, tubes running to his wrist. BOOM- a closer EXPLOSION, and we-

CUT TO:

INT. BULLET TRAIN COMPARTMENT - DAY (FEELS LIKE DIFFERENT TIME)

Nash, ASLEEP. Head ROCKING AGAINST THE WINDOW as the train BUMPS OVER A ROUGH PIECE OF TRACK.

A Japanese Man, TODASHI (18) watches Nash nervously. He checks Nash's wrist: TWO YELLOW TUBES CONNECT NASH WITH THREE OTHER SLEEPING MEN IN THE COMPARTMENT: COBB, ARTHUR, SAITO.

Todashi checks his watch: THE SECOND HAND TICKS IN REAL TIME. Another TRAIN PASSES in the opposite direction with a MIGHTY WHUMP- Todashi's eyes FLY to Nash's sleeping face-

NASH JERKS WITH THE MOVEMENT OF THE TRAIN, and we-

CUT TO:

INT. FILTHY BATHROOM - CONTINUOUS

Another EXPLOSION- Nash CHECKS the sleeping Cobb and we-

CUT TO:

EXT. ROOFTOP TERRACES, JAPANESE CASTLE - NIGHT

A LOW TREMOR RUMBLES THROUGH THE CASTLE. Cobb and Arthur steady themselves against the wooden rail. Several TILES and pieces of MASONRY fall. Below them a BLACK SEA churns. Other GUESTS wander the massive terraces.

ARTHUR

Saito knows. He's playing with us.

COBB

I can get it here. The information's in the safe- he looked right at it when I mentioned secrets.

Arthur nods. Then spots someone over Cobb's shoulder.

ARTHUR

What's she doing here, Cobb?

Cobb turns to see a beautiful woman, elegantly dressed, staring out at the sea. This is MAL. Cobb watches her.

COBB

You just get to your room. I'll take care of the rest.

ARTHUR

See that you do. We're here to work.

Arthur brushes past Mal, shaking his head. She nears Cobb. Looks out at the DROP. The WIND WHIPS HER HAIR-

MAL

If I jumped, would I survive?

COBB
With a clean dive, perhaps. Mal, why are you here?

She turns to look at him. Amused.

MAL
I thought you might be missing
me...

She smiles. He leans in, mesmerized.

COBB
I am. But I can't trust you anymore.

She stares up at him, inviting.

MAL
So what?

INT. BEDROOM SUITE, JAPANESE CASTLE - MOMENTS LATER

Mal sips champagne as she studies a painting by Francis Bacon.

MAL
Looks like Arthur's taste.

Cobb is looking down through the window at the GUARDS patrolling the castle at ground level.

COBB
Actually, Mr. Saito is partial to postwar British painters.

He turns to Mal, donning a pair of black leather gloves.

COBB
Would you sit down?

Mal lowers herself gracefully into a leather wingback chair.
Cobb approaches, pulls out a length of BLACK ROPE and kneels at Mal's feet. She looks down at him.

MAL
Tell me...

Cobb TIES the rope around the CHAIR LEGS.

MAL
Do the children miss me?

Cobb pauses. He lets his gloved fingers lightly touch Mal's ankle. He looks up at her.

COBB
You can't imagine.

Mal looks away, uncomfortable. Cobb gets to his feet, letting out the rope as he moves back to the window.

MAL
What're you doing?

Cobb tosses the rope out-

COBB
Getting some air.

He tugs on the rope, testing. The weight of the chair, with Mal on it, holds.

COBB
Stay seated. Please.

And with that, he JUMPS. Mal considers the open window.

EXT. JAPANESE CASTLE WALL - CONTINUOUS

Cobb RAPPELS down the wall, darting past windows. He stops at a particular one. Gets out a glass cutter-

Suddenly he starts DROPPING-

INT. BEDROOM SUITE, JAPANESE CASTLE - CONTINUOUS

The EMPTY CHAIR SLIDES across the floor- WEDGES under the window-

EXT. JAPANESE CASTLE WALL - CONTINUOUS

Cobb JOLTS to a stop 15 ft. lower. He looks up at the bedroom window. Shakes his head. Starts climbing back.

INT. KITCHEN, JAPANESE CASTLE - MOMENTS LATER

Cobb drops silently from the window into the darkened kitchen. He pulls a PISTOL from his belt, screwing a SILENCER onto the barrel as he GLIDES across the room.

INT. HALL, JAPANESE CASTLE-CONTINUOUS

Cobb SLIPS through the shadows towards a GUARD stationed at the head of a GRAND STAIRCASE...

The Guard HEARS something- TURNS- PEERS into the shadows...

Cobb FLASHES out of the shadows, silenced pistol up, AIMING-

PHHT- head shot- the Guard starts to drop... but Cobb is already there to CATCH him, sliding on his knees and lowering the Guard SILENTLY to the floor.

INT. DINING ROOM, JAPANESE CASTLE - CONTINUOUS

Cobb moves to a PAINTING. With practiced hands he removes it from the wall, revealing a SAFE. Cobb spins the dial, pulls it OPEN, GRABS an envelope from within, stuffs it into his waistband, where there is already an IDENTICAL ENVELOPE.

LIGHTS COME ON. Cobb freezes.

SAITO (O.S.)

Turn around.

Cobb turns. At the far end of the room: Saito. Next to him is Mal, gun in hand. She smiles at Cobb.

MAL

The gun, Dom.

Cobb doesn't move. Mal motions outside- two GUARDS drag Arthur into the room. Mal puts the gun to his head.

MAL

Please.

Cobb slowly places his gun at his end of the long table, then SLIDES it along the polished ebony. It comes to rest HALFWAY down the length of the table.

SAITO

Now the envelope, Mr. Cobb.

Cobb reaches into his waistband, removes ONE of the envelopes, SLIDES it along the table. Steps back, hands raised.

COBB

Did she tell you, or have you known all along?

SAITO

That you're here to steal from me?

(beat)

Or that we're actually asleep?

Arthur gives Cobb an I-told-you-so look.

SAITO

I want to know who your employer is.

Mal COCKS the gun at Arthur's temple.

COBB

No point threatening him in a dream.

MAL

That depends on what you're threatening. Killing him would just wake him up... but pain? Pain is in the mind...

Mal LOWERS the gun and SHOOTS Arthur in the leg- Arthur drops, SCREAMING- Mal looks at Cobb, cold.

MAL

And, judging by the decor, we're in your mind, aren't we, Arthur?

Cobb watches Arthur's PAIN. Mal aims at Arthur's other leg...

Cobb SPRINGS for the table, SKIDDING along its polished surface- he GRABS his gun- SHOOTS ARTHUR BETWEEN THE EYES-

Arthur DROPS- the room starts to SHUDDER in a MASSIVE EARTHQUAKE- Cobb SPRINGS for the door- Arthur's eyes stare at the ceiling, DEAD, and we-

CUT TO:

INT. FILTHY BATHROOM - DAY

Arthur's EYES OPEN as he WAKES IN THE ARMCHAIR- he GRABS at the tubes at his wrist, YANKING them free-

NASH

What're you doing?! It's too soon-

FLUID spurts from the tubes as Arthur STRUGGLES with the SILVER CASE on the bathroom floor.

ARTHUR

I know! We have to reconnect the loop before they wake up!

Arthur grabs the case and pushes through the door to the bedroom- following the tubes to where they meet Saito's wrist- SAITO LIES ON THE BED ASLEEP. Saito STIRS and we-

CUT TO:

INT. JAPANESE CASTLE CORRIDOR - NIGHT

Cobb LURCHES towards the stairs, as all around him the building BUCKS and HEAVES-

INT. DINING ROOM, JAPANESE CASTLE - CONTINUOUS

Saito and the Guards PANIC. Mal walks calmly through the destruction, picks up the envelope and turns to Saito.

MAL

He was close. Very close.

EXT. GRAND STAIRCASE, JAPANESE CASTLE - CONTINUOUS

Cobb runs up the stairs, pulling out the SECOND ENVELOPE-

INT. DINING ROOM, JAPANESE CASTLE - CONTINUOUS

Saito RIPS open the envelope, pulls out sheets of paper. He looks at Mal, PANICKED. He turns to the Guards-

SAITO

Stop him!

Mal, confused, looks at the sheets of paper: THEY ARE BLANK. Mal smiles, amused.

INT. GRAND STAIRCASE, JAPANESE CASTLE - CONTINUOUS

As Cobb runs up the stairs he reads the TYPEWRITTEN SHEETS from his envelope, and we-

CUT TO:

INT. DILAPIDATED HOTEL ROOM - DAY

Arthur OPENS the silver case: a COMPLEX MECHANISM of TUBES, SYRINGES, DOSAGE CONTROLLERS. Arthur's hands fly across the machine's controls as he glances at Saito's STIRRING face-

ARTHUR

I'm not going to make it! Wake Cobb!

INT. FILTHY BATHROOM - CONTINUOUS

Nash turns to Cobb. Raises his hand and SMACKS him across the face, and we-

CUT TO:

INT. GRAND STAIRCASE, JAPANESE CASTLE - NIGHT

Cobb is SMASHED sideways off his feet...

INT. DINING ROOM, JAPANESE CASTLE - NIGHT

The CEILING CRACKS above Saito- he looks up as a TON of STONE floods down, CRUSHING HIM and we-

CUT TO:

INT. DILAPIDATED HOTEL ROOM - DAY

Saito's eyes FLICKER OPEN. AWAKE.

INT. FILTHY BATHROOM - CONTINUOUS

Nash SMACKS Cobb again-

NASH
He won't wake!

INT. DILAPIDATED HOTEL ROOM-CONTINUOUS

Arthur crouched by Saito, connects the second tube.

ARTHUR
Dunk him!

A CLICK: Arthur looks up to find Saito with a gun to his head and a finger to his lips, gesturing silence...

INT. FILTHY BATHROOM - CONTINUOUS

Nash puts his hand on Cobb's forehead and PUSHES HIM BACKWARDS- as Cobb starts to FALL BACKWARDS in the chair we are in SLOW MOTION, and we-

CUT TO:

INT. GRAND STAIRCASE, JAPANESE CASTLE - NIGHT

Cobb, full speed, picks himself up, scrambling to read the last sheet of paper. He stares at it PUZZLED- bullets hit around him as the Guards race up the stairs and we-

CUT TO:

INT. FILTHY BATHROOM - DAY

Cobb in SLOW MOTION, hits the WATER- head THRASHING as he goes under- and we-

CUT TO:

INT. GRAND STAIRCASE, JAPANESE CASTLE - NIGHT

Cobb glances up from the paper as WATER EXPLODES IN THROUGH ALL THE WINDOWS, FLOODING THE ENTIRE HALL-

COBB IS SWAMPED BY WATER, SPUN IN ALL DIRECTIONS AT ONCE- HE PULLS DEEPER OR FOR THE SURFACE, WE CAN'T TELL...

HE BREAKS THE SURFACE, GASPING FOR AIR IN THE BATHTUB IN THE-
INT. FILTHY BATHROOM - DAY

Cobb's AWAKE, GULPING AIR, getting his bearings.

Saito SMASHES into the room, KNOCKING Nash down- Cobb LAUNCHES himself out of the tub, FLYING dripping wet across the room to SLAM Saito against the door- the gun DROPS, Cobb's fist CONNECTS with Saito's jaw and the struggle is over.

INT. DILAPIDATED HOTEL ROOM - MOMENTS LATER

Cobb, wet but composed, sits, turning Saito's gun in his hand. Nash holds Saito's arms behind him. Outside, the sounds of RIOTING grow louder.

COBB
You came prepared.

SAITO
I bring the gun because not even my head of security knows this apartment. How did you find it?

Arthur, at the window, looks out at the WORSENING VIOLENCE.

COBB
Hard for a man in your position to keep a love nest totally secret... particularly when there's a married woman involved.

SAITO
She would never...

COBB
And yet, here we are.

Saito is silent.

COBB
With a dilemma.

SAITO
You got what you came for.

COBB
Not quite. The key piece of information wasn't there, was it,
Mr. Saito?

Arthur looks over at Cobb, worried.

ARTHUR
They're getting closer, Cobb.

CUT TO:

INT. BULLET TRAIN COMPARTMENT - DAY

Todashi slips a pair of HEADPHONES over Nash's ears, then pulls out an MP3 player and we-

CUT TO:

INT. DILAPIDATED HOTEL ROOM - DAY

Saito's eyes are on the floor.

COBB
You held something back because you knew what we were up to...

Cobb uses the barrel of the gun to raise Saito's chin.

COBB
So why let us in at all?

Saito smiles, defiant. VIOLENT NOISES echo up the stairway...

SAITO
An audition.

COBB
Audition for what?

SAITO
It doesn't matter. You failed.

COBB
I extracted all the information you had in there.

SAITO
But your deception was readily apparent.

And we-

CUT TO:

INT. BULLET TRAIN COMPARTMENT - DAY

Todashi opens the SILVER BRIEFCASE, revealing the complex mechanism of syringes and controllers- FOUR CONTROLLERS DISPLAY COUNTDOWNS.

Todashi waits for the first countdown to hit "30," then HITS PLAY on the MP3 player- He watches Nash's sleeping face as he RAISES the volume...

Through Nash's headphones: the opening bars of Edith Piaf's "Non, je ne regrette rien," and we-

CUT TO:

INT. DILAPIDATED HOTEL ROOM - DAY

In the distant background, strange MASSIVE low-end MUSICAL start, sounding like DISTANT HORNS...

SAITO
So leave me and go.

COBB
You know the corporation who hired us won't accept failure. We won't last two days...

The DISTANT, SLOWED-DOWN MUSIC is becoming LOUDER, as are the SHOUTS coming up the stairs. Arthur looks at his watch, its SLOW SECOND TICKING MARKS TIME WITH THE MASSIVE MUSIC.

ARTHUR
Come on, Cobb.

COBB
So now I have to do this the old-fashioned way-

Cobb GRABS SAITO AND PUTS HIS HEAD TO THE FLOOR, gun pressed into his cheek. Saito looks into Cobb's eyes- sees he will pull the trigger. Saito BLINKS, looks away in shame-

When he NOTICES SOMETHING. And starts LAUGHING.

SAITO
I've always hated this carpet.

Cobb's eyes flick to the carpet and back.

SAITO
It's stained and frayed in such distinctive ways...

Cobb looks up at Nash, who shrugs, at a loss.

SAITO
But very definitely made of wool.
Right now I'm lying on polyester.

Cobb glares at Nash, and we-

CUT TO:

INT. BULLET TRAIN COMPARTMENT - DAY

Todashi watches the first of the countdowns hit ZERO- He looks up at Arthur, STIRRING, and we-

CUT TO:

INT. DILAPIDATED HOTEL ROOM-DAY

Saito turns from the carpet to look up at Cobb.

SAITO

Which means I'm not lying on my carpet, in my apartment...

(smiles)

You've lived up to your reputation,
Mr. Cobb... I'm still dreaming.

Cobb looks over to Arthur, but ARTHUR HAS VANISHED, and we-

CUT TO:

INT. BULLET TRAIN COMPARTMENT - DAY

Arthur's eyes flicker open, AWAKE. He RIPS at his tubes.

TODASHI

How'd it go?

ARTHUR

Not good.

Arthur checks the remaining three countdowns, and we-

CUT TO:

INT. DILAPIDATED HOTEL ROOM - DAY

Saito gets to his feet, looking admiringly at Cobb.

SAITO

A dream within a dream-I'm impressed.

Cobb lowers the gun. Defeated. Glances at his watch. The music REVERBERATES, the RIOTERS BANG ON THE DOOR, and we-

CUT TO:

INT. BULLET TRAIN COMPARTMENT - DAY

Arthur retracts the tubes into the case as he watches the next countdown hit ZERO, and we-

CUT TO:

INT. DILAPIDATED HOTEL ROOM - DAY

Another BANG on the door- Saito, confident now, approaches Cobb. Nash is behind Saito.

SAITO

But in my dream, we really ought to be playing by my rules...

NASH

Ah, yes, but you see, Mr. Saito-

Saito turns to Nash-

COBB

We're not in your dream-

Saito turns back to Cobb, BUT COBB HAS VANISHED-

NASH

We're in mine.

Saito SPINS back to Nash- the DOOR SMASHES OFF ITS HINGES AS RIOTERS POUR INTO THE ROOM, SWARMING OVER NASH... BUT NASH IS GONE. The music DIES. Saito and the rioters stand there in the SILENCE, the light DWINDLING... and we-

CUT TO:

INT. BULLET TRAIN COMPARTMENT - DAY

Nash' eyes open, AWAKE.

ARTHUR (O.S.)

Asshole!

Nash BLINKS. Arthur is in his face, furious.

ARTHUR

How could you get the carpet wrong?!

NASH

It wasn't my fault!

ARTHUR

You're the architect-

NASH
I didn't know he was going to rub his damn cheek on it!

Cobb pulls Arthur away from Nash.

COBB
Lets go.

ARTHUR
And you-what the hell was all that?

COBB
I had it under control.

ARTHUR
I'd hate to see out of control-

COBB
There's no time for this-I'm getting off at Kyoto.

ARTHUR
Why? He's not gonna search every compartment.

COBB
I can't stand trains.

Arthur moves to the briefcase. Turns a dial.

ARTHUR
I can keep him under for one minute-

Arthur hits a button- A PLUNGER DEPRESSES. Cobb RIPS the tape off Saito's wrist, ROLLS up his tubes. Arthur SLAMS the silver case shut. Todashi pulls open the door-

COBB
Every man for himself.

Arthur and Nash EXIT, heading in different directions down the corridor. Cobb hands Todashi a thick roll of CASH, looks at Saito, who stirs. Cobb moves off.

EXT. JAPANESE COUNTRYSIDE - CONTINUOUS

The BULLET TRAIN speeds through the lush landscape.

INT. BULLET TRAIN COMPARTMENT - CONTINUOUS

Saito WAKES GENTLY. Looks around the compartment, empty but for Todashi, reading a comic. Saito looks down at his wrist.
Sees a small mark. Rubs it. SMILES.

EXT. TOKYO - DUSK

Moving over the vast city towards a high rise. A HELICOPTER thumps into frame, heading for a pad on the roof.

INT. APARTMENT, TOKYO - CONTINUOUS

Cobb sits, waiting. Checks his watch, restless. He pulls a HANDGUN. Checks it is loaded. places it on the table in front of him. Pulls out a PEWTER SPINNING TOP, SPINS it on the table ... He INTENT STUDIES the top's spin... As he stares, the sound of a FREIGHT TRAIN builds and builds- the top WOBBLES, TIPS onto its side- the sound of the train STOPS. the PHONE RINGS- Cobb GRABS it-

CHILDREN'S VOICES (over phone)
Hi, Daddy! Hi, Dad.

COBB
Hey, guys. How are you?

CHILDREN'S VOICES (over phone)
Good. Okay, I guess.

Cobb closes his eyes, trying to picture his children: INSERT CUT: COBB's MEMORY- a LITTLE BLONDE BOY (3), back towards us, crouches IN A GARDEN, looks at something in the grass...

COBB
Who's just okay? Was that James?

JAMES (over phone)
Yeah. When are you coming home?

COBB
I can't. Not for a while.

INSERT CUT: A LITTLE BLONDE GIRL (5), also FACE UNSEEN, joins JAMES, CROUCHING BESIDE HIM...

JAMES (over phone)
Why?

COBB
Well, James, like I've told you-I'm away because I'm working...

LITTLE GIRL (over phone)
Grandma says you're never coming back.

Cobb pauses. Takes a breath. INSERT CUT: James and Philippa, FACES UNSEEN, lift their heads from the grass, responding to someone's call- they RUN AWAY FROM US ACROSS THE GARDEN...

COBB
Philippa, can you ask Grandma to pick up the phone-

PHILIPPA (over phone)
She's shaking her head.

Cobb TENSES, as if about to SMASH the phone.

COBB
Well, we'll just have to hope Grandma's wrong about that won't we?

JAMES
(over phone)
Daddy?

COBB
Yes?

JAMES (over phone)
Is Mommy with you?

Cobb looks like he just got punched- INSERT CUT: COBB'S MEMORY- MAL, WIND BLOWING HER HAIR, SMILES CALMLY...

COBB
No. No, we talked about this,
James. Mommy's gone.

JAMES (over phone)
Where?

GRANDMA'S VOICE (over phone)
Time to go, kids. Say bye-bye-

COBB
I'll give some presents to Grandpa, okay? Just be good for-

Cobb STARES at the dead phone. Then DOWNS his drink- A KNOCK at the door. Cobb GRABS the top, the gun- MOVES to the door-cracks it: Arthur.

ARTHUR
Our ride's on the roof.

Cobb nods. Moves to pick up his bag. Arthur watches.

ARTHUR
Cobb... are you okay?

Cobb looks up.

COBB
Yeah, why?

ARTHUR
Down in the dream... Mal showing up like that ...

COBB
Yeah. I'm sorry about your leg.

ARTHUR
It's getting worse, isn't it?

COBB
One apology's all you're getting,
Arthur. Now, where's Nash?

ARTHUR
Hasn't shown. Wanna wait?

COBB
(shakes head)
We were supposed to deliver Saito's expansion plans to Cobol Engineering two hours ago. By now they know we failed. Time to disappear.

INT. CORRIDOR - CONTINUOUS

Cobb and Arthur head towards the elevator.

ARTHUR
Where will you go?

COBB
Buenos Aires. I can lie low there.
Maybe sniff out a job when things quiet down. You?

ARTHUR
Stateside.

COBB (wistful))
'Course. Send my regards.

Arthur looks at Cobb. Nods. Sympathetic.

EXT. ROOFTOP HELIPAD - NIGHT

The HELICOPTER sits, ROTORS SPINNING. As Cobb and Arthur reach the door, it SLIDES OPEN. Cobb steps up into the leather-padded interior. He freezes.

INT. HELICOPTER ON PAD - CONTINUOUS

Nash, BEATEN BLOODY, sits on the far side, slumped against the wine. Beside him: SAITO. He nods politely at Cobb.

SAITO
He sold you out. Thought to come to me and bargain for his life...

Saito's BODYGUARD offers Cobb a GUN.

SAITO
So I offer you the satisfaction.

COBB
That's not how I deal with things.

SAITO
Would you work with him again?

Cobb shakes his head. Saito's BODYGUARDS PULL Nash from the chopper. Saito motions Cobb and Arthur to sit. The chopper RISES. Cobb watches Nash DRAGGED across the pad.

COBB
What will you do to him?

SAITO
Nothing. But I can't speak for your friends from Cobol Engineering.

Saito looks out at the city slipping by.

COBB
What do you want from us?

SAITO
Inception.

Arthur raises his eyebrows. Cobb is poker-faced.

SAITO
Is it possible?

ARTHUR
Of course not.

SAITO
If you can steal an idea from someone's mind, why can't you plant one there instead?

ARTHUR
Okay, here's planting an idea: I say to you, "Don't think about elephants."
(MORE)

ARTHUR (CONT'D)
(Saito nods)
What are you thinking about?

SAITO
Elephants.

ARTHUR
Right. But it's not your idea because you know I gave it to you.

SAITO
You could plant it subconsciously-

ARTHUR
The subject's mind can always trace the genesis of the idea. True inspiration is impossible to fake.

COBB
No, it isn't.

SAITO
Can you do it?

COBB
I won't do it.

SAITO
In exchange, I'll give you the information you were paid to steal.

COBB
Are you giving me a choice? Because I can find my own way to square things with Cobol.

SAITO
Then you do have a choice.

COBB
And I choose to leave.

EXT. AIRFIELD - MOMENTS LATER

The helicopter sets down next to a PRIVATE JET.

INT. HELICOPTER - CONTINUOUS

Saito indicates the plane.

SAITO
Tell the crew where you want to go, they'll file the plan en route.

Cobb and Arthur look at each other. Then move for the door.

SAITO

Mr. Cobb...? There is one other thing I could offer you.

(Cobb stops)

How would you like to go home? To America. To your children.

Cobb turns back to Saito.

COBB

You can't fix that. Nobody could.

SAITO

Just like inception.

Cobb considers this. Arthur touches his arm.

ARTHUR

Cobb, come on-

COBB

How complex is the idea?

SAITO

Simple enough.

COBB

No idea's simple when you have to plant it in someone else's mind.

SAITO

My main competitor is an old man in poor health. His son will soon inherit control of the corporation. I need him to decide to break up his father's empire. Against his own self-interest.

ARTHUR

Cobb, we should walk away from this.

COBB

If I were to do it. If I could do it... how do I know you can deliver?

SAITO

You don't. But I can. So do you want to take a leap of faith, or become an old man, filled with regret, waiting to die alone?

Cobb looks at Saito. Barely nods.

SAITO Assemble your team, Mr. Cobb. And choose your people more wisely.

INT. PRIVATE JET - LATER

Cobb reclines his seat. Arthur picks at a salad, angry.

ARTHUR
I know how much you want to go home-

COBB
(sharp)
No, you don't.

ARTHUR
But this can't be done.

COBB
It can. You just have to go deep enough.

ARTHUR
You don't know that!-

COBB
I've done it before.

Arthur is taken aback. Cobb turns to the window.

ARTHUR
Did it work?

COBB
(quiet)
Yes.

ARTHUR
Who did you do it to?

Cobb looks at Arthur. Closed. Arthur shrugs.

ARTHUR
So why are we headed to Paris?

COBB
We're going to need a new architect.

INT. GREAT HALL, ÉCOLE D'ARCHITECTURE - MORNING

Cobb, carrying a shopping bag, looks into a lecture hall: no students, just a RUMPLED PROFESSOR hunched over paperwork.

INT. LECTURE HALL - CONTINUOUS

COBB (O.S.)
You never did like your office.

PROFESSOR MILES looks up, squinting. Recognizes Cobb.

MILES
No space to think in that broom cupboard.

Cobb steps down past the empty wooden rows.

MILES
Is it safe for you to be here?

COBB
Extradition between France and the U.S. is a bureaucratic nightmare.

MILES
I think they'd find a way to make it work in your case.

Cobb hand Miles the shopping bag.

COBB
Can you take these back for the kids?

MILES
It'll take more than the occasional stuffed animal to convince those children they still have a father.

COBB
I know. I thought you could talk to Marie about bringing them on vacation. Somewhere I could meet-

MILES
Why would she listen to me?

COBB
You were married for twenty years.

MILES
She blames me as much as you.

COBB
Doesn't she understand that my kids need me?

MILES

Yes, she does. We all do. Go back and face the music, Dom. Explain what Mal did.

COBB

Be realistic, Stephen. They'd never understand- they'd lock me up and throwaway the key. Or worse.

MILES

You think what you're doing now is helping your case?

COBB

Lawyers don't pay for themselves. This is what I have. This is what you taught me.

MILES

I never taught you to be a thief.

COBB

No, you taught me to navigate other people's minds. But after what happened with Mal there weren't a whole lot of legitimate ways for me to use that skill.

Miles looks at Cobb.

MILES

Why did you come here, Dom?

Cobb shifts slightly.

COBB

I found a way home. A job. For powerful people. If I pull it off, I can get back to my family. But I need help.

Miles realizes something.

MILES

My God. You're here to corrupt one of my brightest and best.

COBB

If you have someone good enough, you have to let them decide for themselves. You know what I'm offering-

MILES

Money?

COBB

No, not just money: the chance to build cathedrals, entire cities—things that have never existed, things that couldn't exist in the real world...

MILES

Everybody dreams, Cobb. Architects are supposed to make those dreams real.

COBB

That's not what you used to say. You told me that in the real world I'd be building attic conversions and gas stations. You said that if I mastered the dream-share I'd have a whole new way of creating and showing people my creations. You told me it would free me.

Miles looks at Cobb, sad.

MILES

And I'm sorry. I was wrong.

COBB

No, you weren't. Your vision was a vision of pure creativity. It's where we took it that was wrong.

MILES

And now you want me to let someone else follow you into fantasy.

COBB

They won't actually come on the job, they'll just design the levels and teach them to the dreamers.

MILES

Design them yourself.

COBB

Mal won't let me.

Miles looks at Cobb. Appalled.

MILES

Come back to reality, Dom. Please.

COBB

You want to know what's real, Stephen? Your grandchildren waiting for their dad to come back.

(MORE)

COBB (CONT'D)

This job-this last job-is how I get there.

Miles looks down, fiddles with his papers.

COBB

I wouldn't be standing here if there were any other way. I can get home. But I need an architect who's as good as I was.

Miles looks Cobb in the eye. Decides.

MILES

I've got someone better.

INT. CORRIDOR - LATER

Miles and Cobb stand by as STUDENTS file out of a lecture.

MILES

Ariadne...

A young woman carrying books turns. This is ARIADNE.

MILES

I'd like you to meet Mr. Cobb.

She sizes him up with quick eyes. Offers her hand.

ARIADNE

Pleased to meet you.

MILES

If you have a few moments, Mr. Cobb has a job offer to discuss with you.

ARIADNE

A work placement?

COBB

(smiles
Not exactly.

EXT. ROOFTOP, ÉCOLE D'ARCHITECTURE - MOMENTS LATER

Ariadne leans against the parapet, overlooking Paris. She unwraps a sandwich, watching Cobb pull out a pad of GRAPH PAPER and a PEN. He offers them. She bites her sandwich.

COBB

A test.

ARIADNE
(mouth full)
Aren't you going to tell me anything?

COBB
Before I describe the job, I have to know you could do it.

ARIADNE
Why?

COBB
It's not, strictly speaking, legal.

Ariadne raises her eyebrows.

COBB
You have two minutes to draw a maze that takes me one minute to solve.

Ariadne takes the pad and pen. Cobb looks at his watch.

COBB
Go.

She starts DRAWING LINES on the grid, constructing a maze.

COBB
Stop.

Ariadne hands the pad and pen to Cobb. He glances at the pad, then, looking her in the eye, TRACES the solution. She is taken aback. Cobb RIPS off the sheet, hands the pad back.

COBB
Again.

She traces straight lines, CONCENTRATING...

COBB
Stop.

She hands Cobb the pad, a touch pleased. Cobb solves the puzzle instantly, as before. Her smile falls.

COBB
You'll have to-

She GRABS the pad, frustrated... but this time she FLIPS it over and starts drawing on the BLANK CARDBOARD of the back.
Cobb watches, surprised. He smiles as he sees that she's drawing CIRCLES, creating a maze based on concentric rings.

Ariadne hands back the pad, defiant. Cobb takes the pen, starts the maze. This time he gets stuck. Nods.

COBB
(working the maze)
More like it.

EXT. NARROW STREET, PARIS - DAY

Arthur stops at a warehouse door. Consults a piece of paper.

INT. WORKSHOP - CONTINUOUS

A large, dusty warehouse. The SLIDING DOOR cracks open.
Arthur enters. Looks around, approvingly.

INT. SAME - LATER

Arthur DRAGS LAWN CHAIRS into the middle of the room. He erects a table. Lays out several SILVER CASES, unpacking them, laying out lines of tubing, MECHANISMS...

EXT. PARISIAN CAFE - DAY

Cobb and Ariadne sit at an outdoor table.

COBB
They say we only use a fraction of the true potential of our brains... but they're talking about when we're awake. While we dream, the mind performs wonders.

ARIADNE
Such as?

COBB
How do you imagine a building? You consciously create each aspect, puzzling over it in stages... But sometimes, when your imagination flies-

ARIADNE
I'm discovering it.

COBB
Exactly. Genuine inspiration.

Cobb leans forwards and draws on the paper table cloth.

COBB
In a dream your mind continuously does that...

Cobb has drawn a circle made of two arrows.

COBB

It creates and perceives a world simultaneously. So well that you don't feel your brain doing the creating. That's why we can short-circuit the process...

ARIADNE

How?

COBB

By taking over the creating part.

Cobb draws a straight line between the two arrows.

COBB

This is where you come in. You build the world of the dream. We take the subject into that dream, and let him fill it with his subconscious

ARIADNE

But are you trying to fool him that the dream is actually real life?

COBB

(nods)

While we're in there, We don't want him to realize he's dreaming.

ARIADNE

How could I ever get enough detail to Convince him that it's real?

COBB

Our dreams reel real while we're in them. It's only when we wake up we realize things were strange,

Ariadne gestures around them-

ARIADNE

But all the textures of real life- the stone, the fabric. cars... people... your mind can't create all this.

COBB

It does. Every time you dream. Let me ask you a question: You never remember the beginning of your dreams, do you? You just turn up in the middle of what's going on.

ARIADNE

I guess.

COBB

So... how did we end up at this restaurant?

ARIADNE

We came here from...

Ariadne trails off, confused.

COBB

How did we get here? Where are we?

Ariadne THINKS, unable to remember. A FAINT RUMBLE begins.

ARIADNE

Oh my God. We're dreaming.

Cobb nods. The RUMBLE is BUILDING.

COBB

Stay calm. We're actually asleep in the workshop. This is your first lesson in shared dreaming, remember?

Ariadne looks around, mind REELING. Cobb BRACES-

The restaurant VIOLENTLY FRAGMENTS, EXPLODING AND IMPLODING PARTICLES OF FURNITURE, WALLS, PEOPLE FLYING AROUND- Ariadne WONDERS at the MAYHEM WHIRLING around them- Cobb SHIELDS his head against the debris. She sees him-

ARIADNE

(shouting over noise)

If it's just a dream, why are you covering your-

Ariadne is WIPED FROM HER SEAT BY A MASSIVE BLAST and we-

CUT TO:

INT. WORKSHOP - DAY

Ariadne JOLTS awake.

COBB (O.S.)

Because it's never just a dream.

Ariadne turns to Cobb's voice. They are both sitting in the lawn chairs. Arthur watches over them.

COBB

And a face full of glass hurts like hell, doesn't it? While we're in it, it's real.

ARTHUR

That's why the military developed dream sharing-a training program where soldiers could strangle, stab and shoot each other, then wake up.

ARIADNE

How did architects get involved?

COBB

Someone had to design the dreams.
(to Arthur)
Let's go another five minutes-

ARIADNE

We were only asleep for five minutes? We talked for an hour at least...

COBB

When you dream, your mind functions more quickly, so time seems to pass more slowly.

ARTHUR

Five minutes in the real world gives you an hour in the dream.

COBB

Let's see how much trouble you can cause in five minutes.

And we-

CUT TO:

EXT. SAME PARISIAN STREET - DAY

Ariadne walks down the crowded street with Cobb. Cobb looks around at the street, the cafe, approving.

COBB

It's good. You've got the cafe, the layout... you forgot the book shop but pretty much everything else is here.

Ariadne looks at the passers-by.

ARIADNE

Who are the people?

COBB
They're projections of my subconscious.

ARIADNE
Yours?

COBB
Sure-you are the dreamer, I am the subject. My subconscious populates your world. That's one way we get at a subject's thoughts-his mind creates the people, so we can literally talk to his subconscious.

ARIADNE
How else do you do it?

COBB
Architecture. Build a bank vault or a jail, something secure, and the subject's mind will fill it with information he's trying to protect.

ARIADNE
Then you break in and steal it.

COBB
Exactly.

Ariadne wonders at the detail of the street.

ARIADNE
I love the concrete sense of things-
(stamps foot)
Real weight, you know? I thought a dream space would be all about the visual, but it's the feel of things. Question is, what happens as you start to mess with physics...

She CONCENTRATES on the street. The street starts to BEND IN HALF- the buildings on either side FOLDING IN until they form
the INSIDE OF A CUBE OF CITY, GRAVITY FUNCTIONING INDEPENDENTLY ON EACH PLANE. Ariadne looks up (or down) at the people on the opposite city surface. Cobb watches her excitement.

ARIADNE
It's something, isn't it?

COBB
(quiet)
Yes. It is.

As they walk, Ariadne notices more and more of the projections STARING at her.

ARIADNE

Why are they looking at me?

COBB

Because you're changing things. My subconscious feels that someone else is creating the world. The more you change things, the quicker the projections converge on you.

ARIADNE

Converge?

COBB

They feel the foreign nature of the dreamer, and attack-like white blood cells fighting an infection.

ARIADNE

They're going to attack us?

COBB

Just you, actually.

They walk along the street to where it joins the next gravitational plane. They step up onto the different plane and walk down the street towards a river. As Ariadne approaches, steps emerge from the flagstone, and she leads Cobb up onto a small jetty. As she concentrates, pillars emerge and a BRIDGE starts to telescope out from the jetty. They step onto it as it grows. Cobb is impressed.

COBB

It's beautiful... but if you keep on changing things...

People crossing the bridge STARE at Ariadne. Several of them BUMP her shoulder as they pass.

ARIADNE

Mind telling your subconscious to take it easy?

COBB

That's why it's called subconscious. I don't control it.

The bridge now spans the Seine. Cobb marvels at it.

COBB

Arched stone, iron pillars... it's...

Cobb pauses, thinking. Remembering.

INSERT CUT: Mal, hair blowing, turns to Cobb, smiling, laughing. He smiles back. They are on the same bridge.

COBB

I know this bridge. This place is real-

(serious)

You didn't imagine it, you remembered it...

ARIADNE

(nods)

I cross it every day on my way to the college.

COBB

Never recreate places from your memory. Always imagine new places.

ARIADNE

You have to draw from what you know-

COBB

(tense)

Use pieces-a streetlamp, phonebooths, a type of brick-not whole areas.

Several people around them ECHO Cobb's attitude...

ARIADNE

Why not?

COBB

Because building dreams out of your own memories is the surest way to lose your grip on what's real and what's a dream.

ARIADNE

Did that happen to you?

Cobb says nothing. He stands there, staring at Ariadne.
PEOPLE around her stop and look at her, hostile.

COBB

Look, this isn't about me-

Cobb reaches for Ariadne's arm, turns her to him-

ARIADNE

Is that why you need me to build your dreams?

A passerby GRABS Ariadne's shoulder-

COBB
Leave her alone-

More of the crowd join in, PULLING at Ariadne, holding her arms open- Cobb PULLS people off- the crowd PUSHES him away- Cobb sees someone WALKING PURPOSEFULLY through the crowd towards the helpless, Ariadne- it is Mal. She approaches with even strides- Ariadne stares at her, uneasy.

ARIADNE
Wake me up, Cobb.

As Mal walks, she pulls out a LARGE KNIFE-

COBB
Mal, no!

ARIADNE
Wake me up!

Ariadne SCREAMS as Mal LUNGES at her with the knife and we-

CUT TO:

INT. WORKSHOP-DAY

Ariadne WAKES, BREATHING HARD. Arthur moves to her-

ARTHUR
It's okay.

ARIADNE
Why couldn't I wake?

ARTHUR
The only way to wake from inside the dream is to die.

Cobb, in the lawn chair opposite, PULLS his tubes out.

COBB
She'll need a totem.

ARIADNE
What?

ARTHUR
Some kind of personal icon. A small object that you can always have with you, and that no one else knows,

Cobb gets to his feet, Ariadne stares at him, furious. He heads to the bathroom.

ARIADNE
That's some subconscious you've got, Cobb.
(calls after him)
She's a real charmer!

ARTHUR
Sounds like you've met Mrs. Cobb.

ARIADNE
(surprised)
She's his wife?

Arthur nods, pulling off Ariadne's tubes.

ARTHUR
So. A totem. You need something small, potentially heavy...

INT. BATHROOM, WORKSHOP - CONTINUOUS

Cobb takes out his PEWTER SPINNING TOP, SPINS it on the marble counter...

INT. WORKSHOP - CONTINUOUS

Ariadne looks at Arthur, puzzled.

ARIADNE
Like a coin?

ARTHUR
Too common. You need something that has a weight or movement that only
you know.

INT. BATHROOM, WORKSHOP - CONTINUOUS

Cobb STUDIES the spin of the top as it decays, becoming more and more ECCENTRIC...

INT. WORKSHOP - CONTINUOUS

ARIADNE
What's yours?

Arthur holds out a DIE.

ARTHUR
A loaded die.

Ariadne reaches for it- Arthur snatches it away-

ARTHUR
I can't let you handle it. That's the point. No one else can know the weight or balance of it.

ARIADNE
Why?

ARTHUR
So when you examine your totem...

INT. BATHROOM, WORKSHOP - CONTINUOUS

Cobb's spinning top WOBBLES OVER.

ARTHUR (O.S.)
You know, beyond a doubt, that you're not in someone else's dream.

Cobb GRABS it like a drowning man reaching for a lifeline.

INT. WORKSHOP - CONTINUOUS

Ariadne thinks this over.

ARIADNE
That's not an issue for me.

ARTHUR
Why not?

ARIADNE
Arthur, maybe you can't see what's going on, maybe you don't want to.
But Cobb's got problems he's tried to bury down there. I'm not going to open my mind to someone like
that.

Ariadne gets to her feet. Walks away.

COBB (O.S.)
She'll be back.

Arthur turns. Cobb is standing in the bathroom doorway.

COBB
I've never seen anyone pick it up so fast. And one reality won't be enough for her now. When she comes back, get her building mazes.

ARTHUR
Where will you be?

COBB
I've got to talk to Eames.

ARTHUR
Eames? But he's in Mombasa. Cobol's backyard.

COBB
Necessary risk.

ARTHUR
There are plenty of other thieves.

COBB
We don't just need a thief. We need a forger.

INT. GAMBLING DEN, MOMBASA - DAY

Crowded, bustling, smoke-filled. a westerner (40's), shabby suit, is squeezed in at a dice game. This is EAMES. He FIDDLES with his last two chips.

COBB (O.S.)
Rub them against each other all you like, they're not going to breed.

Eames looks up to see Cobb.

EAMES
You never know.

Eames tosses down his last chips. The dice are rolled...

COBB
Drink?

Eames loses.

EAMES
You're buying.

Cobb follows Eames. Eames mysteriously produces two stacks of chips and puts them down in front of the cashier. Cobb pulls one off the top, squints at the embossed name.

COBB
You're spelling hasn't improved.

Eames GRABS the chip. Hands it to the cashier.

EAMES
Piss off.

COBB
How's your handwriting?

Eames takes his money. Smiles at Cobb.

EAMES Versatile.

INT. STREET, MOMBASA - CONTINUOUS

Eames leads Cobb down the quiet street.

EAMES
Word is, you're not welcome in these parts.

COBB
Yeah?

EAMES
There's a price on your head from Cobol Engineering. Pretty big one, actually.

COBB
You wouldn't sell me out.

Eames looks at Cobb, offended.

EAMES
'Course I would.

COBB
(smiles)
Not when you hear what I'm selling.

EXT. BALCONY OF A COFFEE HOUSE - LATER

A ramshackle balcony overlooking a bust street. Eames pours.

COBB Inception.

Eames's glass stops halfway to his mouth.

COBB
Don't bother telling me it's impossible.

EAMES
It's perfectly possible. Just bloody difficult.

COBB
That's what I keep saying to Arthur.

EAMES

Arthur? You're still working with that stick-in-the-mud?

COBB

He's a good point man.

EAMES

The best. But he has no imagination. If you're going to perform inception, you need imagination.

COBB

You've done it before?

EAMES

Yeas and no. We tried it. Got the idea in place, but it didn't take.

COBB

You didn't plant it deep enough?

EAMES

It's not just about depth. You need the simplest version of the idea- the one that will grow naturally in the subject's mind. Subtle art.

COBB

That's why I'm here.

EAMES

What's the idea you need to plant?

COBB

We want the heir to a major corporation to break up his father's empire.

EAMES

See, right there you've got various political motivations, anti-monopolistic sentiment and so forth. But all that stuff's at the mercy of the subject's prejudice- you have to go to the basic.

COBB

Which is?

EAMES

The relationship with the father.
(downs drink)
Do you have a chemist?

Cobb shakes his head.

EAMES

There's a man here. Yusuf. He formulates his own versions of the compounds.

COBB

Let's go see him.

EAMES

Once you've lost your tail.
(Cobb reacts)
Back by the bar, blue tie. Came in about two minutes after we did.

COBB

Cobol Engineering?

EAMES

They pretty much own Mombasa.

Cobb glances over the balcony.

COBB

Run interference. We'll meet downstairs in half an hour.

EAMES

Back here?

COBB

Last place they'd expect.

Eames downs his drink. Rises. Walks over to the Businessman.

EAMES

Freddy!

The Businessman looks up, awkward.

EAMES

Freddy Simmonds, it is you!

Cobb nonchalantly SLIPS over the balcony DROPPING HARD into the midst of the crowd on the street below.

EAMES

(looks harder)
Oh. No, it isn't.

EXT. STREET, MOMBASA - CONTINUOUS

Cobb stands up, PUSHES into the crowd- faces PEER at him- he moves, trying to blend- TURNS- a SECOND BUSINESS MAN is there.

COBB
(disarming smile)
Yes?

SECOND BUSINESSMAN
We need to-

Cobb HEAD BUTTS the Second Businessman, PUSHES past him-

The First Businessman races out of the bar, sees Cobb's wake, DIVES after him- Cobb RACES headlong through tight passageways, WEAVING through or KNOCKING into the locals...

He steps into a dark, crowded cafe, scanning the tables... the First Businessman enters, spots him. An AFRICAN MAN gets in Cobb's face, jabbering at him in Swahili- Cobb considers his options... the First Businessman DRAWS A GUN- Cobb bolts, steps up on a table and out an open window, SCRAMBLING into the alley outside...

Cobb LOOKS left, right... CUTS LEFT into a narrow, CROWDED alley- the alley NARROWS TO A DEAD END. Faces in the CROWD start to watch Cobb- PEOPLE start to SURROUND him- Cobb looks back the way he came- the two Businessmen are there, GUNS DRAWN-

Cobb sees a SMALL GAP between the buildings at the narrow end- he THROWS himself into it- gets STUCK HALFWAY...

The crowd bears down, GRABBING for him as Cobb struggles to SQUEEZE HIMSELF through the gap... Cobb's moving INCHES as his pursuers gain YARDS... the Crowd is upon him... he BURSTS FREE. TUMBLING onto the next street, ROLLING out of sight.

Cobb Jumps to his feet- in a market square. TWO MORE BUSINESSMEN move towards him. Cobb BOLTS but a CAR SKIDS UP, BLOCKS HIS PATH- the door opens- SAITO IS IN THE BACK.

SAITO
Care for a lift, Mr. Cobb?

COBB
(jumping in)
What brings you to Mombasa, Mr. Saito?

SAITO
I have to protect my investment.

EXT. COFFEE HOUSE - MOMENTS LATER

Eames stands on the pavement. The car pulls up. Cobb beckons from the rear window. Eames looks at Saito. Back to Cobb.

EAMES
This is your idea of losing a tail?

COBB
(shrugs)
Different tail.

INT. WORKSHOP - DAY

Arthur sits at the table, working on a mechanism. A small COUGH prompts him to look up: Ariadne is there.

ARTHUR
He said you'd be back.

ARIADNE
I tried not to come.

ARTHUR
But there's nothing else quite like it.

ARIADNE
No paper, no pens... nothing between you and raw, direct creation.

Arthur picks up his mechanism.

ARTHUR
Shall we take a look at paradoxical architecture?

Ariadne nods, takes off her coat and we-

CUT TO:

INT. PENROSE STEPS - LATER

Arthur leads Ariadne down some busy steps in a large glass and steel ATRIUM in an office complex.

ARTHUR
You're going to have to master a few tricks if you're going to build three complete dream levels.

A SECRETARY DROPS some papers as they pass...

ARIADNE
What sort of tricks?

They take a tight turn and continue down the next flight.

ARTHUR
In a dream, you can cheat architecture into impossible shapes.

(MORE)

ARTHUR (CONT'D)

That lets you create closed loops, like the Penrose Steps. The infinite staircase.

Ariadne FREEZES- THEY ARE IN THE EXACT SPOT THEY STARTED
DESCENDING FROM, next to the Secretary gathering her papers.

Ariadne puzzles at the impossible construction of the stairs.

ARTHUR

See...

Arthur stops her gently- they are on the highest step, with a LARGE DROP to the next step. Arthur gestures at the drop.

ARTHUR

Paradox. A closed loop like this helps you disguise the boundaries of the dream you've created.

ARIADNE

How big do the levels have to be?

ARTHUR

Anything from the floor of a building, to an entire city. But it has to be complicated enough for us to hide from the projections.

ARIADNE

A maze.

ARTHUR

And the better the maze-

ARIADNE

The longer we have before the projections catch us.

Ariadne looks around. Sees people LOOKING at Arthur.

ARIADNE

My subconscious seems polite
enough.

ARTHUR

You wait, they'll turn ugly. No one likes to see someone else messing around in their mind.

ARIADNE

Cobb can't build anymore, can he?

ARTHUR

I don't know if he can't, but he won't. He thinks it's safer if he doesn't know the layouts.

ARIADNE

Why?

ARTHUR

He won't tell me. I think it's Mal. I think she's getting stronger.

ARIADNE

His ex-wife?

ARTHUR

She's not his ex.

ARIADNE

They're still together?

Arthur turns to Ariadne. Gentle.

ARTHUR

No. No, she's dead, Ariadne. What you see in there is just his projection of her.

ARIADNE

What was she like in real life?

ARTHUR

(quiet)

She was lovely.

CUT TO:

EXT. ROOFTOP, OLD TOWN, MOMBASA - DAY

Saito deposits a FILE in front of Cobb: PHOTOS, DOCUMENTS. As Cobb runs through them, he passes them to Eames.

SAITO

Robert Fischer, 32. Heir to the Fischer Morrow energy conglomerate. He's spent his whole life being groomed as successor-breaking up his father's empire will take a radical shift in his thinking.

COBB

What's your problem with Fischer?

SAITO

That's not your concern.

COBB

This isn't the usual corporate espionage, Mr. Saito. This is inception. The seed of the idea we plant will grow in this man's mind. It'll change him. It might even come to define him.

Saito looks at Cobb.

SAITO

My sources suggest you might not have always been so cautious.

COBB

Then you need new sources, Mr. Saito.

Saito considers Cobb. Shrugs.

SAITO

Fischer Morrow has the regulators in their pockets. We're the last company standing between them and total energy dominance and we can no longer compete. Soon they'll control the energy supply of half the world. They'll be able to blackmail governments, dictate policy. In effect, they become a new superpower. The world needs Robert Fischer to change his mind.

EAMES

That's where we come in. How's Robert Fischer's relationship to his father?

SAITO

Rumor is the relationship is complicated.

COBB

We'll need more than rumor, Mr. Saito.

Eames picks up a photo: a distinguished executive (68).

EAMES

Can you get me access to him? Browning. Fischer senior's right-hand man. Fischer junior's godfather.

SAITO
It should be possible. If you can get the right references.

EAMES
References are something of a specialty for me, Mr. Saito.

EXT. DECREPIT BUILDING, MOMBASA - LATER

Eames leads Cobb and Saito down uneven steps to a doorway.

INT. STAIRWELL - CONTINUOUS

Peeling paint, buzzing flies. They ascend to a dusty, wire-reinforced glass door which Eames pushes open-

INT. PHARMACY - CONTINUOUS

Row upon row of wooden shelves holding hundreds of dusty glass bottles of all shapes and colors. At the far end, a portly 40-year-old man rises from behind his desk, beckoning.
This is YUSUF.

YUSUF
Come, come.

Eames shakes Yusuf's hand. Yusuf stops at Cobb.

YUSUF
Ah, yes. Mr. Cobb. I've heard so very much about you.
(indicates chairs)
please.

Yusuf chases a CAT off Saito's chair.

YUSUF
Bloody cats.

Yusuf moves to a shelf and runs his fingers over the glass bottles. None of them has a label.

YUSUF
You work using Somnacin, I think,
Mr. Cobb?

COBB
You're well informed, Mr. Yusuf.

Yusuf places a bottle on the desk in front of Cobb.

COBB
(dubious)
Somnacin?

YUSUF
(proudly)
Yusuf's Somnacin.

Yusuf pulls the stopper, holds it towards Cobb's nose.

COBB
As good as the real thing?

Yusuf WHIPS the bottle away from Cobb, offended.

YUSUF
Better.

Yusuf holds the bottle to the light, marveling.

YUSUF
Binds the dreamers tight. Let's them dream as one. Makes it real.
Of course, if you'd prefer, you could use Somnacin brand. If you could explain to the international control council what you wanted it for.

Yusuf puts the bottle back onto the shelf. Sits.

YUSUF
You are seeking a chemist?
(Cobb nods)
To formulate compounds for a job?

COBB
And to come into the held with us.

YUSUF
I rarely go into the held, Mr.
Cobb.

COBB
We need you there to tailor compounds to our particular requirements.

YUSUF
Which are?

COBB
Great depth.

YUSUF
A dream within a dream? Two levels?

COBB

Three.

YUSUF

Not possible. That many dreams within dreams would be too unstable.

COBB

I've done it before. You just have to add a sedative.

YUSUF

A powerful sedative. How many team members?

COBB

Five.

SAITO

Six.

(to Cobb)

The only way to know you've done
the job is if I go in with you.

COBB

There's no room for tourists on these jobs, Mr. Saito.

SAITO

This time, it would seem there is.

Cobb looks at him, uneasy. Yusuf pulls out another bottle.

YUSUF

Of course. I use it every day.

Yusuf hands it to Cobb, who considers the white liquid inside.

COBB

For what?

Yusuf beckons them further into the pharmacy, to a METAL DOOR. He STOPS- second thoughts.

YUSUF

Perhaps... you will not want to see.

Cobb motions to continue. Yusuf pulls out a large key.

INT. BACK ROOM, PHARMACY - CONTINUOUS

A dark room with ROWS of low COTS. Each with a sleeping occupant. Tubes connect their wrists. An ELDERLY BALD MAN watches over them.

EAMES
(counting) Eighteen, twenty-all connected, bloody hell.

YUSUF
They come every day. To share the dream.

Yusuf nods at the Elderly Bald Man, who moves to the nearest bed. Reaches out to the OCCUPANT. Gives his face a FIRM SLAP. The sleeper does not even stir.

YUSUF
See? Very stable.

COBB
How long do they dream?

YUSUF
Three, four hours. Every day.

COBB
How long in dream time?

YUSUF
With this compound... about forty hours. Each and every day.

Saito surveys the room, appalled.

SAITO
Why do they do it?

YUSUF
Tell him, Mr. Cobb.

COBB
After a while...
(looks at Saito)
It becomes the only way you can dream.

YUSUF
Do you still dream, Mr. Cobb?

Cobb STARES at the sleepers. Uneasy.

EAMES
They come here every day to sleep?

ELDERLY BALD MAN (O.S.)

No.

Cobb turns to the Elderly Bald Man, who looks fondly at his dreamers.

ELDERLY BALD MAN

They come to be woken up... the dream has become their reality...

The Elderly Bald Man pokes a crooked finger at Cobb's chest.

ELDERLY BALD MAN

And who are you to say otherwise?

Cobb STARES at the Elderly Bald Man. DISTURBED. Cobb turns to Yusuf. TOSSES him the bottle.

COBB

Let's see what you can do.

INT. SAME - MOMENTS LATER

Cobb is lying on an empty cot, asleep. Yusuf stands over him. As we move in on Cobb's SLEEPING FACE we hear the sound of a FREIGHT TRAIN, BUILDING, and we-

CUT TO:

EXT. WASTELAND - DAY

CLOSE ON Cobb's face as he lies, EYES CLOSED, cheek pressed to a METAL RAIL- THE SOUND OF THE TRAIN IS DEAFENING- Cobb is BREATHING, BREATHING, BREATHING, and we-

CUT TO:

INT. BACK ROOM, PHARMACY - DAY

Cobb's eyes open. Yusuf is watching him.

YUSUF

Sharp, no?

Cobb nods. Gets to his feet, looking around-

INT. BATHROOM, PHARMACY - CONTINUOUS

Cobb SPLASHES water on his face, breathing hard- INSERT CUT: A CURTAIN BILLOWS. MAL TURNS TO US, HAIR BLOWING, SMILING. Cobb fumbles in his pockets, pulls out his spinning top. He tries to set it spinning on the back edge of the sink, but it FALLS to the floor and rolls towards the door- Saito is there. WATCHING Cobb. He looks down at the spinning top.

SAITO
Everything alright, Mr. Cobb?

Cobb dries his face with a paper towel. Picks up his top.

COBB
Everything's fine.

INT. BACK ROOM, WORKSHOP - NIGHT

Close on a small BRASS CHESS PIECE. Ariadne tips it over. Frowning, she picks up a micro drill, peels back the felt on the bottom and widens a hole in one side of its base. Tests the TIPPING POINT again. A NOISE makes her look up.

INT. WORKSHOP - CONTINUOUS

Ariadne comes into the main space. Someone is there, unpacking one of the MECHANISMS. Cobb.

ARIADNE
You're back.

Cobb looks up with a start. Caught out.

ARIADNE
Are you going under on your own?

COBB
I just-I need to test some things.
I didn't realize anyone was here.

ARIADNE
Just working on my totem.

Ariadne holds up the chess piece. Cobb reaches for it.

COBB
Let me see-

Ariadne SNAPS it out of his reach. Smiles. Cobb nods.

COBB
You're learning.

ARIADNE
It's an elegant solution to keeping track of reality. Your invention?

COBB
No. Mal's.

Cobb pulls out his spinning top. Looks at it.

COBB

This one was hers. She'd spin it in a dream and it would never topple. Just spin and spin...

ARIADNE

Arthur told me she died.

COBB

She did. How are the mazes coming?

Ariadne indicates three large ARCHITECTURAL MODELS.

ARIADNE

Good. Each level relates to the part of the subject's subconscious we're trying to access. I'm making the bottom level a hospital, so that Fischer will bring his father there-

COBB

Don't tell me. Remember, you only want the dreamer to know the layout.

ARIADNE

Why's that so important?

COBB

In case one of us brings in part of our subconscious. You wouldn't want any projections knowing the layout.

ARIADNE

In case you bring Mal in.

Cobb says nothing.

ARIADNE

You won't build yourself because if you know the maze, then she knows it. And she'd sabotage the operation. You can't keep her out, can you?

Cobb says nothing.

ARIADNE

Do the others know?

COBB

No.

ARIADNE

You have to warn them if it's getting worse-

COBB

(gentle)

I didn't say it's getting worse.
Look, Ariadne, I need them for this job. I need you for this job.
Without your help, I'll never get back to my children. And that's all
I can care about right now.

ARIADNE

Why can't you go home, Cobb?

Cobb looks at her, deciding what to say.

COBB

They think I killed her.

ARIADNE

How did she die?

Cobb thinks.

INSERT CUT: Mal, wind BLOWING her hair, smiles at Cobb. Now we see Cobb- SHAKING HIS HEAD, TEARS STREAMING, BEGGING-

COBB

Thank you.

ARIADNE

For what?

COBB

Not asking whether I did.

INT. WORKSHOP - DAY

Ariadne, Arthur, Yusuf, Eames and Saito sit around the room, looking at FILES. Cobb presides.

COBB

The mark is Robert Fischer, heir to the Australian energy conglomerate, Fischer Morrow.

Cobb opens a large presentation pad.

COBB (reads aloud)

"I WILL SPLIT UP MY FATHER'S EMPIRE."

Cobb turns to the team.

COBB

An idea Robert Fischer's conscious mind would never accept. We have to plant it deep in his subconscious.

ARTHUR

How deep?

COBB

Three levels down.

ARTHUR

A dream within a dream within a dream? Is that even possible?

COBB

Yes. It is.

COBB

Now, the subconscious motivates through emotion, not reason, so we have to translate the idea into an emotional concept.

ARTHUR

How do you translate a business strategy into an emotion?

COBB

That's what we have to figure out. Robert and his father have a tense relationship. Worse, even, than the gossip columns have suggested...

EAMES

Do you play on that? Suggest breaking up his father's company as a 'screw you' to the old man?

COBB

No. Positive emotion trumps negative emotion every time. We yearn for people to be reconciled, for catharsis. We need positive emotional logic.

Eames thinks. Paces. Looking back at the board.

EAMES

Try this... "MY FATHER ACCEPTS THAT I WANT TO CREATE FOR MYSELF, NOT FOLLOW IN HIS FOOTSTEPS."

COBB

That might work.

ARTHUR
Might? We'll have to do better than that.

EAMES
Thanks for the contribution, Arthur.

ARTHUR
Forgive me for wanting a little specificity, Eames.

COBB
Inception's not about specificity. When we get inside his head, we're going to have to work with what we find.

Arthur shrugs, frustrated. And we-

CUT TO:

EXT. NEW YORK STREETS - DAY

The team are in the middle of a DESERTED intersection. Ariadne is showing Yusuf aspects of the geography.

EAMES
We could split the idea into emotional triggers, and use one on each level.

COBB
How do you mean?

EAMES
On the top level, we open up his relationship with his father.... Say: "I WILL NOT FOLLOW IN MY FATHER'S FOOTSTEPS." Next level down we've accessed his ambition and self-esteem. We feed him: "I WILL CREATE SOMETHING MYSELF." Then, the bottom level, we bring out the emotional big guns...

COBB
"MY FATHER DOESN'T WANT ME TO BE HIM."

EAMES
That could do it.

ARTHUR
How do you produce these emotional triggers?

EAMES

I forge each emotional concept in the style and manner of Peter Browning, a key figure in Fischer's emotional life.

Two AFRICAN PEDESTRIANS wander into view.

ARTHUR

Are those yours?

Eames shakes his head. Cobb turns to Yusuf.

ARTHUR

Yusuf?

YUSUF

Yup. Sorry.

COBB

Suppress them. We don't bring our own projections into the dream-we let Fischer's subconscious supply the people.

EAMES

Saito, when do I get to see
Browning?

SAITO

You fly out to Sydney on Tuesday.
We've arranged for you to spend several days...

INT. ANTEROOM, MAURICE FISCHER'S OFFICE - DAY

Eames sits in the crowded room. Boxes and files are piled high. Browning stands by a pair of double doors.

SAITO (V.O.)

...as part of a consulting litigation team working for Browning.

BROWNING

I'm not smelling settlement here-we take them down.

LAWYER

Mr. Browning, Maurice Fischer's policy is always one of avoiding litigation-

Browning turns to the lawyer. Calm, but POWERFUL.

BROWNING
Shall we relay your concerns directly to Maurice?

Browning opens the doors to Maurice Fischer's inner office.
Eames leans in to watch as Browning beckons the Lawyer into-

INT. MAURICE FISCHER'S INNER OFFICE - CONTINUOUS

The office is a MAKESHIFT HOSPITAL ROOM: a BED where the desk should be. Browning addresses a figure at the window. ROBERT FISCHER, 30'S, abstracted.

BROWNING
How is he?

Fischer turns to Browning. Motions silence, as he glances at his FATHER in the bed. Wheezing gently.

BROWNING
I don't want to bother him unnecessarily but I know he-

FATHER
Robert! I've told you to keep out the damn!-

MAURICE LASHES OUT, KNOCKING things from his bedside table. A NURSE calms Maurice as Fischer crouches to retrieve a FRAMED PHOTOGRAPH. He looks at the photo through the broken glass- a YOUNG BOY holds a PINWHEEL CLEARLY MADE BY A CHILD (each of the points is numbered in pen), his FATHER blows on it.

BROWNING
Must be a cherished memory of his-

FISCHER
I put it by his bed. He hasn't even noticed.

BROWNING
Robert, we have to talk about a power of attorney. I know this is hard for you, but it's important that we start to think about the future-

FISCHER
Not now, Uncle Peter.

Browning looks at Fischer, considering. Biding his time.

EAMES (V.O.)
The vultures are circling. The sicker Maurice Fischer becomes, the stronger Peter Browning becomes...

Eames WATCHES Browning, STUDYING his every move .

INT. BATHROOM - DAY

Eames gestures at a mirror, as if offering to shake hands...

EAMES (V.O.)
I've had time to learn Browning's physical presence and mannerisms...

In the mirror: BROWNING GESTURES BACK.

INT. WORKSHOP - CONTINUOUS

EAMES
Now, in the dream, I can impersonate
Browning and suggest the concepts to Fischer's conscious mind...
(draws a diagram)
Then we take Fischer down another level and his own subconscious feeds it right back to him.

ARTHUR
(impressed)
So he gives himself the idea.

EAMES
Precisely. That's the only way to make it stick. It has to seem self-generated.

ARTHUR
Eames, I'm impressed.

EAMES
Your condescension, as always, is much appreciated, Arthur.

CUT TO:

INT. DESERTED HOTEL LOBBY - DAY

The team sit on the steps of the large marble lobby, debating. Ariadne is showing Arthur the lobby.

EAMES
He's not scheduled for surgery, no dental, nothing.

COBB
I thought he had some knee thing?

EAMES
Nothing they'd put him under for.
Besides, we need a good ten hours.

SAITO
Sydney to Los Angeles.

They turn to Saito.

SAITO
Twelve hours and forty-five minutes-one of the longest flights in the world. He makes it every two weeks...

EXT. AIRFIELD - DAY

Fischer steps out of a black town car and walks across the tarmac towards a GULF STREAM JET, accompanied by two aides.

COBB (V.O.)
Surely he flies private?

SAITO (V.O.)
Not if there were unexpected maintenance with his plane.

Fischer is met at the steps by a DISTRAUGHT FLIGHT OFFICER.

INT. HOTEL LOBBY - DAY

Cobb chews this over. Arthur comes over.

ARTHUR
It'd have to be a 747.

COBB
Why?

ARTHUR
On a 747 the pilots are up above, first class is in the nose so nobody walks through the cabin.
We'd have to buyout the whole cabin, and the first class flight attendant-

SAITO
We bought the airline.

Everyone turns to Saito.

SAITO
It seemed... neater.

COBB
Neater, huh?
(gets to his feet)
Well, now we have ten uninterrupted hours.

(MORE)

COBB (CONT'D)
(to Ariadne)
Nice lobby, by the way.

And we-

CUT TO:

INT. WORKSHOP - DAY

The group is back in the workshop, deep in discussion.

ARTHUR
My question is how we go down three layers with enough stability. Three layers down a little turbulence is gonna translate into an earthquake.
The dreams are gonna collapse with the slightest disturbance.

Yusuf clears his throat.

YUSUF
Sedation. For sleep stable enough to create three layers of dreaming...

INT. MAKESHIFT LAB - DAY

Yusuf depresses a plunger. Arthur is SLEEPING in a chair.

YUSUF (V.O.)
We will have to combine it with an extremely powerful sedative....

Eames SLAPS Arthur, HARD. Arthur does not stir.

INT. WORKSHOP - DAY

Arthur unconsciously rubs his cheek.

YUSUF
The compound we'll be using to share the dream is an advanced Somnacin derivative. It creates a very clear connection between dreamers, whilst actually accelerating brain function.

CUT TO:

COBB
Buying us more time in each level.

YUSUF
Brain function in the dream will be about twenty times normal.
(MORE)

YUSUF (CONT'D)

And when you go into a dream within that dream the effect is compounded.

ARIADNE

How much time?

YUSUF

Three dreams... that's ten hours, times twenty, times twenty, times twenty...

EAMES

Math was never my strong suit.

COBB

It's basically a week one layer down, six months two layers down-

ARIADNE

And ten years in the third level.
Who wants to spend ten years in a dream?

YUSUF

Depends on the dream.

EAMES

It's not going to take us long to crack Fischer open once we get going. We'll be out in a couple days, max.

ARTHUR

How do we get out once we've made the plant?

(to Cobb)

I hope you've got something a little more elegant in mind than shooting me in the head like last time.

Arthur tilts back in his chair. Yusuf turns to Cobb.

COBB

A kick.

ARIADNE

What's a kick?

Eames slips his foot under Arthur's chair leg. TIPS it-
Arthur's legs SHOOT UP INSTINCTIVELY for balance-

EAMES

That, Ariadne, would be a kick.

COBB

That feeling of falling which snaps you awake. We use that to jolt ourselves awake once we're done.

ARTHUR

But how are we going to feel that through the sedation?

YUSUF

That's the clever part. I customize the sedative...

INT. MAKESHIFT LAB - DAY

Cobb, Eames and Yusuf watch Arthur, ASLEEP, in a chair.

YUSUF (O.S.)

To leave inner ear function unimpaired...

Yusuf, with a wicked grin, slowly TIPS Arthur's chair backwards... as he falls, Arthur's body JERKS, EYES OPENING just before he HITS the floor.

INT. WORKSHOP - DAY

Arthur thinks, nodding slowly.

YUSUF

That way, however deep the sleep, the sleeper will still feel falling...

INT. MAKESHIFT LAB - DAY

Yusuf gleefully LEANS a SLEEPING ARTHUR to one side ...

YUSUF (V.O.)

Or tipping...

Arthur goes down with a CRASH, JERKING AWAKE-

INT. WORKSHOP - DAY

Arthur thinks this through.

ARTHUR

Even that won't cut through three layers of deep sleep.

COBB

The trick is to devise a kick for each level, then synchronize them to get a snap that penetrates all three layers.

Arthur looks at Cobb, getting it.

ARTHUR

We can use the musical countdown to synchronize the different kicks.

INT. WORKSHOP - NIGHT

Ariadne comes into the darkened main space. Cobb is lying on one of the chairs, asleep. Plugged into the mechanism. Ariadne stands over him. Watching.

She opens the case, PULLS one of the tubes, sits, checking the dials as she injects the needle cap into her arm, and we-

CUT TO:

INT. CAGE STYLE ELEVATOR - DAY

Ariadne ascends. She looks at the buttons. Spots the "B." The elevator STOPS. She looks through the grill at-

INT. YOUNG GIRL'S BEDROOM - DAY

Ariadne pulls back the grill and walks across the room, considering the dusty furnishings. At the window is a doll's house, front slightly ajar. Ariadne opens it. Inside is a SAFE. She tries it. LOCKED. A NOISE STARTLES her- she turns, looking through a doorway into another room...

INT. LIVING ROOM - CONTINUOUS

Ariadne looks into the room to see Cobb and Mal talking, arguing. A private moment. Mal brushes at Cobb's hair, trying to convince him. We hear snatches of conversation-

MAL

You remember when you asked me to marry you?

COBB

Of course...

MAL

You said you had a dream...

COBB

That we'd grow old together.

MAL

And we can. You know how to find me... you know what you have to do.

Cobb is shaking his head, gently. Mal looks into Cobb's eyes- gentle, loving... Mal SPOTS Ariadne spying on them.

FREEZES, staring, hostile. Cobb turns, sees Ariadne, moves towards her, leaving Mal.

COBB
You shouldn't be in here.

Cobb guides her back into the elevator.

ARIADNE
I wanted to know what "tests" you need to do on your own every night.

INT. CAGE STYLE ELEVATOR - DAY

Cobb shuts the CAGE DOOR. Ariadne hits a button. The elevator RISES. Through the GRILL Ariadne can see a BEACH stretching off into the distance. The elevator stops. Mal sits on the sand. Beside her, the two children are crouched, away from us, building a SANDCASTLE.

ARIADNE
Why do you do this to yourself?

COBB
This is the only way I can still dream.

ARIADNE
Is it so important to dream?

Cobb stares at his family.

COBB
In my dreams... we're still together.

The kids, WITHOUT TURNING AROUND, jump up and RUN AWAY.

INT. CAGE STYLE ELEVATOR - CONTINUOUS

The elevator descends.

ARIADNE
But these aren't just dreams, are they? They're memories. You said never to use memories.

COBB
And I shouldn't.

ARIADNE
You're keeping her alive.

COBB
No.

ARIADNE
You can't let her go.

COBB
No. These are moments I regret.
Moments I turned into dreams so I could change them.

Ariadne's fingers move across the buttons- stop at the "B."

ARIADNE
What've you got buried down there that you regret?

Cobb pushes her hand away. Hits the third floor button.

COBB
There's only one thing I need you to understand about me...

INT. KITCHEN, COBB AND MAL'S HOUSE - MOMENTS LATER

Ariadne follows Cobb into the kitchen. A THIN MAN is there, standing by the table. He holds a FOLDED PIECE OF PAPER.

ARIADNE
This is your house?

COBB
Mine and Mal's.

ARIADNE
Where is she?

COBB
She'd already died.

The Thin Man offers Cobb the piece of paper. A CHILD'S SHOUT-Cobb TURNS. Ariadne follows his gaze to the garden. A small blonde boy faces away from them, crouched on his haunches to look at something on the ground.

COBB
It's James. My boy. He's found something. Maybe a worm.

A slightly older girl RUNS into view.

COBB
And there's Philippa.

She crouches beside the boy. Their FACES ARE AWAY FROM US.
They point and discuss whatever is on the ground.

COBB
I thought about calling out, so they'd turn and smile those incredible smiles... but I'm out of time-

The Thin Man thrusts the paper into Cobb's hand.

THIN MAN
Right now. Or never, Cobb.

Cobb nods, turns from the window-

COBB
Then I panic that I'll always wish I'd seen them turn, that I can't waste this chance...

Cobb TURNS BACK to call out- but the children RACE OFF...

COBB
But the moment's passed. And whatever I do, the dream's always the same... When I'm about to call... they run.

Cobb watches them run off, calling for grandma, FACES UNSEEN.

COBB
If I'm going to see their faces again-I've got to get back here in the real world...

Behind him, Ariadne SLAMS the grill shut. Cobb TURNS.

INT. CAGE STYLE ELEVATOR - CONTINUOUS

Ariadne hits the BASEMENT button. The elevator starts to DESCEND. ariadne STARES, fascinated as glimpses of floors slip past: Mal's childhood bedroom, a thundering wall of freight train... The elevator STOPS. Through the grill Ariadne sees a HOTEL SUITE. She pulls open the grill, steps cautiously out into-

INT. ELEGANT HOTEL SUITE - CONTINUOUS (NOW NIGHT)

DISHEVELED bedclothes, UPENDED room service table, STRAWBERRIES across the floor. A STRUGGLE. Ariadne steps forwards- SMASH- she looks down to see that she has kicked over a CHAMPAGNE FLUTE. Ariadne feels a draught. The CURTAIN BILLOWS.

MAL (O.S.)
What are you doing here?

Ariadne TURNS. Mal is there.

ARIADNE

My name is-

MAL

I know who you are. What are you doing here?

ARIADNE

I don't know. Trying to understand.

MAL

How could you understand? Do you know what it is to be a lover? To be half of a whole?

ARIADNE

No.

Mal moves slowly towards Ariadne...

MAL

I'll tell you a riddle. You're waiting for a train. A train that will take you far away. You know where you hope this train will take you, but you don't know for sure...

Mal glides around Ariadne, looking her over.

MAL

But... it doesn't matter. How can it not matter to you where that train will take you?

COBB (O.S.)

Because you'll be together.

Cobb is standing in the elevator. Mal nods. Looks at him.

MAL

How could you bring her here, Dom?

ARIADNE

What is this place?

COBB

A hotel. We spent our anniversaries in this suite.

ARIADNE

What happened here?

Mal picks up the BROKEN STEM of a champagne flute...

INT. CAGE STYLE ELEVATOR - CONTINUOUS

Cobb PULLS Ariadne into the elevator- Mal THROWS herself towards Ariadne- Cobb SLAMS the GRILL- Mal SMASHES against it AGAIN and AGAIN like a WILD ANIMAL- Ariadne FLINCHES-

MAL
you PROMISED! YOU SAID WE'D BE TOGETHER!-

COBB
We can. We will. But I need you to stay here for now-

MAL
YOU SAID WE'D GROW OLD TOGETHER!-

Cobb pushes a button and the elevator starts to rise.

COBB
I'll come back. I need you to stay here on your own for now. Just while I do this job. Then we can be together-

MAL
WE'LL BE TOGETHER-YOU PROMISED!-

Mal THROWS herself against the grill, and. we-

CUT TO:

INT. WORKSHOP - NIGHT

Ariadne watches Cobb sleeping. His eyes gradually flicker open. He sees her watching him.

ARIADNE
You think you can just build a prison of memories to lock her in?
You think that's going to contain
her?

The LIGHTS COME ON: Saito and Arthur stand in the doorway.

SAITO
Maurice Fischer just died in Sydney.

COBB
When's the funeral?

SAITO
Thursday. In Los Angeles.

COBB
Robert'll accompany the body
Tuesday at the outside. We have to move.

Cobb gets up. Ariadne comes over to him.

ARIADNE
(low)
I'm coming with you.

COBB
No. I promised Miles.

ARIADNE
The team needs someone in there who understands what you're struggling with. If you don't want it to be me then you need to show Arthur what I just saw.

Cobb looks at Ariadne. Turns to Saito.

COBB
We need one more seat on the plane.

INT. DEPARTURE GATE, SYDNEY - DAY

Saito stands looking out the window at a 747. Cobb arrives beside him. They watch a COFFIN being loaded.

COBB
If I get on this plane and you haven't taken care of things... when we land I go to jail for the rest of my life.

SAITO
Complete the job en route, I make one phone call from the plane... you will have no trouble clearing immigration.

INT. FIRST CLASS CABIN, 747 - CONTINUOUS

The luxurious cabin has only ten seats. Cobb finds his- sees Ariadne in the seat behind his. They do not acknowledge each other. Behind her is Arthur, looking out the window. Eames enters, STUFFS his bag into the overhead bin, BLOCKING the passenger behind: ROBERT FISCHER, standing there, patient, bag in hand, wearing black.

EAMES
Oh, sorry.

Eames SQUEEZES up against his seat to let Fischer BRUSH PAST. Fischer moves to his seat, directly in front of Cobb. Eames TOSSES Cobb a PASSPORT. Cobb flips it open: Fischer's. Pockets it. Yusuf and Saito enter, take their seats.

EXT. RUNWAY - MOMENTS LATER

The 747 HURTLES down the runway.

INT. FIRST CLASS CABIN, 747 - MOMENTS LATER

Cobb looks down at his hand: a TINY VIAL taped to the center of his palm. He removes the cap. The seatbelt sign goes dark. Cobb unbuckles, stands.

COBB

Excuse me?

Fischer looks up.

FISCHER

Yes?

COBB

I think this is yours...

Cobb holds up the open passport, comparing the picture to Fischer. Fischer's hand goes to his pocket. Cobb hands Fischer the passport.

FLIGHT ATTENDANT

Would you gentlemen care for a drink?

FISCHER

Water.

COBB

Same.

Fischer gives Cobb a thin smile. Holds up his passport.

FISCHER

Well, thank you.

COBB

No problem. Look, I couldn't help noticing your name. You're not related to Maurice Fischer?

Fischer takes a beat. But Cobb seems harmless.

FISCHER

Actually, he was my father.

COBB
I'm very sorry for your loss. He was an inspiring figure.

The Flight Attendant brings their drinks- Cobb takes them.

COBB
Thanks.

As he turns to Fischer he LOWERS his right hand ... a CLEAR
LIQUID DROPS into Fischer's water as Cobb hands it to him.

COBB
To Maurice Fischer.
(they drink)
I'll leave you in peace.

Fischer grants him a smile.

EXT. 747 - LATER

The great plane SOARS through a burning cloudscape.

INT. FIRST CLASS CABIN, 747 - MOMENTS LATER

Cobb reaches into the overhead for a blanket- lets it fall onto Fischer's head- Fischer doesn't flinch. ASLEEP. Cobb SIGNALS the others. The First Flight Attendant unlocks a CUPBOARD in the galley, then leaves, closing the curtain.
Arthur moves into the galley and pulls out a MECHANISM CASE.

Cobb and Arthur open the mechanism- uncoil the tubes- feed them around the window side of each of the seats. Arthur rolls up Fischer's cuff- PUSHES the needle cap into Fischer's wrist. Arthur pulls Fischer's cuff down and hides the tubes behind the armrest of Fischer's seat.

Arthur runs the next tube to Ariadne. Cobb puts the case on Yusuf's lap. Yusuf checks the TIMERS, tapping the syringes.
The others recline their seats. Yusuf HITS A BUTTON- closes the case- places it at his feet. He settles back, and we-

CUT TO:

INT. SEDAN - DAY

Cobb DRIVES. Saito and Arthur are in the back. Rain BEATS down. Cobb pulls over-

EXT. NEW YORK STREETS - CONTINUOUS

Yusuf stands on the corner, silver briefcase in hand, collar turned up against the rain. He reaches for the door.

INT. SEDAN - CONTINUOUS

Yusuf clambers into the back, brushing rain from his face.

ARTHUR
(indicates rain)
Couldn't you have peed before you went under?

YUSUF
Sorry.

The front door OPENS and Eames climbs in, soaked.

EAMES
Bit too much free champagne before takeoff, Yusuf?

YUSUF
Ha bloody ha.

COBB
At least we know he'll be looking for a cab in this.

INT./EXT. SEDAN ON RAINY NEW YORK STREETS - CONTINUOUS

Cobb pulls out into the heavy traffic. He weaves around several cars before lining up behind a YELLOW CAB.

COBB
Brace yourselves.

Cobb hits the gas- REAR ENDS the cab with a CRUNCH. The CABDRIVER gets out, fuming. Heads to Cobb's window-

CABDRIVER
Hey, asshole! Why don't you try driving without your thumb up-

He sees the SILENCED PISTOL Cobb is holding at his belly.

COBB
Walk away.

The Cabdriver backs off. Arthur climbs into the cab. Both cars pull away.

INT./EXT. CAB ON RAINY NEW YORK STREETS - CONTINUOUS

Arthur SLOWS in front of the TRAIN STATION, peering at the pedes pedestrians. He SPOTS Fischer, lights the cab's sign.
Fischer FLAGS him down. Fischer JUMPS into the back, brushing rain from his shoulders.

FISCHER
Third and Market. Snappy.

Eames JUMPS in from the other side.

FISCHER
What're you doing?

EAMES
Sorry, I thought it was free. Maybe we could share.

FISCHER
Maybe not.

Saito gets into the front passenger seat. Pointing a gun.

FISCHER
Great.

Arthur pulls away. Fischer pulls out his wallet and tosses it at Eames.

FISCHER
(contemptuous)
There's 500 dollars in there. And the wallet's worth more than that.
For that you ought to at least drop me at my stop.

Eames smiles at this.

EAMES
I'm afraid-

A SHOT SHATTERS the window by Eames's head- another SHOT IMPACTS by Saito-

EAMES
Get us out of here!

Arthur hits the gas, but a BLACK S.U.V. SKIDS sideways in front, BLOCKING the path-

A BLOCK BEHIND- Cobb is at a light. ARIADNE is getting in the front. Cobb has HEARD the GUNFIRE-

COBB
Come on!-

Cobb looks ahead to the AMBUSH, hits the gas- the sedan
ROCKETS forwards... but BAM- A FREIGHT TRAIN CLIPS THE FRONT OF THE SEDAN, SHOVING IT SIDEWAYS AS AN ENDLESS TRAIN BARRELS
PAST, A WALL BETWEEN COBB AND THE AMBUSH-

A SECOND S.U.V. is behind the cab- PLAIN CLOTHES SECURITY MEN advance through the traffic, weapons trained on the cab. Bullets RIP into the cab as Eames throws himself on top of Fischer, PULLING a SACK over his head-

Inside the sedan, Ariadne watches the train passing-

ARIADNE

This wasn't in the design-

Cobb BACKS UP, SPINS around, heading for the tail of the train-

A Security Man emerges from the front S.U.V. carrying an AUTOMATIC RIFLE- he steps towards the cab through the rain, raises his weapon and BLASTS THE CAB'S WINDSCREEN-

Cobb clears the end of the train, and SKIDS across the tracks-

Arthur CROUCHES down- PUSHES the accelerator with his HAND- YANKS the wheel- FLYING BLIND. The cab NAILS the Security Man, CRUNCHING into the front S.U.V.-

Cobb SMASHES his car into the rear S.U.V., creating a GAP-

Arthur YANKS the transmission and REVERSES- SCRAPING through the gap- Security Men DIVE out of the way- Arthur throws a ragged J-turn to head down a SIDE STREET- Cobb follows in the other car. Rain whips across Arthur's face as he BREATHE-

ARTHUR

Everybody okay? Saito?

Arthur looks at Saito. Saito's hand is at his belly. Covered in BLOOD.

EXT. WAREHOUSE - MOMENTS LATER

The sedan and cab pull into the side entrance- Eames jumps out- PULLS the shutter down behind them-

INT. WAREHOUSE - CONTINUOUS

Yusuf and Eames PULL Fischer from the cab, HUSTLING him through a doorway. Cobb JUMPS out of the sedan, furious.

COBB

Arthur! Arthur what the-

Arthur pulls the bloody Saito from the front seat.

COBB

Oh, Christ. Is he dying?

ARTHUR

I don't know. What happened back there? Where were you?

COBB

We were blocked by a freight train.

ARTHUR

(to Ariadne)

Why would you put a train crossing in a downtown intersection?

ARIADNE

I didn't.

COBB

(snaps)

Why were we all ambushed, Arthur?! Those weren't regular projections- they'd been trained!

ARIADNE

How could they be trained?

ARTHUR

Fischer's had an extractor teach his mind to defend itself. His subconscious is militarized. It should've shown on the research-

COBB

So why the hell didn't it?!

ARTHUR

Calm down.

COBB

Don't tell me to calm down-you were meant to check Fischer's background thoroughly. You can't make this kind of mistake-we're not prepared for this kind of violence-

ARTHUR

Cobb, we've dealt with sub-security before. We just have to be more-

COBB

This wasn't part of the plan, Arthur!
(points at Saito)
He's dying!

EAMES

So we put him out of his misery.

Eames steps into the room, pulls his gun and moves over Saito.

COBB

No.

EAMES

He's in agony. Let's wake him up-

Cobb GRABS Eames's arm.

COBB

No!

(they lock eyes)

It won't wake him up.

EAMES

What do you mean, it won't wake him? When you die in a dream you wake up.

YUSUF

Not from this. We're too heavily sedated to wake up that way.

Eames looks at Yusuf, then to Cobb.

EAMES

So what happens if one of us dies?

COBB

That person doesn't wake up. Their mind drops into Limbo.

ARIADNE

Limbo?

ARTHUR

Unconstructed dream space.

ARIADNE

What's down there?

ARTHUR

Raw, infinite subconscious. Nothing there but what was left behind by anyone on the team who's been trapped there before. On this team... just Cobb.

ARIADNE

How long would we be stuck there?

YUSUF

You couldn't even think about trying to escape until the sedation eases-

EAMES

How long?

YUSUF

Decades-it could be infinite-I don't know! Ask him-he's the one who's been there before!

Eames moves to Cobb. Looks him in the eye.

EAMES

Great. So now we're stuck in Fischer's mind battling it out with his private army, and if we get hit we're stuck in Limbo 'til our brains dissolve into scrambled egg?

Cobb says nothing. Saito groans more loudly.

ARTHUR

Let's just get him upstairs.

INT. OFFICE, WAREHOUSE - MOMENTS LATER

Saito is laid out on an old desk. Arthur examines him. He motions to Ariadne. Eames watches Cobb.

ARTHUR

Hold this. Firm pressure.

Arthur turns to Cobb.

ARTHUR

You knew the risks and you didn't tell us.

COBB

There wasn't meant to be any risk.
We weren't supposed to be dealing with a load of gunnre.

ARTHUR

You had no right.

COBB

It's the only way you can go three layers deep, Arthur.

Arthur turns to Yusuf, hostile.

ARTHUR
And you. You went along with this?

YUSUF
I trusted him.

ARTHUR
You trusted him? When? When he promised you half his share?

YUSUF
(offended)
No! His whole share. Plus, he told me he'd done it before.

Arthur turns to Cobb.

ARTHUR
Oh, yeah? With Mal? That worked out great, didn't it, Cobb?

Cobb grabs Arthur.

COBB
You don't know anything about that.
This was the only way to do this job, Arthur. I did what I had to do to get back to my children.

EAMES
So you led us into a war zone with no way out.

COBB
We have a way out. The kick. We just have to push on, do the job as fast as possible and get out using the kick.

EAMES
Forget it. We go any deeper, we just raise the stakes. I'm sitting it out on this level.

COBB
You'll never make it, Eames.
Fischer's security is surrounding this place as we speak. The ten hours of the flight is a week at this level-you'll never make it without getting killed. Downwards is the only way forwards. We have to carry on.

Saito groans. Cobb looks at him-

COBB

And we have to do it fast.

Eames and Arthur weigh this.

COBB

Eames, go get ready. Arthur, let's get in there and soften him up.

INT. BATHROOM, WAREHOUSE - LATER

Cobb and Arthur, wearing BALACLAVAS, PULL the sack from Fischer's head. He is chained to the radiator.

FISCHER

I'm insured against kidnapping up to ten million-this'll be simple-

COBB

No, it won't.

Fischer looks at Cobb, unnerved.

ARTHUR

In. your lather's office, below the bookshelves, is his personal safe.
We need the combination.

FISCHER

I never noticed a safe-

COBB

Doesn't mean you don't know the combination.

FISCHER

Well, I don't.

ARTHUR

We have it on good authority that you do.

FISCHER

Whose?

INT. OFFICE, WAREHOUSE - CONTINUOUS

Yusuf looks through Fischer's wallet. Eames is opening a HINGED, THREE-WING MIRROR.

YUSUF

Five hundred dollars, this cost?

EAMES

What's inside?

YUSUF

Cash, cards, ID... and this-

Yusuf holds up a SNAPSHOT: the photo from Maurice Fischer's office- YOUNG ROBERT holds his HOMEMADE PINWHEEL, his FATHER blows on it. Eames takes it from Yusuf. STUDIES it. Cobb enters. Eames hands him the snapshot.

EAMES

Useful?

Cobb studies the snapshot. Eames examines himself in the hinged mirror from multiple angles: ONE BY ONE the myriad Eames reflections BECOME BROWNING. Cobb pockets the photo.

COBB

You're on. You've got an hour.

EAMES

An hour? I was supposed to have all night to crack him.

COBB

And Saito was supposed to keep his guts on the inside. You've got an hour-get something we can use.

Eames turns from the mirror AS BROWNING. He glances at his watch, then SCREAMS, as if begging for mercy-

INT. BATHROOM, WAREHOUSE - CONTINUOUS

Browning's CRY reverberates- Fischer looks up, concerned-

FISCHER

What's that?

ARTHUR

Good authority.

Another cry rings out. Fischer recognizes the voice.

FISCHER

Uncle Peter?! Make them stop-

ARTHUR

The combination.

FISCHER

I don't know it!

ARTHUR

Why would Browning tell us you did?

FISCHER

Let me talk to him-I'll find out.

INT. BATHROOM, WAREHOUSE - MOMENTS LATER

Cobb pushes Browning (Eames), bloody and bruised, into the room and forces him down next to Fischer. Cobb handcuffs Browning's wrist to a metal bracket on the side of the sink.

COBB

You've got an hour. Get talking.

Cobb leaves.

BROWNING (EAMES)

They've had me for two days.
They've got someone with access to your father's office and they're trying to open his safe-they thought I'd know the combination, but I don't-

FISCHER

Neither do I, Uncle Peter.

BROWNING

(confused)

Maurice told me that after he passed only you would be able to open it.

FISCHER

He never gave me the combination.

Browning thinks for a minute. Realizes something.

BROWNING

He did, he just didn't tell you that it was a combination.

FISCHER

What, then?

BROWNING

Something only you would know. Some meaningful combination of numbers from your experiences with Maurice-

FISCHER

We didn't have a lot of meaningful experiences together.

BROWNING

Perhaps after your mother died...

FISCHER

After my mother died, I went to him in my grief.

(MORE)

FISCHER (CONT'D)

You know what he told me? "There's really nothing to be said, Robert."

BROWNING

He always had a hard time with emotional-

FISCHER

I was eleven, Uncle Peter.

Browning (Eames) takes this in.

BROWNING

He loved you, Robert. In his way.

FISCHER

"In his way?" At the end he called me to his deathbed. He could barely speak, but he took the trouble to say one last thing to me. He pulled me close... I could make out only one word. "Disappointed."

Browning can say nothing.

INT. OFFICE, WAREHOUSE - CONTINUOUS

Cobb pulls off his balaclava. Looks down at Saito, who is breathing fast, shallow.

COBB

How's he doing?

ARIADNE

He's in a lot of pain.

Cobb takes Saito's hand. Looks him in the eye.

COBB

When we get you down to the next level, the pain will be less intense.

Saito nods, breathing hard.

ARIADNE

(low)

And if he dies?

COBB

His conscious mind will drop out of the dream. He'll be trapped in Limbo for a lifetime...

ARIADNE

What will that do to him?

Cobb looks at her. Grave.

COBB

When he wakes... his mind could be completely gone.

SAITO

When... when we wake I will still honor our arrangement...

Cobb looks down at Saito sadly.

COBB

Saito-san, when you wake you might not even remember that we had an arrangement. You'll have forgotten this world. Limbo will be your reality. Lost there so long, you'll have become an old man...

SAITO

Filled with regret?

COBB

Waiting to die alone. Yes.

SAITO

Then I'll take the chance and come back. And we'll be young men together again.

Saito smiles weakly. Cobb nods at him, turns to Ariadne.

ARIADNE

When were you trapped in Limbo?

Cobb says nothing. Ariadne pulls him away from Saito.

ARIADNE

Cobb, you might have convinced the rest of this team to carry on with the job. But they don't know the truth.

COBB

What truth?

ARIADNE

The truth that at any minute you might bring a freight train through the wall. The truth that Mal is bursting up through your subconscious.

(MORE)

ARIADNE (CONT'D)

The truth that as we go deeper into Fischer, we're also going deeper into you-and I'm not sure we're going to like what we find there.

Cobb stares back at Ariadne. Saying nothing.

ARIADNE

This is not just about Fischer, it's about you. Tell me what happened to you and Mal. Trapped in Limbo.

Cobb looks at her. Thinking it through.

COBB

We were on a job. Exploring dreams within dreams. But we didn't understand how your mind can turn hours into years. How you can get trapped. Trapped so deep that when you wash up on the shore of your subconscious...

INSERT CUT: MAL LIES ON THE SAND, STARING UP AT A CLOUDLESS SKY, WAVES WASHING OVER HER...

COBB

You can lose track of what's real.

ARIADNE

How long were you stuck?

Cobb pauses before he answers. Looks at Ariadne.

COBB

Fifty years.

Ariadne stares at him, incredulous.

ARIADNE

How did you stand it?

INSERT CUT: COBB AND MAL BUILD A SANDCASTLE ON THE BEACH...

COBB

We built. We created a whole world for ourselves...

INSERT CUT: COBB AND MAL WALK THROUGH A DESERTED CITY.

COBB

It's not so bad at first, being gods. The problem is knowing that it's not real. It became impossible for me to live like that.

ARIADNE
But not for her?

COBB
She accepted it. At some point...

INSERT CUT:

INT. MAL'S CHILDHOOD HOME - DAY

Mal opens a DOLL'S HOUSE. Inside is a SAFE. She opens it- it is empty. She pulls out her SPINNING TOP.

COBB (V.O.)
...she'd decided to forget that our world wasn't real.

Mal places the top inside the safe. LOCKS IT AWAY...

INT. OFFICE, WAREHOUSE - CONTINUOUS

ARIADNE
And when you finally woke up?

COBB
To wake from that. From decades lived. To be old souls thrown back into youth. It was hard. At first Mal seemed okay. But I started to realize something was wrong.
Finally she admitted it. This idea she was possessed by. This simple little idea that changed everything...

ARIADNE
What was it?

COBB
That our world was not real. No matter what I did, no matter what I said, she was convinced that we were still in a dream. That we needed to wake up again...

INT. COBB AND MAL'S KITCHEN - DAY (FLASHBACK)

Cobb is trying to calm Mal, who is hysterical.

COBB (V.O.)
That to get home we'd have to kill ourselves.

INT. WORKSHOP - DAY

Ariadne looks at Cobb, appalled.

ARIADNE
What about your children?

Cobb has to look away.

COBB
She... she believed they weren't real. That our real children were waiting. Somewhere above...

INT. COBB AND MAL'S KITCHEN - DAY (FLASHBACK)

Mal shakes her head at Cobb as he USHERS the children out of the room, FACES UNSEEN-

COBB
Calm down, Mal-

MAL
They're projections, Dom. Your dreams. I'm their mother-don't you think I can tell the difference?

Cobb closes the door- turns to her, eyes full of bitter tears.

COBB
If it's my dream then why can't I control it? Why can't I stop this?

MAL
(it's obvious)
You don't know you're dreaming.

COBB
You keep telling me I am-

MAL
And you don't believe me!

COBB (V.O.)
She was certain. But she loved me too much to go without me. So she made a plan...

INT. ELEGANT HOTEL CORRIDOR - NIGHT (FLASHBACK)

Cobb walks along, checking door numbers against a key.

COBB (V.O.)
For our anniversary...

INT. ELEGANT HOTEL SUITE - CONTINUOUS (FLASHBACK)

Cobb enters the lavish suite. He notices the DISHEVELED BEDCLOTHES.

He steps forwards- SMASH- he has tipped over a champagne glass with his foot... dinner for two is SPREAD ACROSS THE FLOOR. He looks at the DEBRIS, confused... next to the broken glass is a SPINNING TOP. He picks it up, studying it, thinking. He feels a draught, looks to the window. The CURTAIN BILLOWS.

EXT. EXTERIOR ATRIUM - CONTINUOUS (FLASHBACK)

Cobb looks out the window: Mal sits on the ledge of the opposite window. HAIR BLOWING. Feet dangling over the dizzyingly high atrium. She smiles.

MAL

Join me.

COBB

Mal, come back inside.

MAL

No. I'm going to jump. And you're coming with me.

COBB

No, I'm not. This is real-if you jump, you're not going to wake up, you're going to die. Let's go back inside and talk about this, please.

MAL

We've talked enough.

She KICKS off a shoe and watches it DROP.

MAL

Come out onto the ledge or I'll jump right now.

She means it. Cobb swings his legs out, sitting on the ledge opposite is wife. He looks down at the drop.

MAL

I'm asking you to take a leap of faith.

COBB

I can't do that, Mal. I can't leave our children.

MAL

If I go without you, they'll take them away, anyway.

COBB

What do you mean?

MAL
I filed a letter with our attorney.
Explaining how I'm fearful for my safety, how you've threatened to kill me...

Cobb looks back at the wrecked hotel suite, PANICKING...

MAL (CONT'D)
I love you, Dom. I've freed you from the guilt of choosing to leave them. We're going home to our real children.

COBB
Out children are here, Mal.

Mal CLOSES HER EYES. Cobb looks for some way to reach her...

MAL
You're waiting for a train...

COBB
NO! MAL, NO, I CAN'T!

MAL
A train that will take you far away...

COBB
DON'T DO THIS!

MAL
You know where you hope this train will take you, you can't know for sure...

COBB
DON'T!

MAL
But it doesn't matter...

COBB
NO!

MAL
Because you'll be together...

Mal SLIPS FORWARD INTO SPACE. Cobb SCREAMS after her. Then tries to bury his face in the wall...

INT. OFFICE, WAREHOUSE - DAY

Cobb stares as he remembers.

COBB
He letter to the authorities refuted all the claims about her sanity that she knew I'd make...

INT. COBB AND MAL'S KITCHEN - DAY (FLASHBACK)

Cobb stands with the Thin Man, who has a piece of paper.

COBB (V.O.)
She'd had herself declared sane by three different psychiatrists.

Cobb hears a SHOUT- turns to the garden. James CROUCHES, Philippa joins him, examining the ground, FACES UNSEEN...

COBB (V.O.) (CONT'D)
It was impossible for me to explain the nature of her madness...

The Thin Man thrusts the paper into Cobb's hand.

THIN MAN
Right now. Or never, Cobb.

Cobb turns back to the window- about to call out- James and Philippa RUN OFF. Cobb turns from the window. Looks at the paper in his hand. It is an AIRPLANE TICKET.

COBB (V.O.)
So I ran. And I've been running ever since, trying to buy my way back to my family...

INT. OFFICE, WAREHOUSE - DAY

Cobb looks across at Ariadne.

ARIADNE
Psychiatrists judged her sane?

COBB
She was sane. She was just lost in the labyrinth.

ARIADNE
Then why should you blame yourself?

COBB
Because we were a family. And we had a life I would do anything to get back to now. But that reality wasn't enough for me then.

ARIADNE

It might have been your idea to push the limits, Cobb. But you're not responsible for the idea that destroyed her. The idea that her world wasn't real... that was her own idea from her own mind.

Cobb says nothing.

ARIADNE (CONT'D)

Your guilt defines her. Powers her. If we're going to succeed in this, you're going to have to forgive yourself, and you're going to have to confront her. But you don't have to do it alone.

COBB

You don't have to do this for me-

ARIADNE

I'm doing it for the others. They don't know the risk they've taken coming in here with you.

Cobb looks at the rooftop opposite, sees a SNIPER take up a position. Cobb shakes his head, frustrated.

COBB

We can't stay here. Arthur?!

INT. BATHROOM, WAREHOUSE - CONTINUOUS

Browning puts his hand on Fischer's shoulder.

BROWNING

These people are going to kill us if we don't give them the combination.

FISCHER

They won't, they'll try to ransom us-

BROWNING

I heard them-they're going to lock us in and run the can into the river.

FISCHER

What is in the safe?

BROWNING
Something for you. Maurice always said it was his most previous gift... a will.

FISCHER
Maurice's will is with Port and Dunn.

BROWNING
It's an alternate. It supersedes the other only if you want it to.

FISCHER
What does it say?

BROWNING
It splits all the component businesses of Fischer Morrow into individual companies, transferring ownership to the boards of those companies...

FISCHER
Leaving me nothing?

BROWNING
A basic living. Nothing more. The entire empire would cease to exist.

FISCHER
Destroy my own inheritance? Why would he suggest such a thing?

BROWNING
I don't know, Robert.

Cobb OPENS the door. Arthur is behind him.

COBB
Come to your senses?

FISCHER
Let us go. I don't know the combination. Not consciously.

Cobb considers this. Opens his phone. Pulls out his gun.

COBB
Let's try instinctively. I have someone standing in your father's office ready to tap in a combination.

He holds the phone to Fischer's mouth.

COBB (CONT'D)
First six numbers that come into your head. Right now.

FISCHER
I have no idea-

Cobb SWINGS the gun onto Browning-

COBB
RIGHT NOW!

FISCHER
Five, two, eight... four, nine,
one.

Cobb lowers his weapon. Listens to the phone. Shakes his head. Shuts the phone.

COBB
You'll have to do better. Bag 'em.

Arthur puts SACKS over their heads.

INT. WAREHOUSE - CONTINUOUS

Cobb and Arthur drag Fischer and Browning to the van-

FISCHER
We're worth much more to you alive...

Arthur places Fischer on the back seat- uses a DROPPER to drop LIQUID onto Fischer's mask- his head SLUMPS FORWARDS.
"Browning" yanks the sack from his head- it is now EAMES.

EAMES
(excited)
His relationship with his father's much worse that we thought.

ARTHUR
That helps us?

Arthur pulls a SNIPER RIFLE from a case by the van.

COBB
The stronger the issues, the more powerful the catharsis.

Cobb motions for Yusuf to follow his upstairs.

ARTHUR
But how do you reconcile them if they're that estranged?

EAMES
I'm working on that.

Arthur lines up a shot through the window-

ARTHUR
Well, work fast-Fischer's projections are closing in quick, we need to break out of here before we're totally boxed in...

Arthur SHOOTs two snipers. Cobb and Yusuf gently load Saito into the van. He groans. Ariadne straps him in, checks his bandages. Arthur can't get the last sniper- he's too hidden behind a wall-

EAMES
Shouldn't be afraid to dream a little bigger, Arthur-

Eames lines up a shot with a grenade launcher. Fires- the sniper EXPLODES into the air- Arthur looks at Eames.

EAMES (CONT'D) Shall we?

They climb into the van-

INT./EXT. VAN ON RAINY STREETS - CONTINUOUS

The van pulls out into the rain-drenched streets. Arthur opens the mechanism case and hands out tubes-

COBB
Shifting Fischer's antipathy from his father onto Browning should work.

EAMES
We need the imagery, the words...

ARIADNE
So you destroy his one positive relationship?

COBB
No. We repair his relationship with his father and expose his godfather's true nature.

EAMES
Hell, we should be charging Fischer as much as Saito.

ARTHUR

What about his security? It's going to get worse as we go deeper.

COBB

We bring in Mr. Charles.

ARTHUR

No.

EAMES

Who's Mr. Charles?

ARTHUR

A bad idea.

COBB

Arthur, the second we approach Fischer in that hotel, they're gonna mow us down-we run with Mr. Charles like on the Stein job.

EAMES

So you've done it before?

ARTHUR

Sure. But it didn't work. The subject realized he was dreaming and his subconscious tore us to pieces.

Eames takes this in.

EAMES

You learned a lot, though. Right?

COBB

(to Eames)

I'll need a decoy.

EAMES

No problem. How about a pretty young lady I've used before?

COBB

Fine-

Cobb looks back: a second S.U.V. pulls out, tailing them.

COBB (CONT'D)

(to Yusuf)

I know you've got to stay ahead of them, but drive with kid gloves, okay? The world down there is going to be very unstable-

ARTHUR

And don't make the jump too soon-that kick is our only way back, we have to be ready to catch it-

YUSUF

I'll use the music to let you know when it's coming, but the rest is up to you.

Arthur puts the mechanism onto the front seat.

YUSUF (CONT'D)

Everyone ready?

Nods all round.

YUSUF (CONT'D)

Sweet dreams-

Yusuf hits a button and we-

CUT TO:

INT. HOTEL LOBBY BAR - SUNSET

Fischer nurses a drink. Staring at the ice cracking.

BLONDE (O.S.)

Am I boring you?

Fischer looks up. A beautiful BLONDE is next to him.

BLONDE (CONT'D)

I was telling you my story. I guess it wasn't to your liking.

FISCHER

I have a lot on my mind.

Fischer looks around the bar. There are several STERN-LOOKING CHARACTERS paying him too much attention.

INT. HOTEL LOBBY - CONTINUOUS

Arthur and Ariadne sit at a table across the lobby. They spot Cobb moving across the lobby towards Fischer.

ARTHUR

And there goes Mr. Charles.

ARIADNE

Who or what, exactly, is Mr.
Charles?

ARTHUR
It's a gambit designed to turn Fischer against his own
subconscious.

INT. HOTEL LOBBY BAR - CONTINUOUS

Cobb approaches the bar, watched closely by Fischer's Sub-security.

COBB
Mr. Fishcer! Good to see you again.
Rod Green, Marketing.
(to Blonde)
And you must be...

BLONDE
Leaving.

She presses against Fischer as she slides off her stool and deposits a cocktail napkin in front of him.

BLONDE (CONT'D)
In case you get bored.

Cobb watches her walk away. The Sub-security FOLLOWS her.

COBB
I think you just got blown off... unless her phone number really does have only six digits.

Fischer glances at the napkin: "528-491."

INT. HOTEL LOBBY - CONTINUOUS

Arthur watches the Sub-security follow the Blonde.

ARIADNE
And why don't you approve?

ARTHUR
Because it involves telling the mark that he's dreaming. Which involves attracting a lot of attention to us.

ARIADNE
Didn't Cobb say never to do that?

ARTHUR
You must've noticed by now how much time Cobb spends doing things he says never to do.

INT. HOTEL LOBBY BAR - CONTINUOUS

Cobb turns to Fischer.

COBB
Strange way to make friends.
(off look)
Lifting your wallet, I mean.

Fischer pats his pocket. Empty. He looks to the lobby where he sees the Sub-security trailing the Blonde.

FISCHER
Goddamn it. The wallet alone's worth-

COBB
Five hundred bucks. I know. Don't worry, my guys are on it.

FISCHER
Who did you say you were?

Fischer looks at him, curious. Cobb plows on, confident-

COBB
I said I was Rod Green from Marketing-but I'm not. My name is Mr. Charles. I might seem familiar to you. I'm in charge of your security here.

INT. HOTEL LOBBY - CONTINUOUS

The Blonde hurries up to Saito, emerging from the elevator-

BLONDE
Mr. Saito, can I have a minute?

She pushes him back into the elevator, closing the door as the Sub-security approaches...

INT. ELEVATOR - CONTINUOUS

The Blonde fondles Saito's lapels, getting close.

SAITO
I'm sorry, but...

Saito glances over her shoulder to see, in the tunnel of infinite reflections created by the elevator's opposing mirrors, three reflections in, THE BLONDE IS EAMES. He winks.

SAITO (CONT'D)
(pushing him away)
Very amusing, Mr. Eames.

EAMES
You look a bit perkier.

A SHUDDER ripples through the elevator.

SAITO
Turbulence on the plane.

EAMES
Feels closer. That's Yusuf's driving.

And we-

CUT TO:

INT./EXT. VAN ON RAINY DOWNTOWN STREETS - DAY

Yusuf FIGHTS the wheel as the van CUTS DOWN AN ALLEY, BUMPING OVER POTHOLES and SMASHING TRASH CANS aside- THREE S.U.V.s IN FURIOUS PURSUIT. Yusuf looks in the rear view mirror, FRUSTRATED. He checks his WATCH, then checks the back: the SLEEPERS SHAKE with the impact and we-

CUT TO:

INT. HOTEL LOBBY BAR - NIGHT

As a TREMOR echoes through the bar Fischer looks at Cobb trying to place him.

FISCHER
Security? You work for the hotel?

COBB
No. My specialty is subconscious security.

FISCHER
You're talking about dreams. You're talking about extraction.

COBB
Exactly. My job is to protect
you...

Behind Fischer a WAITER puts down a tray- tipping a champagne glass over- SMASH- Cobb NOTICES. Pauses, looks across the bar-
HIS TWO CHILDREN ARE CROUCHED, BACKS TOWARDS US...

Cobb looks around the bar, the patrons start to STARE at Cobb, suspicious- Cobb shifts back to Fischer-

COBB (CONT'D)
My job is to protect you from any attempt to access your mind through your dreams.

Cobb regains his patter- the patrons lose interest...

INT. ELEVATOR - CONTINUOUS

Eames pulls out Fischer's wallet, moves to hand it to Saito, then PAUSES, opens it, leafs past the cast to find... The SNAPSHOT: young Robert holding his HOMEMADE PINWHEEL, his father blowing on it. The elevator doors open and Eames steps off. HANDS Saito the wallet.

EAMES
Get off at a different floor and keep moving. Dump the wallet, then meet me in the lobby. The security will try to track it down. We need to buy Cobb a little more time.

The doors close. Saito puts the wallet in his pocket. He COUGHS- a deep, nasty cough.

INT. HOTEL LOBBY BAR - CONTINUOUS

Cobb looks over Fischer's shoulder to see a SUITED MAN watching him. Another MAN is walking in from the lobby.

COBB
You're not safe here.

Cobb steps away from the bar. Fischer does not move.

COBB (CONT'D)
Trust me. They're coming for you.

Fischer sizes him up, A CLAP OF THUNDER ECHOES, and we-

CUT TO:

INT./EXT. VAN ON RAINY DOWNTOWN STREETS - DAY

GUNSHOTS BLAST out the rear and side windows of the van- a Security Man is leaning out of the lead S.U.V. With a SHOTGUN-

WIND AND RAIN RIP THROUGH THE VAN- in the back, ARTHUR'S SLEEPING FACE IS WHIPPED BY THE SPRAY, AND WE-

CUT TO:

INT. HOTEL LOBBY BAR - SUNSET

Fischer looks out the windows at sudden, HURRICANE-LIKE RAIN-

COBB
Strange weather, huh?

A TREMOR runs through the bar- Cobb looks around-

COBB (CONT'D)
You feel that?

INT. HOTEL LOBBY - CONTINUOUS

Ariadne and Arthur watch the GUSTS OF WIND RATTLE the windows. Arthur sees HOTEL GUESTS staring out at the weather, PUZZLED. Several of them TURN TO LOOK DIRECTLY AT ARTHUR.

ARIADNE
What's happening?

ARTHUR
Cobb's drawing Fischer's attention to the strangeness of the dream. That's making his subconscious look for the dreamer. For me.

And we-

CUT TO:

INT./EXT. VAN ON RAINY STREETS - DAY

At the end of the alley- Yusuf THROWS the van into a HARD RIGHT TURN- we move into EXTREME SLOW MOTION... THE SLEEPERS IN THE BACK ARE DRAWN TO ONE SIDE OF THE VAN BY THE CENTRIFUGAL FORCE... and we-

CUT TO:

INT. HOTEL LOBBY BAR - CONTINUOUS

The liquid in Fischer's drink RISES UP AGAINST ONE SIDE OF THE GLASS- Fischer notices, confused.

COBB
Very odd-the weather, the gravity...

Fischer looks around the bar- it's as if THE ENTIRE ROOM IS SET AT A 45-DEGREE ANGLE- glasses SLIDING off tables...

COBB (CONT'D)
But I can explain all this. You've actually been trained for this.
(Fischer nods)
Think of the strangeness of the weather, the shifts in gravity. None of this is real...
(MORE)

COBB (CONT'D)

(beat)

We're in a dream.

Fischer looks at the room around them. Back to Cobb. All through the bar, patrons turn to look at Cobb IN UNISON.

COBB (CONT'D)

The simplest test of what I'm saying is for you to try and remember anything about the way you arrived in this hotel... okay?

Fischer stares at Cobb, trying to process this. All around them, people STARE at Cobb. Several get up as if to approach.

COBB (CONT'D)

Breathe. Remember the training. Accept the fact that we're in a dream. That's why I'm here protecting you.

As Fischer considers this we-

CUT TO:

INT./EXT. VAN ON RAINY STREETS - DAY

Yusuf STRAIGHTENS UP the van, RACING down the street, swerving through traffic and we-

CUT TO:

INT. HOTEL LOBBY BAR - EVENING

The building gradually EASES BACK INTO ALIGNMENT-

FISCHER

So you... you're not real?

The bar patrons start to ignore Cobb again.

COBB

No. I'm a projection of your subconscious. I was put in place to protect you in the event that extractors pulled you into a dream. I believe that's what has happened.

Fischer takes this in. Then looks at the Security Men approaching across the crooked floor, he nods at Cobb-

INT. HOTEL LOBBY - EVENING

Cobb escorts Fischer across the lobby. As he does so, he walks past the two CHILDREN, backs to us- Cobb ignores them- The two Sub-security fall in behind. Cobb hurries Fischer up the stairs- then PUSHES him into-

INT. HOTEL LOBBY BATHROOM - CONTINUOUS

Fischer stumbles in- turns to Cobb, angry-

FISCHER

Hey-

Cobb reaches into his jacket- the First Man BURSTS in- Cobb KICKS him to the ground- DRAWS his gun as the SECOND MAN comes through the door, moving towards Fischer-BLAM! Cobb BLASTS the Second Man in the back- TURNS and SHOOTS the First Man.

FISCHER (CONT'D)

Jesus Christ! What are you doing?!

Cobb turns to Fischer, calm. Convincing.

COBB

Look at the gun in his hand.

Fischer looks: the Second Man was holding a pistol. Cobb opens the First Man's jacket to show Fischer his holster and sidearm.

COBB (CONT'D)

These men were sent to abduct you.

Cobb pulls out the gun and HANDS it to Fischer.

COBB (CONT'D)

If I'm going to help you, I need you to be calm.

Fischer remembers something.

FISCHER

If this is a dream, I have to kill myself and wake up-

Fischer raises the gun towards his head-

COBB

I wouldn't do that-they've probably got you sedated. If you pull that trigger, you might not wake up, you might drop into a lower dream state.

(MORE)

COBB (CONT'D)

Mr. Fischer, you know all this, you just have to remember it...

Fischer lowers his gun.

INT. HOTEL CORRIDOR - CONTINUOUS

Saito walks down the corridor, followed by a Security Man.
Saito DUCKS around the corner, moves to a GARBAGE CHUTE and DROPS Fischer's WALLET into it. He SLIPS into the stairwell as the Security Man comes abreast of the chute and pauses.

INT. HOTEL CORRIDOR - CONTINUOUS

Arthur leads Ariadne to a particular room: 491.

INT. ROOM 491 - CONTINUOUS

Arthur leads Ariadne in. He opens the closet, opens the room safe, pulls out FOUR BRICKS OF PLASTIC EXPLOSIVE.

ARTHUR

So, if everything's correct, this room should be directly below 528.

INT. HOTEL LOBBY BATHROOM - CONTINUOUS

Cobb looks reassuringly at Fischer.

COBB

What do you remember from before this dream?

FISCHER

(thinking)
Rain... gunfire... Uncle Peter.
(looks up)
Christ-we've been kidnapped.

COBB

Where were they holding you?

FISCHER

They had us... in the back of a van...

COBB

Your body's bouncing around in the back of a van right now-that explains the gravity shifts.

FISCHER

It was... to do with a safe...
Christ, why's it so hard to remember?

COBB

It's like trying to remember a dream after you've woken up. It takes years of practice to do it easily. So, you and Browning have been pulled into this dream so they can steal something from your mind. What?

FISCHER

They wanted a combination to a safe... they demanded the first numbers to pop into my head.

COBB

That's them extracting a locator.

FISCHER

A locator?

COBB

A number from your own subconscious. It can be used any number of ways...

(thinking)

This is a hotel. Room numbers. What was the number you gave them?

FISCHER

5, 2... something... it was a long number. 528... 528, 4 something.

COBB

(opens phone)

Well, we know where to start.

(into phone)

Fifth floor.

INT. ROOM 491 - CONTINUOUS

Arthur hangs up the phone. He is standing on a chair, attaching the explosives to the ceiling.

ARIADNE

Do you use a timer?

ARTHUR

No, I have to judge it myself. Once you're all asleep up in room 528, I wait 'til Yusuf starts his kick...

ARIADNE

How will you know?

ARTHUR

His music warns me it's coming, then the van hitting the barrier of the bridge should be unmistakable-that's when I blow the floor out from underneath us and we get a nice synchronized kick. Too soon, and we won't get pulled out; too late and I won't be able to drop us.

ARIADNE

Why not?

ARTHUR

The van will be in free fall. I can't drop us with no gravity.

Arthur finishes setting the charges.

INT. HOTEL LOBBY - CONTINUOUS

Saito moves through the lobby. Browning is coming in the other direction. Saito assumes him to be Eames.

SAITO

I see you've changed.

BROWNING

I'm sorry?

Eames comes up behind Browning, catching Saito's eye.

SAITO

I'm... I mistook you for a friend.

BROWNING

Good-looking fellow, I'm sure.

Browning moves off. Saito approaches Eames.

EAMES

That's Fischer's projection of Browning. We'll keep an eye on how he behaves-

SAITO

Why?

EAMES

How he acts will tell us if Fischer's starting to suspect his motives the way we want him to.

INT. HOTEL CORRIDOR, FIFTH FLOOR - MOMENTS LATER

Cobb leads Fischer around a corner. Arthur and Ariadne are waiting in the corridor.

COBB
They work for me.

Fischer starts looking at room numbers. Stops at 528. Cobb draws his gun, steps back from the door and KICKS it open.

INT. ROOM 528 - CONTINUOUS

Cobb JUMPS into the room, gun up. The room is empty. Arthur and Ariadne search the room. Saito and Eames arrive. Eames shuts the door. Arthur FINDS something-

ARTHUR
Mr. Charles!

Arthur holds up a MECHANISM CASE. Cobb shows it to Fischer.

COBB
You know what this is?

Fischer's eyes roam over the dials and plungers.

FISCHER
I think so. But I don't understand.

COBB
They were going to put you under.

FISCHER
I'm already under.

COBB
Under again.

FISCHER
A dream within a dream?

ARTHUR
Shhhh!

Arthur is at the door. Someone is there. A key goes into the lock- the door starts to open- Arthur REACHES OVER and GRABS the person entering, THROWS THEM TO THE FLOOR- puts his gun in their face. IT IS BROWNING.

Fischer stares, disbelieving, at his own godfather.

FISCHER
Uncle Peter. What's going on?

Cobb pulls the key from Browning's hand: ROOM 528.

COBB

You said you were kidnapped
together?

FISCHER

Not exactly, they already had him.
They'd been torturing him...

COBB

You saw them torture him?

Fischer shakes his head. Looks at Browning. Thinking.

FISCHER

The kidnappers are working for you.

BROWNING

No, Robert-

FISCHER

You're trying to get that safe open. To get the alternate will.

Browning looks up at Fischer.

BROWNING

Fischer Morrow's been my entire life. I can't let you destroy it.

FISCHER

I'm not going to throw away my inheritance. Why would I?

BROWNING

I couldn't take the chance of you rising to your father's final taunt.

FISCHER

What taunt?

BROWNING

That will. I'm sorry, Robert, but it's his final insult. A challenge to build something for yourself.
He's telling you that you aren't worthy of his achievements.

Fischer takes this in. Devastated.

FISCHER

That he was "disappointed?"

BROWNING

I'm so sorry. But he was wrong.
You'll make his company even greater than he ever could.

COBB

Your godfather's lying, Robert.

Fischer turns to Cobb.

FISCHER

How do you know?

COBB

It's what I do. He's hiding
something.

Cobb looks at Browning.

COBB

Let's find out what.

Cobb nods at Arthur, who starts unpacking the mechanism.
Browning watches. Silent.

COBB

Let's do to him what he was going to do to you.

Cobb rolls up his sleeve. Nods at Fischer to do the same.

COBB

We'll penetrate his subconscious and find out what he doesn't want you to know.

Fischer looks Cobb in the eye. Decides- rolls up his sleeve, offering his bare arm. The team run tubes to each other-Arthur injects Fischer, whose head slumps.

ARTHUR

He's out.

ARIADNE

Wait, Cobb-I'm lost. Whose subconscious are we going into?

COBB

Fischer's. I told him it was Browning's so he'd come with us as part of our team.

ARTHUR

(impressed)

He's going to help us break into his own subconscious.

COBB

That's the idea. He'll think that his security is Browning's and fight them to learn the truth about his father.

Arthur hits buttons on the mechanism. The team goes out one by one. Cobb is last.

COBB

Fischer's subconscious is going to run you down hard.

ARTHUR

I'll lead them on a merry chase.

COBB

Be back in time for the kick.

ARTHUR

I'm on it.

Cobb is no longer listening- he stares at the net curtains, BILLOWING like those in Mal's suite- a GLIMPSE of someone (Mal?) As the screen goes WHITE, and we are-

EXT. SNOW-COVERED MOUNTAINS - DAY

CLOSE ON Cobb's face, staring. Fixed.

ARIADNE (O.S.)

Cobb? Cobb?

Ariadne is beside him. They stand on a cliff, dressed in white snowsuits, carrying white-painted weapons like WWII commandos. Cobb checks his SNIPER RIFLE, examines their objective: a massive FORTIFIED MEDICAL FACILITY a mile below.

ARIADNE

What's down there?

COBB

Hopefully, the truth we want Fischer to learn.

ARIADNE

I meant what's down there for you?

Cobb turns to her. Eames, Saito and Fischer arrive, SKIING down from the hill above. Cobb pulls Eames out of Fischer's earshot.

COBB

You're the dreamer. I need you to draw the security away from the complex.

EAMES

Then who guides Fischer in? You?

COBB

If I know the route... we could be compromised.

Eames looks at Cobb, uneasy. Ariadne comes over.

ARIADNE

I designed the place.

COBB

No. You're with me.

SAITO (O.S.)

I could do it.

They turn to Saito. Saito shrugs at Eames. Eames smiles.

COBB

Eames, brief Saito on the route into the complex. What we're looking for is going to be in the most heavily fortified section. That north tower.

Cobb moves to Fischer. Saito COUGHS. SPITS. Eames sees BLOOD on the snow. Looks at Saito.

COBB

Mr. Fischer, you're going in with Mr. Saito.

FISCHER

You're not coming in?

COBB

You have to do this on your own. You have to get in there, break into your godfather's mind and find out the truth about your father.

Cobb taps Fischer's radio mike.

COBB

Keep this live at all times. I'll be listening in, covering you.

(holds up the sniper rifle)

The windows on the upper floors are big enough that I can cover you from that south tower.

Cobb slips into his skis, shoulders his rifle.

CUT TO:

INT. ROOM 528 - NIGHT

Arthur checks the mechanism. He hears LOW BOOMS like thunder. He checks his watch- THE SECOND HAND CRAWLS FORWARDS. With a last look at the sleepers, he heads out into the corridor...

INT./EXT. VAN ON RAINY DOWNTOWN STREETS - DAY

A GUNSHOT slams into the van as Yusuf DRIVES- he glances back to see a MOTORCYCLE pulling up behind him, the REAR PASSENGER FIRING A SHOTGUN- the bike pulls alongside Yusuf's window as the passenger RELOADS- Yusuf YANKS the wheel TOWARDS the bike, bringing the shotgun barrel into the cab so he can GRAB it, spin the wheel back- PULLING the passenger from the back of the bike... Yusuf turns a corner, heading into a disused MARKET-

INT. HOTEL CORRIDOR - CONTINUOUS

Arthur walks towards the elevator. It OPENS- a SECURITY MAN emerges, heading right for him. Arthur takes a TURN, speeding up. The BOOMS are louder, and we-

CUT TO:

INT./EXT. VAN ON RAINY DOWNTOWN STREETS - DAY

The bike crosses behind the van, catching up again as the driver pulls a handgun and starts BLASTING. Up ahead, an S.U.V. sits in a side road, lining up to head off the van- the SECURITY MAN driving the S.U.V. guns it, as the bike creeps up on the other side of the van- Yusuf HITS THE BRAKES, forcing the bike out into the path of the S.U.V., tossing the rider like a rag doll-

Heading out of the market, the van races onto a FREEWAY ON RAMP, approaching the BRIDGE. An S.U.V. SMASHES into the van's side, FORCING it up against a CRASH BARRIER... the van starts to SLOWLY TILT OVER THE BARRIER as the S.U.V. PUSHES-

CUT TO:

INT. HOTEL CORRIDOR - NIGHT

As Arthur hurries down the corridor, the corridor starts to TILT, and Arthur is forced to run UP ONTO THE WALL- he rounds a corner- STRAIGHT INTO another Security Man- Arthur HEAD BUTTS him and they STRUGGLE- as they struggle, the corridor SPINS around, THROWING THEM UP ONTO THE WALLS, THE CEILING- as wall becomes floor they DROP through a door into-

INT. HOTEL ROOM - CONTINUOUS

The fight continues all over the spinning room- and we-

CUT TO:

INT./EXT. VAN ON RAINY OFF RAMP NEAR BRIDGE - DAY

SLEEPING ARTHUR BOUNCES around as the van TILTS, SCRAPING along the barrier- the van CLEARS THE END OF THE BARRIER AND ROLLS DOWN THE EMBANKMENT, and we-

CUT TO:

INT. HOTEL ROOM - NIGHT

Arthur and the Security Man DROP to the floor, Arthur on top. Arthur gets up- heads to the stairwell.

INT./EXT. VAN ON RAINY STREETS NEAR BRIDGE - DAY

The van SETTLES with a thump. Yusuf BREATHES hard. Then SMILES as he realizes he is in one piece. A RINGING BELL up ahead makes him look up to the bridge, where the barriers are starting to come down. Yusuf checks his watch-

YUSUF

Bugger.

Yusuf hits the gas, heading for the bridge. An S.U.V. lines up behind him, trying to catch up before the van crosses the barrier onto the bridge-

The van JUST MAKES IT- the S.U.V. behind RIPS its rear axle off, SCRAPING to a halt on the rising section. The Security Man inside starts FIRING on the van...

INT. HOTEL STAIRWELL - CONTINUOUS

Arthur RACES down the steps- OPENS the door to the fourth floor- spots SECURITY MEN outside room 491.

ARTHUR

Hey!

They TURN- he DARTS back into the stairwell- RACES down the stairs- the Security Men follow- they start SHOOTING, and we-

CUT TO:

EXT. SNOW-COVERED MOUNTAINS - DAY

Eames SKIS down within sight of the hospital complex. He reaches into his pack and lets off a FLARE.

EXT. HOSPITAL COMPLEX - CONTINUOUS

Security Men on the ramparts spot the flare and send PATROLS out on skis and SNOWMOBILES to investigate.

EXT. SNOW-COVERED MOUNTAINS - CONTINUOUS

Eames watches them close in, then launches himself down the mountain, STREAKING across the icy slope, and we-

CUT TO:

INT./EXT. VAN ON RAINY RISING BRIDGE - DAY

Yusuf PULLS FORWARD, looking over his shoulder to line up a BACKWARDS RUN at the edge. He DUCKS as vicious FIRE from the S.U.V. HAMMERS the vehicle. He looks at his watch. The SECOND HAND TICKING SLOWLY...

YUSUF

Sod it. I hope your ready.

He grabs an MP3 player and reaches into the back to place HEADPHONES on sleeping Arthur's head. As he does so, he notices Saito's bandage BLEEDING THROUGH. Yusuf hits PLAY-Edith Piaf's "Non, je ne regrette rien" starts up and we-

CUT TO:

INT. HOTEL STAIRWELL - NIGHT

Arthur STOPS, hearing something- MASSIVE LOW-END MUSICAL TONES- he looks up PANICKED-

ARTHUR

No, Yusuf. Too soon!

SHOTS slam into the stairs around him and we-

CUT TO:

EXT. SNOW-COVERED MOUNTAINS - DAY

Cobb and Ariadne make their way down towards the complex.

EAMES (OVER RADIO)

Cobb? Are you hearing that?

Cobb listens. The wind sounds unusually LOW.

EXT. FOREST, SNOW-COVERED MOUNTAINS - CONTINUOUS

Eames is hidden at the base of some trees, whispering as a patrol passes beneath his position.

EAMES

I noticed it twenty minutes ago-at first I thought it was just wind...

EXT. SNOW-COVERED MOUNTAINS - CONTINUOUS

Cobb is listening intently. The "wind" changes pitch.

COBB

No, it's music. Dammit.

EAMES (OVER RADIO)

What do we do?

COBB

We move fast. Saito, did you copy?

EXT. MOUNTAINS, THE OTHER SIDE OF THE COMPLEX - CONTINUOUS

Saito and Fischer CLIMB down a CLIFF FACE above the complex-

SAITO

We're going as fast as we can.

EXT. SNOW-COVERED MOUNTAINS - CONTINUOUS

Ariadne looks at Cobb, concerned.

ARIADNE

How long do we have?

COBB

Yusuf's about ten seconds from the jump, which gives Arthur about three minutes, which gives us about-

ARIADNE

Sixty minutes.

COBB

The route you gave them, can they do it in under an hour?

ARIADNE

I don't think so. They've still got to climb down to the middle terrace.

COBB

They need a new route-a direct route.

ARIADNE

The building's designed as a labyrinth.

COBB
There must be access routes that cut through the maze.
(into radio)
Eames?

EXT. FOREST, SNOW-COVERED MOUNTAINS - CONTINUOUS

Eames cannot answer- he SLALOMS through the forest, Sub-security in hot pursuit, bullets smashing into the trunks...

EXT. SNOW-COVERED MOUNTAINS - CONTINUOUS

Cobb turns to Ariadne.

COBB
Did Eames add any features?

ARIADNE
Yes.

COBB
What did he add?

Ariadne looks at Cobb.

ARIADNE
I shouldn't tell you. If Mal-

COBB
There's no time-what did he add?

ARIADNE
Utility closets, trap doors...

COBB
What about service features? Did he add any large pipes or-

ARIADNE
Ducts. He added an air duct system-it doesn't follow the maze. They can use it to go straight from the outer walls to the upper tower.

COBB
Explain it to them.

ARIADNE
(into radio)
Saito?

EXT. CLIFF FACE BEHIND COMPLEX - CONTINUOUS

Saito is using a hammer to tap in a belay.

SAITO
Go ahead.

And we-

CUT TO:

INT./EXT. VAN ON RAINY RAISED BRIDGE - DAY

Yusuf looks at the Security Man in the S.U.V., gives him the finger and hits the GAS- RACING BACKWARDS at the barrier... and we-

CUT TO:

INT. HOTEL STAIRWAY - NIGHT

Arthur RUNS UP the stairs, gun in hand- rounds a corner and- IMPOSSIBLY- arrives behind the Security Man, who looks at him, CONFUSED, then looks down to realize he is now at the edge of a dangerous drop- Arthur shrugs.

ARTHUR
Paradox.

Arthur PUSHES him over the edge- he falls- Arthur races up to the fourth floor- throws open the door- and we-

CUT TO:

INT./EXT. VAN ON RAINY RAISED BRIDGE - DAY

In SLOW MOTION- the van SMASHES THROUGH THE CONCRETE BARRIER- and we-

CUT TO:

INT. HOTEL CORRIDOR - NIGHT

Arthur is SPRINTING down the corridor when a TREMENDOUS CRASH sends him FLYING into the air- and we-

CUT TO:

EXT. SNOW-COVERED MOUNTAINS - DAY

A MASSIVE RUMBLE prompts Cobb to look across the valley-

EXT. FOREST, SNOW-COVERED MOUNTAINS - CONTINUOUS

Eames shoots out of the trees, then FALLS to the snow as he sees a great CRACKING up ahead- the SLOPE IS FALLING AWAY IN AN AVALANCHE-

EXT. CLIFF FACE BEHIND COMPLEX - CONTINUOUS

Saito hears the RUMBLE above them. He looks down, Fischer is below, near the bottom of the sheer face-

SAITO

Look out!

Saito CUTS the rope- they FALL- HIT the icy face and SLIDE down the slope, clearing the path of the avalanche- and we-

CUT TO:

INT./EXT. VAN - DAY

In EXTREME SLOW MOTION, the van emerges from the concrete balustrade and starts FALLING- and we-

CUT TO:

INT. HOTEL CORRIDOR - NIGHT

Arthur is still FLYING through the corridor, NOT LANDING- GRAVITY HAS DISAPPEARED... he scrambles for a handhold, GRABBING a sconce- and we-

CUT TO:

EXT. SNOW-COVERED MOUNTAINS - DAY

Cobb watches the avalanche cloud slide past the complex.

ARIADNE

What was that?

COBB

The kick.

EAMES (OVER RADIO)

Cobb? Did we miss it?

COBB

Yeah, we missed it.

EXT. FOREST, SNOW-COVERED MOUNTAINS - CONTINUOUS

Eames is lying on the snow.

EAMES

What the hell do we do now?

COBB (OVER RADIO)

Finish the job before the next kick.

EAMES
What next kick?

EXT. SNOW-COVERED MOUNTAINS - CONTINUOUS

Cobb looks at Ariadne as he talks into the radio.

COBB
When the van hits the water. I figure Arthur's got a couple minutes and we've got about twenty.

Cobb and Ariadne MOVE towards the base of the complex.

EXT. HOSPITAL COMPLEX - CONTINUOUS

Saito and Fischer RUN around the base of the building. They find a large EXHAUST PORT. Lay a charge on the GRILL. They blow the charge. Climb into the open vent.

INT./EXT. VAN - DAY

In EXTREME SLOW MOTION, the van seems SUSPENDED IN MID-AIR TEN STORIES ABOVE THE RIVER... and we-

CUT TO:

INT. HOTEL CORRIDOR - NIGHT

In ZERO GRAVITY, Arthur pulls himself to the door of 491, opens it. He looks at the charges planted on the ceiling.

ARTHUR
How the hell do I drop you?

He PULLS the charges from the ceiling. Hurrying. And we-

CUT TO:

INT. DUCT SYSTEM, HOSPITAL COMPLEX - CONTINUOUS

Saito and Fischer hurry through the duct system. Saito is falling behind, coughing up blood.

EXT. UPPER TERRACE, HOSPITAL COMPLEX - CONTINUOUS

Cobb GRABS a Security Guard from behind, strangling him unconscious. He beckons to Ariadne, covering her as she runs towards him. They enter the base of the south tower.

INT. TOP ROOM, SOUTH TOWER, HOSPITAL COMPLEX - CONTINUOUS

A guard is manning the tower. Cobb and Ariadne enter- Cobb SHOOTS the guard and moves to the window.

ARIADNE
(she points)
That's the antechamber outside the strongroom.

Cobb looks at the large windows of the antechamber.

COBB
What about the strongroom? Doesn't it have any windows?

ARIADNE
Wouldn't be very strong if it did.
(off look)
Look, if you wanted to design it yourself-

COBB
It's fine. Better hope that we like what Fischer finds in there.

Cobb sets up his sniper rifle. Through the scope he can see three guards on the balcony outside the chamber. Three more inside. Cobb casually picks them off with his rifle. Ariadne watches through binoculars, appalled.

ARIADNE
These projections, they're part of his subconscious?

COBB
Yeah.

ARIADNE
Are you destroying those parts of his mind?

COBB
No, of course not. They're just projections.

EAMES (OVER RADIO)
Cobb? Something's wrong?

EXT. FOREST, SNOW-COVERED MOUNTAINS - CONTINUOUS

Eames is watching the patrols HEAD BACK towards the complex.

EAMES
They're heading your way. Like they know something.

INT. TOP ROOM, SOUTH TOWER, HOSPITAL COMPLEX - CONTINUOUS

Cobb hears this. Concerned.

COBB
Buy us some time.

EAMES (OVER RADIO)
On my way.

EXT. FOREST, SNOW-COVERED MOUNTAINS - CONTINUOUS

Eames TAKES OFF towards the base of the complex. And we=

CUT TO:

INT. ROOM 528 - NIGHT

Arthur FLOATS into the room. The SLEEPERS are floating, loosely connected by their tubes. Arthur looks at them, MIND RACING. He PULLS Cobb towards Eames, and we-

CUT TO:

INT. DUCT SYSTEM, HOSPITAL COMPLEX - DAY

Saito and Fischer approach the grate covering the exit to the anteroom. Saito SLUMPS to the floor of the duct, pulls out his radio. Fischer looks at him- he is PALE, SHIVERING. Fischer takes the radio, WHISPERS into it.

FISCHER
(into radio)
We're here. Are we clear to proceed?

INT. TOP ROOM, SOUTH TOWER, HOSPITAL COMPLEX - CONTINUOUS

Cobb SCANS the anteroom through the scope-it looks clear.

COBB
You're clear, but hurry-there's an army headed your way...

Ariadne watches the patrols approaching the complex...

INT. DUCT SYSTEM, HOSPITAL COMPLEX - CONTINUOUS

The SQUELCH from the radio is too loud- Fischer GRABS it and turns the volume to zero as he starts to remove the grate...

EXT. BASE OF THE HOSPITAL COMPLEX - CONTINUOUS

Eames is setting MINES along the LOWEST WALL of the structure. He moves carefully-there is a SHEER DROP below the wall...

INT. TOP ROOM, SOUTH TOWER, HOSPITAL COMPLEX - CONTINUOUS

Cobb SPOTS something through his scope. Something above the main windows, glimpsed through the side of the skylight.

COBB

Shit. There's someone else in there.

Cobb prepares to fire. Ariadne GRABS the radio-

ARIADNE

Fischer, stop! It's a trap!-

INT. DUCT SYSTEM, HOSPITAL COMPLEX - CONTINUOUS

Fischer does not see the flashing light on his radio as he carefully lifts the grate. He motions for Saito to stay...

INT. TOP ROOM, SOUTH TOWER, HOSPITAL COMPLEX - CONTINUOUS

Cobb TENSES to fire.

COBB

Come on... a little lower... a little-

COBB FREEZES- IT IS MAL IN HIS SIGHTS. Ariadne puts up her binoculars. Spots Mal. Fischer is climbing out of the vent...

ARIADNE

Cobb, that's not really her-

Cobb turns to her-

COBB

How can you know that?

INT. ANTECHAMBER - CONTINUOUS

Fischer moves into the antechamber, cautious-

FISCHER

I'm in.

Fischer turns up the volume-

ARIADNE (OVER RADIO)

Fischer, look out!-

Mal DROPS gracefully to the floor behind him-

MAL

Hello.

INT. TOP ROOM, SOUTH TOWER, HOSPITAL COMPLEX - CONTINUOUS

Cobb looks at Ariadne-

ARIADNE

Cobb, she's just a projection.
Fischer... he's real.

Cobb thinks. Nods, TURNS back to the scope- too late- MAL SHOOTs FISCHER- Cobb reflexively pulls the trigger- Mal GOES DOWN- Cobb steps back from the scope, STUNNED.

ARIADNE

Eames? Get to the anteroom now!

They run for the door.

INT. DUCT SYSTEM, HOSPITAL COMPLEX - CONTINUOUS

Saito STARTS as he hears the shot. He starts edging forwards, clutching his belly. And we-

CUT TO:

INT. ROOM 528 - NIGHT

The sleepers are floating in a rough stack, top-and-tailed. Arthur pulls the bedding from the bed and uses the sheet to bind the sleepers together. And we-

CUT TO:

INT./EXT. VAN - DAY

In EXTREME SLOW MOTION, the van CREEPS DOWNWARDS, still high above the river... and we-

CUT TO:

INT. HOTEL CORRIDOR - NIGHT

Arthur PUSHES the floating stack of sleepers to the elevator. He hits the button- the doors open- he pushes them in- GRABS the charges- climbs through the hatch in the ceiling and we-

CUT TO:

INT. DUCT SYSTEM, HOSPITAL COMPLEX - DAY

Eames steps over Saito, who looks up at him with DYING eyes-

INT. ANTECHAMBER, HOSPITAL CORRIDOR - DAY

Eames jumps out of the vent to find Cobb and Ariadne standing over the bodies of Fischer and Mal.

EAMES
What happened?

ARIADNE
Mal killed Fischer-

COBB
I wouldn't shoot her.

Eames grabs a defibrillator from the wall and pulls Fischer's jacket open-

COBB
It won't do any good-

Eames SHOCKS Fischer's chest...

COBB
Even if you could revive his body, his mind's trapped down there. It's over.

Eames listens for a pulse. Looks up at Cobb.

EAMES
So that it, then? We failed.

COBB
I'm sorry.

EAMES
It's you who doesn't get back to your family.

Eames looks down at Fischer. Then over to the double doors.

EAMES
I wanted to know what was going to happen in there. I think we had this one.

ARIADNE
There's still a way: We follow
Fischer down-

They look at her.

EAMES
We're almost out of time-

ARIADNE
Down there they'll be enough time.
We'll find him-soon as you hear Arthur's music start, you use the defibrillator to revive him-we give him his own early kick from below.
(MORE)

ARIADNE (CONT'D)

Get him in there-

(points to doors)

Then, as the music ends you blow the hospital and we all ride the kick back up through the layers.

Eames looks at her, then to Cobb.

EAMES

Okay, Saito can hold them off while
I plant the rest of the charges.

COBB

Saito's not going to last, Eames.

ARIADNE

We have to try!

EAMES

Go for it, but I'm taking the kick whether you're back or not...

Eames pulls the mechanism from his pack. Offers it to Ariadne. Cobb watches. Silent. Ariadne pulls out the tubes-

ARIADNE

Can I trust you to do what's needed? Mal's down there-

COBB

And I can find her. She'll have
Fischer.

ARIADNE

How do you know?

COBB

She wants me to come after him. She wants me back down there with her.

Cobb rolls up his sleeve. Ariadne rolls up her own sleeve.
Eames NODS. Cobb and Ariadne lie down. Eames hits the button-WATER. BUBBLES. DROWNING. And we are-

EXT. COAST (LIMBO) - DAY

Ariadne lies in the SURF, STARING up at a CLOUDLESS SKY. A tremendous BOOM prompts her to look around her- URBAN BUILDINGS PILED right down to the water. The buildings are DECAYING, falling into the ocean like a GLACIER calving. Cobb WADES towards her through the shallow water. Ariadne looks up at the crumbling city around them.

ARIADNE

This is your world?

COBB

It was. And this is where she'll be.

And we-

CUT TO:

INT. ELEVATOR SHAFT - DAY

Arthur floats on top of the elevator, planting small charges on the EMERGENCY BRAKES and CABLE. He sets them, GRABS the other explosives, then PUSHES AWAY, shooting up the shaft. As he hits the DETONATOR, BLASTING the braking and safety systems of the elevator, we move into SLOW MOTION, the fireballs FLAMING OUT in graceful licks and we-

DISSOLVE TO:

INT. ANTECHAMBER - DAY

Eames RACES around, full speed- getting the defibrillator paddles- laying them by Fischer's body- he runs into the duct- pulls Saito up to a seated position and hands him a handgun.

EAMES

Come on, Saito. I need you to cover
Fischer while I plant the charges.

Saito nods weakly, tries to hold the gun. Eames moves to the window- pulls his machine gun off- checks its load. Ready. He watches the security patrols climb up the outer walls... Eames lays down a HAIL of covering fire- then heads outside-

EXT. HOSPITAL COMPLEX - CONTINUOUS

Eames races along the upper terrace dodging fire- BULLETS SHATTER a window behind him and we move into SLOW MOTION, the glass CASCADING GENTLY and we-

DISSOLVE TO:

EXT. COAST (LIMBO)- DAY

Cobb and Ariadne climb out of the waves, full speed. They move into the shadow of the tall, crumbling buildings. The streets are eerily DESERTED. As they move further in, the buildings become NEWER, different. Ariadne marvels at the extraordinary collection of buildings- every architectural style imaginable in waves of FAILED UTOPIAS.

ARIADNE

You built all this?

COBB

We both did.

ARIADNE
It's incredible.

COBB
We built for years. Then, when that got stale, we started in on the memories.

A child's SHOUT echoes through the deserted canyons, prompting Cobb to look down a side street: a LITTLE BLONDE BOY crouched, his back to us. A LITTLE BLONDE GIRL joins the boy, and, as Cobb turns down the street, they run off.

Cobb and Ariadne emerge into a peculiar SQUARE lined with an eclectic mix of buildings, from APARTMENT BLOCKS to HOUSES.

COBB
This is our neighborhood.

ARIADNE
(confused)
From what city?

COBB
No. Our neighborhood.
(pointing)
That was our first apartment...
then we moved to that building...
we got that small house when Mal became pregnant.

ARIADNE
You reconstructed them all from memory?

COBB
We had time.

Cobb pauses in front of a French country house. Staring.

ARIADNE
What's that?

COBB
The house Mal grew up in.

ARIADNE
Will she be in there?

COBB
No. Come on-

Cobb leads Ariadne to the entrance of a glass skyscraper.

INT. SKYSCRAPER LOBBY (LIMBO) - CONTINUOUS

Cobb leads Ariadne across the gleaming lobby to the elevators.

COBB

We both wanted a house, but we both loved skyscrapers. In the real world we had to choose. Not here.

INT. SKYSCRAPER ELEVATOR (LIMBO) - CONTINUOUS

Cobb pulls out his handgun, and a ziplock bag full of bullets.

ARIADNE

How do we send Fischer back?

COBB

We need some kind of kick.

ARIADNE

What?

COBB

I'll improvise.

Cobb COCKS his weapon, and the ELEVATOR STOPS. The doors open. Ariadne moves to exit, Cobb stops her.

COBB

There's something you have to understand about me. About inception. You see, an idea is like a virus...

Cobb leads her out of the lift...

INT. PENTHOUSE (LIMBO) - CONTINUOUS

Cobb and Ariadne step off the lift and into the incongruous interior of a craftsman house. They cautiously move down the corridor towards the back of the house...

COBB

Resilient...

(turns to Ariadne)

Highly contagious, and an idea can grow. The smallest seed of an idea can grow to define or destroy your world...

Cobb is staring into the kitchen. Mal is sitting at the table, back to them, staring out at the porch- the TOWERS of Limbo stretching off behind it.

MAL

The smallest idea, such as... "Your world is not real."

Cobb hands Ariadne his gun and moves towards Mal.

MAL

A simple little thought that changes everything...

Ariadne watches as Cobb sits down beside Mal. And we-

CUT TO:

INT. ELEVATOR SHAFT - NIGHT

Arthur FLIES back down the shaft to the top of the elevator, SQUEEZES past the car to the bottom and starts to set the MAIN CHARGES ACROSS THE BOTTOM OF THE CAR, and we-

CUT TO:

INT. PENTHOUSE (LIMBO) - DAY

Cobb touches Mal's arm- she TURNS, angry. It is only now that we see that she holds a CARVING KNIFE. Mal looks at Ariadne.

MAL

So certain of your world. Of what's real. Do you think he is-(points at Cobb)
Or do you think he's as lost as I was?

COBB

I know what's real.

MAL

What are the distinguishing characteristics of a dream? Mutable laws of physics? Tell that to the quantum physicists. Reappearance of the dead? What about heaven and hell? Persecution of the dreamer, the creator, the messiah? They crucified Christ, didn't they?

COBB

I know what's real.

MAL

No creeping doubts? Not feeling persecuted, Dom? Chased around the globe by anonymous corporations and police forces? The way the projections persecute the dreamer?

Mal puts her hand on his face. Pitying.

MAL

Admit it, Dom. You don't believe in one reality anymore. So choose. Choose your reality like I did. Choose to be here. Choose me.

COBB

(rising anger)

I have chosen, Mal. Our children. I have to get back to them. Because you left them. You left us.

MAL

You're wrong, Dom. You're confused... our children are here-

A child's SHOUT draws Cobb- James CROUCHES on the porch, back to us. Philippa joins him, also turned away. Cobb watches, moved. Mal leans in close.

MAL

(whispers)

And you'd like to see their faces again, wouldn't you, Dom?

COBB

Our real children are waiting for me up above.

And we-

CUT TO:

INT. ELEVATOR - NIGHT

Arthur scrambles to arrange the sleepers on the floor of the car- as his hand comes away from Saito, he sees BLOOD on it. He looks at Saito's belly- the blood is coming through his shirt. Arthur sticks headphones on sleeping Eames, and we-

CUT TO:

INT. HOSPITAL FORTRESS - DAY

Eames throws a GRENADE, blowing up the security forces trying to ascend the terraces. He DUCKS to the ground to avoid HEAVY FIRE- starts unpacking the charges and setting them along the base of the terraces-

INT. DUCT SYSTEM, HOSPITAL COMPLEX - CONTINUOUS

Saito looks up as he hears a Security Guard climbing through the duct... he raises his gun, TREMBLING with weakness... And we-

CUT TO:

INT. KITCHEN, PENTHOUSE (LIMBO) - DAY

Mal laughs at Cobb.

MAL

(laughs)

Up above? Listen to yourself. You judged me for believing the very same thing.

Mal points at the children-

MAL

These are our children. Watch.

(turns to the kids)

Hey, James! Philippa?!

The children START TO TURN to us- BUT COBB CLOSES HIS EYES.

COBB

They're not real, Mal. Our real children are waiting for us-

The children run off. Cobb opens his eyes.

MAL

You keep telling yourself that but you don't believe it-

COBB

I know it-

MAL

And what if you're wrong? What if I'm what's real?

Cobb is silent.

MAL

You keep telling yourself what you know... but what do you believe? What do you feel?

Cobb looks at Mal. Struggling.

COBB

Guilt. I feel guilt. And however confused I might get.

(MORE)

COBB (CONT'D)

However lost I might seem... it's always there. Telling me something.
Reminding me of the truth.

MAL

What truth?

COBB

That you were wrong to doubt our world. That the idea that drove you to question your reality was a lie...

MAL

How could you know it was a lie?

COBB

Because it was my lie.

MAL

(realizing)

Because you planted the idea in my mind.

COBB

Because I performed inception on my own wife, then reaped the bitter rewards...

ARIADNE

Why?

COBB

We'd become lost in here. Living in a world of infinite possibilities.
A world where we were gods. I realized we needed to escape, but she'd locked away her knowledge of the unreality of this world...

INSERT CUT: Mal opens the doll's house. Takes the spinning top, lies it down in the safe. LOCKS IT AWAY.

COBB

I couldn't make Mal understand that we needed to break free. To die. So I started to search our world...

Cobb turns to Mal, but keeps talking to Ariadne...

INSERT CUT: Cobb WANDERS the streets of Limbo...

COBB

Searching for the right place in her mind...

INSERT CUT: Cobb stops outside the VICTORIAN HOUSE, MAL'S CHILDHOOD HOME, looking up at it. He heads inside...

COBB

And when I found that place, that secret place where she had shut away her knowledge years before, I broke it open...

INSERT CUT: Cobb looks around Mal's childhood bedroom. Comes to the doll's house...

COBB

I broke into the deepest recess of her mind, to give her the simplest little idea.

INSERT CUT: Cobb throws open the safe doors. Sitting on the shelf of the safe is a spinning top. On its side.

COBB

A truth that she had once known, but had chosen to forget...

INSERT CUT: Cobb picks up the totem. He SPINS it in the safe. IT SPINS AND SPINS WITHOUT END. Cobb CLOSSES THE DOOR of the safe...

COBB

That her world was not real.

INSERT CUT: COBB AND MAL ARRIVE AT TRAIN TRACKS CUTTING THROUGH WASTELAND.

COBB (V.O.)

That death was a necessary escape.

They lie on the tracks looking into each other's eyes. Mal is crying. Cobb takes her hand, reassuring. He starts to speak-

COBB

You're waiting for a train. A train that will take you far away. You know where you hope this train will take you, but you can't know for sure. Yet it doesn't matter...

Mal looks at him across the railroad tracks. Replies-

MAL

Because you'll be together.

The train comes, OBLITERATING the lovers.

Back in the present- Cobb looks into Mal's eyes. She is crying.

COBB
I never thought that the idea I'd planted would grow in her mind like a cancer. That even after we woke...

INSERT CUT: Cobb looks around the HOTEL SUITE, confused. He moves to the CURTAINS... Mal is on the ledge opposite.

COBB
You'd continue to believe that your world was not real...

Crying, Mal nods-

MAL
That death was the only escape?

INSERT CUT: Mal PLUNGES to her death.

MAL
You killed me.

Cobb looks at Mal. Whispers-

COBB
I was trying to save you-I'm sorry.

Mal comes in close to Cobb. Looks him over.

MAL
You infected my mind. You betrayed me. But you can make amends. You can still keep your promise. We can still be together... right here. In our world. The world we built together.

CUT TO:

INT. ELEVATOR - NIGHT

Arthur hits "Play" on his music player- Edith Piaf starts to ring out, Arthur checks his detonator and we-

CUT TO:

INT. ANTECHAMBER - DAY

Eames races back in- in the relative quiet he notices MASSIVE LOW-E MUSICAL TONES. He drops his gun and goes to Fischer's side...

INT. DUCT SYSTEM, HOSPITAL COMPLEX - CONTINUOUS

Saito musters all his remaining strength as the guard emerges- Saito FIRES, dropping the guard, then COLLAPSES, the gun clattering to the duct floor... Saito is dead.

INT. ANTECHAMBER - CONTINUOUS

Eames powers up the defibrillator, puts the paddles on Fischer's chest, then Pow!- he shocks him, and we-

CUT TO:

INT. PENTHOUSE (LIMBO)-DAY

LIGHTNING crackles across the sky- Ariadne sees it.

ARIADNE
We need Fischer.

MAL
You can't have him.

Cobb stares at Mal. Mesmerized.

COBB
If I stay, can she take him back?

ARIADNE
Cobb, what are you saying?

MAL
Fischer's on the porch.

ARIADNE
Cobb, you can't do this.

COBB
Go check he's alive, Ariadne.

Ariadne moves onto the porch, high above the metropolis, and we-

CUT TO:

INT. ELEVATOR - NIGHT

Arthur nods his head in time with the music, counting down, holding the detonator. He starts bracing himself, and we-

CUT TO:

INT. ANTECHAMBER - DAY

Eames recharges the defibrillator. SHOCKS Fischer again, and we-

CUT TO:

EXT. PORCH, PENTHOUSE (LIMBO) - DAY

Ariadne looks up as a LARGE BOLT OF LIGHTNING RIPS across the sky... she looks down to see Fischer, BOUND AND BLOODY, lying below the rail.

ARIADNE

He's here. And it's time. But you have to come with us.

Another massive lightning strike flickers across the sky-

ARIADNE

Cobb, I'm not going to let you lose yourself in here! You have to get back to your children!

COBB

Send Fischer, I have to stay-

ARIADNE

You can't stay here to be with her-

Cobb turns from Mal. Looks at Ariadne.

COBB

I'm not. Saito is dead by now. That means he's here. I have to stay here and find him.

Ariadne removes Fischer's gag- pulls him up, onto the rail. Cobb looks back at Mal.

COBB

I can't stay here to be with her because she's not real.

Mal looks at Cobb, furious.

MAL

Not real? I'm the only thing you do believe in anymore. Here-doesn't this feel real, Dom?

She STABS him in the chest- Cobb WHEEZES- GASPING, looking at Mal-

COBB

I wish you were. But I couldn't make you real. I'm not capable of imagining you in all your complexity and... perfection. As you really were. You're the best I can do. And you're not real.

Mal pulls the knife and moves to STRIKE again-

ARIADNE

No!

A SHOT rings out, Mal GRABS her shoulder- Cobb turns to Ariadne, who is pointing Cobb's gun.

COBB

What're you doing?

ARIADNE

Improvising.

She KICKS Fischer off the roof- AIMS again at Mal-

Fischer DROPS as the sky LIGHTS UP WITH ELECTRICITY- Fischer SCREAMS, then GASPS, no longer falling, and we are-

INT. ANTECHAMBER - DAY

Eames pulls the defibrillator from Fischer's chest as he COUGHS AWAKE.

EAMES

Get in there-quick!

Fischer looks up at the double doors. STAGGERS to his feet. Fischer pushes open the doors to the STRONGROOM.

INT. STRONGROOM - CONTINUOUS

Fischer walks into the silent white room. At one end of the room is a bed. A figure lies in the bed. His FATHER. Breathing with tremendous difficulty. Dying. And we-

CUT TO:

EXT. PENTHOUSE (LIMBO) - DAY

Ariadne takes aim at Mal-

COBB

No!

Cobb holds Ariadne's gaze. She lowers the gun. And we-

CUT TO:

Eames GRABS the detonator- then moves to the door of the strongroom...

CUT TO:

INT. ELEVATOR, HOTEL - NIGHT

Arthur HITS THE DETONATOR-

INT. ELEVATOR SHAFT - CONTINUOUS

The CHARGES on the bottom of the elevator EXPLODE, and we move into EXTREME SLOW MOTION as the flames BALLOON-

CUT TO:

INT. STRONGROOM - CONTINUOUS

A RUMBLE BUILDS as Fischer approaches the bed, overcome with emotion. His Father sees him. Starts trying to speak. Fischer leans in...

FATHER
(hoarse whisper)
I... was ... dis ... dis ...

FISCHER
I know, Dad. You were disappointed that I couldn't be you.

The dying man SHAKES HIS HEAD with surprising energy.

FATHER
(whisper)
I was disappointed... that you tried.

Fischer hears this. And we-

CUT TO:

INT. ELEVATOR SHAFT - NIGHT

The elevator car is ROCKETED along its track by the explosion-

INT. ELEVATOR - CONTINUOUS

Arthur is SMASHED against the floor of the car next to the sleepers who SHUDDER with the force of ACCELERATION- and we-

CUT TO:

INT. ANTECHAMBER - DAY

Eames WATCHES Fischer-

EAMES
 (to himself))
 Come on, come on...

INT. STRONGROOM - DAY

The Father collapses back onto the pillow. Fischer starts to weep. His Father reaches out a trembling hand but when Fischer tries to hold IT, he SHAKES his son's hand away...

He is reaching for the SAFE next to his bed. His fingers fumble at the keypad, he can't open it. His son pushes 5,2,8,4,9,1 into the keypad. Opens it. Inside the safe is the WILL. And beside it is a HOMEMADE PINWHEEL, clearly made by a child. By Fischer. He takes it out, MARVELING at it. He turns to his father, but his father is dead.

Eames, watching from the door, HITS THE DETONATOR-

EXT. HOSPITAL COMPLEX - CONTINUOUS

A line of EXPLOSIONS RIPS ALONG THE LOWER WALL... the ENTIRE BUILDING STARTS TO SLIDE DOWN THE MOUNTAIN-

EXT. PENTHOUSE (LIMBO) - DAY

A FIERCE WIND starts HOWLING through the house as the sky outside DARKENS. Cobb shields Mal against the blast- looks up at Ariadne, who HOLDS the railing, FIGHTING the wind-

COBB
 That's the kick-you have to go!

ARIADNE
 You're coming!

COBB
 No, I'm not. I'm staying here to find Saito.
 (turns to Mal)
 And to say goodbye.

Ariadne loosens her grip on the railing...

ARIADNE
 Don't lose yourself. Find Saito.
 And bring him back.

COBB
 I will.

Ariadne lets the wind pull her off the edge- FALLING- and we-

INT. ANTECHAMBER - CONTINUOUS

Ariadne DROPS as the FLOOR COLLAPSES- her eyes SNAP OPEN-

EXT. PENTHOUSE (LIMBO) - DAY

Cobb holds Mal in his arms. The wind DIES...

MAL

We'd be together forever. You promised me.

COBB

I know. But we can't. And I'm sorry.

MAL

You remember when you asked me to marry you? You said you dreamt that we'd grow old together.

COBB

And we did...

Mal looks at Cobb... thinking. Remembering.

INSERT CUT: TWO ELDERLY PEOPLE (MAL AND COBB) WALK THROUGH LIMBO... ACROSS A WASTELAND... TWO ELDERLY HANDS CLUTCH EACH OTHER AS THEY LIE DOWN ON THE RAILROAD TRACK...

COBB

I miss you more than I can bear... but we had our time together. And now I have to let go...

She nods, weakly. Cobb holds Mal as her eyes close...
DYING... and we-

INT. STRONGROOM - CONTINUOUS

Fischer and his Father's body DROP AWAY-

INT. ELEVATOR - NIGHT

Ariadne DROPS inside the ROCKETING ELEVATOR, and as it SMASHES INTO THE TOP OF THE SHAFT Ariadne SMASHES into-

INT./EXT. VAN INTO RIVER - DAY

THE WATER, THE VAN CRUNCHING WITH THE IMPACT- WATER CRASHING THROUGH THE BROKEN WINDOWS FLOODING THE INTERIOR...

Fischer's EYES OPEN, PANICKING- he UNBUCKLES HIMSELF, pushes out of the broken window- STOPS, goes back to UNBUCKLE
Browning and DRAG him out.

EXT. RIVER - CONTINUOUS

Fischer breaks the surface with Browning, who COUGHS and GASPS. He starts PULLING for the near bank, struggling through the rain-impacted water-

INT. VAN, UNDERWATER - CONTINUOUS

Ariadne, Arthur and Yusuf wait calmly underwater. They are sharing TWO REGULATORS pulled from beneath the front seat. Arthur turns to Saito. There is blood in the water around Saito's belly- his eyes are LIFELESS- Arthur feels for a pulse... turns to Cobb, whose eyes are lifeless... Ariadne GRABS Arthur's elbow, pulling him away...

EXT. RIVERBANK - MOMENTS LATER

Fischer turns Browning/Eames over. They lie there, exhausted.

BROWNING
I'm sorry, Robert.

Fischer stares at the rain on the water.

FISCHER
The will means that Dad wanted me to be my own man, not live for him.
(turns to Browning))
And I'm going to, Uncle Peter.

Browning nods. Wipes the rain from his face. In the puddle beside them, the reflection is not Browning, but Eames.

EXT. UNDERNEATH BRIDGE IN THE RAIN - MOMENTS LATER

Arthur sits on the riverbank, breathing heavily.

ARTHUR
What happened?

ARIADNE
Cobb stayed.

ARTHUR
With Mal?

ARIADNE
No. To find Saito.

Arthur looks out at the water below the bridge.

ARTHUR
He'll be lost...

ARIADNE
No. He'll be alright.

And we-

CUT TO:

EXT. DAWN. CRASHING SURF.

The waves TOSS a BEARDED MAN onto wet sand.

As the Japanese Security Guard turns him onto his back, we realize that this is Cobb- OLDER. WEARY. TRAVELLED...

INT. DINING ROOM, CASTLE - DAY

Cobb WOLFS his food. The Elderly Japanese Man (Saito, 90 years old) watches him.

SAITO

So... have you come to kill me?

Cobb does not look up.

SAITO

I've been waiting for someone to come for me...

COBB

Someone from your half-remembered dream...?

Saito peers at Cobb.

SAITO

Cobb? Not possible-he and I were young men together. And I am an old man...

COBB

Filled with regret?

Saito REMEMBERS, nods...

SAITO

Waiting to die alone, yes.

Cobb is STARING at something on the table.

COBB

I came back for you...I came to remind you of what you once knew...

Cobb gestures at the table. Saito follows his gaze down to the polished surface of the table...

COBB

That this world is not real.

The top IS STILL SPINNING PERFECTLY, AS IF IT WILL NEVER TOPPLE. Saito looks at the top. Then back to Cobb.

SAITO
You came to convince me to honor our arrangement?

COBB
Yes. And to take a leap of faith.

As Saito-san listens to Cobb, he looks at the GUN on the table between them...

COBB
Come back and we'll be young men together again.

The elderly Saito looks at Cobb. Nods. And we-

CUT TO:

INT. FIRST CLASS CABIN, 747 - DAY

Ariadne watches Cobb. His eyes are closed.

FLIGHT ATTENDANT (O.S.)
Hot towel, sir?

His EYES FLICKER OPEN. He takes the towel with a nod. Ariadne smiles. Relieved.

FLIGHT ATTENDANT
We'll be landing in Los Angeles in about twenty minutes. Do you need immigration forms?

Cobb nods. Takes a landing card. Looks around the cabin.

Saito is WATCHING him. Serious. Haunted. Holding Cobb's gaze, SAITO PICKS UP THE PHONE AND DIALS. Cobb nods thanks...

INT. ARRIVALS, LAX - LATER

Cobb steps forwards to the IMMIGRATION OFFICIAL. Hands him his passport. Nervous. The Official takes a beat, looks Cobb up and down, then WHUMP!- the passport is stamped. As Cobb takes it back, he spots Ariadne at the next counter. She nods at him. He nods back. Then moves off...

As Cobb passes through baggage claim, he exchanges subtle greetings with Eames and Yusuf.

Arthur smiles broadly at Cobb. Cobb brushes past Fischer, who glances back at him as if thinking maybe he should know him, then moves on...

As Cobb emerges into the crowded arrivals hall, he spots Professor Miles, waving at him...

INT. KITCHEN, COBB AND MAL'S HOUSE - DAY

Cobb enters with Miles. Drops his bags. Moves to the table, looking out at the overgrown garden. He reaches into his pocket, takes out his pewter spinning top, lowers it to the table and SPINS IT- a CHILD'S SHOUT makes him look up-

Through the window, James and Philippa have run into view, playing, THEIR FACES TURNED AWAY... Cobb STARES at the back of his children's heads... Miles moves to the window and KNOCKS on the glass-

James and Philippa TURN- see their Dad. He steps to the window, watching their BRIGHT FACES SHINING as they run towards him...

Behind him, on the table, the spinning top is STILL SPINNING. And we-

FADE OUT.

CREDITS.

END.